11-Wh

THE

Evangelical Expoſitor:

OR, A

COMMENTARY

ON THE

HOLY BIBLE.

WHEREIN

The Sacred TEXT of the OLD and NEW TESTAMENT is inſerted at Large; the Senſe Explained; and the more difficult Paſſages Elucidated:

WITH PRACTICAL OBSERVATIONS.

ALSO

References to Parallel Scriptures; the Marginal Readings; and a Chronology.

For the Uſe of Families and Private Chriſtians of every Denomination.

By the Reverend THOMAS HAWEIS,

Rector of Aldwinckle, Northamptonſhire, and Chaplain to the Right Honourable the Earl of Peterborow.

VOL. I.

LONDON:
Printed for EDWARD and CHARLES DILLY, in the Poultry, near the Manſion-Houſe.
M.DCC.LXV.

2

MVSEVM BRITAN NICVM

PREFACE.

AS it is the profeſſed belief of every Chriſtian, that the Scriptures alone contain the way of ſalvation; it is therefore their greateſt intereſt, as well as duty, to conſult thoſe ſacred oracles, and diligently enquiring after the mind and will of God therein revealed, to follow with ſimplicity and ſincerity the path marked out to them in this ſure guide to heaven. To be a believer upon truſt, or a Chriſtian by education, is only to abuſe the name, without a real poſſeſſion of the thing. We muſt go then to the word and to the teſtimony, that on the foundation of ſcriptural knowledge we may raiſe the glorious ſuperſtructure of real Chriſtianity, and be enabled not merely to have a good hope, through grace in ourſelves, but be able alſo to give to others a reaſon of the hope that is in us.

Though the ſacred text attentively read, with a heart directed to Him who giveth wiſdom and underſtanding to the ſimple, will generally afford the beſt comment on itſelf, by comparing ſpiritual things with ſpiritual: yet, it will conduce not a little to enlarge our views, and to warm our hearts, if we borrow the aſſiſtances which the wiſe and faithful Expoſitors have given us, either to elucidate the more difficult paſſages, or to apply the more obvious to the conſcience, or to ſpiritualize the ceremonies, or to enliven the parts purely hiſtorical, with obſervations practical, and naturally ariſing from the ſubject.

This Expoſition goes forth with this profeſſed deſign, and is commended to the bleſſing of the Divine Spirit, who alone can make our feeble efforts effectual to the end propoſed. The author has been indebted to ſeveral Expoſitors who have gone before, but owns his greateſt obligations to Mr. Henry, whoſe excellent Expoſition hath received ſufficient commendation in the many editions it hath paſſed. But as the length and expenſiveneſs of ſo large a work prevents its uſefulneſs to many, who can neither afford the time or expence it requires, ſo manifold repetitions and explications, perhaps ſometimes unneceſſary or tedious, render it leſs acceptable to others. The following work therefore will be included in a compaſs much more convenient; and whilſt it is attempted to remove all ſuperfluous enlargements, it is hoped, that Mr. Henry's ſpirituality will be preſerved, with what additional improvement, either in matter or manner, the reader muſt determine.

The references, marginal readings, and chronology, ſhould never be omitted in any edition of the Bible, as they ſerve greatly to open its contents, by leading us to conſult the parallel ſcriptures, explain the Hebrew common names, or give the more literal, and uſually the more genuine ſenſe of the words.

I deſire to look up to God for help and aſſiſtance in this important work, which was undertaken in the country, where a ſmall charge afforded me more than uſual leiſure: and if by the powerful operations of the Holy Spirit, it ſhall be made uſeful to the churches of Chriſt, I ſhall count my labour not in vain, and give God the praiſe; as I have reaſon to be thankful to Him, who hath bleſſed it, in any communications of farther knowledge or edification to my own ſoul.

Aldwinckle,
June 28. 1765.

THOMAS HAWEIS.

TESTIMONIALS in Favour of this Work.

Copy of a Letter from the Rev. Mr. VENN, of Huddersfield in Yorkſhire, to the Publiſhers.

I Received the Sheets of Mr. HAWEIS's EVANGELICAL EXPOSITOR. I heartily approve of his Deſign, to make the bleſſed Word of God more read, and more underſtood. The great Maſters in Iſrael, of whoſe Comments he intends to make much Uſe, muſt render his Work valuable; and whoever knows his ſpirited Manner of Writing, and truly Evangelical Principles, (as he has publiſhed them to the World in his Volume of Sermons), and has a Zeal for the Advancement of the Redeemer's Glory, will be glad to recommend to ſerious Chriſtians of all Denominations Mr. Haweis's Expoſition.

H. VENN.

Huddersfield, April 23, 1765.

Copy of a Letter from the Honourable and Reverend Mr. SHIRLEY, Rector of Loughrea in Ireland, to the Author.

I Had the Pleaſure of your Letter, and the very great Pleaſure of ſome Sheets of your EXPOSITION. I was really charmed with it; and if you conceive that my Name will be of any Service in the Recommendation of it, I think I owe this not only to you, but to the Public.

WALTER SHIRLEY.

April 13, 1765.

Copy of a Letter from the Rev. Mr. TOWNSEND, Rector of Pewſey in Wiltſhire, to the Publiſhers.

I Have read the Sheets of Mr. HAWEIS's EVANGELICAL EXPOSITOR, which you ſent me, and think the Work fully anſwers the Title. It appears to me to be far beyond any Expoſitor I have ſeen; more ſpirited, and fully as experimental. I can with Pleaſure recommend to others a Book, from which I expect ſo much Pleaſure and Edification myſelf.

JOSEPH TOWNSEND.

Pewſey, April 22, 1765.

Copy of a Letter from the Rev. Mr. NEWTON, of Olney in Bucks, to the Publiſhers.

I Have peruſed the Sheets you ſent of the EVANGELICAL EXPOSITOR. The Deſign has my hearty Approbation: I hope and believe it will conduce to the great Ends of advancing the Redeemer's Glory, and the Knowledge of his Word and Grace amongſt us. So far as my Influence will reach, I ſhall moſt cordially recommend it to ſerious Chriſtians of every Denomination.

JOHN NEWTON.

Olney, April 16, 1765.

THE

EVANGELICAL EXPOSITOR;

OR, A

PRACTICAL COMMENT

Upon the Firſt Book of MOSES called

GENESIS.

WE have now before us, The Holy Bible, or Book, for ſo Bible ſignifies. We call it the Bible by way of eminency, for it is incomparably the beſt book that ever was written, the Book of Books, ſhining like the ſun in the firmament of learning; other valuable and uſeful books, like the moon and ſtars, borrowing their light from it. We call it the Holy Bible, becauſe it was written by holy men, indited by the Holy Ghoſt: it is perfectly pure from all falſhood, and corrupt intention, and the manifeſt tendency of it is to promote holineſs among men.—The great things of God's Law and Goſpel are here written to us, that they might be reduced to a greater certainty, might ſpread further, remain longer, and be tranſmitted to diſtant places and ages more pure and entire than poſſibly they could be by report and tradition. And we ſhall have a great deal to anſwer for, if theſe things which belong to our peace, being thus committed to us, be neglected by us as a ſtrange and foreign thing, Hoſ. viii. 12.—The Scriptures, or Writings of the ſeveral inſpired penmen, from Moſes down to St. John, (in which divine light, like that of the morning, ſhone gradually) are all put together in this bleſſed Bible, which, thanks be to God, we have in our hands, and they make as perfect a day, as we are to expect on this ſide Heaven. This is the light that ſhines in a dark place, 2 Pet. i. 19. and a dark place indeed, the world would be without the Bible. That part of the Bible which we call the Old Teſtament, contains the acts and monuments of the Church from the creation, almoſt to the coming of Chriſt in the fleſh, which was about four thouſand years. This is called a Teſtament, or Covenant, (Διαθήκη) becauſe it was a ſettled declaration of the will of God concerning man in a federal way, and had its force from the deſigned death of the great Teſtator, the Lamb ſlain from the foundation of the world, Rev. xiii. 8.—The five books of Moſes begin the Old Teſtament, and were probably the firſt which were ever written, and are certainly the moſt ancient writings now extant, and therefore beſt able to give us a ſatisfactory account of the moſt ancient things.—The firſt of thoſe five books, which we call Geneſis, was written moſt probably by Moſes in the wilderneſs, after he had been in the mount with God. And as he framed the tabernacle, ſo did he the more excellent and durable fabric of this book, exactly according to the pattern ſhewed him in the mount; into which it is better to reſolve the certainty of the things herein contained, than into any tradition which poſſibly might be handed down from Adam to Methuſelah, from him to Shem, from him to Abraham, and ſo to the family of Jacob.—Geneſis is a name borrowed from the Greek: It ſignifies the original, or generation; fitly is this book ſo called, for it is a hiſtory of originals; the creation of the world, the entrance of ſin and death into it, the invention of arts, the riſe of nations, and eſpecially the planting of the Church, and the ſtate of it in its early days. It is alſo a hiſtory of generations, the generations of Adam, Noah, Abraham, &c. not endleſs but uſeful genealogies.—The beginning of the New Teſtament is called Geneſis too. Mat. i. 1. Βίβλος γενέσεως, The Book of the Geneſis or Generation of Jeſus Chriſt. Bleſſed be God for that Book which ſhews us our remedy, as this opens our wound. Lord, open our eyes that we may ſee the wonderous things both of thy Law and Goſpel!

Year before the common year of Chriſt 4004.

CHAP. I.

The foundation of all religion being laid in our relation to God as our creator, it was fit that that book of divine revelations, which was intended to be the guide, ſupport, and rule of religion in the world, ſhould begin, as it doth, with a plain and full account of the creation of the world; in anſwer to that firſt enquiry of a good conſcience, Where is God my maker? Job xxxv. 8. Concerning which, the wiſeſt Heathens erred exceedingly: ſome aſſerting the world's eternity and ſelf-exiſtence; others aſcribing it to a fortuitous concourſe of atoms; thus the world by wiſdom knew not God. The holy ſcripture therefore is revealed to extricate us from this labyrinth of error, and to teach us that this world was, in the beginning of time, created by a Being of infinite wiſdom and power, who was himſelf before all time, and all worlds. The firſt verſe of the Bible gives us a ſurer and better, a more ſatisfying and uſeful knowledge of the origin of the univerſe, than all the volumes of the philoſophers. The lively faith of the humble Chriſtian underſtands this matter better than the elevated fancy of the greateſt genius, Heb. xi. 3.

We have three things in this chapter, (1.) A general idea given us of the work of creation, ver. 1, 2. (2.) A particular account of the ſeveral days work. The creation of the light the firſt day, ver. 3—5. Of the firmament the ſecond day, ver. 6—8. Of the ſea, the earth, and its fruits, the third day, ver. 9—13. Of the lights of heaven the fourth day, ver. 14—19. Of the fiſh and fowl the fifth day, ver. 20—23. Of the beaſts, ver. 24—25. Of man, ver. 26—28. And food for both, the ſixth day, ver. 29—30. (3.) The review and approbation of the whole work, ver. 31.

1. [a] IN the beginning [b] God created the heaven and the earth. 2. And [c] the earth was without form and void, and darkneſs was upon the face of the deep: and [d] the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters.

[a] John i. 1. [b] Pſal. xxxiii. 5. lxxxix. 11, 12. cii. 25. cxxxvi. 5. cxlvi. 6. Iſa. xliv. 24. Jer. x. 12. li. 15. Zeck. xii. 1. Acts xiv. 15. xvii. 24. Heb. xi. 3. [c] Jer. iv. 23. [d] Pſal. xxxiii. 6. Iſa. xl. 13, 14.

v. 1. What dignity of ſentiment! what majeſty of language, yet withal, what ſimplicity! Behold in the very opening of the ſcriptures, the ſtrong and ſtriking evidence of their divine original.

We have in theſe verſes, a ſhort, but expreſſive hiſtory of the creation of all things.

1. The great Agent is the Elohim. The name is plural, to lead us to the immediate view of the trinity of perſons in the one divine eſſence. Note, Without the light of revelation, we muſt have for ever remained ignorant of the true God. The Supreme Being of the wiſe deiſts, is as far removed from the Elohim of the ſcripture, as the innumerable deities of the blind idolater.

2. The work. Heaven and earth. The higheſt archangel is as much the workmanſhip of God, and as much dependent on him, as the worm which crawls under our feet. The ſun that gilds the firmament, and the clod it ſhines upon, have one original; how great then He who made all theſe! What beauty, what order, what ſcenes of wonder and admiration ſtrike the eye of the attentive beholder. Look, my ſoul, and read in theſe fair letters the wiſdom, power and glory of thy maker. Yet theſe eyes can reach no farther than the clouds; if ſuch the excellence of the outer court, what may we not expect within! yea, how much more than eye hath ſeen, or human heart conceived!

3. The time. In the beginning. Then time began. God alone is eternal. This is his eſſential attribute. The difference between creator and creature, is as the meaſure of time to eternity. The higheſt created being in this ſcale, is here loſt as the drop of the bucket in the boundleſs ocean. Let thoſe tremble then at the dire indignity they offer him, who dare degrade into a temporary exiſtence that eternal Son, who, from everlaſting to everlaſting, is over all, God bleſſed for ever.

4. The manner. God created. Creation is the bringing into being what had before no exiſtence. This is the prerogative of God alone. The things which are ſeen, were not made of the things which do appear.

Learn hence the object of our worſhip, the Creator, the Elohim, Three perſons, but one only and true God. His right to us is undoubted; all we have, and are, is of his bounty. Moſt juſtly therefore ſhould we yield up ourſelves to him, in love and adoration; by whom, and for whom are all things. Happy that heart that thus is led to anſwer the end of its creation.

v. 2. The creation here appears in its ſtate of chaos and confuſion. The jarring elements yet unſeparated, the earth an unformed maſs, the deep ſpread over it, whilſt darkneſs wrapped in ſwaddling bands the new-born embryo. But He who could produce the materials, can as eaſily arrange them in beauty, order, and comely proportion. The Spirit of the Lord, not the material wind that was not yet produced, but the eternal Spirit of the Elohim moved upon the face of the waters, impregnating them, as it were, with the principles of life and activity, as the hen broods over her neſt.

Before Chriſt 4004.

Such as appeared the material world before the Spirit of God quickned the lifeleſs lump; ſuch is now the ſpiritual world, till the ſame divine power interpoſes. 1. The ſoul of man by ſin, is become a heap of confuſion: as dead to God, and incapable of producing any fruits of holineſs, as the unformed chaos to produce trees or flowers. 2. Darkneſs covers it: we have neither the faculty of viſion to deſcry, nor light to illuminate ſpiritual objects. We know nothing of ourſelves, our God, our Saviour, our proper work, or happineſs, as we ought to know. 3. The whole world, which now lieth in wickedneſs, preſents to the enlightened mind, a lively image of this original confuſion and emptineſs. Darkneſs ſurrounds it, no beauty appears, God is forgotten, the jarring elements of corrupt nature breed wild uproar, and univerſal deſolation ſeems diffuſed around. The heart that hath been taught its true reſt, daily cries after that new heaven and new earth, where only real joy is to be found. 4. As incapable as this chaos was, of forming itſelf into order; as impoſſible as it was for this darkneſs to produce the light, or kindle up the ſun, ſo impoſſible is it for man, by any powers or ability of his own, to reſtore his fallen ſoul to the likeneſs and image of God, or to produce one beam of heavenly light, or ſpark of ſpiritual life. 5. It is the office of the ſpirit of God, (and his power only can effect it) to produce light and order in the dark and chaotic ſoul. There muſt be as evident a demonſtration of his divine agency upon the heart, as here appeared on the great deep. If a man have not experienced this, it had been good for him he had never been born. 6. Be our mortal bodies however diſſolved in earth, fire, water, air, He who firſt moved upon the face of the waters, can by the ſame energy recall the ſcattered particles of our duſt, and from the diſſipated and disjointed atoms raiſe up a glorious body, bright as the ſun when it ſhineth in its ſtrength.

3. [e] And God ſaid, Let there be light: and there was light. 4. And God ſaw the light, that it was good: and God divided * the light from the darkneſs. 5. And God called the light Day, and the darkneſs he called Night: and † the evening and the morning were the firſt day.

[e] 2 Cor. iv. 6. * Heb. Between the light and between the darkneſs. † Heb. And the evening was, and the morning was, &c.

v. 3. Light is the firſt born of creation, and brighteſt image of its Creator, who is called the father of lights, and in whom is no darkneſs at all. Whenever we enjoy the beams of day, our minds ſhould be led up to him, who dwelleth in the light, which no man can approach unto. But he muſt beſtow the internal as well as the external bleſſing, elſe in the blaze of noon we muſt grope for the wall as blind, nor can by ſearching find out God. Lighten our darkneſs then, we beſeech thee, O Lord!

He wills, and ſtrait ſtarts into being the exact form of the divine idea. By the ſame power of his effectual word, he ſaith to the ſoul, Let there be light; and inſtant a new creation riſes to the view; the ſoul emerges from the deeps of ignorance and ſin; the true light ſhineth; the glory of God, in the face of Jeſus Chriſt appears; the heart is drawn by ties of irreſiſtible conviction, and begins to walk in the light, as he is in the light: happy that ſoul who by experience can ſay, I was once darkneſs, but now am light in the Lord! But forget not the exhortation which follows, Walk as children of the light.

v. 4. It was ſuch as God deſigned, excellent in uſe, and beautiful in itſelf. How little are common mercies noticed: who thinks of the bleſſing of light? though without it, creation would be a blank, and earth a dungeon. Though light appears, darkneſs has ſtill its uſe: it is not deſtroyed: the viciſſitude is as grateful as neceſſary in this mortal ſtate. The beams of the morning are not more pleaſing to the opening eye, than the ſhadows of the night to the cloſing eyelids. The preſent is a changing ſtate, where night and day are ſucceſſive: Let the ſoul who mourns in darkneſs be comforted, the day is at hand: and let him, on whoſe head the candle of the Lord ſhines brighteſt, not be too confident, the day of joy hath ſome dark clouds: bleſſed be God for this reviving hope; that the hour approaches when our ſun ſhall no more go down. It is among the glories of heaven, that there is no night there.

v. 5. The things receive their name as well as their being from God. The day is thine, the night alſo is thine: oh that both may be for ever conſecrated to his ſervice and glory, and then whether we ſleep or wake, we are the Lord's. A glorious day! nor finiſhed without the praiſe of admiring angels: theſe morning ſtars then ſung together, and all the ſons of God ſhouted for joy, Job xxxviii. 7. May my every day thus be cloſed with praiſe to him, who is ſo worthy to be had in remembrance. The firſt day of the world was the firſt day of the week alſo: the reſurrection of Jeſus on the ſame day, hath made it doubly diſtinguiſhed. Henceforth it is ſet apart to commemorate that yet more glorious work the new creation: this is the day the Lord hath made, and ſtamped with his own great name, "The Lord's Day." Rev. i. 10.

[f] Pſ. cxxxvi. 6. Jer. x. 12. li. 15.
* Heb. Expanſion.
[g] Pſ. cxlviii. 4.

6. ¶ And God ſaid, [f] Let there be a * firmament in the midſt of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters. 7. And God made the firmament, and divided the waters which were under the firmament, from [g] the waters which were above the firmament: and it was ſo. 8. And God called the firmament Heaven: and the evening and the morning were the ſecond day.

v. 6, 7. God proceeds in his ſtupendous work. 1. Having made the light, a proper medium is now provided, through which its rays may paſs: the firmament, or expanſe, that vaſt immenſity of ſpace, in which the celeſtial bodies move, in which this habitable globe appears, as little when viewed amidſt the ſurrounding creation, as the mote which plays in the ſun-beam compared with that great luminary. Note, Though this firmament is ſtretched over us, the way is open to the throne of God, and faith can even here enter within the vail, and prayer hath wings that mount beyond the ſkies; and when, in the judgment-day, the heavens ſhall be wrapped together as a ſcroll, we ſhall, without a covering, ſee the glories now concealed; and face to face behold him, who made all theſe things. 2. The deſign of this firmament, to divide the waters from the waters. There are waters beneath the firmament that cover the great deep, and rivers which run among the vallies; and there are waters above the firmament, in clouds that drop down fatneſs, and in treaſure houſes reſerved for purpoſes of judgment. We have ſeen, when God opened the windows of heaven, and ſwept away a world of the ungodly. O what a great God is he who hath thus provided for the comfort of all that ſerve him, and the confuſion of all that hate him. It is good having him our friend, and bad having him our enemy.

3. The inſtant accompliſhment of the divine will; it was ſo. What God wills, he works. Lord, what thy all-powerful word enjoins, let thy almighty grace effect, and then ſhall I be ſuch as thou wouldſt have me be.

v. 8. The name given the firmament, Heaven. The viſible heaven, the outer court of this great temple, we behold; the region of air and clouds and meteors around us, and the yet more diſtant ſcene gilded with the ſun, and all thoſe ſtars that glitter in their ſeveral ſpheres; but above theſe heavens, a third appears, where God is ſaid to fix his radiant throne, and where immortal ſpirits dwell: not that the heaven, or heaven of heavens can contain him, whoſe immenſity can no more be circumſcribed by his creation, than his eternity can be meaſured by the ſucceſſions of time. With heaven in our eye, can we continue to grovel on the earth? Is there our father's houſe, and this his glorious abode, and ſhall not our ſouls aſpire after him, and long to be with him, to paſs the threſhold of his dwelling-place, and to be admitted into his immediate viſion? The Second Day: Time now began to meaſure its regular periods, and what a work each day produces! Happy could we, as theſe ſwift hours paſs by, be able to ſay at every cloſing day, I have finiſhed the work he hath given me to do.

[h] Job xxvi. 10. xxxviii. 8. Pſ. xxxiii. 7. civ. 9. cxxxvi. 6. Prov. viii. 29. Jer. v. 22.
* Heb. Tender graſs.

9. ¶ And God ſaid, [h] Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together, unto one place, and let the dry-land appear: and it was ſo. 10. And God called the dry-land Earth, and the gathering together of the waters called he Seas: and God ſaw that it was good. 11. And God ſaid, Let the earth bring forth * graſs, the herb yielding ſeed, and the fruit-tree yielding fruit after his kind, whoſe ſeed is in itſelf, upon the earth: and it was ſo. 12. And the earth brought forth graſs, and herb yielding ſeed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whoſe ſeed was in itſelf, after his kind: and God ſaw that it was good. 13. And the evening and the morning were the third day.

v. 9, 10. The ſeparation of the ſuperior from the inferior world being perfected, the third day opens with the formation of this earth into beauty and order, from its ſtate of confuſion. 1. The waters are collected into proper receptacles, which he called Seas, or the Great Sea; for though diffuſed and diſtant the parts, they are one great whole. All the rivers which run into the ſeas, do firſt derive their ſource from thence. The action of the ſun raiſing up the waters, as fire in an alembick, the clouds return it in dew, or ſhowers; and theſe collecting, form the ſtreams which thus alternately come from, and return to, the ſtorehouſe of the great deep.

2. The waters being drawn off, the earth acquires its neceſſary ſolidity, and the dry land appears. Lord, if thou ſpeak the word, I ſhall emerge from the floods of ſin, and ſtand forth from amidſt the deep waters which run over me, to tell thy power and praiſe.

v. 11, 12, 13. The earth thus prepared is now filled with vegetative life, for preſent uſe, and for perpetuity too, each of the various and innumerable ſpecies of trees, plants, and flowers, bearing ſeed in itſelf. Wonderous proviſion! what a gracious God have we, who openeth his hand thus, and filleth all things living with plenteouſneſs! How ungrateful is man, who ſo ſeldom, or ſo coldly, remembers, that theſe are thy gifts, O God! Learn hence,

1. That as all things are from God, they ſhould be employed for him. We are but ſtewards, he the great proprietor; the more he beſtows, the more obliged are we, and bound in duty and gratitude to love and honour him in his mercies. 2. The command once given, ſtill operates; the earth continues its productions in regular ſucceſſion, and every returning ſpring and ſummer a new creation riſes. We ſhould do well, always to look beyond ſecond cauſes; the more we ſee of God in the productions of the earth, the more ſhall we value them. 3. God's creatures are all good; the corn, the wine, and the oil, have received a bleſſing from God. Shall we turn then theſe bleſſings into a curſe by our abuſe of them, through intemperance, or idolatrous attachment of our hearts to them? God forbid. 4. Every day has its work of mercy and grace, ſeverally to attract our notice, and awaken our gratitude. Let it be remembered always, that he who once began, worketh ſtill, nor does a day paſs over us, but ſome work of providence or grace marks it with a note of obſervation.

[i] Deut. iv. 19. Pſ. cxxxvi. 7.
* Heb. Between the day and between the night.
† Heb. The two.
‡ Heb. For the rule of the day, &c.
[k] Job xxxviii. 7.
[l] Jer. xxxi. 35.

14. ¶ And God ſaid, Let there be [i] lights in the firmament of the heaven, to divide * the day from the night: and let them be for ſigns, and for ſeaſons, and for days, and years. 15. And let them be for lights in the firmament of the heaven, to give light upon the earth: and it was ſo. 16. And God made † two great lights; the greater light to rule the day, and the leſſer light ‡ to rule the night: he made [k] the ſtars alſo. 17. And God ſet them in the firmament of the heaven, to give light upon the earth, 18. [l] And to rule over the day, and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkneſs: and God ſaw that it was good. 19. And the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

v. 14, 15. The fourth day preſents us with the formation of the luminaries of heaven, particularly conſidered in their uſes and deſign reſpecting the earth. This being the place where God chuſes to make the moſt eſpecial diſplay of his grace and glory, the other parts of the creation are diſpoſed for its ſervice.

The light had been before created, but diffuſed abroad; now it is collected into ſeveral bodies, and thereby becomes more powerful, more glorious, and more ſerviceable. Where God is the agent, his work muſt be perfect. Uſe and beauty there ever unite.—Hath the Lord kindled theſe heavenly luminaries in the firmament, and ſhall they not warm our hearts with ſacred love, whilſt in the contemplation of them, and lead us up to himſelf, who is the father of lights?

Their deſign is, 1. To divide the day from the night, by their riſing and ſetting; to mark the ſeaſons by the progreſs of the ſun through the ſigns of the Zodiac; and the years, by his return at the appointed time. In wiſdom hath God made them all. By him projected in their ſpheres, each ſeparate luminary revolves at fixed periods, and, as if endued with reaſon, the ſun knoweth its going down. 2. To give light upon the earth, to ſhine with cheering beams to comfort us, and to direct us in the work we have to do. The day is the ſeaſon for labour: what thy hand then findeth to do, do it with thy might; the night cometh, when no man can work.

v. 16, 17, 18, 19. The lights mentioned before, are here particularized; the ſun, moon, and ſtars. 1. The ſun, which, though to the eye of ſo ſmall a circumference, is more than an hundred and ſixty times as big as the earth. He is the great fountain of light, and from him our planetary ſyſtem repleniſhes its ſeveral orbs with light; and whilſt they all receive immediately from the ſun, they reflect it again one to another. How glorious that viſible luminary! the unguarded eye cannot bear his beams direct: but how much more glorious He who placed him in his ſphere, and before whom the angels veil their faces! 2. The Moon. The leſſer light, though counted great, becauſe by its nearneſs to us we receive more light from it, than from all the reſt: thus inferior to many other planets in ſize, yet to us more uſeful than them all. Not he that knows moſt, but he that makes the beſt uſe of his knowledge, is the truly valuable man.—The moon is dark, and borrows all her light from the ſun. Do we ſhine, let us never forget the fountain from whence our orb is filled; if we are light, it is only in and through the Lord. 3. The ſtars. Vaſt in ſize, and numberleſs as they appear, they are ſpoken of as a very little thing; juſt mentioned to point out their maker, and no more. The ſcripture indulges no vain curioſity. Though He who made them bringeth them forth in order, and calleth them all by their names, his intention in the ſcripture towards us is not to teach us a ſyſtem of aſtronomy, but to inſtruct us in the wiſdom that maketh wiſe unto ſalvation. It was a noble ſentiment of a certain judge, when preſſed to ſtudy aſtronomy: "I intend to ſe-"cure heaven firſt, and I'll take the ſtars in my way."— 4. The ſetting and riſing ſun now firſt began to meaſure night and day, and ever ſince theſe ordinances endure. My ſoul, let never morning riſe, that does not find thee on thy bended knees; let never evening dawn, without the duteous tribute of prayer and praiſe to him, who maketh the outgoings of the morning and evening to rejoice.

20. ¶ And God ſaid, [m] Let the waters bring forth abundantly * the moving creature that hath life, and † fowl that may fly above the earth in the ‡ open firmament of heaven. 21. [n] And God created great whales, and every living creature that moveth, which the waters brought forth abundantly, after their kind, and every winged fowl after his kind: and God ſaw that it was good. 22. And God bleſſed them, ſaying, [o] Be fruitful, and multiply, and fill the waters in the ſeas, and let fowl multiply in the earth. 23. And the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

[m] 2 Eſdras, vi. 47.
* Heb. The creeping ſwimming creature, a living ſoul.
† Heb. Let the fowl fly.
‡ Heb. Face of the firmament of heaven.
[n] Pſ. civ. 25, 26.
[o] Chap. viii. 17.

v. 20, 21. Amongſt the works of God, animal life had not yet appeared on the earth. The fifth day begins this work; and as there is proviſion made, mouths are found for the meat. The fiſh and fowl are firſt formed of the water, dead in themſelves, but teeming with life the moment the creative word goes forth. The greateſt, as well as the leaſt, owe to God their breath and being; and the whale that unweildly rolls along the ocean, coſts him no more than the worm that twinkles in the drop before the microſcope. Each endued with powers ſo exactly ſuited to his ſtate, and ſo exquiſitely faſhioned, that he who looks without wonder and adoration muſt be blind indeed. I know not whether moſt to pity the ignorance, or abhor the impiety, of the atheiſt and the infidel.

v. 22, 23. Not only their being, but the continuance of it, is provided for. Life is a fleeting thing; ſucceſſion is needful. God hath commanded it ſhall be, and, in virtue of his bleſſing, the heavens are covered with fowl, and the fiſh repleniſh the waters; and all for the uſe of man. Oh that he were wiſe, that he knew the bountiful giver. The fiſher, who caſts the bait into the brook, and the fowler, who ſeeks to the wood, ſhould remember ever, that theſe are God's creatures, given for our good, and therefore to be received and ſought with thankfulneſs to him. When any amuſement leads us from God, inſtead of to him, however innocent in itſelf, it becomes ruinous to us. As the days advance, ſtill ſomething more excellent than the former is produced. It will be well with us when the like progreſs appears, and to-day is one ſtep nearer perfection than yeſterday.

24. ¶ And God ſaid, Let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle, and creeping thing, and beaſt of the earth after his kind: and it was ſo. 25. And God made the beaſt of the earth after his kind, and cattle after their kind, and every thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind: and God ſaw that it was good.

v. 24, 25. The beaſts are the production of the ſixth day. The earth, prolific now as the ſeas before, pours forth her offspring. The grazing herds, the various reptiles, and ravening inhabitants of the foreſt, each in his kind ſuited to anſwer the purpoſes of his maker, and to fill the place aſſigned him in the rank of beings.—Let cavillers queſtion the uſe of many beaſts of prey, or animals that appear a burden rather than a bleſſing; it is enough for the believer, that God ſaw it was good, to ſilence all ſceptical reaſoning. Though we may not know how at preſent, we ſhall know fully hereafter.

26. ¶ And God ſaid, [p] Let us make man in our image, after our likeneſs: and [q] let them have dominion over the fiſh of the ſea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. 27. So God created man in his own image, [r] in the image of God created he him: [s] male and female created he them. 28. And God bleſſed them, and God ſaid unto them, [t] Be fruitful, and multiply, and repleniſh the earth, and ſubdue it: and have dominion over the fiſh of the ſea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that * moveth upon the earth.

[p] Chap. v. 1. ix. 6. Wiſd. ii. 23. 1 Cor. xi. 7. Eph. iv. 24. Col. iii. 10.
[q] Pſ. viii. 6.
[r] 1 Cor. xi. 7. Jam. iii. 9.
[s] Chap. v. 2. Mal. ii. 15. Matt. xix. 4. Mark x. 6.
[t] Chap. ix. 1. xxxv. 11.
* Heb. Creepeth.

v. 26, 27, 28. Behold the finiſhing ſtroke of the Divine Creator, Man, the laſt and greateſt work of God. Animal life was produced; now at laſt the crown of creation is brought forth in a rational ſoul. The earth, like a ſtately palace, furniſhed for his reception, ſeems to call for the great inhabitant; one who can be the tongue of this lower world, and render to the great Author of all the praiſe of his glorious works. Obſerve,

1. The ſolemnity of his creation. He is not, like the other creatures, produced at an inſtant; but firſt a ſacred counſel is as it were held between the perſons of the undivided Trinity: the reſult of it is, one who in his perſon ſhall unite both worlds. His body, though far tranſcending other animals, to be of the earth; his ſoul ſpiritual, and in the image of God. One who is capable of paying a reaſonable ſervice to that triune God, in whom he lives, and moves, and hath his being. Note, Man is then only Man, when he anſwers the end for which God made him. He who forgets the deſign of his creation, and prefers the indulgence of the body, to the proper enjoyments of the immortal ſoul, is no longer a man, but a beaſt.

2. The pattern after which he is formed. No leſs than God himſelf; in his image and likeneſs. This likeneſs chiefly appears, (1.) In his poſſeſſing a rational and immortal ſoul. His body, however beautiful and glorious, was of the earth, earthy; his ſpirit from the Father of ſpirits, a ray from the uncreated Sun of light and life. (2.) In the rectitude and purity of his nature. His underſtanding capacious, diſtinct, and clear; his will turning to God's will, as clay unto the ſeal; ſelf-inclined, and ever ready to hear and to obey. His affections, without wandering or diſtraction, ſupremely fixed on one great object, and finding all their enjoyment in his love and ſervice. To live for God, was as natural, as to breath; and all his converſation holy, as God is holy. Ah happy ſtate! no more now alas is left, but the ſad remembrance; a remembrance, that makes the preſent ſtate of ſin and miſery but more grievous. How fallen! how defaced this image! How is the gold become dim! how is the moſt fine gold changed! Oh Lord, raiſe up theſe deſolations of many generations! (3.) He repreſented God on earth. All things were put under his feet; they paid their homage to man, as he to God. But ſin hath broke the tie; and ſince man played the rebel firſt, no wonder the creatures have revolted from him, and ſcarce can now be reduced to ſerve him. The whole creation groaneth. Lord, haſten the day of reſtitution, when this diſordered world once more ſhall riſe from the furnace, and righteouſneſs again ſhall dwell in it.

3. Man was created male and female, two in perſon, one by the union of marriage. Note, Man is but half himſelf, without his partner woman. From this original pair deſcend the numerous generations of men that have overſpread the earth. How fooliſh and vain then is the pride of pedigree, when the beggar on the dunghill can claim the moſt ancient and ennobled extraction, as the ſon of Adam, which was the ſon of God. We have, in the literal ſenſe, one father; we are brethren of one family, the ſame blood runs in our veins, and therefore brotherly affection ſhould be in our hearts one to another. Oh when ſhall it be, that we ſhall practice this great duty, to love one another out of a pure heart fervently?

4. The bleſſing of God is pronounced upon him; he hath the earth as his poſſeſſion, and is commanded to multiply and repleniſh it with inhabitants. (1.) The earth is given to the children of men, but not as lords paramount. Man is to occupy it for God's glory, and render him the tribute of bounden duty and ſervice continually. The moment he abuſes it by waſte, or pride, or inordinate affection; he will be reckoned with as an unjuſt ſteward. (2.) Children, and the fruit of the womb, are an heritage and gift that cometh of the Lord. In virtue of his firſt benediction, the world continues from generation to generation: yet uſually how little is God's hand ſeen, or his bleſſing ſought for herein?

5. Man is to ſubdue and govern it. By his ſuperior wiſdom he is furniſhed with methods to make the fierceſt animals yield, and the ſtrongeſt to ſerve him; and he hath dominion over all, by grant from God himſelf. We have forfeited it by ſin, but God in mercy, hath not wholly reſumed it: though much is loſt, and all had been, were it not for the repairer of the breach, who is come to be the Saviour of all men; though more eſpecially of thoſe who believe; to them all is reſtored, for all is ours, in bleſſing and ſanctified uſe, when we are Chriſt's.

29. ¶ And God ſaid, Behold, I have given you every herb * bearing ſeed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree yielding ſeed: [n] to you it ſhall be for meat. 30. And to every beaſt of the earth, and to every fowl of the air, and to every thing that creepeth upon the earth, wherein there is † life, I have given every green herb for meat: and it was ſo.

* Heb. Seeding ſeed.
[n] Chap. ix. 3. Pſ. civ. 14, 15.
† Heb. a living ſoul.

v. 29. God having given man a general dominion, gives him a particular grant of proviſion. Though he ruled over the beaſts, they are to be his ſubjects, not his food. In his firſt ſtate of bliſs, he needed them not: yet no doubt his board was ſpread with ſuch fruits and herbs, as this now ruined earth cannot produce.

1. The proviſion was liberal. Every tree. God is no niggard of his gifts, nor reſtrains us from any thing truly good for us. When it became needful, he added the living creatures to his former grant, Gen. ix. 3. and hath given them to us richly to enjoy. 'Tis not the uſe, but the abuſe, which he forbids: may we never then ſpend in the indulgence of our luſts, what was given for the comfort of our lives.

2. It was plain and ſimple, ſuited to preſerve his body in health, and to perpetuate his life, either here below, or till his tranſlation to a better world. The curſe which entered by ſin, hath indeed now brought in death; but the unnatural luxury that hath taught many ſo to diſguiſe their food, that we can no longer know it, is no ſmall means of ſhortening the few days that are yet allotted.

v. 30. Man is not the only object of God's care; he giveth fodder to the cattle, and feedeth the young ravens who cry to him. On him the creatures all depend; and though they have no ſtorehouſe or barn, they want for nothing. He openeth his hand, and filleth all things living with plenteouſneſs. How wondrous his bounty! How univerſal his providence! What abundant reaſon have we to caſt at all times our care upon him! Shall the cattle be fed, and his children famiſhed?

31. And God ſaw every thing that he had made, and behold it was [x] very good. And the evening and the morning were the ſixth day.

[x] Verſes 4, 12, 18, 21, 25. Ecclus. xxxix. 16. 1 Tim. iv. 4.

v. 31. Behold now the compleat work of the glorious God. He who begins, will alſo make an end. Let the people of God be comforted; he doth not work by halves: Hath he begun the new creation in their hearts, he will perfect the ſame, unto the day of his appearing.

1. We have here a ſolemn review of the whole. He who makes the work, knows it thoroughly. Be it ever in our mind, that theſe eyes of Omniſcience ſtill go to and fro through the earth, and that from them nothing is hid, nothing is ſecret.

2. The approbation on the review: It was very good. Exactly anſwering the mind of the Creator; no flaw, no error, no want, no redundance: admirably ſuited for the ſervice of man, and in the higheſt meaſure demonſtrating the wiſdom, power, grace, and glory of the hand which formed it.—Whatever God doth, is well done. Though unbelief would often call in queſtion the works of his providence or grace, the day is coming, when we ourſelves ſhall be convinced, that all was holy, and juſt, and good. At the end it ſhall ſpeak.—How different are our works on the review from God's! Alas! the more we reflect, and the more attentively we view them, the more we ſee of their evil, and are covered with ſhame and confuſion. Yet, to be thus humbled, is mercy. When we begin to ſee, and ceaſe from our own works, we ſhall be led to him whoſe work is perfect, and of whom, and of us in him, God will himſelf declare, that he is well pleaſed.

3. The cloſing of the ſixth day. God could at an inſtant have begun and made an end: he wanted no conſultation, or correction in his work; all known to him it was from the beginning, and to him as eaſy to will a world, as a worm into being; but he wrought ſix days, to teach us to work, and reſted the ſeventh, enjoining by precept, as he hath taught us by example, to ſeparate it for our day of holy reſt, to be ſpent entire in his ſervice, in the contemplation of his works and ways, and in adoration, love, and praiſe. Lord, may my every Sabbath thus be ſpent, till not one day, but every day, I ſhall come to celebrate an eternal ſabbath in thy preſence in glory, and reſt from all my works and labours beneath the ſun, in the enjoyment of thy bleſſed ſelf.

CHAP. II.

We have, 1. The inſtitution and ſanctification of the ſabbath, which was made for man, and to further his holineſs and comfort, ver. 1—3. 2. A more particular account of man's creation, ver. 4—7. 3. A deſcription of the garden of Eden, and the placing of man in it, under the obligations of a law and covenant, ver. 8—17. 4. The creation of the woman, her marriage to the man, and the inſtitution of the ordinance of marriage, ver. 18, ad finem.

1. THUS the heavens and the earth were finiſhed, and [a] all the hoſt of them. 2. And [b] on the ſeventh day God ended his work which he had made; and he reſted on the ſeventh day from all the work which he had made. 3. And God bleſſed the ſeventh day, and ſanctified it: becauſe that in it he had reſted from all his work which God * created and made.

[a] Pſ. xxxiii. 6.
[b] Ex. xx. 11. xxxi. 17. Deut. v. 14. Hebr. iv. 4.
* Heb. Created to make.

v. 1. Nothing remained farther to be done; the whole was finiſhed to the utmoſt perfection, and regulated in the exacteſt order. Numerous as the hoſts of heaven and earth are, each knew his place, and kept his rank. How ſecure is the man that hath theſe hoſts engaged for his protection; how dreadful and inevitable the ruin of thoſe, againſt whom both combine as inſtruments of God's vengeance.

v. 2, 3. The grand machine compleat, and ſet in motion, by implanted virtue continues its appointed revolutions. And now the great Creator reſted, not as weary, or exhauſted, but with complacence and delight, in the contemplation of his own wiſdom, power, and grace, thus glorioſly manifeſted in all his works. Hereupon he appoints a conſtant memorial of this great tranſaction, in the ſeparation of a ſeventh day for his immediate ſervice.

1. The ſabbath is of divine appointment. One day in ſeven God claims wholly for himſelf, to remember him in the works he hath wrought. Whether the day we obſerve anſwer exactly to that ſeventh which was at firſt appointed, is dubious: it does not, we know, to the Jewiſh ſabbath; but this we know, that it is the day when the Redeemer entered into his reſt, after perfecting the work of our redemption, and is now ordained to perpetuate not only the remembrance of the old, but alſo of the more glorious new creation.

> "'Twas great to raiſe a world from nought,
> "But greater to redeem." Watts.

2. It is a holy day. Every day of our life ſhould be devoted to God's ſervice; but one in ſeven is more peculiarly to be ſet apart for the Lord, to be withdrawn from worldly occupations, and to be ſpent in the delightful work of prayer and praiſe, of meditation and mutual conference, tending to raiſe up our minds to him, the great author of every bleſſing, and to prepare us for the reſt, which remaineth in the eternal world for the people of God.—How impious then and profane, to pollute it with works of common labour; and how much more profane, to proſtitute it to the purpoſes of pleaſure, vain company, idle amuſements, or works of wickedneſs. Shall he not viſit for theſe things?

3. It is a bleſſed day. God will meet thoſe who ſpend it with him, who call the ſabbath a delight, and fill them with his conſolations. They will find it is good for them to be with him; and every ſuch day ſpent on earth, will quicken their deſires after, and increaſe their reliſh for, the eternal ſabbath, when he ſhall take them to himſelf, as his bleſſed children, to inherit the kingdom prepared for them before the foundation of the world. Note, As ſabbath-breaking is the door to all evil, ſo ſabbath-keeping is the way to never-ending bleſſedneſs.

4. ¶ Theſe are the generations of the heavens and of the earth, when they were created; in the day that the LORD God made the earth and the heavens. 5. And every plant of the field, before it was in the earth, and every herb of the field, before it grew: for the LORD God had not cauſed it to rain upon the earth, and there was not a man to till the ground. 6. But * there went up a miſt from the earth, and watered the whole face of the ground. 7. And the LORD God formed man † of the [c] duſt of the ground, and breathed into his noſtrils the breath of life; and [d] man became a living ſoul.

* Or a miſt, which went up from, &c.
† Duſt of the ground.
[c] Ecclus. xvii. 1. 1 Cor. xv. 45.
[d] 1 Cor. xv. 47.

v. 4, 5, 6. We had God before in his triune character, as the Elohim; now he calls himſelf Jehovah, alone ſelf-exiſtent, whilſt all beſides is of him and from him. To us there is but one God; the unity of the Divine Eſſence is as much an article of our creed, as the trinity of perſons.—As we have ſeen the generations of the heaven and earth, with their various furniture, here a more diſtinct notice is taken of ſome of the productions of the earth to the praiſe of the great Creator.

Obſerve, 1. The ſtate of perfection in which things were made: the plants and trees in full growth, fit for immediate uſe: nor ſun nor rain had contributed yet to their produce. When God pleaſes, he can work without means, as well as with them. Though it becomes us not to tempt him, it is our duty always to truſt him.

2. The proviſion God makes for the continuance of vegetation: before the rain fell, a miſt from the earth watered it. Where God hath planted divine grace in any heart, he will take care to water it, and make it grow. The increaſe, as well as the formation, is wholly from him.

3. That the ground is made for cultivation, and that it is man's proper buſineſs to till it. Though grace in the heart be a new creation, brought forth without man's labour, yet it is deſigned that we ſhould cultivate the heavenly plant, and, with dependance on God's bleſſing, be ſeeking to grow in grace, and bring forth fruit unto perfection.

v. 7. Man's formation is more particularly taken notice of, the different parts of his compoſition, and the effect of their union by the hands of the Almighty.

1. His body is formed of the duſt of the ground. Man in innocence had much to humble him, when he could look upon the earth under his feet, and call it mother. He was but duſt of duſt: but how much more cauſe hath fallen man to be humble, when he is not only of the duſt, but muſt return to the duſt again. It is ignorance of our original, and forgetfulneſs of our end, that leads us to high thoughts of our vile and ſinful ſelves.

2. The ſpirit is immediately from God: He is the father of ſpirits, and forms them in a capacity for, and with a view to, the enjoyment of himſelf. How debaſing then, to fix a heavenborn ſoul on earthly vanities! Whither ſhould the god-like ſpirit aſpire, but after him whoſe breath kindled it, in communion with whom is its only proper happineſs?

3. The union of body and ſoul makes the living man. The body, when created, however beautiful, was dead and uſeleſs of itſelf. The body, when the ſpirit leaves it, is now loathſome and deteſted. Let us then weigh the value of both, that we may learn to prefer the better part.

4. The whole is God's work, whether body or ſoul; and both therefore ſhould be devoted to his glory. The body, as well as the ſoul and ſpirit, ſhould be preſented to him a living ſacrifice, holy and acceptable, which is our reaſonable ſervice. Happy they, who by daily delightful experience prove, that they are God's offspring, by glorifying him thus in their body, and in their ſpirit, which are his.

8. ¶ And the LORD God planted a garden [e] eaſtward [f] in Eden; and there he put the man whom he had formed. 9. And out of the ground made the LORD God to grow every tree that is pleaſant to the ſight, and good for food: [g] the tree of life alſo in the midſt of the garden, and the [h] tree of knowledge of good and evil. 10. And a river went out of Eden to water the garden; and from thence it was parted, and became into four heads. 11. The name of the firſt is [i] Piſon: that is it which compaſſeth the [k] whole land of Havilah, where there is gold. 12. And the gold of that land is good: [l] there is bdellium and the onyx-ſtone. 13. And the name of the ſecond river is Gihon: the ſame is it that compaſſeth the whole land of *Ethiopia. 14. And the name of the third river is [m] Hiddekel: that is it which goeth † toward the eaſt of Aſſyria. And the fourth river is Euphrates. 15. And the LORD God took ‡ the man, and put him into the garden of Eden, to dreſs it and to keep it.

[e] Chap. iii. 24.
[f] Chap. iv. 16. 2 Kings xix. 12. Ezek. xxvii. 23.
[g] Chap. iii. 22. Rev. xxii. 2.
[h] Ver. 17.
[i] Ecclus. xxiv. 25.
[k] Chap. xxv. 18.
[l] Num. xi. 7.
* Heb. Cuſh.
[m] Dan. x. 4.
† Or eaſtward to Aſſyria.
‡ Or Adam.

v. 8—14. Man, thus created, hath an abode provided for him ſuitable to his ſtate, where every thing around him conſpired innocently to delight and comfort his body, whilſt God himſelf, by a ſacramental pledge in the tree of life, engages to be the joy and happineſs of his ſoul. We have a deſcription of the place, its ſituation, rivers, produce, and peculiarities.

1. It was a garden. When no inclement ſky had yet began to lour, when ſtorms and tempeſt had not learnt to roar, when nature, ever-blooming, filled the eye with pleaſure, and the air with fragrance, a palace of gold had been a confinement, and beds of ivory mean, compared with the delicious groves of Eden, and thoſe couches of amaranthine flowers, that decked this happy place. The ſtarry canopy of heaven was extended over them; the wide earth around ſerved as the courts to grace the temple; whilſt this ſecluded ſpot, the bleſt abode provided by their bounteous Maker, like the holy place of old, ſhone with brighter beauties, than ever adorned that houſe of Solomon, though overlaid with gold, and ſtudded with precious ſtones. Imagination could not conceive, nor deſire wiſh for a greater profuſion of delights. Note, The richer the mercy, the more ungrateful the ill return. To whom much is given, of them much will be required. You who poſſeſs this world's abundance, what effect hath it upon you? Do you remember the giver in the gift?

2. The ſituation; eaſtward in Eden. The choice of the ſpot was from God, and the furniſhing it his work. It was no doubt the beſt of that which was all very good. No traces of it however now remain; as ſin drove man out, the deluge ſwept it away. All that we know of it is, that it was eaſtward compared with Judea. The ſearch after the ſpot hath employed the curious, and the conjectures about its ſituation engaged the pen of the learned; we ſhall be leſs diſappointed and perplexed in our reſearches, if we quit the terreſtrial Eden, and ſeek after the Paradiſe of God. If but an entrance be granted us there, we ſhall recover all that Adam loſt, and more.

3. Its produce; every thing pleaſing to the eye, and good for food. God conſulted the pleaſure, as well as the profit, of his creatures. If a beautiful proſpect delights the eye, or a delicious ſavour the palate, it is the gift of God, and to be acknowledged to his glory. Moroſe inſenſibility, and monkiſh auſterity, is as far removed from true humility and ſelf-denial, as it is from gratitude.

4. Its peculiarities. Many were the trees that adorned the garden, but two of wonderful efficacy. The firſt was the tree of life; whether ſo called, becauſe of ſome property contained in it of preſerving the human body from decay, or becauſe appointed of God as the pledge and ſeal of man's immortality, whilſt he continued in a ſtate of obedience. Note, Many have pretended ſince to have invented preſervatives againſt decay, and elixirs of life; but death hath proved ſhortly the vanity of the pretenſion. There now remains but one medicine that can make us truly immortal, and that is the bread which cometh down from heaven, of which if a man eat, he ſhall never die. O may we cry with the diſciples, Lord, evermore give us this bread.—(2.) The tree of the knowledge of good and evil; ſo called from its deſign to point out the knowledge of good and evil to man; foraſmuch as it was to ſtand for a teſt of his obedience or diſobedience to the poſitive command of God, enjoining him to abſtain from it; and further, as it eventually ſerved to convince man, when, contrary to the command, he dared to eat of it, of the good he loſt, and the evil, which elſe he had never known. Note, In many caſes, to be ignorant, is to be innocent.

5. The rivers. The garden was well watered with refreſhing ſtreams: the names of them are tranſmitted to us, and their courſe deſcribed.—One of theſe ſtreams compaſſed Havilah, and an eſpecial remark is made upon the riches of that land. Gold and precious ſtones are uſually found in the brooks; but they deſcend thither from the mountains, whence the river flows. Note, If the ſands of gold which are found in the rivers of grace are ſo precious, how much more ſhould we prize the mine itſelf, in the mount of the Paradiſe of God!—Havilah had the gold and precious ſtones, but Eden the tree of life. Whilſt other lands boaſt of mines of diamonds, and their ſands of gold, it is our greater glory, that we enjoy the goſpel.

v. 15. God made the abode, and then brought the inhabitant into it. Note, 1. Man held all as matter of gift, not right. Man in innocence was indebted for all to ſovereign grace; and how much more now is man a ſinner! 2. It is the great comfort in every ſituation of life, to ſee God's hand in leading us into it. Whenever he is our guide, and we follow, he will aſſuredly ſpread the table of bleſſing, and make us drink of the waters of his Paradiſe.

But even in Paradiſe man was not to be idle; though it was made ready to his hands, he was to dreſs and keep it. Learn hence, (1.) Though the work of God in our ſalvation be wholly his own, and by grace we are ſaved; that doth not ſuperſede our diligence, but more oblige us to work out our ſalvation with fear and trembling, becauſe God worketh in us to will and to do of his good pleaſure. (2.) That if Adam was created to work, it can be the prerogative of none of his deſcendants to plead exemption from it. To waſte therefore our time in indolence, or to ſquander it away in vain pleaſures, will bring a grievous reckoning, when the maſter of the vineyard ſhall come and viſit the ſlothful ſervant. (3.) That ſecular employments will very well conſiſt with a life of communion with God. The ſons and heirs of heaven, while they are here in this world, have ſomething to do about this earth, which muſt have its ſhare of their time and thoughts; and if they do it with an eye to God, they are as truly ſerving him in it, as when they are upon their knees. (4.) The gardener and huſbandman may comfort themſelves in their laborious employment, that it is the firſt trade God taught to man, and affords abundant matter of conſtant meditation to lead us up to him. The ſpade and the pruning-hook, when rightly uſed, may be made the means of cultivating the heart, as well as the garden, or the field.

16. And the LORD God commanded the man, ſaying, Of every tree of the garden † thou mayeſt freely eat. 17. But of [n] the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou ſhalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eateſt thereof, [o] ‡ thou ſhalt ſurely die.

† Heb. Eating, thou ſhalt eat.
[n] ver. 9.
[o] Chap. iii. 19.
‡ Heb. Dying, thou ſhalt die.

v. 16. God, who placed man in this Eden, gives him directions how to hold the grant, and under what conditions he would continue the enjoyment of it to him and his poſterity. As he was their fountain head, reſpecting life, he is appointed their repreſentative and covenant head alſo. By his obedience, or diſobedience, they ſtand or fall. Note, They who preſume to find fault with this diſpoſition, had they been by, would never have heſitated at the propoſal.

1. God hath an abſolute right over his creatures, and he can command them nothing but what is holy, juſt, and good. Happy are they who yield themſelves up to his government, and make his will the rule of all their conduct; without limitation, exception, or heſitation.

2. The particular exertion of that authority over Adam, preſcribing the terms on which his bliſs ſhould endure.

(1.) An aſſurance to him of the perpetuity of his preſent happineſs on his obedience. The whole garden is his and his heirs for ever, under the ſacramental ſeal of the tree of life.

(2.) The proof of this obedience ſtated, in the abſtinence from the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. Death is denounced nounced on the offence, and life implied therein on obedience. This obſerve, and live for ever: this tranſgreſs, and dying thou ſhalt die: ſo the original, intimating the dreadfulneſs of the puniſhment, and the certainty of its execution. Not only he ſhould be excluded from the tree of life, and all the bleſſings therein ſealed to him, but alſo ſuffer the pains of death; whether ſpiritual, in the loſs of God's image; or temporal, in the return of his body to the duſt; or eternal, in the baniſhment of body and ſoul from God's preſence for ever, and their ſufferings in everlaſting torment: and this to commence from the day of his tranſgreſſion, in the day thou eateſt thereof, &c. That very hour the image of God ſhould depart, he ſhould become a condemned criminal, dead in law, and be obnoxious to God's wrath to all eternity.

Before Chriſt 4004.

God fenced his commands with dire threatenings to man in innocence. Doth fallen man then leſs need them? Yet how do men hate to hear of the wages of ſin, and to be perſuaded by the terrors of the Lord?

3. The prohibition enjoined, was of moſt eaſy compliance; could admit of no doubt, being poſitive and clear, and ſerved withal to give a proof of ſubmiſſion, both of body and ſoul, to God, in the denial of appetite, and the reſtraint of vain curioſity.

God had fully provided for man's happineſs, and the reſtraint ſo trivial, it was a new inſtance of his kindneſs; for what leſs could have been contrived: how gracious all his dealings and deſigns? And what an aggravation to man's guilt, ſhould he after all prove falſe and faithleſs, and wantonly tranſgreſs a covenant ſo eaſy in its terms, ſo glorious in its promiſes, ſo terrible in its threatenings.

18. ¶ And the LORD God ſaid, It is not good that the man ſhould be alone: [p] I will make him an help † meet for him. 19. And [q] out of the ground the LORD God formed every beaſt of the field, and every fowl of the air, and [r] brought them unto ‡ Adam to ſee what he would call them; and whatſoever Adam called every living creature, that was the name thereof.

p Chap. iii. 12.
† Heb. as before him.
q Chap. i. 20—24.
r See Chap. vi. 20.
‡ Or the man.

v. 18. Though man was poſſeſſed of all the bliſs of paradiſe, one thing was ſtill lacking to his felicity. He was alone, nor amidſt the various orders of creatures, could find any like unto himſelf. Angels were rational ſpirits, but incorporeal; beaſts corporeal, but irrational. God ſaw, and pitied him. With the affection of a kind father, unſollicited he conſulted his neceſſities, and reſolves to ſupply him with a help-meet of his own ſpecies. Learn here, 1. Solitude is not ſuited for man. In his ſtate of innocence, ſociety was needful. Good company is ſtill not only a great means of our comfort, but a great help to our edification. 2. A ſingle life wants many advantages, that can only be enjoyed with a ſuitable help-meet. Celibacy was never an ordinance of God: he who made man, knew what was beſt for him. 3. God's glory required he ſhould not be alone; the earth could not thus be repleniſhed, nor the bleſſing pronounced be effectual. 4. In the choice of a wife, a help-meet is to be ſought. A companion, a friend, whoſe preſence at home may be to us more than all the world beſide. The reaſon why ſo many are miſerable in the marriage ſtate, is, that they have married the face, or the portion, inſtead of the woman. 5. A good help-meet is of the Lord: they who chuſe for themſelves, to gratify their luſts, their pride, or their covetouſneſs, without conſulting his will, or ſeeking his bleſſing and direction, have reaſon to expect a briar inſtead of a roſe.

v. 19. Adam had before received the grant, now he is called to exerciſe the authority. The creatures paſs in review before him to pay their homage, and receive their ſeveral names; and thereby afford a proof of his wiſdom, as well as their ſubjection. Note, A good king ſhould be the father of his ſubjects; to exerciſe cruelty on the brute creation, is to turn tyrants, inſtead of lords over it. He that committed them to us, expects that we treat them with lenity and kindneſs.

20. And Adam ‖ gave names to all cattle, and to the fowl of the air, and to every beaſt of the field: but for Adam there was not found an help meet for him. 21. And the LORD God cauſed a deep ſleep to fall upon Adam, and he ſlept: and he took one of his ribs, and cloſed up the fleſh inſtead thereof. 22. And the rib, which the LORD God had taken from man, † made he a woman, and brought her unto the man. 23. And Adam ſaid, This is now bone of my bones, and fleſh of my fleſh: ſhe ſhall be called woman, becauſe ſhe was [s] taken out of man. 24. [t] Therefore ſhall a man leave his father and his mother, and ſhall cleave unto his wife: and they ſhall be one fleſh. 25. And [u] they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not aſhamed.

‖ Heb. Called.
† Heb. Builded.
s 1 Cor. xi. 8.
t Chap. xxxi. 15. Matt. xix. 5. Mark x. 7. 1 Cor. vi. 16. Eph. v. 31.
u Chap. iii. 7. & x. 11.

v. 20—23. All the creatures had their fellows, beſides man himſelf. God knew his wants, and prevents his wiſhes. This tranſaction had paſſed on the ſixth day, as obſerved in the laſt chapter. The manner of it is recited in this.

Before Chriſt 4004.

1. Man was firſt formed. He hath in all things the priority and pre-eminence: nor was he made for the woman, but the woman for the man. Note, They have read their Bible to little purpoſe, who have not learned to reverence and obey their huſbands. 2. The woman was made of a rib of Adam, while he ſlept; not from his head, to uſurp authority over him, nor out of his feet, to be trampled upon; but out of his ſide, to be regarded as next himſelf; under his arm, to be protected; and near his heart, to be beloved by him. Behold a type of the ſecond Adam. Thus Jeſus ſlept the deep ſleep of death upon the croſs; and from his wounded ſide, poured out the blood, which purchaſed his ſpouſe the church. 3. The work was of God. He cauſed the ſleep, and opened the ſide, and cloſed it up again. It had been a painful operation when waking; but now the pain is neither felt, nor the rib wanted. Note, When God is pleaſed to cauſe the believer's ſoul to reſt wholly in him, he can keep their minds in ſweet compoſure, under the ſevereſt afflictions, and cauſe their greateſt loſſes to become their moſt laſting gain. 4. God brings her to the man. As he had provided her for his comfort, he preſents her as his wife. That wife that is of God's making by ſpecial grace, and of God's bringing by ſpecial providence, is likely to prove a help-meet for a man. 5. Her affectionate reception. This now is bone of my bone, and fleſh of my fleſh. Note, The huſband muſt regard his wife as his own fleſh, and nouriſh and cheriſh her with the moſt tender endearment. 6. The name given her, woman. In token, not only of her ſubjection, but of her nearneſs to himſelf: though differing in ſex, the ſame in nature.

v. 24. God, with the firſt marriage, lays down the law for poſterity. 1. It is the firſt and ſtrongeſt relation; it began before parental duty exiſted, and is nearer than any ties of nature. Note, Before marriage, it is moſt diſobedient and ſinful to engage without parents conſent: after marriage, no ties, nor authority, muſt ſeparate thoſe whom God hath joined together. 2. It is indiſſoluble: there is but one allowed cauſe of divorce, fornication; unleſs, peradventure, we may add obſtinate deſertion. Where a connection muſt be ſo laſting, with what ſerioufneſs, care, and thoughtfulneſs, ought it to be entered upon? 3. It is between one man and one woman. As true love can never be divided, lawleſs luſt can never be ſatisfied. 4. They are one fleſh: but they muſt be firſt one heart. The union of bodies is the direct plague in nature, without the union of ſouls.

v. 25. They needed not cloaths for defence, and their ſpotleſs innocence knew no ſhame: this is the offspring of ſin. Though the bluſhes of modeſty are ſo pleaſing now, we ſhould not forget that guilt firſt covered the face with ſhame.

CHAP. III.

The ſtory of this chapter is the moſt afflicting of any we have in all the Bible. It contains an account of the ſin and miſery of our firſt parents, the wrath and curſe of God againſt them, and on the earth: O that our hearts were deeply affected with this record! for we are all nearly concerned in it. We have here, 1. The innocent tempted, ver. 1—5. 2. The tempted tranſgreſſing, ver. 6, 7, 8. 3. The tranſgreſſors arraigned, ver. 9, 10. 4. Convicted, ver. 11—13. 5. Sentenced, ver. 14—19. 6. Reprieved, ver. 20, 21. 7. Notwithſtanding their reprieve, execution in part done, ver. 22. ad finem. And were it not for the gracious intimations here given of redemption, by the promiſed ſeed, they and all their degenerate guilty race, had been left to endleſs deſpair.

1. NOW [a] the ſerpent was [b] more ſubtle than any beaſt of the field which the LORD God had made: and he ſaid unto the woman, † Yea, hath God ſaid, ye ſhall not eat of every tree of the garden? 2. And the woman ſaid unto the ſerpent, We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden: 3. But [c] of the fruit of the tree which is in the midſt of the garden, God hath ſaid, Ye ſhall not eat of it, neither ſhall ye touch it, leſt ye die. 4. And the ſerpent ſaid unto the woman, Ye ſhall not ſurely die. 5. For God doth know, that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes ſhall be opened: and ye ſhall be as gods, knowing good and evil.

a Rev. xii. 9. & xx. 2.
b Matt. x. 16. 2 Cor. xi. 3.
† Heb. Yea, becauſe, &c.
c Chap. ii. 17.
d 2 Cor. xi. 3. 1 Tim. ii. 14.

v. 1. Our firſt parents, in bliſs and joy united, little ſuſpected the dreadful ſtorm which now was preparing for them, by the great enemy of their ſouls. The devil, once an angel of light, but ſelf-tempted, and now by ſin become a fiend of darkneſs, hating God and his work; with envious jealouſy beheld this happy pair, and inſtant meditates their ruin. Having experienced the efficacy of his wiles, on ſpirits like himſelf, drawn in his train from their bright ſpheres of glory, he with like fraud attempts, and but too fatally ſucceeds with man. He aſſumes the ſerpent's form: a ſerpent then as harmleſs in approach, as beautiful in appearance. The garb of innocence hath often ſince impoſed on the unwary; and Satan's wiles are never ſo dangerous as when thus he transforms himſelf into an angel of light. And he was more ſubtle than any beaſt of the field; a fit inſtrument therefore for the cunning tempter. Note, the craft and cunning of the devil, and wicked men, hath ever been more ſucceſsful againſt men's ſouls, than open violence.

Before Chriſt 4004.

1. The woman is ſingled out for the ſnare. He knew of the two ſhe was the weaker, not only in body, but in mind. Note, Satan knows our weak ſide, and uſually there begins his attacks. 2. She was alone. Solitude is dangerous. She is not the only woman who hath been thus undone. 'Tis ſafeſt for every wife to be near her huſband's ſide. 3. She was near the tree, perhaps gazing on it: it is dangerous to be in the way of evil: they who would not eat of the forbidden fruit, muſt not approach the forbidden tree. 4. The artful queſtion propoſed, Yea, hath God ſaid, ye ſhall not eat of every tree of the garden. (1.) He conceals his intention under the guiſe of innocent enquiry: Satan does not ſhew his ſting, till he has ſeized his prey. Some previous converſation ſeems implied, and this ſubject unſuſpiciouſly introduced. We need be jealous; the moſt apparently innocent enquiries often conceal the moſt foul deſigns. (2.) He inſinuates, that it was unkind to lay them under any reſtraints; the garden was given them, why ſhould any tree be excepted? The moment the heart can entertain hard thoughts of God's law, obedience will be at an end. (3.) A doubt is ſuggeſted, whether God had given any ſuch command? If faith wavers, temptation will ſurely prevail. Unbelief is at the bottom of all our ſins.

v. 2, 3. Theſe verſes contain her anſwer to the queſtion of the tempter. It was plain and full. She was not ignorant of the command; nay, rather adds to it: they muſt not only not eat, but not touch it. Note, 'Tis ever bad meddling with edged tools. Nor was the threatening concealed, though here ſhe heſitates, and rather diminiſhes its awful import.

Obſerve, 1. How inexcuſable ſhe was: ſhe fully knew the will of God. Sin againſt light and knowledge hath peculiar aggravation. 2. Her weakneſs to diſcourſe about a point ſo dangerous: the very mention ſhould have awakened ſuſpicion, and bid her fly. Temptations have more than half prevailed, when they can get a hearing. To parley, is the prelude to ſubmiſſion.

v. 4, 5. We have here the ſerpent's reply. 1. He no longer ſeeks to invalidate the command, but the threatening being faintly urged by her, he boldly denies. Note, 1. Confident aſſertions readily paſs with weak minds, and thoſe who are willing to be perſuaded; and it is much eaſier boldly to deny, than clearly to prove. 2. The hopes of impunity are the great encouragement to ſin, and the ſupport of impenitence. By theſe, Satan's kingdom is ſtill upheld. Did a ſinner ſee before him the wages of ſin, and were everlaſting burnings once truly believed, the devil would tempt in vain. I ſhall have peace, is ſtill the grand lie; when God hath ſaid, there is no peace. 3. He not only promiſes her peace, but profit. And when moſt effectually ruining them, aſſures them of the greateſt advantages. How often, by purſuing a falſe and fancied good in view, do we ſtill loſe the portion we actually poſſeſſed. The things he promiſes, were, 1. Knowledge; a vaſt increaſe of wiſdom, like unto God. He inſinuated hereby their preſent imperfection, and perverts cunningly the name of the tree to the purpoſes of his deluſion. It is not the firſt nor laſt time that Satan hath quoted the ſcripture againſt the ſcripture. The knowledge of good and evil, which that tree was deſigned to teach, was practical; of duty and diſobedience: and experimental; of happineſs or miſery. He conſtrues it to be notional, as if it would give their minds enlarged views of the nature, kinds, and origin of good and evil. Note, Satan hath hardly ever been more ſucceſsful againſt men's ſouls, than by the bait of wiſdom. To be philoſophers, they have turned unbelievers; and affecting to be wiſe above what is written, they have become vain in their imaginations, and their fooliſh heart hath been darkened. 2. Power. Ye ſhall be as Gods. Though not ſelf-exiſtent, yet ſelf-ſufficient; no longer ſubjects, but ſovereigns. He ſuggeſts, (1.) Diſcontent, as if their caſe was hard, and their ſituation leſs happy and glorious than it might be: Lord keep me from the ſin of a diſcontented mind! By this, angels fell; and Adam was undone. (2.) The pride of greatneſs. He knew the tempting bait; it had ſeduced himſelf: Lord, let not the foot of pride come againſt me! (3.) Hard thoughts of God, as if on purpoſe he forbad them, becauſe he knew the effects would be to raiſe them up to an equality with himſelf. Behold his devices: he is ſtill the ſame. Thus he continues to deceive with fair ſpeeches and lying promiſes: thus he miſrepreſents the reſtraints of God's law as ſevere: and, grievous to think, thus he ſtill prevails, and the world lieth εν τω πονηρω, under the power and dominion of this wicked one.

6. And when the woman ſaw that the tree was good for food, and that it was † pleaſant to the eyes, and a tree to be deſired to make one wiſe; ſhe took of the fruit thereof, and [e] did eat, and gave alſo unto her huſband with her, and he did eat. 7. And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that [f] they were naked: and they ſewed fig-leaves together, and made themſelves ‡ aprons. 8. And they heard the voice of the LORD God walking in the garden in ‖ the cool of the day; and Adam and his wife hid themſelves from the preſence of the LORD God amongſt the trees of the garden.

v. 6. Unhappy ſouls! thus to give ear to a lying and ſeducing ſpirt, rather than to the God of truth. 1. She looked, and becauſe ſhe ſaw the fruit as beautiful to the eye, ſhe concluded the ſerpent in the right, and that there could be no more harm in this, than in any other tree. It is bad judging by the eye: the moſt pleaſing fruit contains often the deadlieſt poiſon. 2. She not only promiſed herſelf pleaſure for the taſte, but wiſdom for her mind. This tree herein excelled all the reſt, and was more deſirable, perhaps too, ſtill more, becauſe forbidden. Sin begins in the deſire, and reſtraint only whets the appetite: ſo perverſe are we become. 3. She boldly plucked the fruit, perhaps for a nearer view, or by the touch firſt to aſſay, whether any ill conſequence really would accrue. 4. She did eat; eager to make the laſt experiment: and it may be, hoping to ſurprize her huſband with the transforming change ſhe had experienced, and the ſuperior knowledge ſhe had attained. Note, As woman was firſt in the tranſgreſſion, ſhe ſhould remember it to her ſhame. 5. She gave him alſo; came to him with the tempter's power, and, either out of love, wiſhed him to make the trial with her, and enjoy the pleaſure, or out of malice, loſt herſelf, reſolves not to ſink alone. 6. Vanquiſhed by her importunity, or ſeduced by the ſame pleaſing hopes which deluded her, he joined in the tranſgreſſion. Note, Though it was the firſt time, it is not the laſt that man hath liſtened to the ſyren tongue of woman, to his ruin.

Behold here the uſual proceſs of temptation. 1. An outward object preſented by the devil, promiſing us much pleaſure and advantage in the purſuit. 2. The eye caught with it, and led to gaze upon it; the eye is the great inlet of temptation: thoſe who would guard their heart, muſt often veil their eyes. To look upon a woman's beauty, is the road to luſt after her; and to fix the greedy eye on gold, is the prelude to covet it. 3. Deſire after it; when temptation has got ſo far, luſt hath conceived, and ſin will be the birth. Note, Though we ſhould never ſeize the forbidden fruit, if the deſire be towards it, the ſin is already committed. 4. The gratification of the deſire. There is no ſtopping, if once the unbridled appetite is let looſe: when we firſt gazed, we thought it ſhould reſt there: we then drew nearer, but reſolved to ſtop. The hand was ſtretched out to touch, but not to take; till, like the revolving ſtone on a declivity, each revolution accelerated its motion, and ſin no longer could be reſiſted. 5. We cannot be content to ſin alone: thoſe who themſelves hearken to the devil's wiles, quickly turn tempters for him. How little does many a ſinner think of the dreadful charges againſt him from thoſe ſouls, to whoſe ſin and ruin he may have, by his ſollicitations, ſome way contributed?

v. 7. They wanted to ſee more, and now they are gratified; but oh what a ſight! How preferable had blindneſs been to ſuch a diſcovery.

1. They ſaw their own nakedneſs; not only of their bodies but of their ſouls. The robe of innocence was rent; the image of God was defaced; their minds now a ſcene of diſturbance; their happineſs departed; their miſery come upon them; all was loſt, and dark deſpair, and dread of deſerved puniſhment overwhelmed them. 1. How dreadful a thing is ſin: it ſmiles in the face, but it leaves behind the poiſon of a ſerpent: oh that we felt its evil more, and, from the fear of its conſequences, kept from the jaws of the deſtroyer. 2. How ſhameful. It muſt cover us with confuſion, either in time or eternity. Happy they, who by real repentance have taken ſhame to themſelves here before God and man, and through the blood of Jeſus, have their iniquity pardoned and their ſin covered.

2. They ſought to conceal it, and the methods they took, ſhewed how improved they were in wiſdom. Strange folly, to think that fig-leaves could hide their ſhame: it was a poor covering reſpecting themſelves: it was uſeleſs reſpecting God. How like are we! (1.) We think all is well, if we can hide our ſhame from each other, and ſave our credit among men? But ſhall not the day come, when it ſhall be laid open before an aſſembled world? (2.) How apt are we to fly to excuſes, inſtead of humbling our ſouls under conſcious guilt. Frank acknowledgement is in ſome ſort reparation; whilſt every ſubterfuge is an aggravation of the crime.

v. 8. Guilt and fear are inſeparable. They no ſooner hear the voice of God, than that which was before their delight and joy, becomes their horror and confuſion. It ſhould ſeem God appeared

Before Chriſt 4004.

† Heb. A deſire.

[e] Ecclus. xxv. 24. 1 Tim. ii. 14.

[f] Chap. ii. 25.

‡ Or things to gird about.

‖ Heb. Wind.

appeared to them in Eden, as he afterwards deſigned to appear in the world to ſuffer, and ſhall appear at the laſt to judge; and this might tempt them to think it was probable enough, that as he appeared like them in perſon, they might become like him in power. But now their preſumptuous hopes are at an end, and they ſeek the thickeſt covert to be hid from his eye. Their own conſciences become accuſers, and they have already the ſentence of death in themſelves: now they began to diſcover the lie of the tempter; their godhead is debaſed into the loweſt wretchedneſs, their promiſed power into abject weakneſs, and their proud wiſdom into ſenſeleſs folly. Learn hence, 1. The falſhood of ſin's promiſes: ſuch will every diſobedient ſoul prove to his coſt. He expects happineſs, but there will be found a lie in his right hand. 2. That God will diſcover ſin, be it never ſo concealed. Can any hide himſelf in ſecret places that I ſhall not ſee him, ſaith the Lord?

9. And the LORD God called unto Adam, and ſaid unto him, Where art thou? 10. And he ſaid, I heard thy voice in the garden: and I was afraid, becauſe [g] I was naked; and I hid myſelf.

[g] Chap. ii. 25.

v. 9, 10. The voice was heard before with dread, how much more the ſummons? We have, 1. God's call. Where art thou? It was the call of judgment; prepare to meet thy God. Note, Willing or unwilling, the voice of the trumpet muſt ſhortly ſummon us to his tremendous bar: happy for the ſoul who can ſay with confidence of gracious acceptance, Here am I. (2.) It was a voice of conviction. I know thy iniquity; it is in vain to flee.—It is a great mercy when God finds out the ſinner in this world with his awakening calls, for there is then hope of repentance and return. (3.) It was a voice of mercy, inviting him to return. Note, The great inducement to the ſoul, to come forth from the thicket of ſin, is, that there is pardon to be obtained. Had we no hope of this, we ſhould be deſperate indeed. 2. Adam's reply. A confeſſion of his ſhame, and therein of his ſin, and this with juſt apprehenſions of his deſerved doom. Obſerve, 1. Whence all our fears proceed. Sin makes the ſoul afraid to meet the face of God; ſin arms death with its poiſoned ſting; ſin kindles up the flames of hell, every pang of conſcience, every apprehenſion of danger, every afflictive diſpenſation; all derive their origin from hence. 2. That there is no approaching God with comfort, in the nakedneſs of our fallen nature: bleſſed be his name; he hath provided for us garments, that the ſhame of our nakedneſs may be covered. The righteouſneſs of Jeſus, the ſecond Adam, can hide every tranſgreſſion, and we need not then any longer fear to ſtand in the preſence of the moſt holy God; for therein arrayed, we ſhall be found without ſpot or blemiſh.

11. And he ſaid, Who told thee that thou waſt naked? haſt thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee, that thou ſhouldſt not eat? 12. And the man ſaid, [h] The woman, whom thou gaveſt to be with me, ſhe gave me of the tree, and I did eat. 13. And the LORD God ſaid unto the woman, What is this that thou haſt done? and the woman ſaid, The ſerpent beguiled me, and I did eat.

[h] Chap. ii. 18.

v. 11. The confeſſion of ſhame was the proof of guilt. God knew, but he means to bring them down into the duſt of ſelf-abaſement; therefore he puts this alarming queſtion, that they might remember the aggravations of their tranſgreſſion, and turn ſelf-accuſers. Note, 1. Confeſſion of ſin is required, not for God's information, but for our humiliation. 2. When a man comes to the ſight of his guilt, he will find abundant aggravations he never thought of till then: the rebellion, the ingratitude, the wilfulneſs of his conduct, will make ſin appear to him exceeding ſinful.

v. 12. When they cannot deny, they ſtill would palliate: they had eaten, 'tis true, but they would transfer the load of guilt from one to the other. We are apt imitators of this bad example; juſt ſo much of our ſins as are known, we confeſs; but we would fain ſeek excuſe, and extenuate what we cannot conceal. Adam is the firſt to be addreſſed: he is the head, and therefore, from him, moſt is to be expected. He accuſes his wife, and that in ſuch a way, as tacitly lays the blame on God, Thou gaveſt her: I hoped for a help-mate, and found a tempter. Obſerve, 1. How often doth man lay ſin at God's door, and how impious, as well as ungrateful, the charge! Why, ſays one, did God give me paſſions, if I may not gratify them? Why did he give me the world to be made a ſnare to me? Alas! men will not ſee that God meant a bleſſing, the curſe is our abuſe of it. 2. No connections, relations, intreaty, or influence, will excuſe us in the day of judgment, for acting contrary to God's will. If the wife of our boſom entice us, or the friend of our heart perſuade us, we ſhould ſay, Get thee behind me, Satan.

v. 13. As Adam accuſed his wife, ſhe caſts it upon the ſerpent: He beguiled me; a weak excuſe. Is the beaſt wiſer than the man, or was he to be believed ſooner than his Maker?— How credulous are we, when Satan is the teacher? any fallacy will paſs for argument. How infidel! where God himſelf hath ſpoken, there is nothing then, but carnal reaſon will queſtion it. Note, Seek for ſhelter where we will, we ſhall be found without covering at laſt. Let the tempter have whatever ſhare in it, the deed will prove our own: nay, to have done it at the inſtigation of the devil, will be our crime, inſtead of our excuſe.

14. And the LORD God ſaid [i] unto the ſerpent, Becauſe thou haſt done this, thou art curſed above all cattle, and above every beaſt of the field: upon thy belly ſhalt thou go, and [k] duſt ſhalt thou eat all the days of thy life. 15. And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between [l] thy ſeed and [m] her ſeed: [n] it ſhall bruiſe thy head, and thou ſhalt bruiſe his heel.

[i] Exod. xxi. 29—32.

[k] Iſa. lxv. 25. Mich. vii. 17.

[l] Matth. iii. 7. & xiii. 38. & xxiii. 33. John viii. 44. Acts xiii. 10. 1 John iii. 8.

[m] Pſal. cxxxii. 11. Iſa. vii. 14. Mich. v. 3.

[n] Rom. xvi. 20. Heb. ii. 14. 1 John v. 5. Rev. xii. 7—17.

v. 14, 15. The criminals convicted, ſentence muſt paſs; and it begins with the tempter, whoſe crime was moſt notorious, and whoſe judgment the moſt ſevere.

The curſe of God intolerable, and endleſs is his doom.

The ſerpent, though but the inſtrument, muſt ſuffer. God will ſhew his diſpleaſure againſt ſin, wherever it appears. He was more ſubtle than any beaſt, and now is moſt accurſed. Note, The heavieſt wrath of God will light upon their heads, who have employed the acuteſt genius's in the ſervice of the devil, againſt the revealed truths of God. He is condemned to lick the duſt, to crawl under every foot, and to fill the laſt and loweſt place: and withal, to ſuffer perpetual war as hated of man, and cruſhed by him, wherever he ſhould be found. And though his envenomed ſting would ſtill mark his firſt malice, and bite the heel which trod on him, yet his head ſhould be bruiſed, and death be his portion. Mark the end of companions in iniquity; deadly hatred quickly ſucceeds the moſt cordial union.

But the chief edge of this ſword of judgment is levelled againſt him who ſpoke in the ſerpent. He is doomed, 1. To be degraded, deteſted, and abhorred for ever: he was caſt from the height of heaven before; now he ſinks ſtill lower. As this hath filled the meaſure of his iniquities, it fills the meaſure of his puniſhment: humbled, to be trodden down by thoſe whom he deceived; to be bruiſed under their feet, over whom he had triumphed; and to be the object of eternal hate, of thoſe whoſe friendſhip he had abuſed. Sooner or later, pride will have a fall.

2. A perpetual enmity is put between the ſeed of the woman and the ſeed of the ſerpent; with the certain expectation of his ruin in the conflict. Note, (1.) The believer's heart, in this world, partakes of both theſe ſeeds; and the war of corrupt affections and Satan's temptations, continue till death; yet grace ſhall win the crown: and though the wounded heel prove mortal to the body, we ſhall, through Jeſus, ſhortly triumph over death, and him who hath the power of it. (2.) This world will be a divided world, where the people of God muſt meet with many a ſore thruſt from Satan's ſeed, the ungodly ſet on fire of hell; but may we ever remember for our comfort, the triumphing of the wicked is but for a moment.

But what to Satan was ſo full of horror and deſpair, like the pillar of the cloud between Iſrael and the Egyptians, offered a bright beam of hope to fallen man. He heard the aſſured promiſe of a ſeed, who ſhould bruiſe the ſerpent's head; and, however his apprehenſion of the perſon might be indiſtinct, yet it afforded him a ground of faith and hope. We now are aſſured, that this ſeed was Chriſt; and need not doubt but the goſpel preached unto him in this firſt promiſe, was as effectual as to the other patriarchs, before his appearance in the fleſh. Note, If Chriſtianity be not full as old as the creation, it is almoſt as old.

Chriſt is called the woman's ſeed, as being in the fulneſs of time to be born of her, and of woman only. Let it be remembered for the woman's comfort and honour, if ſhe was the firſt to bring ſin into the world, ſhe hath alſo born him who will make an end of ſin, and take it out of the world. His heel being bruiſed, repreſents the ſufferings of his humanity, when taking away ſin by the ſacrifice of himſelf: but his wound is Satan's ruin. The nails which faſtened the crucified Saviour's feet, ſmote him, like Siſera, through the temples: his power and kingdom are deſtroyed, and his wiles for ever fruſtrated. The redeemed of the Lord are reſcued; that wicked one toucheth them not. Though he thruſts ſtill out his forked tongue, the agonies of death, as it were, are upon him: the ſpreading goſpel of Jeſus continues to compleat the conqueſt, and it will be in a little while perfected; when Satan ſhall be bruiſed under our feet, and death and hell be caſt into the lake of fire. Thou promiſed ſeed, fulfil, and that ſoon, thy people's hope!

16. Unto the woman he ſaid, I will greatly multiply thy ſorrow, and thy conception; in ſorrow thou ſhalt bring forth children: and [o] thy deſire ſhall be † to thy huſband, and [p] he ſhall rule over thee.

[o] Chap. iv. 7.

† Or ſubject to thy huſband.

[p] 1 Cor. xiv. 34. 1 Tim. ii. 11, 12. Tit. ii. 5.

Before Chriſt 4004.

v. 16. As the woman is ſecond in guilt, ſhe is next in ſentence. She is to ſhare with the man in his curſe too; but ſhe hath a burden laid on her, peculiarly her own.

1. An increaſe of ſorrows in conception and childbearing. Of all agonizing pains, theſe are acute to a proverb; whilſt weariſome days and nights precede them; and fear, as well as anguiſh, embitters them. Note, 1. Every groan of travail, is the cry of ſin; and every ſorrow we feel, ſprings from this root. If our ſorrows are multiplied, no wonder: our ſins are ſo: at the worſt, we muſt acknowledge they are leſs than our iniquities deſerve. 2. We ſhould regard the word of God in every ſorrow: this alone can reconcile the heart to patient ſubmiſſion; I became dumb, and opened not my mouth, for it was thy doing, Pſal. xxxix. 9.

2. Her ſtate of ſubjection pronounced. Whilſt innocence remained, if ſome ſuperiority was placed in man, ſo gentle and affectionate was the ſway, that woman rather ſeemed the equal partner of the throne; but ſince ſin hath entered, her yoke is heavier. Her huſband rules, and as the fallen mind is now diſturbed with pride and angry paſſions, theſe breed diſquiet, and often make obedience real puniſhment. Happy thoſe, who inſtead of complaining of their ſuffering, lament their ſin. To diſobey or murmur, or affect equality, much more ſuperiority, is not only a violation of the divine law, but an inſult on the divine judgment.

17. And unto Adam he ſaid, Becauſe thou haſt hearkned unto the voice of thy wife, and [q] haſt eaten of the tree of which I commanded thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt not eat of it: [r] curſed is the ground for thy ſake; in ſorrow ſhalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life. 18. Thorns alſo and thiſtles ſhall it † bring forth to thee: and [s] thou ſhalt eat the herb of the field. 19. [t] In the ſweat of thy face ſhalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it waſt thou taken: for duſt thou art, and [u] unto duſt ſhalt thou return.

[q] Chap. ii. 17.
[r] Iſa. xxiv. 5, 6. Rom. viii. 20.
† Cauſe to bud, &c.
[s] Pſal. civ. 14.
[t] 2 Theſ. iii. 10.
[u] Eccleſ. xii. 7.

v. 17, 18, 19. Man laſt appears to receive his ſentence, and a terrible one it is; enough to make the ears of every one who heareth it, to tingle; who being involved in the crime, as in the loins of Adam, continues to ſuffer the puniſhment.

1. The ground and its productions, of late ſo beautiful, and pronounced ſo good, now groans under the curſe, and ſuffers an awful change. Briars and thorns, inſtead of luxuriant fruitfulneſs, are all its preſent produce; and, till ſubdued by man's labour, incapable of ſupporting the periſhing life which ſtill remained to him. Let the huſbandman who ploughs the ſoil, remember who hardened it; and whilſt we ſee in our gardens the continual ſpreading weeds, be it on our mind what ſowed them there. Then ſhall the whole earth around us lead us to a continual remembrance of, and humiliation under, our fallen ſtate.

2. Man's life is imbitter'd by toil and ſorrow. It cannot be ſupported but by the one; and even then, will be attended with the other.

(1.) The earth muſt be ſubdued with the ſweat of his face; weariſome labour becomes his daily employment; he cannot eat his bread till he has earned it. Note, Labour is not only our duty, but our puniſhment; none are exempted from it, in ſome kind or other: idleneſs is defiance of the curſe, as well as diſobedience to the command. (2.) Sorrow, as well as labour, is our portion: our bread muſt be embittered by our burdens; remembrance of the paſt, as well as experience of the preſent, was a pregnant ſource of woe to Adam. Becauſe the ſin remains, the ſorrow does. Why doth diſeaſe make us loath our food? Why doth the tongue ſo often turn the ſweeteſt portion into bitterneſs? Why are we ſo frequently eating the bread of mourners? Why are tears our meat day and night? Why, in our happieſt days, are ſome dark clouds ſtill ſpread over us? Why is there not a man on earth but is born for ſorrow and trouble, as the ſparks fly upward? Read this curſe, and the anſwer will be clear. It will puzzle the wiſeſt infidel to account for ſuffering, but by admitting of ſin.

3. Death muſt conclude the ſcene. Though reſpited for a moment, the ſentence is paſt, and muſt be executed: Duſt thou art, and unto duſt ſhalt thou return: this is to nature, the king of terrors, and that becauſe it is the wages of ſin. Behold in this glaſs, O man, thine image reflected, whoever thou art.

(1.) Thy frailty. Duſt of the earth; as weak to reſiſt the efforts of diſeaſe and ſickneſs, as the chaff to endure the furious blaſt of the whirlwind. Greatneſs, riches, beauty, honour, make no diſtinction: the wind of death alike bloweth upon them, and they are gone. (2.) Thy certain end: unto duſt thou ſhalt return. There is no diſcharge in this war, ſooner or later: it is appointed unto men once to die; and remember, after this is judgment: conſider therefore and be wiſe. (3.) That the cauſe of all this is one man's diſobedience: one ſin deſtroyed a world, yet fools make a mock of it. But do thou look from whence thou art fallen, if yet there may be hope. (4.) That hope appears in the ſecond Adam, our better covenant head and repreſentative, who having taken upon himſelf our ſins, and borne our ſorrows, endured the curſe, and nailed it to the croſs. Bleſſed be God for Jeſus Chriſt.

But dare any proud reaſoner object to this judgment of God, and ſuggeſt that the puniſhment is greater than the crime? Let ſuch an one well weigh the deed, and he will confeſs the wages mete. For in this act of diſobedience, every aggravation united: impious unbelief and inſolent pride, envy of God's perfections, and lawleſs appetite, contempt of God's favours, murmuring, diſcontent, wilful diſobedience, and black ingratitude; and this complicated with the baſeſt treachery, and moſt unrelenting cruelty towards the unborn millions, whoſe perſons he repreſented, and whoſe life was bound up in him. Let any man conſider the above catalogue, and then ſhall God be clear in his ſayings, and juſt when he hath judged.

Before Chriſt 4004.

20. And Adam called his wifes name † Eve, becauſe ſhe was the mother of all living.

† Heb. Chavah.

v. 20. Eve, or life, is a very expreſſive name of her, who was to be the mother of all living, and moſt expreſſive, if we regard that ſeed ſhe ſhould bring forth, who ſhould deſtroy death, and in whom all his people ſhould be made alive. In this view, her name was a profeſſion of Adam's faith in the promiſe; and thus beautifully comes in after the dreadful ſentence, to ſhew that though God viſited his iniquities with a rod, and his ſin with ſcourges; yet his loving kindneſs would he not utterly take from him.

21. Unto Adam alſo and to his wife did the LORD God make coats of ſkins, and cloathed them.

v. 21. An inſtance this that he ſtill cared for them, and had not, as they deſerved, though highly offended, utterly caſt them off. They wanted cloaths now to hide their ſhame, but who ſhall provide them, or whence? Behold the proviſion, and learn inſtruction from it. 1. To be proud of our dreſs, is to value the badges of our guilt; our cloaths are our ſhame, and 'tis twice our ſhame to be proud of them too. 2. Uſe, not finery, was here conſulted. Let the poor be thankful they are better clad than their father; and let the rich remember needleſs and expenſive ornaments ill befit a ſinful body, and a fallen ſinner. But above all, 3. The ſignificancy of theſe coats of ſkins. In the dying beaſt they beheld their death; and not to overwhelm them with ſorrow, they ſaw in the deſert of ſin, the ſacrifice for ſin: the blood that was ſhed taught them the atonement which the Lamb of God on their behalf ſhould make; and the ſkins which covered their bodies, repreſented that ſpotleſs robe of righteouſneſs which ſhould prevent the ſhame of their ſpiritual nakedneſs from appearing: to conceal which, all they could do for themſelves was as vain, as the fig-leave aprons they wore. They, whom the Lord Jeſus Chriſt cloaths, ſhall not be found naked.

22 ¶ And the LORD God ſaid, [x] Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil. And now leſt he put forth his hand, and [y] take alſo of the tree of life, and eat, and live for ever: 23. Therefore the LORD God ſent him forth from the garden of Eden, to till the ground, from whence he was taken. 24. So he drove out the man: and he placed [z] at the eaſt of the garden of Eden, cherubims, and a flaming ſword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life.

[x] Like Iſa. xix. 12. & xlvii. 12, 13. Jer. xxii. 23.
[y] Chap. ii. 9.
[z] Chap. ii. 8.

v. 22, 23, 24. Death was reſpited; but toil and trouble immediately came upon him, in his expulſion from this bleſt abode. We have here,

1. God upbraiding his folly and ſin, by a moſt piercing irony or mockery: he deſerves to be put to ſhame, who dares to commit ſin. Yet God's deſign is not to ſport with his miſery, but to awaken him to repentance: if he covers him with confuſion, it is to lead him to converſion. Note, When a ſinner comes to a diſcovery of his ſtate, he as much upbraids his folly, as he laments his ſin.

2. The reaſon of his expulſion; to prevent his eating of the tree of life; not that it now could profit him, but leſt he ſhould flatter himſelf with hopes of living, and profane the ſacramental ſeal, when he had broken the covenant it confirmed. (1.) Scandalous ſinners, and ſelf-righteous formaliſts, ſhould be excluded from the Lord's table: they cannot but abuſe it. What can the ſeal ſignify to thoſe, who are ſtrangers to the covenant of grace? (2.) Though this tree is now no more, bleſſed be God for a better: Jeſus Chriſt is the tree of Life, growing in the paradiſe of God, and whoever will, may freely come to him, and eat and live.

3. The manner; driven out: reluctant, no doubt, but go they muſt. They had forfeited God's favour, and muſt bear the burden: yet not to leave theſe happy groves alone or chiefly grieved their hearts; it was here they met and enjoyed communion

nion

Before Christ 4003.

nion with their maker: this to loſe, was bitterneſs indeed. Note, Spiritual death, the wages of ſin, conſiſts in the ſeparation of the ſoul from God, and in this muſt we have continued for ever, unleſs the Lord Jeſus had come to reſtore us to the loſt favour of, and communion with God.

4. The guard he placed at the garden. They might have attempted a return, but the attempt is rendered impracticable. The cherubims, the executioners of God's wrath, wave the ſword, the mark of God's diſpleaſure: though it conſume them not utterly, they may behold their juſt deſert, and tremble. Note, The way to the tree of life is for ever barred to fallen man; the covenant of works is broken: none can ſay any more I am pure from my ſin; and the caſe is irreparable; no place is found for repentance: one ſin only can never be undone by any human power, or paid for by any human ſuffering. The terrible ſword of judgment is drawn; the ſinful ſoul muſt die: till we learn to deſpair of ourſelves, there is no hope for us; for then, and only then, we ſhall be led to lay hold of that covenant of grace, eſtabliſhed in the Redeemer's blood and righteouſneſs, and calculated to ſave the loſt and the deſperate.

CHAP. IV.

We have here, 1. The birth, names, and callings, of Cain and Abel, ver. 1, 2. 2. Their religion and different ſucceſs in it, ver. 3, 4, and part of ver. 5. 3. Cain's anger at God, and the reproof of him for that anger, ver. 5, 6, 7. 4. Cain's murder of his brother, and the proceſs againſt him for that murder, ver. 9—16. 5. The family and poſterity of Cain, ver. 17—24. 6. The birth of another ſon and grandſon of Adam, ver. 25, 26.

4003. 1. AND Adam knew Eve his wife: and ſhe conceived and bare Cain, and ſaid, I have gotten a man from the LORD. 2. And ſhe again bare his brother † Abel: and Abel was ‡ a keeper of ſheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground.

† Heb. Hebel.
‡ A feeder.

v. 1, 2. We have an account in theſe verſes of the children of Adam; two are only mentioned:

1. Cain the eldeſt; his name ſignifies poſſeſſion, and his birth was a cauſe of joy. A man child was gotten from the Lord, the fond mother hoped for the Lord alſo. Note, Parents are apt to promiſe themſelves too much from their children, and that makes the diſappointment the heavier.

2. Abel; that is, vanity. Perhaps in compariſon with his brother, he was lightly eſteemed, as his name imports. The partiality of parents is often ſinful; and in the iſſue, the diſregarded child proves their bleſſing, and the darling their plague. Note, Man in his fallen ſtate, fitly may be called Abel, for he is altogether lighter than vanity itſelf.

3. Their employment. Adam brought not up his ſons in idleneſs, but honeſt induſtry: one a ſhepherd, the other a huſbandman. Learn hence, (1.) the ſhepherd and the plowman ought not to repine at their laborious calling; it is the moſt ancient, and was reckoned among the moſt honourable. — (2.) Fathers have a right to chuſe a calling for their children, and it is their duty to be diligent and induſtrious in it.

3. And † in proceſs of time it came to paſs, that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the LORD. 4. And Abel, he alſo brought of the firſtlings of ‡ his flock, and of the fat thereof. And the LORD [a] had reſpect unto Abel, and to his offering: 5. But unto Cain and to his offering he had not reſpect. And Cain was very wroth, and [b] his countenance fell.

† Heb. At the end of days.
‡ Heb. Sheep or goats.
[a] Heb. xi. 4.
[b] Chap. xxxi. 2.

v. 3, 4, 5. The ſons of Adam no ſooner began to be grown up for labour, but we find them before the Lord. Religion was the firſt thing, no doubt, he taught them, and divine worſhip is a principal part of it.

1. They appeared, according to their vocations, with their ſeveral oblations of the fruit of the ground, and of their flock: (1.) The worſhip of God ſhould be the firſt thing we ſhould inſtil into our children; if they are brought up in the nurture of the Lord, we may have good hopes, when they come to years of diſcretion, to find them in his holy ways. (2.) According as the Lord hath bleſſed us, we are bound to honour him with our ſubſtance, whether for the ſupport of his cauſe, or the relief of the diſtreſſed. He will count this done to himſelf. (3.) Among the worſhippers of God, there will ever be found hypocrites: men forward enough to bow the knee, and give alms, and appear religious, but void of true faith; without which, it is impoſſible to pleaſe God. Such was Cain.

2. They were very differently regarded. Cain was rejected, whilſt Abel offers an acceptable ſacrifice. If it be aſked, why? 1. Becauſe Cain was a wicked man, his ways were diſpleaſing to God, and therefore his ſacrifice was an abomination. 2. Becauſe he was an unbeliever; his works were his truſt, and he looked to no better righteouſneſs than his own for acceptance. Note, The works of the ſelf-righteous are in God's ſight the works of the ungodly, and will be rejected with abhorrence. Before we preſume to approach God, let us ever remember, that our ſacrifices can only be acceptable to him, when offered in the faith of Jeſus Chriſt our Lord.

Before Christ about 3875.

Abel's ſacrifice, on the other hand, God had reſpect to; 1. Becauſe it was offered in faith: this was its commendation to his regard. It was a ſacrifice of atonement in blood, implying an acknowledgment of his ſin and deſert, and profeſſion of his dependance on the Redeemer to come. Note, Wherever faith in Jeſus, is there God will teſtify his approbation of our ſervices: though the fire of heaven do not deſcend upon our ſacrifice, as it ſeems to have done on Abel's, the fire of love will upon our heart, and bear witneſs of our acceptance, that we are the children of God. 2. Becauſe it was accompanied with the offering of his heart. He was a righteous man, Matt. xxiii. 35. And as the tree was good, its fruit was holineſs to the Lord. Note, There is a real difference in the characters of men: no good works can proceed but from an honeſt and good heart: the ſame faith which makes the perſon accepted, purifies the heart, and enables it to perform an acceptable ſervice. Be it remembered, however, who maketh us to differ, that we may not think more highly of ourſelves, than we ought to think.

3. The effect this produced on Cain. Anger againſt God, as if he were unjuſt in his regards, and envy at his innocent brother, becauſe of God's favour to him, kindle in his boſom, dart from his fiery eyes, or disfigure his pale and fallen countenance. Behold a lively picture of the devil: how like is the offspring to the parent; a fallen man to a fallen angel?

Learn here, (1.) Rebukes only exaſperate the unhumbled. He is filled with the fury of the Lord, as a wild bull in a net, Iſa. li. 20. (2.) The children of God are ever the objects of anger, and envy to the children of the devil. The wicked ſeeth the righteous, and gnaſheth upon him with his teeth, Pſal. xxxvii. 12. (3.) The enmity of the ſeeds began in Cain and Abel, and will only end with the end of time.

6. And the LORD ſaid unto Cain, Why art thou wroth? and why is thy countenance fallen? 7. If thou doeſt well, ſhalt thou not † be accepted? and if thou doeſt not well, ſin lieth at the door. And ‡ unto thee ſhall be his deſire, and [c] thou ſhalt rule over him.

† Or have the excellency.
‡ Or ſubject unto thee.
[c] Chap. iii. 16.

v. 6, 7. God condeſcends to reaſon with Cain on the perverſeneſs of his conduct. The ſinner that periſhes, ſhall be left inexcuſable. I ſtretched out my hands, but no man regarded— It were well, if on the firſt motions of ſin in the heart, or in the firſt glance of the kindling eye, this queſtion were in our thoughts, Why art thou wroth? There was no reaſon for it: for,

1. Acceptance was as free for him as for his brother, if he came in the ſame way: it was infidelity and diſobedience only that excluded him; but that moment if he returned, he ſhould find favour: bring the ſacrifice of faith, it ſhould be welcome, and go and ſin no more. Note, God is ever ready to receive the returning ſinner; may his goodneſs lead us to repentance. 'Tis a fearful thing to abuſe it, and thereby to treaſure up wrath againſt the day of wrath.

But, 2. If he perſiſted in his evil, his unbelief, and envious wrath, he muſt expect to be rejected, and judgment would proceed againſt him. Be aſſured, ſooner or later, God will puniſh. Woe to that ſinner, at whoſe door, in an hour of death, and in a day of judgment, unpardoned ſin is found.

3. God aſſures him, as Abel was his younger, he ſhould alſo be his inferior. God deſigned not to degrade him from his birthright, though his ſin deprived him of the bleſſing: remember, dominion is not founded in grace: the gifts of God's ſpecial favour, alter not the diſtinctions of his providence. Religion never taught a man diſloyalty, or diſreſpect of his ſuperiors, but the want of it. The beſt chriſtians are ever the moſt ſubmiſſive ſubjects, the moſt dutiful children, and moſt reſpectful ſervants.

8. And Cain talked with Abel his brother: and it came to paſs when they were in the field, that Cain roſe up againſt Abel his brother, and [d] ſlew him.

[d] Wiſd. x. 3. Matt. xxiii. 35. 1 John iii. 12. Jude 11.

v. 8. Anger in the heart, is murder at the door: nothing is wanting but opportunity and impunity, to make every paſſionate man another Cain. Many were the aggravations of this foul crime. It was his brother; a brother to him ever dutiful and ſubmiſſive, a perſon diſtinguiſhed with God's favour, and one, who, unſuſpicious of danger, talked with him as a friend. But what can ſtand before malicious envy? No doubt the time was, when Cain had ſtarted at the horrid deed; but when once a man gives place to the devil, there is no conception to what a pitch of daring wickedneſs he may arrive. Obſta principiis. If we would not commit murder, let us refrain from anger. Death thus began its ravages, its wages now appeared. But though his parent's aching hearts beheld the reeking gore, I doubt not, they felt acuter pangs for living Cain, than for departed Abel. He died in faith; and from a ſinner on earth, became a ſaint in heaven. He died a martyr, and firſt of that noble army, received the crown: whilſt we bewail his end, we ſhould rejoice in his deliverance. Note, The ſaints of God are mortal; death muſt bring them down to the grave; but bleſſed be God for a hope, full of immortality; when they are delivered from the burden of the fleſh, they will be in joy and felicity inconceivable as eternal. What an argument to courage, if called to ſeal the truth with our blood, ſtriving againſt ſin.

though

Before Chriſt about 3875.

9. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? and he ſaid, I know not: Am I my brothers keeper? 10. And he ſaid, What haſt thou done? the voice of thy brother's † blood [e] crieth unto me from the ground. 11. And now art thou curſed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand. 12. When thou tilleſt the ground, it ſhall not henceforth yield unto thee her ſtrength. A fugitive and a vagabond ſhalt thou be in the earth.

† Heb. Bloods.
[e] Heb. xii. 24. Rev. vi. 10.

v. 9. The murder was ſecret, and no doubt carefully concealed. But there is a great eye, from which nothing is hid, nothing is ſecret: and he in this world orders his providence, often in ways almoſt miraculous, to bring the blood that is covered to light. God here, 1. Maketh inquiſition for it by an alarming queſtion, ſuited to cover him with confuſion, perhaps deſigned to humble him to repentance. 2. His anſwer; falſe and inſolent.

(1.) Falſe: I know not. A direct and wilful lie. He would fain conceal it; what folly? Can omniſcience be impoſed upon? One ſin never comes alone: he who dared to commit murder, heſitates not to cover it with a lie. They have both the ſame father: thus ſin ever blinds the eyes and hardens the heart.

(2.) Inſolent. Am I my brother's keeper? Who elſe ſhould have been? Who ſo proper? Who ſo bound in love and duty? Note, God juſtly expects of us a kind concern for our brethren; if they receive damage to body or ſoul, through our neglect, much more through our means, he will require it at our hands.

v. 10, 11, 12. We have here, 1. God's reply, pointed with conviction, covering him with confuſion, What haſt thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground. Blood hath a voice to reach the ſkies; murder will call for vengeance, blood for blood.

(1.) Shall murdered bodies thus cry out, and murdered ſouls be ſilent? Hear, ye careleſs ſinners, whoſe lips and lives caſt abroad firebrands and death. Tremble ye negligent paſtors: how many loſt immortal ſouls are laying their blood at your door? (2.) Where ſhall the man flee, whoſe ſin hath teſtified to his face, whoſe guilt is evident? To the blood of Jeſus. This crieth louder for mercy, than Abel's did for vengeance: happy the ſoul whoſe cries of ſin are drowned in deeper cries of the blood of the Saviour. Even a murderer need not deſpair.

2. God's judgment againſt him: now thou art curſed. No judgment ſo heavy as the wrath of God, and how much more when without hope of mercy. He is ſpared to live upon the earth, not in proſpect of repentance, but as a warning againſt ſin: a reprobate ſpirit, is a damned one in this world. How ſhould we be afraid of ſin, leaſt we provoke God to give us up to a reprobate mind, and then we are as deſperate as if already ſhut up in the belly of hell. Two things ſhall make his abode here as miſerable, as his proſpects hereafter are terrible.

(1.) The earth ſhall with-hold her ſuſtenance; though tilled, it ſhall not yield her increaſe. Adam received it barren, but by ſweat it brought forth fruit. Cain ſhall not only ſweat to till, but ſhall find it barren ſtill. Note, A wicked man hath the curſe of God on whatever he hath and doth; and this, like the gall in the cup, embitters all.

(2.) It ſhall refuſe him a ſettlement; a fugitive and a vagabond ſhalt thou be. He ſhall be caſt out from the ſociety of men, and left to wander up and down, as much a terror to himſelf, as an abhorrence to others. Note, This fugitive and vagabond is every ſinner; he ſeeks to fly from himſelf, but guilt, like a fiend of hell, haunts him; and conſcience, with a ſcorpion's whip, continually ſcourges him.

13. And Cain ſaid unto the LORD, † My puniſhment is greater than I can bear. 14. Behold, thou haſt driven me out this day from the face of the earth: and from thy face ſhall I be hid, and I ſhall be a fugitive and a vagabond in the earth, and it ſhall come to paſs, that [f] every one that findeth me ſhall ſlay me. 15. And the LORD ſaid unto him, Therefore whoſoever ſlayeth Cain, vengeance ſhall be taken on him [g] ſeven-fold. And the LORD ſet a mark upon Cain, leſt any finding him ſhould kill him.

† Or mine iniquity is greater than that it may be forgiven.
[f] Chap. ix. 6.
[g] Pſal. lxxix. 12.

Before Chriſt about 3875.

v. 13, 14. Cain's puniſhment was leſs than his iniquity deſerved; yet he murmurs againſt it, as cruel, and more than he can bear. The hardened heart of man is thus ever diſpoſed to charge God fooliſhly. Doth a living man dare to complain of any preſent burden? Let him rather ſtand aſtoniſhed that he is out of hell. Note, They who quarrel with the puniſhments of ſin, as too ſevere, will feel them to their coſt by and by; and be made to own the juſtice of them too. Four ſore judgments were upon him; rejection from God's face and favour, as a reprobate; expulſion from the comforts of ſociety and the church of God; a reſtleſs and tormented conſcience; and the continual and terrible fears of death. Learn, 1. The ſoul who departs from God, is the prey of conſtant diſquiet: though he ſeeks reſt, he finds none. 2. Guilt is the ſource of ceaſeleſs horror, and every proſpect of death to ſuch an one, is big with terror and diſmay.

v. 15. We have here God's protection of Cain, and the mark ſet upon him. Firſt, to confirm the ſentence paſſed upon him he is not to be executed, leaſt he be forgotten, but lives a ſtanding monument of God's vengeance againſt ſin. We need not wonder that God does not immediately cut off daring and preſumptuous ſinners: he hath wiſe ends to anſwer in them. Secondly, the mark was to point him out; not more to ſave him harmleſs, than to brand him infamous, This is the Murderer! The mark of ſin is upon every guilty ſoul: though ſecret now, the day is near when the brand of the beaſt will appear in the forehead, and the impenitent ſinner be pointed out as the object of ſcorn and abhorrence to ſaints and angels; and be doomed to live for ever as an outcaſt from God, with devils in hell.

16. ¶ And Cain went out from the preſence of the LORD, and dwelt in the land of Nod, on the eaſt of Eden. 17. And Cain knew his wife, and ſhe conceived and bare † Enoch: and he builded a city, and called the name of the city after the name of his ſon Enoch. 18. And unto Enoch was born Irad: and Irad begat Mehujael: and Mehujael begat Methuſael: and Methuſael begat ‡ Lamech.

† Heb. Chanock.
‡ Heb. Lemech.

v. 16, 17, 18. We have here, according to the ſentence, 1. Cain's baniſhment. The preſence of the Lord he no longer deſired; but dreaded, and therefore ſought to fly from it. He had done now with worſhip and ſacrifices; and as God had forſaken him, he renounces all profeſſion of godlineſs, and commences vagabond. None ſink ſo low, none grow ſo infamouſly vile, as thoſe who having made profeſſion of godlineſs, return, as the dog to their vomit.

2. Whither he went. To the eaſt of Eden, the way the flaming cherub ſtood; inſenſible to God's dreadful judgments, and defying them; ſuch daring impiety being the laſt produce of the abandoned heart: but he found no reſt. It was the land of Nod, or trembling, to him wherever he was: he could not fly from himſelf. Let the guilty ſinner never think of flying from God, but to God, if ever he hopes to find reſt unto his ſoul.

3. His labours. To build a city, an expedient dictated by his fears, perhaps to ſecure his perſon; or by his impiety, in hopes of diſappointing the divine ſentence; or by his miſery, to divert his thoughts; or by his pride, to make himſelf diſtinguiſhed: whatever a wicked man doth, his motives, purſuits, and ends, are all wrong. Learn hence, (1.) 'Tis a ſad ſymptom of a ſinful ſtate, when a man cannot bear his own thoughts, but muſt be ſeeking ſome continual engagements in order to divert his mind. (2.) The ſinner ſeeks a fixed abode in the earth: he would ſet up his name and city here. To be worldly minded, is the ſure evidence of departure from God. (3.) In vain are all the attempts of the guilty: his poſſeſſions muſt fail, his cities moulder into duſt, his name be blotted out, and death, which brings him to the judgment-ſeat of God, diſappoint all his labours under the ſun.

4. His family. The names of them are mentioned, but no good of them; they were chips of the old block; malus corvus, malum ovum; what a curſe to his family is a wicked parent?

19. ¶ And Lamech took unto him two wives: the name of the one was Adah, and the name of the other Zillah. 20. And Adah bare Jabal: he was the father of ſuch as dwell in tents, and of ſuch as have cattle. 21. And his brothers name was Jubal: he was the father of all ſuch as handle the harp and organ. 22. And Zillah, ſhe alſo bare Tubal-Cain, † an inſtructer of every artificer in braſs and iron: and the ſiſter of Tubal-Cain was Naamah.

† Heb. Whetter.

v. 19, 20, 21, 22. We have ſome account of one of Cain's poſterity; and as we might expect a bad father and a worſe ſon;

Before Chriſt 3874.

1. His taking two wives. He was the firſt probably, who had tranſgreſſed the divine inſtitution: he began the bad cuſtom, but better men followed him. How hard, when cuſtom hath eſtabliſhed ſin into a law, to eſcape from the pollutions that are in the world!

2. His remarkable family. Wicked men often proſper, and flouriſh like a green bay tree for a time; but their end is, to be conſumed together. Be not thou envious then, though his houſe be increaſed. We have the names and occupations of his children: (1.) Jabal, the father of ſhepherds, celebrated for his knowledge in breeding and keeping cattle. (2.) Jubal, a muſician, and the firſt inventor of it. (3.) Tubal-Cain, famed for his works in braſs and iron. (4.) Naamah, their ſiſter, the beautiful, as her name ſignifies. It ſeems not improbable, in this degenerate race idolatry began; and Lamech being the Jupiter, his ſons are the Pan, Apollo, and Vulcan, and his daughter the Venus of the heathens. Obſerve, 1. Amidſt all their worldly inventions, no mention is made of God, or his ſervice: as long as the worldly mind can profit or pleaſe himſelf, he looks no higher. 2. Wicked men may be made very uſeful in their generation. 3. Though muſick was firſt invented by a bad man, God hath made it ſubſervient to a good end. 'Tis a pity the profeſſors of muſick ſhould, in their conduct, rather chuſe to imitate the inventor Jubal, than the reformer of it David.

23. And Lamech ſaid unto his wives, Adah and Zillah, Hear my voice, ye wives of Lamech, hearken † Or I would ſlay a man in my wound, &c. unto my ſpeech: for † I have ſlain a man to my wounding, and a young man ‡ to my hurt. 24. If Cain ſhall ‡ Or in my hurt. be avenged ſeven-fold, truly Lamech ſeventy and ſeven fold.

v. 23, 24. Lamech's wickedneſs is farther recorded.

1. His imperiouſneſs. His wives hear his voice, and tremble. Note, (1.) Thoſe who marry like Lamech, for luſt, will ſeldom long ſpeak the kind voice of love. (2.) The moſt rigorous exacters of others duty, are often the moſt flagrant neglecters of their own.

2. His ferocity. I have ſlain a man to my wounding, &c. I have done it, nor fear the conſequences; or as in the margin, I would ſlay a man, that dared provoke, or ſtand in my way, though I were wounded in the conflict. Bloody-minded men ſtick at nothing when their paſſions hurry them on! the accurſed ſin of duelling is Lamech's ſpirit.

3. His preſumptuous impiety. From Cain's protection, he infers his own ſecurity, commit what crimes he would: thus wicked men wax worſe and worſe. Becauſe God's vengeance is not ſpeedily executed, they harden themſelves in the confidence of impunity: but though vengeance be ſlow, it is ſure; their damnation ſlumbereth not. All we hear of Cain and his ſeed, is a continuance of evil: a bad beginning neceſſarily leads to a bad end.

3874. 25. ¶ And Adam knew his wife again, and ſhe bare h Chap. v. 3. a ſon, and [h] called his name † Seth: For God, ſaid ſhe, † Heb. Sheth. hath appointed me another ſeed inſtead of Abel, whom 3769. Cain ſlew. 26. And to Seth, [i] to him alſo there was born i Chap. v. 6. a ſon; and he called his name Enos: then began men ‡ Or to call themſelves by the name of the Lord. ‡ to call upon the name of the LORD.

v. 25, 26. Great, no doubt, was Adam's grief for his loſt Abel; greater for his rebellious Cain: but he ſhall not have all ſorrow and no comfort. God will in ſome ſort make up the breach; though he ſhall have enough to awaken the remembrance of his ſin and his ſorrow, he ſhall not be left utterly deſtitute. 1. God gives him another ſon, to be the eſtabliſhment of his family, and in whoſe houſe the worſhip of God ſhould be perpetuated in the room of Abel. God will never want a holy ſeed. Though the church be never ſo perſecuted, Sanguis martyrum ſemen eccleſiæ: There ſhall ſtill be a generation to ſerve him. 2. The name given him; Seth, placed or ſettled; and another ſeed, typifying that emphatical ſeed the Meſſiah, who ſhould be placed as an enſign on an hill, and to whom ſhould the gathering of the people be. 3. The farther increaſe of his family in Seth's ſon, Enos, or miſerable; ſo called, to remind us that the beſt of men were but miſerable ſinners. And now in their ſeed's ſeed, they behold a comfortable proſpect of the perpetuity of the true religion. For, 4. They were diſtinguiſhed for their regard to God's name and worſhip: they were of a different character from the irreligious offspring of Cain: they continued in prayer and public ſacrifices: no doubt Adam's children had done ſo from the beginning, but they now began to be more remarked for it. The more the wickedneſs of men appears, the more ſhould the people of God be quickened: 'tis high time to be jealous for God's glory, when iniquity abounds. The margin reads, they began to be called by the name of the Lord: Perhaps a name of reproach given by the wicked ſons of Cain; the godly, the preciſe. The people of God ever bore his name; a name of infamy in the earth, but a name of honour in heaven; the ſons and daughters of the Lord Almighty.

Before Chriſt 4004.

CHAP. V.

This chapter is the only authentic hiſtory extant of the firſt age of the world from the creation to the flood. It contains an account of the deſcendants of Seth to Noah, and is preſerved, and from thence continued down to Chriſt, Luke iii. 36. who was the ſeed of the woman, that was promiſed. We have here an account, 1. Concerning Adam, ver. 1—5. 2. Seth, ver, 6—8. 3. Enos, ver. 9—11. 4. Cainan, ver. 12—14. 5. Mahalaleel, ver. 15—17. 6. Jared, ver. 11—20. 7. Enoch, ver. 21—24. 8. Methuſelah, ver. 25—27. 9. Lamech and his ſon Noah, ver. 28. ad finem. All ſcripture being given by inſpiration of God is profitable, though not all alike profitable.

1. THIS is [a] the book of the generations of Adam: 4004. a 1 Chron. i. 1. Luke iii. 36.
In the day that God created man, in [b] the likeneſs of God made he him: 2. [c] Male and female creat- b Chap. i. 26. Wiſd. ii. 23.
ed he them; and bleſſed them, and called their name c Chap. i. 27.
Adam, in the day when they were created. 3. ¶ And 3874.
Adam lived an hundred and thirty years, and begat a ſon in his own likeneſs, after his image; and [d] called his d Chap. iv. 25.
name Seth. 4. And the days of Adam after he had begotten Seth, were eight hundred years; and he begat ſons and daughters. 5. And [e] all the days that A- e 1 Chron. i. &c. dam lived were nine hundred and thirty years: and he died.

v. 1, 2. We have a recital here of what was largely treated of before. 'Tis uſeful that man ſhould often be reminded of his maker, for he is ſtrangely apt to forget him. We have here, 1. His name: this was not ſo expreſsly mentioned before; it ſignifies red earth, to point him to his original, and ſignify his ſubjection; and both have one name, for they have one nature, and by marriage are one fleſh: let the man love his wife then, even as himſelf. 2. His generations. His own and his poſterities: the only valuable genealogy is this; to know, not from whom we come, but from whom Chriſt came. The greateſt man living is but the ſon of the duſt; of the earth, earthy: the only noble extraction is to be related to the Lord from heaven.

v. 3, 4, 5. No notice is taken of what other children he begat; though in virtue of the bleſſing, no doubt, he begat many before, as well as after Seth. 1. The time of his birth. The 130th year, a long ſpace, and full of trouble: now there is a little ſunſhine after the dark cloud. We need be thankful for every mercy in the way, and wait in this vale of tears with patience, till our appointed change comes. 2. What is ſaid of him? He begat him in his own likeneſs; not in the image of God, in which himſelf was created, but in the likeneſs of his own corrupt and fallen ſelf. Miſerable effects of ſin! We can entail nothing now upon our offspring, but ſin and the curſe of it. Grace doth not run in the blood, but corruption doth. 3. His age and death; certain to come, though long delayed: may we often remember it, and learn from the view, ſo to number our days, as to apply our hearts unto wiſdom.

6. And Seth lived an hundred and five years, and [f] be- f Chap. iv. 26 gat Enos. 7. And Seth lived after he had begat Enos 3769.
eight hundred and ſeven years, and begat ſons and daughters. 8. And all the days of Seth were nine hundred and twelve years, and he died. 9. And Enos lived ninety years, and begat Cainan. 10. And Enos lived after he 3679.
begat Cainan eight hundred and fifteen years, and begat ſons and daughters. 11. And all the days of Enos were nine hundred and five years: and he died. 12. And Cainan lived ſeventy years, and begat Mahalaleel. 13. And 3609.
Cainan lived after he begat Mahalaleel eight hundred and forty years: and begat ſons and daughters. 14. And all the days of Cainan were nine hundred and ten years: and he died. 15. And Mahalaleel lived ſixty and five years, 3544.
and begat Jared. 16. And Mahalaleel lived after he begat Jared eight hundred and thirty years, and begat ſons and daughters. 17. And all the days of Mahalaleel were eight hundred ninety and five years: and he died. 18. 3382.
And Jared lived an hundred ſixty and two years, and he g Jude 14, 15. begat [g] Enoch. 19. And Jared lived after he begat Enoch eight hundred years, and begat ſons and daughters. 20.
And all the days of Jared were nine hundred ſixty and two years: and he died.

v. 6—20. Adam's deſcendants are recounted to the ſixth generation. He lived to ſee the earth overſpread, and repleniſhed with inhabitants. The account of Seth's poſterity is dwelt upon; upon; whilſt Cain's is only mentioned, and no more. God's ſaints are precious in his ſight.

Before Chriſt
4004.

Obſerve, 1. How death paſſed upon all. Their lives were long indeed, but the burden of the tale is, and he died. Health, riches, wiſdom, and what is better, godlineſs, make no diſtinction here: 'Tis all thou art, and all the proud muſt be.

2. Their days are mentioned, to remind us that years and ages are but longer days; and when they are gone, will be like yeſterday, which is paſt.

3. The length of their lives. Many ages. Though death was entered, his ravages were reſtrained, either by the excellent temperature of the air, and the wholeſomeneſs of their food, in which the antideluvian world, no doubt, far exceeded the preſent; or by the power of God, who preſerved men's lives to overſpread the earth the ſooner, or rather that the true religion might be thus preſerved from corruption. A ſinner looks back with regret on theſe lives of ages, and wiſhes their return; a ſaint of God rejoices in his happier lot, that he is not left ſo long to groan in this tabernacle, being burthened.

3317. 21. And Enoch lived ſixty and five years, and begat Methuſelah. 22. And Enoch [h] walked with God after he begat Methuſelah three hundred years, and begat ſons and daughters. 23. And all the days of Enoch, were three hundred and ſixty-five years. 24. And [i] Enoch walked with God, and he was not: for God took him.

[h] Chap. vi. 9. & xvii. 1. & xxiv. 40. Pſal. xvi. 8. & cxvi. 9.

[i] Ecclus xliv. 16. Heb. xi. 5.

v. 21—24. In the foregoing generations, nothing is ſaid of their characters; their deſcent bids us hope they imitated their father. But here God ſingles out one to be the imitation of future ages, as he was the glory of that in which he lived. Obſerve,

1. His converſation in the world. He walked with God.

(1.) His practice was agreeable to God's will: he maintained a happy communion with him: his ſoul was weaned from the vanities of the world, and fixed on God as his only portion. Note, The life of every chriſtian is walking with God. 1. As a reconciled ſinner, through the blood of Chriſt. 2. As a reſtored ſoul, through the ſpirit of Chriſt. 3. As an obedient ſervant, according to the word of Chriſt. 4. As an obſervant worſhipper in all ordinances, and an attentive improver of all providences. 5. As happy in the fellowſhip obtained with God, through his dear Son. 6. As a conſtant expectant of God's appearing to take us to himſelf, that we may behold his glory.

(2.) His preaching. He not only himſelf lived for God, but he laboured for God, Jude 14. Boldly rebuking ſin, and encouraging the faithful in their adherence to God, from the proſpect of the appearance of their Lord to judge the ungodly, and to reward his ſaints.

(3.) His perſeverance herein. To the end of his days. There ſeems no reaſon to apprehend he did not walk with God before; we are aſſured, however, after he begat Methuſelah, he did three hundred years. Every true ſaint of God is known by his perſeverance. It was a long while to live thus in a wicked world, but he walked by faith. Note, True faith never faileth.

2. His tranſlation from earth to heaven. It was his buſineſs and happineſs to live for God; it is his reward to live with God. He was in the prime of life when God took him; had not, according to general reckoning, lived out half his days: but ſurely he was a wonderful gainer by the exchange. He quitted a wicked world for a heavenly kingdom; a life of toil for a reſt in glory; a ſcene of vanity for bliſs eternal. Note, we ought not too much to lament for our dear friends that die in the Lord, leſt our ſelfiſhneſs, rather than our affection appear. Though the child be robbed from the tender parents, the huſband from his weeping family, or the zealous miniſter from his deſolate flock: the loſs indeed is ours, the gain is theirs. They have lived enough whom God takes to himſelf: the days that are cut off from the labours of time, ſhall be added to the rewards of eternity. Early deaths, and ſudden deaths, are reckoned untimely; but who can think it untimely to go to the boſom of Jeſus; or who ſhould grieve that

> No painful agonies need to untie,
> The ſoul that's ready to aſcend on high,
> And mourns its exile from its native ſky.

3. The manner of his tranſlation. He was caught up, perhaps viſibly, as Elijah afterwards, into heaven: his body changed in the twinkling of an eye, from corruption to incorruption, from diſhonour to glory, from natural to ſpiritual, and his ſoul, freed from every ſpot of ſin, made meet for an inheritance among the ſaints in light. We may not hope for ſuch a change, but we expect an equivalent; the arm of death, which ſnatches the believer from the earth, ſhall carry him to the place whither Enoch is gone before.

4. The grand principle which influenced him to ſuch a conduct, and brought him to ſuch an end; Faith in the Lord Jeſus Chriſt, Heb. xi. 5. Note, (1.) Faith only can enable us to walk with God. (2.) Thus ſhall we pleaſe God. (3.) God will teſtify his pleaſure in ſuch a walk, by his witneſs in our hearts now, and by his approbation in a judgment day. (4.) Eminent believers ſhall have ſingular honours, as one ſtar differeth from another ſtar in glory.

Before Chriſt
3130.

25. And Methuſelah lived an hundred eighty and ſeven years, and begat Lamech. 26. And Methuſelah lived after he begat Lamech ſeven hundred eighty and two years, and begat ſons and daughters. 27. And all the days of Methuſelah were nine hundred ſixty and nine years: and he died.

v. 25, 26, 27. Methuſelah died in the year of the deluge, as if taken away from the evil to come. He exceeded all men in length of days, but died too: every man living is altogether vanity. When we conſider that a thouſand years and one day are alike compared with eternity, the difference of the age of Methuſelah, and the child that breathed only, and died, vaniſhes into nothing. If eternity is ſo vaſt, and time ſo vain, how careful ſhould we be to redeem the one, in order to ſecure the other.

28. And Lamech lived an hundred eighty and two years, and begat a ſon. 2948. 29. And he called his name Noah, ſaying, This ſame ſhall comfort us concerning our work and toil of our hands, becauſe of the ground [k] which the LORD hath curſed. 30. And Lamech lived after he begat Noah five hundred ninety and five years, and begat ſons and daughters. 31. And all the days of Lamech were ſeven hundred ſeventy and ſeven years: and he died. 32. And Noah was five hundred years old: 2448. and Noah begat [l] Shem, Ham, and [m] Japheth.

[k] Chap. iii. 17. & iv. 11.

[l] Chap. vi. 10.

[m] Chap. x. 21.

Good and bad men have the ſame names, but their characters eaſily diſtinguiſh them; Lamech the ſaint, from Lamech the ſinner. He had many ſons, but one moſt remarkable. We have,

1. His name: Noah; reſt. They expected in him a comfort from their toils. Children ſhould be a reſt for their parents: happy they who can ſay by experience of their dutifulneſs and affection, this ſame ſhall comfort us.

2. His family. Shem, Ham, and Japheth. They are particularly mentioned, becauſe of the ſubſequent tranſactions: Shem, though firſt in name, is not firſt in age; but as he was firſt in God's favour, he obtains the preference. God's gifts are his own; if he chuſes one and not another, who ſhall accuſe him of partiality? or ſay to him, What doſt thou? Shem ſignifies, name: for from him is to deſcend the ſeed, who is above every name. Note, If the name of Chriſtian be ours indeed, the birthright and bleſſing are entailed on it: we ſhall be counted among the church of the firſt-born, whoſe names are written in heaven.

CHAP. VI.

The moſt remarkable thing we have upon record concerning the old world, is the deſtruction of it by the univerſal deluge, of which this chapter begins the hiſtory; wherein we have, 1. The abounding iniquity of that wicked world, ver. 1—5. and ver. 11. 12. 2. God's juſt reſentment, and reſolution to puniſh it, ver. 6, 7. 3. The ſpecial favour of God to Noah. 1. In the character given of him, ver. 8, 9. 10. 2. In the communication of God's purpoſe to him, ver. 13, 17. 3. In the directions he gave him to make an ark for his own ſafety, ver. 14, 15, 16. 4. In the employing of him for the preſervation of the reſt of the creatures, ver. 18—21. Laſtly, Noah's obedience to the inſtructions given him, ver. 22. And this concerning the old world is written for our admonition upon whom the ends of the new world are come.

1. AND it came to paſs when men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them, About 2469. 2. That the ſons of God ſaw the daughters of men, that they were fair; and they took them wives of all which they choſe.

v. 1, 2. The chapter opens with an account of the cauſes of that univerſal degeneracy which began to prevail on the earth.

1. The increaſe of men. The multitude of evil doers is the great encouragement and ſupport of ſin. Note, It is a bad ſymptom of a bad ſtate, when any man's plea is, that he is no worſe than his neighbours. It is enough, that he is like the world, to be condemned with the world.

2. Their unholy marriages. The ſons of God, the ſeed of Seth, diſtinguiſhed for their piety, beheld the beauty of the daughters of men, the wicked ſeed of Cain, and took them wives from that degenerate family. Behold here the dire cauſe of their apoſtacy from God. Learn hence, (1.) A bad woman armed with beauty is one of the moſt deadly inſtruments the devil can employ againſt the ſons of God. (2.) Thoſe who in marriage conſult only the pleaſing the eye, will ſoon find an aching heart. (3.) A Chriſtian man or woman ſhould dread as much to be yoked with an unbeliever, as a living body to be tied for life to a dead corpſe: the one can communicate contagion, but the other cannot enliven.

Before Chriſt 2469.

[a] 1 Pet. iii. 19, 20. [b] Pſal. lxxviii. 39.

3. And the LORD ſaid, [a] My ſpirit ſhall not always ſtrive with man, for that [b] he alſo is fleſh: yet his days ſhall be an hundred and twenty years.

v. 3. The Lord's diſpleaſure for theſe proceedings, and his threatened judgments againſt the evil doers.

1. His diſpleaſure. He will withdraw his ſpirit. He had raiſed up Noah, a preacher of righteouſneſs; he had given them ſecret convictions; and now he threatens to leave them to fill up the meaſure of their iniquities, till they ſhould be ripe for deſtruction. Obſerve, (1.) Nothing grieves the ſpirit of God more ſorely than fleſhly luſts. (2.) Every freſh indulgence of ſin is a new reſiſtance againſt God's ſtrivings. (3.) When the ſpirit of God is reſiſted, his calls become leſs ſenſible, till he is quite withdrawn. (4.) When God ſtrives no more, then we ruſh headlong into ſin and ruin. Lord, take not thy holy Spirit from us.

2. The reaſon given. Man is fleſh, incurably corrupt, and altogether become abominable. When there is a total mortification, there is no help but amputation, enſe recidendum. What can be ſo abaſing as this view of our vile natures: Man is ſunk totally into fleſh, and his very ſoul is become earthly, ſenſual.

3. A merciful reſpite. An hundred and twenty years. God never ſtrikes without warning; but when his goſpel is rejected, his calls diſregarded, his admonitions made light of, though he wait long, his time of patience ends; the ſword is drawn, the ſinner dies. Let us hear then, and fear, and do no more wickedly.

* Or the whole imagination, purpoſe, or deſire.
[c] Chap. viii. 21. Matt. xv. 19.
† Heb. Every day.

4. There were giants in the earth in thoſe days; and alſo after that, when the ſons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them: the ſame became mighty men, which were of old, men of renown. 5. And God ſaw that the wickedneſs of man was great in the earth, and that * every imagination of the thoughts of his [c] heart was only evil † continually.

v. 4, 5. Things went from evil to worſe. What elſe could be hoped from ſuch ungodly connections. The produce of theſe marriages was giants, mighty men, men of renown for their conqueſts and their power. (1.) Whenever a wicked man has great power, we may expect great oppreſſion. (2.) The renown of conquerors is their greateſt diſhonour, and the trumpet of fame the ſound of infamy. We are apt to admire a Cæſar, or Alexander, and in the glare of conqueſt forget the peſts of ſociety, and the ſcourges of mankind.

God ſaw. How could he but ſee, when his eyes go continually to and fro thro' the earth. He ſaw, 1. The wickedneſs of man was great in the earth. The cry of the oppreſſed, and the tears of the injured, came up before him, and it was univerſal. The earth was filled with it; all ranks and all degrees had corrupted their ways. Note, (1.) When great men are wicked, their wickedneſs is great. (2.) The examples of the great are deadly infectious; what they begin, will quickly be imitated. (3.) But God takes notice. There is a book of remembrance written: not an oppreſſive deed, or wicked word, but is minuted for judgment.

2. The root of this great wickedneſs; the apoſtate nature of man. His inward parts are ſtill worſe than his way; his heart is naught; all his thoughts perverſe; yea, every riſing imagination big with evil; and this determinedly and continually. Behold a lively picture of a fallen ſpirit. Note, However great outward wickedneſs is, God ſees greater abominations within: the heart of every ſinner contains greater crimes than ever were yet committed.

[d] See Numb. xxiii. 19. 1 Sam. xv. 11—29. 2 Sam. xxiv. 16. Mal. iii. 6. Jam. i. 17.
* Heb. From man unto beaſt.

6. And [d] it repented the LORD that he had made man on the earth, and it grieved him at his heart. 7. And the LORD ſaid, I will deſtroy man whom I have created, from the face of the earth, * both man and beaſt, and the creeping thing, and the fowls of the air: for it repenteth me that I have made them.

v. 6, 7. God could not behold without concern a conduct ſo offenſive to his purity, and ſo diſhonourable to his moral government, and therefore moſt juſtly determines to viſit for theſe things.

Before Chriſt 2448.

1. God repented that he had made man; it grieved him at his heart. Not that he is ſuſceptible of ſorrow, or capable of change: he ſpeaks after the manner of men only, when affected with ſuch provocations. His diſpleaſure againſt ſin is without any painful ſenſation, yea, is the emanation of his immaculate purity; and his repentance, a change of conduct, not a change of mind. Doth God thus regard ſin, and ſhall not we grieve for it, and repent over it? Note, Man new made ſhall not diſappoint his labour. In Jeſus Chriſt, and the new creation in him, he will be able to eternity to ſay, This ſame ſhall comfort us concerning the work of our hands. Chap. v. 20.

2. The purpoſe of God to deſtroy man, the work of his hands; to wipe out his name from among the living, and, as involved in his ſin, to conſume the whole brute creation with him. Note, (1.) He that makes can unmake us in an inſtant: he need only breathe in anger, and the candle of life he hath lighted ſhall be extinguiſhed. (2.) Thoſe who will not be converted, muſt be conſumed. (3.) If the ſinner will have God to change his judgments, he muſt by faith change his way. In vain are the hopes of mercy, where there remains the indulgence of ſin.

[e] Chap. vii. 1. Ezek. xiv. 14—20. Ecclus xliv. 17. Heb. xi. 7. 2 Pet. ii. 5.
* Or upright.
[f] Chap. v. 32.

8. But Noah found grace in the eyes of the LORD. 9. Theſe are the generations of Noah; [e] Noah was a juſt man, and * perfect in his generations, and Noah walked with God. 10. And Noah begat three ſons, [f] Shem, Ham, and Japhet.

v. 8, 9, 10. Noah was an exception from the general corruption; for we find,

1. A token of God's approbation of him. God giveth to every man according as his work is. His judgment is according to truth. Though Noah was a deſpiſed preacher in a careleſs world, God's favour amply repaid him, and made him more highly honourable than the giants of renown. I had rather find favour in the eyes of the Lord, than be regarded by an admiring world; and have my name written in the book of life of the Lamb, than emblazoned in the annals of fame amongſt the mightieſt heroes.

2. The reaſon of this approbation. (1.) He was a juſt man, or a juſtified man; he was firſt a believer, and then a preacher of the righteouſneſs of faith. No acceptance with God without faith. (2.) A perfect man; ſincere before God, and without allowed guile, though, as we find, compaſſed as other men with infirmities. Note, Though perfection of ſincerity be found in men, freedom from ſin never was nor will be in this world, ſave in him who was more than man. (3.) He walked with God, when all beſide were walking in their own ways. He dared to be eminently ſingular, and to profeſs it too. It is a bleſſed proof of a heart with God, when in evil days a man dare openly avow himſelf on the Lord's ſide.

11. The earth alſo was corrupt before God; and the earth was filled with violence. 12. And God looked upon the earth, and behold, it was corrupt; for all fleſh had corrupted his way upon the earth.

v. 11, 12. God takes repeated notice of the wickedneſs of men. He will not only be, but be ſeen to be juſt in his judgments. Violence and ſpoil disfigured the earth, and, like devouring beaſts let looſe, the fallen ſons of men preyed one on another. Every kingdom, city, family, was anarchy; and every place confuſion. It was ſurely high time to interpoſe. Sin is the cauſe of every miſchief: if kingdoms fall, or houſes are divided, to this it muſt be aſcribed. Note, The people of God are uſually looked upon as the burden and the troublers of the earth. How little do men know, that for their ſakes only judgment this hour lingereth.

* Or from the earth.
† Heb. Neſts.
[g] 1 Pet. iii. 20. 2 Pet. ii. 5.

13. And God ſaid unto Noah, The end of all fleſh is come before me; for the earth is filled with violence through them: and behold, I will deſtroy them * with the earth. 14. Make thee an ark of gopher-wood: † rooms ſhalt thou make in the ark, and ſhalt pitch it within and without with pitch. 15. And this is the faſhion which thou ſhalt make it of: the length of the ark ſhall be three hundred cubits, the breadth of it fifty cubits, and the height of it thirty cubits. 16. A window ſhalt thou make to the ark, and in a cubit ſhalt thou finiſh it above, and the door of the ark ſhalt thou ſet in the ſide thereof: with lower, ſecond, and third ſtories ſhalt thou make it. 17. And behold, I, even I do bring a flood of waters upon the earth, to deſtroy all fleſh, wherein is the breath of life, from under heaven: and every thing that is in the earth ſhall die. 18. But with thee will I eſtabliſh my covenant: and [g] thou ſhalt come into the ark; thou, and thy ſons, and thy wife, and thy ſons wives with thee. 19. And of every living thing

Before Chriſt about 2349.

thing of all fleſh, two of every ſort ſhalt thou bring into the ark, to keep them alive with thee: they ſhall be male and female. 20. Of fowls after their kind, and of cattle after their kind, of every creeping thing of the earth after his kind: two of every ſort [h] ſhall come unto thee, to keep them alive. 21. And take thou unto thee of all food that is eaten, and thou ſhalt gather it to thee; and it ſhall be for food for thee and for them.

[h] See Chap. xix.

v. 13—21. God's favour to Noah now begins to appear in a very ſignal inſtance.

1. He communicates to him his fixed purpoſe to deſtroy the world of the ungodly. Their end is come, their meaſure of iniquity is filled, and his patience at an end: the veſſels of wrath are now fitted for deſtruction. When the appointed hour in God's eternal counſels arrives, then the end of the world, and of all fleſh, comes in a more awful ſenſe.

2. The manner of their end. By a flood. I that bound up the waters in ſwaddling bands, when the great deep firſt broke from the womb of nature, will open its fountains. I, even I; my power will accompliſh it, and my decree is unchangeable. Their burning luſts ſhall be quenched in a deluge of waters.

3. His covenant with him and his family. A covenant of mercies temporal and ſpiritual: a deliverance from the devouring flood; but, better ſtill, a deliverance from the deluge of iniquity too. Note, (1.) The covenant of grace was from the beginning the only ſaving hope. (2.) With whomſoever God eſtabliſhes it, nothing can diſappoint the fulfilment: it is ordered in all things, and ſure. (3.) That faith in God's promiſe is the only and ſure way of laying hold of an intereſt in this covenant.

4. The means and methods preſcribed for the ſaving himſelf and his family. An ark. He muſt provide it. Note, God's ſure promiſes do not make our labours needleſs, but encourage us to work, from the aſſurance of ſucceſs. God orders the manner of the ark. He who ſaves will direct us in the propereſt methods to work out our ſalvation. It is not deſigned for ſailing, but to ſave from ſinking; and it is to be made large enough to contain himſelf, his family, and ſome of every ſpecies of animals. Mark the bleſſing of pious parents; Noah's whole family were kept alive for their father's ſake.

5. The aſſurance that God would collect the proper freight, when he had prepared the veſſel. Though we may often be in the dark, how things ſhall be brought about, yet if we are acting under the divine command, and truſting upon the divine promiſe, he will bring it to paſs.

6. Noah firſt preached to thoſe who periſh, and then became a ſaviour to thoſe who ſurvived: in both an eminent type of his Lord, who, when he left thoſe inexcuſable who rejected his word, opened the door of his heart, a ſafe retreat from all the floods of wrath to every guilty ſinner who ſhould flee thither. To this ark, my ſinful ſoul, betake thyſelf.

22. Thus did Noah, [i] according to all that God commanded him, ſo did he.

[i] Chap. vii. 5—9—16. Heb. xi. 7.

v. 22. No ſooner commanded, but he obeys: ſuch is the ready mind of every true believer. Speak, Lord, for thy ſervant heareth.

1. His unreſerved faith. A thouſand corrupt reaſonings no doubt intruded, of the how, and why, and wherefore; but it was enough for Noah, he had God's word, that ſilenced every doubt. Note, The reaſon why men do not now flee from the wrath to come, is becauſe they attend to the vain reaſonings of their mind againſt the expreſs revelation of God.

2. His diligence. He began immediately, and finiſhed it according to the pattern. He ſtaggered neither at the trouble and expence, nor could be diverted by the mockeries of the unbelievers, who, no doubt, thought him a very ridiculous enthuſiaſt, to attempt providing againſt ſuch an improbable, or, as to them it appeared, impoſſible event. Note, Thoſe who cannot bear the ſcoffs of the world, or be ready to give up all for Chriſt, will never ſwim in the ark.

3. It was a continual ſermon: every blow of the axe and hammer was a call to repentance. It convinced not the world indeed, but it condemned it. Heb. xi. 7. Note, The time will come, when ſinners will remember their obſtinacy and hardneſs of heart, too late to amend it.

CHAP. VII.

In this chapter we have the performance of what was promiſed in the foregoing chapter. 1. God's gracious call to Noah and his family to come into the ark, ver. 1. and to bring the creatures that were to be preſerved alive along with him, ver. 2, 3. in conſideration of the deluge at hand, ver. 4. 2. Noah's obedience to this heavenly viſion, ver. 5—9. an account of which is repeated, ver. 13—16. to which is added God's tender care, to ſhut him in. 3. The coming of the threatned deluge, ver. 10. the cauſes of it, ver. 11, 12. the prevalence of it, ver. 17—20. 4. The dreadful deſolations that were made by it in the death of every living creature upon earth, except what were in the ark, ver. 21, 22, 23. 5. The continuance of the deluge, before it began to abate, one hundred and fifty days, ver. 24.

Before Chriſt about 2349.

1. AND the LORD ſaid unto Noah, [a] Come thou, and all thy houſe into the ark: for [b] thee have I ſeen righteous before me in this generation. 2. Of every clean beaſt thou ſhalt take to thee by * ſevens the male and his female: and of the beaſts that are not clean by two, the male and his female. 3. Of fowls alſo of the air, by ſevens, the male and the female; to keep ſeed alive upon the face of all the earth. 4. For yet ſeven days, and I will cauſe it to rain upon the earth forty days and forty nights; and every living ſubſtance that I have made, will I ‡ deſtroy from off the face of the earth.

[a] Matt. xxiv. 38. Luke xvii. 26. 1 Pet iii. 20. 2 Pet. ii. 5.
[b] Chap. vi. 9.
* Heb. Seven ſeven.
‡ Heb. Blot out.

v. 1, 2, 3, 4. When the work was finiſhed, and the one hundred and twenty years at an end, then God begins to fulfil his faithful word.

1. Noah is commanded to enter with his family, and all the creatures. "Come into the ark." Sweet voice of mercy, thus inviting to a ſure refuge from the impending ſtorm. Such is the gracious call of Jeſus to the ſinful ſoul; Come unto me, and I will give you reſt. And ſhall we be obdurate, as blind to our own intereſt as inſenſible to the Saviour's love! Surely then we deſerve to periſh. His family were not all like their father; one we are aſſured was wicked enough, yet his father's mercies deſcend upon him. Learn, (1.) There is no pure ſociety under the ſun: in the ark was a reprobate, and, amongſt the twelve apoſtles, a traitor. (2.) A bad child fares often the better for his parent's ſake.

2. A comfortable teſtimony repeated of his integrity. It is a bleſſed thing to have God's atteſtation to our ſimplicity before him; and it is the Lord's delight to behold it, his care to reward it. He will preſerve ſuch from the plagues of the ungodly, and reſerve them as monuments of his diſtinguiſhed mercy.

3. The regulations concerning the beaſts, their nature and number. Of clean and unclean both muſt come, for none muſt be loſt; yet their number differs, not only becauſe the clean are moſt ſerviceable for man, and therefore ſhall be moſt numerous, (behold the wiſe providence of God!) but alſo becauſe of them he muſt offer unto the Lord. Note, Man, in the proviſion that is made for his comfort, ſhould never loſe ſight, that the greater end ſtill propoſed in all God's works is his own glory.

4. Another reſpite of ſeven days. A moment more, another call, and the laſt. They who will not regard the judgment at their door, muſt periſh without remedy. Note, When the heart hath long been hardened againſt the calls of God, there is little hopes of a change at laſt. Of the multitudes of dying beds I have attended, I never ſaw one man, of whom I had Chriſtian grounds of confidence, who only then began to be warned of their danger, when at the gate of death.

5. And [c] Noah did according to all that the LORD commanded him. 6. And Noah was ſix hundred years old, when the flood of waters was upon the earth. 7. And [d] Noah went in, and his ſons, and his wife, and his ſons wives with him, into the ark, becauſe of the waters of the flood. 8. Of clean beaſts, and of beaſts that are not clean, and of fowls, and of every thing that creepeth upon the earth, 9. There went in two and two unto Noah into the ark, the male and female, as God had commanded Noah. 10. And it came to paſs * after ſeven days, that the waters of the flood were upon the earth.

[c] Chap. vi. 22.
[d] 1 Pet. iii. 20.
* Or on the ſeventh day.

v. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10. He was not diſobedient to the heavenly admonition.

1. He went in, and all his, and the creatures God had brought him.

2. As ſoon as he was ſafe lodged, that moment the flood came. Note, God waits now only for his laſt ſaint to be gathered in, and for the number of his elect to be accompliſhed, and then a more terrible deluge of fire ſhall deſcend upon the ungodly.

11. In the ſix hundredth year of Noah's life, in the ſecond month, the ſeventeenth day of the month, the ſame day were all the fountains of the great deep broken up, and the * windows of heaven were opened. 12. And the rain was upon the earth forty days and forty nights.

* Or floodgates.

Before Chriſt 2349.

v. 11, 12. We have the time and manner of this awakening judgment particularly recorded.

1. The time; the 600th year of Noah, of the world 1656, on the 17th day of the ſecond month. And as we ſuppoſe the earth was created with the ripe fruit upon it, the ſecond month ſhould anſwer our November: ſo that Noah had time to collect his harveſt, and make proviſion for his long voyage. Note, Noah was an old man: the oldeſt ſaints muſt expect their trials to the lateſt day; and as they are veterans in the ſervice, they are the better prepared for it.

2. The manner. Two cauſes are aſſigned; the deeps broken up, and the windows of heaven opened. When God pleaſes to avenge his quarrel, all creatures above, below, around us, are ready inſtruments for his judgments.

(1.) The fountains of the great deep were broken up. The earth is founded upon the floods; its bowels contain enough to deſtroy it, if God lets looſe the waters from their priſons. (2.) The windows of heaven were opened: the clouds poured down inceſſant torrents, forty days and nights; and from theſe concurrent cauſes, the earth ſunk as a ſtone in the mighty waters. Learn here, (1.) The greateſt bleſſings may quickly be made the heavieſt judgments. (2.) To look beyond ſecond cauſes to the firſt. If floods deluge, or earthquakes ſwallow up, or fires conſume, there is one who gives each element its commiſſion, and each judgment its orders. (3.) That there are within the earth, as in the heavens above, ſtorehouſes of fire, as well as water; and that this world is doomed one day to experience their fatal influence. Be it our care then to ſecure a covert from the impending ſtorm, in him who is the only refuge; and then, When thou paſſeſt through the waters, they ſhall not overflow thee; and when thou walkeſt through the fire, thou ſhalt not be burnt. Iſa. xliii. 2.

13. In the ſelf-ſame day entred Noah, and Shem, and Ham, and Japheth, the ſons of Noah, and Noah's wife, and the three wives of his ſons with them, into the ark. 14. They, and every beaſt after his kind, and all the cattle after their kind, and every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth after his kind, and every fowl after his kind, every bird of every * ſort. 15. And they went in unto Noah into the ark, two and two of all fleſh, wherein is the breath of life. 16. And they that went in, went in male and female of all fleſh, as God had commanded him: and the LORD ſhut him in.

* Heb. Wing.

v. 13—16. We have a repetition of the care God took of Noah and his family; and, 1. It is particularly obſerved, that his three ſons were no polygamiſts; they were content with one wife: and no batchelors, againſt the ordinance of God. It appears to be God's will (ſome ſpecial caſes excepted), that every man ſhould have a wife, as it is evident he ſhould have but one.

2. That God ſhut them in.

(1.) He brought them in; Noah by his grace, and the creatures by his power, reſtraining their mutual enmities for a time. Note, 1. If ever we come into the ark, we muſt think to whom we are indebted for it. By grace ye are ſaved. 2. Not the reſtraints of ſin for a ſeaſon, but the ſubdual of ſin in the heart, is the proof of a change of nature.

(2.) He kept them in, ſafe amidſt the ſurrounding floods. The ſoul which God calls, he keeps; for his gifts and callings are without repentance, Rom. xi. 29. He ſhut them in, as ſeparate from the wicked world. Thoſe that are Chriſt's people, though in the world, are not of the world, but choſen out of the world, and in affection and temper ſeparated from the world.

(3.) In ſhutting them in, he ſhut all the world out. No doubt, when they began to ſee the lowring clouds, and the riſing waters, then they were importunate enough for that admiſſion they had ſlighted. But it is too late to cry, Open unto us, when the door is ſhut. Note, (1.) This is the day of ſalvation. Chriſt is a willing Saviour, and his arms of mercy are ſtretched out, to ſave the vileſt ſinner from the wrath of God. He that cometh to him now, ſhall be in no wiſe caſt out. (2.) If men neglect the day of mercy, it will be too late to come when it is the day of judgment. It muſt be now, or never.

17. And the flood was forty days upon the earth: and the waters increaſed, and bare up the ark, and it was lift up above the earth. 18. And the waters prevailed, and were increaſed greatly upon the earth: and the ark went upon the face of the waters. 19. And the waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth; and all the high hills, that were under the whole heaven, were covered. 20. Fifteen cubits upward did the waters prevail; and the mountains were covered.

v. 17—20. Now the waters prevail. He that begins will make an end. We have,

1. Noah's ſafety. The ark was lifted up above the earth. Note, (1.) The church of Chriſt will ſwim, when its enemies ſhall ſink like lead in the mighty waters. (2.) The increaſe of the waters raiſed it the higher above the earth, and the nearer heaven. See the ſanctified uſe of afflictions.

2. The riſing of the waters above every hill and mountain, fifteen cubits. The ſinners, no doubt, fled to theſe refuges, hoping to find the waters abate; and driven at laſt to the utmoſt verge, with trembling hearts felt its approach to their bodies, and the vanity of all their efforts to ſtem the dreadful tide. There is no ſecurity for the ſoul who is out of Chriſt: every refuge to him is a refuge of lies.

21. And [e] all fleſh died that moved upon the earth, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of beaſt, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, and every man. 22. All in whoſe noſtrils was * the breath of life, of all that was in the dry land, died. 23. And every living ſubſtance was deſtroyed, which was upon the face of the ground, both man, and cattle, and the creeping things, and the fowl of the heaven; and they were deſtroyed from the earth: and [f] Noah only remained alive, and they that were with him in the ark. 24. And the waters prevailed upon the earth an hundred and fifty days.

[e] Luke xvii. 27. Wiſd. x. 4.

* Heb. The breath of the ſpirit of life.

[f] Wiſd. x. 4. 2 Pet. ii. 5. iii. 6.

v. 21—24. Behold the dreadful ſcene; what ravages are made on the earth! See its inhabitants ſwept away with the beſom of deſtruction. They are all dead corpſes floating upon the waters. How awful, how ſudden the ſurprize! when eating and drinking, building, marrying, and in the height of the bridal feaſt, to hear the craſh of elements, to ſee the wreck of nature, and a diſſolving world. In vain they cry, in vain they climb, in vain they intreat; every avenue is ſhut up, and eſcape impoſſible; whilſt Noah, ſecure in the divine protection, ſwims in ſafety, and ſleeps in peace. See,

1. How fearful a thing it is to fall into the hands of the living God. Sinner, read and tremble; a more fearful doom awaits thee, except thou repent.

2. Though Noah's relations, or his carpenters, might plead their blood, or their labours, it will not procure them admittance. Ties of blood will be diſſolved in the judgment day, and not the work, but the temper will be regarded. Let miniſters beware; their ſucceſs is not their ſecurity.

3. Noah with his family lives alone, whilſt the world, more numerous probably than the preſent, periſhes without exception. Let no man then doubt of the fewneſs of thoſe who ſhall be ſaved. As it was in the days of Noah, it will be in the days of the ſon of man. Shall few then be ſaved? give thy diligence to be of that few.

4. Though Noah lives, he lives but in a melancholy ſituation: around him ſeas without a ſhore, and theſe overſpread with deſolation. Many, no doubt, near and dear to him were among the ſlain; and he could not but lament over what his preaching and prayers could not prevent. Note, It is a mercy if amidſt general viſitations we eſcape, like Job, with the ſkin of our teeth. Job xix. 20.

CHAP. VIII.

In the cloſe of the foregoing chapter we left the world in ruins, and the church in ſtraits, but in this chapter we have the repair of the one, and the enlargement of the other. 1. The increaſe of the waters is ſtayed, ver. 1, 2. 2. They begin ſenſibly to abate, ver. 3. 3. The ark reſts, ver. 4. 4. The tops of the mountains appear, ver. 5. 5. Noah begins to ſend out his ſpies, a raven and a dove, to gain intelligence, ver. 6—12. 6. The face of the earth dry, ver. 13, 14. 7. Noah's diſcharge and departure out of the ark, ver. 15—19. 8. His ſacrifice of praiſe, which he offered to God upon his enlargement, ver. 20. 9. God's acceptance of his ſacrifice; and the promiſe he made thereupon not to drown the world again, ver. 21, 22. And thus at length mercy rejoiceth againſt judgment.

1. AND God remembred Noah, and every living thing, and all the cattle that was with him in the ark: and God made a wind to paſs over the earth, and the waters aſſwaged. 2. The fountains alſo of the deep, and the windows of heaven were ſtopped, and the rain from heaven was reſtrained. 3. And the waters returned from off the earth * continually: and after [a] the end of the hundred and fifty days the waters were abated.

* Heb. In going and returning.

[a] Chap. vii. 24.

v. 1, 2, 3. Since the work of vengeance was finiſhed, it was time to remember mercy to Noah, now ſo long a priſoner in the ark, and perhaps by this time looking with ſome ſollicitude for releaſe from his confinement. It is ſaid,

Before Chriſt 2349.

1. God remembered Noah; not that he had been ever forgotten of him; but for a time he left him, without any ſpecial token of his remembrance. Note, Though the faithful ſeem at ſome ſeaſons to be forſaken, and begin to ſay, My God hath forgotten; yet are his eyes ever upon them to do them good; if he tarry therefore, wait for him: none ever truſted on him, and was aſhamed.

2. He remembered the cattle alſo. His mercies are over all his works: he careth for beaſts that periſh, and ſhall he forget or forſake his people? that be far from him.

3. The evidence of his remembrance. He ſtayed the waters from flowing. (1.) He ſent a wind, to dry up the floods. He hath winds in his treaſures, as well as waters, to dry up, as well as to deluge. All things ſerve him. (2.) He ſtopped the windows of heaven, and the fountains of the deep. Note, When afflictive providences have accompliſhed their ends, they ſhall be removed. (3.) He cauſed the waters to return from off the earth continually; part ſhut up within its bowels, in the vaſt abyſs, part exhaled by ſun and wind, and reaſcending into the clouds. (4.) It was a work of time, an hundred and fifty days, before they were conſiderably abated. Note, When our trials are long, and our deliverance ſlow, we had need pray: hold out faith and patience.

4. And the ark reſted in the ſeventh month, on the ſeventeenth day of the month, upon the mountains of Ararat. 5. And the waters * decreaſed continually until the tenth month: in the tenth month, on the firſt day of the month, were the tops of the mountains ſeen.

* Heb. Were in going and decreaſing.

v. 4, 5. After toſſing on theſe billows, at laſt the ark reſts on Ararat. Note, Though the church ſuffers long in this tempeſtuous world, it ſhall reſt at laſt upon the mount of God. It was two months after they felt ground, before the mountains were ſeen. They looked out, no doubt, every day, and wiſhed for dry land; at laſt, with joy it appears. Life is a long voyage; in age, or ſickneſs, the believer perceives he draws near the ſhore; and when death's ſhadows are ſtretching over him, he begins to diſcover the happy land of glory beyond the grave, as the morning ſpread upon the mountains.

6. And it came to paſs at the end of forty days, that Noah opened the window of the ark which he had made. 7. And he ſent forth a raven, which * went forth to and fro, until the waters were dried up from off the earth.

* Heb. In going forth and returning.

v. 6, 7. He was told when the flood ſhould come, but not when it ſhould abate. He begins now therefore to open the window, after forty days: perhaps he feared to expoſe himſelf ſooner to the waters. He felt himſelf ſafe where he was. It is folly to expoſe ourſelves to needleſs danger. A raven is then ſent out, but returned not to the ark with any intelligence: the carcaſſes of the dead ſupplied it with food. Note, A carnal mind takes more pleaſure in the carrion of the world, than the food of the ark.

8. Alſo he ſent forth a dove from him, to ſee if the waters were abated from off the face of the ground. 9. But the dove found no reſt for the ſoul of her foot, and ſhe returned unto him into the ark: for the waters were on the face of the whole earth. Then he put forth his hand, and took her, and † pulled her in unto him into the ark. 10. And he ſtayed yet other ſeven days, and again he ſent forth the dove out of the ark. 11. And the dove came in to him in the evening, and lo, in her mouth was an olive leaf plucked off: So Noah knew that the waters were abated from off the earth. 12. And he ſtayed yet other ſeven days, and ſent forth the dove; which returned not again unto him any more.

† Heb. Cauſed her to come.

v. 8—12. Noah's ſollicitude induces him to ſend out another meſſenger, a dove. Note, Taking proper means to be relieved, is very conſiſtent with perfect reſignation. She returns at firſt empty, then with an olive-leaf, at laſt no more. Learn, 1. The world of ſin can afford no reſt to a gracious ſoul for the ſole of his foot. This is not thy reſt; it is polluted. 2. The olive-branch of the goſpel declares God's waters of wrath are aſſwaged. 3. When God's time is come, then ſhall we leave the ark of the church on earth, and fly away, and be at reſt in the boſom of Jeſus.

2348.

13. ¶ And it came to paſs in the ſix hundredth and firſt year, in the firſt month, the firſt day of the month, the waters were dried up from off the earth: and Noah removed the covering of the ark, and looked, and behold, the face of the ground was dry. 14. And in the ſecond month, on the ſeven and twentieth day of the month, was the earth dried.

Before Chriſt 2348.

v. 13, 14. On the firſt day of the new year he ventured to remove the covering, and behold, (and a matter of praiſe no doubt it was) the ground was dry. He did not leave the ark thereupon, but waited God's call to come out, as he had it to go in. Note, God's time is the beſt time, and now that time is come.

15. ¶ And God ſpake unto Noah, ſaying, 16. Go forth of the ark, thou, and thy wife, and thy ſons, and thy ſons wives with thee. 17. Bring forth with thee every living thing that is with thee, of all fleſh, both of fowl, and of cattle, and of every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth; that they may breed abundantly in the earth, and [b] be fruitful and multiply upon the earth.

[b] Chap. i. 22.

v. 15, 16, 17. Not a day is he confined more than is needful for him. When the ground is fit for his abode, God ſends to deliver him from his confinement. They are ſure always of being in the right, who do nothing without the divine warrant. And now the earth is renewed, the bleſſing is renewed alſo. It will be a wretched world, deſolate as it is; but God will repleniſh it for Noah's uſe. Note, They that ſerve him ſhall want no manner of thing which is good.

18. And Noah went forth, and his ſons, and his wife, and his ſons wives with him: 19. Every beaſt, every creeping thing, and every fowl, and whatſoever creepeth upon the earth, after their * kinds, went forth out of the ark.

* Heb. Families.

v. 18, 19. He obeys as ſoon as called. More than a year he had been now confined, yet all was ſafe and well, of his numerous families. It does not appear that one was miſſing. Note, Thoſe who are ſafe lodged in Chriſt, are ſafe for eternity; there is no death there.

20. And Noah builded an altar unto the LORD, and took of every clean beaſt, and of every clean fowl, and offered burnt-offerings on the altar.

v. 20. The firſt concern of a gracious ſoul is to praiſe God for his mercies. Noah's firſt building is an altar, and his employment a ſacrifice of thankſgiving. His ſtock of clean beaſts and fowl was ſmall, and one out of ſeven might be thought much; but Noah knew they would never be diminiſhed by ſuch a uſe of them. Note. No man was ever the poorer for what he employed in God's ſervice, nor the richer by what he defrauded it of.

21. And the LORD ſmelled a † ſweet ſavour, and the LORD ſaid in his heart, I will not again curſe the ground any more for mans ſake; ‡ for [c] the imagination of mans heart is evil from his youth: neither will I again ſmite any more every thing living, as I have done. 22. ‖ While the earth remaineth, ſeed-time and harveſt, and cold and heat, and ſummer and winter, and [d] day and night ſhall not ceaſe.

† Heb. A ſavour of reſt.
‡ Or though.
[c] Chap. vi. 5. Matt. xv. 19.
‖ Heb. As yet all the days of the earth.
[d] Jer. xxxiii. 20, 25.

v. 21, 22. A grateful heart is that ſacrifice wherewith God is ever well pleaſed. The Lord accepts his ſervice, and bleſſes him in return abundantly.

1. The ſmell of the ſacrifice is a ſweet ſavour: it was the figure of that, in which God hath ſince declared he is well pleaſed. It is for Chriſt's ſake alone, that any of our ſervices are offerings of a ſweet ſmell.

2. God's gracious promiſe: I will no more curſe the ground, &c. Though man will be ſtill a ſinner, theſe floods ſhall not return. Note, It is a ſignal mercy to be aſſured from the return of judgment.

3. The reaſon given: For the imagination of man's heart is evil from his youth. It would ſeem this was rather a reaſon for the curſe. No; there would be no end of deluges, if this were the caſe; and they would not mend the matter. Waſh the Ethiopian in all theſe waters, he will be an Ethiopian ſtill. Note, God remembers whereof we are made, and pities us; he is under a covenant of patience with all, but he is under a covenant of peace with many.

4. While the earth remaineth, the regular ſucceſſions of ſeaſons ſhall continue, and meet with no ſuch dire interruptions! In virtue of this declaration, they abide unto this day, a confirmation to our faith in better promiſes. He that eſtabliſhes the covenant of the day and the night, will ſurely be found faithful in that everlaſting covenant he hath eſtabliſhed with his people.

CHAP.

Before Chriſt 2348.

CHAP. IX.

Both the world and the church were now again reduced to a family, the family of Noah, of the affairs of which this chapter gives us an account. Here is, 1. The covenant of providence ſettled with Noah and his ſons, ver. 1—11. God promiſeth, (1.) They ſhould repleniſh the earth, ver. 1—7. (2.) They ſhould be ſafe from the inſults of the brute creatures, which ſhould ſtand in awe of them, ver. 2. (3.) They ſhould be allowed to eat fleſh for the ſupport of their lives, only they muſt not eat blood, ver. 3, 4. (4.) The world ſhould never be drowned again, ver. 8—11. (5.) God requires of them to take care of one anothers lives, and of their own, ver. 5, 6. 2. The ſeal of that covenant, viz. the rainbow, ver. 12—17. 3. Noah's ſin and ſhame, ver. 20, 21. 4. Ham's impudence and impiety, ver. 22. 5. The pious modeſty of Shem and Japhet, ver. 23. 6. The curſe of Canaan, and the bleſſing of Shem and Japhet, ver. 24—27. 7. The age and death of Noah, ver. 28, 29.

1. AND God bleſſed Noah and his ſons, and ſaid unto them, [a] Be fruitful, and multiply, and repleniſh the earth. 2. And the fear of you and the dread of you ſhall be upon every beaſt of the earth, and upon every fowl of the air, upon all that moveth upon the earth, and upon all the fiſhes of the ſea; into your hand are they delivered. 3. [b] Every moving thing that liveth ſhall be meat for you; even as [c] the green herb have I given you all things: 4. But [d] fleſh with the life thereof, which is the blood thereof, ſhall you not eat. 5. And ſurely your blood of your lives will I require: at [e] the hand of every beaſt will I require it; and [f] at the hand of man, at the hand of every mans brother will I require the life of man. 6. [g] Whoſo ſheddeth mans blood, by man ſhall his blood be ſhed: for [h] in the image of God made he man. 7. And you, [i] be ye fruitful, and multiply, bring forth abundantly in the earth, and multiply therein.

[a] Chap. i. 28. xxxv. 11.
[b] 1 Tim. iv. 3.
[c] Chap. i. 29.
[d] Lev. xvii. 14. xix. 26. Deut. xii. 23. Acts xv. 20.
[e] Exod. xxi. 28.
[f] Pſal. ix. 12.
[g] Exod. xxi. 12. Levit. xxiv. 17. Matt. xxvi. 52. Rev. xiii. 10.
[h] Chap. i. 26, 28. 1 Cor. xi. 9.
[i] Chap. i. 28. v. 2.

v. 1—7. We have here God's gracious dealings with Noah, the great gifts beſtowed on him, and the charge enjoined him.

1. He bleſſed him. This is worth all the reſt, and what makes every gift truly valuable: For the bleſſing of the Lord it maketh rich. (1.) It was a ſpiritual benediction; an aſſurance of grace and favour. (2.) It was a temporal benediction. They ſhould increaſe and multiply. They were few men left, but in virtue of this, one ſhall quickly become a thouſand. Note, Children and the fruit of the womb are an heritage and gift that cometh of the Lord.

2. He beſtows the property of, and gives them dominion over, the creatures. If the ox and horſe ſerve us with their ſtrength, we muſt remember who put them under our feet. If the wild beaſts, when unprovoked, rather fly from, than purſue us, it is becauſe God hath put the dread of us upon them. Were God only to let looſe the animal creation upon us, we ſhould quickly be deſtroyed.

3. He permits us meat for our ſuſtenance. Before the flood, animal food was either unneceſſary, or forbidden: now we may ſlay and eat. Note, Before we partake of the mercy at our tables daily, let us not forget to acknowledge the gift, and to adore the gracious giver.

4. The charges enjoined. (1.) Concerning the beaſts. They muſt not not eat the blood; that is, not eat the fleſh raw, with the blood in it: and herein man's own health and comfort were conſulted: or it had reſpect to the blood of atonement in the ſacrifices, and therefore whilſt they continued to be offered, it muſt not be looked upon as a common thing. This reaſon no longer ſubſiſting, the law is abrogated; only as ſome ſcrupulous minds ſtill refrain, let not him that eateth deſpiſe him that eateth not; and let not him that eateth not, judge him that eateth.

(2.) Concerning men. 1. No man has a right over his own life, nor may quit it at will: he holds it from God. Note, Self-murder is among the greateſt of crimes. 2. The beaſt which kills a man muſt die; ſuch care hath God over us: and he who knowingly keeps a dangerous or miſchievous beaſt, is acceſſary to the murder. 3. The man who murders another, muſt ſuffer death for death. God requires it of the magiſtrate to execute judgment; and whatever other crimes kings may pardon, I queſtion whether this be not an excepted caſe. But ſhould the murderer, by cunning or power, eſcape the ſword of human juſtice, God will require it at his hand. The day is near, when craft cannot conceal, nor power protect the guilty. The reaſon given is, the image of God in which he was created. Though we are fallen creatures, and have loſt our original glory, yet ſo much dignity remains in the ruins, as ſuffices to ſhew the grandeur of the palace.

8. ¶ And God ſpake unto Noah, and to his ſons with him, ſaying, 9. And I, [k] behold I eſtabliſh my covenant with you, and with your ſeed after you; 10. And with every living creature that is with you, of the fowl, of the cattle, and of every beaſt of the earth with you, from all that go out of the ark, to every beaſt of the earth. 11. And I will eſtabliſh my covenant with you, neither ſhall all fleſh be cut off any more by the waters of a flood: neither ſhall there any more be a flood to deſtroy the earth.

Before Chriſt 2348.

[k] Ver. 11, 12. Iſa. liv. 9.

v. 8—11. We had the covenant promiſed before, I will eſtabliſh: we have it here confirmed; I, behold I do eſtabliſh it with you, and your ſeed after you. Note, 1. God's covenants conſiſt of promiſes: as man can do nothing for himſelf, God engages to do all for him: nay, what he demands from him, he promiſes to work in him. 2. Children may be as much living members of this covenant as their parents: for it is for them as well as us. 3. The fulfilment of the promiſes in the covenant, depends on the faithfulneſs of God, and therefore we may be confident that they are ſure mercies. The ſpecial contents of it are, the preſervation of the living creatures, and the earth. The ſea now flows; but God ſaith, hitherto ſhalt thou come, and no further. The rain deſcends, but the clouds now are quickly wearied of waterings, Job xxxvii. 11. Though the world be wicked as before, we ſhall not be deſtroyed as before. But let no preſumptuous ſinner deceive himſelf, becauſe this judgment is with-held: there are other arrows in God's quiver, and ſecretly ſhall he ſhoot at them, and they ſhall be wounded.

12. And God ſaith, This is the token of the covenant which I make between me, and you, and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations: 13. I do ſet my bow in the cloud, and it ſhall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth. 14. And [l] it ſhall come to paſs, when I bring a cloud over the earth, that the bow ſhall be ſeen in the cloud: 15. And I will remember my covenant, which is between me, and you, and every living creature of all fleſh: and the waters ſhall no more become a flood to deſtroy all fleſh. 16. And the bow ſhall be in the cloud; and I will look upon it, that I may remember the everlaſting covenant between God and every living creature of all fleſh that is upon the earth. 17. And God ſaid unto Noah, This is the token of the covenant, which I have eſtabliſhed between me and all fleſh that is upon the earth.

[l] Ecclus xliii. 11, 12.

v. 12—17. The covenant is now ſigned and ſealed by a viſible token, the rainbow. A glorious object, and a conſtant aſſurance of God's remembrance of us, and of our ſecurity from the deſcending waters. Note, 1. As we are apt to be affected with viſible objects; God therefore, not only in the covenant of nature, but of grace, hath inſtituted viſible ſigns for our greater comfort and confidence. 2. The darker the ſky, the brighter the bow: the more the danger ſeems to threaten, the more ſhall the people of God be ſupported. 3. The cauſe of the bow in the clouds, is the refraction of the beams of the ſun. Jeſus, the ſun of Righteouſneſs, ſits with the rainbow round about his throne, and therefore his people are ſafe from fear of evil. 4. The ſign of our ſecurity in the cloud, ſhould ever awaken our thankfulneſs, and lead up our minds from temporal promiſes thus fulfilled, to conclude the certainty of the eternal promiſes, that are yet in hope.

2347.

18. ¶ And the ſons of Noah that went forth of the ark, were Shem, and Ham, and Japheth; and Ham is the father of Canaan. 19. Theſe are the three ſons of Noah: and of them was the whole earth overſpread. 20. And Noah began to be an huſbandman, and he planted a vineyard. 21. And he drank of the wine, and was drunken, and he was uncovered within his tent.

v. 18—21. We have an account of Noah's return to his buſineſs, and of his grievous and ſhameful fall.

1. He was now an old man, and all his family were theſe three ſons, men, and able to work for him, but he will not be idle himſelf. He began with ploughing and planting, to repair the waſte the flood had made. Whilſt we are in the world, we have always ſomething to do; the miſery is when we are going out of it, the heart is often more attached to it, and we grow moſt men of the earth (as the Hebrew word, huſbandman, ſignifies) when we are dropping into the grave.

2. His vineyard proved his ſnare. Inſtead of uſing its produce to the glory of God, and the refreſhment of his body, he abuſed it by intemperance, to the diſhonour of both. 1. He was drunk; it was a ſad return for late mercies; and a dreadful ſymptom of miſerable corruption, which abode even in thoſe who eſcaped the general deſtruction. Learn hence, (1.) A good

Before Chriſt 2347.

good man may be overtaken in a fault; and though it ſhall make him ſuffer, it ſhall not utterly deſtroy him. (2.) See what is the perfection we can expect in man; leſs or more, ſin will cleave to us. (3.) When we leaſt expect danger, we may be moſt eaſily ſurprized: no doubt, when Noah began to drink wine, he never intended to be drunk with it. (4.) Whilſt we enjoy the creatures richly, let us uſe them temperately; elſe ſhall our joy be quickly turned into ſorrow. 2. He was uncovered; expoſed himſelf to every eye, an old man, a patriarch, a father, a prieſt, a prophet: what a ſhame! How ſad are the conſequences, as well as how great the ſin of drunkenneſs! (1.) It is moſt ſhameful and ſhameleſs: a man who is drunk has no reſtraint of decency; he is ſhocking to others, and when he knows his words and works, muſt be ſhocked at himſelf. (2.) He is fit for every wickedneſs; and having loſt reſtraint, only wants temptation to plunge into any crime. Luſt, quarrels, murders, are the genuine offspring of drunkenneſs. (3.) He is under no reſerve; he can betray his friend, or ruin himſelf; he is open to every impoſition, and inſenſible to every conſequence.

ᵐ Chap. x. vi.

22. And ᵐ Ham the father of Canaan ſaw the nakedneſs of his father, and told his two brethren without. 23. And Shem and Japheth took a garment, and laid it upon both their ſhoulders, and went backward, and covered the nakedneſs of their father; and their faces were backward, and they ſaw not their fathers nakedneſs.

v. 22, 23. We have here the different conduct of Noah's ſons on the occaſion.

1. Ham's undutifulneſs and impiety. He was rather pleaſed than grieved at what he ſaw; derided, rather than compaſſionated his unhappy father; and publiſhed, inſtead of concealing his ſhame. Note, 1. It is a ſure proof of a wicked heart, when ever we can be pleaſed with others ſins. 2. Our father's ſhame is our own, and he muſt be a bad bird indeed that defiles his own neſt. 3. How particularly careful ſhould parents be? a drunken father, can with no ſhadow of reaſon expect ſobriety or modeſty in his ſon.

2. Shem and Japheth's tenderneſs: they will not ſee it themſelves; they would conceal it from others. 1. Love will cover the ſins of our neighbour. 2. Duty and reverence for our parents or ſuperiors, will make us twice careful to conceal their faults.

24. And Noah awoke from his wine, and knew what his younger ſon had done unto him. 25. And he ſaid, Curſed be Canaan; a ſervant of ſervants ſhall he be unto his brethren. 26. And he ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD God of Shem; and Canaan ſhall be † his ſervant. 27. God ſhall ‡ enlarge Japheth, and he ſhall dwell in the tents of Shem; and Canaan ſhall be his ſervant.

† Or ſervant to them.
‡ Or perſuade.

v. 24—27. He awoke. 'Tis mercy, when he ſlept the ſleep of ſin, he did not ſleep the ſleep of death; but God reſtored him not only to his ſenſes, but his favour. He foretels the future condition of his children.

1. A curſe on Ham and his deſcendants for his wickedneſs. The Canaanites felt the effect of this 800 years after, when the Jews, Shem's poſterity, either deſtroyed or reduced them to the moſt abject ſervitude. Learn hence, 1. Though God's curſes are long delayed, yet they will take effect at laſt. 2. That bad fathers entail God's viſitations on the children brought up in their wicked ways. How dreadful a ſcene in the day of judgment, to have children's blood required at their ungodly parents hands.

2. The bleſſing on Shem and Japheth.

1. On Shem. (1.) Spiritual bleſſings. The Lord is his God, and more than all is comprized in this. That man, that houſe, that people muſt needs be bleſſed, who have the Lord for their God. (2.) Temporal bleſſings; Canaan ſhall be his ſervant. Though the people of God expect not their kingdom in this world, they ſhall have enough of it; and by and by they ſhall rule over the nations with a rod of iron, Rev. ii. 27.

2. On Japheth. (1.) An enlargement of territory. His poſterity peopled Europe; great part of Aſia, and probably America. (2.) His dwelling in the tents of Shem. His partaking of the ſpiritual benediction with him. The Gentiles were to be converted, and united to the Iſrael of God. (3.) Canaan muſt ſerve him too. In virtue of which, his poſterity ſucceſſively were ſubdued by Aſſyrians, Chaldeans, Grecians, and Romans. Note, 1. 'Tis not dwelling in large tents, but in God's tents, is the valuable mercy. 2. Though Shem had the bleſſing firſt, yet, bleſſed be God, Japheth's ſpiritual border is now moſt enlarged: thus the laſt ſhall be firſt.

1998. 28. ¶ And Noah lived after the flood three hundred and fifty years. 29. And all the days of Noah were nine hundred and fifty years: and he died.

v. 28, 29. His long life was a great mercy to the world: his experience as a man could direct them in their worldly labour; but his preaching as a prophet, where his congregation were all his children too, would have a more bleſſed influence ſtill, to direct them to heaven. Having lived for God in two bad worlds, he now, no doubt, lives with God in a better.

Before Chriſt 1998.

CHAP. X.

This chapter ſhews more particularly what was ſaid in general, chap. ix. 19. concerning the three ſons of Noah, that of them was the whole earth overſpread. It is the only certain account extant of the original of nations, and yet perhaps there is no nation but that of the Jews that can be confident from which of theſe 70 fountains (for ſo many there are here) it derives its ſtreams. Through the want of early records, the mixtures of people, the revolutions of nations, and diſtance of time, the knowledge of the lineal deſcent of the preſent inhabitants of the earth is loſt; nor were any genealogies preſerved but thoſe of the Jews for the ſake of the Meſſiah; only in this chapter we have a brief account, 1. Of the poſterity of Japheth, ver. 2—5. 2. The poſterity of Ham, ver. 6—20. and in that, particular notice taken of Nimrod, ver. 8, 9. 3. The poſterity of Shem, ver. 23. to the end.

1. NOW theſe are the generations of the ſons of Noah; Shem, Ham, and Japheth: and unto them were ſons born after the flood. 2. ᵃ The ſons of Japheth; Gomer, and Magog, and Madai, and Javan, and Tubal, and Meſhech, and Tiras. 3. And the ſons of Gomer; Aſhkenaz, and Riphath, and Togarmah. 4. And the ſons of Javan; Eliſhah, and Tarſhiſh, Kittim, and Dodanim. 5. By theſe were the iſles of the Gentiles divided in their lands; every one after his tongue, after their families, in their nations.

ᵃ 1 Chron. i. 5.

Japheth's family. The places beyond the ſea, with regard to Judea, are called iſles. Each man had his lot. Bleſſed be God, we of this happy iſland, diſtinguiſhed for mercies, though deſcendants of Japheth, dwell now in the tents of Shem.

6. ¶ ᵇ And the ſons of Ham; Cuſh, and Mizraim, and Phut, and Canaan. 7. And the ſons of Cuſh; Seba, and Havilah, and Sabtah, and Raamah, and Sabtecha: and the ſons of Raamah; Sheba, and Dedan. 8. And Cuſh begat Nimrod: he began to be a mighty one in the earth. 9. He was a mighty hunter before the LORD: wherefore it is ſaid, Even as Nimrod the mighty hunter before the LORD. 10. And ᶜ the beginning of his kingdom was Babel, and Erech, and Accad, and Calneh, in the land of Shinar, 11. Out of that land † went forth Aſhur, and builded Nineveh, and ‡ the city Rehoboth, and Calah, 12. And Reſen, between Nineveh and Calah: the ſame is a great city. 13. And Mizraim begat Ludim, and Anamim, and Lehabim, and Naphtuhim. 14. And Pathruſim, and Caſluhim, (out of whom came Philiſtim) and Caphtorim.

ᵇ 1 Chron. i. 8.
About 2218.
ᶜ Mich. v. 6.
† Or he went out into Aſſyria.
‡ Or the ſtreets of the city.

v. 6—14. The family of Ham. Bad, it is to be feared, as their father: though one only of his deſcendants is remarked upon, Nimrod, i. e. Rebellion. One who became haughty and tyrannical to a proverb. He was, 1. A great hunter: beaſts abounded; it was a good ſchool for war to purſue them. Thus, from a ſportſman, he was fitted for a conqueror. The firſt hunter was a bad man: how many have ſince followed his example. 2. He ſet up for a king. The government before ſeems to have been patriarchal, but his pride is not ſatisfied with one houſe, or one city. Pride is a reſtleſs ſin, and can never be ſatisfied. 3. His farther increaſe: much will have more: he built again. Note, When the ſpirit of building is in a man, he cannot keep his feet out of the mortar: this is one of the vanities under the ſun.

15. ¶ And Canaan begat Sidon his firſt-born, and Heth, 16. And the Jebuſite, and the Emorite, and the Girgaſite, 17. And the Hivite, and the Arkite, and the Sinite, 18. And the Arvadite, and the Zemarite, and the Hamathite: and afterward were the families of the Canaanites ſpread abroad. 19. And the border of the Canaanites was from Sidon, as thou comeſt to Gerar, unto Gaza; as thou goeſt unto Sodom and Gomorrah, and Admah, and Zeboim, even unto Laſhah. 20. Theſe are the ſons of Ham, after their families, after their tongues, in their countries, and in their nations.

v. 15—20. Canaan's being the family which Iſrael had moſt concern with, it is more particularly mentioned. They had a goodly

Before Chriſt about 2247.

goodly portion, but they tilled it for others. Though the wicked proſper for a time, like the gourd of Jonah, yet whilſt the curſe of God is upon them, this worm at their root will by and by turn their glory into ſhame.

[d] 1 Chron. i. 17.
[e] Chap. xi. 12.
[f] 1 Chron. i. 19.

21. ¶ Unto Shem alſo the father of all the children of Eber, the brother of Japheth the elder, even to him were children born. 22. [d] The children of Shem; Elam, and Aſhur, and Arphaxad, and Lud, and Aram. 23. And the children of Aram; Uz, and Hul, and Gether, and Maſh. 24. And Arphaxad begat [e] Salah; and Salah begat Eber. 25. And [f] unto Eber were born two ſons: the name of one was Peleg, for in his days was the earth divided; and his brothers name was Joktan. 26. And Joktan begat Almodad, and Sheleph, and Hazarmaveth, and Jerah, 27. And Hadoram, and Uzal, and Diklah, 28. And Obal, and Abimael, and Sheba. 29. And Ophir, and Havilah, and Jobab: all theſe were the ſons of Joktan. 30. And their dwelling was from Meſha, and as thou goeſt unto Saphar, a mount of the eaſt. 31. Theſe are the ſons of Shem, after their families, after their tongues, in their lands, after their nations. 32. Theſe are the families of the ſons of Noah, after their generations, in their nations: and by theſe were the nations divided in the earth after the flood.

v. 21—32. Shem's poſterity. 1. He is called the father of the children of Eber, the Hebrews. It being his higheſt honour to be the head of that people whom God, of all nations, ſeparated for himſelf; and of whom as concerning the fleſh Chriſt came. Note, Goodneſs is the trueſt greatneſs. The father of a ſaint is more honourable than the father of a king. 2. The brother of Japhet the elder. Though Japhet be not firſt in the bleſſing, yet he is not excluded from it. Note, It is a happy thing for brothers to be united by grace as by blood. 3. Peleg's name is remarked: it ſignifies diviſion; and it ſeems to be given him on account of that confuſion of tongues, which, when he was born, began. Note, In the true church of God, the name of Peleg may be had in ſad remembrance. What faithful heart can behold our diviſions, without grief and ſorrow. Oh that as we have one father, we had one houſe, and one heart!

CHAP. XI.

We have in this chapter, 1. The diſperſion of the ſons of men at Babel. (1.) The cauſe. Their preſumptuous deſign to build a city and a tower, &c. ver. 1—4. (2.) The righteous judgment of God upon them in diſappointing their deſign, by confounding their language, and ſo ſcattering them, ver. 5—9. 2. The pedigree of the ſons of God down to Abraham, ver. 10—26. with a general account of his family, and removal out of his native country, ver. 27. ad finem.

† Heb. Lip
‡ Heb. Words.
‖ Or eaſtward, as chap. xiii. 11. 2 Sam. vi. 2. with 1 Chron. xiii. 6.
† Heb. A man ſaid to his neighbour.
‡ Heb. Burn them to a burning.

1. AND the whole earth was of one † language, and of one ‡ ſpeech. 2. And it came to paſs as they journeyed ‖ from the eaſt, that they found a plain in the land of Shinar; and they dwelt there. 3. And † they ſaid one to another, Go to, let us make brick, and ‡ burn them throughly. And they had brick for ſtone, and ſlime had they for morter. 4. And they ſaid, Go to, let us build us a city and a tower, whoſe top may reach unto heaven, and let us make us a name, leſt we be ſcattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth.

v. 1—4. Though the diviſion of the earth had been made either by the appointment of God, or the wiſdom of Noah foreſeeing the increaſe of men, they were loth to ſeparate; and as they brought corruption out of the ark, as well as into it, now it appears abundantly in their daring attempt and deſign: We have here,

1. Their reſolution. To build a tower. Probably the metropolis of their kingdom: in order thus to be united under one viſible head, Nimrod their king, and hereby to procure themſelves a name to their lateſt poſterity; and by this alſo they hoped to prevent their diſperſion, and ſo diſappoint the purpoſed diviſion. Note, (1.) They who ſeek a great name by bad ways, will often find it, but ſtamped with infamy. (2.) When the preſumptuous ſinner, or the ſelf-ſufficient, build up their hopes of heaven higheſt, their confuſion is neareſt, and their ruin moſt inevitable. (3.) There is no counſel or might againſt the Lord; they who attempt to diſappoint his determination, only in the end cover themſelves with ſhame.

2. A ſpacious plain in the land of Shinar, where they dwelt, afforded them abundance, and unity of language united them in their deſigns. Note, Many a worldly heart is ſo pleaſed with his accommodations on earth, that here he would fain build his abode; and putting his name in this Shinar, look no farther.

3. The methods they purſued. 1. They encouraged each other. Go to. When people are unanimous, what can they not accompliſh! 2. They provided materials the moſt durable, and therefore promiſed themſelves ſucceſs in their undertaking. Learn hence, 1. The great help of united efforts: Shall the children of this world unite, and ſhall the children of God be divided? 2. Nothing ſo promiſing as to reſolve, and do; they ſet about the work immediately. To die only reſolving, as is the caſe of many, is never the way to build the tower that can reach to heaven.

[a] Chap. i. 26.
† i. e. Confuſion.
[b] Wiſd. x. 5.

5. And the LORD came down to ſee the city and the tower, which the children of men builded. 6. And the LORD ſaid, Behold, the people is one, and they have all one language; and this they begin to do: and now nothing will be reſtrained from them, which they have imagined to do. 7. Go to, [a] let us go down, and there confound their language, that they may not underſtand one anothers ſpeech. 8. So the LORD ſcattered them abroad from thence upon the face of all the earth: and they left off to build the city. 9. Therefore is the name of it called † Babel [b], becauſe the LORD did there confound the language of all the earth: and from thence did the LORD ſcatter them abroad upon the face of all the earth.

v. 5—9. The thing diſpleaſed the Lord. Therefore he comes down (ſpeaking after the manner of men) to ſee, and on the ſpot to judge concerning the undertaking.

We have here, 1. The name God gives theſe mighty workers, the children of men. The ſons of God in Eber's family had nothing to do with theſe daring rebels; but they had much to fear from them, and therefore they wiſely ſeparated. Note, 1. The children of men are children of vanity; fooliſh in their deſigns, and weak in their efforts againſt God. 2. They are children of corruption, wicked as well as weak; and therefore obnoxious to the divine diſpleaſure.

2. God's reſolution to confound their enterprize. He beheld their pride, but he is able to abaſe them; and if he ſuffers them to proceed, it is only to make his power more to appear, and their ſhame to be double. Learn, (1.) God does not always ſtop the ſinner in his mid career, but ſuffers him to go on and proſper, for many a long day; but mark the end of thoſe men. (2.) When the wicked ſay, Let us caſt off his bands, and break his cords from us, they are but forging their own chains. God mocks at the impotent attempt, and will make it appear as fooliſh as it is impious.

3. The method God took. He confounded their language; a method perfectly effectual to prevent the deſign: they could no longer join in counſel, nor obey command. Whenever he pleaſeth, he can as eaſily diſappoint the devices of the wicked, as he now divided their tongues. It was a mercy he viſited them no farther: had he ſaid, let us go down and conſume them utterly, he had been righteous; but he mingles mercy with judgment in this world: 'tis in the next where they will have judgment without mercy. But it was a heavy ſtroke on them and their poſterity; they were thus cut off from converſing with the people of God, as well as from all intercourſe with one another. The latter, perhaps, the moſt terrible diſappointment, but the former the heavier judgment.

4. The effect produced: they left off to build. It is high time to have done, when God ſtands againſt us. And diſperſed according to the diviſions allotted them: thus the very evil they would avoid, came upon them. The name they propoſed for honour, becomes Babel, confuſion; nor ever again will there be perfect unity on the earth. Note, (1.) The trouble we ſeek to avoid by unlawful means, will certainly come upon us more ſeverely, by the very methods we make uſe of to eſcape it. (2.) It is God's work to ſeparate as well as unite, and oftentimes he brings good out of evil: by the ſcattering of the church, Acts viii. 4. the goſpel was propagated; by the diſperſion of men, the earth was repleniſhed.

10. ¶ [c] Theſe are the generations of Shem: Shem was [c] Chap. x. 22. 1 Chron. i. 17.
an hundred years old, and begat Arphaxad two years after the flood. 11. And Shem lived after he begat Arphaxad five hundred years, and begat ſons and daughters. 12. 2346.
And Arphaxad lived five and thirty years, and begat Sa-lah. 13. And Arphaxad lived after he begat Salah four 2311.
hundred and three years, and begat ſons and daughters.
14. And Salah lived thirty years, and begat Eber. 15. 2281.
And Salah lived after he begat Eber four hundred and three years, and begat ſons and daughters. 16. And [d] [d] 1 Chron. i. 19.
Eber lived four and thirty years, and begat [e] Peleg. 17. [e] called Phalec. Luke iii. 35.
And Eber lived after he begat Peleg four hundred and Before Chriſt 2247. thirty years, and begat ſons and daughters. 18. And Peleg lived thirty years and begat Reu. 19. And Peleg 2217. lived after he begat Reu two hundred and nine years, 2185. and begat ſons and daughters. 20. And Reu lived two [f] Luke iii. and thirty years and begat [f] Serug. 21. And Reu lived 35. Saruch. after he begat Serug two hundred and ſeven years, and 2155. begat ſons and daughters. 22. And Serug lived thirty years, and begat Nahor. 23. And Serug lived after he begat Nahor two hundred years, and begat ſons and 2126. daughters. 24. And Nahor lived nine and twenty years, [g] Luke iii. and begat [g] Terah. 25. And Nahor lived after he be-

34. Thara. gat Terah an hundred and nineteen years, and begat 2056. [h] Joſh. xxiv. ſons and daughters. 26. And Terah lived ſeventy years,
2. 1 Chron. i. 26. and [h] begat Abram, Nahor, and Haran.

v. 10—26. The deſcendants of Shem to Abram the father of the faithful, are here recounted. This genealogy is preſerved for our ſakes, that we might ſee the fulfilment of God's promiſes in the woman's ſeed; among whoſe anceſtors Abram ſtands in ſo diſtinguiſhed a light. Note, The parts of ſcripture which ſeem leaſt practical, are not always leaſt uſeful. The genealogies which lead to Chriſt, are names of gold. It is obſervable, the age of men gradually decreaſed, whether from any phyſical cauſes after the flood, operating on their bodies, or God's immediate hand. It is a bleſſing now to us, that threeſcore years and ten are the limits: a ſoul that is ſeeking God, will count it enough to be ſo long confined in a ſinful world.

27. ¶ Now theſe are the generations of Terah: Terah begat Abram, Nahor, and Haran; and Haran begat 1996. Lot. 28. And Haran died before his father Terah, in the land of his nativity, in Ur of the Chaldees. 29. And Abram and Nahor took them wives; the name of Abrams wife was Sarai; and the name of Nahors wife
[i] Chap. xxii. [i] Milcah, the daughter of Haran, the father of Milcah,
20. and the father of Iſcah. 30. But [k] Sarai was barren; ſhe [k] Chap. xvi. 1, 2. & xviii. had no child. 31. And Terah took Abram his ſon, and 11, 12. Lot the ſon of Haran, his ſons ſon, and Sarai his daughter in law, his ſon Abrams wife; and they went forth [l] Neh. ix. 7. with them from [l] Ur of the Chaldees, to go into the land Judith v. 7. Acts vii. 4. of Canaan; and they came unto Haran, and dwelt there.
1923. 32. And the days of Terah were two hundred and five 1921. years: And Terah died in Haran.

v. 27—32. The account of Abram begins, ſo eminent in the ſucceeding hiſtory. We have mention made of,

1. His father, Terah, of whom it is ſaid he ſerved other Gods, Joſ. xxiv. 2. Idolatry came in betimes. It is the nature of fallen men to depart from the living God.

2. His brothers and family. Nahor, and Haran, the father of Lot, who died before Terah. Death gives no quarter to young or old. And Iſcah, perhaps the ſame as Sarai, afterwards his his wife, Chap. xxii. 12.

3. The country; Ur of the Chaldees, an idolatrous place; yet there dwelt the patriarchs. Note, 1. It is a miſerable thing to be born in a country of idolaters; it is worſe ſtill to live among them; and worſt of all, as Haran did, to die among them. 2. It behoves us much to enquire, if we are got out of the land of our nativity; for we are born in wickedneſs: better never have been born, than not to have removed from thence by being new born.

4. Their removal to Charran, where Terah died. Many reach Charran, who come not to Canaan; not far from the kingdom, but never enter it.

N. B. v. 26. Though Abram be here mentioned the firſt of Terah's children, yet it is probable that he was the youngeſt, and mentioned the firſt only by way of eminence, as Shem was before; becauſe he was to be the progenitor of our Lord. Certain it is, that he was not born this year: Haran moſt probably was. Abram was not born till 60 years afterwards; for he was but 75 years old when he left Haran or Charran, chap. xii. 4. and Terah was dead before he left it. V. 32. But from this year to Terah's death, were 135 years; therefore Abram muſt have been born in the 130th year of Terah's life, juſt 60 years from this year 2056.

CHAP. XII.

The pedigree and family of Abram we had an account of in the foregoing chapter; here the Holy Ghoſt enters upon his ſtory; from henceforward, Abram and his ſeed are almoſt the only ſubject of the ſacred hiſtory. In this chapter we have, 1. God's call of Abram to the land of Canaan, ver. 1, 2, 3. 2. Abram's obedience to this call, ver. 4, 5. 3. His welcome to the land of Canaan, ver. 6, 7, 8, 9. 4. His occaſional remove into Egypt, with an account of what happened to him there. Abram's flight and fault, ver. 10, 11, 12, 13. Sarai's danger and deliverance, ver. 14—20.

Before Chriſt 1921.

1. NOW [a] the LORD had ſaid unto Abram, Get [a] Chap. xv. 7. thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, Neh. ix. 7.
and from thy father's houſe, unto a land that I will ſhew Acts vii. 3. Heb. xi. 8.
thee. 2. And I will make of thee a great nation, and I [b] Chap. xxvii. will bleſs thee, and make thy name great; and thou ſhalt 29. Exod. xxiii. 22.
be a bleſſing. 3. And [b] I will bleſs them that bleſs thee, Numb. xxiv. 9.
and curſe him that curſeth thee: and [c] in thee ſhall all [c] Chap. xviii.
families of the earth be bleſſed. 18. & xxii. 18. & xxvi 4. Pſal. lxxii. 17. Acts iii. 25. Gal. iii. 8.

v. 1, 2, 3. God had appeared unto Abram, in Ur of the Chaldees, and warned him out of that land. In obedience to the heavenly viſion, he had come as far as Charran or Haran, where his father died, and now he muſt proceed on his journey. Though not knowing whither he went, he followed God, and then he knew he was ſafe. Note, God will not ſuffer his people to take up their reſt any where ſhort of heaven; if they are making a home of the houſe of their pilgrimage, he will warn them to remove. We have here,

1. God's command; and a trying one it was: to leave his country, to part with his deareſt friends, to forſake his poſſeſſions, and to follow God, without ſo much as aſking him whither he would lead him; but it was a matter become highly neceſſary. He dwelt in an idolatrous houſe; it was time for him to fly, leſt he be infected with their ſins. Now muſt he prove his faith in, and love of God, by an implicit obedience, and a chearful forſaking all to follow God. Behold, in the conduct of Abram, the duty of every faithful ſoul. (1.) To give himſelf up entirely to be guided by the word of God. (2.) To renounce the deareſt relations, and to become ſtrange to his own houſe, when the glory of the Redeemer requires it. (3.) To part with the world always in affection, and to live in it with a diſpoſition to leave it, or loſe it chearfully, whenever God calls. (4.) To forſake the ways of ſin, and the companions in ſin, and to have no fellowſhip with the unfruitful works of darkneſs. (5.) To make no heſitation about the conſequences, but to leave them in God's hand.

2. God's promiſe to encourage him. He requires nothing from him, but he will amply repay him for it: but for this, he muſt be truſted. Accordingly, here is every imaginable bleſſing ſet before him: (1.) He ſhould be a great nation. Though he was old, and his wife barren, God would bleſs him, and make his ſeed as the ſtars of heaven. (2.) He would make his name great: though he was a ſtranger, and unknown, his fame ſhould riſe above the kings of the earth. (3.) He ſhould be a bleſſing to all around him; and the lateſt ages ſhould call him bleſſed, and be the better for him. (4.) God would bleſs his friends, and curſe his enemies; ſo that he would, as it were, ſhare his weal and woe with him, and be his portion and ſhield. And (5.) Above all, from him ſhould the Meſſiah come, to bleſs all nations. Note, 1. The heirs of Abraham's faith ſhall inherit his bleſſing. (1.) They ſhall be great, made kings unto God. 2. Their name ſhall be written in the book of life of the lamb. 3. God will be the friend of their friends, and the enemy of their enemies. The enemies of the people of God little think againſt whom they ſport themſelves. 4. He will make them bleſſed in Jeſus, to all eternity, and ſharers with Abraham in this Canaan of everlaſting reſt. (2.) The ſalvation of the goſpel, is a common ſalvation for all families and all nations; God excludes none, who do not exclude themſelves: whoſoever will, let him come. (3.) When we reckon up our loſſes and gain for God, we ſhall find the one nothing, and leſs than nothing, and vanity: the other, a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory.

4. So Abram departed, as the LORD had ſpoken unto him: and Lot went with him: And Abram was ſeventy and five years old when he departed out of Haran.
5. And Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brothers ſon, and all their ſubſtance that they had gathered, and the ſouls that they had gotten in [d] Haran; and they went [d] Chap. xi.
forth to go into the land of Canaan, and into the land of 31.
Canaan they came.

v. 4—5. Abram, without heſitation, obeys; though old, to ſeek a ſettlement, yet ſatisfied, if God was with him, he ſhould find a reſt in every place. We have, 1. His company: his wife and nephew. Both choſe to ſhare his lot, as both had choſen his God for theirs. Learn (1.) Thoſe who have one hope, will have one way. (2.) It is a wonderful mercy when huſband and wife go heavenward together. 2. His ſubſtance, ſervants, and goods, he removed, bag and baggage, for he had no thoughts of returning. Note, They who ſet out for heaven, muſt never think of going back. As it was a ſtrange land, he needed a preſent proviſion. In our way to glory, God forbids not not a prudent care for daily bread: and he took with him the ſouls whom he had gained, whether by purchaſe or perſuaſion, that they might be partakers in the promiſed bleſſings. Note, They who ſerve God themſelves, will reckon it their greateſt gain, if they can win others to ſerve him too.

Before Chriſt 1921.

3. His arrival. They who go out under God's promiſe, will arrive ſafe under his bleſſing. Though the way to heaven be long or difficult, God can conduct us through, and bring us thither at laſt: go on, and truſt him.

6. ¶ And Abram paſſed through the land unto the place of Sichem, unto the [e] plain of Moreh. And [f] the Canaanite was then in the land. 7. And the LORD appeared unto Abram, and ſaid, [g] Unto thy ſeed will I give this land: and there builded he an [h] altar unto the LORD, who appeared unto him. 8. And he removed from thence unto a mountain on the eaſt of Beth-el, and pitched his tent, having Beth-el on the weſt, and Hai on the eaſt; and there he builded an altar unto the LORD, and [i] called upon the name of the LORD. 9. And Abram journeyed, † [k] going on ſtill toward the ſouth.

[e] Deut. xi. 30. Judges vii. 1.
[f] Chap. x. 18, 19. & xiii. 7.
[g] Chap. xiii. 15.
[h] Chap. xiii. 4.
[i] Ibid.
† Heb. In going and journeying.
[k] Chap. xiii. 3.

v. 6—9. He is come, but he finds no preſent poſſeſſion in it; the Canaanite was there. Obſerve,

1. His journeyings. He was a wandering pilgrim, without a ſettled abode, and in a ſtrange land, glad to pick up a ſubſiſtence in the mountain or the plain, wherever he found a ſpot unoccupied. To be ſtrangers and pilgrims on earth, is the true character of a traveller to glory.

2. God's appearing to him. Though he was without comfort in the land, he had abundance in the Lord, whoſe preſence amply repaid every toil. He comes with promiſes of rich encouragement, and that is ſterling payment in Abraham's eyes: the land is now made over to him and his ſeed. Note, 1. Where God viſits us, we never can be deſolate, though we were alone in a mountain. 2. Though we leave all for God, we ſhall receive it again with intereſt: in this world an hundred fold, and in the world to come life everlaſting.

3. Abram's grateful acknowledgment of the mercy. He builded an altar. A ſpecial favour demands a ſpecial return of thanks: though the promiſe be diſtant, faith embraces it as preſent and ſure, ſuch is its realizing nature. Not that this altar was ſingular; wherever he pitched his tent, he placed it by him: he and his houſe muſt ſerve the Lord, and prayer and praiſe are their conſtant duty and delight. Family worſhip is of antient date: they who have not an altar in their family, for conſtant devotion, will not have God in their houſe for their conſtant friend.

10. ¶ And there was a famine in the land: And Abram [l] went down into Egypt to ſojourn there; for the famine was grievous in the land.

[l] Pſal. cv. 13.

v. 10. It was a diſcouraging providence, to be in the land of promiſe, and ſo ſoon to be driven out of it by famine. It required ſtrong faith to weather theſe trials: ſevere temptations are uſually the portion of the believer, and they are permitted, That the trial of his faith may be found more precious than gold, 1 Pet. i. 7. And now where ſhould he go? Back again, would nature ſay? No, ſays grace, forward. Egypt was near him, and thither he directs his courſe. Note, 1. It is our duty to uſe means for relief in every diſtreſs. 2. Never to uſe forbidden ones. Still he is but a ſojourner. Since God had given him the promiſe of Canaan, he will not take up his abode elſewhere: though for a time we may be ſeparated from our home, our hearts will be upon it, wherever we are.

11. And it came to paſs when he was come near to enter into Egypt, that he ſaid unto Sarai his wife, Behold now, I know that thou art a fair woman to look upon. 12. Therefore it ſhall come to paſs, when the Egyptians ſhall ſee thee, that they ſhall ſay, This is his wife; and they will kill me, but they will ſave thee alive. 13. [m] Say, I pray thee, thou art my ſiſter: that it may be well with me for thy ſake; and my ſoul ſhall live becauſe of thee.

[m] Chap. xx. 13. See Chap. xxvi. 7.

v. 11—13. Though he can truſt God in Canaan, he cannot in Egypt; and this leads him to diſſemble himſelf, and to bring others to join with him.

1. His fear: they will kill me. What, when the fulfilment of God's promiſes depended on his life? How weak are the ſtrongeſt, if left for a moment to themſelves. Who need not, after ſuch an inſtance, fear, leſt he fall?

2. The reaſon of his fear. Sarah's beauty would lead them to deſtroy him to poſſeſs her. Note, It is too true: the paſſion for a woman, when without reſtraint, will lead a man through every crime, in order to gratify his luſts.

Before Chriſt 1920.

3. The bad courſe he took. He taught her and his houſehold to deny her being his wife, under the equivocation of her being his ſiſter: and thus not only brought his family into the ſin of lying, but had like to have involved an innocent man in the crime of adultery. Note, Never any good came of lying and diſſembling.

14. ¶ And it came to paſs, that when Abram was come into Egypt, the Egyptians beheld the woman, that ſhe was very fair. 15. The princes alſo of Pharaoh ſaw her, and commended her before Pharaoh: and the woman was taken into Pharaohs houſe. 16. And he [n] entreated Abram well for her ſake: and he had ſheep, and oxen, and he-aſſes, and men-ſervants, and maid-ſervants, and ſhe-aſſes and camels. 17. And the LORD [o] plagued Pharaoh and his houſe with great plagues, becauſe of Sarai Abrams wife. 18. And Pharaoh called Abram, and ſaid, What is this that thou haſt done unto me? Why didſt thou not tell me that ſhe was thy wife? 19. Why ſaidſt thou, She is my ſiſter? ſo I might have taken her to me to wife: now therefore, behold thy wife, take her, and go thy way. 20. And Pharaoh commanded his men concerning him: and they ſent him away, and his wife, and all that he had.

[n] Chap. xx. 24.
[o] Chap. xx. 18. 1 Chron. xvi. 21. Pſal. cv. 14.

v. 14—20. We ſee how near Abram was to loſe his wife by his ſin, and how God graciouſly interpoſed.

1. Sarah's beauty proved her ſnare, as it has done to a thouſand women beſide. She is ſeen, and commended and taken by Pharaoh. Unſuſpicious of the deceit, he loads Abram with benefits, and Sarah with careſſes.

2. God interpoſes to preſerve Pharaoh from ſin, and Sarah from ruin. God plagued him and his: what theſe plagues were, we know not; but God made him know the reaſon ſoon enough, to prevent his purpoſes. Note, 1. They are bleſſed corrections, that are made the means of keeping us from ſin. 2. That it is God's aſtoniſhing mercy to deliver us often from that perilous ſituation, into which our own folly and ſin had brought us, and where we muſt have been inevitably undone, but for his wonderful and unexpected interpoſition.

3. Pharaoh's commendable behaviour on the occaſion. (1.) His mild and juſt rebuke. At whoſe door had the ſin lain, if Sarah had been taken to his bed, as to his houſe: What haſt thou done? Note, 1. If they who profeſs religion are diſingenuous, they deſerve, and muſt expect to be reproved for it. 2. The perſons of whom we entertain ſuſpicions, are often found not only more conſcientious than we thought, but more ſimple hearted than ourſelves. (2.) His reſtoration of Sarah, Behold thy wife! take her. Note, We muſt remove temptation, if we would keep from ſin. And he adds the moſt generous treatment. The gifts are confirmed; his perſon and ſubſtance are ſafe, and not a hair of his head is hurt. How often are we in fear where no fear is? And leaſt new ſnares might bring him into new troubles, he is diſmiſſed in peace. Thus the father came up as the figure of his poſterity: he went down for famine, and returned full. God can make all things work together for good, to thoſe who love him.

CHAP. XIII.

In this chapter we have a further account concerning Abram. 1. In general, of his condition and behaviour in the land of promiſe, which was now the land of his pilgrimage. 1. His removes, ver. 1, 3, 4, 18. 2. His riches, ver. 2. 3. His devotion, ver, 4, 18. 2. A particular account of a quarrel that happened between him and Lot. (1.) The unhappy occaſion of their ſtrife, ver. 5, 6. (2.) The parties concerned in the ſtrife, with the aggravation of it, ver. 7. (3.) The making up of the quarrel, by the prudence of Abram, ver. 8, 9. (4.) Lot's departure from Abram to the plain of Sodom, ver. 10—14. (5.) God's appearance to Abram to confirm the promiſe of the land of Canaan to him, ver. 14—17.

1918.

1. AND Abram went up out of Egypt, he, and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him into the ſouth. 2. And Abram was very rich in cattle, in ſilver, and in gold. 3. And he went on his journeys [a] from the ſouth, even to Beth-el, unto [b] the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Beth-el and Hai; 4. Unto the place of the altar, which he had made there at the firſt: and there Abram called on the name of the LORD.

[a] Chap. xii. 8, 9.
[b] Chap. xii. 7, 8.

v. 1—4. We have here, Abram's return; and inſtead of faring ill, as he feared; we find

1. He was very wealthy; (heavy, ſays the Hebrew.) Wealth increaſed, is but an increaſe of trouble. But his riches made him not forget God. Note, 1. A rich man (though ſeldom) may may be a good man. 2. It is a bleſſed proſperity, which is employed in promoting of God's cauſe, and advancing his glory.

Before Chriſt about 1918.

2. The place of his abode between Bethel and Ai, where his former altar ſtood. Note, The very ſpot where we have enjoyed ſweet communion, will be reſorted to with pleaſure, and bring to our remembrance the obligations we are under to a gracious God.

3. His prayer to God. He had much to thank him for paſt favours, much to aſk of preſent bleſſings on his return. Note, 1. Prayer is the breath of a faithful ſoul: wherever he is, you will hear this of him, Behold, he prayeth. 2. Every return from journeying in ſafety, calls for new acknowledgments to our merciful God.

5. ¶ And Lot alſo which went with Abram had flocks, and herds, and tents. 6. And [c] the land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together: for their ſubſtance was great, ſo that they could not dwell together. 7. And there was a ſtrife between the herdmen of Abrams cattle, and the herdmen of Lots cattle: and [d] the Canaanite and the Perizzite dwelled then in the land.

[c] Chap. xxxvi. 7.
[d] Chap. xii. 6.

v. 5, 6, 7. Lot had got well by Abram's company; he had his bleſſing alſo. Thoſe who ſuffer with God's people, ſhall reign with them, ſhall ſhare their joys as well as ſorrows. But worldly riches are often the cauſe of much uneaſineſs, as was the caſe here. For,

1. There was not room for both, and they muſt divide or incommode one another. Thus every comfort has its croſs.

2. Their numerous flocks proved a cauſe of diſpute between their ſervants, too jealous for their maſters intereſt; and as is too commonly the caſe, the maſters were drawn into the diſpute. Learn, (1.) How dangerous riches are. To them we may aſcribe moſt of our diſputes; for theſe, brother goeth to law againſt brother. (2.) How dangerous for maſters to give ear to ſervants tales. How much miſunderſtanding hath hence ariſen? (3.) How wicked it is in ſervants, to ſow diſcord among families.

3. The danger and offence incurred hereby: for the Canaanite and Perizzite dwelled in the land. Danger, by their diviſion: 'tis this is uſually the ruin of kingdoms, families, and above all, of churches. Offence: when profeſſors of religion quarrel, they will ſurely make the ways of truth to be evil ſpoken of.

8. And Abram ſaid unto Lot, Let there be no ſtrife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen: for we be † brethren. 9. [e] Is not the whole land before thee? Separate thyſelf, I pray thee, from me: if thou wilt take the left-hand, then I will go to the right: or if thou depart to the right-hand, then I will go to the left.

† Heb. Men, brethren. See chap. xi. 27. Exod. ii. 13. Acts vii. 26.
[e] Chap. xx. 15. & xxxiv. 10.

v. 8—9. Abram's wiſdom and peaceableneſs avert the ill conſequences which might accrue from the quarrel. Obſerve,

1. His deſire to accommodate the matter peaceably. Let there be no ſtrife, I pray thee, between me and thee; it ill becomes us as near relations, and worſe, as ſervants of God. Learn, 1. It is our wiſdom to leave off betimes: the wiſer man and the better man will always be the firſt to ſeek peace. 2. It needs both addreſs and gentleneſs, to bring thoſe who are in the wrong, to conſent to an accommodation. 3. Chriſtians ſhould conſider their relation to each other. They are brethren, let them love as brethren, and then all diſputes will be at an end. 4. They who have God's glory at heart, will have a greater concern leaſt that ſuffer, than for their own intereſts.

2. His propoſal. Separate thyſelf peaceably, and chuſe the right or left, I am content with the refuſal. (1.) Obſerve Abraham's kindneſs: ſince we muſt part, let us part friends. Separate thyſelf, I pray thee. Oh! if Chriſtians would be content to unite in love, and think and let think in uneſſential matters, how much perverſe diſputing would be prevented. (2.) His ſelf-denial. He had certainly moſt authority to command, and moſt right to claim the land, eſpecially after the promiſe, to which Lot was no ſtranger, but he is ready to forego both. Note, 1. Though we might command, it is more chriſtian to entreat. 2. It behoves us often rather to ſuffer loſs, than to ſeek a litigious redreſs.

10. And Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered every where, before the LORD deſtroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, even as [f] the garden of the LORD, like the land of Egypt, as thou comeſt unto Zoar. 11. Then Lot choſe him all the plain of Jordan; and Lot journeyed eaſt: and they ſeparated themſelves the one from the other. 12. Abram dwelled in the land of Canaan, and Lot dwelled in the cities of the plain, and pitched his tent toward Sodom. 13. But the men of Sodom were [g] wicked, and ſinners before the LORD, exceedingly.

[f] Iſa. li. 3.

Before Chriſt about 1917.

[g] Chap. xviii. 20. Ezek. xvi. 49.

v. 10—13. We have here Lot's choice; in which not only ſome ſymptoms appear of ſelfiſhneſs, in ſecuring the beſt land, but of unkindneſs and ingratitude in parting thus readily from his kind benefactor. How hard is it for good men to diveſt themſelves of this hated ſelf. Obſerve,

1. The place. All the plain of Jordan; and a delicious ſpot it was, like Eden for beauty and fertility. Here he reſolves to fix his abode, without farther conſideration, or weighing the inconveniencies to which he expoſed himſelf, from the people who dwelt there. We are too apt to be guided by the eye, but ſenſe is a bad director: we uſually are led to rue the choice we make, whether of company, or dwelling under its influence. Would we ſpeed well, we ſhould firſt always conſider what is beſt for our ſouls.

2. The people. Vile and wicked exceedingly: all are bad, but ſome much worſe than others, and the worſe for the bleſſings they enjoyed; nothing ſo much contributing to fill up a man's iniquities, as abuſed mercies. To be placed among ſuch a people, though his dwelling and converſation among them was a gracious warning and call from God to them, it was a heavy affliction and trouble to himſelf. Note, 1. God marks every man's ſins, according to their aggravations: great ſinners will have great puniſhments. 2. God's miniſters muſt remember, wherever they are, their buſineſs is to appear for God, though only ſojourners. 3. That it is often the heavy lot of good men, to live among bad neighbours. 4. That it is a ſad reflection when they have brought themſelves into theſe circumſtances.

14. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Abram, after that Lot was ſeparated from him, Lift up now thine eyes, and look from the place where thou art, north-ward, and ſouth-ward, and eaſt-ward, and weſt-ward. 15. For all the land which thou ſeeſt, [h] to thee will I give it, and to thy ſeed for ever. 16. And [i] I will make thy ſeed as the duſt of the earth: ſo that if a man can number the duſt of the earth, then ſhall thy ſeed alſo be numbered. 17. Ariſe, walk through the land in the length of it, and in the breadth of it; for I will give it unto thee. 18. Then Abram removed his tent, and came and [k] dwelt in the † plain of Mamre [l], which is in Hebron, and built there an altar unto the LORD.

[h] Chap. xii. 7. & xv. 18. & xvii. 8. & xxiv. 7. & xxvi. 4. Deut. xxxiv. 4. Acts vii. 5.
[i] Chap. xv. 5. & xxii. 17. & xxvi. 4. & xxviii. 14. & xxxii. 12. Exod. xxxii. 13. Numb. xxiii. 10. Deut. i. 10. 1 Kings iv. 20. 1 Chron. xxvii. 23. Iſa. xlviii. 19. Jer. xxxiii. 22. Heb. xi. 12.
[k] Chap. xiv. 13.
† Heb. Plains.
[l] Chap. xxxv. 27. & xxxvii. 14.

v. 14—18. Lot is gone, but Abram has a better friend left. God viſits him, and communion with him makes us ample amends for every loſs. And he comes at a ſeaſon when Lot's choice might have affected Abram, to comfort him with the aſſurance, that though for a moment he might feel the loſs, yet in the end the land muſt be all his own. Obſerve,

1. God's promiſe. Lot looked and choſe the beſt, but it was a precarious and unhappy abode to him. Abram ſhall look on every ſide, and inherit it, and his ſeed after him. Theſe repeated aſſurances convey increaſing conſolations.

2. The command; to go through and view the premiſes, for they were his own, and he might look upon them as ſuch, as ſoon as he had a ſeed capable of occupying them.

3. The aſſurance that God would raiſe up a ſeed to him, and though childleſs now, make him a numberleſs multitude. Learn, (1.) God's covenant is immutable. (2.) The more at God's command we look forward by faith to the heavenly Canaan, the more ſhall we be comforted. (3.) It is God's work to give the land, and then the ſeed; firſt to provide the kingdom, and then to prepare us for it. (4.) Though nothing appeared more unlikely than the fulfilment of the promiſe, Abram's faith ſtaggered not; nor ſhould ours in the darkeſt day.

4. Abram's obedience. He went forth, and fixed again his abode in Mamre, near Hebron; took poſſeſſion in God's name for his family, though himſelf no more than a ſojourner in the land of promiſe: and as was his cuſtom, no ſooner pitched his tent, than he reared his altar. Note, It is our duty in every place to make profeſſion of our religion, and to be neither aſhamed nor afraid to be found in the worſhip of God.

CHAP. XIV.

We have four things in the ſtory of this chapter. 1. A war with the king of Sodom and his allies, ver. 1—11. 2. The captivity of Lot in that war, ver. 12. 3. Abram's reſcue of Lot from that captivity, with the victory he obtained over the conquerors, ver. 13—16. 4. Abram's return from that expedition, ver. 17. with an account of what paſſed, 1. Between him and the king of Salem, ver. 18, 19, 20. 2. Between him and the king of Sodom, ver. 21—24.

Before Christ 1917.

1. AND it came to paſs in the days of Amraphel [a] king of Shinar, Arioch king of Ellaſar, Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and Tidal king of nations. 2. That theſe made war with Berah king of Sodom, and with Birſha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of Admah, and Shameber king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela, which is [b] Zoar. 3. All theſe were joined together in the vale of Siddim [c], which is the ſalt-ſea. 4. Twelve years they ſerved Chedorlaomer, and in the thirteenth year they rebelled. 5. And in the fourteenth year came Chedorlaomer, and the kings that were with him, and ſmote the [d] Rephaims in [e] Aſhteroth Karnaim, and the [f] Zuzims in Ham, and [g] the Emims in † Shaveh Kiriathaim. 6. And [h] the Horites in their mount Seir, unto ‡ El-paran, which is by the wilderneſs. 7. And they returned, and came to En-miſhpat, which is Kadeſh, and ſmote all the country of the Amalekites, and alſo the Amorites, that dwelt in [i] Hazezon-tamar. 8. And there went out the king of Sodom, and the king of Gomorrah, and the king of Admah, and the king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela (the ſame is Zoar) and they joined battle with them in the vale of Siddim. 9. With Chedorlaomer the king of Elam, and with Tidal king of nations, and Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellaſar: four kings with five. 10. And the vale of Siddim was full of ſlime-pits; and the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah fled, and fell there: and they that remained fled to the mountains. 11. And they took all the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah, and all their victuals, and went their way. 12. And they took Lot Abrams brothers ſon (who dwelt in Sodom) and his goods, and departed.

[a] Chap. x. 10. & xi. 2.
[b] Chap. xix. 22.
[c] Deut. iii. 17.
[d] Chap. xv. 20.
[e] Joſh. xiii. 12.
[f] Deut. ii. 20.
[g] Deut. ii. 10, 11.
† Or the plain of Kirjathaim.
[h] Deut. ii. 12, 22.
‡ Or the plain of Paran.
[i] Numb. xii. 16. & xiii. 3. 1 Chron. xx. 2.

v. 1—12. This is the firſt war in ſacred hiſtory. The cauſe of it was the rebellion of the kings of Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, Zeboim and Bela, againſt their conqueror Chedorlaomer, a prince of Perſia. He, with his confederates, attacks them thereupon, routs their forces, plunders their cities, and among the reſt, for whoſe ſake this victory is recorded, carries away Lot among the captives. And now Lot began to ſee the folly of his choice, and to ſhare in the evil of his bad fellow-citizens. Note, 1. Pride and ambition are the great cauſes of the deſolations which are wrought in the earth. 2. When a nation is ſunk in luxury, it becomes an eaſy prey to any ambitious neighbour. Let England tremble. 3. We are to blame ourſelves for the miſchiefs we meet in bad company: What doth Lot here? 4. In public calamities the righteous often ſuffer with the wicked. 5. We are often like Lot; when in haſte to be rich, only going the ready way to be undone.

13. And there came one that had eſcaped, and told Abram the Hebrew; for [k] he dwelt in the plain of Mamre the Amorite, brother of Eſhcol, and brother of Aner: and theſe were confederate with Abram. 14. And when Abram heard that his brother was taken captive † he armed his ‡ trained ſervants, born in his own houſe, three hundred and eighteen, and purſued them [l] unto Dan. 15. And he divided himſelf againſt them, he and his ſervants by night, and [m] ſmote them, and purſued them unto Hobah, which is on the left hand of Damaſcus. 16. And he brought back all the goods, and alſo brought again his brother Lot, and his goods, and the women alſo, and the people.

[k] Ch. xiii. 18.
† Or led forth.
‡ Or inſtructed.
[l] Deut. xxxiv. 1.
[m] Iſa. xli. 2, 3.

v. 13—16. Though God afflicts his choſen ſervants, yet, when their caſe ſeems moſt deſperate, help is at hand. Now was Lot giving himſelf up for loſt, when Abram's courage and conduct redeem him from ſervitude. A fugitive from the battle informs Abram of the diſaſter, and he reſolves immediately to purſue. Not ambition, but charity rouſed his ſpirit for war; it was not to enrich himſelf, but to recover his friend. We have here,

1. His preparations. His own ſervants, and the forces of his confederates: his own amounted to 318, a large family, but a ſmall army; but what they wanted in number, they made up in fidelity, bravery, and obedience. They were trained, not to arms, as their trade, but for their defence: or rather trained up in the ſteps of Abram's faith and piety, and therefore ready to follow him, as confident of the divine protection under ſuch a general. Note, 1. Though war is very undeſirable, it is not always unlawful. 2. Thoſe will be the beſt ſoldiers, who are the beſt chriſtians. Tho' religion ſuffers men not to be quarrelſome; it ever prevents them from being cowards. 3. It is highly the intereſt and duty of every general to have his ſoldiers diſciplined in the truth: profaneneſs and impiety cannot but tend to make men afraid to die. 4. A great family is a great charge; happy the maſter, that like Abram, not only provides for their bodies, but cares alſo for their ſouls.

Before Christ 1913.

2. Their march, and attack of theſe confederate kings by night: brave and generous to the laſt degree, and ſo wiſely directed, that Abram may vie with the greateſt generals. It might have been called hardineſs, to attempt ſo great an army with ſuch an handful of men; but Abram had the Lord of Hoſts on his ſide, and then more were for him than againſt him. Learn, (1.) When we are engaged in a good cauſe, we are bound to truſt upon the Lord mighty in battle for ſucceſs. (2.) In war, policy is uſually more effectual than force.

3. Their compleat victory. Their enemies are purſued to their fenced cities, and all the captives and ſpoil left a prey to the conqueror. As it was for Lot's ſake, the expedition was undertaken; he is firſt mentioned, and called Abram's brother, not only becauſe of their family relation, but of their religion. Note, 1. We ought to be ready to lay down our lives for the brethren. 2. Their unkindneſs to us affects not our duty to them: we muſt forgive, not only our avowed enemies, but what is harder to be put up with, the ingratitude of our friends. 3. A nation fares the better for one righteous man. For Lot's ſake, all the inhabitants of theſe cities are recovered alſo.

17. ¶ And the king of Sodom went out to meet him (after his return from the ſlaughter of Chedorlaomer and of the kings that were with him) at the valley of Shaveh, which is the [n] kings dale. 18. And [o] Melchizedek king of Salem brought forth bread and wine: and he was the prieſt of the moſt high God. 19. And he bleſſed him, and ſaid, Bleſſed be Abram of the moſt high God [p] poſſeſſor of heaven and earth: 20. And bleſſed be the moſt high God, which hath delivered thine enemies into thy hand. And he gave him [q] tithes of all.

[n] 2 Sam. xviii. 18.
[o] Heb. vii. 1.
[p] V. 22.
[q] Heb. vii. 4.

v. 17—20. Behold Abram's greatneſs: kings come to congratulate his victory. The kings of Sodom and Salem: the latter deſerves attentive conſideration.

1. His name, Melchizedek, king of righteouſneſs; his kingdom, Salem, king of peace. See Heb. vii. 1. His character; a prieſt of the moſt high God. He is generally ſuppoſed to be a prince of Canaan, a worſhipper of the true God. But more probably the ſon of God, the true king of righteouſneſs and peace, appears to bleſs his faithful ſervant. Note, It will be a bleſſed meeting indeed, when he ſhall come, after all our victories over ſin, death, and the grave, to meet us in the clouds.

2. The proviſion he brought; bread and wine. The ſame the Lord Jeſus Chriſt hath now provided to ſtrengthen and comfort his faithful ſoldiers, whilſt manfully fighting his battles.

3. His benediction on Abram. He bleſſed God for him, and bleſſed him from God. Note, 1. The moſt high God muſt be the object of our continual bleſſing and praiſe. 2. All good things come from him; if we are enabled to overcome our ſpiritual enemies, we owe it to the ſtrength of the moſt high God. 3. A true chriſtian rejoices, and bleſſes God for the proſperity of his brethren.

4. Abraham's grateful offering. The tenth of the ſpoils. Learn, 1. They who miniſter in holy things, have a right to tythes. 2. God expects they who have abundance ſhould honour him with it. 3. The Lord Jeſus Chriſt, our great high prieſt, muſt be applied to as the only channel in which our ſervices and offerings can be preſented with acceptance to God.

21. And the king of Sodom ſaid unto Abram, Give me the † perſons, and take the goods to thyſelf. 22. And Abram ſaid to the king of Sodom, I have lift up mine hand unto the LORD, the moſt high God, [r] the poſſeſſor of heaven and earth, 23. That [s] I will not take from a thread even to a ſhoe-latchet, and that I will not take any thing that is thine, leſt thou ſhouldeſt ſay, I have made Abram rich: 24. Save only that which the young men have eaten, and the portion of the men which went with me, Aner, Eſhcol, and Mamre; let them take their portion.

† Heb. Souls.
[r] ver. 19. Chap. xxi. 33.
[s] Eſth. ix. 15, 16.

v. 21—24. We have the king of Sodom's conference with Abram.

1. His generous offer of all the ſpoil, except the priſoners. Note, They who fight for us, deſerve to be well paid.

2. Abram's refuſal; with the reaſons for it. (1.) His oath before he went to battle. Swearing is a ſolemn act of religion: it is an appeal to the moſt high God, that ſeeth and avengeth. Note, 1. Whenever we ſwear, we muſt perform, though it be to our own injury. 2. It muſt be in a lawful matter, and for the glory of God, and the good of our neighbour. (2.) He feared, leaſt any reproach ſhould be caſt on his faith or his charity. He would not have it ſuggeſted, that he either wanted or needed to be enriched from this ſpoil. Note, 1 A chri-ſtian man will avoid the things, though lawful, from which the adverſary might take occaſion to ſpeak reproachfully. 2. Faith will ever lead a man to look down upon this world, as a very little thing. A mean and mercenary ſpirit is not the ſpirit of the truth. 3. When we ſee a thing wrong, there muſt not be the leaſt thread found upon us. (3.) He excepts the food of his ſoldiers, and the ſhare of his allies: this was both right and reaſon. Note, 1. We have no right to exact from others, the ſame reſtraints we impoſe upon ourſelves. 2. They earn their bread hard, who earn it at the peril of their lives.

CHAP. XV.

In this chapter we have a ſolemn treaty between God and Abram, concerning a covenant that was to be eſtabliſhed between them. It contains, (1.) A general aſſurance of God's kindneſs and good-will to Abram, ver. 1. (2.) A particular declaration of the purpoſes of his love, concerning him in two things. 1. That he would give him a numerous iſſue, ver 2. to ver. 7. 2. That he would give him Canaan for an inheritance, ver. 7. to the end.

1. AFter theſe things the word of the LORD came unto Abram in a viſion, ſaying, Fear not, Abram: I am [a] thy ſhield, and thy exceeding [b] great reward.

[a] Pſal. iii. 3. & v. 12. & lxxxiv. 11. & xci. 4. & cxix. 114.
[b] Pſal. xvi. 5.

v. 1. Abram is favoured with frequent manifeſtations of the divine preſence. He was met by kings, but now by the King of Kings. God ſpoke to him in a viſion, probably in ſome glorious viſible repreſentation of himſelf, ſuch as was the Shechinah: whilſt the natural man dreads every appearance or viſion from another world, as boding no good to him; the ſoul that hath his affections there, hath nothing to fear from thence, but every thing to hope for. We have,

1. God's encouragement: fear not, Abram. All his victories were not ſufficient to remove his fears, not ſo much, I apprehend, from his enemies, as reſpecting the fulfilment of the promiſe when as yet childleſs. Note, True faith, nay ſtrong faith, may have fears attending it.

2. His promiſe. (1.) I am thy ſhield: therefore no reaſon had he to apprehend any danger; God is his people's guardian: none can approach to hurt thoſe, over whom the ſhield of almighty love is held. 2. I am thy exceeding great reward. Every thing beſide to a believing ſoul is light upon the balances; the enjoyment of the bleſſed God is the ultimatum of his felicity. O may I know more feelingly, and ſay more confidently, Thou art my portion, O Lord!

2. And Abram ſaid, Lord GOD, what wilt thou give me, ſeeing I go childleſs, and the ſteward of my houſe is this Eliezer of Damaſcus? 3. And Abram ſaid, Behold, to me thou haſt given no ſeed: and lo, one born in my houſe is mine heir.

v. 2—3. Abram ſpreads his grief before the Lord, and ſince he is ſo gracious ſhews him his trouble. Note, God's ears are ever open to the voice of our complaint. 1. He had a great promiſe, but no appearance of its fulfilment: he was childleſs, and likely to continue ſo, being old, and one of his ſervants muſt be his heir. Where then is the ſeed? What is all that thou giveſt me, if this be with-held? Learn, 1. How hard it is, when mercies are long delayed, not to grow impatient, and weary of waiting. 2. In every diſtreſs, our buſineſs is to make God our boſom friend. 3. Whatever we enjoy, unleſs this ſeed be born in us, Chriſt the hope of glory, all is nothing. A Chriſtleſs ſoul, though rich as Crœſus, or great as Cæſar, muſt ſtill be a miſerable ſoul.

4. And behold the word of the LORD came unto him, ſaying, This ſhall not be thine heir, but he that ſhall come forth out of thine own bowels ſhall be thine heir. 5. And he brought him forth abroad, and ſaid, Look now toward heaven, and tell the [c] ſtars, if thou be able to number them: and he ſaid unto him [d], So ſhall thy ſeed be. 6. And [e] he believed in the LORD; and [f] he counted it to him for righteouſneſs.

[c] Jer. xxxiii. 22.
[d] Exod. xxxii. 13. Deut. x. 22. 1 Chron. xxvii. 23. Rom. iv. 18. Heb. xi. 12. See Chap. xiii. 16.
[e] Rom. iv. 3, 9, 22. Gal. iii. 6. Jam. ii. 23.
[f] Pſal. cvi. 31.

v. 4, 5, 6. God's anſwer to his requeſt, What wilt thou give me?

1. An aſſurance of a ſon, not born in his houſe, but of himſelf. And ſuch a ſon, whoſe progeny ſhould vie with the ſtars of heaven for multitude, and ſhine as the ſtars for glory. Note, God is better to us than our fears, and when we deſpair, works moſt eminently to accompliſh his own purpoſes.

2. Abram's ſatisfaction in the anſwer. A thouſand doubts of how and when might ariſe, but he regarded not his own age, nor the deadneſs of Sarah's womb. See, 1. The nature of faith, an acquieſcence in the divine promiſe. 2. The effects of it, patient hope.

3. His faith is counted to him for righteouſneſs. God regarding him as righteous, and ſignifying it to him for his comfort. Note, 1. By faith in Jeſus Chriſt alone, can we be juſtified before God. 2. By faith, all the Old Teſtament ſaints were accepted, as well as the New. 3. That this is the fundamental doctrine of the Chriſtian religion, and diſtinguiſhes it from all ſyſtems of morality. To err in this, is to err in the fundamentals of Chriſtianity.

7. And he ſaid unto him, I am the LORD that brought thee out of [g] Ur of the Chaldees, to [h] give thee this land to inherit it. 8. And he ſaid, Lord GOD, [i] whereby ſhall I know that I ſhall inherit it? 9. And he ſaid unto him, Take me an heifer of three years old, and a ſhe-goat of three years old, and a ram of three years old, and a turtle-dove, and a young pigeon. 10. And [k] he took unto him all theſe, and divided them in the midſt, and laid each piece one againſt another: but [l] the birds divided he not. 11. And when the fowls came down upon the carcaſes, Abram drove them away.

[g] Chap. xi. 28.
[h] Pſal. cv. 42. Rom. iv. 13.
[i] See chap. xxiv. 13, 14. Judg. vi. 17, 37. 1 Sam. xiv. 9, 10. 2 Kings, xx. 8.
[k] Jer. xxxiv. 18.
[l] Lev. i. 17.

v. 7—11. As the ſeed is promiſed, the land is added moreover. If Chriſt be ours, heaven is ours. We have here,

1. A remembrance of mercies already conferred on Abram; I brought thee out of that idolatrous land of thy nativity, as a brand ſnatched from the burning: and a promiſe of more; I brought thee hither to inhert this; thine it ſhall be; I am able to ſubdue all thine enemies, and I will fulfil my promiſes. Note, 1. Paſt mercies are uſually the earneſt of greater. 2. Salvation is a ſpecial mercy. Well may we wonder, why we are taken out of Ur, the fire, and others left. 3. It is a ſure mercy; God will finiſh his own work, and not a tittle ſhall fail. 4. None ſhall come ſhort of the eternal inheritance who are called with the holy calling.

2. Abram's deſire of ſome ſign; not out of diſtruſt of God's faithfulneſs, but for the more aſſured confirmation of his faith. Learn, 1. The ſtrongeſt believer hath need to pray, Lord, increaſe my faith. We have need to make uſe of all means, eſpecially the ſacrament, for the further confirmation of our hearts in the divine promiſes. 3. The clearer our views are of a covenant title to heaven, the more comfortable ſhall we be.

3. God's anſwer: he directs a ſacrifice, and appoints the beaſts which ſhould be ſlain. Note, 1. In waiting upon God in his ordinances, we may expect to be met by him with promiſes. 2. The beſt muſt be preſented to him: negligent prayers, and inattentive hearing, is like bringing the lame and the blind for a ſacrifice.

4. Abram's obedience. He divided the beaſts, according to the cuſtom in ſolemn covenants, and waited for God's appearing to confirm the promiſe. And as he waited long, the fowls fell upon the ſacrifices, and he drove them away. Note, When God calls us to his footſtool, though he delay to anſwer us, we muſt not be weary of waiting: and when in prayer, and our appearances before God, vain, wandering, or worldly thoughts intrude, we muſt drive them out, leaſt they devour the beſt of our ſacrifices.

12. And when the ſun was going down a deep ſleep fell upon Abram; and lo, an horror of great darkneſs fell upon him. 13. And he ſaid unto Abram, Know of a ſurety, that [m] thy ſeed ſhall be a ſtranger in a land that is not theirs, and ſhall ſerve them, and [n] they ſhall afflict them [o] four hundred years. 14. And alſo that nation whom they ſhall ſerve, will I judge: and afterward ſhall [p] they come out with great ſubſtance. 15. And thou ſhalt go to thy fathers in peace: [q] thou ſhalt be buried in a good old age. 16. But in the fourth generation they ſhall come hither again: for the iniquity of [r] the Amorites is [s] not yet full.

[m] Exod. xii. 40. Acts vii. 6.
[n] Exod. i. 11.
[o] Ibid. xii. 40.
[p] Ib. xii. 36. Pſal. cv. 37.
[q] Chap. xxv. 8.
[r] 1 Kings, xxi. 26.
[s] Dan. viii. 23. Matt. xxiii. 32. 1 Theſſ. ii. 16.

v. 12—16. When Abram had waited for God from morning until evening, as the ſun was going down, God appears, to his comfort. Note, Though we went all our days, waiting for God, and after years of patience, only found him when the ſun of life declined, we ſhould have an abundant recompence. Here we may obſerve,

1. The preparation for God's manifeſtation of himſelf. A divine extaſy, a deep ſleep fell on him, which whilſt it left the ſoul more free and active, locked up the ſenſes from all diſturbance and diſtraction. And in the ſleep, an horror of great darkneſs, ariſing from an awful reverence of the majeſty of that God, with whom he was converſing, and a preſage of the events which God was about to diſcloſe to him. Note, 1. The more we are abſtracted from the objects of ſenſe in all our worſhip, the better. 2. Darkneſs, great darkneſs and horror, may ſometimes ſeize a Chriſtian's ſoul. 3. It adds a new reliſh to the joy, when there ariſeth up light in the darkneſs.

2. God's revelation concerning himſelf and his poſterity. 1. His poſterity. (1.) Their ſufferings, ſojourning, and captivity in Egypt. Note, 1. It is beſt to know the worſt firſt. 2. Our unſettled ſojourning on the earth, will make our reſt in heaven the more welcome. 3. We are all ſervants till God comes to looſe the bands of corruption. 4. Suffering is the portion of God's children; it is thus we muſt enter the kingdom. 5. Though our ſufferings upon earth, were as long as Iſrael's in Egypt, nay, as many ages as days, the far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory will make them appear light afflictions, and but for a moment. (2.) Their return to the land of promiſe, after the days of their captivity, with great ſubſtance: God will enrich them under their ſufferings, and at laſt bring them forth, laden with the ſpoil of their oppreſſors. Let the oppreſſors of God's people, like the Egyptians, know their day is coming. (3.) Two cauſes of their return are mentioned, 1. The judgments of God upon Egypt, in the plagues which afterwards came upon them: his people's quarrels are his own, and he will avenge them. 2. The filling the meaſure of the iniquity of the Canaanites. God waits long, and is kind. He ſtrikes not, till incorrigible impiety makes patience needleſs.

2. Concerning himſelf. Though he ſhould not live to ſee his poſterity's triumphs, neither ſhould he taſte their affliction. A peaceful life, a good old age, and an honourable ſepulchre ſhall be his lot. Note, (1.) It is a bleſſed thing to die in peace: this is the fruit of Abram's faith. (2.) One of the comforts of death is to be gathered to our fathers: thoſe dear relatives, whether by nature or grace, who have fallen aſleep in Chriſt before us. (3.) Old age is a bleſſing indeed, when the hoary head is found in the way of righteouſneſs. (4.) The grave to the ſinner, is the land of captivity; to the believer, it is the gate which leads into the land of promiſe.

17. And it came to paſs, that when the ſun went down, and it was dark, behold a ſmoaking furnace, and † a burning lamp that paſſed between thoſe pieces. 18. In that ſame day the LORD [t] made a covenant with Abram, ſaying, [u] Unto thy ſeed have I given this land, from the river of Egypt unto the great river, the river Euphrates. 19. The Kenites, and the Kenizzites, and the Kadmonites, 20. And the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Rephaims, 21. And the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Girgaſhites, and the Jebuſites.

† Heb. A lamp of fire.
[t] Chap. xxiv. 7.
[u] Chap. xii. 7. & xiii. 15. & xxvi. 4. Exod. xxiii. 31. Numb. xxxiv. 3. Deut. i. 7. & xi. 24. & xxxiv. 4. Joſh. i. 4. 1 Kings, iv. 21. 2 Chron. ix. 26. Neh. ix. 8. Iſa. xxvii. 12.

v. 17—21. God confirms the covenant by a viſible ſign, and particularly deſcribes the bounds of their inheritance.

1. The ſigns, emblematical of the ſtate of the people. A ſmoaking furnace, alluding to their affliction, and a lamp of fire to guide them through the ſmoak and darkneſs. Note, Though the furnace of affliction be a dark and dreary ſtate, there is light ſown for the righteous; and they who are under divine guidance, need not be caſt down under the ſevereſt preſſures.

2. The confirmation of the covenant, by the paſſing of the lamp between the ſlain beaſts. Such was the cuſtom in men's ſolemn covenant, to paſs between the divided bodies, as an awful oath, that the violator of it ought thus to be cut in ſunder; and perhaps this fire conſumed the ſacrifice, and was a farther mark of its acceptance, Judges xiii. 3. Note, (1.) How great are God's condeſcenſions, thus to humble himſelf to our weakneſs. (2.) No firm covenant with God, without a ſacrifice of atonement. Bleſſed be God for the blood of the Lamb that was ſlain, in whom all the promiſes of God are yea and amen.

3. The boundaries of the land of promiſe. It is as ſure as if they were already in poſſeſſion. Note, He that believeth, HATH everlaſting life, John iii. 36.

CHAP. XVI.

Hagar is the perſon moſtly concerned in the ſtory of this chapter, an Egyptian woman, probably one of thoſe maid-ſervants, which the king of Egypt, among other gifts, beſtowed upon Abram, chap. xii. 16. Concerning her we have four things in this chapter: 1. Her marriage to Abram her maſter, ver. 1, 2, 3. 2. Her miſbehaviour towards Sarai her miſtreſs, ver. 4, 5, 6. 3. Her diſcourſe with an angel that met her in her flight, ver. 7—14. 4. Her delivery of a ſon, ver. 15, 16.

1911.

1. NOW Sarai, Abram's wife, bare him no children: and ſhe had an hand-maid, [a] an Egyptian, whoſe name was [b] Hagar. 2. And [c] Sarai ſaid unto Abram, Behold now, the LORD hath reſtrained me from bearing: I pray thee [d] go in unto my maid; it may be that I may † obtain children by her: and Abram hearkened to the voice of Sarai. 3. And Sarai Abram's wife took Hagar her maid, the Egyptian, after Abram had dwelt ten years in the land of Canaan, and gave her to her huſband Abram to be his wife.

[a] Chap. xxi. 9.
[b] Gal. iv. 24.
[c] Chap. xxx. 3.
[d] Chap. xxx. 3, 9.
† Heb. Be builded by her.

v. 1, 2, 3. We have here, at Sarai's inſtigation, the marriage of Abram with Hagar, his Egyptian ſervant; one of thoſe blots which ſtand in his fair eſcutcheon.

1. The author of it: his wife; and the cauſe of her deſire is her own barrenneſs. After ten years more waiting, ſhe was ſollicitous to have children by any means, and never feared in a ſervant to find a rival. Note, 1. The moſt dangerous temptations come from thoſe who are moſt dear to us. We dare not deny them. 2. God's gifts are wiſely diſtributed. All have much to be thankful for; but there is always ſome allay to keep us from ſeeking our reſt in the creature. 3. How many a rich man would give half his eſtate for an heir; when the peaſant, who lives in a cottage, has children like olive-branches about his table. 4. Inordinate deſire after creature-comforts puts us on indirect means of obtaining them. 5. The comfort we ſeek in ſuch ways generally comes embittered with gall.

2. Abram's compliance with his wife's requeſt. Inexcuſable, no doubt: a bad example, and has an unhappy iſſue. Perhaps a ſollicitude to obtain the promiſe, might make him think it not unlawful: ſo apt are we to warp our conſcience to our wiſhes. Note, 1. Foul temptations may have fair pretences. 2. When we leave faith, and conſult with fleſh, we are ſure to go out of the way.

4. ¶ And he went in unto Hagar, and ſhe conceived: And when ſhe ſaw that ſhe had conceived, her miſtreſs was deſpiſed in her eyes. 5. And Sarai ſaid unto Abram, My wrong be upon thee: I have given my maid into thy boſom; and when ſhe ſaw that ſhe had conceived, I was deſpiſed in her eyes: the LORD judge between me and thee. 6. But Abram ſaid unto Sarai, Behold, thy maid is in thy hand; do to her † as it pleaſeth thee. And when Sarai ‡ dealt hardly with her, ſhe fled from her face.

† Heb. What is good in thine eyes.
‡ Heb. Afflicted her.

v. 4, 5, 6. We have juſt the effects which might be expected from ſuch a ſinful ſtep.

1. Hagar's inſolence. No ſooner with child, than ſhe forgets her ſtation, and begins, in conceit of the promiſed ſeed, to uſurp over the miſtreſs of the family. Note, 1. It is juſt in God to make thoſe inſtruments of our trouble, whom we have made inſtruments of our ſin. 2. It is the nature of a ſervile ſpirit, to be haughty and inſolent on any promotion. 3. The ſcorn of barrenneſs is among the bittereſt taunts.

2. Sarai's ill humour. As jealous of her huſband, as angry with her maid. Though Abram was quite blameleſs, reſpecting Hagar's pride, ſhe lays the blame at his door, and then profanely, in a paſſion, appeals to God for judgment, when ſhe now had only the uſage ſhe might well have expected. Note, 1. A perſon who is angry with himſelf, generally gives vent to it by abuſing the innocent. 2. Nothing commoner, than to quarrel with others for doing what we deſired, when the iſſue happens to fall out other than we deſigned. 3. They who take God's name in their mouth in anger, are almoſt ſure to take it in vain. 4. A perſon in a paſſion is always in the wrong, whatever cauſe may be given him for it.

3. Abram's peaceable anſwer. Though his wife, he remits her to her miſtreſs Sarai, to know her ſtation, and learn obedience. Note, 1. Nothing like a peaceable anſwer to turn away wrath. 2. Better yield ſometimes to an unreaſonable requeſt of a wife, than by an unſeaſonable oppoſition give ground for debate. 3. Nothing ſo fit for a proud heart, as to be degraded, and made to know their place.

4. Sarai's ſeverity to Hagar. When pride and jealouſy unite with power, woe to the poor ſufferer.

5. Hagar's flight. It was her duty to ſubmit, as it was Sarai's to have treated her mildly; but Improbus ille puer, crudelis tu quoque mater: both wrong, and therefore both perverſe. Note, 1. They who ſuffer for their faults, have a double obligation to take it patiently. 2. To fly from our croſs is uſually not only the way to ſin, but ſuffering.

7. ¶ And the angel of the LORD found her by a fountain of water in the wilderneſs, [e] by the fountain in the way to [f] Shur. 8. And he ſaid, Hagar, Sarai's maid, whence cameſt thou? and whither wilt thou go? And ſhe ſaid, I flee from the face of my miſtreſs Sarai. 9. And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto her, Return to thy miſtreſs, and ſubmit thyſelf under her hands.

[e] Chap. xxv. 18.
[f] Exod. xv. 22.

v. 7, 8, 9. We have Hagar's flight, and return at the command of an angel.

1. The place where ſhe was. The wilderneſs. Sin is this wilderneſs we are ſure to get into, the moment we leave the path of duty. She was going homeward, the way to Shur, but

God

Before Chriſt 1911.

God interpoſes. Note, 1. It is a great mercy to be ſtopped ſhort by conſcience or providence in a ſinful way. 2. The miſeries we bring ourſelves into by our ſins, like the prodigal, make our return more deſirable.

2. The angel's addreſs and queſtion. The addreſs, to humble; the queſtion, to alarm her. Sarai's maid ſhould have taken correction ſubmiſſively, and not have left that holy family to return to the idols of Egypt. Note, 1. It would ſtop our career often, if we would aſk, Whither am I going? What am I doing? 2. Wilfully to leave the means of grace, is a dangerous ſtep. 3. If God did not graciouſly interpoſe, alas! what often would become of us, when under the guidance of a perverſe ſpirit?

3. Her anſwer. She pleads her miſtreſs's anger, as the cauſe of her flight. Though no excuſe for her, yet too juſt an accuſation of Sarai. Note, 1. The wrongneſs of others behaviour to us, is no real plea for an ill return. 2. They are partners of the guilt, who by their provocations lead others into ſin. 3. If maſters or miſtreſſes forbear not threatening, their ſervants will have ſome reaſon to complain.

4. The angel's command, or rather kind advice, ver. 9. Note, 1. When we are out of the way of duty, it becomes us to make haſte to return to it. 2. We are bound to hope for God's bleſſing when we do ſo, however diſagreeable or dangerous the ſtep may appear. 3. Better return to ſuffer, than by flight continue in ſin.

10. And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto her, [g] I will multiply thy ſeed exceedingly, that it ſhall not be numbred for multitude. 11. And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto her, Behold, thou art with child, and ſhalt bear a ſon, and ſhalt call his name † Iſhmael; becauſe the LORD hath heard thy affliction. 12. And [h] he will be a wild man; his hand will be againſt every man, and every mans hand againſt him: and [i] he ſhall dwell in the preſence of all his brethren.

[g] Chap. xvii. 20. & xxi. 18.
† i. e. God ſhall hear.
[h] Chap. xxi. 20.
[i] Chap. xxv. 18.

v. 10—12. We have here Hagar's comfort in her affliction. As ſhe ſubmits to the command, ſhe is favoured with an unexpected promiſe.

1. A ſon is aſſured her. She was with child, and ſhould bring Abram an heir, though not the heir. Yet ſhould his poſterity be numerous, a large ſeed, though not the promiſed ſeed. The Arabs were Iſhmael's ſeed, and their deſcendants to this day are not only vaſt in multitude, but great in power, the Turks, as is ſuppoſed, deriving thence their original. Note, Worldly bleſſings are often abundantly beſtowed on thoſe who have no better portion.

2. His name and character. His name, Iſhmael, God will hear. It is right to ſet up a memorial of paſt mercies for future comfort. Let the people of God be aſſured he will hear their cry, and will help them. His character. A wild man. Like the wild aſs's colt, intractable and fierce; and though in perpetual broils, yet preſerved amidſt his ſtronger neighbours. Note, 1. A quarrelſome diſputatious temper will ever be involved in ſtrife. 2. It is a ſad mark of the bond ſervant this. Grace teaches us meekneſs and patience. 3. Many who have expoſed themſelves by their own imprudence, are wonderfully protected by divine providence.

13. And [k] ſhe called the name of the LORD that ſpake unto her, Thou God ſeeſt me; for ſhe ſaid, Have I alſo here looked after him that ſeeth me? 14. Wherefore the well was called [l] ‡ Beer-lahai-roi; behold, it is [m] between Kadeſh and Bered. 15. ¶ And [n] Hagar bare Abram a ſon: and Abram called his ſons name, which Hagar bare, Iſhmael. 16. ¶ And Abram was fourſcore and ſix years old, when Hagar bare Iſhmael to Abram.

[k] See Chap. xxxii. 30.
[l] Chap. xxiv. 62. & xxv. 11.
‡ i. e. The well of him that liveth and ſeeth me.
[m] Numb. xiii. 26.
[n] Gal iv. 22.
1910.

v. 13—16. Hagar immediately turns back, after a grateful acknowledgment of the mercy beſtowed on her; and Abram in his old age is comforted with a ſon.

1. The name ſhe gave the place where God appeared to her. Thou God ſeeſt me. Note, 1. It is the comfort of every affliction, the ſpur to every duty, and the reſtraint from every ſin, to feel the eye of God upon us. 2. We ſhould do well to acknowledge his gracious viſitations, and have them not only in our mind, but in our mouth.

2. Her admiration of God's condeſcenſion thus to look upon her. Note, 1. A ſoul brought to a ſenſe of his error, is amazed at the mercy he finds with God. 2. The eye of faith looks to the all-ſeeing God, and this is its ſtability and ſupport.

3. Her ſon born. Iſhmael, long before Iſaac. Note, Corruption is always the firſt born of the heart; and how many expect no ſecond birth, and die contentedly children of the bondwoman.

Before Chriſt 1910.

CHAP. XVII.

This chapter contains a new appearance of God to Abram, and a more enlarged account of the covenant made with him. 1. Its general ſcope, ver. 1. 2. the particulars of it, 1. That he ſhould be the father of many nations, ver. 4, 6. and in token of that, his name was changed, ver. 5. 2. That God would be a God to him and his ſeed, and would give them the land of Canaan, ver. 7, 8. And the ſeal of this part of the covenant was circumciſion, ver. 9—14. 3. That he ſhould have a ſon by Sarai, and in token of that her name was changed, ver. 15, 16. This promiſe Abram received, ver. 17. And his requeſt for Iſhmael (ver. 18.) was anſwered abundantly to his ſatisfaction, ver. 19—22. 4. The circumciſion of Abram and his family, according to God's appointment, ver 23. ad finem.

1. AND when Abram was ninety years old and nine, the LORD appeared to Abram, and ſaid unto him, [a] I am the Almighty God; [b] walk before me, and be thou † perfect. 2. And I will make my covenant between me and thee, and will [c] multiply thee exceedingly. 3. And Abram fell on his face: and God talked with him, ſaying, 1897.

[a] Chap. xxviii. 3.
[b] Chap. v. 22. & xlviii. 15. 1 Kings ii. 4. & viii. 25.
† Or upright, or ſincere.
[c] Chap. xii. 2. & xiii. 16.

v. 1, 2, 3. We have here a repeated manifeſtation of God's preſence to the holy patriarch, for his comfort and ſupport under the long exerciſe of his faith and patience.

Obſerve, 1. The time, when he was ninety-nine, thirteen years after Iſhmael's birth. A long while, for one who had enjoyed more frequent viſits; and longer ſtill, when we conſider how hope deferred maketh the heart ſick. Note, 1. An aged ſaint of God muſt expect to live more by faith, and leſs by ſenſible experiences. 2. When we have cauſe to fear, that by ſin we have cauſed God to withdraw his preſence, it is a ſore affliction. 3. The comforts we would unbelievingly anticipate, for our puniſhment are often delayed.

2. The humble poſture he appeared in before God. On his face. Note, 1. The nearer we come to God, the more ſhall we feel our ſinfulneſs and vileneſs before him. The ſpots that were unnoticed in the twilight are very viſible in the noon day. 2. Reverence and holy awe ſhould be upon our heart and countenance, when we are ſpeaking before God. 3. When we are found before God in worſhip, God will be found near us in bleſſing.

3. The promiſe and command given to Abram. (1.) The promiſe, I am God Almighty, I will multiply thee, &c. He who promiſes, is able alſo to perform; for he is almighty in himſelf, and all-ſufficient for us. Note, They who have God as their covenant God, have enough, nor need wiſh for more. (2.) His command. Walk before me, and be thou perfect. Learn, 1. He who offers himſelf to be our God, hath a right to expect that we ſhould be his people. 2. God can aſk for no leſs than our whole hearts, and we can offer him no leſs in deſire; though through the weakneſs of our fallen nature, he knows, and we feel, that we cannot always ſtand upright. 3. The ſoul that lives a life of faith, is poſſeſſed of the uttermoſt perfection God commands, for he is compleat in Chriſt. 4. If we have the ſimplicity which is in Chriſt, we have all the internal perfection which any ſcripture ſaint upon earth enjoyed.

4. As for me, behold, my covenant is with thee, and thou ſhalt be a father of † many nations. 5. Neither ſhall thy name any more be called Abram; but thy name ſhall be [d] Abraham, for [e] a father of many nations have I made thee. 6. And I will make thee exceeding fruitful, and I will make [f] nations of thee; and kings ſhall come out of thee. 7. And I will eſtabliſh my covenant between me and thee, and thy ſeed after thee, in their generations, for an everlaſting covenant; to be a God unto thee, and to thy ſeed after thee. 8. And [g] I will give unto thee, and to thy ſeed after thee, the land † [h] wherein thou art a ſtranger, all the land of Canaan, for an everlaſting poſſeſſion; and I will be their God. 9. ¶ And God ſaid unto Abraham, Thou ſhalt keep my covenant therefore, thou and thy ſeed after thee, in their generations.

† Heb. Multitude of nations.
[d]. Neh. ix. 7.
[e] Rom. iv. 17.
[f] Chap. xxxv. 11.
[g] Chap. xii. 7. & xiii. 15.
† Heb. Of thy ſojournings.
[h] Chap. xxiii. 3.

v. 4—9. 1. By God's order Abram's name is changed into Abraham, correſpondent to the promiſe, I will make thee a father of many nations. A new name is a new honour; but it is better ſtill; it is a confirmation of his faith. What God calls him, he is. Though the children are unborn, faith gives ſubſiſtence to the things hoped for. More people probably this day are deſcended from him; and more kings have reigned, and do ſtill reign, of his poſterity in Iſaac, Iſhmael, and the ſons of Keturah, than from any man who lived in his or any ſucceeding time, time. But in a more exalted and extenſive ſenſe, as the father of the faithful, his ſeed are yet more numberleſs, and every one a king.

2. God's covenant with him. Full of promiſes, great and precious; a numberleſs progeny, a fruitful land, a kingly throne, and everlaſting poſſeſſion of it: part to be fulfilled on earth, the better part in heaven, where Jeſus is ſet down upon the throne for ever and ever. Note, 1. God's covenant is as ſure as his faithfulneſs and power can make it. 2. The great bleſſing of the covenant of grace is, that all God is and hath are made over to us; wiſdom to guide, grace to pardon, power to ſupport, goodneſs to comfort: all things, in ſhort, are ours, if God is ours. 3. The crowning mercy is, it is as eternal in its continuance, as it was in its contrivance.

[i] Acts vii. 8.

[k] Acts vii. 8. Rom. iv. 11.
‡ Heb. A ſon of eight days.
[l] Lev. xii. 3. Luke ii. 21. John vii. 22. Phil. iii. 5.

10. This is my covenant, which ye ſhall keep between me, and you, and thy ſeed after thee; [i] Every man-child among you ſhall be circumciſed. 11. And ye ſhall circumciſe the fleſh of your fore-ſkin, and it ſhall be [k] a token of the covenant betwixt me and you. 12. And ‡ he that is eight days old [l] ſhall be circumciſed among you, every man-child in your generations, he that is born in the houſe, or bought with money of any ſtranger, which is not of thy ſeed. 13. He that is born in thy houſe, and he that is bought with thy money, muſt needs be circumciſed: and my covenant ſhall be in your fleſh for an everlaſting covenant. 14. And the uncircumciſed man-child, whoſe fleſh of his foreſkin is not circumciſed, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people: he hath broken my covenant.

v. 10—14. The covenant being given, the ſeal of it is preſcribed, circumciſion. A bloody rite, to ſignify the neceſſity of ſhedding blood for the remiſſion of ſin; which all, from the infant to the aged, muſt ſubmit to; for none can enter the kingdom of heaven, but through the blood of the covenant; intimating alſo the neceſſity of putting off the ſins of the fleſh, and of that inward circumciſion, without which the other availed nothing; for he was not a Jew, who was one outwardly; and armed with the threatning of utter exciſion on non-compliance, becauſe neglect of the ſign implied rejection of the covenant. Note, 1. They who would have God for their God, muſt conſecrate themſelves to him under the inſtituted ſeals of the covenant. 2. Neglecters of God's ſacraments are excluded from God's promiſes, and liable to God's judgments.

† Heb. She ſhall become nations.
[m] Chap. xxxv. 11. Gal. iv. 31. 1 Pet. iii. 6.
[n] Chap. xviii. 12.
[o] Chap. xviii. 10. & xxi. 2.
[p] Chap. xvi. 10.
[q] Chap. xxv. 12, 16.
[r] Chap. xxi. 18.
[s] Chap. xxi. 2.

15. ¶ And God ſaid unto Abraham, As for Sarai, thy wife, thou ſhalt not call her name Sarai, but Sarah ſhall her name be. 16. And I will bleſs her, and give thee a ſon alſo of her: yea, I will bleſs her, and † ſhe ſhall be a mother of [m] nations; kings of people ſhall be of her. 17. Then Abraham fell upon his face, and [n] laughed, and ſaid in his heart, Shall a child be born unto him that is an hundred years old? and ſhall Sarah, that is ninety years old, bear? 18. And Abraham ſaid unto God, O that Iſhmael might live before thee! 19. And God ſaid, [o] Sarah thy wife ſhall bear thee a ſon indeed; and thou ſhalt call his name Iſaac: and I will eſtabliſh my covenant with him for an everlaſting covenant, and with his ſeed after him. 20. And as for Iſhmael, I have heard thee: Behold, I have bleſſed him, and will make him fruitful, and [p] will multiply him exceedingly: [q] twelve princes ſhall he beget, and [r] I will make him a great nation. 21. But my covenant will I eſtabliſh with Iſaac, [s] whom Sarah ſhall bear unto thee at this ſet time in the next year. 22. And he left off talking with him, and God went up from Abraham.

v. 15—22. God now more explicitly reveals his deſigns to Abraham.

1. A ſon is promiſed, not of the bondwoman, but of the free. Sarai ſhall ſhare with Abraham in the bleſſing; ſhe ſhall be mother of kings and nations. Note, 1. Huſband and wife muſt count their mercies one. 2. A ſon from the Lord is a bleſſing we cannot be enough thankful for.

2. Sarai's name changed. A new name, to intimate the new honour he intended to confer on her. She is a princeſs indeed, as Sarah ſignifies, from whom he ſprings, who is King of kings, and Lord of lords.

3. Abraham's joy on the news. Wonder and delight, joined with deep humility, lay him on his face in adoration, whilſt his heart danceth for joy. Note, 1. Faith in God's promiſe fills the heart with joy in believing. 2. The only ſubſtantial bliſs is that which God communicates: of all other laughter we may ſay it is mad; and of mirth, what doth it? 3. The exultation of the ſoul in God is ever accompanied with equal humiliation. The higher we riſe in divine conſolations, the lower we lie in abaſement; whilſt falſe joy breeds pride and ſecurity.

4. His prayer for Iſhmael. Though Iſaac be preferred, Iſhmael is not neglected. Learn, 1. Though one child have the better portion, all demand our prayers and care. 2. The greateſt bleſſing we can aſk of God for our children, is his grace to direct their ways aright before his face.

5. God's gracious regard to him. Though Iſaac hath the covenant, Iſhmael ſhall not want a bleſſing. Note, 1. God gives us more than we are wont to deſire. He aſked one bleſſing, God promiſes two. 2. The ſons of God, like Iſaac, are ſons of laughter: to walk mournfully is not the character of the children of the promiſe. 3. The preference of Iſaac is of God's ſovereignty, that the election of grace may ſtand.

6. When Abraham is fully ſatisfied, God withdraws, and leaves him for a while to meditate upon theſe wonders of mercy. Note, God's ſenſible preſence cannot be expected always here: we are called now to live by faith; in heaven it will be unclouded ſight, uninterrupted fruition.

23. ¶ And Abraham took Iſhmael his ſon, and all that were born in his houſe, and all that were bought with his money, every male among the men of Abrahams houſe; and circumciſed the fleſh of their foreſkin, in the ſelf-ſame day, as God had ſaid unto him. 24. And Abraham was ninety years old and nine when he was circumciſed in the fleſh of his foreſkin. 25. And Iſhmael his ſon was thirteen years old when he was circumciſed in the fleſh of his fore-ſkin. 26. In the ſelf-ſame day was Abraham circumciſed, and Iſhmael his ſon. 27. And all the men of his houſe, born in the houſe, and bought with money of the ſtranger, were circumciſed with him.

v. 23—27. Abraham no ſooner is commanded, but he obeys without delay. God's commands are law and reaſon to him; and chearfully he receives the ſeal, as gratefully he had accepted the promiſe. Note, 1. The poſitive inſtitution of God admits no reaſoning: it is enough he enjoins us the ſign, for us to uſe it. 2. True obedience never defers till to-morrow what can be done to-day; for who knows what a day may bring forth? 3. They who would guide others in the right way, muſt firſt ſhew the example. 4. As it is known only to God, who are really choſen, we in hope baptize infants as well as others: if they could be members of the covenant before Chriſt's coming, why not after?

CHAP. XVIII.

We have an account in this chapter of another interview between God and Abraham, probably within a few days after the former, as a reward of his chearful obedience to the law of circumciſion. Here is (1.) The kind viſit which God made him, and the kind entertainment he gave to that viſit, ver. 1—8. (2.) The matters diſcourſed of between them. 1. The purpoſes of God's love concerning Sarah, ver. 9—15. 2. The purpoſes of God's wrath concerning Sodom. 1. The diſcovery God made to Abraham of his deſign to deſtroy Sodom, ver. 16—22. 2. The interceſſion Abraham made for Sodom, ver. 23—33.

[a] Heb. xiii. 2.
[b] Chap. xliii. 24.
[c] Judg. vi. 18. & xiii. 15.
† Heb. Stay.
[d] Chap. xix. 8. & xxxiii. 10.
‡ Heb. You have paſſed.
‖ Heb. Haſten.

1. AND the LORD appeared unto him in the plains of Mamre: and he ſat in the tent-door in the heat of the day. 2. And [a] he lift up his eyes and looked, and lo, three men ſtood by him: and when he ſaw them, he ran to meet them from the tent-door, and bowed himſelf toward the ground, 3. And ſaid, My Lord, if now I have found favour in thy ſight, paſs not away, I pray thee, from thy ſervant. 4. [b] Let a little water, I pray you, be fetched, and waſh your feet, and reſt yourſelves under the tree. 5. And [c] I will fetch a morſel of bread, and † comfort ye your hearts; after that you ſhall paſs on; [d] for therefore ‡ are ye come to your ſervant. And they ſaid, So do as thou haſt ſaid. 6. And Abraham haſtened into the tent unto Sarah, and ſaid, ‖ Make ready quickly three meaſures of fine meal, knead it, and make cakes upon the hearth. 7. And Abraham ran unto the herd, and fetcht a calf tender and good, and gave it unto a young man; and he haſted to dreſs it. 8. And he took butter and milk, and the calf which he had dreſſed, and ſet it before them; and he ſtood by them under the tree, and they did eat.

v. 1—8. We have here Abraham's hoſpitality to three unknown ſtrangers, though afterwards found to be celeſtial viſitants in human forms.

1. His affectionate invitation of them. He ſat in the tent-door, to welcome in the weary traveller; and when no inns were yet in uſe, ſuch labours of love became the father of the faithful. Note, A Chriſtian's heart is generous and hoſpitable. No ſooner does the opportunity offer, than with profound reſpect, and urgent intreaty, he brings theſe gueſts into his tent. Note, (1.) Religion never teaches rudeneſs, but civility. (2.) A good man thinks it a favour done him, that he hath it in his power to relieve the deſtitute.

2. The hearty welcome given them. Luxury of diet yet unknown, (and how much better ſtill unknown!) and pride of equipage, make no part of Abraham's entertainment. Himſelf and Sarah not too great to ſerve, and one plain diſh, beneath a tree, compleats the banquet. Happy ſimplicity! where friendſhip unfeigned made hypocritical compliments uſeleſs, and plain abundance ſupplied thoſe wants of hunger, which pampered appetite never knew. Note, 1. True faith produces fervent charity. No fruits like thoſe which grow on this tree. 2. True nobility and greatneſs is ever moſt condeſcending.

9. ¶ And they ſaid unto him, Where is Sarah thy wife? And he ſaid, Behold, in the tent. 10. And he ſaid, [e] I will certainly return unto thee, [f] according to the time of life; and lo, [g] Sarah thy wife ſhall have a ſon. And Sarah heard it in the tent-door, which was behind him. 11. Now [h] Abraham and Sarah were old, and well ſtricken in age: and it ceaſed to be with Sarah after the manner of women. 12. Therefore Sarah laughed within herſelf, ſaying, [i] After I am waxed old, ſhall I have pleaſure, [k] my lord being old alſo? 13. And the LORD ſaid unto Abraham, Wherefore did Sarah laugh, ſaying, Shall I of a ſurety bear a child, which am old? 14. [l] Is any thing too hard for the LORD? [m] At the time appointed will I return unto thee, according to the time of life, and Sarah ſhall have a ſon. 15. Then Sarah denied, ſaying, I laughed not: for ſhe was afraid. And he ſaid, Nay, but thou didſt laugh.

[e] Ver. 14.
[f] 2 Kings iv. 16.
[g] Chap. xvii. 19, 21. & xxi. 2. Rom. ix. 9.
[h] Chap. xvii. 17. Rom. iv. 19. Heb. xi. 11, 12.
[i] Luke i. 18.
[k] 1 Pet. iii. 6.
[l] Jer. xxxii. 17. Zech. viii. 6. Matt. xix. 26. Luke i. 37.
[m] Chap. xvii. 21. 2 Kings iv. 16.

v. 9—15. Now Abraham begins to find he hath loſt nothing by his gueſts. He invited but men; he finds among them his Lord. Note, They who do good to the leaſt of Chriſt's little ones, doth it unto him. Obſerve,

1. Their enquiries after Sarah. The women, according to the eaſtern cuſtom, ſat not down with them to meat. But they ſhewed by their enquiring, that they were no ſtrangers to his family. Civil enquiries are kind.

2. Abraham's anſwer. She is where ſhe ſhould be, in the tent. The duty of a wife is to be a keeper at home; and when we are in the way of duty, we may expect to find a bleſſing.

3. The promiſe made to Sarah. Now the Lord begins to appear. He ſpeaks more than man, that can ſay, I will, Thou ſhalt. Bleſſed be his name; not only all his promiſes, but his commands run thus: he makes us what he wills us to be.

4. Sarah's unbelief. Though out of ſight, not out of hearing: ſhe laughed at an event ſo improbable. Note, 1. Reaſon is a bad guide in matters of faith. 2. The ſame appearances may ariſe from different cauſes: a ſmile may beſpeak contemptuous unbelief, or ſatisfied confidence. 3. If Sarah called her huſband Lord, let her daughters remember and imitate her reſpect.

5. The rebuke given her. Why did Sarah laugh? Is any thing too hard for God? Note, 1. Suſpicions of God's power or grace, or both, are very diſpleaſing to him. 2. Rebuke is the kindeſt inſtance of friendſhip, and beſt return for favours received. Let the righteous ſmite me friendly. 3. Unwillingneſs to give, and backwardneſs to receive reproof, is a ſure ſign of a perverſe or cold heart.

6. Sarah's denial. To conceal one fault, ſhe makes two. One ſin ſeldom goes alone. Nothing leads us into a lye ſooner than fear. Fools that we are, not to place that fear on the proper object. Can man's rebukes be equal to thoſe God hath appointed for lying lips? Oh that we feared him more, and man leſs. Yet this rebuke wrought good effects; though unbelief prevailed before, faith triumphs now: he that knew her heart, could give the ſon. Note, When we might expect chaſtiſement for our ſin, God oftentimes humbles us with mercies.

16. ¶ And the men roſe up from thence, and looked towards Sodom: and Abraham went with them [n] to bring them on the way. 17. And the LORD ſaid, [o] Shall I hide from Abraham that thing which I do; 18. Seeing that Abraham ſhall ſurely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth [p] ſhall be bleſſed in him? 19. For I know him, that he will command his children and his houſhold after him, and they ſhall keep the way of the LORD, to do juſtice and judgment; that the LORD may bring upon Abraham that which he hath ſpoken of him. 20. And the LORD ſaid, Becauſe the [q] cry of Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and becauſe their ſin is very grievous; 21. [r] I will go down now, and ſee whether they have done altogether according to the cry of it, which is come unto me; and if not, I will know. 22. And the men turned their faces from thence, and went towards Sodom: but Abraham ſtood yet before the LORD.

[n] Rom. xv. 24. 3 John 6.
[o] Amos iii. 7. John xv. 15.
[p] Chap. xii. 3. and xxii. 18. Acts iii. 25. Gal. iii. 8.
[q] Chap. iv. 10. & xix. 13. Jam. v. 4.
[r] Chap. xi. 5.

v. 16—22. The viſit over, the ſtrangers depart. But Abraham had taſted ſo much of the ſweets of their company, he will not leave them thus, but brings them on their way. Note, We are loth to part with thoſe, with whom we have enjoyed much of the preſence of the Lord. And now Abraham's kindneſs is ſtill more abundantly repaid: while two of his gueſts are ſent before, the third ſtays. His Lord not only gives him his company, but reveals to him his ſecret. Obſerve,

1. God's reaſons for informing Abraham of his deſign. (1.) He will not hide his counſel from him; for he is a friend, for whom he had done much, and would do more. Note, 1. It is a reaſon with God to give more, where he hath given much. 2. God diſcovers more of his ſecret counſels to his ſervants, than other men. An enlightened mind, thoroughly verſed in God's word, attains a knowledge next to prophecy. (2.) He will inſtruct his children and houſhold. Whatever knowledge he hath will be made uſeful to others as well as himſelf. Ye maſters of families, behold in Abraham's practice your example and duty. 1. To make it your care and buſineſs to inſtruct your children and ſervants in the way of the Lord. Remember, the loweſt under your roof hath an immortal ſoul, and it is entruſted to your care. 2. Be yourſelf the example of what you teach. 3. Be conſtant with them at a throne of grace, both to ſhew them the way thither, and to obtain a bleſſing on your labours among them.

2. His diſcovery of the deſign of his viſit to Sodom. Their ſins, that called for vengeance; and he is come to enquire into it: not that he wanted to be informed, but that he may appear both patient and juſt in all his judgments. Learn, 1. Crying ſins are heard in heaven, however unnoticed on earth. And Note, Theſe ſins were pride, luxury, and idleneſs. Who need not hearken, whether ſome ſuch cry goes up from him. 2. Sinners ſay, God ſhall not ſee; but they are woefully miſtaken. 3. God never puniſhes by report; many are belied, whom God will acquit; but where he condemns, his judgment is ever according to truth.

23. ¶ And Abraham drew near, and ſaid, Wilt thou alſo deſtroy the righteous with the wicked? 24. [s] Peradventure there be fifty righteous within the city: wilt thou alſo deſtroy, and not ſpare the place for the fifty righteous that are therein? 25. That be far from thee to do after this manner, to ſlay the righteous with the wicked: and that the righteous ſhould be as the wicked, that be far from thee: [t] Shall not the Judge of all the earth do right? 26. And the LORD ſaid, If I find in Sodom fifty righteous within the city, then I will ſpare all the place for their ſakes.

[s] Jer. v. 1.
[t] John viii. 3. & xxxiv. 17. Pſal. xciv. 2. Rom. iii. 6.

v. 23—26. Abraham no ſooner hears the ſecret, than ſtrait his heart begins to plead, if yet there may be hope. We have here,

1. Abraham's prayer. And a moſt ardent, humble, believing, loving prayer it is. 1. His approach; filled with the ſenſe both of the greatneſs and goodneſs of his dear Lord, he dares approach with reverence and hope, drawn by that fervent charity, which would ſnatch the brand from the burning. 2. His requeſt for Sodom. See how he pleads, (1.) For the righteous. Some he charitably hoped might be found. Lot, no doubt, and perhaps he had converts. Confident they ſhould be ſpared, he pleads God's glorious perfections; his mercy and righteouſneſs embolden his addreſs. Note, 1. It is a ſtrong ſupport in prayer to plead God's perfections, as a ground to ſpeak before him. 2. We muſt be confident, the Judge of all will do right; nor ſhall any man have cauſe to find fault with his determinations. 3. The righteous ſhall not be deſtroyed with the wicked. Though they be involved with them, they ſhall not be like them. They ſhall eſcape out of their trial, or their ſuffering ſhall be ſanctified unto them. (2.) For the wicked. Though we hate ſin, we muſt pity and pray for the ſinner. The worſt muſt not be forgotten; whilſt there is life, there is hope. Note, 1. To be ſpared to repent is a great mercy. 2. If any reprieve be hoped for, it is for the righteous ſake.

2. God's anſwer. Free and gracious. Thus doth prayer prevail. How ready he to hear, how willing to pardon: if fifty be found righteous, Sodom is ſpared. How ſhould it encourage our applications to him?

27. And Abraham anſwered and ſaid, Behold now, I have taken upon me to ſpeak unto the LORD, which am [u] but duſt and aſhes. 28. Peradventure there ſhall lack five of the fifty righteous: wilt thou deſtroy all the city for lack of five? And he ſaid, If I find there forty and five, I will not deſtroy it. 29. And he ſpake unto him yet again, and ſaid, Peradventure there ſhall be forty found there. And he ſaid, I will not do it for forties ſake. 30. And he ſaid unto him, Oh let not the LORD be angry, and I will ſpeak: Peradventure there ſhall thirty be found there. And he ſaid, I will not do it, if I find thirty there. 31. And he ſaid, Behold now, I have taken upon me to ſpeak unto the LORD: Peradventure there ſhall be twenty found there. And he ſaid, I will not deſtroy it for twenties ſake. 32. And he ſaid, [x] Oh let not the LORD be angry, and I will ſpeak yet but this once: Peradventure ten ſhall be found there. And he ſaid, I will not deſtroy it for tens ſake. 33. And the LORD went his way, aſſoon as he had left communing with Abraham: and Abraham returned unto his place.

[u] Chap. iii. 19. Job iv. 19. Eccleſ. xii. 7. 1 Cor. xv. 47, 48. 2 Cor. v. 2.

[x] Judg. vi. 39.

v. 27—33. Whilſt other givers expect we ſhould be ſatisfied, when God gives, he expects and is pleaſed that we aſk for more. Behold,

1. Abraham's renewal of his requeſts. 1. His preface: deeply humbled, he confeſſes himſelf duſt and aſhes, yea, and ſinful duſt and aſhes too, unworthy to ſpeak before God. Let us remember this ever, when we appear before God. The beſt of men are no better.

2. His prayers and anſwers. He fain would ſpeed, and therefore leſſens the number. God grants it. Once more he dares to ſpeak. Importunately he aſks for pardon in this boldneſs. Oh what a God have we, never weary of granting, never tired with importunity, and, glorious as he is, is not angry to be thus beſieged with ceaſeleſs cries. Again he ſpeeds. Again he cannot be ſilent; again is anſwered graciouſly. Yet once, and but once more, will he preſume to ſpeak: reduced to ten his laſt requeſt. And ſure, if five cities produce not ten righteous men, ruin muſt be near. Even hereunto God condeſcends to conſent. Note, (1.) How good is it to pray and never faint. (2.) There are ſins unto death, for which prayer cannot avail. (3.) When we have been diſappointed of ſucceſs, we ſhall not loſe the bleſſing; if the mercy be not vouchſafed to others, it will return upon ourſelves.

3. Their parting. God leaves him, but not till he hath done aſking; and Abraham returned to wait the iſſue, ſure, however, not to be diſappointed concerning God's promiſe, and looking if yet there may be hope. Note. We cannot expect too little from man, nor too much from God.

CHAP. XIX.

In this chapter we have the hiſtory of Sodom's ruin, and Lot's reſcue from that ruin; the reſult of the enquiry, Chap. xviii. 21. is, 1. That Lot was very good, ver. 1, 2, 3. 2. That the Sodomites were very wicked, and vile, ver. 4—11. 3. Special care was therefore taken for the ſecuring of Lot, and his family, in a place of ſafety, ver. 12—23. 4. Mercy having rejoiced therein, juſtice ſhews itſelf in the ruin of Sodom, and of Lot's wife, ver. 24—26. with a general repetition of the ſtory, ver. 27—29. 5. A foul ſin that Lot was guilty of, in committing inceſt with his two daughters, ver. 30, ad finem.

1. AND there came two angels to Sodom at even; and Lot ſat in the gate of Sodom: and Lot ſeeing them, roſe up to meet them; and he bowed himſelf with his face toward the ground; 2. And he ſaid, Behold now, my lords, [a] turn in, I pray you, into your ſervants houſe, and tarry all night, and [b] waſh your feet, and ye ſhall riſe up early, and go on your ways. And they ſaid, [c] Nay, but we will abide in the ſtreet all night. 3. And he preſſed upon them greatly; and they turned in unto him, and entred into his houſe: and he made them a feaſt, and did bake unleavened bread, and they did eat.

[a] Heb. xiii. 2.

[b] Chap. xviii. 4.

[c] Luke xxiv. 28.

v. 1—3. We have, here, the angels arrival at Sodom, and Lot's kind reception of them.

1. The two angels came to Sodom at even. The Lord ſends his executioners of vengeance, and who ſhall ſtand before theſe miniſters of flame?

2. Lot meets and preſſes them into his houſe. Singular in his piety, he is ſelected from the general ruin. He is earneſt to ſollicit their company, and happy to entertain them liberally. He had ſeen no ſuch viſitants at Sodom of a long time. Note, Good men deſerve a hearty welcome. We cannot be too preſſing on ſuch to favour us with their company.

3. The angels at firſt ſeem courteouſly to excuſe themſelves, but at laſt yield to his ſollicitations. Note, 1. Every invitation which is given us muſt not be haſtily complied with, leſt we ſhould ſeem to run, where we ſhould wait to be drawn. 2. Thoſe who are hearty ſollicitors, however they may fail with men, ſhall prevail with God.

4. ¶ But before they lay down, the men of the city, even the men of Sodom, compaſſed the houſe round, both old and young, all the people from every quarter. 5. And they called unto Lot, and ſaid unto him, Where are the men which came in to thee this night? [d] bring them out unto us, that we may know them.

[d] Judg. xix. 22.

v. 4, 5. They who came to ſee, were ſoon convinced of the wickedneſs of Sodom. Obſerve,

1. The univerſal corruption, old and young from every quarter. Note, That muſt needs be a wicked place, where the old ſet the example, and are ringleaders in iniquity.

2. Their crime. The moſt monſtrous and unnatural; ſhocking to think of, and infamous to mention; yet they dared avow it, and add impudence to their vile affections. Note, 1. No ſin in the ſight of God is more abominable than unnatural luſts. 2. When men have loſt ſhame, they are on the brink of ruin.

6. And Lot went out at the door unto them, and ſhut the door after him, 7. And ſaid, I pray you, brethren, do not ſo wickedly. 8. [e] Behold now, I have two daughters, which have not known man; let me, I pray you, bring them out unto you, and do ye to them as is good in your eyes: only unto theſe men do nothing; for therefore came they under the ſhadow of my roof. 9. And they ſaid, Stand back. And they ſaid again, This one fellow came in to ſojourn, and [g] he will needs be a judge: now will we deal worſe with thee than with them. And they preſſed ſore upon the man, even Lot, and came near to break the door. 10. But the men put forth their hand, and pulled Lot into the houſe to them, and ſhut to the door. 11. And [h] they ſmote the men that were at the door of the houſe with blindneſs, both ſmall and great: ſo that they wearied themſelves to find the door.

[e] See Judges xix. 24.

[f] See Chap. xviii. 5.

[g] Ex. ii. 14.

[h] Wiſd. xix. 17. 2 Kings vi. 18. Acts xiii. 11.

v. 6—11. We have here,

1. Lot's interpoſition. Obſerve, (1.) His advice; an humble intreaty. A wiſe reprover will ever cloak rebuke with the garment of love. (2.) His haſty propoſal, v. 8. We muſt not commit ſin to avert ſin, nor do evil that good may come. (3.) His earneſt pleading of the laws of hoſpitality. When we treat with men, we ſhould endeavour to convince them by argument.

2. Their inſolent rejection of his advice, with intimidating threats againſt himſelf, v. 9. Note, 1. Ill language is the common lot of thoſe who ſet their faces againſt men's ſins. 2. Friendly admonition is often thus rejected as inſolent intruſion. 3. They who would rebuke wicked men, muſt put their life in their hand. 4. The laſt effort to ſave is then finiſhed, when ſinners thruſt out from them the preaching of the goſpel.

3. The angel's interpoſition to ſave Lot, and chaſtiſe theſe ſinners againſt the Lord. Note, (1.) God has a hand to pull us in at the door of ſafety, when our caſe ſeems almoſt deſperate. (2.) Thoſe who can truſt him with their life, are ſure of a ſafe retreat at laſt, where the wicked ceaſe from troubling. (3.) Whom God will deſtroy, he uſually infatuates. Dementat quos vult perdere. (4.) No judgment will turn the heart. Though ſmitten of God, as the men of Sodom, ſtill they are fully ſet to do evil. They ſay, We will purſue it yet again.

12. ¶ And the men ſaid unto Lot, Haſt thou here any beſides? ſon in law, and thy ſons, and thy daughters, and whatſoever thou haſt in the city, bring them out of this place. 13. For we will deſtroy this place: becauſe [i] the cry of them is waxen great before the face of the LORD, and the LORD hath ſent us to deſtroy it. 14. And Lot went out, and ſpake unto his ſons in law, which married his daughters, and ſaid, Up, get ye out of this place; for the LORD will deſtroy this city: but he ſeemed as one that mocked unto his ſons in law.

[i] Chap. xviii. 20.

v. 12—14. Lot is here warned of the approaching cataſtrophe of Sodom, and, as permitted, flies to warn his relations to eſcape. Obſerve,

1. The

Before Chriſt 1897.

1. The command given him, to bring out all he could perſuade of his relations from the ruin. Note, Thoſe who are themſelves awakened to a ſenſe of their danger, muſt uſe their utmoſt efforts to perſuade others to fly with themſelves from the wrath to come.

2. Lot's haſte to inform his kinſmen, his ſons in law, and their families. Up, get you out. Abrupt and urgent; beſpeaking his ſollicitude, their danger, and the neceſſity of immediate compliance. Note, (1.) Miniſters cannot be too warm and urgent in their addreſs to ſinners conſciences. (2.) They who are in jeopardy every hour, have not a moment to trifle with.

3. Their reception of him. They thought him mad or melancholy, and laughed at his fears. Note, 1. Many now laugh at hell, who will ſhortly wail there eternally. 2. To mock at God's warnings, is the way to haſten his judgments. Such mockers ſtill are found. 3. It is no uncommon thing for deſpiſers of the goſpel to treat the miniſters of it as enthuſiaſts or melancholic.

15. ¶ And when the morning aroſe, then the angels haſtened Lot, ſaying, Ariſe, take thy wife, and thy two daughters which † are here; leſt thou be conſumed in ‡ the iniquity of the city. 16. And [k] while he lingered, the men laid hold upon his hand, and upon the hand of his wife, and upon the hand of his two daughters; the LORD being merciful unto him: and they brought him forth, and ſet him without the city. 17. And it came to paſs, when they had brought them forth abroad, that he ſaid, Eſcape for thy life; [l] look not behind thee, neither ſtay thou in all the plain: eſcape to the mountain, leſt thou be conſumed. 18. And Lot ſaid unto them, Oh not ſo, my Lord. 19. Behold now, thy ſervant hath found grace in thy ſight, and thou haſt magnified thy mercy, which thou haſt ſhewed unto me in ſaving my life: and I cannot eſcape to the mountain, leſt ſome evil take me, and I die. 20. Behold now, this city is near to flee unto, and it is a little one: Oh let me eſcape thither, (is it not a little one?) and my ſoul ſhall live. 21. And he ſaid unto him, See, I have accepted † thee concerning this thing alſo, that I will not overthrow this city, for the which thou haſt ſpoken. 22. Haſte thee, eſcape thither: for [m] I cannot do any thing till thou be come thither: therefore [n] the name of the city was called Zoar.

† Heb. Are found.
‡ Or Puniſhment.
[k] Wiſd. x. 6.
[l] ver. 26. Matt. xxiv. 16, 17, 18. Luke ix. 62. Phil. iii. 13, 14.
† Heb. Thy face.
[m] See chap. xxxii. 25, 26. Exod. xxxii. 10. Deut. ix. 14. Mark vi. 5.
[n] Chap. xiii. 10. & xiv. 2.

v. 15—22. We have here, Lot's flight and reſcue from the burnings of Sodom. Though ten righteous were not found to ſave the whole, one righteous man is found, and he ſhall ſave himſelf and family. Obſerve,

1. Lot's lingring in Sodom. How loth to part from his houſe, his goods, his ſons, his daughters; but go he muſt, or periſh in the flames. Note, (1.) Worldly things are a great ſnare to the heart. (2.) Theſe cauſe many an awakened ſoul to linger, through fear of loſs, or hope of gain, inſtead of coming out of the world, and being ſeparate. (3.) It is owing to God's ſovereign grace, that we are with a holy violence forced away, and ſaved from the effects of our ſinful lingerings.

2. The angels haſte to get him away; they laid hold on him, and his daughters, and brought them out, and then urge their flight to the mountain, without ſo much as ſtopping by the way, or caſting a look on the devoted cities. Note, (1.) They who would fly from ſin to Chriſt Jeſus, muſt never think of ſeeking reſt any where but in him. (2.) To look back with regret on the pleaſures of ſin, is the way to be again entangled thereby. (3.) Till death, we muſt haſten our flight faſter and faſter from the world which lieth in wickedneſs.

3. Lot's requeſt. A mixture of unbelief. Why could not he who called him out, help him on his way? How often does unbelief aſſault the faithful ſoul! A mixture of charity. If Bela was his refuge, his ſafety would be theirs alſo. It was a little city; perhaps leſs wicked therefore. God mingles his mercy in the midſt of judgment.

4. It is granted. Though there might be much infirmity in Lot's pretending to chuſe the place of his ſafety, the more mercy is manifeſted in God's yielding to his requeſt. Effectual fervent prayer availeth much. Note, 1. A righteous man ſaved the city; how valuable ſuch men! yet uſually they are thought the troublers. 2. God's hands ſeem bound till he is ſafe: thoſe who have everlaſting promiſes for their hope, need not fear to periſh: God cannot deny himſelf.

23. ¶ The ſun † was riſen upon the earth when Lot entered into Zoar. 24. Then [o] the LORD rained upon Sodom and upon Gomorrah brimſtone and fire from the LORD out of heaven. 25. And he overthrew thoſe cities, and all the plain, and all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which grew upon the ground.

† Heb. Gone forth.
[o] Deut. xxix. 23. Iſa. xiii. 19. Jer. l. 40. Ezek. xvi. 49. Hoſ. xi. 8. Amos iv. 11. Zeph. ii. 9. Luke xvii. 29. 2 Pet. ii. 6. Jude 7.

Before Chriſt 1897.

v. 23—25. Bright was the ſun which roſe upon devoted Sodom. Safe in their fooliſh confidence, Lot's flight afforded matter of freſh ridicule, and now they can welcome the returning day. But ſee when ſinners are in the heighth of their ſecurity, how deſtruction overtakes them. The ſun is covered, the ſtorm ariſes, the lightnings glare, the heavens are on fire, the flames deſcend, the ſmoaking cities ſend up their dying cries. Too late to call for mercy, it is the time of judgment. Mark the end of ſinners vain confidence.

Learn, 1. If judgments are on the earth, it is the Lord's work. The Lord Jeſus is not only the Saviour of thoſe who believe in him, like Lot, but he is the judge and deſtroyer of thoſe who, like Sodom, reject his ſalvation. 2. They who go after ſtrange fleſh, may expect to be puniſhed with ſtrange judgments. 3. What a fearful thing it is to fall into the hands of the living God. Fools now make a mock of ſin, but they will find it a bitter thing, when they ſhall feel, with Sodom, the vengeance of eternal fire, Jude, 7.

26. ¶ But his wife looked back from behind him, and ſhe became [p] a pillar of ſalt.

[p] Wiſd. x. 7. Luke xvii. 32.

v. 26. But four came out of Sodom, and one was loſt by the way. Behold, and tremble. Remember Lot's wife.

1. Her ſin: looking back. Diſobedient to the command, and diſtruſtful of the threatning, with unſubdued affection to her worldly enjoyments, ſhe was drawn out by violence, but her heart was behind. Note, 1. They who make profeſſion of religion, out of complaiſance to their friends, or by mere conſtraint, will ſoon make ſhipwreck of it, to their ſhame. 2. If we think of leaving our ſin, we muſt make no reſerve, either in affection or practice: once on the way to heaven, we muſt perſevere; to look back, is to return unto perdition. Let us fear then, leaſt we fall.

2. Her puniſhment: a pillar of ſalt; a laſting memorial to warn ſucceeding ages. Note, (1.) Many a ſaint of God goes to heaven, and leaves his wife, through her perverſeneſs, on the plain. (2.) No inducement muſt tempt us to ſtay, or look back on them; if they will not go with us, we muſt leave them to their ruin.

27. ¶ And Abraham gat up early in the morning, to the place where [q] he ſtood before the LORD. 28. And he looked toward Sodom and Gomorrah, and toward all the land of the plain, and beheld, and lo, the ſmoke of the country went up as the ſmoke of a furnace. 29. ¶ And it came to paſs, when God deſtroyed the cities of the plain, that God remembred Abraham, and ſent Lot out of the midſt of the overthrow, when he overthrew the cities in the which Lot dwelt.

[q] Chap. xviii. 22.

v. 27—29. Abraham ſpent the night, no doubt, ſollicitous about the iſſue of his prayer, and at early dawn, ariſes to ſee what God had determined. And here we have,

1. The awful ſight before him; the deſolate plain, and ſmoaking ruins of the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah. Satisfied in the vengeance, no doubt he juſtified God in his judgments. The ſaints who ſhall praiſe God in glory for his mercies to themſelves, ſhall alſo when the ſmoak of the ſinners torment aſcends, cry Hallelujah, Rev. xix. 3.

2. The kind remembrance God had of Abraham, in the reſcue of Lot. Note, (1.) When we are enquiring after the anſwer of our prayers, we ſhall certainly find their effect; if not in our own way, yet in ſuch a way, as we have need be thankful for. (2.) Connexions with true believers, are great bleſſings; we often find the benefit of their prayers.

30. ¶ And Lot went up out of Zoar, and dwelt in the mountain, and his two daughters with him; for he feared to dwell in Zoar: and he dwelt in a cave, he and his two daughters.

v. 30. Lot's removal from Zoar. Whether ſhocked at their wickedneſs, or frightened with the apprehenſions of thoſe waters, that now roſe to make the lake of Sodom, he flies to that mountain, which before he was ſo unwilling to go to, and leaves the city, to dwell more ſecurely in a cave. Note, 1. Our own choice ſeldom proves good, and therefore, ſooner or later, God by diſappointments brings us to follow his will as the beſt. 2. Lot's plenty, that the land could not hold, is now gone, and a hole in a mountain contains his little all. Note, Thoſe who for ſecular advantage, leave God's people, will ſmart for it uſually in grievous diſappointments.

31. ¶ And the firſt-born ſaid unto the younger, Our father is old, and there is not a man in the earth to come in unto us after the manner of all the earth. 32. Come, let us make our father drink wine, and we will lie with him, that we may preſerve ſeed of our father. 33. And they made their father drink wine, that night: and the firſt-born went in, and lay with her father; and he perceived not when ſhe lay down, nor when ſhe aroſe. 34. And it came to paſs on the morrow, that the firſt-born ſaid unto the younger, Behold, I lay yeſternight with my father: let us make him drink wine this night alſo; and go thou in, and lie with him, that we may preſerve ſeed of our father. 35. And they made their father drink wine that night alſo: and the younger aroſe, and lay with him; and he perceived not when ſhe lay down, nor when ſhe aroſe. 36. Thus were both the daughters of Lot with child by their father. 37. And the firſt-born bare a ſon, and called his name Moab: the ſame is the father of the Moabites unto this day. 38. And the younger, ſhe alſo bare a ſon, and called his name Benammi: the ſame is the father of the children of Ammon unto this day.

Before Christ about 1875.

v. 31—38. How little ſafety is there for us from ſin in any place? He who was kept in Sodom, is overcome in a cave. We have here,

1. His daughter's wicked contrivance. They had, it is to be feared, been too much tinctured with Sodom's ſin, and were eye-witneſſes of its puniſhment: now the old ſore breaks out again; what they could not effect when their father was ſober, they endeavour to bring about by drunkenneſs, and thus one crime is aggravated with another. Note, (1.) When a woman's heart is ſet on wickedneſs, it will go hard, but ſhe ſucceeds. (2.) No judgments can reſtrain thoſe, whom divine grace doth not change. (3.) Solitude is ſo far from being a cure to lewdneſs, that it there uſually prevails: to fly away from theſe evil imaginations into company, is their readieſt cure.

2. Lot's ſhameful and ſcandalous fall. Lord, what is man, if left to himſelf! Drunk and inceſtuous, and thus repeatedly too: let us read it with horror. Note, (1.) No man this ſide heaven, is ſafe from preſumptuous ſins, or above praying to be kept from them. (2.) Drunkenneſs hath no end of evil; then every crime without horror or ſhame is eaſily committed. (3.) Let neareſt relatives beware: the freedoms of their relation may degenerate into the fouleſt indulgences.

3. The fruit of this inceſtuous commerce. Two ſons, Moab and Ammon; and two nations alſo, a perpetual memorial of Lot's ſhame. Note, Though proſperity may ſeem to attend the moſt unnatural ſins, the end will be miſery and ſhame.

CHAP. XX.

We are here returning to the ſtory of Abraham, yet that part of it which is here recorded, is not to his honour. While there are ſpots in the ſun, we muſt not expect any thing ſpotleſs under it. The ſcripture is impartial in relating the blemiſhes even of its moſt celebrated ſaints. We have here, 1. Abraham's ſin in denying his wife, and Abimelech's ſin thereupon in taking her, ver. 1, 2. 2. God's diſcourſe with Abimelech in a dream, wherein he ſhews him his error, ver. 3. Accepts of his plea, ver. 4. 5. 6. and directs him to make reſtitution, ver. 7. 3. Abimelech's reproof of Abraham, ver. 8, 9, 10. Abraham's excuſe, ver. 11, 12, 13. 4. The good iſſue of the ſtory, in which Abimelech reſtores Abraham his wife, ver. 14, 15, 16. and Abraham, by prayer, prevails with God for the removal of the judgment Abimelech was under, ver. 17, 18.

1. AND Abraham journeyed from thence toward the ſouth country, and dwelled between [a] Kadeſh and Shur, and ſojourned in Gerar. And Abraham ſaid of Sarah his wife, [b] She is my ſiſter: and Abimelech king of Gerar ſent and took Sarah.

[a] Chap. xvi. 7, 14.
[b] Chap. xii. 13.

v. 1, 2. Abraham's removal is here mentioned, and his ſojourning among the Philiſtines. Note, Wherever we are in this world, we muſt remember we are but ſojourners, as all our fathers were. We have here,

1. A repetition of his former equivocation, and probably on the ſame account. Though Sarah was now in years, ſhe was yet beautiful. Note, It is a ſad thing to be overtaken with ſin, it is worſe to relapſe into it, but ſtill the backſlider may return. Let none preſume they cannot fall; let none fallen, ſink into deſpair.

2. The danger to which Sarah is again expoſed. When unbelieving fear comes upon us, the evils we ſhould otherwiſe avoid overtake us.

3. But [c] God came to [d] Abimelech in a dream by night, and ſaid to him, Behold thou art but a dead man, for the woman which thou haſt taken: for ſhe is † a mans wife. 4. But Abimelech had not come near her: and he ſaid, LORD, wilt thou ſlay alſo a righteous nation? 5. Said he not unto me, She is my ſiſter? and ſhe, even ſhe herſelf ſaid, he is my brother: in the ‡ integrity of my heart, and innocency of my hands have I done this. 6. And God ſaid unto him in a dream, Yea, I know that thou didſt this in the integrity of thy heart: for [e] I alſo with-held thee from ſinning [f] againſt me: therefore ſuffered I thee not to touch her. 7. Now therefore reſtore the man his wife; for [g] he is a prophet, and he ſhall pray for thee, and thou ſhalt live: and if thou reſtore her not, know thou, that thou ſhalt ſurely die, thou, and all that are thine.

[c] Pſal. cv. 14.
[d] Job xxxiii. 14, 15.

Before Christ 1897.

† Heb. Married to an huſband.
‡ Or ſimplicity, or ſincerity.
[e] Chap. xxxi. 7. & xxxv. 5. Exod. xxxiv. 24. 1 Sam. xxv. 26.
[f] Chap. xxxix. 9. Lev. vi. 2. Pſal. li. 4.
[g] 1 Sam. vii. 5. 2 Kings, v. 11. Job xlii. 8.

v. 3—7. God again interpoſes to ſave Sarah from her imminent danger. We have,

1. His appearance to Abimelech, to warn him of his danger in a dream. Why may not dreams ſometimes be ſtill monitory? He informs him he is a dead man if he touch her. Note, Every ſin hath this wages. The ſinner is already dead in the eye of God's law.

2. Abimelech's plea; ignorance, and in this caſe innocence. It is a bleſſed plea to have the teſtimony of a good conſcience. God will not ſlay the righteous.

3. God's acceptance of it, and injunction. He, who knew his heart, was ſatisfied of his integrity. Note, God's approbation is a counterbalance againſt every unjuſt ſuſpicion of the world. And God it was, who had with-held him. Note, God's reſtraining grace we are all wonderfully indebted to: How much worſe elſe had we been than we are? But he muſt ſend her back, or die, for ſhe is a prophet's wife, whoſe prayers ſhould be accepted for him. Learn (1.) God's prophets have his peculiar care. (2.) The king upon the throne is as much expoſed to the divine wrath by ſin, as the meaneſt. Let kings remember, they have the ſame law to be judged by, as their ſubjects.

8. Therefore Abimelech roſe early in the morning, and called all his ſervants, and told all theſe things in their ears: and the men were ſore afraid. 9. Then Abimelech called Abraham, and ſaid unto him, What haſt thou done unto us? and what have I offended thee, that [h] thou haſt brought on me and on my kingdom a great ſin? thou haſt done deeds unto me that ought not to be done. 10. And Abimelech ſaid unto Abraham, What ſaweſt thou, that thou haſt done this thing? 11. And Abraham ſaid, Becauſe I thought, Surely the fear of God is not in this place; and they will ſlay me for my wifes ſake. 12. And yet indeed ſhe is my ſiſter; ſhe is the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother: and ſhe became my wife. 13. And it came to paſs, when God cauſed me to wander from my fathers houſe, that I ſaid unto her, This is thy kindneſs which thou ſhalt ſhew unto me; At every place whither we ſhall come, [i] ſay of me, He is my brother.

[h] Chap. xxvi. 10.
[i] Chap. xii. 13.

v. 8—13. We have here,

1. Abimelech's care and haſte to get rid of Sarah: he warns his ſervants, and trembles himſelf. When ſin is in the caſe, we cannot be too ſollicitous to be rid of it.

2. His ſerious reproof of Abraham, v. 9. A great ſin, that would have involved his kingdom in ruin, without any provocation, brought on him by Abraham's ſuſpicious fear, and falſe diſſimulation. Note, (1.) Adultery is among the greateſt of ſins. (2.) Kings ſhall rue for it. (3.) Their people are often involved in their puniſhment. (4.) The greateſt injury any man can do us, is to lead us into ſin. (5.) Uncharitable ſuſpicions are very evil to ourſelves, and oftentimes the cauſe of greater evil to others.

3. Abraham's weak and ſorry excuſe. His fears of the place beſpoke his cenſoriouſneſs; his fears for his wife, his unbelief. Note, (1.) We are too haſtily apt to conclude they have no religion, who are not exactly in our way of thinking: but we are often miſtaken to our ſhame; their practice reproves us. (2.) All equivocations generally lead us into ſcrapes. Truth will never ſhame its author.

14. And Abimelech [k] took ſheep, and oxen, and men-ſervants, and women-ſervants, and gave them unto Abraham, and reſtored him Sarah his wife. 15. And Abimelech ſaid, Behold, my land is before thee: dwell † where it pleaſeth thee. 16. And unto Sarah he ſaid, Behold, I have given thy brother a thouſand pieces of ſilver: behold, he is to thee a covering of the eyes, unto all that are with thee, and with all other; thus ſhe was reprov-

[k] Chap. xii. 16.
† Heb. As is good in thine eyes.

Before Chriſt 1896.

reproved. 17. ¶ So Abraham prayed unto God: and God healed Abimelech, and his wife, and his maid-ſervants; and they bare children. 18. For the LORD had faſt cloſed up all the wombs of the houſe of Abimelech, becauſe of Sarah Abrahams wife.

v. 14—18. Abraham's unreaſonable fears are farther rebuked by Abimelech's kindneſs.

1. He reſtores Sarah, and with her makes a noble preſent, as a repair of his miſtake, with full licence to live wherever he choſe: and he adds a warning to Sarah, againſt the like prevarication. Note, (1.) When we find a good man, he is worth making our friend. (2.) Let Sarah's daughters remember, their eyes and their affections ſhould be covered to all, but their own huſbands.

2. Abraham's return for Abimelech's favours. He prayed for him, and God healed his family of their barrenneſs. Note, The prayers of God's people for us, are the beſt returns they can make us.

CHAP. XXI.

In this chapter we have, 1. Iſaac, the child of promiſe, born into Abraham's family, ver. 1—8. 2. Iſhmael, the ſon of the bond-woman, caſt out of it, ver. 9—21. 3. Abraham's league with his neighbour Abimelech, ver. 22—32. 4. His devotion to his God, ver. 33, 34.

1. AND the LORD viſited Sarah, as he had ſaid, and the LORD did unto Sarah [a] as he had ſpoken. 2. For Sarah [b] conceived, and bare Abraham a ſon in his old age, [c] at the ſet time which God had ſpoken to him. 3. And Abraham called the name of his ſon that was born unto him, whom Sarah bare to him, [d] Iſaac. 4. And Abraham circumciſed his ſon Iſaac, being eight days old, [e] as God had commanded him. 5. And [f] Abraham was an hundred years old, when his ſon Iſaac was born unto him.

[a] Chap. xvii. 19. & xviii. 10, 14.
[b] Acts vii. 8. Gal. iv. 22. Heb. xi. 11.
[c] Chap. xvii. 21.
[d] Chap. xvii. 19.
[e] Chap. xvii. 10, 12.
[f] Chap. xvii. 1, 17.

v. 1—5. Iſaac, at laſt is born; the wonder and expectation of his day. Obſerve,

1. The fulfilment of the promiſe, when all human proſpects were at an end; when Abraham was as dead, and Sarah paſt the time of child-bearing. Note, (1.) Promiſed mercies will come in God's time. (2.) God can work for us, when we moſt deſpair of ourſelves. (3.) What nature cannot do, faith can, Heb. xi. 11.

2. Abraham's carefulneſs to obſerve God's preſcribed order, to circumciſe him on the eighth day, and give him the name of Iſaac. Note, When our hearts are circumciſed, and our new name given us, as ſons of Abraham, Iſaac's, ſons of laughter, then ſhall we rejoice with joy unſpeakable, and full of glory.

6. ¶ And Sarah ſaid, [g] God hath made me to laugh, ſo that all that hear will laugh with me. 7. And ſhe ſaid, Who would have ſaid unto Abraham, that Sarah ſhould have given children ſuck? for I have born him a ſon in his old age. 8. And the child grew, and was weaned: and Abraham made a great feaſt the ſame day that Iſaac was weaned.

[g] Iſa. liv. 1. & lxvi. 10. Gal. iv. 27.

v. 6—8. Obſerve, 1. Sarah laughed once in diſtruſt. Now with thankfulneſs and wonder filled, ſhe acknowledges God's goodneſs, to make her give ſuck, and be a joyful mother: Who could have thought it? but God doth more for us, than all we can aſk or think. Learn (1.) When mercies come, to receive them with wonder and love. (2.) To rejoice with thoſe who rejoice. (3.) Not to forget our ſinful diſtruſts, whilſt the mercy was delayed. (4.) To take care of the children God gives us. Every mother ſhould ſuckle, if ſhe can, her own children. It is unnatural to refuſe our breaſts to the fruit of our womb. (5.) Every redeemed ſoul in glory will wonder at himſelf: who could have ſaid or thought that ſuch a vile ſinner ſhould have ſuch a bleſſed portion?

2. Iſaac's infancy; his weaning, and the feaſt Abraham made at it. Note, There are ſome ſeaſons, when feaſting is not only innocent, but becoming. To rejoice before God in our feaſts, for mercies beſtowed, will preſerve us from exceſs, and enable us to eat and drink to his glory.

9. ¶ And Sarah ſaw the ſon of Hagar [h] the Egyptian, which ſhe had born unto Abraham, [i] mocking. 10. Wherefore ſhe ſaid unto Abraham, [k] Caſt out this bond-woman, and her ſon: for the ſon of this bond-woman ſhall not be heir with my ſon, even with Iſaac. 11. And the thing was very grievous in Abrahams ſight, becauſe of his ſon. 12. ¶ And God ſaid unto Abraham, Let it not be grievous in thy ſight, becauſe of the lad, and becauſe of thy bond-woman; in all that Sarah hath ſaid unto thee, hearken unto her voice: for [l] in Iſaac ſhall thy ſeed be called. 13. And alſo of the ſon of the bond-woman will I make [m] a nation, becauſe he is thy ſeed.

[h] Chap. xvi. 1.
[i] Gal. iv. 29.
[k] Gal. iv. 30. See Chap. xxv. 6. & xxxvi. 6, 7.

Before Chriſt 1892.

[l] Rom. ix. 7. Heb. xi. 18.
[m] Ver. 18. chap. xvi. 10. & xvii. 20.

v. 9—13. The caſting out the bond-woman and her ſon, is here commanded.

1. The cauſe. Iſhmael's mockery of Iſaac, which the Apoſtle calls perſecuting him, Gal. iv. 29. Sarah, diſpleaſed with ſuch abuſe, reſolves to diſmiſs him the family, with his mother. Note, (1.) Mockery is real perſecution. (2.) This at leaſt all who live godly in Chriſt Jeſus muſt ſuffer. (3.) None are rejected of God without cauſe. (4.) They who are the ſeed of the bond-woman, all ſelf-righteous and carnal perſons, have no part in the kingdom of God, or of Chriſt.

2. Abraham's unwillingneſs. Though Iſhmael was not the favoured ſeed, he was a ſon. He was ſorry for the provocation, but more grieved at the thought of his expulſion. Learn, (1.) How great a grief to godly parents, is the ſin of their children. (2.) That when extremities of puniſhment are neceſſary, it is as bitter to the parent to inflict it, as to the child to ſuffer it.

3. God determines the matter by a revelation of his will: this ſatisfies him. Note, When we are in doubt about duty, God will make the way clear before us; and when he doth, we ſhould be ſatisfied. The reaſon God gives is the promiſed ſeed which ſhould deſcend from Iſaac, therefore Iſhmael's example may corrupt him, or his ſuperiority of age lead him to invade his birthright. Not that Iſhmael is utterly rejected; God may have mercies for him, though not under the peculiar covenant of Iſaac, and he is promiſed to become a nation for Abraham's ſake. God hath variety of gifts to beſtow, but he hath ſurely a right to do as he will with his own, to give one leſs, another more. Let us not preſume to impeach his ſovereignty.

14. And Abraham roſe up early in the morning, and took bread, and a bottle of water, and gave it unto Hagar (putting it on her ſhoulder) and the child, and ſent her away: and ſhe departed, and wandered in the wilderneſs of Beerſheba. 15. And the water was ſpent in the bottle, and ſhe caſt the child under one of the ſhrubs. 16. And ſhe went, and ſat her down over-againſt him, a good way off, as it were a bow-ſhot: for ſhe ſaid, Let me not ſee the death of the child. And ſhe ſat over-againſt him, and lift up her voice, and wept. 17. And God heard the voice of the lad: and the angel of God called to Hagar out of heaven, and ſaid unto her, What aileth thee, Hagar? fear not; for God hath heard the voice of the lad where he is. 18. Ariſe, lift up the lad, and hold him in thine hand: for [n] I will make him a great nation. 19. And [o] God opened her eyes, and ſhe ſaw a well of water, and ſhe went, and filled the bottle with water, and gave the lad drink. 20. And God was with the lad, and he grew, and dwelt in the wilderneſs, and [p] became an archer. 21. And he dwelt in the wilderneſs of Paran: and his mother took him a wife out of the land of Egypt.

[n] Ver. 13.
[o] Numb. xxii. 31. See 2 Kings, vi. 17, 18, 20. Luke xxiv. 16, 31.
[p] Chap. xvi. 12.

v. 14—21. Abraham no longer heſitates, when God commands; though parental tenderneſs might plead, or Hagar's fate appear ſevere, it is enough for him to hear and obey. Thus he is trained up by one exerciſe of obedience, to the ſeverer taſk preparing for him in Iſaac. He gives them a little proviſion, and ſends them thus away. Note, Nature may ſtruggle hard, but when God's glory requires, wife and children muſt be parted with. We have hereupon,

1. Hagar's diſtreſs with her ſon in the wilderneſs. Her ſcanty proviſion exhauſted, weary with wandering, fainting with drought, famiſhed with hunger, the tender child ſinks down by her ſide, whilſt ſhe, unable to relieve his wants, with tenderneſs, ſuch as mothers feel, aggravated by diſtreſs ſo bitter, with face averted from her dying ſon, a ſcene too moving to behold, burſts into a flood of tears, and fills the ſolitary wilderneſs with unavailing lamentations. The former promiſes are all forgotten, and deſpair of help finiſhes her wretchedneſs.

2. Now was God's time of mercy. He, who beholds the tears of the miſerable, and hears the groans of thoſe who cannot cry to him, oppreſſed beneath their load of grief too big for utterance, He is near. God's voice is heard; a voice of tender pity, What aileth thee? ariſe, lift up the lad: he opens the fountain, dries up her tears, and Iſhmael lives; nay more, is great, grows up under God's care, and begins, in the ſettlement of his family, to ſee the fulfilment of the promiſe. Behold here, (1.) A lively picture of the awakened ſinner: he is brought into the wilderneſs, his miſery overtakes him, no help is near, and nothing but unavoidable death before his eyes. (2.) Then God opens the fountain of mercy in the ſide of Jeſus, and opens his eyes to ſee it near. (3.) Inſtant the heart flies to this relief, and finds life in thoſe waters which Chriſt can give. (4.) From that hour, God is with him; and though in the wilderneſs of the world, he grows under his care; till (5.) He reaps the final bleſſing promiſed in the land of bliſs and glory everlaſting.

22. ¶ And it came to paſs at that time, that [q] Abimelech and Phichol the chief captain of his hoſt, ſpake unto Abraham, ſaying, God is with thee in all that thou doeſt. 23. Now therefore ſwear unto me here by God,† that thou wilt not deal falſely with me, nor with my ſon, nor with my ſons ſon: but according to the kindneſs that I have done unto thee, thou ſhalt do unto me, and to the land wherein thou haſt ſojourned. 24. And Abraham ſaid, I will ſwear. 25. And Abraham reproved Abimelech, becauſe of a well of water, which Abimelechs ſervants had [r] violently taken away. 26. And Abimelech ſaid, I wot not who hath done this thing: neither didſt thou tell me, neither yet heard I of it but to day. 27. And Abraham took ſheep and oxen, and gave them unto Abimelech: and both of them made a covenant. 28. And Abraham ſet ſeven ewe-lambs of the flock by themſelves. 29. And Abimelech ſaid unto Abraham, What mean theſe ſeven ewe-lambs, which thou haſt ſet by themſelves? 30. And he ſaid, For theſe ſeven ewe-lambs, ſhalt thou take of my hand, that they may be a witneſs unto me, that I have digged this well. 31. Wherefore he called that place Beer-ſheba†: becauſe there they ſware both of them. 32. Thus they made a covenant at Beer-ſheba: then Abimelech roſe up, and Phichol the chief captain of his hoſt, and they returned into the land of the Philiſtines.

[q] Chap. xx. 2. & xxvi. 26.

† Heb. If thou ſhalt lie unto me.

[r] See chap. xxvi. 15, 18, 20, 21, 22.

† i. e. The well of the oath.

v. 22—32. The remarkable favours ſhewn to Abraham, engaged the growing reſpect of his neighbours, which brings Abimelech to renew his acquaintance with him, and to cement it by a ſolemn covenant.

1. Abimelech's propoſal. Convinced of God's peculiar regard to him, he would engage him for his perpetual friend, and under oath of mutual kindneſs, ſecure to his ſon and ſons ſon, this great bleſſing of Abraham's friendſhip. Note, (1.) It is wiſe to take care that our children, when we are dead and gone, may be in good hands, and connected with the friends of God. (2.) Good done us is an obligation to return it, as Abimelech pleads.

2. Abraham conſents; but firſt acquaints Abimelech with a tranſaction, of which he denies the knowledge, reſpecting a well. This matter is amicably adjuſted, as differences between brethren ſhould be. Note, Servants are often in fault, when the maſter is blamed. The treaty then is paſſed; and after liberal preſents, Abraham ratifies it with an oath. Note, (1.) It becomes us not to reject proffers of friendſhip: we may be connected with thoſe as worldly friends, whom we cannot acknowledge as Chriſtian brethren. We ſhould be courteous to all men. (2.) An oath is lawful on ſolemn occaſions, and a confirmation of confidence, as well as an end of ſtrife.

3. The name the well bore ever after, Beer-ſheba, alluding to the oath there made, or the ſeven lambs, which confirmed it to Abraham: the word Sheba bears either ſenſe. (1.) If we ſwear, let us be punctual in the obſervance. (2.) If we bargain, let us make our bargain good.

33. ¶ And Abraham planted a † grove in Beer-ſheba, and called there on the name of the LORD, the everlaſting God. 34. And Abraham ſojourned in the Philiſtines land many days.

† Or tree.

v. 33—34. Here for a while he ſettles in comfort, yet hath not a home, but a lodging: but wherever his abode, there ſhall be a houſe of prayer. He plants a grove, a place for contemplation; or an open oratory ſet apart for his own and his family devotions, and any of his neighbours who chuſe to join with him, and the object of his worſhip is the everlaſting God. Happy they who follow his ſteps, and find the everlaſting arms of this everlaſting God under them, as Abraham did.

CHAP. XXII.

We have here that famous ſtory of Abraham's offering up his ſon Iſaac, which is juſtly looked upon as one of the wonders of the church. Here is, 1. The ſtrange command which God gave to Abraham concerning it, ver. 1, 2. 2. Abraham's ſtrange obedience to this command, ver. 3—10. 3. The ſtrange iſſue of this trial. 1. The ſacrificing of Iſaac was countermanded, ver. 11, 12. 2. Another ſacrifice was provided, ver. 13, 14. 3. The covenant was renewed with Abraham hereupon, ver. 15—19. Laſtly, Account of ſome of Abraham's relations, ver. 20, ad finem.

1. AND it came to paſs after theſe things, that [a] God did tempt Abraham, and ſaid unto him, Abraham. And he ſaid, † Behold, here I am. 2. And he ſaid, Take now thy ſon, thine only ſon Iſaac, whom thou loveſt, and get thee [b] into the land of Moriah; and offer him there for a burnt-offering upon one of the mountains which I will tell thee of.

1871. Joſ. Antiq.
[a] Hebr. xi. 17.

† Heb. Behold me.

[b] 2 Chron. iii. 1.

v. 1, 2. Whilſt we are in the body, we muſt be kept in the exerciſe of faith and obedience. There is no reſt, till the body reſts in death. Abraham had weathered his ſtorms, and began to enjoy repoſe in the comfort of thoſe bleſſings God had beſtowed on him. But now a greater ſtorm of temptation overtakes him, than ever he felt before. He had left his home, and expelled his ſon Iſhmael; but now the very hope and joy of his life is called, and Iſaac muſt bleed. Obſerve,

1. The author of this fiery trial, God; who cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man, i. e. to ſin; but his temptations are to prove the truth, and increaſe the ſtrength of the faith of his ſervants. Note, If a man hath ſevere trials, it is to make him a burning light to God's glory.

2. The command given. When Abraham expects ſome meſſage of peace, as uſual, from his covenant God, how ſurprized muſt he be to hear the dreadful word, Take now thy ſon, make no delay; I call for thy ſon, take him, thine only ſon, in whom thou art ſo wrapped up, that the other is as nothing in thine eyes. This Iſaac, the child of thine age, the ſtaff of thy hopes; this darling, whom thou loveſt ſo tenderly, I call for: Iſaac muſt be offered up to me, not as my ſervant, but as my ſacrifice. Thy hands muſt ſlay him: thou muſt kindle the fire, and lay him thereon. Moriah is the diſtant place, and when thou comeſt, I will ſhew thee the mountain where he muſt be offered a whole burnt ſacrifice unto me. Did ever parent's heart hear ſo afflictive a command, where every word is torture, and pointed as a dagger to the heart.

3. ¶ And Abraham roſe up early in the morning, and ſaddled his aſs, and took two of his young men with him, and Iſaac his ſon; and clave the wood for the burnt-offering, and roſe up, and went unto the place of which God had told him. 4. Then on the third day Abraham lift up his eyes, and ſaw the place afar off. 5. And Abraham ſaid unto his young men, Abide you here with the aſs; and I and the lad will go yonder and worſhip, and come again to you. 6. And Abraham took the wood of the burnt-offering, and laid it upon Iſaac his ſon; and he took the fire in his hand, and a knife: and they went both of them together. 7. And Iſaac ſpake unto Abraham his father, and ſaid, My father: and he ſaid, † Here am I, my ſon. And he ſaid, Behold the fire and the wood: but where is the lamb for a burnt-offering? 8. And Abraham ſaid, My ſon, God will provide himſelf a ‡ lamb for a burnt-offering: ſo they went both of them together. 9. And they came to the place which God had told him of, and Abraham built an altar there, and laid the wood in order; and bound Iſaac his ſon, and [c] laid him on the altar upon the wood. 10. And Abraham ſtretched forth his hand, and took the knife to ſlay his ſon.

† Heb. Behold me.

‡ Or kid.

[c] Jam. ii. 21.

v. 3—10. With ſilent awe the patriarch hears, and heſitates not to obey. A thouſand arguments no doubt aroſe. Can God enjoin what he hath forbidden? Muſt Abraham become an unnatural monſter? Can human ſacrifices pleaſe him? and muſt a father murder his ſon? Can ſuch an unreaſonable as well as unnatural command come from God? What and where then is the promiſed ſeed? Sprinkled with the blood of her ſon, how ſhall I meet the upbraiding mother? and what will the nations think, when ſhuddering with horror they hear the dreadful tale? Thus fleſh objected: but faith conſults not with fleſh and blood: convinced, beyond the poſſibility of doubt, he had God's warrant, he haſtes to fulfil the dire command.

1. Early in the morning he roſe. Neither deliberation nor delay is admitted. Note, In difficult trials of faith, what we do we muſt do quickly.

2. He makes the needful preparations, cleaves the wood, where each ſtroke muſt have hewed his heart with pangs. Saddles his beaſt for diſpatch, and, probably unknown to Sarah, haſtes away. Note, The diſtreſs of others for him, is apt to melt down the martyr, more than his approaching ſuffering.

3. After three long days journey, where every ſtep muſt have been anguiſh, the place appears. Abraham undaunted ſees it afar off, diſmiſſes his ſervants, leſt they intrude and hinder him: alone he muſt bear the ſhock. Note, When we approach to God in worſhip, intruding thoughts and cares ſhould be ſhut out.

Before Chriſt 1871.

4. Iſaac, the darling boy, now bears the wood on which he muſt be extended a breathleſs corpſe; Abraham the fire to conſume, the knife to ſlay him. Who can abide it? what faith can ſtand? Grace is omnipotent.

5. No ſtranger to the wonted rites of ſacrifice, the lovely youth with innocence demands, My father,—a melting word! a piercing remembrancer!—Where is the lamb? Ah hapleſs child! might Abraham bleeding with tenderneſs ſay; it cannot be; thou muſt not lie down weltering in blood beneath my hand, my cruel hand.—No, unmoved, unſhaken, he replies, My ſon, God will provide himſelf a lamb. Thou art the ſacrifice; he gave thee me, and he demands thee back again.

6. The ſpot is fixed, the altar riſes, the wood is laid. Stupendous faith! The ſon, the ſeed, the Iſaac, the darling, is bound, is laid; the knife is drawn, the arm extended, the point deſcending into the ſhivering fleſh. Who can regard the attitude, and not be ſtruck with ſacred dread, with holy horror, and deep amazement, at ſuch determined obedience. God ſees well pleaſed, and ſtays the deſcending ſtroke.

11. And the angel of the LORD called unto him out of heaven, and ſaid, Abraham, Abraham. And he ſaid, Here am I. 12. And he ſaid, Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him: for now I know that thou feareſt God, ſeeing thou haſt not with-held thy ſon, thine only ſon from me. 13. And Abraham lifted up his eyes, and looked, and behold, behind him a ram caught in a thicket by his horns: And Abraham went and took the ram, and offered him up for a burnt-offering, in the ſtead of his ſon. 14. And Abraham called the name of that place † Jehovah-jireh: as it is ſaid to this day, in the mount of the LORD it ſhall be ſeen.

† i. e. The Lord will ſee, or, provide.

v. 11—14. Never meſſage greeted mortal ear more welcome.

1. The ſpeaker. The angel of the Lord. That bleſſed angel of the covenant, that only ſon, whom God hath ſpared to bleed for us; he arreſts the uplifted arm, and cries, Slay not thy ſon. Iſaac unbound, with rapture as given from the dead, is claſped to his boſom, twice welcome now, when thus reſtored. The trial was to prove Abraham's faith, not to ſlay his ſon. Note, (1.) When we give up every creature comfort to God, then ſhall we moſt enjoy them. (2.) Man's extremity is God's opportunity.

2. The approbation of this glorious inſtance of obedience, v. 12. God knew it before; he teſtifies it now for Abraham's comfort, and for his honour, to all ſucceeding ages. Note, God accepts our intentions as if accompliſhed; to him the will is the deed.

3. Another ſacrifice provided. When all is ready, the fire ſhall not burn in vain: a ram is in the thicket, and ſupplies the place of Iſaac. Note, Praiſe is the fit return of mercy.

4. A name is given the place, in memory of the deed. Jehovah-jireh, the Lord will provide or ſee. He will do both, behold his people's diſtreſſes with an eye of compaſſion, and provide a relief ſuitable to their wants. None ever truſted in him but found him in mercies abundant, in truth faithful, in promiſes unchangeable.

5. In the whole ſtory we have a lively type of greater things. We have ſeen the day, when God ſpared not his own ſon, when he was bound with cords, when he bore his croſs, and on this mountain, probably on this very ſpot, was offered up an offering for ſin; when he, triumphant over the grave, roſe again to live for ever more, and ſees the ſeed of his redeemed people, whom no man can number, and whoſe poſſeſſions are the glories of heaven and eternity.

6. And now, my ſoul, meditate on theſe things. Art thou a ſon of Abraham? Is there in thine heart a darling ſin? Is there a favourite luſt, like Iſaac, precious in thine eye? Draw forth the knife, and ſmite it to the heart. Hath God ſpared not his ſon for me, and ſhall I ſpare what he commands to ſacrifice? No, gracious Saviour, no. Help me to be faithful, unreſerved, chearful, willing in my ſurrender to thee, to keep back nothing from thee. Then prove me, and ſearch the ground of my heart; and when thou haſt tried me as ſilver is tried, crown the faith thou haſt beſtowed, and the obedience thou haſt wrought, with that unfading glory, which thou haſt promiſed unto thoſe who are faithful unto death.

15. ¶ And the angel of the LORD called unto Abraham out of heaven the ſecond time, 16. And ſaid, [d] By myſelf have I ſworn, ſaith the LORD, for becauſe thou haſt done this thing, and haſt not withheld thy ſon, thine only ſon: 17. That in bleſſing I will bleſs thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thy ſeed [e] as the ſtars of the heaven, and [f] as the ſand which is upon the † ſea-ſhore; and [g] thy ſeed ſhall poſſeſs the gate of his enemies; 18. And [h] in thy ſeed ſhall all the nations of the earth be bleſſed: becauſe thou haſt obeyed my voice. 19. So Abraham returned unto his young men, and they roſe up, and went together to Beer-ſheba, and Abraham dwelt at Beer-ſheba.

[d] Pſal. cv. 9. Ecclus. xliv. 21. Luke i. 73. Heb. vi. 13.

Before Chriſt 1871.

[e] Chap. xv. 5. Jer. xxxiii. 22.

[f] Chap. xiii. 16.

† Heb. Lip of the ſea.

[g] Chap. xxiv. 60.

[h] Chap. xii. 3. & xviii. 18. & xxvi. 4. Ecclus xliv. 22. Acts iii. 25. Gal. iii. 8, 16, 18.

v. 15—19. Thoſe who honour him, God will honour. Abraham pleaſed God, and he ſhall not want his reward.

1. The covenant is confirmed by an oath, to multiply his ſeed, that by two immutable things he might have ſtrong conſolation.

2. The better bleſſing is promiſed; that Meſſiah, in whom not one nation but all nations ſhould be bleſſed; whoſe ſeed ſhould exceed the ſtars; before whoſe victorious arms his enemies ſhould bow, and ſin, Satan, death and hell, receive their final and fatal overthrow. Abraham's natural deſcendants were honourable, great, and numerous; but this incarnate ſon of Abraham's race hath acquired for his people bleſſing, glory, power, dominion, ſuch as eye hath not ſeen, nor ear heard, nor hath it entered into the heart of man to conceive.

20. ¶ And it came to paſs after theſe things, that it was told Abraham, ſaying, Behold [i] Milcah, ſhe hath alſo born children unto thy brother Nahor; 21. [k] Huz his firſt-born, and Buz his brother, and Kemuel the father of [l] Aram, 22. And Cheſed, and Hazo, and Pildaſh, and Jidlaph, and Bethuel. 23. And [m] Bethuel begat [n] Rebekah: theſe eight Milcah did bear to Nahor Abrahams brother. 24. And his concubine, whoſe name was Reumah, ſhe bare alſo Tebah, and Gaham, and Thahaſh, and Maachah.

[i] Chap. xi. 29.

[k] Job i. 1.

[l] Job xxxii. 2.

[m] Chap. xxiv. 15.

[n] Rom. ix. 10.

v. 20—24. Abraham's friends flouriſh as well as himſelf; a numerous family, and, among the reſt, Rebeccah, of whom we ſhall hear more hereafter, and for whoſe ſake chiefly the reſt are mentioned. Note, It is a great comfort to hear of the proſperity of our friends; their joy is our own.

CHAP. XXIII.

Here is, 1. Abraham a mourner for the death of Sarah, ver. 1, 2. 2. Abraham a purchaſer of a burying-place for Sarah. 1. The purchaſe humbly propoſed by Abraham, ver. 3, 4. 2. Fairly treated of and agreed with a great deal of mutual civility and reſpect, ver. 5—16. 3. The purchaſe money paid, ver. 16. 4. The premiſes conveyed and ſecured to Abraham, ver. 17, 18, 20. 5. Sarah's funeral, ver. 19.

1859.

1. AND Sarah was an hundred and ſeven and twenty years old: theſe were the years of the life of Sarah. 2. And Sarah died in [a] Kirjath-arba; the ſame is Hebron in the land of Canaan: and Abraham came to mourn for Sarah, and to weep for her.

[a] Joſh. xiv. 15. Judg. i. 10.

v. 1, 2. Sarah firſt pays the tribute of nature, and Abraham, juſtly afflicted with her loſs, with tears of no fictitious grief, laments the partner of his cares, who had been ſo long the comforter of his pilgrimage. Note, (1.) Death will part the neareſt relatives; let us remember and provide againſt it. (2.) Tears are due to the memory of our departed friends. (3.) The great ſupport under ſuch affliction is, when, though we mourn, we can ſay, Bleſſed are the dead who die in the Lord.

3. ¶ And Abraham ſtood up from before his dead, and ſpake unto the ſons of Heth, ſaying, 4. [b] I am a ſtranger and a ſojourner with you: give me a poſſeſſion of a burying-place with you, that I may bury my dead out of my ſight. 5. And the children of Heth anſwered Abraham, ſaying unto him, 6. Hear us, my Lord; thou art a † mighty prince amongſt us; in the choice of our ſepulchres bury thy dead: none of us ſhall withhold from thee his ſepulchre, but that thou mayeſt bury thy dead. 7. And Abraham ſtood up, and bowed himſelf to the people of the land, even to the children of Heth. 8. And he communed with them, ſaying, If it be your mind that I ſhould bury my dead out of my ſight, hear me, and intreat for me to Ephron, the ſon of Zoar: 9. That he may give me the cave of Machpelah, which he hath, which is in the end of his field; for ‡ as much money as it is worth he ſhall give it me, for a poſſeſſion of a burying-place amongſt you. 10. And Ephron dwelt amongſt the children of Heth. And Ephron the Hittite anſwered Abraham in the § audience of [b] Chap. xvii. 8. Hebr. xi. 13.

† Heb. Prince of God.

‡ Heb. Full money.

§ Heb. Ears.

Before Chriſt 1859.

of the children of Heth, even of all that went in at the gates of his city, ſaying, 11. [c] Nay, my Lord, hear me: the field give I thee; and the cave that is therein, I give it thee; in the preſence of the ſons of my people give I it thee; bury thy dead. 12. And Abraham bowed down himſelf before the people of the land. 13. And he ſpake unto Ephron in the ‖ audience of the people of the land, ſaying, But if thou wilt give it, I pray thee hear me: I will give thee money for the field; take it of me, and I will bury my dead there. 14. And Ephron anſwered Abraham, ſaying unto him, 15. Nay, my Lord, hearken unto me: the land is worth four hundred [d] ſhekels of ſilver: what is that betwixt me and thee? bury therefore thy dead.

[c] See 2 Sam. xxiv. 21, 22, 23, 24.
‖ Heb. Ears.
[d] Exod. xxx. 15. Ezek. xlv. 12.

v. 3—15. Abraham in the land of promiſe had neither houſe to cover his head, nor ſepulchre to bury his dead; but his preſent ſituation obliges him to make application for ſo needful a place.

1. His application to the children of Heth. He was a ſtranger among them, and therefore begs the favour to obtain ſome ſmall ſpot for a burying-ground. The beautiful Sarah was now no longer pleaſing; ſhe muſt be hid from his ſight. Note, (1.) Death makes ſtrange alterations with the faireſt face. (2.) The death of others ſhould remind us of our own; we are but ſtrangers in this world, and ſojourners, as all our fathers were. (3.) We ſhould beware of over much ſorrow, and ſeek to divert that grief, which, if exceſſive, may hurt ourſelves, but cannot profit the dead.

2. His application is received with the moſt generous offer of the beſt of their ſepulchres. Though he called himſelf a ſtranger, they acknowledged him a great prince.

3. Their civility meets with a reſpectful return. He bowed himſelf in acknowledgment of the favour. It is duty to be courteous. And begs them to intercede with Ephron to ſell the cave of Machpelah. It is no unlawful coveting to deſire to purchaſe what our neighbour can conveniently ſpare, and we need.

4. Ephron's generoſity. He offers to give it; and when Abraham would fain pay him, he mentions the value in ſuch a way, as intimates his readineſs to yield it without any conſideration. It was prudent and juſt in Abraham, who was rich, to preſs the purchaſe. We ſhould not needleſsly be obliged to others. It was noble in Ephron to offer it: it ſhewed a contempt of worldly wealth, and a pleaſure to oblige Abraham, which manifeſted how much he valued his friendſhip. Note, (1.) It is well ſo to behave, as to make our friendſhip valued and ſought. (2.) We find a generoſity often among thoſe who pretend not to Chriſtianity, which is a ſevere reproach on niggardly profeſſors of it. (3.) Between true friends nothing ſhould be reſerved. A union of heart will ever in ſome ſort make community of purſe. We ſhall ſay, What is that between me and thee?

16. And Abraham hearkened unto Ephron, and Abraham weighed to Ephron the ſilver which he had named in the audience of the ſons of Heth, four hundred ſhekels of ſilver, current money with the merchant. 17. ¶ And [e] the field of Ephron, which was in Machpelah, which was before Mamre, the field and the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the borders round about, were made ſure 18. Unto Abraham for a poſſeſſion in the preſence of the children of Heth, before all that went in at the gate of his city. 19. And after this, Abraham buried Sarah his wife in the cave of the field of Machpelah, before Mamre: the ſame is Hebron in the land of Canaan. 20. And the field and the cave that is therein were made ſure unto Abraham for a poſſeſſion of a burying-place, by the ſons of Heth.

[e] Chap. xxv. 9. & l. 13. Acts vii. 16.

v. 16—20. Abraham preferring the purchaſe, Ephron accepts the money, and conveys to him the field where the cave ſtood, with all its appurtenances. Abraham is put in poſſeſſion, and the children of Heth witneſs the bargain; and there Sarah's corpſe is depoſited. Note, (1.) Fair reckonings make faſt friends. (2.) Fidelity in our bargains is to be ſcrupulouſly obſerved. (3.) The decent care of burial is a profeſſion of our hope of the reſurrection of the body. (4.) Whilſt we are all ſo ſollicitous in general for a burying-place for our bodies in earth, let it quicken us to greater ſollicitude, to ſecure a reſting place for our ſouls in heaven.

CHAP. XXIV.

In the foregoing chapter we had Abraham burying his wife; here we have him marrying his ſon. Here is, 1. Abraham's care about it, and the charge he gave to his ſervant, ver. 1—9. 2. His ſervant's journey into Abraham's country, to ſeek a wife for his young maſter among his own relations, ver. 10—14. 3. The kind providence which brought him acquainted with Rebekah, whoſe father was Iſaac's couſin-german, ver. 15—28. 4. The treaty of marriage with her relations, ver. 29—49. 5. Their conſent obtained, ver. 50—60. 6. The happy meeting and marriage between Iſaac and Rebekah, ver. 61, ad finem.

Before Chriſt 1856.

1. AND Abraham was old and † well ſtricken in age: and the LORD had bleſſed Abraham in all things. 2. And Abraham ſaid [a] unto his eldeſt ſervant of his houſe, that ruled over all that he had, [b] Put, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh: 3. And I will make thee ſwear by the LORD, the God of heaven, and the God of the earth, that [c] thou ſhalt not take a wife unto my ſon of the daughters of the Canaanites amongſt whom I dwell: 4. But thou ſhalt go unto my country, and to my kindred, and take a wife unto my ſon Iſaac. 5. And the ſervant ſaid unto him, Peradventure the woman will not be willing to follow me unto this land: muſt I needs bring thy ſon again into the land from whence thou cameſt? 6. And Abraham ſaid unto him, Beware thou, that thou bring not my ſon thither again. 7. ¶ The LORD God of heaven which [d] took me from my father's houſe, and from the land of my kindred, and which ſpake unto me, and that ſware unto me, ſaying, [e] Unto thy ſeed will I give this land; he ſhall ſend his angel before thee, and thou ſhalt take a wife unto my ſon from thence. 8. And if the woman will not be willing to follow thee, then thou ſhalt be clear from this my oath: only bring not my ſon thither again. 9. And the ſervant put his hand under the thigh of Abraham his maſter, and ſware to him concerning that matter.

About 1856.
† Heb. Gone into days.
[a] Chap. xv. 2.
[b] Chap. xlvii. 29. 1 Chron. xxix. 24. Lam. v. 6.
[c] Chap. xxvi. 35. & xxvii. 46. & xxviii. 2. Exod. xxxiv. 16. Deut. vii. 3.
[d] Chap. xii. 1, 7.
[e] Chap. xii. 7. & xiii. 15. & xv. 18. & xxvi. 4. Exod. xxxii. 13. Deut. xxxiv. 4. Acts vii. 5.

v. 1—9. As Sarah's death concurred with Abraham's age, in reminding him how few were his days to come; he is deſirous, as a good father, to ſee Iſaac well ſettled before he dies. Two things he was ſollicitous to prevent; his marriage with a daughter of Canaan, and his return to his own country to ſeek a wife. Note, (1.) Every godly man or woman ſhould well weigh Abraham's caution. An unconverted partner is a moſt dangerous and deadly ſnare. (2.) Parents, as they have a right to recommend what appears beſt to their children, ſhould, above all things, conſult their ſouls good. In conſequence of theſe views we have,

1. His ſolemn charge given to his ſteward, confirmed by an oath to act herein according to his intentions. He is to go and ſeek a wife from Abraham's kindred, and is ſolemnly enjoined by no means to ſuffer Iſaac to go thither himſelf. The ſteward, according to his known fidelity and affection, conſents readily to be employed, and takes the oath, with one proviſo, if the woman ſhould not be willing to come, he ſhould be free. Note, An oath is a ſolemn thing, and cannot be taken with too much warineſs and conſideration.

2. The encouragement Abraham gives him, v. 7. Paſt experience aſſured him of preſent ſucceſs: as he knew he was in the way of duty, he doubted not but ſucceſs would attend him. Note, It is good to remember the paſt mercies we have received, to encourage us in preſent dependance on the ſame care and kindneſs of our God.

10. ¶ And the ſervant took ten camels, of the camels of his maſter, and departed († for all the goods of his maſter were in his hand:) and he aroſe, and went to Meſopotamia, unto [f] the city of Nahor. 11. And he made his camels to kneel down without the city, by a well of water, at the time of the evening, even the time ‡ [g] that women go out to draw water. 12. And he ſaid, O LORD God of my maſter Abraham, I pray thee ſend me good ſpeed this day, and ſhew kindneſs unto my maſter Abraham. 13. Behold, [h] I ſtand here by the well of water, and [i] the daughters of the men of the city come out to draw water: 14. And let it come to paſs, that the damſel to whom I ſhall ſay, Let down thy pitcher, I pray thee, that I may drink; and ſhe ſhall ſay, Drink, and I will give thy camels drink alſo: let the ſame be ſhe that thou haſt appointed for thy ſervant Iſaac; and [k] thereby ſhall I know that thou haſt ſhewed kindneſs unto my maſter.

† Or, And.
[f] Chap. xxvii. 43.
‡ Heb. That women, which draw water, go forth.
[g] Exod. ii. 16. 1 Sam. ix. 11.
[h] Ver. 43.
[i] Chap. xxix. 9. Exod. ii. 16.
[k] See Judg. vi. 17, 37. 1 Sam. vi. 7. & xiv. 8. & xx. 7. 1 Mac. v. 40.

v. 10—14. How great a bleſſing is a truſty ſervant. We have here,

1. His expeditious journey, and ſafe arrival in Meſopotamia, where Nahor dwelt. It is mentioned to his honour; for that

Before Chriſt about 1856.

ſervant who makes conſcience of his duty, will find favour with him who is no reſpecter of perſons.

2. His earneſt addreſs to God, for a bleſſing and direction in this important buſineſs. Note, Where ſervants learn to pray, and fear God, the buſineſs of that family will proſper. He begs he may have good ſpeed that day. Note, Thoſe who begin the day with prayer, may hope to end it with praiſe. The particular mercy he ſeeks, is a ſuitable partner for his maſter's ſon; and he mentions thoſe beſt qualifications, humility of temper, and induſtry in her ſtation; begging by theſe ſigns God would point out the perſon at the well where his camels reſted. Note, (1.) In difficult caſes it is wiſeſt to begin with prayer for direction. (2.) It is a great mark of ſpiritual prudence, to look for and follow the leadings of God's providence. (3.) Thoſe who are found moſt induſtrious and gentle in the houſe of their father, will prove moſt amiable and uſeful in the houſe of their huſband.

15. ¶ And it came to paſs before he had done ſpeaking, that Rebekah came out, who was born to Bethuel ſon of [l] Milcah the wife of Nahor, Abraham's brother, with her pitcher upon her ſhoulder. 16. And the damſel was † very fair to look upon, a virgin, neither had any man known her, and ſhe went down to the well, and filled her pitcher, and came up. 17. And the ſervant ran to meet her, and ſaid, Let me, (I pray thee) drink a little water of thy pitcher; 18. And ſhe ſaid, Drink, my lord: and ſhe haſted, and let down her pitcher upon her hand, and gave him drink. 19. And when ſhe had done giving him drink, ſhe ſaid, I will draw water for thy camels alſo, until they have done drinking. 20. And ſhe haſted, and emptied her pitcher into the trough, and ran again unto the well to draw water, and drew for all his camels. 21. And the man wondering at her, held his peace, to wit, whether the LORD had made his journey proſperous or not. 22. And it came to paſs as the camels had done drinking, that the man took a golden ‡ ear-ring, of half a ſhekel weight, and two bracelets for her hands, of ten ſhekels weight of gold; 23. And ſaid, Whoſe daughter art thou? tell me, I pray thee: is there room in thy father's houſe for us to lodge in? 24. And ſhe ſaid unto him, [m] I am the daughter of Bethuel the ſon of Milcah, which ſhe bare unto Nahor. 25. She ſaid moreover unto him, We have both ſtraw and provender enough, and room to lodge in. 26. And the man [n] bowed down his head, and worſhipped the LORD. 27. And he ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD God of my maſter Abraham, who hath not left deſtitute my maſter of his mercy and his truth: I being in the way, the LORD led me to the houſe of my maſters brethren. 28. And the damſel ran, and told them of her mothers houſe theſe things.

[l] Chap. xi. 29. & xxii. 23.

† Heb. Good of countenance.

‡ Or jewel for the forehead.

[m] Chap. xxii. 23.

[n] Ver. 52. Exod. iv. 31.

v. 15—28. No ſooner had he ſpoken, than God anſwers; ſo ready is he to hear our prayers. The maid comes, fills her pitcher, and is returning; but on his accoſting her, ſhe readily aſſiſts him to water his camels. In theſe days the qualifications of the fair were courteſy, humility, and diligence: let the degenerate daughters of pride, luxury, and lazineſs, bluſh at the compariſon. Thus providences remarkably concurred, and on enquiry he finds her a relation of his maſter, and is invited to the houſe. Happy they whom God thus brings together, not from the riotous aſſembly, or the market of public places, but by providential diſpoſition, in anſwer to fervent prayer. Two things hereupon he does,

1. Makes her a handſome preſent for her kind aſſiſtance. To wear the golden bracelet was then thought not inconſiſtent with the labours of induſtry.

2. He bleſſes God for the mercy ſo graciouſly ſhown him. Prayer and praiſe are like ſound and echo. They who pray ſhall praiſe; and nothing more matter of praiſe, than finding ſuch a partner, who to the amiableneſs of her perſon and manners adds the crowning beauty of religion. This was a freſh mercy to Abraham, and, like a good ſervant, his maſter's intereſts are his own, and he rejoices in God for his ſake, that he had found a ſuitable wife for his ſon.

29 ¶ And Rebekah had a brother, and his name was [o] Laban: and Laban ran out unto the man, unto the well. 30. And it came to paſs when he ſaw the ear-ring and bracelets upon his ſiſters hands, and when he heard the words of Rebekah his ſiſter, ſaying, Thus ſpake the man unto me; that he came unto the man, and behold, he ſtood by the camels at the well. 31. And he ſaid, Come in, thou bleſſed of the LORD, wherefore ſtandeſt thou without? for I have prepared the houſe, and room for the camels. 32. ¶ And the man came into the houſe: and he ungirded his camels, and gave ſtraw and provender for the camels, and water to waſh his feet, and the mens feet that were with him. 33. And there was ſet meat before him to eat: but he ſaid, I will not eat, until I have told mine errand. And he ſaid, Speak on. 34. And he ſaid, I am Abrahams ſervant. 35. And the LORD hath bleſſed my maſter greatly, and he is become great: and he hath given him flocks, and herds, and ſilver, and gold, and men-ſervants, and maid-ſervants, and camels, and aſſes. 36. And Sarah my maſters wife bare a ſon to my maſter when ſhe was old: and [p] unto him hath he given all that he hath. 37. And my maſter made me ſwear, ſaying, Thou ſhalt not take a wife to my ſon of the daughters of the Canaanites, in whoſe land I dwell: 38. But thou ſhalt go unto my fathers houſe, and to my kindred, and take a wife unto my ſon. 39. And I ſaid unto my maſter, Peradventure the woman will not follow me. 40. And he ſaid unto me, The LORD [q] before whom I walk, will ſend his angel with thee, and proſper thy way; and thou ſhalt take a wife for my ſon of my kindred, and of my fathers houſe. 41. Then ſhalt thou be clear from this my oath, when thou comeſt to my kindred; and if they give not thee one, thou ſhalt be clear from my oath. 42. And I came this day unto the well, and ſaid, O LORD God of my maſter Abraham, if now thou do proſper the way which I go: 43. [r] Behold, I ſtand by the well of water; and it ſhall come to paſs, that when the virgin cometh forth to draw water, and I ſay to her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water of thy pitcher to drink; 44. And ſhe ſay to me, Both drink thou, and I will alſo draw for thy camels: let the ſame be the woman whom the LORD hath appointed out for my maſters ſon. 45. And before I had done ſpeaking in mine heart, behold, Rebekah came forth with her pitcher on her ſhoulder; and ſhe went down unto the well, and drew water: and I ſaid unto her, Let me drink, I pray thee. 46. And ſhe made haſte, and let down her pitcher from her ſhoulder, and ſaid, Drink, and I will give thy camels drink alſo: ſo I drank, and ſhe made the camels drink alſo. 47. And I aſked her, and ſaid, Whoſe daughter art thou? And ſhe ſaid, The daughter of Bethuel, Nahor's ſon, whom Milcah bare unto him: and I put the ear-ring upon her face, and the bracelets upon her hands. 48. And I bowed down my head, and worſhipped the LORD, and bleſſed the LORD God of my maſter Abraham, which had led me in the right way to take my maſters brothers daughter unto his ſon. 49. And now if you will deal kindly and truly with my maſter, tell me: and if not, tell me; that I may turn to the right hand, or to the left. 50. Then Laban and Bethuel anſwered and ſaid, The thing proceedeth from the LORD: we cannot ſpeak unto thee bad or good. 51. Behold, Rebekah is before thee, take her, and go, and let her be thy maſters ſons wife, as the LORD hath ſpoken. 52. And it came to paſs, that when Abraham's ſervant heard their words, [s] he worſhipped the LORD, bowing himſelf to the earth. 53. And the ſervant brought forth † jewels of ſilver, and jewels of gold, and raiment, and gave them to Rebekah: He gave alſo to her brother and to her mother precious things.

[o] Chap. xxix. 5.

Before Chriſt about 1856.

[p] Chap. xxv. 5.

[q] Chap. xvii. 1.

[r] Ver. 13.

[s] Ver. 26.

† Heb. Veſſels.

v. 29—53. In conſequence of what had paſſed at the well, Laban, Rebekah's brother, comes and gives him the kindeſt reception. From Laban's character it is to be feared, the bracelets paved the way; for a man's gift maketh room for him, Prov. xviii. 16. The cattle are firſt put up and fed. Note, On a journey remember your beaſt before you eat yourſelf. And then the board is ſpread to entertain the ſtranger. But, before he eats, he opens,

1. His commiſſion at large; whoſe ſervant he was; the deſign of his coming; the riches of his maſter; the ſettlement of all upon his ſon; his care to have him marry among his own kin, and not among the daughters of Canaan; his prayer; the providential anſwer to it in the meeting of Rebekah; then begs them to conſider and determine concerning the iſſue of his journey. I know not whether moſt to admire the ingenuouſneſs of the repreſentation of his maſter's affairs, or the fidelity, which made him prefer his maſter's buſineſs to his own refreſhment: both admirable, and worthy imitation. Note, In religious courtſhip, plain dealing is the beſt wooing.

Before Chriſt about 1856. 2. The brother's conſent to the propoſal. They ſaw God's hand in the affair; and therefore, as Abraham's fortune made it advantageous, God's providence alſo beſpoke their compliance.

3. The behaviour of Abraham's ſervant on the occaſion. He thanked God for the ſpeedy anſwer he had received. Note, As we go on receiving, we ſhould go on adoring. We ſhall, with all our praiſe to God, be left far behind. And, to confirm the match, as well as evidence his maſter's opulence, he makes noble preſents to the intended bride, as alſo to her mother and brothers. Note, The bride, the Lamb's wife, muſt be brought to him, not in her own ornaments, but in the jewels with which he hath decked her.

54. And they did eat and drink, he and the men that were with him, and tarried all night: and they roſe up in [t] Ver. 56, 59. the morning, and he ſaid, [t] Send me away unto my maſter.
55. And her brother and her mother ſaid, Let the † Or a full year, or ten months. Judg. xiv. 8. damſel abide with us † a few days, at the leaſt ten; after that ſhe ſhall go. 56. And he ſaid unto them, Hinder me not, ſeeing the LORD hath proſpered my way:
ſend me away, that I may go to my maſter. 57. And they ſaid, We will call the damſel, and enquire at her mouth. 58. And they called Rebekah, and ſaid unto her, Wilt thou go with this man? And ſhe ſaid, I will go. 59. And they ſent away Rebekah their [u] Chap. xxxv. 8. ſiſter, and [u] her nurſe, and Abrahams ſervant, and his men. 60. And they bleſſed Rebekah, and ſaid unto her, Thou art our ſiſter, be thou the mother of thouſands [x] Chap. xxii. 17. of millions, and [x] let thy ſeed poſſeſs the gate of thoſe which hate them. 61. ¶ And Rebekah aroſe, and her damſels, and they rode upon the camels, and followed the man: and the ſervant took Rebekah, and went his way.

v. 54—61. A good ſervant never loiters. Inſtead of ſtaying to ſpend the days in mirth and feaſting, no ſooner is his buſineſs done, than he is in haſte to be gone. Few ſuch ſervants to be met with now a days. But,

1. Natural affection pleads for a little reſpite. Though they know it is good for Rebekah, they are loth to part with her. Note, No joy pure without allay in this world. However, as he preſſes to be gone, Rebekah is called and aſked.

2. She conſents to go. She had, from the piety of the ſervant, conceived a high eſteem for the family, and therefore the more readily yields. Note, Though parents have a right of adviſing, they have none of conſtraining. Marriage muſt be of choice, not force.

3. On this they give her their bleſſing, take care ſhe is ſuitably attended, and ſend her on her way. Note, New relations need our prayers for God's bleſſing upon them.

[y] Chap. xvi. 14. & xxv. 11. 62. And Iſaac came from the way of the [y] well Lahai-roi; for he dwelt in the ſouth country. 63. And † Or to pray. Iſaac went out † to meditate in the field at the even-tide:
and he lift up his eyes, and ſaw, and behold, the camels were coming. 64. And Rebekah lift up her eyes, and [z] Joſh. xv. 18. when ſhe ſaw Iſaac, [z] ſhe lighted off the camel. 65. For ſhe had ſaid unto the ſervant, What man is this that walketh in the field to meet us? And the ſervant had ſaid, It is my maſter: therefore ſhe took a vail and covered herſelf. 66. And the ſervant told Iſaac all things that he had done. 67. And Iſaac brought her into his 1856. mother Sarah's tent, and took Rebekah, and ſhe became his wife; and he loved her: and Iſaac was comforted after his mother's death.

v. 62—67. Iſaac inherited not more his father's promiſes than his piety. We have him here,

1. Employed in meditation. Improving an evening's walk in the bleſſed work of communion with God. Wiſe are they, who can make even their amuſements means of drawing them nearer the Lord. Note, (1.) Retirement is moſt needful for the ſoul. (2.) When we are in the field, we ſhould imitate the patriarch, where every object around us may ſerve to awaken ſerious thoughts of God. (3.) None ever will feel the want of company, who have learned the arts of converſe with a better world.

2. His meeting Rebekah. When we go to meet God, mercies come to meet us. He ſaw her at a diſtance, and when ſhe knew him, ſhe put on her veil, and alighted to meet him. Modeſty is woman's beſt ornament.

3. His marriage, and putting her in poſſeſſion of Sarah's tent. For three years he had mourned over his loſs of ſo dear a mother; and now he is comforted in a gracious wife, and his affection knit to her, as a loving huſband. Happy the pair, where mutual love makes marriage real union.

Before Chriſt about 1853.

CHAP. XXV.

The ſacred hiſtorian in this chapter, (1.) takes his leave of Abraham, with an account, 1. of his children by another wife, ver. 1—4. 2. Of his laſt will and teſtament, ver. 5, 6. 3. Of his age, death, and burial, ver. 7—10. (2.) He takes his leave of Iſhmael, with a ſhort account, 1. Of his children, ver. 12—16. 2. Of his age and death, ver. 17, 18. (3.) He enters upon the hiſtory of Iſaac. 1. His proſperity, ver. 11. 2. The conception and birth of his two ſons, with the oracle of God concerning them, ver. 19—26. 3. Their different characters, ver. 27, 28. 4. Eſau's ſelling his birthright to Jacob, ver. 29—34.

1. THEN again Abraham took a wife, and her About 1853.
name was Keturah. 2. And ſhe bare him Zimran, and Jokſhan, and Medan, and Midian, and Iſhbak, and Shuah. 3. And [a] Jokſhan begat Sheba and Dedan. [a] 1 Chron. i. 32.
And the ſons of Dedan were Aſſhurim, and Letuſhim, and Leummim. 4. And the ſons of Midian; Ephah, and Epher, and Hanoch, and Abidah, and Eldaah.
All theſe were the children of Keturah. 5. ¶ And [b] Abraham gave all that he had unto Iſaac. 6. But [b] Chap. xxiv. 36.
unto the ſons of the concubines which Abraham had, Abraham gave gifts, and ſent them away from Iſaac his ſon (while he yet lived) eaſtward unto the eaſt-country.
7. And theſe are the days of the years of Abrahams life which he lived, an hundred threeſcore and fifteen 1821.
years. 8. Then Abraham gave up the ghoſt, and [c] died [c] Chap. xv. 15. & xlix. 29.
in a good old age, an old man, and full of years; and was gathered to his people. 9. And his ſons Iſaac and Iſhmael buried him in the cave of Machpelah, in the field of Ephron the ſon of Zohar the Hittite, which is before Mamre; 10. [d] The field which Abraham purchaſed of [d] Chap. xxiii. 16.
the ſons of Heth: there was Abraham buried, and Sarah his wife.

v. 1—10. Having brought the patriarch with glory to the end of the days of his pilgrimage, we have the concluſion of it in theſe verſes.

1. His laſt marriage, when he was old, yet the moſt fruitful. He had ſeveral ſons by Keturah, v. 2. Note, Age is not forbid the comforts of marriage.

2. His diſpoſal of his goods among them. Iſaac is his heir, and the ſon of his houſe; as the promiſes are entailed upon him, he hath the firſt and great portion; the reſt have each a fortune beſtowed on them, and are ſent to ſettle eaſtward, where they too became a great people: thus fulfilling the promiſe made to Abraham. Note, (1.) In the diſpoſition of our effects to our children, we ſhould be careful there may be no diſputes when we are dead. (2.) It is lawful for every parent to diſtinguiſh thoſe of his children who he has reaſon to think will make the beſt uſe of their portion.

3. His death. Full of days; after a long life, and happy old age, the taper of life burnt out, rather than extinguiſhed, he is gathered to his fathers. Note, Death is the way of all fleſh: it is happy for thoſe who by it are gathered to Abraham their father.

4. His burial by his two ſons, Iſaac and Iſhmael. They were now reconciled, and with filial duty lay him by the ſide of his beloved Sarah. Note, They who have lived together in love, may innocently deſire to lie together in the grave, eſpecially when heirs together of the grace of life, and expectants of a glorious reſurrection.

11. ¶ And it came to paſs after the death of Abraham, that God bleſſed his ſon Iſaac: and Iſaac dwelt by [e] the well Lahai-roi. 12. ¶ Now theſe are the genera- [e] Chap. xvi. 14. & xxiv. 62.
tions of Iſhmael Abrahams ſon, whom Hagar the Egyptian, Sarahs handmaid, bare unto Abraham. 13. And [f] theſe are the names of the ſons of Iſhmael, by their [f] 1 Chron. i. 29.
names, according to their generations: The firſt-born of Iſhmael, Nebajoth; and Kedar, and Adbeel, and Mibſam, 14. And Miſhma, and Dumah, and Maſſa, 15. † Hadar, and Temah, Jetur, Naphiſh, and Kedemah. † Or Hadar, 1 Chron. i. 30.
16. Theſe are the ſons of Iſhmael, and theſe are their names, by their towns, and by their caſtles; [g] twelve [g] Chap. xvii. 20.
princes according to their nations. 17. And theſe are the years of the life of Iſhmael, an hundred and thirty 1773.
and ſeven years: and he gave up the ghoſt, and died, and was gathered unto his people. 18. And [h] they dwelt [h] 1 Sam. xv. 7.
from Havila unto Shur, that is before Egypt, as thou goeſt towards Aſſyria: and he ‡ died [i] in the preſence of ‡ Heb. Fell.
all his brethren. [i] Chap. xvi. 12.

Before Chriſt 1856.

v. 11—18. Iſaac's hiſtory now begins. Moſes takes notice of the bleſſing which was upon him after Abraham's death; then for a moment digreſſes, to mention Iſhmael's children, their great proſperity, their country and towns, and Iſhmael's death, at the age of 137, in the preſence of his brethren, either in the midſt of them as his friends, or eminent among them for his poſſeſſions. Note, It is a mercy to have our friends to comfort us in a dying hour.

19. ¶ And theſe are the generations of Iſaac Abrahams ſon: [k] Abraham begat Iſaac. 20. And Iſaac was forty years old when he took Rebekah to wife, [l] the daughter of Bethuel the Syrian of Padan-aram, the ſiſter to Laban the Syrian. 21. And Iſaac intreated the LORD for his wife, becauſe ſhe was barren: and the LORD was intreated of him, and [m] Rebekah his wife conceived. 22. And the children ſtruggled together within her: and ſhe ſaid, If it be ſo, why am I thus? And [n] ſhe went to enquire of the LORD. 23. And the LORD ſaid unto her, Two nations are in thy womb, and two manner of people ſhall be ſeparated from thy bowels: and [o] the one people ſhall be ſtronger than the other people; and [p] the elder ſhall ſerve the younger. 24. ¶ And when her days to be delivered were fulfilled, behold, there were twins in her womb. 25. And the firſt came out red, [q] all over like an hairy garment: and they called his name Eſau. 26. And after that came his brother out, and [r] his hand took hold on Eſau's heel: and [s] his name was called Jacob: and Iſaac was threeſcore years old when ſhe bare them. 27. And the boys grew: and Eſau was a cunning hunter, a man of the field; and Jacob was a plain man dwelling in tents. 28. And Iſaac loved Eſau, becauſe † he did eat of his veniſon: but Rebekah loved Jacob.

k Mat. i. 2.
l Chap. xxii. 23.
m Rom. ix. 10.
n 1 Sam. ix. 9.
o 2 Sam. viii. 14.
p Chap. xxvii. 29. Mal. i. 3. Rom. ix. 12.
q Chap. xxvii. 11, 16, 23.
r Hoſea, xii. 3.
s Chap. xxvii. 36.
† Heb. Veniſon was in his mouth.

v. 19—28. After being married near twenty years, Iſaac, like his father before him, is exerciſed with diſcouragement, and ſees no proſpect of the promiſed ſeed; yet he waits, and takes no other wife: and faith will be rewarded. He applies to God in prayer, and God now grants his requeſt, and Rebekah conceived. Note, (1.) Though we pray twenty years for a mercy, we ſhould not be weary. (2.) Huſbands and wives ſhould unite their ſupplications. We have in the ſtory of theſe twins,

1. Their ſtruggling in the womb, and Rebekah's diſtreſs thereupon. She, no doubt, often lamented her barrenneſs, and now her pregnancy is her burden. Note, What we moſt eagerly deſire, brings often with it trouble and vexation.

2. The courſe ſhe took hereupon. She enquired of the Lord, probably in prayer, or by ſome appointed methods preſcribed, as afterward by Urim and Thummim in difficult caſes. Note, To ſpread our griefs before a throne of grace, is a great relief.

3. The anſwer received. Two nations are in thy womb; the deſcendants of the two ſons, of manners different, and often at variance, but the elder ſhall ſerve the younger; Edom muſt ſerve Iſrael. Learn from this hiſtory (1.) The ſovereignty of God's election before the children are born, or had done good or evil. (2.) The ſtruggle in the heart of him who is begotten again between the old nature of ſin, and the new nature of grace. (3.) That this ſtruggle is apt to diſcourage the faithful, but is a gracious mark of God's election. (4.) The elder corrupt nature ſhall at laſt be ſubdued, and grace, the younger, reign through Jeſus Chriſt.

4. The birth of the twins, Eſau and Jacob. The one hairy, the other ſmooth; and as from their birth different, ſo in their lives and occupations: for in the womb, the ſeeds of all our future life ſeem to be ſown. Eſau was a hunter, hardy, bold, and loved the ſports of the field. Jacob, a ſhepherd, gentle in manners, and a lover of retirement. Note, (1.) Different diſpoſitions are born with us. Jacob was never made for a warrior, nor Eſau for a ſtudent. (2.) In the education of our children, we ſhould conſult their turn and temper.

5. The different regard they met with from their parents. Iſaac loved the brave ſpirit of Eſau, and the veniſon he caught him, whilſt Rebekah's fondneſs fixes on the more domeſtic Jacob. Note, Though it is almoſt impoſſible for parents to regard each child with the ſame affection, it is dangerous to have favourites, or to appear partial.

29. ¶ And Jacob ſod pottage: and Eſau came from the field, and he was faint. 30. And Eſau ſaid to Jacob, Feed me, I pray thee, with † that ſame red pottage; for I am faint: therefore his name was called Edom. 31. And Jacob ſaid, Sell me this day thy birth-right. 32. And Eſau ſaid, Behold, I am ‡ at the point to die: and what profit ſhall this birth-right do to me? 33. And Jacob ſaid, Swear to me this day; and he ſwear unto him: and [t] he ſold his birth-right unto Jacob. 34. Then Jacob gave Eſau bread and pottage of lentiles; and he did eat and drink, and roſe up, and went his way: thus Eſau deſpiſed his birth-right.

† Heb. That red that red pottage.
‡ Heb. Going to die.
t Heb. xii. 16.

Before Chriſt 1805.

v. 29—34. As in the womb he caught his brother by the heel, and got the name Jacob, we here ſee how well he deſerved it in his dealing with Eſau. Jacob knew the value of the birth-right, and the promiſe which Rebekah muſt before in love have told him, might embolden him to attempt obtaining it. Now therefore, when occaſion offers, he ſeizes it. Obſerve,

1. The critical time. When Eſau returned hungry from hunting, and ſeeing Jacob with ſome delightful red meſs of pottage, begs to have it; then he propoſes the bargain: if he will ſell his birthright, the meſs ſhould be his own. Note, (1.) It was bad in Jacob, to take advantage of his brother's neceſſity; though it might not be pride that made him covet it, but the regard for the ſpiritual bleſſings, yet we may not ſeek even good things by wrong means. (2.) God over-rules our evil to the purpoſes of his own glory.

2. Eſau's conſent to the bargain. Hunger pleaded, and though in no danger of death, the ſtrength of his appetite ſuggeſted ſo weak an excuſe. The birth-right is trivial in his eyes, and probably, he thought in Iſaac's regard he was ſafe, and then he ſhould loſe nothing by the ſale. Thus profaneneſs is his character, Heb. xii. 16. Note, (1.) Gratifying ſenſual appetites, is the univerſal ruin of men's ſouls. (2.) The pleaſures of ſenſe for a moment will ill repay the loſs of God's bleſſing and favour to eternity. (3.) The wiſe are often outdone by ſimpler men; at leaſt in ſoul concerns, this is uſually the caſe. The plain followers of their Bible make a wiſer choice, than the cunning diſputers againſt it.

3. Eſau's careleſſneſs afterward. As if nothing had happened, he went his way, and never troubled his head about the matter. Note, To be negligent about ſpiritual bleſſings, is the ſure way to be deprived of them.

CHAP. XXVI.

In this chapter we have, 1. Iſaac in adverſity, by reaſon of a famine in the land, which, (1.) obliges him to change his quarters, ver. 1. But, (2.) God viſits him with direction and comfort, ver. 2—5. (3.) He fooliſhly denies his wife, being in diſtreſs, and is reproved for it by Abimelech, ver. 6—11. 2. Iſaac in proſperity by the bleſſing of God upon him, ver. 12—14. And, 1. The Philiſtines were envious at him, ver. 14—17. 2. He continued induſtrious in his buſineſs, ver. 18—23. 3. God appeared to him, and encouraged him, and he returned his duty to God, ver. 24, 25. 4. The Philiſtines at length made court to him, and made a covenant with him, ver. 26—33. 5. The diſagreeable marriage of his ſon Eſau, was an allay to the comfort of his proſperity, ver. 34, 35.

1804.

1. AND there was a famine in the land, beſides [a] the firſt famine that was in the days of Abraham. And Iſaac went unto [b] Abimelech king of the Philiſtines, unto Gerar. 2. And the LORD appeared unto him, and ſaid, Go not down into Egypt: dwell in the land which I ſhall tell thee of. 3. Sojourn in this land, and I will be with thee, and will bleſs thee: for [c] unto thee and unto thy ſeed I will give all theſe countries, and I will perform [d] the oath which I ſware unto Abraham thy father. 5. And [e] I will make thy ſeed to multiply as the ſtars of heaven, and will give unto thy ſeed all theſe countries: and [f] in thy ſeed ſhall all the nations of the earth be bleſſed: 5. Becauſe that Abraham obeyed my voice, and kept my charge, my commandments, my ſtatutes, and my laws.

a Chap. xii. 10.
b Chap. xx. 2.
c Chap. xiii. 15. & xv. 18.
d Chap. xxii. 16.
e Chap. xv. 5.
f Chap. xii. 3. & xxii. 18.

v. 1—5. We have here,

1. A famine which obliges Iſaac to remove from Canaan into the land of the Philiſtines. He muſt, like his father before him, learn to ſuffer, ere he receive the promiſe.

2. God's appearing to him. He forbids his journey to Egypt, and commands his ſtay at Gerar. Note, We are always right, when given up to the divine guidance.

3. The promiſe made him. As Abraham's ſon, he is his ſucceſſor in the covenant; it was entailed upon him, and God confirms it to him, for Abraham's ſake. Note, (1.) They who have God's favour, need not fear famine, nor any thing elſe. (2.) Though grace runs not in the blood, it often, through divine mercy, deſcends in the family. Happy that houſe!

6. ¶ And Iſaac dwelt in Gerar. 7. And the men of the place aſked him of his wife; and [g] he ſaid, She is my ſiſter: for he feared to ſay, She is my wife; leſt, ſaid he, the men of the place ſhould kill me for Rebekah, becauſe ſhe was fair to look upon.

g Chap. xii. 13. & xx. 2, 13.

Before Chriſt about 1917.

v. 6—7. Iſaac ſeems to have inherited not only Abraham's bleſſings, but his ſins too. Like his father, he diſſembles in the ſame words, and for the ſame reaſon. Note, (1.) Great men and good men have their infirmities; none are exempted. (2.) Fear is one of the moſt dangerous paſſions which ſatan works upon. (3.) To have got over the fear of death, is to be a great way towards heaven.

8. And it came to paſs when he had been there a long time, that Abimelech king of the Philiſtines looked out at a window, and ſaw, and behold, Iſaac was ſporting with Rebekah his wife. 9. And Abimelech called Iſaac, and ſaid, Behold, of a ſurety ſhe is thy wife: and how ſaidſt thou, She is my ſiſter? And Iſaac ſaid unto him, Becauſe I ſaid, leſt I die for her. 10. And Abimelech ſaid, What is this thou haſt done unto us? one of the people might lightly have lien with thy wife, and [h] thou ſhouldſt have brought guiltineſs upon us. 11. And Abimelech charged all his people, ſaying, He that toucheth this man or his wife, ſhall ſurely be put to death.

[h] Chap. xx. 9.

v. 8—11. His diſſimulation is diſcovered, and rebuked by Abimelech. He is ſeen uſing ſome freedoms, which, however innocent in a huſband, had been evil in a brother; and with reaſon he is reproached with the danger to which he expoſed his wife, and the ſin to which he might have tempted his hoſpitable friends. Note, (1.) To be found a diſſembler, is to be a ſcandal to our profeſſion. (2.) When we lay ſnares in the way of the innocent, their ſins will light upon our heads.

12. Then Iſaac ſowed in that land, and † received in the ſame year an hundred-fold, and the LORD bleſſed him. 13. And the man waxed great, and ‡ went forward, and grew until he became very great. 14. For he had poſſeſſion of flocks, and poſſeſſion of herds, and great ſtore of ‖ ſervants. And the Philiſtines envied him. 15. For all the wells [i] which his fathers ſervants had digged in the days of Abraham his father, the Philiſtines had ſtopped them, and filled them with earth. 16. And Abimelech ſaid unto Iſaac, Go from us: for [k] thou art much mightier than we. 17. ¶ And Iſaac departed thence, and pitched his tent in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there. 18. And Iſaac digged again the wells of water, which they had digged in the days of Abraham his father; for the Philiſtines had ſtopped them after the death of Abraham: and he called their names after the names by which his father had called them. 19. And Iſaac's ſervants digged in the valley, and found there a well of † ſpringing water. 20. And the herdmen of Gerar did ſtrive with Iſaac's herdmen, ſaying, The water is ours: and he called the name of the well ‡ Eſek, becauſe they ſtrove with him. 21. And they digged another well, and ſtrove for that alſo: and he called the name of it ‖ Sitnah. 22. And he removed from thence, and digged another well; and for that they ſtrove not: and he called the name of it † Rehoboth; and he ſaid, For now the LORD hath made room for us, and we ſhall be fruitful in the land. 23. And he went up from thence to Beer-ſheba. 24. And the LORD appeared unto him the ſame night, and ſaid, I am the God of Abraham thy father: fear not, for I am with thee, and will bleſs thee, and multiply thy ſeed, for my ſervant Abraham's ſake. 25. And [l] he builded an altar there, and called upon the name of the LORD, and pitched his tent there: and there Iſaac's ſervants digged a well.

† Heb. Found.
‡ Heb. Went, going.
‖ Or huſbandry.
[i] Chap. xxi. 30.
[k] Exod. i. 9.
† Heb. Living.
‡ i. e. Contention.
‖ i. e. Hatred.
† Room.
[l] Chap. xii. 7. & xiii. 18.

v. 12—25. Iſaac, under God's bleſſing, in the land of his ſojourning, ſtill abounds. Whilſt they are under famine, his land produces an hundred fold, his ſervants increaſe, his cattle multiply. This produces,

1. The envy of the Philiſtines. They could not look on him, but with an evil eye. Note. It is the tribute which merit pays, to be envied.

2. Their ill uſage and expulſion of him: for what can ſtand before envy? They ſhould rather have ſhared his bleſſings, by ſeeking to his God; but led by their wicked hearts, they ſtopped the wells Abraham had digged. Note, The envious man will put himſelf to expence and trouble, rather than not gratify his ill will. Still unable to bear him, they at laſt deſired him to be gone.

3. He conſents, and quietly removes farther off, v. 17. Note, It is wiſe rather to yield for peace ſake, than quarrel.

4. His care to find other wells. He opens old ones, and digs new. Note, In ſearching for the waters of truth, we may uſe the labours of thoſe who digged before us; and add our diligence ſtill to improve upon them.

Before Chriſt about 1804.

5. The Philiſtines followed him with diſputes from well to well, whilſt he quietly recedes from his right, and retires farther. At laſt, he finds another well, and there they left him in peaceable poſſeſſion, and he calls it Rehoboth, in token of the enlargement he enjoyed there. Note, They who follow peace, will find it at laſt: if perverſe men will ſtrive with them in this world, at leaſt they will find Rehoboth, a place of enlargements, and peace in heaven.

6. God's appearing to him, with encouraging promiſes, v. 24. Note, The ſeaſon of moſt comfort with God, is uſually when we are moſt beſet with the perverſeneſs of men.

7. His grateful acknowledgment. He built an altar, and perpetuated thus in his family the good ways of his father Abraham. Such is the gracious effect of bringing up a ſon in the way he ſhould go.

26. ¶ Then Abimelech went to him from Gerar; and Ahuzzath one of his friends, and [m] Phichol the chief captain of his army. 27. And Iſaac ſaid unto them, Wherefore come ye to me, ſeeing ye hate me, and have ſent me away from you? 28. And they ſaid, † We certainly ſaw that the LORD was with thee: and we ſaid, let there be now an oath betwixt us, even betwixt us and thee, and let us make a covenant with thee; 29. ‡ That thou wilt do us no hurt, as we have not touched thee, and as we have done unto thee nothing but good, and have ſent thee away in peace: thou art now the bleſſed of the LORD. 30. And he made them a feaſt, and they did eat and drink. 31. And they roſe up betimes in the morning, and ſware one to another: and Iſaac ſent them away, and they departed from him in peace. 32. And it came to paſs the ſame day, that Iſaac's ſervants came, and told him concerning the well which they had digged, and ſaid unto him, We have found water. 33. And he called it † Sheba: [n] therefore the name of the city is ‡ Beer-ſheba unto this day.

[m] Chap. xxi. 22.
† Heb. Seeing, we ſaw.
‡ If thou ſhalt, &c.
† i. e. An oath.
[n] Chap. xxi. 31.
‡ i. e. The well of the oath.

v. 26—33. They who had ſent him away through envy, are now come to court his friendſhip. We have here,

1. Iſaac's queſtioning the purpoſe of their viſit. From the injuries he had received, he had need be on his guard. Note, Though we muſt love our enemies, we muſt watch againſt their devices.

2. Their buſineſs: To invite him to reconciliation, and to a ſolemn league between them. They profeſs ſincerity, acknowledge their conviction of God's favour to him, and therefore fain would make him their friend. Note, When the offending party ſeeks reconciliation, we ſhould be ever ready to grant it.

3. Iſaac conſents, entertains them generouſly, confirms the league by oath, and they part in peace. Note, We muſt not inſiſt upon paſt ill uſage, when there is a proſpect of preſent peace, but gladly embrace the favourable motion.

4. That day, a new and copious well is found; ſo that all he parted with, is amply made up to him. Thoſe who for peace ſake, or the truth's ſake, loſe a little, find perhaps at the end of the year, that they are gainers by the increaſe which God's bleſſing hath brought.

1796.

34. ¶ And [o] Eſau was forty years old when he took to wife Judith the daughter of Beeri the Hittite, and Baſhemath the daughter of Elon the Hittite: 35. [p] Which were † a grief of mind unto Iſaac and to Rebekah.

[o] Chap. xxxvi. 2.
[p] Chap. xxvii. 46.
† Heb. Bitterneſs of ſpirit.

v. 34, 35. Eſau's profaneneſs appeared before, but it is aggravated here. He takes two wives at once, both bad ones, and of a different religion; not only without the conſent, but to the great grief of his parents. Note, (1.) In chuſing a wife, it is a principal concern that we agree in religious opinions. (2.) That it be done with conſent of parents.

CHAP. XXVII.

We have here, 1. Iſaac's purpoſe to entail the bleſſing upon Eſau, ver. 1—4. 2. Rebekah's plot to procure it for Jacob, ver. 6—17. 3. Jacob's ſucceſsful management of the plot, and his obtaining of the bleſſing, ver. 18—29. 4. Eſau's reſentment of this: In which, 1. His great importunity with his father to obtain a bleſſing, ver. 30—40. 2. His great enmity to his brother for defrauding him of the firſt bleſſing, ver. 41—46.

1. AND it came to paſs that when Iſaac was old, and [a] his eyes were dim, ſo that he could not ſee, he called Eſau his eldeſt ſon, and ſaid unto him, My ſon: And he ſaid unto him, Behold, here am I. 2. And he ſaid, Behold, now I am old, I know not the day of my death. 3. Now therefore take, I pray thee, thy weapons, thy quiver, and thy bow, and go out to the field, and take † ſome veniſon; 4. And make me ſavory meat, ſuch as I love, and bring it to me, that I may eat; that my ſoul may bleſs thee before I die.

[a] Chap. xlviii. 10.

Before Chriſt 1759.

† Heb. Hunt.

v. 1—4. Infirmities of age were come upon Iſaac, and therefore, as his time was likely to be ſhort, he reſolves,

1. To beſtow on Eſau, as firſt-born, the bleſſing of the promiſed land and ſeed; perhaps, not underſtanding the prophecy, or not attending to it through natural affection and the rights of primogeniture. Note, Man propoſes, but God diſpoſes.

2. He communicates his reſolution to Eſau, who was ſtill, it ſeems, his favourite, though he had diſpleaſed him by marriage, and bids him ſhew one inſtance of his affection in procuring him ſome veniſon, that he might eat and bleſs him before he died. Note, (1.) Though children marry imprudently, parents muſt not be inflexible in their reſentments. (2.) When we grow old, it is time to think of dying. (3.) All worldly concerns ſhould be diſpatched before that time; it is enough then to do to die.

5. And Rebekah heard when Iſaac ſpake to Eſau his ſon: And Eſau went to the field to hunt for veniſon, and to bring it. 6. ¶ And Rebekah ſpake unto Jacob her ſon, ſaying, Behold, I heard thy father ſpeak unto Eſau thy brother, ſaying, 7. Bring me veniſon, and make me ſavoury meat, that I may eat, and bleſs thee before the LORD, before my death. 8. Now therefore my ſon, obey my voice, according to that which I command thee. 9. Go now to the flock, and fetch me from thence two good kids of the goats; and I will make them ſavoury meat for thy father, ſuch as he loveth. 10. And thou ſhalt bring it to thy father, that he may eat, and that he may bleſs thee before his death. 11. And Jacob ſaid to Rebekah his mother, Behold, Eſau my brother is a hairy man, and I am a ſmooth man. 12. My father peradventure will feel me, and I ſhall ſeem to him as a deceiver; and I ſhall bring a curſe upon me, and not a bleſſing. 13. And his mother ſaid unto him, Upon me be thy curſe, my ſon: only obey my voice, and go and fetch me them. 14. And he went and fetched, and brought them to his mother: and his mother made ſavoury meat, ſuch as his father loved. 15. And Rebekah took † goodly raiment of her eldeſt ſon Eſau, which were with her in the houſe, and put them upon Jacob her younger ſon. 16. And ſhe put the ſkins of the kids of the goats upon his hands, and upon the ſmooth of his neck. 17. And ſhe gave the ſavoury meat, and the bread which ſhe had prepared, into the hand of her ſon Jacob.

† Heb. Deſirable.

v. 5—17. Rebekah overhearing the converſation between Iſaac and Eſau, reſolves immediately to put Jacob in his place, a thing, in many reſpects, utterly unjuſtifiable. Had ſhe pleaded with Iſaac the Divine command, ſimplicity had probably prevailed, and Jacob, without a cheat, had got the bleſſing; but now ſhe contrives the plot, and will have Jacob execute it. His objections ſhe anſwers, makes herſelf liable to the curſe, and as women's wits are ſharp, fixes on a method which can hardly fail of ſucceſs. To Iſaac's aged taſte, the ſavoury kid can eaſily paſs for veniſon, and Eſau's cloaths can transform the ſmooth Jacob, with the kids ſkins, into the hairy Eſau. Note, Thoſe who would ever appear before God with acceptance, muſt come in the garments of the all-perfect righteouſneſs of Jeſus their elder brother; and though they are known to be miſerable ſinners, they ſhall find the bleſſing, becauſe complete in him.

18. ¶ And he came unto his father, and ſaid, My father: and he ſaid, Here am I; who art thou, my ſon? 19. And Jacob ſaid unto his father, I am Eſau thy firſtborn; I have done according as thou badeſt me: ariſe, I pray thee, ſit and eat of my veniſon, that thy ſoul may bleſs me. 20. And Iſaac ſaid unto his ſon, How is it that thou haſt found it ſo quickly, my ſon? And he ſaid, Becauſe the LORD thy God brought it † to me. 21. And Iſaac ſaid unto Jacob, Come near, I pray thee, that I may feel thee, my ſon, whether thou be my very ſon Eſau, or not. 22. And Jacob went near unto Iſaac his father, and he felt him; and ſaid, The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Eſau. 23. And he diſcerned him not, becauſe his hands were hairy, as his brother Eſau's hands: ſo he bleſſed him. 24. And he ſaid, Art thou my very ſon Eſau? and he ſaid, I am. 25. And he ſaid, bring it near to me, and I will eat of my ſon's veniſon, that my ſoul may bleſs thee. And he brought it near to him, and he did eat: and he brought him wine, and he drank. 26. And his father Iſaac ſaid unto him, Come near now, and kiſs me, my ſon. 27. And he came near and kiſſed him: and he ſmelled the ſmell of his raiment, and bleſſed him, and ſaid, See, the ſmell of my ſon is as the ſmell of a field, which the LORD hath bleſſed. 28. Therefore [b] God give thee of the dew of heaven, and the fatneſs of the earth, and plenty of corn and wine. 29. [c] Let people ſerve thee, and nations bow down to thee; be lord over thy brethren, and [d] let thy mother's ſons bow down to thee: [e] curſed be every one that curſeth thee; and bleſſed be he that bleſſeth thee.

† Heb. Before me.

Before Chriſt 1759.

[b] Heb. xi. 20.
[c] Chap. ix. 25. & xxv. 23.
[d] Chap. xlix. 8.
[e] Chap. xii. 3. Numb. xxiv. 9.

v. 18—29. We have here,

1. The deception put upon Iſaac. Jacob appears, with aſſurance anſwers his father's enquiries, produces his veniſon, brings in God for his helper, removes the juſt ſuſpicions of his voice by producing his hands, and thus, after repeated aſſeverations, confirms his father in the identity of his perſon as Eſau. Herein committing a very great ſin, or rather a complication of ſins, which however God over-ruled for good, is noted to his ſhame. Learn here, (1.) How ſoon lying is learnt. (2.) When we are entangled in one lye, we are bound to forge many more, to ſupport ourſelves in it. (3.) The ſimpleſt-hearted men in general have need to fear being overtaken by this ſin. (4.) The voice that impoſes upon Iſaac, cannot impoſe upon God. The lying lips, and the prayer of the hypocrite, will ſoon be put to confuſion.

2. The bleſſing obtained by it. He kiſſed him in token of his regard, he bleſſed him as the favourite of the Lord, and ſolemnly puts him in poſſeſſion of the government of his brethren and the neck of his enemies, and therein conveys to him the generation of the promiſed ſeed, and headſhip over the church. Note, They who take wrong means, may obtain their ends, through God's over-ruling providence, but they will ſuffer, as Jacob did, for the indirect ſteps they have uſed.

30. ¶ And it came to paſs, as ſoon as Iſaac had made an end of bleſſing Jacob, and Jacob was yet ſcarce gone out from the preſence of Iſaac his father, that Eſau his brother came in from his hunting. 31. And he alſo had made ſavoury meat, and brought it unto his father; and ſaid unto his father, Let my father ariſe, and eat of his ſon's veniſon, that thy ſoul may bleſs me. 32. And Iſaac his father ſaid unto him, Who art thou? And he ſaid, I am thy ſon, thy firſt-born Eſau. 33. And Iſaac † trembled very exceedingly, and ſaid, Who, where is he that hath ‡ taken veniſon, and brought it me, and I have eaten of all before thou cameſt, and have bleſſed him? yea, and [f] he ſhall be bleſſed. 34. And when Eſau heard the words of his father, [g] he cried with a great and exceeding bitter cry, and ſaid unto his father, Bleſs me, even me alſo, O my father. 35. And he ſaid, Thy brother came with ſubtilty, and hath taken away thy bleſſing. 36. And he ſaid, [h] Is not he rightly named ‖ Jacob? for he hath ſupplanted me theſe two times: [i] he took away my birth-right: and behold now he hath taken away my bleſſing. And he ſaid, Haſt thou not reſerved a bleſſing for me? 37. And Iſaac anſwered and ſaid unto Eſau, [k] Behold, I have made him thy lord, and all his brethren have I given to him for ſervants: and with corn and wine have I † ſuſtained him; and what ſhall I do now unto thee, my ſon? 38. And Eſau ſaid unto his father, Haſt thou but one bleſſing, my father? bleſs me, even me alſo, O my father. And Eſau lift up his voice, and [l] wept. 39. And Iſaac his father anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Behold, [m] thy dwelling ſhall be the fatneſs of the earth, and of the dew of heaven from above. 40. And by thy ſword ſhalt thou live, and [n] ſhalt ſerve thy brother: and [o] it ſhall come to paſs when thou ſhalt have the dominion, that thou ſhalt break his yoke from off thy neck.

† Heb. Trembled with a great trembling greatly.
‡ Heb. Hunted.
[f] Chap. xxviii. 3, 4.
[g] Heb. xii. 17.
[h] Chap. xxv. 26.
‖ i. e. A ſupplanter.
[i] Chap. xxv. 33.
[k] fulfilled. 2 Sam. viii 14. ver. 29.
† Or ſupported.
[l] Heb. xii. 17.
[m] ver. 28. Heb. xi. 20.
[n] Chap. xxv. 23. Obad. xviii. 19, 20.
[o] 2 Sam. viii. 14. 2 Kings viii. 20.

v. 30—40. Eſau, big with the expectance of the bleſſing, haſtes to his father with the ſavoury meat: but how amazed, how ſhocked, to find his hopes diſappointed, and the benediction already beſtowed! Obſerve,

1. His bitter ſorrow. Note, It is too late to grieve for the conſequences of ſin, when we have neglected to grieve for the cauſe of them. He ſought importunately now the privilege he had ſlighted. Note, The day is near, when they who make light of God's covenant, ſhall ſeek in vain for the promiſes of it.

2. Iſaac's ſteadineſs. Though ſtruck at firſt with amaze, and trembling with ſurprize, he is convinced it was God's determination, and he confirms it, v. 33. No place was found for repentance, though Eſau ſought it diligently with tears, Heb. xii. 17. Note, God is in one mind, and none can turn him back: his favour to his elect, and his wrath towards the reprobate, abideth for ever.

3. Eſau's reproaches of Jacob. Inſtead of repenting of his own ſin, he abuſes his brother for a ſupplanter. With ſuch a temper, no wonder his intreaties are vain, and his prayers rejected. Note, It is too late when ſentence is paſſed, to cry for pity or pardon.

4. His importunity for a bleſſing alſo. Though he may not have the beſt, he may have ſome. Note, Many are deſirous of happineſs, who never take the way which leads to it.

5. Iſaac yields to his requeſt. He beſtows upon him a good land, a plentiful dwelling; confirms his ſubjection to his brother, with the hope however, in time, of ſhaking off his yoke: all which, we ſhall ſee fulfilled in their ſeaſon. Note, There are common bleſſings, which are ſhared by evil and good; and many times the evil are moſt favoured with them: but all without Chriſt, are ſcarce a crumb caſt to a dog.

41. ¶ And Eſau hated Jacob, becauſe of the bleſſing wherewith his father bleſſed him: and Eſau ſaid in his heart, The days of mourning for my father are at hand, [p] then will I ſlay my brother Jacob. 42. And theſe words of Eſau her elder ſon, were told to Rebekah: And ſhe ſent and called Jacob her younger ſon, and ſaid unto him, Behold, thy brother Eſau, as touching thee, doth comfort himſelf, purpoſing to kill thee. 43. Now therefore, my ſon, obey my voice: and ariſe, flee thou to Laban my brother to [q] Haran. 44. And tarry with him a few days, until thy brother's fury turn away. 45. Until thy brother's anger turn away from thee, and he forget that which thou haſt done to him: then I will ſend and fetch thee from thence. Why ſhould I be deprived alſo of you both in one day? 46. And Rebekah ſaid to Iſaac, [r] I am weary of my life, becauſe of the daughters of Heth: if Jacob take a wife of the daughters of Heth, ſuch as theſe which are of the daughters of the land, what good ſhall my life do me?

[p] Obad. x.
[q] Chap. xi. 31.
[r] Chap. xxvi. 35. & xxviii. 8.

v. 41—46. 1. The natural effects of diſappointed pride appear in Eſau's hatred and revenge. Though loth to grieve his aged father, he comforts himſelf he hath not long to wait, and then Jacob ſhall pay dearly for his cunning. Note, (1.) He is not the laſt reprobate ſon, who is pleaſed with the hopes of their father's death. (2.) They who think to defeat God's purpoſes, take counſel in vain. (3.) If God bleſſes, no wonder the wicked curſe. (4.) Marvel not, if brother riſe up againſt brother, when religion is concerned: it was ſo from the beginning.

2. Rebekah reſolves to diſappoint his purpoſes. She admoniſhes Jacob of his danger, and adviſes him to give way by yielding and abſence. Note, Diſtance of time and place wear off, or weaken the impreſſions of reſentment. She juſtly fears leſt ſhe ſhould be deprived of both ſons at once, by the murder of one and the execution of the other. The thought of a ſon a murderer, muſt needs be ſhocking to every parent.

3. She conceals from Iſaac, Eſau's purpoſe; but finds a very urgent reaſon for his conſent to her deſign, by pleading the danger of Jacob's marrying a Canaanite, and that ſuch a ſtep would make her life miſerable. Note, (1.) Parents are greatly intereſted in the ſettlement of their children. (2.) Where one child hath ſettled wrong, they ſhould be twice careful of thoſe which remain.

CHAP. XXVIII.

We have here, (1.) Jacob's parting with his parents to go to Padan-aram; the charge his father gave him, ver. 1, 2. The bleſſing he ſent him away with, ver. 3, 4. His obedience to the orders given him, ver. 5—10. And the influence this had upon Eſau, ver. 6. (2.) Jacob's meeting with God, and his communion with him by the way. And there, 1. His viſion of the ladder, ver. 11, 12. 2. The gracious promiſes God made him, ver. 13, 14, 15. 3. The impreſſion this made upon him, ver. 16—19. 4. The vow he made to God upon this occaſion, ver. 20, 21, 22.

1. AND Iſaac called Jacob, and bleſſed him, and charged him, and ſaid unto him, [a] Thou ſhalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan. 2. [b] Ariſe, go to [c] Padan-aram, to the houſe of [d] Bethuel, thy mother's father; and take thee a wife from thence of the daughters of [e] Laban, thy mother's brother. 3. And [f] God Almighty bleſs thee, and make thee fruitful, and multiply thee, that thou mayeſt be † a multitude of people: 4. And give thee [g] the bleſſing of Abraham, to thee, and to thy ſeed with thee; that thou mayeſt inherit the land ‡ [h] wherein thou art a ſtranger, which God gave unto Abraham. 5. And Iſaac ſent away Jacob, and he went to Padan-aram, unto Laban ſon of Bethuel the Syrian, the brother of Rebekah, Jacob's and Eſau's mother.

[a] Chap. xxiv. 3.
[b] Hoſ. xii. 12.
[c] Chap. xxv. 20.
[d] Chap. xxii. 22.
[e] Chap. xxiv. 29.
[f] Chap. xvii. 1.
† Heb. An aſſembly of people.
[g] Chap. xii. 2.
‡ Heb. Of thy ſojournings.
[h] Chap. xvii. 8.

v. 1—5. Rebekah's advice, we find, prevailed on Iſaac; and now Jacob is ſent away into a diſtant land, ſcarce better than a ſervant, and expecting a lingring exile. Note, Thoſe who are God's people, muſt expect the croſs with the crown, the ſuffering with the bleſſing. Obſerve,

1. The charge given him, v. 2. whither he ſhould go, and for what purpoſe. Note, (1.) It is comfortable to have a godly friend's houſe, where we can find an aſylum. 2. It is our duty not to be unequally yoked with unbelievers, 2 Cor. vi. 4.

2. The bleſſing beſtowed on him. Iſaac now was convinced it was God's will it ſhould be Jacob's, and therefore confirms the promiſe. Fruitfulneſs and numbers ſhould enlarge his houſe, and Abraham's emphatical bleſſing, the Meſſiah, ſpring from him. Tho' now a diſtant exile, the poſſeſſion of Canaan is his own, and Eſau's abode ſhall not affect his title. Note, Faith can truſt more ſecurely upon the promiſe, than any other tenure.

3. Jacob ſets off without delay, without a ſervant, on foot, in haſte, more like a flight than a journey, and unknowing when he ſhall return. Behold, how God trains him up for greatneſs by humiliation, and teaches him to govern by his ſervitude; we find no murmuring at his lot. Note, If they who are reduced to the loweſt ebb, have the promiſe of God with them, they have enough to enrich and comfort them.

6. ¶ When Eſau ſaw that Iſaac had bleſſed Jacob, and ſent him away to Padan-aram, to take him a wife from thence; and that as he bleſſed him, he gave him a charge, ſaying, Thou ſhalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan; 7. And that Jacob obeyed his father, and his mother, and was gone to Padan-aram, 8. And Eſau ſeeing that the daughters of Canaan † pleaſed not Iſaac his father: 9. Then went Eſau unto Iſhmael, and took unto the wives which he had, [i] Mahalath the daughter of Iſhmael, Abraham's ſon, [k] the ſiſter of Nebajoth, to be his wife.

† Heb. Were evil in the eyes, &c.
[i] Chap. xxxvi. 3. called Baſhemah
[k] Chap. xxv. 13.

v. 6—9. Eſau began now to ſee his raſh choice, and fain would mend it by a match more to his father's mind. In order to which, he takes a daughter of Iſhmael: and thus inſtead of mending the matter, he but more confirmed the excluſion of his ſeed, for the bond-woman was ſolemnly caſt out and rejected. Note, 1. They who have only an eye to pleaſe men in what they do, will often meet with bitter diſappointments. 2. They who reſt on partial reformations, lie down but the more ſecurely under the wrath of God. 3. It is too late to be wiſe, when the opportunity is loſt.

10. ¶ And Jacob [l] went out from Beer-ſheba, and went toward [m] Haran. 11. And he lighted upon a certain place, and tarried there all night, becauſe the ſun was ſet: and he took of the ſtones of that place, and put them for his pillows, and lay down in that place to ſleep. 12. And he dreamed, and behold a ladder ſet upon the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven: and behold, [n] the angels of God aſcending and deſcending on it. 13. And [o] behold, the LORD ſtood above it, and ſaid, I am the LORD God of Abraham thy father, and the God of Iſaac: and the land whereon thou lieſt, to thee will I give it, and to thy ſeed. 14. And [p] thy ſeed ſhall be as the duſt of the earth; and thou ſhalt † ſpread abroad [q] to the weſt, and to the eaſt, and to the north, and to the ſouth: and [r] in thee and in thy ſeed ſhall all the families of the earth be bleſſed. 15. And behold, [s] I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whither thou goeſt, and will bring thee again into this land: for I will not leave thee, until I have done that which I have ſpoken to thee.

[l] Hoſea xii. 13.
[m] Acts vii. 2.
[n] John i. 51. Heb. i. 14.
[o] Chap. xxxv. i. & xlviii. 3.
[p] Chap. xiii. 16.
† Heb. Break forth.
[q] Deut. xii. 20.
[r] Chap. xii. 3. & xviii. 18. & xxii. 18. & xxvi. 4.
[s] ver. xx. 21.

v. 10—15. We have here Jacob on his journey to Syria, and a long walk he hath had; night approaching, he bethinks himſelf of a lodging. Obſerve,

1. He had a hard bed, and a cold pillow for weary bones to reſt upon; but he had God's bleſſing and care over him, and then he can ſleep in peace.

2. His dream made up for all the inconveniences of his lodging, ing, v. 12, 13. He was without a guard, but angelic hoſts watched over him. Note, theſe are the miniſtring ſpirits, who, though unſeen, ſtill miniſter to the heirs of ſalvation. He was without a friend, but God appeared for him, let down his ladder of grace, and opened to him the gate of heaven. Note, Chriſt is this ladder; no man cometh to the father, but by him.

3. God's promiſe. A confirmation, to him and his ſeed, of the covenant made to Abraham: and moreover an aſſurance of protection and proviſion whitherſoever he went. Note, (1.) If God be our guardian, no danger can come nigh us. (2.) Whom he loves, he never leaves.

16. ¶ And Jacob awaked out of his ſleep, and he ſaid, Surely the LORD is in this place; and I knew it not. 17. And he was afraid, and ſaid, How dreadful is this place! this is none other but the houſe of God, and this is the gate of heaven. 18. And Jacob roſe up early in the morning, and took the ſtone that he had put for his pillows, and [t] ſet it up for a pillar, and poured oil upon the top of it. 19. And he called [u] the name of that place † Beth-el: but the name of that city was called Luz at the firſt. 20. And [x] Jacob vowed a vow, ſaying, If [y] God will be with me, and will keep me in this way that I go, and will give me [z] bread to eat, and raiment to put on; 21. So that I come again to my fathers houſe in peace: then ſhall the LORD be my God. 22. And this ſtone, which I have ſet for a pillar, [a] ſhall be God's houſe: and [b] of all that thou ſhalt give me, I will ſurely give the tenth unto thee.

[t] Chap. xxxi. 13—45. & xxxv. 14.
[u] Judg. i. 23—26. Hoſea iv. 15.
† i. e. The houſe of God.
[x] Chap. xxxi. 13.
[y] ver. 15.
[z] 1 Tim. vi. 8.
[a] Chap. xxxv. 7—14.
[b] Lev. xxvii. 30.

v. 16—22. A bleſſed night's reſt he had: he wiſhed rather ſtill thus to ſleep, than to awake. Obſerve,

1. How he was affected when he awoke. Struck with ſurprize and reverential awe, he cries, How dreadful is this place! God is there, and he knew it not. Note, (1.) God is nearer us than we are aware. (2.) His comfortable preſence is the joy of heaven: we are at the gate, when in his ordinances he manifeſts himſelf to us, as he doth not to the world. (3.) Whenever we are conſcious of his nearneſs, it will ever humble us in the duſt, under the view of our own vileneſs and corruption.

2. What he did to preſerve the memory of ſuch a viſit. He ſet up his pillow for a pillar, and pouring out his cruiſe upon it, called it by a new name, Beth-el, the houſe of God; inſtead of Luz, deriſion. Note, (1.) The world is this Luz, deriſion, vanity, compared with the ſubſtantial joys to be found in Beth-el, God's houſe and ſervice. (2.) The time and place where God firſt appeared to us in mercy, deſerve a perpetual memorial.

3. His vow thereupon. If God will keep him as he hath promiſed, and bring him back in peace, and during his exile ſupply him with food and raiment, he aſks no more, then (1.) the Lord ſhall be his God. He engages to yield up himſelf to his ſervice, to worſhip and obey him. (2.) Whatever God beſtows on him, the tenth ſhall be dedicated to him. Note, (1.) To bind our ſouls to God by ſolemn engagements, is the grateful return we owe to his love. (2.) We ſhould learn with Jacob to be content with food and raiment. (3.) To have the Lord for our God, is not more our duty than our privilege. (4.) We muſt make conſcience in dedicating part of our worldly goods to the uſe of the poor, and the ſervice of God's altar, according to our ability.

CHAP. XXIX.

This chapter gives us an account of God's providences concerning Jacob, purſuant to the promiſes made him in the foregoing chapter. 1. How he was brought in ſafety to his journey's end, and directed to his relations there, who bid him welcome, ver. 1—14. 2. How he was comfortably diſpoſed of in marriage, ver. 15—30. 3. How his family was built up in the birth of four ſons, ver. 31, ad finem.

1. THEN Jacob † went on his journey, and [a] came into the land of the ‡ people of the eaſt. 2. And he looked, and behold, a well in the field, and lo, there were three flocks of ſheep lying by it; for out of that well they watered the flocks: and a great ſtone was upon the well's mouth. 3. And thither were all the flocks gathered: and they rolled the ſtone from the well's mouth, and watered the ſheep, and put the ſtone again upon the well's mouth in his place. 4. And Jacob ſaid unto them, My brethren, whence be ye? And they ſaid, Of Haran are we. 5. And he ſaid unto them, Know ye Laban the ſon of Nahor? And they ſaid, We know him. 6. And he ſaid unto them, † Is he well? And they ſaid, He is well: and behold Rachel his daughter cometh with the ſheep. 7. And he ſaid, Lo, ‡ it is yet high day, neither is it time that the cattle ſhould be gathered together: water ye the ſheep, and go and feed them. 8. And they ſaid, We cannot, until all the flocks be gathered together, and till they roll the ſtone from the well's mouth; then we water the ſheep.

† Heb. Lift up his feet.
[a] Numb. xxiii. 7.
‡ Children.
† Is there peace to Him?
‡ Heb. Yet the day is great.

v. 1—8. With renewed ſtrength, after ſuch a viſit from God, Jacob proceeds on his journey, and arrives ſafe at Haran. We have here, his meeting and converſation with ſome ſhepherds at a well, to which providence had directed him; his friendly enquiries after Laban, and his advice to them concerning their buſineſs. Note, It is kind to aſſiſt others with our beſt advice, though unaſked.

9. And while he yet ſpake with them, Rachel came with her father's ſheep: for ſhe kept them. 10. And it came to paſs, when Jacob ſaw Rachel the daughter of Laban his mother's brother, and the ſheep of Laban his mother's brother; that Jacob went near, and [b] rolled the ſtone from the well's mouth, and watered the flock of Laban his mother's brother. 11. And Jacob kiſſed Rachel, and lifted up his voice, and wept. 12. And Jacob told Rachel that he was her father's brother, and that he was Rebekah's ſon: and ſhe ran and told her father. 13. And it came to paſs, when Laban heard the † tidings of Jacob his ſiſters ſon, that he ran to meet him, and embraced him, and kiſſed him, and brought him to his houſe. And he told Laban all theſe things. 14. And Laban ſaid to him, [c] Surely thou art my bone and my fleſh: and he abode with him ‡ the ſpace of a month.

[b] Exod. ii. 17.
† Heb. Hearing.
[c] Chap. ii. 23.
‡ Heb. A month of days.

v. 9—14. We have here the firſt interview between Rachel and Jacob, and an affectionate interview it was. It began that connexion which was afterwards ſo cemented: he kiſſed her, and wept for joy; whilſt ſhe, as pleaſed to welcome her relation, of whoſe good qualities by report probably ſhe had heard, runs to her father Laban, and he with great kindneſs comes and invites him to his houſe. Note, (1.) There is often great impreſſion made at the firſt interview between thoſe whom God deſigns for each other. (2.) Our relations have a title to our kindneſs; they are unnatural indeed, that in their diſtreſs refuſe them their aſſiſtance.

15. ¶ And Laban ſaid unto Jacob, Becauſe thou art my brother, ſhouldſt thou therefore ſerve me for nought? tell me, what ſhall thy wages be? 16. And Laban had two daughters: the name of the elder was Leah, and the name of the younger was Rachel. 17. Leah was tender-eyed, but Rachel was beautiful and well-favoured. 18. And Jacob loved Rachel; and ſaid, I will ſerve thee ſeven years for Rachel thy younger daughter. 19. And Laban ſaid, It is better that I give her to thee, than that I ſhould give her to another man: abide with me. 20. And Jacob [d] ſerved ſeven years for Rachel: and they ſeemed unto him but a few days, for the love he had to her.

[d] Hoſea xii. 12.

15—20. Jacob now enters heartily into Laban's ſervice, and Laban, in return, deſires to know the wages he ſhould give him. Note, The labourer is worthy of his hire. On this, we have,

1. The bargain made. Rachel's beauty he was not inſenſible to, and now had time to know her ſtill greater amiableneſs: this ſhall be the wages of his ſeven years ſervice. Laban conſents, and Jacob enters on his work.

2. The fulfilment of it, and with pleaſure too. Though the time was long, and the ſervice hard, yet love made the labour light; and if Rachel was his companion too, how agreeably muſt theſe hours ſteal away. Note, (1.) Virtuous love brings its own reward with it. (2.) Nothing is irkſome whilſt thoſe we love are with us, or that is done for them. (3.) If for a mortal love we can be delighted even with toil, how little ſhould we count every burden which brings us to the enjoyment of the perfection of beauty, in the eternal union of our ſouls to God.

21. ¶ And Jacob ſaid unto Laban, Give me my wife (for my days are fulfilled) that I may go in unto her. 22. And Laban gathered together all the men of the place, and made a feaſt. 23. And it came to paſs in the evening, that he took Leah his daughter, and brought her to him: and he went in unto her. 24. And Laban gave unto his daughter Leah, Zilpah his maid, for an

Before Chriſt 1752.

† Heb. Place.
e Judges xiv. 12.

hand-maid. 25. And it came to paſs that in the morning behold it was Leah: and he ſaid to Laban, What is this thou haſt done unto me? did not I ſerve with thee for Rachel? Wherefore then haſt thou beguiled me? 26. And Laban ſaid, It muſt not be ſo done in our † country, to give the younger before the firſt-born. 27. [e] Fulfil her week, and we will give thee this alſo, for the ſervice which thou ſhalt ſerve with me yet ſeven other years. 28. And Jacob did ſo, and fulfilled her week: and he gave him Rachel his daughter to wife alſo. 29. And Laban gave to Rachel his daughter Bilhah his handmaid, to be her maid. 30. And he went in alſo unto Rachel, and he loved alſo Rachel more than Leah, and ſerved with him yet ſeven other years.

21—30. How juſt it is, that they who cheat others, ſhould be paid in their own coin. We have,

1. The wicked cheat put upon Jacob. His love diſappointed, his wages unpaid, and an unwelcome bride impoſed upon him; the more odious, becauſe ſupplanting the beloved Rachel. Note, It is often good for us to find diſappointments, where creature love might elſe engroſs our hearts.

2. The poor excuſe of Laban; mean and frivolous. No doubt, he found Jacob's labour ſo uſeful to him, that he contrived this as a means to ſecure him longer in his ſervice. Note, an inordinate love of gain, will often make a man proſtitute his own children; for to make them marry for gain, is ſcarce leſs than proſtitution. And now his ſecond propoſal lays a ſnare in Jacob's way: Rachel was his own by compact, Leah cannot be rejected. How hard is it to be among treacherous dealers, and not be entangled by them in ſome ſin. Polygamy is inexcuſable: from the beginning it was not ſo. Note, Real love cannot be divided.

† i. e. See a ſon.
‡ i. e. Hearing.
1751.
‖ i. e. Joined. See Numb. xviii. 2.
1750.
† i. e. Praiſe. Mat. i. 2.
1749.
‡ Heb. Stood from bearing.

31. ¶ And when the LORD ſaw that Leah was hated, he opened her womb: but Rachel was barren. 32. And Leah conceived and bare a ſon, and ſhe called his name † Reuben: for ſhe ſaid, Surely the LORD hath looked upon my affliction: now therefore my huſband will love me. 33. And ſhe conceived again, and bare a ſon; and ſaid, Becauſe the LORD hath heard that I was hated, he hath therefore given me this ſon alſo: and ſhe called his name ‡ Simeon. 34. And ſhe conceived again, and bare a ſon; and ſaid, Now this time will my huſband be joined unto me, becauſe I have born him three ſons; therefore was his name called ‖ Levi. 35. And ſhe conceived again, and bare a ſon; and ſhe ſaid, Now will I praiſe the LORD, therefore ſhe called his name † Judah, and ‡ left bearing.

v. 31—35. A forced match muſt needs be unhappy; and nothing more ſhocking than to be obliged to call her wife, who is the object of our diſlike. God however relieved Leah's affliction, in giving her four ſons. Note, (1.) God uſually ſo diſpoſes his gifts, that what is denied in one thing, is made up in another, Rachel's barrenneſs in Jacob's love, and Jacob's diſlike by Leah's fruitfulneſs. (2.) The greateſt affliction of a wife is to have her huſband's love eſtranged from her. (3.) Judah is Leah's ſon, and therein ſhe hath peculiar honour. (4.) They who think to ſecure Chriſt's love by the value of their ſervices, will be miſtaken. His love is ſovereign and free, not depending on our fruitfulneſs, but his own choice.

CHAP. XXX.

In this chapter we have an account of the increaſe, 1. Of Jacob's family; Dan and Naphtali by Bilhah, Rachel's maid, ver. 1—8. Gad and Aſher by Zilpah, Leah's maid, ver. 9—13. Iſſachar, Zebulun, and Dinah, by Leah, ver. 14—21. And laſt of all, Joſeph by Rachel, ver. 22—24. 2. Of Jacob's eſtate. He comes upon a new bargain with Laban, ver. 25—34. And in the ſix years further ſervice he did to Laban, God wonderfully bleſſed him, ſo that his flock of cattle became very conſiderable, ver. 35—43. And herein was fulfilled the bleſſing which Iſaac diſmiſſed him with, chap. xxviii. 3. God make thee fruitful and multiply thee.

a 1 Sam. i. 5.
b Chap. l. 23. Job iii. 12.
c Chap. xvi. 2.
† Heb. Be built by her.
d Chap. xxxv. 22.
† i. e. Judging.
‡ Heb. Wreſtlings of God.
‖ i. e. My wreſtling.
e Mat. iv. 13.
† i. e. A troop, or company.
‡ Heb. In my happineſs.
‖ i. e. Happy.

1. AND when Rachel ſaw that ſhe bare Jacob no children, Rachel envied her ſiſter; and ſaid unto Jacob, Give me children, or elſe I die. 2. And Jacob's anger was kindled againſt Rachel; and he ſaid, [a] Am I in God's ſtead, who hath withheld from thee the fruit of the womb? 3. And ſhe ſaid, Behold, my maid Bilhah, go in unto her; and [b] ſhe ſhall bear upon my knees, that [c] I may alſo † have children by her. 4. And ſhe gave him Bilhah her handmaid [d] to wife: and Jacob went in unto her. 5. And Bilhah conceived, and bare Jacob a ſon. 6. And Rachel ſaid, God hath judged me, and hath alſo heard my voice, and hath given me a ſon: therefore called ſhe his name † Dan. 7. And Bilhah Rachel's maid conceived again, and bare Jacob a ſecond ſon. 8. And Rachel ſaid, With ‡ great wreſtlings have I wreſtled with my ſiſter, and I have prevailed: and ſhe called his name ‖ [e] Naphtali. 9. When Leah ſaw that ſhe had left bearing, ſhe took Zilpah her maid, and gave her Jacob to wife. 10. And Zilpah Leah's maid bare Jacob a ſon. 11. And Leah ſaid, A troop cometh: and ſhe called his name † Gad. 12. And Zilpah Leah's maid bare Jacob a ſecond ſon. 13. And Leah ſaid, ‡ Happy am I, for the daughters will call me bleſſed: and ſhe called his name ‖ Aſher.

v. 1—13. From connections like Jacob's, little domeſtic happineſs could be expected. Accordingly we find,

1. Rachel's envy at her ſiſter, and her perverſe demand from her huſband; ſhe ſpeaks as one at the point of death. Note, (1.) Envious diſcontent and diſappointed pride, have the moſt fatal effects. A broken heart is not a death ſo uncommon perhaps, as it is thought to be. (2.) Inordinate deſire after creature comforts, makes all our miſeries.

2. Jacob's reproof. It was impiety to quarrel with God's diſpenſations. He corrected therefore warmly as he loved. Note, (1.) Our love to the perſon, muſt not ſuffer us to connive at their ſins. (2.) In all our trials, God muſt be applied to. (3.) It is folly as well as ſin, to expect that happineſs from the creature, which only God can beſtow.

3. The wrong expedient Rachel took to relieve herſelf. Tho' none ſurely could be ſo near as her ſiſter's children, ſhe could not rule them ſhe thought, as ſhe could thoſe of her ſervant, and therefore Jacob muſt take her maid to wife; and when ſhe bore two ſons, they have names of contention, Dan and Naphtali given them, as if ſhe had now prevailed. Note, It is the wickedneſs of parents to tranſmit their quarrels in their children.

4. The ſame expedient uſed by Leah. Perhaps he conſented at Rachel's importunity, and now he cannot refuſe Leah pleading the precedent. Note, When we are overcome with ſin once, we ſhall more eaſily yield to it a ſecond time. Leah ſucceeds as her ſiſter, in two ſons, Gad a troop, and Aſher bleſſed, and counts herſelf happy, that ſhe ſhall be eſteemed for her numerous brood. Note, (1.) It is the folly of many, that they are governed by the eſtimation of the world, more than by reaſon or religion. (2.) It is no leſſening of our guilt, that God brings good out of evil.

About 1748.
About 1747.
† i. e. An hire.
About 1746.
‡ i. e. Dwelling.
f Mat iv. 13.
About 1745.
‖ i. e. Judgment.

14. ¶ And Reuben went in the days of wheat-harveſt, and found mandrakes in the field, and brought them unto his mother Leah. Then Rachel ſaid to Leah, Give me, I pray thee, of thy ſons mandrakes. 15. And ſhe ſaid unto her, Is it a ſmall matter that thou haſt taken my huſband? and wouldſt thou take away my ſons mandrakes alſo? And Rachel ſaid, Therefore he ſhall lie with thee to night for thy ſons mandrakes. 16. And Jacob came out of the field in the evening, and Leah went out to meet him, and ſaid, Thou muſt come in unto me, for ſurely I have hired thee with my ſons mandrakes. And he lay with her that night. 17. And God hearkned unto Leah, and ſhe conceived, and bare Jacob the fifth ſon. 18. And Leah ſaid, God hath given me mine hire, becauſe I have given my maiden to my huſband: and ſhe called his name † Iſſachar. 19. And Leah conceived again, and bare Jacob the ſixth ſon. 20. And Leah ſaid, God hath endued me with a good dowry; now will my huſband dwell with me, becauſe I have born him ſix ſons: and ſhe called his name ‡ [f] Zebulun. 21. And afterwards ſhe bare a daughter, and called her name ‖ Dinah.

v. 14—21. Leah's bed was now deſerted, and ſhe is puniſhed thereby for her intruſion into Jacob's; but an occurrence happens, which reſtores her to him, and makes her again the joyful mother of children.

1. Rachel, taken with the ſight of mandrakes, whether flowers or fruit ſeems doubtful, which Reuben had brought his mother Leah, conſents to give Jacob up to her for a night, in exchange for theſe. Note, Our different paſſions often croſs one another; to gratify one, we muſt mortify the other.

2. Leah from thence brings forth Iſſachar, and counts him her hire. So apt are we to think ſucceſs a proof of the rightneſs of the deed. Again ſhe bears Zebulun, and Dinah, and then concludes ſhe ſhall now poſſeſs more of Jacob's company, but is perhaps miſtaken. Nothing can ſupply the place of affection.

Before Chriſt about 1749.

About 1745.

22. ¶ And God remembred Rachel, and God hearkned to her, and opened her womb. 23. And ſhe conceived and bare a ſon; and ſaid, God hath taken away [g] my reproach. 24. And ſhe called his name † Joſeph; and ſaid, [h] The LORD ſhall add to me another ſon.

g 1 Sam. i. 6. Iſa. iv. 1. Luke i. 25.
† i. e. Adding.
h Chap. xxxv. 17.

v. 22, 23. Had Rachel but exerciſed the patience of Rebekah, ſhe had not been ſo haſty to put her handmaid in her place. More prayer, and leſs worldly wiſdom, had better anſwered her end; for now, at her earneſt prayer, God remembers her and gives her a ſon. She calls him Joſeph, in token of her confidence in the increaſe of her children, now ſhe began to bear. Note, How little do we know what is good for ourſelves. This name had not been given, if ſhe could have foreſeen her next ſon muſt be her death.

25. ¶ And it came to paſs, when Rachel had born Joſeph, that Jacob ſaid unto Laban, Send me away, that I may go unto mine own place, and to my country. 26. Give me my wives and my children, for whom I have ſerved thee, and let me go: for thou knoweſt my ſervice which I have done thee.

v. 25, 26. Jacob now, after his long abſence, began to think of home. The land of Canaan was not only the land of his nativity, but the land of promiſe, and the ſeed which ſhould inherit it now began to multiply. Though he had nothing of his own, he has a good father to go to, who will welcome him and his; or, if not, he can truſt God. Note, (1.) God will not give mouths, without ſending meat for them. (2.) Every true Chriſtian, however comfortably ſettled or increaſed in this world, hath his eye and his heart upon his own country, which is above.

27. And Laban ſaid unto him, I pray thee, if I have found favour in thine eyes, tarry: for [i] I have learned by experience, that the LORD hath bleſſed me for thy ſake. 28. And he ſaid, Appoint me thy wages, and I will give it. 29. And he ſaid unto him, Thou knoweſt how I have ſerved thee, and how thy cattle was with me. 30. For it was little which thou hadſt before I came, and it is now † increaſed unto a multitude; and the LORD hath bleſſed thee ‡ ſince my coming: and now when ſhall I provide for mine own houſe alſo? 31. And he ſaid, What ſhall I give thee? And Jacob ſaid, Thou ſhalt not give me any thing; if thou wilt do this thing for me, I will again feed and keep thy flock: 32. I will paſs through all thy flock to day, removing from thence all the ſpeckled and ſpotted cattle, and all the brown cattle among the ſheep, and the ſpotted and ſpeckled among the goats: and of ſuch ſhall be my hire. 33. So ſhall my righteouſneſs anſwer for me † in time to come, when it ſhall come for my hire before thy face; every one that is not ſpeckled and ſpotted amongſt the goats, and brown amongſt the ſheep, that ſhall be accounted ſtolen with me. 34. And Laban ſaid, Behold, I would it might be according to thy word. 35. And he removed that day the he-goats that were ring-ſtraked and ſpotted, and all the ſhe-goats that were ſpeckled and ſpotted, and every one that had ſome white in it, and all the brown among the ſheep, and gave them into the hands of his ſons. 36. And he ſet three days journey betwixt himſelf and Jacob: and Jacob fed the reſt of Laban's flocks.

i Chap. xxxix. 5.
† Heb. Broken forth.
‡ Heb. At my foot.
† Heb. To-morrow.

v. 27—36. Laban had now experience of his intereſt in Jacob's ſtay, and God's bleſſing upon him; and therefore, though he could part with his daughters and children, he is loth to loſe ſo good a ſhepherd as Jacob, by whoſe care he had proſpered ſo greatly. He intreats him therefore to ſtay. Note, Worldly men can give good words to ſerve their own ends. To engage him, as his family was large, and his poſſeſſions ſmall, and Jacob appeared not unwilling to yield, if he had a proſpect of providing for his family, he conſents to a propoſal of Jacob's, to give him the ſpeckled and ring-ſtreaked ſheep for his hire. Thus the matter would be put into God's hands, and Laban have no pretext to diſpute the property of Jacob. But to prevent any great advantage accruing to Jacob, he carefully ſeparates theſe mottled ſheep from the reſt, and ſets them three days journey aſunder. Learn, (1.) How wiſe and cunning worldly men are for their own intereſts. (2.) How vain their caution, when God deſigns to fruſtrate their purpoſes.

37. ¶ And Jacob [k] took him rods of green poplar, and of the haſel, and cheſnut-tree; and pilled white ſtrakes in them, and made the white appear which was in the rods. 38. And he ſet the rods which he had pilled before the flocks in the gutters in the watering-troughs, when the flocks came to drink; that they ſhould conceive when they came to drink. 39. And the flocks conceived before the rods, and brought forth cattle ring-ſtraked, ſpeckled, and ſpotted. 40. And Jacob did ſeparate the lambs, and ſet the faces of the flocks toward the ring-ſtraked, and all the brown in the flock of Laban: and he put his own flocks by themſelves; and put them not unto Laban's cattle. 41. And it came to paſs, whenſoever the ſtronger cattle did conceive, that Jacob laid the rods before the eyes of the cattle in the gutters, that they might conceive among the rods. 42. But when the cattle were feeble, he put them not in: ſo the feebler were Laban's, and the ſtronger Jacob's. 43. And the man increaſed exceedingly, and had much cattle, and maid-ſervants, and men-ſervants, and camels, and aſſes.

k See Chap. xxxi. 9—12.

Before Chriſt 1911.

v. 37—43. Jacob's policy to ſecure his wages was nothing blameable. He had to deal with an artful maſter, and therefore is obliged to counteract his unjuſt deſigns. As in conception the imagination is thought powerfully to operate, he thus by the ſtriped poplar got a ſpeckled breed, and by ſetting them before the reſt, ſecured his own in the continuance of their colour in breeding; whilſt Laban's looking on them, brought forth lambs like them. And as he ſelected the ſtrongeſt cattle, his flock became at once vigorous and numerous; and thus he got good wages by his work. Note, (1.) They often outwit themſelves, who intend to impoſe upon others. (2.) The divine bleſſing can quickly make a little much.

CHAP. XXXI.

Jacob had left his father's houſe in a fright, came to his uncle in diſtreſs, very hard uſage he had met with there, and now is going back ſurrounded with fears. Here is, 1. His reſolution to return, ver. 1—16. 2. His clandeſtine departure, ver. 17—21. 3. Laban's purſuit of him in diſpleaſure, ver. 22—25. 4. The hot words that paſſed between them, ver. 26—42. 5. Their amicable agreement at laſt, ver. 43, ad finem.

1. AND he heard the words of Laban's ſons, ſaying, Jacob hath taken away all that was our father's; and of that which was our father's hath he gotten all this glory. 2. And Jacob beheld [a] the countenance of Laban, and behold it was not toward him † as before. 3. And the LORD ſaid unto Jacob, Return unto the land of thy fathers, and to thy kindred, and I will be with thee. 4. And Jacob ſent and called Rachel and Leah to the field unto his flock. 5. And ſaid unto them, I ſee your father's countenance, that it is not toward me as before: but the God of my father hath been with me. 6. And ye know that with all my power I have ſerved your father. 7. And your father hath deceived me, and [b] changed my wages [c] ten times: but God ſuffered him not to hurt me. 8. If he ſaid thus, The ſpeckled ſhall be thy wages; then all the cattle bare ſpeckled: and if he ſaid thus, The ring-ſtraked ſhall be thy hire, then bare all the cattle ring-ſtraked. 9. Thus God hath taken away the cattle of your father, and given them to me. 10. And it came to paſs at the time that the cattle conceived, that I lifted up mine eyes, and ſaw in a dream, and behold, the ‡ rams which leaped upon the cattle were ring-ſtraked, ſpeckled, and griſled. 11. And the angel of God ſpake unto me in a dream, ſaying, Jacob: And I ſaid, Here am I. 12. And he ſaid, Lift up now thine eyes and ſee, all the rams which leap upon the cattle are ring-ſtraked, ſpeckled, and griſled: for I have ſeen all that Laban doth unto thee. 13. I am the God of Beth-el, [d] where thou anointedſt the pillar, and where thou vowedſt a vow unto me: now [e] ariſe, get thee out from this land, and return unto the land of thy kindred. 14. And Rachel and Leah anſwered, and ſaid unto him, Is there yet any portion or inheritance for us in our father's houſe? 15. Are we not counted of him ſtrangers? for [f] he hath ſold us, and hath quite devoured alſo our money. 15. For all the riches which God hath taken from our father, that is ours, and our childrens: now then whatſoever God hath ſaid unto thee, do.

a Chap. iv. 5.
† Heb. As yeſterday and the day before.
b Ver. 41.
c Numb. xiv. 22. Neh. iv. 12. Job xix. 3. Zech. viii. 23.
‡ Or He-goats.
d Chap. xxviii. 18.
e Chap. xxxii. 9.
f Chap. ix. 15, 27.

v. 1—16. Jacob's great increaſe becomes now a dangerous ſnare; but God makes it the means of haſtening him home the ſooner. So eaſily can his providence change our dangers into mercies.

1. Laban's ſons beheld with indignation the flocks of Jacob, and talked as if they only wanted occaſion to take back the fruit of his bargain. They counted his ſhare all, and ſaw his ſheep magnified with the eyes of covetouſneſs; while Laban himſelf, though he ſaid nothing, betrayed in his countenance the ſame ſentiments. Note, (1.) An envious mind cannot bear another ſhould proſper more than themſelves, eſpecially in their own profeſſion. (2.) The things of this world appear glorious to thoſe who place their happineſs in them; but they are little in his eyes, who hath ſeen, by faith, the glories of a better.

2. Jacob hereupon reſolves to decamp, under the divine guidance and direction. The God of Bethel, to whom he owed all his ſucceſs, who directed him how to act by a viſion, now bids him be gone, and will protect him in his return. Note, (1.) When worldly proſperity increaſes, we are moſt tempted to take up our reſt here: it is well then to think of our home in heaven. (2.) Whilſt our worldly bleſſings come as covenant bleſſings, they are doubly ſweet. (3.) When we have gone out under God's guidance, we need not fear returning ſafe.

3. He acquaints his wives with his reſolution, but privately, for fear of Laban, and gives them his reaſons. Note, The huſband, in matters of importance to his family, ſhould conſult his wife, who, as the partner of his fortune, ſhould be the partner of his heart. They readily conſent, conſcious of the truth of his complaints, and the juſtice of his arguments. What Jacob had got, was not only his wages, but their juſt portion; they prefer therefore their huſband, as bounden, to their father's houſe, and are ready to go wherever he pleaſes. Note, A good wife will delight to ſhare her huſband's lot, wherever, or to whatever God is pleaſed to call him.

17. ¶ Then Jacob roſe up, and ſet his ſons and his wives upon camels. 18. And he carried away all his cattle, and all his goods which he had gotten, the cattle of his getting, which he had gotten in Padan-aram; for to go to Iſaac his father in the land of Canaan. 19. And Laban went to ſhear his ſheep: and Rachel had ſtolen the † images that were her father's. 20. And Jacob ſtole away ‡ unawares to Laban the Syrian, in that he told him not that he fled. 21. So he fled with all that he had, and he roſe up, and paſſed over the river, and ſet his face toward the mount Gilead.

† Heb. Teraphim. Judg. xvii. 5. 1 Sam. xix. 13.

‡ Heb. The heart of Laban.

v. 17—21. The reſolution thus agreed on and fixed, Jacob ſeizes the firſt favourable opportunity of Laban's abſence; and as he had reaſon to fear reſtraint, if his purpoſe had been known, he goes off ſecretly. He took with him only his own, ſo that Laban might have no reaſon to complain; though Rachel ſtole her father's Teraphim, (little houſhold gods, probably a ſpice of the heathen idolatry, which remained in Laban's family) whether out of ſuperſtitious regard to them, or, as we may hope, to convince her father of the folly of truſting in theſe vanities. Note, Self-preſervation is the firſt law. We are not to commit ſin, but we may uſe every wiſe method to avoid impending danger.

22. And it was told Laban on the third day, that Jacob was fled. 23. And he took his brethren with him, and purſued after him ſeven days journey; and they overtook him in the mount Gilead. 24. And God came to Laban the Syrian [g] in a dream by night, and ſaid unto him, Take heed that thou ſpeak not to Jacob || either good or bad. 25. ¶ Then Laban overtook Jacob. Now Jacob had pitched his tent in the mount: and Laban with his brethren pitched in the mount of Gilead.

[g] Job xxxiii. 15.

|| Heb. From good to bad.

v. 22—25. We have here,

1. Laban's purſuit. He raiſes all his family, and purſues the fugitive ſeven days, and overtakes him at Mount Gilead. Note, When anger and covetouſneſs are rouſed, what will not men do to gratify them? Even his own fleſh and blood are now likely to rue his vengeance.

2. That night God ſtops his career, forbids him to interpoſe, and reſtrains him from offering Jacob the leaſt injury. Note, (1.) God hath in his hand the hearts of all men. He ſaith to the furiouſneſs of man, as to the raging ſea, Hitherto ſhalt thou come, and no further. (2.) He hath and will continue to reſcue his people, when they ſeem upon the brink of ruin. Let us in every circumſtance truſt, and not be afraid.

26. And Laban ſaid to Jacob, What haſt thou done, that thou haſt ſtolen away unawares to me, and carried away my daughters, as captives taken with the ſword? 27. Wherefore didſt thou flee away ſecretly, and † ſteal away from me? and didſt not tell me, that I might have ſent thee away with mirth, and with ſongs, with tabret, and with harp? 28. And haſt not ſuffered me to kiſs my ſons and my daughters? thou haſt now done fooliſhly in ſo doing. 29. It is in the power of my hand to do you hurt: but the God of your fathers ſpake unto me yeſternight, ſaying, Take thou heed that thou ſpeak not to Jacob either good or bad. 30. And now though thou wouldſt needs be gone, becauſe thou ſore longeſt after thy father's houſe; yet wherefore haſt thou ſtolen my gods? 31. And Jacob anſwered and ſaid to Laban, Becauſe I was afraid: for I ſaid, Peradventure thou wouldſt take by force thy daughters from me. 32. With whomſoever thou findeſt thy gods, [h] let him not live: before our brethren diſcern thou what is thine with me, and take it to thee: for Jacob knew not that Rachel had ſtolen them. 33. And Laban went into Jacob's tent, and into Leah's tent, and into the two maid-ſervants tents; but he found them not. Then went he out of Leah's tent, and entred into Rachel's tent. 34. Now Rachel had taken the images, and put them in the camels furniture, and ſat upon them: and Laban ‡ ſearched all the tent, but found them not. 35. And ſhe ſaid to her father, Let it not diſpleaſe my lord, that I cannot riſe up before thee; for the cuſtom of women is upon me: and he ſearched, but found not the images.

† Heb. Haſt ſtolen me.

[h] See Chap. xliv. 9.

‡ Heb. Felt.

v. 26—35. Though Laban is reſtrained from hurting Jacob, he is not from upbraiding him, Here is,

1. His charge againſt him, of great unkindneſs. He pretends wondrous affection to his children, nothing of which he had ever ſhown. Note, When a man is diſappointed of a miſchievous deſign, he would fain have it thought he never intended it. He ſuggeſts alſo, as though it were a force upon his daughters, though they were firſt conſulted. Note, A bad heart is pregnant in inventing evil ſurmiſes. He vaunts his power to hurt him, but owns himſelf under a divine reſtraint, from God's appearing to him the night paſt. Note, It were well, if men attended more to the ſecret notices, ſleeping or waking, given their conſciences from God. However, one charge at leaſt with ſome colour he can maintain: his gods are ſtolen, and Jacob the thief. Sad gods indeed, that cannot preſerve themſelves.

2. Jacob maintains his innocence. If he went off ſuddenly, he had reaſon, from Laban's paſt conduct, to ſuſpect injuſtice. As to his gods, he denies the charge, and imprecates vengeance on the thief. Had he known her, he had ſpoken more warily. Note, Evil wiſhes cannot be too ſparingly diſperſed: they may light on thoſe we leaſt ſuſpect.

3. Laban's ſearch for his gods in vain. Rachel by an artifice conceals them. It was probably an untruth, at beſt an excuſe. Note, They who ſteal, will never want a lie or excuſe to conceal it.

36. ¶ And Jacob was wroth, and chode with Laban: and Jacob anſwered, and ſaid to Laban, What is my treſpaſs? what is my ſin, that thou haſt ſo hotly purſued after me? 37. Whereas thou haſt ſearched all my ſtuff, what haſt thou found of all thy houſhold-ſtuff? ſet it here before my brethren, and thy brethren, that they may judge betwixt us both. 38. This twenty years have I been with thee; thy ews and thy ſhe-goats have not caſt their young, and the rams of thy flock have I not eaten. 39. [i] That which was torn of beaſts, I brought not unto thee, I bare the loſs of it; [k] of my hand didſt thou require it, whether ſtolen by day, or ſtolen by night. 40. Thus I was, in the day the drought conſumed me, and the froſt by night; and my ſleep departed from mine eyes. 41. Thus have I been twenty years in thy houſe; I ſerved thee fourteen years for thy two daughters, and ſix years for thy cattle: and [l] thou haſt changed my wages ten times. 42. Except the God of my father, the God of Abraham, and the fear of Iſaac had been with me, ſurely thou hadſt ſent me away now empty: God hath ſeen mine affliction, and the labour of my hands, and rebuked thee yeſternight.

[i] Exod. xxii. 10, &c.

[k] Exod. xxii. 12.

[l] Ver. 7.

v. 36—42. It is now Jacob's turn to chide, when Laban can make good not the leaſt of his accuſations, nor find a thread he can juſtly claim. Note, Though he had reaſon to expoſtulate, he did wrong to be angry: no provocation can excuſe that. He could appeal to Laban for his honeſty, carefulneſs, and fidelity; and every inſtance he produces of the uprightneſs of his ſervice, reflects upon Laban as an unjuſt and unreaſonable maſter. Note, Though it be our unhappy caſe to have ſuch a maſter as Laban, a good ſervant, like Jacob, will not be the leſs faithful and induſtrious. We muſt leave the matter with God, and then we ſhall have Jacob's bleſſing.

Before Chriſt 1897.

43. ¶ And Laban anſwered, and ſaid unto Jacob, Theſe daughters are my daughters, and theſe children are my children, and theſe cattle are my cattle, and all that thou ſeeſt is mine: and what can I do this day unto theſe my daughters, or unto their children which they have born? 44. Now therefore come thou, let us make a covenant, I and thou; and [m] let it be for a witneſs between me and thee. 45. And Jacob [n] took a ſtone, and ſet it up for a pillar. 46. And Jacob ſaid unto his brethren, Gather ſtones; and they took ſtones, and made an heap: and they did eat there upon the heap. 47. And Laban called it † Jegar-ſahadutha: but Jacob called it Galeed. 48. And Laban ſaid, This heap is a witneſs between me and thee this day. Therefore was the name of it called Galeed: 49. And ‡ [o] Miſpah; for he ſaid, The LORD watch between me and thee, when we are abſent one from another. 50. If thou ſhalt afflict my daughters, or if thou ſhalt take other wives beſides my daughters, no man is with us; See, God is witneſs betwixt me and thee. 51. And Laban ſaid to Jacob, Behold this heap, and behold this pillar which I have caſt betwixt me and thee; 52. This heap be witneſs, and this pillar be witneſs, that I will not paſs over this heap to thee, and that thou ſhalt not paſs over this heap and this pillar unto me, for harm. 53. The God of Abraham, and the God of Nahor, the God of their father, judge betwixt us. And Jacob ſware by the fear of his father Iſaac. 54. Then Jacob § offered ſacrifice upon the mount, and called his brethren to eat bread: and they did eat bread, and tarried all night in the mount. 55. And early in the morning Laban roſe up, and kiſſed his ſons and his daughters, and bleſſed them: and Laban departed, and returned unto his place.

[m] Joſh. xxiv. 27.

[n] Chap. xxviii. 18.

† i. e. The heap of witneſs.

‡ i. e. A beacon, or watch-tower.

[o] Judges xi. 29.

§ Or, killed beaſts.

v. 43—55. Laban could not gainſay Jacob's expoſtulation; truth and conſcience confirmed it. But when he dares not do evil, he pretends kindneſs, and would fain make a merit of that affection which he had never ſhown, and beſtow as a gift what was Jacob's by hard ſervice, v. 43. Hereupon,

1. He propoſes a covenant of friendſhip, and Jacob readily conſents. Note, We muſt follow peace with all men, eſpecially with thoſe of our own houſe and family. The terms are, That Jacob ſhall take no other wife, and that no injuries ſhould be offered on either ſide. Jacob never deſigned the one, nor intended the other. Note, They who behave ill, are moſt apt to ſuſpect others to be like themſelves. Hereupon, a pillar is erected of ſtones, a ſacrifice is offered, the oath is taken, they eat and drink before the Lord, and, according to their different languages, called the place the Heap of Witneſs, and the Watch-tower. Learn, (1.) To forgive and forget all injuries is Chriſtian-like. (2.) When friends are parted, it is their comfort, that God ſees and watches between them. (3.) Thoſe who take the ſeals of the covenant, ſhould look well that they be faithful to the engagements that are upon them; for God is not mocked.

2. Their parting in peace. The ſtorm is blown over; anger ſubſides into paternal benediction, and threatning into kiſſes of love. Note, (1.) Strange alterations are brought about by God's providence. (2.) Near relations are doubly bound mutually to forgive, and live in peace.

CHAP. XXXII.

We have here Jacob ſtill upon his journey towards Canaan. By the way he meets, 1. With good tidings from his God, ver. 1, 2. 2. With bad tidings from his brother, to whom he ſent a meſſage to notify his return, ver. 2—7. In his diſtreſs, 1. He divides his company, ver. 7—8. 2. He makes his prayer to God, ver. 9—12. 3. He ſends a preſent to his brother, ver. 13—23. 4. He wreſtles with the angel, ver. 24—32.

1. AND Jacob went on his way, and the angels of God met him. 2. And when Jacob ſaw them, he ſaid, This is God's hoſt: and he called the name of that place † Mahanaim.

† i. e. Two hoſts, or camps.

v. 1, 2. God hath preſerved him hitherto, and ſtill continues to guard him ſafe home. He had the promiſe of protection, and he truſted it; now he has the ſight of his angelic convoy, and may be comforted. Who can hurt them whom angels miniſter unto? and need there was of every ſupport, for his paſt dangers were only the prelude of greater impending. God thus prepares his people by ſtrong conſolations for difficult ſervices. Note, When every believer draws near his laſt conflict in death, and Canaan is in view, then ſhall theſe attendant ſpirits ſurround the dying bed, to welcome the departing ſoul, and lodge it ſafe in the boſom of Jeſus. He called the place Mahanaim, two hoſts; they protected his front from Eſau, and his rear from Laban.

3. And Jacob ſent meſſengers before him to Eſau his brother, [a] unto the land of Seir, [b] the † country of Edom. 4. And he commanded them, ſaying, Thus ſhall ye ſpeak unto my lord Eſau; Thy ſervant Jacob ſaith thus, I have ſojourned with Laban, and ſtayed there until now. 5. And I have oxen, and aſſes, flocks, and men-ſervants, and women-ſervants: and I have ſent to tell my lord, that I may find grace in thy ſight.

[a] Chap. xxxiii. 14, 16.

[b] Chap. xxxvi. 6, 7, 8.

† Heb. Field.

v. 3—5. Juſtly apprehenſive of Eſau's old grudge, he endeavours to pacify him by a kind and humble meſſage, acquainting him with his return, and the proſperity God had ſhewed him. Note, (1.) Yielding pacifies wrath. It is wiſe often to make ſubmiſſions to ſuperiors, though unjuſtly exaſperated againſt us. (2.) Abundance, which ſhould make a good brother rejoice, to a wicked one often proves an occaſion of greater envy and diſpleaſure.

6. ¶ And the Meſſengers returned to Jacob, ſaying, We came to thy brother Eſau, and [c] alſo he cometh to meet thee, and four hundred men with him. 7. Then Jacob was greatly afraid and diſtreſſed: and he divided the people that was with him, and the flocks, and herds, and the camels into two bands; 8. And ſaid, If Eſau come to the one company and ſmite it, then the other company which is left ſhall eſcape.

[c] Chap. xxxiii. 1.

v. 6—8. We have here,

1. The meſſenger's return; and a ſad anſwer he brought back. Probably Eſau had heard of Jacob's coming, and was in the way with his band of men, breathing out fury and revenge. Note, (1.) A malicious ſpirit never forgets. (2.) Jealouſy is cruel as the grave; even a brother's life cannot ſtand before it. (3.) Power and policy are uſually with the oppreſſors. What would become of the poor church of Chriſt, if ſome ſupport more than human did not attend it?

2. Jacob's fear. And reaſon enough he had for it. Note, (1.) Repeated trials muſt be expected by every Chriſtian. (2.) Fears of approaching danger may be, where confidence in the promiſe is unſhaken.

3. His diſpoſition of his family. At leaſt, one part may eſcape, if the other is ſmitten. Note, Though God hath given us his promiſe, we are nevertheleſs called to the uſe of all prudent means.

9. ¶ And Jacob ſaid, O God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Iſaac, the LORD which ſaidſt unto me, [d] Return unto thy country, and to thy kindred, and I will deal well with thee: 10. † I am not worthy of the leaſt of all the mercies, and of all the truth which thou haſt ſhewed unto thy ſervant; for with my ſtaff I paſſed over this Jordan, and now I am become two bands. 11. Deliver me, I pray thee, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Eſau: for I fear him, leſt he will come and ſmite me, and [e] the mother ‡ with the children. 12. And [f] thou ſaidſt, I will ſurely do thee good, and make thy ſeed as the ſand of the ſea, which cannot be numbered for multitude.

[d] Chap. xxxi. 13.

† Heb. I am leſs than all, &c.

[e] Hoſea x. 14.

‡ Heb. Upon.

[f] Chap. xxviii. 13, 14.

v. 9—12. Jacob had made the beſt diſpoſition his circumſtances would admit of; but he depended more upon the effects of prayer, than upon the arm of fleſh. Accordingly we find him upon his knees, pouring out his diſtreſs before God. Note, The more danger preſſes us, the more loud ſhould be our cry to God; for in him is our help. A glorious prayer this was, and well worth notice: his plea is urgent, and his arguments forcible. He approaches God as his covenant God, having the entail of the bleſſings promiſed to Abraham and Iſaac. He pleads God's warrant for his journey, and therefore God's honour engaged for his protection. He acknowledges his own unworthineſs of any favour, yet with thankfulneſs mentions the great mercies he had received, as an argument to hope for more. He then ſpeaks his fears and diſtreſs from his apprehenſions of Eſau; and ſince he had no proſpect of help elſewhere, commits his cauſe with earneſt importunity into his hand, who was able to ſave him, and cloſes with his plea of God's faithfulneſs; not ſo much to remind him of his promiſe, as to encourage his own heart to depend upon it. Learn hence, (1.) In all our trials, to ſpread them before the Lord. (2.) To come to God as our covenant God, believing his readineſs to hear and help us. (3.) When in the way of our duty, we may boldly claim the fulfilment of his promiſe. (4.) Never let us forget our own vileneſs and ſinfulneſs. (5.) Nor the great and repeated mercies we have already received, that no preſent diſtreſs may prevent our grateful acknowledgments. (6.) We cannot be too particular in our prayers, mentioning to God perſons and circumſtances, as to a friend who can be touched with the feeling of our diſtreſſes. (7.) To riſe from our knees with confidence in the unchangeableneſs of God in his promiſes.

13. ¶ And he lodged there that ſame night; and took of that which came to his hand, a preſent for Eſau his brother; 14. Two hundred ſhe-goats, and twenty he-goats, two hundred ews and twenty rams. 15. Thirty milch camels with their colts, forty kine and ten bulls, twenty ſhe-aſſes and ten foles. 16. And he delivered them into the hand of his ſervants, every drove by themſelves; and ſaid unto his ſervants, Paſs over before me, and put a ſpace betwixt drove and drove. 17. And he commanded the foremoſt, ſaying, When Eſau my brother meeteth thee, and aſketh thee, ſaying, Whoſe art thou, and whither goeſt thou? and whoſe are theſe before thee? 18. Then thou ſhalt ſay, Theſe be thy ſervant Jacob's; it is a preſent ſent unto my lord Eſau: and behold alſo he is behind us. 19. And ſo commanded he the ſecond and the third, and all that followed the droves, ſaying, On this manner ſhall you ſpeak unto Eſau, when you find him. 20. And ſay ye moreover, Behold, thy ſervant Jacob is behind us: For he ſaid, I will appeaſe him with the preſent that goeth before me, and afterwards I will ſee his face; peradventure he will accept of † me.

† Heb. My face.

v. 13—20. Jacob having poured out his ſoul to God in prayer, in dependance on his care, takes the moſt likely methods to appeaſe his brother's reſentment.

1. By a conſiderable preſent, ſo divided into ſeveral droves, as both ſet them off, and ſerved, from their repeated approach, to ſtay Eſau for enquiry; thus giving him time to think, and ſuch matter to muſe upon, as might allay the fury of his anger. Note, (1.) A preſent is a good letter of recommendation to a worldly mind. (2.) We cannot buy peace too dear. (3.) It is wiſdom to preſent a part, if that can preſerve the whole. Some through covetouſneſs to ſpare a ſhilling often loſe a pound.

2. By a ſubmiſſive meſſage. Eſau muſt be called my lord, and Jacob his ſervant. Note, It tickles vain minds to have their titles repeated to them. Every ſervant pays his reſpects in Jacob's name, and adds, that Jacob himſelf was behind. Note, (1.) In danger it is uſually ſafeſt to put on a good countenance. (2.) Apparent confidence in a man's goodneſs lays him under a kind of obligation to ſhew it.

21. So went the preſent over before him: and himſelf lodged that night in the company. 22. And he roſe up that night, and took his two wives, and his two women-ſervants, and his eleven ſons, and [g] paſſed over the ford Jabbok. 23. And he took them, and † ſent them over the brook, and ſent over that he had. 24. ¶ And Jacob was left alone; and there wreſtled a man with him, until the ‡ breaking of the day. 25. And when he ſaw that he prevailed not againſt him, he touched the hollow of his thigh: and [h] the hollow of Jacob's thigh was out of joint, as he wreſtled with him. 26. And [i] he ſaid, Let me go, for the day breaketh: And he ſaid, [k] I will not let thee go, except thou bleſs me. 27. And he ſaid unto him, What is thy name? And he ſaid, Jacob. 28. And he ſaid, [l] Thy name ſhall be called no more Jacob, but Iſrael: for as a prince haſt thou power with God and with men, and haſt prevailed. 29. And Jacob aſked him, and ſaid, Tell me, I pray thee, thy name: And he ſaid, [m] Wherefore is it, that thou doſt aſk after my name? And he bleſſed him there. 30. And Jacob called the name of the place † Peniel: for [n] I have ſeen God face to face, and my life is preſerved. 31. And as he paſſed over Penuel, the ſun roſe upon him, and he halted upon his thigh. 32. Therefore the children of Iſrael eat not of the ſinew which ſhrank, which is upon the hollow of the thigh, unto this day: becauſe he touched the hollow of Jacob's thigh, in the ſinew that ſhrank.

[g] Deut. iii. 16.

‡ Heb. Cauſed to paſs.

§ Heb. Aſcending of the morning.

[h] See Mat. xxvi. 41. 2 Cor. xii. 7.

[i] See Luke xxiv. 28.

[k] Hoſ. xii. 4.

[l] Chap. xxxv. 10. 2 Kings, xvii. 34.

[m] Judg. xiii. 18.

† i. e. The face of God.

[n] Chap. xvi. 13. Exod. xxiv. 11. & xxxiii. 20. Deut. v. 24. Judg. vi. 22. & xiii. 22. Iſa. vi. 5.

v. 21—32. Having diſmiſſed his ſervants, he next takes care to remove his family and children over the brook, Jacob chuſing to ſpend that night alone with God in prayer and ſupplication. Note, Whilſt we are uſing means, we muſt be looking up to God for a bleſſing on them. We have hereupon a very ſingular occurrence.

1. A man wreſtled with him. A man in form, but more than man in nature; even the great God-man, the angel of the covenant. Jacob now had a ſore conflict to ſuſtain, which extorted from him ſtrong crying and tears; for whilſt he ſtruggled he wept, and made ſupplications to the angel. Note, They who would prevail in temptation, muſt firſt wreſtle in prayer with God.

2. Jacob's perſeverance. He who wreſtled with him upheld his ſtrength, and but oppoſed to make his victory more glorious. Note, If God exerciſes us with ſore conflicts, we may have confidence in him, that as our day is, our ſtrength ſhall be.

3. The angel's touch disjointing his thigh. Probably without pain, yet incapacitating him for corporal ſtruggle; however not inducing him to quit his hold, or give up the conteſt. Note, When we are weak, then are we ſtrong: the deepeſt ſenſe of our own inſufficiency gives our faith more hold of Chriſt, and determined truſt in him.

4. The angel's requeſt to be gone, becauſe the day breaks. He who had disjointed his thigh, might have disjointed his arms too; but he ſeeks not to prevail, but to exerciſe Jacob's faith and conſtancy. His family calls, buſineſs approaches; and theſe uſually oblige us to leave the cloſet of prayer for the employments of our profeſſion. But,

5. He will not let him go without a bleſſing. He knew with whom he had to do, and reſolves, though he was ſlain, to truſt in him, and by a holy importunity extorts his benediction. Note, Chriſt loves importunate fervent prayer.

6. His prayer is granted, and, in token of it, his name is changed into Iſrael, a Prince with God. Note, (1.) Perſeverance will certainly be crowned with victory. (2.) Let every Iſraelite indeed ſhew by his prayers his relation to the patriarch.

7. Jacob having anſwered to his own name, would know his antagoniſt's in return; but this is denied him. It would anſwer no end. We muſt not be curious, but content with what God hath revealed. If we have the angel's bleſſing, we need not aſk his name.

8. In grateful acknowledgment of the mercy ſhewn him, the place is called Peniel. They who have received moſt from God, will never value themſelves on their own prayers or piety, but wonder at God's pity and condeſcenſion to them.

9. On parting at ſun-riſing he finds his halting. In the heat of conteſt the hurt is leſs felt. But it is an honourable ſcar, and well repaid, by the conſtant remembrance of the mercy, the inconvenience it occaſioned. Note, It were happy for Chriſtians, if the riſing ſun found them not on beds of ſloth, but riſing from the place of prayer.

10. The cuſtom obſerved by poſterity, to continue the memory of God's goodneſs to their father Jacob. Note, Children's children ſhould look back upon their father's mercies as their own.

CHAP. XXXIII.

In this chapter we have, 1. A very friendly meeting between Jacob and Eſau, ver. 1—4. Since God is his friend, Eſau ſhall not be his enemy. 2. Their conference, (1.) About Jacob's family, ver. 5—7. (2.) About the preſent he had ſent, ver. 8—11. (3.) About the progreſs of their journey, ver. 12—15. 3. Jacob's ſettlement in Canaan, his houſe, ground, and altar, ver. 16—20.

1. AND Jacob lifted up his eyes, and looked, and behold, [a] Eſau came, and with him four hundred men. And he divided the children unto Leah, and unto Rachel, and unto the two handmaids. 2. And he put the handmaids and their children foremoſt, and Leah and her children after, and Rachel and Joſeph hindermoſt. 3. And he paſſed over before them, and bowed himſelf to the ground ſeven times, until he came near to his brother. 4. And Eſau ran to meet him, and embraced him, and fell on his neck, and kiſſed him: and they wept.

[a] Chap. xxxii. 6.

v. 1—4. At laſt the danger approaches, and now, as his father Abraham before him, he finds Jehovah Jireh, God will take care of him in his perilous ſituation. Note, They who have confidence in God, may chearfully wait the iſſue of every trial. Obſerve,

1. Jacob's order of march. If flight was needful, the moſt beloved are hindmoſt, and likelieſt to eſcape.

2. His approach to Eſau, full of deep reſpect to him as his ſuperior. He mentions nothing of the birth-right, but pays the duty he owed to him as an elder brother. Note, (1.) It is wiſe to keep out of view whatever would open old ſores. (2.) A ſubmiſſive conduct mollifies offended pride.

BeforeChriſt 1739.

3. The unexpected reception he met with. God, who had reſtrained Laban, had now changed Eſau's purpoſe; for he hath in his hands the hearts of all men. Note, How often, through God's bleſſing, do we find the iſſue of our trials much better than our fears ſuggeſted?

4. Inſtead of fierce wrath, kiſſes of kindneſs; and for drops of blood in anger, tears of joy mingle on their cheeks. Happy meeting! may every difference among brethren be thus accommodated!

† Heb. To thee.

‡ Heb. What is all this band to thee?

|| Be that to thee that is thine.

5. And he lift up his eyes, and ſaw the women and the children; and ſaid, Who are thoſe † with thee? And he ſaid, The children which God hath graciouſly given thy ſervant. 6. Then the handmaidens came near, they and their children, and they bowed themſelves. 7. And Leah alſo with her children came near, and bowed themſelves: and after came Joſeph near and Rachel, and they bowed themſelves. 8. And he ſaid, ‡ What meaneſt thou by all this drove which I met? And he ſaid, Theſe are to find grace in the ſight of my lord. 9. And Eſau ſaid, I have enough; my brother, || keep that thou haſt unto thyſelf. 10. And Jacob ſaid, Nay, I pray thee, if now I have found grace in thy ſight, then receive my preſent at my hand: for therefore I have ſeen thy face, as though I had ſeen the face of God, and thou waſt pleaſed with me. 11. Take, I pray thee, [b] my bleſſing that is brought to thee; becauſe God hath dealt graciouſly with me, and becauſe I have § enough: and he urged him, and he took it.

[b] Judg. i. 15. 1 Sam. xxv. 27. & xxx. 26. 2 Kings, v. 15.

§ Heb. All things.

v. 5—11. Nothing but friendſhip now breathed in his diſcourſe. Eſau's enquiries are as kind, as Jacob's anſwers are pious and reſpectful. He enquires,

1. Regarding his children. They are, ſays Jacob, the children which God hath graciouſly given thy ſervant. Note, A good man, when he ſpeaks of ordinary things, may be known by the conſtant remembrance he has of God.

2. Regarding the droves of cattle. They are a preſent for his lord Eſau. Eſau pleads his abundance: he hath enough. Jacob preſſes his acceptance, as a thankful acknowledgment of his favourable countenance towards him: he eſteems it the greateſt bleſſing next to the divine regard. Eſau acquieſces, and thus their friendſhip is cemented. Note, (1.) When a man hath enough of his own, he ought civilly to refuſe needleſs obligations. (2.) A Chriſtian's heart, like Jacob's, is ever open and generous. (3.) Whatever we gain in the world, it is well ever to remember that it is the bleſſing of the Lord which maketh rich. (4.) We are to take care, that the pride of not being obliged does not make us ſlight the favours of our friends.

12. And he ſaid, Let us take our journey, and let us go, and I will go before thee. 13. And he ſaid unto him, My lord knoweth that the children are tender, and the flocks and herds with young are with me; and if men ſhould over-drive them one day, all the flock will die. 14. Let my lord, I pray thee, paſs over before his ſervant: and I will lead on ſoftly, according † as the cattle that goeth before me, and the children be able to endure; until I come unto my lord [c] unto Seir. 15. And Eſau ſaid, Let me now ‡ leave with thee ſome of the folk that are with me: And he ſaid, || What needeth it? [d] Let me find grace in the ſight of my lord.

† Heb. According to the foot of the work, &c. and according to the foot of the children.

[c] Chap. xxxii. 3.

‡ Heb. Set, or place.

|| Heb. Wherefore is this?

[d] Chap. xxxiv. 11.

v. 12—15. Eſau now is become a friend nearer than a brother, offers his houſe to entertain and his ſervants to guard him. Jacob modeſtly excuſes himſelf, and expreſſes his full ſatisfaction in the grace he had found in his ſight. He pleads,

1. The weakneſs of the children and the flocks with young: they could not keep pace with Eſau without danger. Note, When children are young, parents ſhould be peculiarly careful not to burden them with religion as a taſk. How many have been led to hate the ſervice, by being over-driven?

2. His intention to viſit him ſhortly. Note, We ſhould never be behind in acts of civility.

3. That he needed not his ſervants, and therefore would not trouble him. He had experienced enough of the divine protection, to reſt upon it in perfect ſafety.

4. His favour was the greateſt obligation he could confer on him: of this he begs the continuance. Note, If we have found grace in God's ſight, what more can we need?

16. ¶ So Eſau returned that day on his way unto Seir. 17. And Jacob journeyed to Succoth, and built him an houſe, and made booths for his cattle: therefore the name of the place is called † Succoth. 18. ¶ And Jacob came to Shalem, a city of [e] Shechem, which is in the land of Canaan, when he came from Padan-aram; and pitched his tent before the city. 19. And [f] he bought a parcel of a field, where he had ſpread his tent, at the hand of the children of [g] Hamor Shechem's father, for an hundred ‡ pieces of money. 20. And he erected there an altar, and [h] called it || El-elohe-Iſrael.

BeforeChriſt 1739.

† i. e. Booths.

[e] Called, Acts vii. 16. Sychem.

[f] Joſh. xxiv. 32.

[g] Acts vii. 16.

‡ Or lambs.

[h] Chap. xxxv. 7.

|| i. e. God, the God of Iſrael.

v. 16—20. Eſau being returned, Jacob gives ſome reſt to his fatigued family in booths at Succoth, and from thence goes on to Shalem, a city of Shechem, or rather to a city of Shechem, in peace. His dangers are paſt, and he is now ſafe arrived in Canaan. Note, Perils of journies eſcaped, and ſafe arrival home, deſerve a thankful mention. What joy will it give, when, after eſcaping the dangers of this world, we come to our reſt in the heavenly Canaan! Two things he doth:

1. He buys a field. Though the land be his by promiſe, it is not yet his in poſſeſſion.

2. He builds an altar, that God may be remembered wherever he ſojourns, and his houſe be taught the good ways of the Lord. Note, Wherever we have a houſe, God muſt have an altar. It is a heathen family where God's worſhip is neglected. He calls the altar, God the God of Iſrael. He was called Iſrael, a prince with God; but his higheſt honour is to have God for his God and king. Note, Whatever honours a true Iſraelite enjoys, this is the greateſt, Iſrael's God is Iſrael's glory.

CHAP. XXXIV.

At this chapter begins the ſtory of Jacob's afflictions in his children, which were very great, and are recorded to ſhew, 1. The vanity of this world: that which is deareſt to us, may prove our greateſt vexation, and we may meet with the greateſt croſſes in thoſe things, of which we ſaid, the ſame ſhall comfort us. 2. The common griefs of good people. Jacob's children circumciſed, were well taught and prayed for, and had very good examples ſet them, yet ſome of them proved very untoward, for the race is not to the ſwift, nor the battle to the ſtrong. In this chapter we have, 1. Dinah debauched, ver. 1—5. 2. A treaty of marriage between her and Shechem, who had defiled her, ver. 6—19. 3. The circumciſion of the Shechemites, purſuant to that treaty, ver. 20—24. 4. The perfidious and bloody revenge which Simeon and Levi took upon them, ver 25—31.

About 1730.

[a] Chap. xxx. 21.

1. AND [a] Dinah the daughter of Leah, which ſhe bare unto Jacob, went out to ſee the daughters of the land. 2. And when Shechem the ſon of Hamor the Hivite, prince of the country, ſaw her, he took her, and lay with her, and † defiled her. 3. And his ſoul clave unto Dinah the daughter of Jacob, and he loved the damſel, and ſpake ‡ kindly unto the damſel. 4. And Shechem ſpake unto his father Hamor, ſaying, Get me this damſel to wife. 5. And Jacob heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter, (now his ſons were with his cattle in the field:) and Jacob held his peace until they were come.

† Heb. Humbled her.

‡ Heb. To the heart of the damſel. See Iſa. xl. 2. Hoſea ii. 14.

v. 1—5. Dinah was young, about ſixteen, an only daughter, and therefore perhaps too much indulged; and, as is too often the caſe, proves a great trouble to her parents. She went out to ſee the daughters of the land, at ſome entertainment, perhaps to learn their faſhions and join in their amuſements; not without ſome little vanity to figure as a ſtranger, and be ſeen of the ſons of the land, as well as viſit the daughters. Note, Young people's vanity is their firſt ſnare; pleaſure then opens the door of temptation, and paſſion undoes them. Such was Dinah's caſe: Shechem's ſon ſeduces her, and lies with her. How dangerous thoſe places, and how pernicious thoſe pleaſures, where dance and ſong warm the paſſions, and nothing but opportunity and importunity are wanting for the ruin of every thoughtleſs maid? But though wicked the deed, he does not, as many, baſely abandon the injured fair; he would repair the offence by marriage, and ſollicits his father's conſent. Note, Though ſin cannot be recalled before God, it is our duty, to our utmoſt, to make reparation to man. Tidings of it reach afflicted Jacob: he ſmothers his indignation, and waits to inform his ſons of the diſhonour done the family. Note, Let not a godly father think his lot hard, or ſingular, if ſuch an unhappy ſtep diſturbs his family quiet.

6. ¶ And Hamor the father of Shechem went out unto Jacob to commune with him. 7. And the ſons of Jacob came out of the field when they heard it, and the men were grieved, and they were very wroth: becauſe he [b] had wrought folly in Iſrael, in lying with Jacob's daughter; daughter; which thing ought not to be done. 8. And Hamor communed with them, ſaying, The ſoul of my ſon Shechem longeth for your daughter: I pray you give her him to wife. 9. And make ye marriages with us, and give your daughters unto us, and take our daughters unto you. 10. And ye ſhall dwell with us: and the land ſhall be before you; dwell and trade you therein, and get you poſſeſſions therein. 11. And Shechem ſaid unto her father, and unto her brethren, [c] Let me find grace in your eyes, and what ye ſhall ſay unto me I will give. 12. Aſk me never ſo much dowry and gift, and I will give according as you ſhall ſay unto me: but give me the damſel to wife. 13. And the ſons of Jacob anſwered Shechem and Hamor his father deceitfully, and ſaid, (becauſe he had defiled Dinah their ſiſter) 14. And they ſaid unto them, We cannot do this thing, to give our ſiſter to one that is uncircumciſed: for [d] that were a reproach unto us. But in this will we conſent unto you: If ye will be as we be, that every male of you be circumciſed: 16. Then will we give our daughters unto you, and we will take your daughters to us, and we will dwell with you, and we will become one people. 17. But if ye will not hearken unto us, to be circumciſed, then will we take our daughter, and we will be gone.

[b] Joſh. vii. 15.

Before Chriſt 1739.

c Chap. xxxiii. 15.

d Joſh. v. 9.

v. 6—17. We have here,

1. The reſentment of Jacob's ſons; highly provoked at the diſhonour done the family, and, like many others, more incenſed at the ſhame, than grieved at the ſin. They call it folly, for ſin deſerves that name. What ſo fooliſh, as for a beaſtial indulgence to offend the holy God, and wound not our own ſouls only, but every friend and relation? and how much more ſcandalous in a houſe where religion is profeſſed? Oh did we know all the miſeries of ſin before we commit it, that we feel afterwards, nothing could tempt us to it.

2. Hamor's propoſal to heal the breach by marriage, with the moſt generous offer of any dowry. Jacob's ſons, under a pretence moſt ſpecious, but with hearts burning with revenge, conſent to the propoſal, on condition of their becoming circumciſed. They cannot, they ſay, intermarry with the uncircumciſed; that would be a reproach to them. Note, The moſt bloody deſigns have been often covered with the cloak of religion; but God ſeeth and judgeth: hypocriſy with him will be counted the deadlieſt of crimes.

18. And their words pleaſed Hamor, and Shechem Hamor's ſon. 19. And the young man deferred not to do the thing, becauſe he had delight in Jacob's daughter: and he was more honourable than all the houſe of his father. 20. ¶ And Hamor and Shechem his ſon came unto the gate of their city, and communed with the men of their city, ſaying, 21. Theſe men are peaceable with us, therefore let them dwell in the land, and trade therein; for the land, behold, it is large enough for them: let us take their daughters to us for wives, and let us give them our daughters. 22. Only herein will the men conſent unto us, for to dwell with us, to be one people, if every male among us be circumciſed, as they are circumciſed. 23. Shall not their cattle, and their ſubſtance, and every beaſt of theirs be ours? only let us conſent unto them, and they will dwell with us. 24. And unto Hamor and unto Shechem his ſon hearkened all that went out of the gate of his city: and every male was circumciſed, all that went out of the gate of his city.

v. 18—24. The argument which Hamor uſes to perſuade his ſubjects, is as wrong, as the deſign of Jacob's ſons in their propoſal. To profeſs religion on worldly motives is abominable, and never like to proſper. However they conſent, and without informing themſelves of the reaſons and deſign of circumciſion, ſubmit to it. Note, How many baptized perſons is it to be feared among us, know as little of the religion they profeſs, as the circumciſed Shechemites?

25. ¶ And it came to paſs on the third day, when they were ſore, that two of the ſons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi, Dinah's Brethren, took each man his ſword, and came upon the city boldly, and [e] ſlew all the males. 26. And they ſlew Hamor and Shechem his ſon with the † edge of the ſword, and took Dinah out of Shechem's houſe, and went out. 27. The ſons of Jacob came upon the ſlain, and ſpoiled the city, becauſe they had defiled their ſiſter. 28. They took their ſheep, and their oxen, and their aſſes, and that which was in the city, and that which was in the field, 29. And all their wealth, and all their little ones, and their wives took they captive, and ſpoiled even all that was in the houſe. 30. And Jacob ſaid to Simeon and Levi, [f] Ye have troubled me, [g] to make me to ſtink among the inhabitants of the land, amongſt the Canaanites, and the Perizzites: and [h] I being few in number, they ſhall gather themſelves together againſt me, and ſlay me, and I ſhall be deſtroyed, I and my houſe. 31. And they ſaid, Should he deal with our ſiſter as with an harlot?

e Chap. xlix. 6.
† Heb. Mouth.

Before Chriſt 1739.

f Chap. xlix. 6.
g Exod. v. 21.
h Deut. iv. 27. Pſal. cv. 12.

v. 25—31. We have here,

1. The cruel and treacherous murder of the men of Shechem. However juſt it might be in God to puniſh them for their profane abuſe of the ſeals of his covenant, it takes nothing from the guilt of the murderers. Inflamed with paſſion, and ſpurred on by revenge, they ſally forth to perpetrate the horrid deed. Though Shechem had made every reparation, and his ſubjects at leaſt were innocent; though reſtrained by the moſt ſolemn promiſe, and doubly bound by that holy ordinance they had propoſed; no conſiderations can bind their curſed anger. Hamor and Shechem bleed the firſt under their ſwords; treacherouſly ſurprized, the innocent inhabitants fall the victims of their unrelenting cruelty. Simeon and Levi are foremoſt in the ravage; but the other ſons of Jacob, not content with the reſcue of Dinah, ruſh upon the ſpoil; and, whilſt the men lie weltering in blood, their wives are captives, and their ſubſtance devoured. Note, The men of Shechem hoped to ſhare Iſrael's ſpoil; but unjuſt attempts upon our neighbour's property prove often the ruin of our own.

2. Jacob's diſpleaſure at the deed. They had caſt the higheſt ſcandal on his religion; the very Canaanite might juſtly loath it, if this was their way; and how great was their danger alſo, when ſurrounded by thoſe who might ſo juſtly avenge this ſhocking action. Note, (1.) Wicked children are a bitter grief and reproach to their parents. (2.) Sin and ruin are near allied. The prodigal ſon fears no conſequences, but the wiſer father trembles for him.

3. Their inſolent reply. No acknowledgment of their fault, but rather a reflection on the tameneſs of their father. Note, They who are violent themſelves, are ready to reproach the gentle, as mean-ſpirited.

CHAP. XXXV.

In this chapter, 1. God orders Jacob to Beth-el, ver. 1. 2. His journey after purging his houſe of idols, ver. 2—5. 3. The altar he builds, ver. 6—7. 4. Deborah's death and funeral, ver. 8. 5. God appears again, and confirms his covenant with him, ver. 9—13. 6. His grateful acknowledgment of it, ver. 14—15. 7. Rachel's travail and death, ver. 16—20. 8. Reuben's inceſt, ver. 21—25. 9. Iſaac's death, ver. 27—29. Laſtly, an account of Jacob's ſons, ver. 23—26.

1. AND God ſaid unto Jacob, Ariſe, Go up to Beth-el, and dwell there: and make there an altar unto God, [a] that appeared unto thee when [b] thou fleddeſt from the face of Eſau thy brother. 2. Then Jacob ſaid unto his houſhold, and to all that were with him, Put away [c] the ſtrange gods that are among you, and be clean, and [d] change your garments: 3. And let us ariſe, and go up to Beth-el; and I will make there an altar unto God, who anſwered me in the day of my diſtreſs, and was with me in the way which I went. 4. And they gave unto Jacob all the ſtrange gods which were in their hand, and all their ear-rings which were in their ears; and Jacob hid them under [e] the oak which was by Shechem.

a Chap. xxviii. 13.
b Chap. xxvii. 43.
c Chap. xxxi. 19-34. Joſh. xxiv. 2. d Exod. xix. 10.

e Joſh. xxiv. 26. Judg. ix. 6.

v. 1—4. Jacob ſeems to have forgot his vow, chap. xxxviii. 19, 20. and God reminds him of it. Note, Mercies are apt to be forgotten; and promiſes made in diſtreſs, to be unfulfilled in proſperity. Hereupon,

1. We have Jacob's preparation for his journey: better late than never. And as his abode muſt be at Bethel, his family muſt go with him: but firſt they muſt get ready for the worſhip there to be performed, (1.) By putting away their idols. Note, There is no drawing near God with acceptance, with allowed ſin in the heart. (2.) By waſhing their garments, typical of that ſpiritual purity, which becomes the worſhippers of Jehovah. Note, We muſt have the fine linen white and clean, which is the righteouſneſs of the ſaints, or our ſervices cannot pleaſe God.

2. Their obedience. It was ſtrange in Jacob's family, that ſuch idol vanities ſhould be found. But in the moſt religious houſes, there will be idols in ſecret. It was happy they ſo readily

Before Chriſt about 1730.

dily conſented to part from them: had he commanded it before, he might have ſucceeded. Note, Much might be done, more than we imagine, if we had a greater zeal for God. All now are given up, even to their ear-rings, ſtamped with idol images, or worn as charms, and they are buried that they might never be found. Note, When we part from our ſins, it muſt be with a purpoſe of heart, never to return to them.

5. And they journeyed: and [f] the terror of God was upon the cities that were round about them, and they did not purſue after the ſons of Jacob. 6. ¶ So Jacob came to Luz, which is in the land of Canaan (that is Beth-el) he and all the people that were with him. 7. And he built there an altar, and [g] called the place † El-beth-el: becauſe there God appeared unto him, when he fled from the face of his brother. 8. But [h] Deborah Rebekah's nurſe died, and ſhe was buried beneath Beth-el, under an oak: and the name of it was called ‡ Allon-bachuth.

[f] Exod. xv. 16. & xxiii. 27. & xxxiv. 24. Deut. xi. 25. Joſh. ii. 9. & v. 1. 1 Sam. xiv. 15. 2 Chron. xiv. 14.
[g] Chap. xxviii. 19.
† i. e. God of Beth-el.
[h] Chap. xxiv. 59.
‡ i. e. The oak of weeping.

v. 5—8. Having thus made the needful preparations, they journey in ſafety. Though juſtly incenſed, God puts his fear upon the nations around; and as they had now put away their idols, and were going to God's altar, none ſhall hurt them. Note, When we are about God's work, we are under his ſpecial care. And now they arrive,

1. He builds an altar, and with his family, worſhip the God of Beth-el. It is our comfort in the church of God, to enjoy the preſence and communion of the God of the church.

2. He buries Rebekah's nurſe: probably Rebekah died before; and reſpect for an aged ſervant, made her welcome to Jacob's houſe; and when ſhe dies, it is cauſe of ſorrow, as the name Allon-Bachuth ſignifies the Oak of Weeping. Note, An old and faithful ſervant in a family deſerves reſpect, and ſhould be lamented as a friend or a brother.

9. ¶ And [i] God appeared unto Jacob again, when he came out of Padan-aram; and bleſſed him. 10. And God ſaid unto him, Thy name is Jacob: thy name ſhall not be called any more Jacob, but [k] Iſrael ſhall be thy name: and he called his name Iſrael. 11. And God ſaid unto him, [l] I am God Almighty; be fruitful and multiply, [m] a nation and a company of nations ſhall be of thee: and kings ſhall come out of thy loins. 12. And the land [n] which I gave Abraham and Iſaac, to thee I will give it, and to thy ſeed after thee will I give the land. 13. And God went up from him, in the place where he talked with him. 14. And Jacob [o] ſet up a pillar in the place where he talked with him, even a pillar of ſtone: and he poured a drink-offering thereon, and he poured oil thereon. 15. And Jacob called the name of the place where God ſpake with him, [p] Beth-el.

[i] Hoſ. xii. 5.
[k] Chap. xxxii. 28.
[l] Chap. xvii. 1. & xlviii. 3.
[m] Chap. xvii. 5. & vi. 16. & xxviii. 3. & xlviii. 4.
[n] Chap. xii. 7. & xiii. 15. & xxvi. 3, 4.
[o] Chap. xxviii. 18.
[p] Chap. xxviii. 19.

v. 9—15. We have here,

1. God's appearance to him the ſecond time in Beth-el. When we are found waiting upon God, he will not fail to meet us in his ways. God now confirms his name of Iſrael, as a new ſupport againſt the fears of the Canaanites, and renews his covenant with him, reſpecting the land and the ſeed to inherit it, as the Almighty God, able to fulfil his promiſes to the uttermoſt. Note, God hath given us Chriſt the ſeed, and promiſed us heaven as the land. May we with Jacob rejoice in hope.

2. No ſooner was the appearance of God's glory gone up from over him, than Jacob erects a noble memorial of the favour, and confirms the name of Beth-el to the place. How little did Jacob think, that this houſe of God ſhould one day become Bethaven, a houſe of iniquity, and Jeroboam's calf be fixed perhaps on this very pillar? Note, How many a church, when the faithful Jacob, the paſtor, is gone, hath experienced theſe awful changes!

16. ¶ And they journeyed from Beth-el: and there was but † a little way to come to Ephrath: and Rachel travailed, and ſhe had hard labour. 17. And it came to paſs when ſhe was in hard labour, that the midwife ſaid unto her, Fear not; thou ſhalt have this ſon alſo. 18. And it came to paſs as her ſoul was in departing (for ſhe died) that ſhe called his name ‡ Benoni: but his father called him ‖ Benjamin. 19. And [q] Rachel died, and was buried in the way to [r] Ephrath, which is Beth-lehem. 20. And Jacob ſet a pillar upon her grave: that is the pillar of [s] Rachels grave unto this day.

† Heb. A little piece of ground. 2 King. v. 19.
1729.
‡ i. e. The ſon of my ſorrow.
‖ i. e. The ſon of the right hand.
[q] Chap. xlviii 7.
[r] Ruth, i. 2. & iv. 11.
[s] 1 Sam. x. 2.

v. 16—20. We have here Rachel's death in child-bed. One death had made a breach in Jacob's family; another ſtill more afflicting ſucceeds. Death often thus repeats his ſtrokes. Rachel impatient for children, would die if ſhe had them not, but little thought ſhe ſhould die with them: our perverſe wiſhes indulged, are often fatal to us. The midwife would comfort her with a ſon born, but now ſhe feels her burden ſo heavy, ſhe cannot rejoice in him; ſhe calls him Benoni, the ſon of her ſorrow. Note, When we are dying, nothing in this world can any longer comfort us. Jacob however changes his name; his love for Rachel lives in Benjamin, the ſon of his right hand: the laſt of our children is uſually the fondling. Rachel ſcarce names her ſon, but ſhe departs. Note, (1.) The ſoul muſt return to God that gave it. (2.) As child-bearing in ſorrow is the effect of ſin, frequent death in child-bearing more ſtrongly marks the wages due to it: but there is a child born who can ſave the dying mother. Jacob buries her on the ſpot, and in memory of her, erects a mournful pillar. Note, A grave ſtone may be made a uſeful remembrancer, and a continual ſermon.

Before Chriſt 1729.

21. And Iſrael journeyed, and ſpread his tent beyond the [t] tower of Edar. 22. And it came to paſs when Iſrael dwelt in that land, that Reuben went and [u] lay with Bilhah his father's concubine: and Iſrael heard it. Now the ſons of Jacob were twelve. 23. The ſons of Leah; [x] Reuben Jacobs firſt-born, and Simeon, and Levi, and Judah, and Iſſachar, and Zebulun. 24. The ſons of Rachel; Joſeph and Benjamin. 25. And the ſons of Bilhah, Rachel's hand-maid; Dan and Naphtali. 26. And the ſons of Zilpah, Leah's handmaid; Gad and Aſher. Theſe are the ſons of Jacob, which were born to him in Padan-aram. 27. ¶ And Jacob came unto Iſaac his father unto [y] Mamre, unto the city of Arbah, (which is Hebron) where Abraham and Iſaac ſojourned. 28. And the days of Iſaac were an hundred and fourſcore years. 29. And Iſaac gave up the ghoſt, and died, and [z] was gathered unto his people, being old and full of days: and his ſons Eſau and Jacob [a] buried him.

[t] Mic. iv. 8.
[u] Chap. xlix. 4. 1 Chron. v. 1. See 2 Sam. xvi. 22. & xx. 3. 1 Cor. v. 1.
[x] Exod. i. 2.
[y] Chap. xiii. 18. & xxiii. 2.
1716.
[z] Chap. xv. 15. & xxv. 8.
[a] Chap. xlix. 31.

v. 21—29. Jacob, like his father, was but a pilgrim in the land of promiſe, and he had enough to try his faith and patience in his children. Note, A man's family contains uſually his greateſt trials. Here is,

1. Reuben's inceſt. As his father was now old, and Bilhah much younger, ſhe perhaps liked the ſon, and might be moſt criminal in the intrigue. Note (1.) It is a dangerous thing for a young woman to marry an old man. (2.) The eldeſt ſon, becauſe the heir, is uſually ſet moſt by, but often the greateſt plague of the family. They thought, no doubt, to conceal their crime, but Jacob heard it: ſuch vile deeds come ſtrangely out; and for it he is afterwards ſeverely puniſhed, chap. xlix. 4. 2. An account of all Jacob's ſons. 3. His viſit to his father at Hebron. 4. The death of Iſaac, the oldeſt of all the patriarchs. The longeſt livers, muſt die at laſt. 5. His burial by his two ſons. God had now made a perfect reconciliation between them. Note, The bittereſt enemies ſometimes become the firmeſt friends.

CHAP. XXXVI.

In this chapter we have an account of the poſterity of Eſau, who from him were called Edomites. Here is, 1. Eſau's wives, ver. 1—5. 2. His remove to mount Seir, ver. 6—8. 3. The names of his ſons, ver. 9—14. 4. The dukes which deſcended of his ſons, ver. 15—19. 5. The dukes of the Horites, ver. 20—30. 6. The kings and dukes of Edom, ver. 31. ad finem.

1. NOW theſe are the generations of Eſau, who is Edom. 2. [a] Eſau took his wives of the daughters of Canaan; Adah the daughter of Elon the Hittite, and [b] Aholibamah the daughter of Anah the daughter of Zibeon the Hivite: 3. And [c] Baſhemath, Iſhmael's daughter, ſiſter of Nebajoth. 4. And [d] Adah bare to Eſau, Eliphaz: and Baſhemath bare Reuel. 5. And Aholibamah bare Jeuſh, and Jaalam, and Korah: Theſe are the ſons of Eſau, which were born unto him in the land of Canaan. 6. And Eſau took his wives, and his ſons, and his daughters, and all the † perſons of his houſe, and his cattle, and all his beaſts, and all his ſubſtance which he had got in the land of Canaan; and went into the country, from the face of his brother Jacob. 7. For [e] their riches were more than that they might dwell together: and [f] the land wherein they were ſtrangers could not bear them, becauſe of their cattle. 8. Thus dwelt Eſau in [g] mount Seir: Eſau is Edom.

[a] Chap. xxvi. 34.
1796.
[b] Ver. 25.
About 1759.
[c] Chap. xxviii. 9.
[d] 1 Chron. i. 35.
† Heb. Souls.
[e] Chap. xiii. 6—11.
[f] Chap. xvii. 8. & xxviii. 4.
[g] Joſh. xxiv. 4.

v. 1—8. We have here an account of Eſau and his poſterity, and therein the promiſe in part fulfilled to Abraham, that he ſhould be the father of many nations. He is called Edom, or red, in memory of the profane ſale of his birthright, for the red pottage. Note, If men by ill doings, get an ill name, they muſt thank themſelves for it. His wives and family are mentioned, and his place of abode Mount Seir: there he fixes, and leaves Jacob in peaceable poſſeſſion of Canaan. Probably God had now convinced him of the unchangeableneſs of the decree, and he ſubmitted to it. Though God hated him in this ſenſe, as excluding him from the ſucceſſion, it ſeems not certain he was eternally loſt. Note, The counſel of God muſt ſtand, and they who moſt oppoſe it, muſt in the end ſubmit.

9. ¶ And theſe are the generations of Eſau the father of † the Edomites, in mount Seir. 10. Theſe are the names of Eſau's ſons; [h] Eliphaz the ſon of Adah the wife of Eſau, Reuel the ſon of Baſhemath the wife of Eſau. 11. And the ſons of Eliphaz, were Teman, Omar, ‡ Zepho, and Gatam, and Kenaz. 12. And Timna was concubine to Eliphaz Eſau's ſon; and ſhe bare to Eliphaz Amalek: theſe were the ſons of Adah Eſau's wife. 13. And theſe are the ſons of Reuel; Nahath, and Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah: theſe were the ſons of Baſhemath Eſau's wife. 14. ¶ And theſe were the ſons of Aholibamah, the daughter of Anah, the daughter of Zibeon Eſau's wife: and ſhe bare to Eſau, Jeuſh, and Jaalam, and Korah. 15. ¶ Theſe were dukes of the ſons of Eſau: the ſons of Eliphaz the firſt-born ſon of Eſau; duke Teman, duke Omar, duke Zepho, duke Kenaz, 16. Duke Korah, duke Gatam, and duke Amalek: Theſe are the dukes that came of Eliphaz, in the land of Edom: theſe were the ſons of Adah. 17. ¶ And theſe are the ſons of Reuel Eſau's ſon; duke Nahath, duke Zerah, duke Shammah, duke Mizzah. Theſe are the dukes that came of Reuel, in the land of Edom: theſe are the ſons of Baſhemath Eſau's wife. 18. ¶ And theſe are the ſons of Aholibamah Eſau's wife; duke Jeuſh, duke Jaalam, duke Korah: theſe were the dukes that came of Aholibamah, the daughter of Anah Eſau's wife. 19. Theſe are the ſons of Eſau (who is Edom) and theſe are their dukes.

† Heb. Edom.
h 1 Chron. i. 35, &c.
‡ Or Zephi. 1 Chron. i. 36.

v. 9—19. Eſau's family is numerous and great. God often diſpenſing to thoſe who are out of his church, moſt of the world's good, and its titles of honour: but as they are no part of God's people, they are ſlightly mentioned: it is not the great, but the good whom God regards. The meaneſt circumciſed ſervant of Jacob's, is greater in God's ſight, than the dukes of Edom.

20. ¶ [i] Theſe are the ſons of Seir [k] the Horite, who inhabited the land; Lotan, and Shobal, and Zibeon, and Anah, 21. And Diſhon, and Ezer, and Diſhan: theſe are the dukes of the Horites, the children of Seir in the land of Edom. 22. And the children of Lotan were, Hori, and [l] Heman: and Lotan's ſiſter was Timna. 23. And the children of Shobal were theſe; [m] Alvan, and Manahath, and Ebal, [n] Shepho, and Onam. 24. And theſe are the children of Zibeon; both Ajah, and Anah: this was that Anah that found the [o] mules in the wilderneſs, as he fed the aſſes of Zibeon his father. 25. And the children of Anah were theſe; Diſhon, and Aholibamah the daughter of Anah. 26. And theſe are the children of Diſhon; † Hemdan, and Eſhban, and Ithran, and Cheran. 27. The children of Ezer are theſe; Bilhan, and Zaavan and ‡ Achan. 28. The children of Diſhan are theſe; Uz and Aran. 29. Theſe are the dukes that came out of the Horites; duke Lotan, duke Shobal, duke Zibeon, duke Anah, 30. Duke Diſhon, duke Ezer, duke Diſhan: theſe are the dukes that came of Hori, among their dukes in the land of Seir.

i 1 Chron. i. 38.
k Deut. ii. 22.
l 1 Chron. i. 39.
m 1 Chron. i. 40.
n Ibid.
o See Lev. xix. 19.
† Called Amram. 1 Chron. i. 41.
‡ Or Jakan. 1 Chron. i. 42.

v. 20—30. The genealogy of the Horites, who inhabited Seir, are here mentioned. By Eſau's intermarriage, they ſoon became one people; and it is to be feared had one religion. Bad connections by marriage, uſually end in our following our wives gods. Anah is diſtinguiſhed from the reſt, for his ingenuity in having firſt found out mules, or as the ſame word ſignifies, hot baths. A duke is not too great to be employed in ſome uſeful invention or reſearch.

31. ¶ And [p] theſe are the kings that reigned in the land of Edom, before there reigned any king over the children of Iſrael. 32. And Bela the ſon of Beor reigned in Edom: and the name of his city was Dinhabah. 33. And Bela died, and Jobab the ſon of Zerah of Bozrah reigned in his ſtead. 34. And Jobab died, and Huſham of the land of Temani reigned in his ſtead. 35. And Huſham died, and Hadad the ſon of Bedad (who ſmote Midian in the field of Moab) reigned in his ſtead: and the name of his city was Avith. 36. And Hadad died, and Samlah of Maſrekah reigned in his ſtead. 37. And Samlah died, and Saul of Rehoboth by the river reigned in his ſtead. 38. And Saul died, and Baal-hanan the ſon of Achbor reigned in his ſtead. 39. And Baal-hanan the ſon of Achbor died, and [q] Hadar reigned in his ſtead: and the name of his city was Pau; and his wife's name was Mehetabel, the daughter of Matred, the daughter of Mezahab. 40. And theſe are [r] the names of the dukes that came of Eſau, according to their families, after their places, by their names; duke Timnah, duke Alvah, duke Jetheth, 41. Duke Aholibamah, duke Elah, duke Pinon, 42. Duke Kenaz, duke Teman, duke Mibzar, 43. Duke Magdiel, duke Iram: theſe be the dukes of Edom, according to their habitations, in the land of their poſſeſſion; he is Eſau the father of † the Edomites.

p 1 Chron. i. 43.
q 1 Chron. i. 50.
r 1 Chron. i. 51.
† Heb. Edom.

v. 31—43. In external proſperity, Jacob is far behind. A numerous race of kings reign in Edom, whilſt Jacob's poſterity are ſervants in Egypt. Note, We muſt wait with patience for the fulfilment of the promiſes. Eſau has a preſent poſſeſſion, Jacob only a land in proſpect. Let us not envy the children of the world; they have their all in hand, whilſt we have our all in hope; and death, which muſt caſt them out of their poſſeſſions, ſhall bring us to our inheritance incorruptible and undefiled, and which fadeth not away, reſerved for us in heaven.

CHAP. XXXVII.

Joſeph's hiſtory begins, and in his humiliation and exaltation, we have an eminent type of Chriſt and every true chriſtian, who bears the croſs before he wears the crown. In this chapter we have, 1. The malice of his brethren. (1.) Becauſe he informed his father of their wickedneſs, ver. 1, 2. (2.) Becauſe his father loved him, ver. 3, 4. (3.) Becauſe he dreamed of his dominion over them, ver. 5—11. 2. The miſchiefs they did him. (1.) His kind viſit gave them an opportunity, ver. 12—17. (2.) They firſt deſigned to ſlay him, then determined to ſtarve him, ver. 18—24. (3.) They changed their purpoſe, and ſold him for a ſlave, ver. 25—28. (4.) They made their father believe that he was torn in pieces, ver. 29—35. (5.) He was ſold into Egypt to Potiphar, ver. 36. And all this was working together for good.

1. AND Jacob dwelt in the land † [a] wherein his father was a ſtranger, in the land of Canaan. 2. Theſe are the generations of Jacob: Joſeph being ſeventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brethren, and the lad was with the ſons of Bilhah, and with the ſons of Zilpah, his father's wives: and Joſeph brought unto his father their evil report. 3. Now Iſrael loved Joſeph more than all his children, becauſe he was the ſon of his old age: and he made him a coat of many † colours. 4. And when his brethren ſaw that their father loved him more than all his brethren, [b] they hated him, and could not ſpeak peaceably unto him.

† Heb. Of his father's ſojournings.
a Chap. xxxvi. 7. Hebr. xi. 9.
† Or pieces. See Judg. v. 30. 2 Sam. xiii. 18.
b Chap. xlix. 23.

v. 1—4. Nothing of the pathetic ever equalled the hiſtory of Joſeph, which makes the principal part of the following book. The variety of the events, and the different diſtreſſes, with the happy concluſion of the whole, contain one of the moſt affecting and pleaſing relations, which ever was penned. (1.) His father's love began preſently to appear towards him, as the peculiarity of his circumſtances and conduct ſeemed to deſerve. He was the ſon of his old age, the ſon of beloved Rachel, a dutiful ſon, induſtrious and diligent; and better, a pious ſon, who joined not in his brethren's evil, but for their good informed his father, that they might receive that admonition which from a younger brother would have been deſpiſed. This procured him diſtinction from Jacob, and his variegated coat beſpoke at once the affection of the father, the deſert of the ſon, and awakened the envy of his brethren. Note, Though one child may juſtly deſerve more than another, it is dangerous for a parent to appear partial.

2. His brethren's anger appeared alſo. The coat of many colours was a ſad eye-ſore, and his information of their wickedneſs ſtill more provoking. Note, (1.) Fine cloaths are, as often as any thing, apt to excite envy. Children of one houſe ſhould be dreſſed on an equality. (2.) Thoſe who are deſirous to have ſin reproved, muſt often expect for their kindneſs to get ill will.

Before Chriſt about 1728.

5. ¶ And Joſeph dreamed a dream, and he told it his brethren: and they hated him yet the more. 6. And he ſaid unto them, Hear, I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed. 7. For [c] behold we were binding ſheaves in the field, and lo, my ſheaf aroſe, and alſo ſtood upright; and behold, your ſheaves ſtood round about, and made obeiſance to my ſheaf. 8. And his brethren ſaid unto him, Shalt thou indeed reign over us? or ſhalt thou indeed have dominion over us? and they hated him yet the more for his dreams and for his words. 9. ¶ And he dreamed yet another dream, and told it his brethren, and ſaid, Behold, I have dreamed a dream more, and, behold, [d] the ſun and the moon, and the eleven ſtars made obeiſance to me. 10. And he told it to his father, and to his brethren: and his father rebuked him, and ſaid unto him, What is this dream that thou haſt dreamed? Shall I and thy mother and thy brethren indeed come to bow down ourſelves to thee, to the earth? 11. And [e] his brethren envied him: but [f] his father obſerved the ſaying.

c Chap. xlii. 6, 9. & xliii. 26. & xliv. 14.
d Chap. xlvi. 29.
e Acts vii. 9.
f Dan. vii. 28. Luke ii. 19, 51.

v. 5—11. Joſeph begins to enjoy divine communications.

1. We have two prophetical dreams, ſignifying that advancement for which God deſigned him. His brethren and his father muſt become his ſupplicants: theſe in ſimplicity he relates, little ſuſpecting the conſequence. Note, Many young people ſetting out in life, dream of nothing but proſperity, and overlook the trouble in the way to it.

2. His brethren are highly exaſperated, and give his dreams an interpretation, true in its iſſue, but contemptuous in their account. Note, They who now deſpiſe the government of Jeſus, muſt one day bow to it as obedient ſervants, or as condemned criminals.

3. His father is not pleaſed. Perhaps he might blame himſelf, for having put high thoughts in the young man's head. Note, It is right for thoſe parents, who are moſt fond, never to ſpare the needful rebuke, eſpecially when their partiality may have given occaſion to pride. But he obſerves the ſaying, being no ſtranger to the divine notices, frequently conveyed in viſions of the night.

12. ¶ And his brethren went to feed their father's flock in Shechem. 13. And Iſrael ſaid unto Joſeph, Do not thy brethren feed the flock in Shechem? Come, and I will ſend thee unto them. And he ſaid unto him, Here am I. 14. And he ſaid to him, Go, I pray thee, † ſee whether it be well with thy brethren, and well with the flocks, and bring me word again. So he ſent him out of the vale of Hebron, and he came to Shechem. 15. ¶ And a certain man found him, and behold he was wandring in the field; and the man aſked him, ſaying, What ſeekeſt thou? 16. And he ſaid, I ſeek my brethren: tell me, I pray thee, where they feed their flocks. 17. And the man ſaid, They are departed hence: for I heard them ſay, Let us go to Dothan. And Joſeph went after his brethren, and found them in [g] Dothan. 18. And when they ſaw him afar off, even before he came near unto them, they conſpired againſt him, to ſlay him. 19. And they ſaid one to another, Behold, this † dreamer cometh. 20. Come now therefore and let us ſlay him, and caſt him into ſome pit: and we will ſay, Some evil beaſt hath devoured him: and we ſhall ſee what will become of his dreams. 21. And [h] Reuben heard it, and he delivered him out of their hands; and ſaid, Let us not kill him. 22. And Reuben ſaid unto them, Shed no blood, but caſt him into this pit that is in the wilderneſs, and lay no hand upon him; that he might rid him out of their hands, to deliver him to his father again.

† Heb. See the peace of thy brethren, &c.
g 2 Kings, vi. 13.
† Heb. Maſter of dreams.
h Chap. xlii. 22.

v. 12—22. Malice only waits for opportunity, and now it is come.

1. Jacob ſends Joſeph to enquire after his brethren, and he, like a dutiful ſon, and an affectionate brother, chearfully haſtes to ſeek them; and when he was diſappointed at Shechem, where he expected to find them, he enquires them out diligently, and follows them to Dothan. Note, (1.) Joſeph's dutiful obedience muſt be every ſon's example. (2.) It were happy if his love to thoſe who hated him, were alſo more imitated by every Chriſtian.

2. His brethren's conſpiracy againſt him. His coat eaſily diſtinguiſhed him at a diſtance; ſo dangerous often are our honours, and rouſed the latent ſparks into a flame. They reſolve inſtantly on his death, whilſt a lie ſhould conceal the murder, and then there would be an end of his dreams. Note, (1.) All anger is murder in the heart. (2.) Thoſe who mock at God's deſigns, and think to diſappoint them, will only expoſe themſelves to ſhame at laſt. (3.) We ſee how natural a lying ſpirit is to men. We have hardly yet had a wicked action, but there hath been a lie to conceal it.

3. God raiſes him a friend in Reuben. He appears the moſt ſuſceptive of tender paſſions, and averſe to blood. To reſcue Joſeph, had been impracticable: he therefore propoſes to divert the rage he ſaw, by caſting him into a pit, where they muſt conclude he would die, but from whence he reſolved afterwards to recover him. Note, By yielding ſomething to raging paſſions, we may better prevail, than by direct oppoſition.

23. ¶ And it came to paſs when Joſeph was come unto his brethren, that they ſtript Joſeph out of his coat, his coat of many † colours that was on him. 24. And they took him, and caſt him into a pit: and the pit was empty, there was no water in it. 25. And [i] they ſat down to eat bread: and they lift up their eyes, and looked, and behold a company of [k] Iſhmaelites came from Gilead, with their camels bearing ſpicery, and [l] balm, and myrrh, going to carry it down to Egypt. 26. And Judah ſaid unto his brethren, What profit is it if we ſlay our brother, and conceal his blood? 27. Come, and let us ſell him to the Iſhmaelites, and let not our hand be upon him; for he is our brother, and our fleſh: and his brethren † were content. 28. Then there paſſed by [m] Midianites, merchantmen; and they drew and lift up Joſeph out of the pit, and [n] ſold Joſeph to the Iſhmaelites for [o] twenty pieces of ſilver: and they brought Joſeph into Egypt. 29. ¶ And Reuben returned unto the pit; and behold, Joſeph was not in the pit: and he [p] rent his clothes. 30. And he returned unto his brethren, and ſaid, The child is not: and I, whither ſhall I go?

† Or pieces.
i Amos vi. 6.
k See ver. 28—36.
l Jer. viii. 22.
† Heb. Harkened.
m Judg. vi. 3.
n Pſal. cv. 17. Wiſd. x. 13. Acts vii. 9.
o See Mat. xxvii. 9.
p Job i. 20.

v. 23—30. Now the envied coat is torn from his back; remorſe or pity find no place in theſe invenomed hearts: in vain his prayers, his tears, his anguiſh; they drag him to the pit, and caſt him in, intending a death of famine more dreadful than the ſword; then, hardened and relentleſs, ſit down in comfort to eat bread; and whilſt they ſatisfy their own hunger, never think on Joſeph's affliction. Note, (1.) God's providences appear darkeſt, when deliverance is neareſt. (2.) Crying ſins often ſtupify the conſcience to the moſt amazing pitch of inſenſibility. But now, an unexpected event delivers Joſeph from the pit: a caravan of merchants going to Egypt, paſſes by; Judah propoſes to ſell, rather than kill him; he would be as effectually, they thought, ſent out of the way, and thus they gratify their covetouſneſs, as well as their revenge. The bargain is made, and Joſeph from the captivity of the pit, is ſent as a ſlave into Egypt. Learn, (1.) How exactly God makes common events of providence become critical, for purpoſes of his glory. (2.) God over-rules wicked men, and makes one ſin a bridle to a greater: covetouſneſs ſaves from bloodſhed. Reuben was not of the counſel, perhaps now on a circuit, in order to come unobſerved to the pit: but how great his grief to find Joſeph gone! Note, The diſappointment of our well-meant endeavours, are afterwards ſeen to be in mercy.

31. And they took Joſeph's coat, and killed a kid of the goats, and dipped the coat in the blood. 32. And they ſent the coat of many colours, and they brought it to their father; and ſaid, This have we found: know now whether it be thy ſon's coat or no. 33. And he knew it, and ſaid, It is my ſon's coat; [q] an evil beaſt hath devoured him: Joſeph is without doubt rent in pieces. 34. And Jacob rent his clothes, and put ſackcloth upon his loins, and mourned for his ſon many days. 35. And all his ſons, and all his daughters roſe up to comfort him; but he refuſed to be comforted; and he ſaid, For [r] I will go down into the grave unto my ſon, mourning: thus his father wept for him. 36. And [s] the Midianites ſold him into Egypt unto Potiphar, an † officer of Pharaoh's, and ‡ ‖ captain of the guard.

q Chap. xliv. 28.
r Chap. xlii. 38. & xliv. 29, 31.
s Chap. xxxix. 1.
† Or Eunuch, or chamberlain, or courtier.
‡ Heb. Chief of the execution.
‖ Or chief marſhal.

v. 31—36. They made a plauſible ſtory: there could be no ſuſpicion of them: whilſt the coat they ſent, indulged their revenge, and aggravated Jacob's ſorrow. A thouſand dire imaginations now ruſh in, and tear his heart with greater violence, than the beaſt the limbs of his ſuppoſed devoured Joſeph. His ſons, adepts in hypocriſy, pretend to comfort him; but inconſolable in his ſorrows, his heart refuſes conſolation, and he reſolves to go down mourning to his grave. Note, (1.) Immoderate love is generally puniſhed with immoderate grief. I never ſee the doating affection of a parent, but I tremble for the idol child. (2.) Obſtinate ſorrow is very ſinful, as it reflects on God's goodneſs. (3.) Many of our bittereſt griefs are as imaginary as Jacob's was. Joſeph ſtill lives, though a bond-man in Egypt, in the houſe of Potiphar, an officer of Pharoah's: and diſagreeable as his lot is caſt, bleſſes God it was no worſe. Note, It is good to remember, how much worſe it might have been with us, as a means to reconcile us to every trial.

Before Chriſt about 1728.

In this whole chapter, we have in Joſeph a type of the beloved ſon of God, ſent of his father, rejected of his brethren, ſold by another Judas, and ſtript of his ſeamleſs coat, whilſt they cry, Come, let us kill him. To all this, and more, he ſubmitted for us men, and our ſalvation.

C H A P. XXXVIII.

This chapter gives us an account of Judah and his family, and ſuch an account it is, that one would wonder, that of all Jacob's ſons, our Lord ſhould ſpring out of Judah, Heb. vii. 14. But God will ſhew that his choice is of grace, and not of merit, and that Chriſt came into the world to ſave ſinners, even the chief, and is not aſhamed to be allied to them. We have in this chapter, 1. Judah's marriage and iſſue, and the untimely death of his two eldeſt ſons, ver. 1—11. 2. Judah's inceſt with his daughter-in-law Tamar, incognito, ver. 12—23. 3. His confuſion when it was diſcovered, ver. 24—26. 4. The birth of his twin ſons, in whom his family was built up, ver. 27, ad finem.

[a] 1 Chron. ii. 3.
[b] Numb. xxvi. 19.
[c] Numb. xxvi. 20.
[d] Numb. xxvi. 19.
[e] Deut. xxv. 5.
† Heb. Was evil in the eyes of the Lord.

1. AND it came to paſs at that time, that Judah went down from his brethren, and turned in to a certain Adullamite, whoſe name was Hirah. 2. And Judah ſaw there a daughter of a certain Canaanite whoſe name was [a] Shuah; and he took her, and went in unto her. 3. And ſhe conceived, and bare a ſon; and he called his name [b] Er. 4. And ſhe conceived again, and bare a ſon; and ſhe called his name Onan. 5. And ſhe yet again conceived, and bare a ſon; and called his name [c] Shelah: and he was at Chezib, when ſhe bare him. 6. And Judah took a wife for Er his firſt-born, whoſe name was Tamar. 7. And [d] Er Judah's firſt-born was wicked in the ſight of the LORD; and the LORD ſlew him. 8. And Judah ſaid unto Onan, Go in unto [e] thy brother's wife, and marry her, and raiſe up ſeed to thy brother. 9. And Onan knew that the ſeed ſhould not be his; and it came to paſs, when he went in unto his brother's wife, that he ſpilled it on the ground, leſt that he ſhould give ſeed to his brother. 10. And the thing which he did, † diſpleaſed the LORD: wherefore he ſlew him alſo. 11. Then ſaid Judah to Tamar his daughter-in-law, Remain a widow at thy father's houſe, till Shelah my ſon be grown; (for he ſaid, Leſt peradventure he die alſo as his brethren did:) and Tamar went and dwelt in her father's houſe.

v. 1—11. Jacob is ſtill more unhappy in his children. We have here,

1. Judah's ill conduct. He leaves his brethren, and gets a Canaanite friend, one Hirah: bad connections for young people are very dangerous: Evil communication corrupts good manners. There he meets a Canaanitiſh woman, and marries her. How many a youth hath been thus trapanned by idle companions, into a ſcandalous marriage, not only to the wounding of their conſcience, but to the ruin of their future peace? How much wiſer they who conſult their parents, and make them their friends.

2. Judah by his wife has three ſons; and, as might be expected, they partook more of the wickedneſs of Canaan, than the ways of Iſrael. He had married young and haſtily himſelf, and ſeems to have committed the ſame fault with his children. Er, his eldeſt, notoriouſly wicked, was quickly ſlain. God ſometimes makes, even here, monuments of his vengeance. Onan, in duty bound to raiſe up ſeed unto his brother, abuſed his own body to prevent it, and God ſlew him alſo on the ſpot. Note, Thoſe ſins which diſhonour the body, if not viſited by immediate judgments, are often in their iſſue, the cauſe of untimely death. Judah afraid of the like viſitation, with-held his youngeſt for a ſeaſon, and ſent Tamar to live a widow in her father's houſe. Note, Forced continence is a dangerous thing; they that muſt not marry, will burn. Hence, all the abominations of convents and nunneries.

† Heb. The days were multiplied.
[f] Judg. xiv. 1.
‡ Heb. The door of eyes, or of Enajim † Heb. A kid of the goats.
† Or in Enajim.
† Heb. Become a contempt.

12. ¶ And † in proceſs of time, the daughter of Shuah Judah's wife died: and Judah was comforted, and went up unto his ſheep-ſhearers to Timnath, he and his friend Hirah the Adullamite. 13. And it was told Tamar, ſaying, Behold, thy father-in-law goeth up [f] to Timnath, to ſhear his ſheep. 14. And ſhe put her widow's garments off from her, and covered her with a veil, and wrapped herſelf, and ſat in ‡ an open place, which is by the way to Timnath: for ſhe ſaw that Shelah was grown, and ſhe was not given unto him to wife. 15. When Judah ſaw her, he thought her to be an harlot; becauſe ſhe had covered her face. 16. And he turned unto her by the way, and ſaid, Go to, I pray thee, let me come in unto thee (for he knew not that ſhe was his daughter-in-law) and ſhe ſaid, What wilt thou give me, that thou mayeſt come in unto me? 17. And he ſaid, I will ſend thee † a kid from the flock: and ſhe ſaid, Wilt thou give me a pledge, till thou ſend it? 18. And he ſaid, What pledge ſhall I give thee? And ſhe ſaid, Thy ſignet, and thy bracelets, and thy ſtaff that is in thine hand; and he gave it her, and came in unto her, and ſhe conceived by him. 19. And ſhe aroſe and went away, and laid by her veil from her, and put on the garments of her widowhood. 20. And Judah ſent the kid by the hand of his friend the Adullamite, to receive his pledge from the woman's hand: but he found her not. 21. Then he aſked the men of that place, ſaying, Where is the harlot that was † openly by the way-ſide? And they ſaid, There was no harlot in this place. 22. And he returned to Judah, and ſaid, I cannot find her; and alſo the men of the place ſaid, that there was no harlot in this place. 23. And Judah ſaid, Let her take it to her, leſt we † be aſhamed: behold, I ſent this kid, and thou haſt not found her.

v. 12—23. They who have not the gift of continence, ſhould marry. We have here a ſhocking inſtance of the danger of fleſhly luſts.

1. Tamar's wicked policy to enſnare Judah. She had been kept in expectation of Shelah, but he was not given her; therefore on a day of feſtivity, when Judah's heart was open with wine and feaſting on his ſhearing day, ſhe expoſed herſelf as an harlot, in an open place, and too grievouſly ſucceeded. Strange to think! from ſuch a woman Jeſus deſcends. Surely, it was to ſhew, that the vileſt need not deſpair.

2. Judah's infamous lewdneſs. Though ignorantly guilty of inceſt, yet vile enough to turn in thus to a common ſtrumpet; ſuch leſſons he had learnt from his bad friend Hirah. He makes a ſcandalous purchaſe of theſe ſtolen pleaſures, and with equal folly pledges his jewels for the payment. Note, (1.) They who buy a momentary enjoyment of their luſts, by everlaſting torments in hell, will be found to have made a fooliſh bargain indeed. (2.) When men are violently ſet on the gratification of their paſſions, they act as if infatuated, and expoſe themſelves to every reproach.

3. His diſappointment on ſending the promiſed kid. The harlot is gone, and his jewels loſt. However, he deſiſts from farther enquiry, leſt his own ſhame ſhould come out. Note, (1.) Moſt men are more concerned about their ſhame, than their ſin: leaſt we be aſhamed, weighs more with them, than leaſt we be damned. (2.) The day will come however, when their folly ſhall be manifeſt unto all men, and everlaſting ſhame ſhall cover the face of the laſcivious.

[g] Lev. xxi. 9.
† Or wherefore haſt thou made this breach againſt thee?
‡ i. e. A breach.
[h] 1 Chron. ii. 4. Mat. i. 3.

24. ¶ And it came to paſs about three months after, that it was told Judah, ſaying, Tamar thy daughter-in-law hath played the harlot; and alſo behold, ſhe is with child by whoredom: and Judah ſaid, Bring her forth, and [g] let her be burnt. 25. When ſhe was brought forth, ſhe ſent to her father-in-law, ſaying, By the man whoſe theſe are, am I with child: and ſhe ſaid, Diſcern, I pray thee, whoſe are theſe, the ſignet and bracelets, and ſtaff. 26. And Judah acknowledged them, and ſaid, She hath been more righteous than I; becauſe that I gave her not to Shelah my ſon: and he knew her again no more. 27. ¶ And it came to paſs in the time of her travail, that behold twins were in her womb. 28. And it came to paſs when ſhe travailed, that the one put out his hand; and the midwife took and bound upon his hand a ſcarlet thread, ſaying, This came out firſt. 29. And it came to paſs as he drew back his hand, that behold, his brother came out; and ſhe ſaid, † How haſt thou broken forth? this breach be upon thee: therefore his name was called ‡ [h] Pharez. 30. And afterwards came out his brother that had the ſcarlet thread upon his hand; and his name was called Zarah.

Before Chriſt 1856.

v. 24—30. None uſually ſo ſevere in the puniſhment of others, as thoſe who, whilſt they indulge the ſame ſins, would keep up an opinion of their own innocence. We have here,

1. Judah's raſh judgment on Tamar's crime. Let her be ſtigmatized, or burnt in the forehead, that her ſin and ſhame may appear unto all men. Or perhaps, Let her be burnt to death, and ſo get rid of her, that he may marry Shelah to another. Note, Malice againſt men's perſons, often puts on the cloak of zeal againſt their ſins.

2. Tamar's vindication of herſelf, to Judah's ſhame and conviction. The bracelets are produced, and Judah is confounded. Note, Secret ſins are often blown, and even here go before unto judgment. Judah pleads guilty, acknowledges her leaſt in fault; and, grieved at his conduct, diſmiſſes her without puniſhment, and reſolves to know her no more. Note, (1.) They have a right to our compaſſion, whom we have been the means of leading into ſin. (2.) There cannot be true penitence for ſin, without an entire forſaking it.

3. The fruit of this inceſtuous commerce. Two ſons, Pharez and Zarah; like Eſau and Jacob, they ſtruggled in the womb; Pharez prevailed, and got the birthright: they are diſtinguiſhed in our Lord's genealogy. He who came to ſave the chief of ſinners, diſdained not the neareſt alliance with them.

CHAP. XXXIX.

At this chapter we return to the ſtory of Joſeph: We have him here, 1. A ſervant in Potiphar's houſe, ver. 1. and yet there greatly honoured and favoured, (1.) By the providence of God, which made him in effect a maſter, ver. 2—6. (2.) By the grace of God, which made him more than conqueror over a ſtrong temptation to uncleanneſs, ver. 7—12. 2. We have him here a ſufferer, falſly accuſed, ver. 13—18. Impriſoned, ver. 19—20. And yet his impriſonment made both honourable and comfortable, by the tokens of God's ſpecial preſence with him, ver. 21—23.

1. AND Joſeph was brought down to Egypt: and [a] Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh, captain of the guard, an Egyptian, [b] bought him of the hands of the Iſhmaelites, which had brought him down thither. 2. And [c] the LORD was with Joſeph, and he was a proſperous man: and he was in the houſe of his maſter the Egyptian. 3. And his maſter ſaw that the LORD was with him, and that the LORD made all that he did to proſper in his hand. 4. And Joſeph found grace in his ſight, and he ſerved him: and he made him overſeer of his houſe, and all that he had he put into his hand. 5. And it came to paſs from the time that he had made him overſeer in his houſe, and over all that he had, that [d] the LORD bleſſed the Egyptian's houſe for Joſeph's ſake: and the bleſſing of the LORD was upon all that he had, in the houſe, and in the field. 6. And he left all that he had in Joſeph's hand; and he knew not ought he had, ſave the bread which he did eat: and Joſeph was a goodly perſon, and well-favoured.

[a] Chap. xxxvii. 36. Pſal. cv. 17.
[b] Chap. xxxvii. 28.
[c] Ver. 21. 1 Sam. xvi. 18. & xviii. 28. Acts vii. 9.
[d] Chap. xxx. 27.

v. 1—6. Joſeph is now the ſervant of Potiphar, and a diligent ſervant he is. He was not pining under the ſervitude to which he was reduced, but diligently induſtrious in his ſtation, conforming his mind to his circumſtances. Learn, It is a bleſſed ſymptom of a gracious ſtate, when reduced low, to be content and ſatisfied. Potiphar's houſe was a good ſchool: whilſt he learnt to obey as a ſervant, he learnt alſo to rule as a maſter. God was with him, and the evident bleſſing which attended him haſtened that advancement, which his induſtry and fidelity deſerved. And now, from a purchaſed ſlave he becomes lord of all; and, for Joſeph's ſake, all things proſpered in the Egyptian's houſe. Learn, (1.) If God be with us, it is well where-ever we are. (2.) His bleſſing it is, which maketh rich; without it, we labour in vain, and ſpend our ſtrength for nought. (3.) A godly, truſty ſervant is an ineſtimable treaſure; they who are wiſe, will know how to value and prefer them.

About 1719.

7. ¶ And it came to paſs after theſe things, that his maſter's wife caſt her eyes upon Joſeph; and ſhe ſaid, Lie with me. 8. But he refuſed, and ſaid unto his maſter's wife, Behold, my maſter wotteth not what is with me in the houſe, and he hath committed all that he hath to my hand. 9. There is none greater in this houſe than I; neither hath he kept back any thing from me, but thee, becauſe thou art his wife: how then can I do this great wickedneſs, and [e] ſin againſt God? 10. And it came to paſs as ſhe ſpake to Joſeph day by day, that he hearkened not unto her, to lie by her, or to be with her. 11. And it came to paſs about this time, that Joſeph went into the houſe to do his buſineſs; and there was none of the men of the houſe there within. 12. And ſhe caught him by his garment, ſaying, Lie with me: and he left his garment in her hand, and fled, and got him out.

[e] Chap. xx. 6. Lev. vi. 2. Pſal. li. 4.

Before Chriſt 1718.

v. 7—12. Joſeph was handſome, and that is his ſnare. Note, Beauty, though ſo highly valued, is oftentimes a dangerous gift, and brings us into many difficulties, which otherwiſe we might have eſcaped.

1. Potiphar's wife beheld the pleaſing youth, and, yielding to the dire temptation, drank in at her eyes what poiſoned her heart. Hurried on by lawleſs paſſion, ſhe preſſes him to her bed, and with ceaſeleſs importunity, loſt to all ſhame and modeſty, wearies him from day to day. Note, (1.) When a woman becomes abandoned, ſhe is vile indeed; ſhe forgets to bluſh, and ſticks at nothing to gratify her rage. (2.) They who would keep a guard over their heart, muſt make a covenant with their eyes.

2. Joſeph's reſolute chaſtity. A moſt aſtoniſhing inſtance of virtue, and highly worth imitation. Satan had tried the ſeverity of affliction; he ſupports it: but he fetches now a more fiery dart from his quiver; and how many have fallen hereby, that have withſtood the bittereſt croſſes! A fiery furnace is leſs to be feared, than a beautiful abandoned woman. But what cannot almighty grace effect? Though young and vigorous, living in plenty at his maſter's table, his miſtreſs the tempter, from whoſe favour he had every thing to hope, and from her diſpleaſure every thing to fear; though alone, where no diſcovery could be feared, and even ſuſpicion muſt be baniſhed; though ſollicited, importuned, repeatedly, nay, with violence aſſaulted; he can reſiſt, refuſe, yea, ſuffer every torment, rather than wound his own conſcience, or his maſter's honour. It were baſe ingratitude for the favours he had received; it were unbecoming a ſon of Iſrael; it was a crime of aggravated guilt; and, above all, it was againſt God. Determined therefore, he turns a deaf ear to her intreaties; and when ſhe ſeized his cloak, as one eſcaping for his life, he leaves his garment in her hand. Learn, (1.) Flight is the beſt preſervative from violent temptations to lewdneſs. (2.) Better hazard our life, than wound our conſcience. (3.) A deep ſenſe of the evil of ſin, is the great preſervative againſt it.

13. And it came to paſs, when ſhe ſaw that he had left his garment in her hand, and was fled forth, 14. That ſhe called unto the men of her houſe, and ſpake unto them, ſaying, See, he hath brought in an Hebrew unto us to mock us: he came in unto me to lie with me, and I cried with a † loud voice. 15. And it came to paſs, when he heard that I lifted up my voice and cried, that he left his garment with me and fled, and got him out. 16. And ſhe laid up his garment by her, until his lord came home. 17. And ſhe ſpake unto him according to theſe words, ſaying, The Hebrew ſervant which thou haſt brought unto us, came in unto me to mock me. 18. And it came to paſs, as I lift up my voice, and cried, that he left his garment with me, and fled out.

† Heb. Great.

v. 13—19. What ſavage beaſt ſo cruel, as an enraged and ſlighted woman? Whilſt chaſte love is conſtant and unchangeable, diſappointed luſt turns to the fierceſt hatred. The ſervants are called; the affront loudly complained of; the garment laid up as a proof of the guilt; and his maſter no ſooner returned, than informed of the pretended violence, and inſolent aſſault on her honour. Note, (1.) There is no protection from a lying tongue. (2.) The beſt of men have been accuſed of the moſt atrocious crimes. (3.) There is ſuch a readineſs to believe evil, eſpecially againſt the profeſſors of religion, that the moſt improbable ſtory gains eaſy credit. (4.) It is the comfort of injured innocence, that the day is coming, when, if not before, God will vindicate their cauſe.

19. And it came to paſs, when his maſter heard the words of his wife, which ſhe ſpake unto him, ſaying, After this manner did thy ſervant to me; that his wrath was kindled. 20. And Joſeph's maſter took him and [f] put him into the [g] priſon, a place where the king's priſoners were bound: and he was there in the priſon. 21. ¶ But the LORD was with Joſeph, and † ſhewed him mercy, and [h] gave him favour in the ſight of the keeper of the priſon. 22. And the keeper of the priſon committed to Joſeph's hand all the priſoners that were in the priſon: and whatſoever they did there, he was the doer of it. 23. The keeper of the priſon looked not to any thing that was under his hand; becauſe the LORD was with

[f] Pſal. cv. 18.
[g] Chap. xl. 15. & xli. 14.
† Heb. Extended kindneſs unto him.
[h] Exod. iii. 21. & xi. 3. & xii. 36. Pſal. cvi. 46. Prov. xvi. 7. Dan. i. 9.

Before Christ 1718.

with him: and that which he did, the LORD made it to proſper.

v. 19—23. Fired with reſentment, the maſter hears; and blinded with paſſion, without examining probabilities, or hearing his plea, wreaks his vengeance on the innocent Joſeph, ſeized, bound, in irons, thruſt into the vileſt dungeon, to linger out a miſerable life, to which death itſelf ſeemed preferable. Note, (1.) The bittereſt ſufferings with a good conſcience, are to be preferred to all the pleaſures of ſin. (2.) The perſecutors of God's people are uſually deaf to their plea; but there is one who ſeeth and judgeth. Joſeph is not forgotten even in priſon. God is with him. The jailor convinced probably of his innocence, and won by the amiableneſs of his temper, ſoftens the rigour of his confinement; and finding the bleſſing of God upon him, made him his chief helper, and committed the truſt of all his affairs and the priſoners to him; and every thing proſpered in his hands. Note, (1.) No priſon can exclude the preſence of a gracious God. How much happier now is Joſeph in his irons, than in the arms of the moſt beautiful adultereſs? (2.) Myſterious are the ways of God! Who would have thought the king's priſon the neareſt way to be preferred about the king's perſon? In every trial, reſt in hope. (3.) Thus Jeſus was tempted, accuſed, condemned, bound; but God was with him.

CHAP. XL.

In this chapter things are working, though ſlowly, towards Joſeph's advancement. 1. Two of Pharaoh's ſervants are committed to priſon, and there to Joſeph's care, and ſo become witneſſes of his extraordinary conduct. ver. 1—4. 2. They dreamed each of them a dream, which Joſeph interpreted, ver. 5—19. The event verified the interpretation, ver. 20—22. and ſo they became witneſſes of his extraordinary ſkill. 3. Joſeph recommends his caſe to one of them, whoſe preferment he foreſaw, ver. 14, 15. but in vain, ver. 23.

1. AND it came to paſs after theſe things, that the butler of the king of Egypt, and his baker, had offended their lord the king of Egypt. 2. And Pharaoh was wroth againſt two of his officers, againſt the chief of the butlers, and againſt the chief of the bakers. 3. And [a] he put them in ward in the houſe of the captain of the guard, into the priſon, the place where Joſeph was bound. 4. And the captain of the guard charged Joſeph with them, and he ſerved them: and they continued a ſeaſon in ward.

[a] Chap. xxxix. 21, 23.

v. 1—4. The favour of princes is an uncertain poſſeſſion. Two chief officers of Pharaoh experience a ſad reverſe of fortune, from a palace to a priſon. They little thought for whoſe ſake they were brought thither: it is for Joſeph's, and into his cuſtody they are committed. The links of the chain of providence are ſtrangely connected, but in wiſdom all. If Potiphar was this captain of the guard, it ſeems he was now convinced of Joſeph's innocence. Time often clears up the characters of the injured.

5. ¶ And they dreamed a dream both of them, each man his dream in one night, each man according to the interpretation of his dream; the butler and the baker of the king of Egypt, which were bound in the priſon. 6. And Joſeph came in unto them in the morning, and looked upon them, and behold they were ſad. 7. And he aſked Pharaoh's officers that were with him in the ward of his lord's houſe, ſaying, Wherefore † look ye ſo ſadly to day? 8. And they ſaid unto him, We have dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter of it. And Joſeph ſaid unto them, [b] Do not interpretations belong to God? tell me them, I pray you. 9. And the chief butler told his dream to Joſeph, and ſaid unto him, In my dream, behold, a vine was before me. 10. And in the vine were three branches: and it was as though it budded, and her bloſſoms ſhot forth; and the cluſters thereof brought forth ripe grapes. 11. And Pharaoh's cup was in my hand: and I took the grapes, and preſſed them into Pharaoh's cup, and I gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand. 12. And Joſeph ſaid unto him, This is the interpretation of it: The three branches are three days. 13. Yet within three days [c] ‡ ſhall Pharaoh lift up thine head, and reſtore thee unto thy place: and thou ſhalt deliver Pharaoh's cup into his hand, after the former manner when thou waſt his butler. 14. But ‖ think on me when it ſhall be well with thee, and ſhew kindneſs, I pray thee, unto me; and make mention of me unto Pharaoh, and bring me out of this houſe. 15. For indeed I was ſtolen away out of the land of the Hebrews: and [d] here alſo have I done nothing that they ſhould put me into the dungeon. 16. When the chief baker ſaw that the interpretation was good; he ſaid unto Joſeph, I alſo was in my dream, and behold I had three § white baſkets on my head. 17. And in the uppermoſt baſket there was of all manner of * bake-meats for Pharaoh; and the birds did eat them out of the baſket upon my head. 18. And Joſeph anſwered, and ſaid, This is the interpretation thereof: The three baſkets are three days. 19. Yet within three days ſhall Pharaoh † lift up thy head from off thee, and ſhall hang thee on a tree; and the birds ſhall eat thy fleſh from off thee.

† Heb. Are your faces evil, &c.

[b] Chap. xli. 16. Dan. ii. 11, 28.

[c] 2 Kings xxv. 27. Pſal. iii. 3. Jer. lii. 31.

‡ Or, reckon.

‖ Heb. Remember me with thee.

Before Christ 1717.

[d] Chap. xxxix. 20.

§ Or, full of holes.

* Heb. Meat of Pharaoh's, the work of a baker or cook.

† Or, reckon thee, and take thy office from thee.

v. 5—19. We have here,

1. Two extraordinary dreams, which happened to the priſoners under Joſeph's care. Much affected with the viſions on their bed, their countenance bore the deep impreſſion, and Joſeph in the morning, with kind ſollicitude, could not but enquire into the cauſe of their dejection. Note, (1.) God has arrows in his quiver, that, without a viſible cauſe, can damp the ſpirits of the mighty. Could we look into ſinners hearts, we ſhould find diſtreſſes there, which only themſelves know. (2.) It is kind to be ſollicitous about our neighbour's happineſs, and eſpecially when they appear dejected, to reach out the tender hand of comfort.

2. They relate their dreams, and Joſeph interprets them. The butler's dream is the happy preſage of his reſtoration; the baker's, of an ignominious death. Note, (1.) Communication of our griefs to godly men, is the ready way to receive ſolution of our doubts, or comfort in our afflictions. (2.) There are good dreams and evil ones, and both deſerve notice. A good dream is a mark of a gracious temper; a bad one can have no good interpretation.

3. Joſeph's modeſt requeſt to the butler. As he was innocently a priſoner, he wiſhes for an enlargement, and, without reflecting on his perſecutors, begs only a remembrance of him, when he ſhould be reſtored to his loſt dignity. Note, (1.) Though we may be content with ſervitude, yet, if we can be free, we may chuſe it rather. (2.) In exculpating ourſelves, we cannot be too careful to avoid reflecting upon thoſe who have injured us.

20. ¶ And it came to paſs the third day, which was Pharaoh's birth-day, that he [e] made a feaſt unto all his ſervants: and he † lifted up the head of the chief butler, and of the chief baker among his ſervants. 21. And he reſtored the chief butler unto his butlerſhip again; and he gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand. 22. But he hanged the chief baker: as Joſeph had interpreted to them. 23. Yet did not the chief butler remember Joſeph, but forgat him.

[e] Mark vi. 21.

† Or, reckoned.

20—23. Preciſely at the time predicted, the interpretation is fulfilled. Pharaoh, on his birth-day, enquires into their faults, and either, according to their deſerts, the butler is acquitted and reſtored, the baker condemned and executed; or, if both are guilty, he exerciſes his ſovereignty in pardoning the one, and puniſhing the other. Who will queſtion the king's ſovereignty? And ſhall we find fault with God, if he pardons one ſinner, whilſt he leaves another to deſerved judgment? Note, Great events lie often in a ſmall compaſs of time. Who knoweth whether his life ſhall continue three days; nay, three hours? His preferment now ſo engages the butler, that Joſeph in his priſon is no more thought of. Great men too commonly have the art of forgetting their obligations and their promiſes; and if Joſeph's heart was buoyed up with the expectation of his doing ſomething for him, the greater muſt be his diſappointment. Note, They who depend on great men, will have frequent cauſe to lament their neglects; but they who depend only on the great God, ſhall never be diſappointed of their hope.

CHAP. XLI.

We have in this chapter, 1. Pharaoh's dreams, ver. 1—8. 2. The recommendation of Joſeph to him for an interpreter, ver. 9—13. 3. The interpretation of the dreams, with the prudent advice given to Pharaoh thereupon, ver. 14—36. 4. The preferment of Joſeph, ver. 37—45. 5. The accompliſhment of Joſeph's prediction, and his fidelity to his truſt, ver. 46, ad finem.

1. AND it came to paſs at the end of two full † years, that Pharaoh dreamed, and behold, he ſtood by the river. 2. And behold there came up out of the river ſeven well-favoured kine, and fat-fleſhed; and they 1715.

† Heb. Years of days.

fed in a meadow. 3. And behold, ſeven other kine came up after them out of the river, ill-favoured, and lean-fleſhed; and ſtood by the other kine, upon the brink of the river. 4. And the ill-favoured and lean-fleſhed kine did eat up the ſeven well-favoured and fat kine. So Pharaoh awoke. 5. And he ſlept, and dreamed the ſecond time: and behold, ſeven ears of corn came up upon one ſtalk, † rank, and good. 6. And behold, ſeven thin ears, and blaſted with the eaſt-wind, ſprung up after them. 7. And the ſeven thin ears devoured the ſeven rank and full ears: and Pharaoh awoke, and behold it was a dream. 8. And it came to paſs in the morning, that [a] his ſpirit was troubled; and he ſent and called for all the magicians of Egypt, and all the wiſe-men thereof: and Pharaoh told them his dream; but there was none that could interpret them unto Pharaoh.

† Heb. Fat.

[a] Dan. ii. 1.

v. 1—8. When Joſeph began to deſpair of his friend at court, to ceaſe from man, and truſt in God, then ſhall his deliverance be accompliſhed. Two long years had he lain in the houſe of his priſon, when God works not only for his enlargement, but his preferment. Pharaoh's dreams trouble him. Though ſtrange the rovings of his fancy, he felt an impreſſion he could not get rid of: the remembrance was ſtrong upon his mind, and the magicians are called to give the interpretation in vain. Note, (1.) The nature of dreams is among the ſecret things. Though not utterly to be overlooked, yet not ſuperſtitiouſly to be attended to. (2.) When patience hath had her perfect work, God can furniſh eaſily the means for the deliverance of his ſervants.

9. ¶ Then ſpake the chief butler unto Pharaoh, ſaying, I do remember my faults this day. 10. Pharaoh was wroth with his ſervants, and [b] put me in ward in the captain of the guard's houſe, both me and the chief baker. 11. And we dreamed a dream in one night, I and he; we dreamed [c] each man according to the interpretation of his dream. 12. And there was there with us a young man, an Hebrew, ſervant to the captain of the guard; and we told him, and he [d] interpreted to us our dreams: to each man according to his dream he did interpret. 13. And it came to paſs, as he interpreted to us, ſo it was: me he reſtored unto mine office, and him he hanged. 14. ¶ [e] Then Pharaoh ſent and called Joſeph, and they † brought him haſtily out of the dungeon: And he ſhaved himſelf, and changed his raiment, and came in unto Pharaoh. 15. And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, I have dreamed a dream, and there is none that can interpret it: and I have heard ſay of thee, that ‡ thou canſt underſtand a dream to interpret it. 16. And Joſeph anſwered Pharaoh, ſaying, It is not in me: God ſhall give Pharaoh an anſwer of peace.

[b] Chap. xxxix. 20.

[c] Chap. xl. 5.

[d] Chap. xl. 12, &c.

[e] Pſal. cv. 20.

† Heb. Made him run.

‡ Or, When thou heareſt a dream, thou canſt interpret it.

v. 9—16. Pharaoh's dream reminds the butler of his obligations. Hereupon,

1. He acknowledges his faults, whether ſo long in forgetting Joſeph, or as a compliment to Pharaoh's clemency in forgiving them; and then proceeds to give the character of Joſeph, and the experience he had of his ſagacity and wiſdom. Note, (1.) It is good to remember our ſins, when God hath forgiven and forgotten them. (2.) If we have been negligent of our duty, it is time to remember, and return to it. Better late than never. (3) God's providence orders all in the beſt time and manner for his people. Joſeph's preferment depended on this delay.

2. Pharaoh's haſte to have Joſeph's interpretation. A dream had brought him a ſlave into Egypt, and now a dream carries him to the king's preſence and favour.

3. Joſeph's humble reply to Pharaoh's queſtion. He aſcribes the power to God, and wiſhes, as if bred a courtier, (for true religion breeds genuine courteſy) Pharaoh's peace and proſperity in the interpretation. Note, Great gifts and great graces muſt be adorned with deep humility; then they are doubly amiable and excellent.

17. And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, In my dream, behold, I ſtood upon the bank of the river. 18. And behold, there came up out of the river ſeven kine, fat-fleſhed, and well-favoured: and they fed in a meadow. 19. And behold, ſeven other kine came up after them, poor, and very ill-favoured, and lean-fleſhed, ſuch as I never ſaw in all the land of Egypt for badneſs. 20. And the lean and the ill-favoured kine did eat up the firſt ſeven fat kine. 21. And when they had † eaten them up, it could not be known that they had eaten them: but they were ſtill ill-favoured, as at the beginning. So I awoke. 22. And I ſaw in my dream, and behold, ſeven ears came up in one ſtalk, full and good. 23. And behold, ſeven ears ‡ withered, thin, and blaſted with the eaſt wind, ſprung up after them. 24. And the thin ears devoured the ſeven good ears: and I told this unto the magicians; but there was none that could declare it unto me. 25. ¶ And Joſeph ſaid unto Pharaoh, The dream of Pharaoh is one: God hath ſhewed Pharaoh what he is about to do. 26. The ſeven good kine are ſeven years: and the ſeven good ears are ſeven years: the dream is one. 27. And the ſeven thin and ill-favoured kine that came up after them, are ſeven years; and the ſeven empty ears blaſted with the eaſt-wind, ſhall be [f] ſeven years of famine. 28. This is the thing which I have ſpoken unto Pharaoh: What God is about to do, he ſheweth unto Pharaoh. 29. Behold, there come ſeven years of great plenty, throughout all the land of Egypt. 30. And there ſhall ariſe after them ſeven years of famine, and all the plenty ſhall be forgotten in the land of Egypt: and the famine ſhall conſume the land. 31. And the plenty ſhall not be known in the land, by reaſon of that famine following: for it ſhall be very ‖ grievous. 32. And for that the dream was doubled unto Pharaoh twice; it is becauſe the thing is § eſtabliſhed by God, and God will ſhortly bring it to paſs.

† Heb. Come to the inward parts of them.

‡ Or ſmall.

[f] 2 Kings viii. 1.

‖ Heb. Heavy.

§ Or prepared of God.

v. 17—32. Pharaoh relates, and Joſeph interprets to his full ſatisfaction. The dreams are one, to confirm the certainty of their fulfilment. They predict ſeven years of plenty, and ſeven years of famine, which ſhould ſucceed them: famine ſo ſevere, as ſhould conſume the whole produce of the former years. Note, (1.) The greateſt plenty is often ſuceeeded by the greateſt penury; careful œconomy therefore is wiſe and prudent. (2.) All our worldly comforts are like the abundance of Egypt; the evil days come, when we ſhall no longer have pleaſure in them. How ſollicitous ſhould we then be to ſecure a more enduring portion. (3.) What God hath decreed, will ſhortly come to paſs; for time is ſwift, and death and eternity near, even at the door.

33. Now therefore let Pharaoh look out a man diſcreet and wiſe, and ſet him over the land of Egypt. 34. Let Pharaoh do this, and let him appoint † officers over the land, and take up the fifth part of the land of Egypt in the ſeven plenteous years. 35. And let them gather all the food of thoſe good years that come, and lay up corn under the hand of Pharaoh, and let them keep food in the cities. 36. And that food ſhall be for ſtore to the land againſt the ſeven years of famine, which ſhall be in the land of Egypt; that the land ‡ periſh not through the famine. 37. ¶ And the thing was good in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of all his ſervants. 38. And Pharaoh ſaid unto his ſervants, Can we find ſuch a one as this is? a man [g] in whom the Spirit of God is? 39. And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, Foraſmuch as God hath ſhewed thee all this, there is none ſo diſcreet and wiſe as thou art. 40. [h] Thou ſhalt be over my houſe, and according unto thy word ſhall all my people ‖ be ruled; only in the throne will I be greater than thou. 41. And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, See, I have ſet thee over all the land of Egypt. 42. And Pharaoh [i] took off his ring from his hand, and put it upon Joſeph's hand, and arrayed him in veſtures of § fine linen, and [k] put a gold chain about his neck. 43. And he made him to ride in the ſecond chariot which he had; and [l] they cried before him, * Bow the knee: and he made him ruler over all the land of Egypt. 44. And Pharaoh ſaid unto Joſeph, I am Pharaoh, and without thee ſhall no man lift up his hand or foot in all the land of Egypt. 45. And Pharaoh called Joſeph's name Zaphnath-paaneah; and he gave him to wife Aſenath the daughter of Poti-pherah † prieſt of On: and Joſeph went out over all the land of Egypt.

† Or overſeers.

‡ Heb. Be not cut off.

[g] Num. xxvii. 18. Dan. v. 11.

[h] Pſal cv. 21. 1 Mac. ii. 53. Acts vii. 10.

‖ Heb. Be armed, or kiſs.

[i] Eſth. iii. 10. & viii. 2, 8.

§ Or ſilk.

[k] Dan. v. 7, 29.

[l] Eſth. vi. 9.

* Or tender father. Chap. xlv. 8.

† Or Prince.

v. 33—45. 1. Joſeph adds to his interpretation his advice, both evidencing his conſummate wiſdom; to improve the years of plenty, and, under faithful inſpectors, to lay up proviſion againſt the years of famine. Note, (1.) There is a day coming, which we ſhall have abundant need to provide againſt. All the grace we can get will be no more than we ſhall need.

(2.) Proviſion for approaching danger muſt be immediate. We, who have ſo little time to ſpend, have none to loſe.

2. Pharaoh is highly pleaſed with the advice, and reſolves on the ſpot to follow it. He extols the wiſdom of Joſeph, and from conviction of the ſuperiority of his genius, advances him to the honourable poſt of governor of the whole land. To him the truſt is committed, to provide againſt the famine he predicts. He is ſolemnly inſtalled. The ring from his finger, and his ſecond chariot beſtowed on Joſeph, proclaim the favour of the king, and the dignity of the miniſter; whilſt they cry before him, Bow the knee. And to all his other honours are added, a noble alliance with the daughter of Poti-pherah, and a new name, Zaphnath-paaneah, The revealer of ſecrets. What a change hath a day brought forth! the morning ſaw him a priſoner in diſtreſs; the noon beheld him apparelled as a king, and chief of all the land of Egypt. Patient ſuffering will certainly one day thus be crowned with glory. Note, (1.) It is as honourable to the prince, as happy for the people, when they are preferred, in whom the ſpirit of God is. (2.) Herein Joſeph reſembles the Lord of Glory; exalted from his priſon of death to the right hand of God, the concerns of heaven and earth are intruſted to him alone, and angels, principalities, and powers bow before him.

1715. 46. ¶ And Joſeph was thirty years old when he ſtood before Pharaoh king of Egypt: and Joſeph went out from the preſence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt. 47. And in the ſeven plenteous years the earth brought forth by handfuls. 48. And he gathered up all the food of the ſeven years, which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities: the food of the field which was round about every city, laid he up in the ſame. 49. And Joſeph gathered corn as the ſand of the ſea, very much, until he left numbring: for it was without number. 50. And [m] unto Joſeph were born two ſons, before the years of famine came: which Aſenath the daughter of Poti-pherah † prieſt of On, bare unto him. 51. And Joſeph called the name of the firſt-born ‡ Manaſſeh: for God, ſaid he, hath made me forget all my toil, and all my father's houſe. 52. And the name of the ſecond called he ‖ Ephraim: for God hath cauſed me to be fruitful in the land of my affliction.

[m] Chap. xlvi. 20. & xlviii. 5.
† Or Prince. 2 Sam. viii. 18.
‡ i. e. forgetting.
‖ i. e. fruitful.

v. 46—52. Joſeph's diligence is as great as his wiſdom. No ſooner in office, than he executes the truſt repoſed in him. The more a ſtateſman is diſtinguiſhed, the more laborious ſhould he be for the public good. God bleſſes him abundantly in his labour, and adds to the fruitfulneſs of the land, the fruitfulneſs of his houſe. Two ſons are born; Manaſſeh, ſo called, becauſe all his former toil and ill uſage at home were forgotten; and Ephraim, becauſe God had made him fruitful. Note, (1.) It is well to acknowledge God in every gift. (2.) Injuries cannot be too ſoon forgiven and forgotten.

1708. 53. ¶ And the ſeven years of plenteouſneſs that was in the land of Egypt, were ended. 54. And [n] the ſeven years of dearth began to come, according as Joſeph had ſaid: and the dearth was in all lands; but in all the land of Egypt there was bread. 55. And when all the land of Egypt was famiſhed, the people cried to Pharaoh for bread: And Pharaoh ſaid unto all the Egyptians, Go unto Joſeph; what he ſaith to you, do. 56. And the famine was over all the face of the earth: And Joſeph opened † all the ſtore-houſes, and ſold unto the Egyptians; and the famine waxed ſore in the land of Egypt. 57. And [o] all countries came into Egypt to Joſeph for to buy corn; becauſe that the famine was ſo ſore in all lands.

[n] Pſal. cv. 16.
† Heb. All wherein was.
[o] Deut. ix. 28.

v. 53—57. Joſeph's provident care is now ſenſibly felt. The countries around, under the ſcourge of famine, as well as Egypt, come to buy corn, and are referred to Joſeph, whoſe management, no doubt, in the ſale, was as juſt and equitable, as his prudence in providing had been ſingular. Note, It is highly our duty in times of dearth to open our ſtore-houſes; and neither by a fictitious famine, nor an unreaſonable price, to grind the faces of the poor.

CHAP. XLII.

We had in the foregoing chapter the fulfilling of the dreams which Joſeph had interpreted: in this and the following chapters we have the fulfilling of the dreams which Joſeph himſelf had dreamed, that his father's family ſhould do obeiſance to him. We have in this chapter, 1. The humble application of Jacob's ſons to Joſeph, to buy corn, ver. 1—6. 2. The fright Joſeph put them into, for their trial, ver. 7—20. 3. The conviction they were now under of their ſin concerning Joſeph long before, ver. 21—24. 4. Their return to Canaan with corn, and the great diſtreſs their good father was in, upon the account they gave him of their expedition, ver. 25, ad finem.

1707. 1. NOW when [a] Jacob ſaw that there was corn in Egypt, Jacob ſaid unto his ſons, Why do ye look one upon another? 2. And he ſaid, Behold, I have heard that there is corn in Egypt: get you down thither, and buy for us from thence; that we may [b] live and not die. 3. ¶ And Joſeph's ten brethren went down to buy corn in Egypt. 4. But Benjamin, Joſeph's brother, Jacob ſent not with his brethren: for he ſaid, Leſt peradventure miſchief befall him. 5. And the ſons of Iſrael came to buy corn among thoſe that came: for the famine was in the land of Canaan. 6. And Joſeph was the governor over the land, and he it was that ſold to all the people of the land: and Joſeph's brethren came and [c] bowed down themſelves before him, with their faces to the earth.

[a] Acts vii. 12.
[b] Chap. xliii. 8. Pſal. cxviii. 17. Iſa. xxxviii. 1.
[c] Chap. xxxvii. 7.

v. 1—6. The famine now began to be ſenſibly felt in Canaan. That land of promiſe had hitherto proved a land of dearth to every ſucceeding patriarch. Note, It is good to have the creature embittered, that we may be led to look to a better country, that is, an heavenly. Jacob underſtanding there was corn in Egypt, reproves his ſons for their delay and deſpondence, and haſtens them on their journey. Note, When difficulties overtake us, we muſt not lie down and deſpond, or waſte the time in uſeleſs debate, but exert our moſt vigorous efforts for relief. At his command, all except Benjamin immediately ſet off, and arriving ſafely, are introduced to the governor, and with profound obeiſance bow before him. And now the dream begins to be accompliſhed. Note, God's counſels will take effect in their own time.

7. And Joſeph ſaw his brethren, and he knew them, but made himſelf ſtrange unto them, and ſpake † roughly unto them; and he ſaid unto them, Whence come ye? And they ſaid, From the land of Canaan to buy food. 8. And Joſeph knew his brethren, but they knew not him. 9. And Joſeph [d] remembred the dreams which he dreamed of them, and ſaid unto them, Ye are ſpies; to ſee the nakedneſs of the land you are come. 10. And they ſaid unto him, Nay, my lord, but to buy food are thy ſervants come. 11. We are all one man's ſons: We are true men, thy ſervants are no ſpies. 12. And he ſaid unto them, Nay, but to ſee the nakedneſs of the land you are come. 13. And they ſaid, Thy ſervants are twelve brethren, the ſons of one man in the land of Canaan; and behold, the youngeſt is this day with our father, and one [e] is not. 14. And Joſeph ſaid unto them, That is it that I ſpake unto you, ſaying, Ye are ſpies. 15. Hereby ye ſhall be proved: [f] by the life of Pharaoh ye ſhall not go forth hence, except your youngeſt brother come hither. 16. Send one of you, and let him fetch your brother, and ye ſhall be ‡ kept in priſon, that your words may be proved, whether there be any truth in you: or elſe by the life of Pharaoh ſurely ye are ſpies. 17. And he ‖ put them all-together into ward, three days. 18. And Joſeph ſaid unto them the third day, This do, and live: for [g] I fear God. 19. If ye be true men, let one of your brethren be bound in the houſe of your priſon: go ye, carry corn for the famine of your houſes. 20. But [h] bring your youngeſt brother unto me; ſo ſhall your words be verified, and ye ſhall not die. And they did ſo.

† Heb. Hard things with them.
[d] Chap. xxxvii. 5.
[e] Lam. v. 7. See chap. xliv. 20.
[f] See 1 Sam. i. 26. & xvii. 55. Judith xi. 7.
‡ Heb. Bound.
‖ Heb. Gathered.
[g] Neh. v. 15.
[h] Chap. xliii. 5. & xliv. 23.

v. 7—20. Little thought the ſons of Jacob who this great man was. Joſeph is now forgotten with his dreams; and though alive, never could they imagine to find him there. But Joſeph knew them, though unknown; and as he had hitherto no doubt been kept by divine direction from ſending to inform them of his eſtate, he will, by concealing it ſtill, make the accompliſhment of his dreams more remarkable. His rough addreſs, his imprecation terrifies them, and his deeds ſtill more. Their deep humiliations before him reſtrain not his ſeverity; they are bound and committed to ſafe cuſtody as ſpies, that they might remember themſelves in the houſe of their priſon, and repent over their own inhuman conduct; while their exculpation alſo informed him of thoſe circumſtances of his family, that, without diſcovering himſelf, he could not elſe have enquired into. At three days end they are releaſed, on condition of bringing down their younger brother, as a proof of their ſimplicity; and he gives the reaſon of this clemency, becauſe he feared God. Note, (1.) Where a man fears God, he cannot be unmerciful or unkind. (2.) Harſh providences are often attended with bleſſed effects. Obſtinate diſeaſes call for ſtrong phyſick.

21. ¶ And they ſaid one to another, We are verily guilty concerning our brother, in that we ſaw the anguiſh of his ſoul, when he beſought us; and we would not hear: therefore is this diſtreſs come upon us. 22. And Reuben anſwered them, ſaying, [i] Spake I not unto you, ſaying, Do not ſin againſt the child: and ye would not hear? therefore behold alſo, his blood is required. 23. And they knew not that Joſeph underſtood them; for † he ſpake unto them by an interpreter. 24. And he turned himſelf about from them, and wept; and returned to them again, and communed with them, and took from them Simeon, and bound him before their eyes. 25. ¶ Then Joſeph commanded to fill their ſacks with corn, and to reſtore every man's money into his ſack, and to give them proviſion for the way: and thus did he unto them. 26. And they laded their aſſes with the corn, and departed thence. 27. And as [k] one of them opened his ſack to give his aſs provender in the inn, he eſpied his money: for behold it was in his ſack's mouth. 28. And he ſaid unto his brethren, My money is reſtored; and lo, it is even in my ſack; and their heart ‡ failed them, and they were afraid, ſaying one to another, What is this that God hath done unto us?

[i] Chap. xxxvii. 21.

† Heb. An interpreter was between them.

[k] Chap. xliii. 21.

‡ Heb. Went forth.

v. 21—28. We have here,

1. The reflections they make on their paſt conduct. For twenty years they ſeem to have forgotten it, or ſtifled the remembrance; but now conſcience does her office, and in their diſtreſs they acknowledge the juſtice of God's hand in thus overtaking them. If they were ſo unrelenting to a brother, what may they not apprehend from a heathen ſtranger? Reuben reminds them of his intreaty for the child; a freſh reproach to their cruelty, though a comfort to his own conſcience. Note, (1.) it is a needful ſtroke, that awakens the conſcience to a remembrance of ſin. (2.) When we ſhare with others in calamity, it is a great ſupport to be clear of their guilt. Little did they imagine how nearly he was intereſted, before whom they ſpoke: little were they apprehenſive, that the Egyptian governor, who ſpake by an interpreter, underſtood their language; whilſt he, unable to reſtrain, yet willing to conceal the falling tear, turns aſide, to diſcharge the tender meltings of an affectionate heart. Are ſuch the tender mercies of a man? What then are the compaſſions of our God towards repenting ſinners!

2. Simeon is bound for a hoſtage till their return, and they diſmiſſed with their lading. But how great their aſtoniſhment, when one, on opening his ſack, finds the purchaſe-money returned! Guilt immediately awakens their fears, and they tremble with the apprehenſions that God is now about to viſit them for their ſins. They who ſold their own brother unjuſtly for twenty pieces of ſilver, may well fear, leſt judgment overtake them as thieves. Note, A guilty conſcience is ſubject to perpetual alarms.

29. ¶ And they came unto Jacob their father, unto the land of Canaan, and told him all that befel unto them, ſaying, 30. The man who is the lord of the land, ſpake † roughly to us, and took us for ſpies of the country. 31. And we ſaid unto him, We are true men; we are no ſpies. 32. We be twelve brethren, ſons of our father: one is not, and the youngeſt is this day with our father in the land of Canaan. 33. And the man the lord of the country ſaid unto us, Hereby ſhall I know that ye are true men; leave one of your brethren here with me, and take food for the famine of your houſholds, and be gone. 34. And bring your youngeſt brother unto me: then ſhall I know that you are no ſpies, but that you are true men: ſo will I deliver you your brother, and ye ſhall traffick in the land. 35. ¶ And it came to paſs as they emptied their ſacks, that behold every man's bundle of money was in his ſack: and when both they and their father ſaw the bundles of money, they were afraid. 36. And Jacob their father ſaid unto them, Me have ye bereaved of my children: Joſeph is not, and Simeon is not, and ye will take Benjamin away: all theſe things are againſt me. 37. And Reuben ſpake unto his father, ſaying, Slay my two ſons, if I bring him not to thee: deliver him into my hand, and I will bring him to thee again. 38. And he ſaid, My ſon ſhall not go down with you: for his brother is dead, and he is left alone; [l] if miſchief befal him by the way in the which ye go, then ſhall ye [m] bring down my gray hairs with ſorrow to the grave.

† Heb. With us hard things.

[l] Chap. xliv. 20.

[m] Chap. xxxvii. 35. & xliv. 31.

v. 29—38. The report of their journey was afflictive news to Jacob. The circumſtances compared, the impriſonment of Simeon, the demand of Benjamin, and, above all, the money returned, made him apprehend ſome ill deſign; not without ſuſpicions of the bad conduct of his ſons, which to his ſorrow he had ſo often experienced. All things he concludes are now againſt him. He reſolves not to part with Benjamin, however; nor can be at all ſatisfied with Reuben's fooliſh offer. His life is ſo bound up in the child, that miſchief befalling him, (and what reaſon had he to fear in their company?) grief would quickly bring his grey hairs to the grave. Note, (1.) In proportion to our love to the creature, will be our fears of loſing, and our diſtreſs in parting from it. Thus inordinate affection is its own puniſhment. (2.) We are often needleſsly diſtreſſed, and afraid, when God is moſt working for us, that all things are againſt us. (3.) Wicked children bring the bittereſt griefs upon their aged parents.

CHAP. XLIII.

Here the ſtory of Joſeph's brethren is carried on, and very particularly related, 1. Their melancholy parting with their father Jacob in Canaan, ver 1—14. 2. Their pleaſant meeting with Joſeph in Egypt, ver. 15, to the end.

1. AND the famine was ſore in the land. 2. And it came to paſs when they had eaten up the corn which they had brought out of Egypt, their father ſaid unto them, Go again, buy us a little food. 3. And Judah ſpake unto him, ſaying, The man † did ſolemnly proteſt unto us, ſaying, Ye ſhall not ſee my face, except [a] your brother be with you. 4. If thou wilt ſend our brother with us, we will go down and buy thee food. 5. But if thou wilt not ſend him, we will not go down: for the man ſaid unto us, Ye ſhall not ſee my face, except your brother be with you. 6. And Iſrael ſaid, Wherefore dealt ye ſo ill with me, as to tell the man whether ye had yet a brother? 7. And they ſaid, The man ‡ aſked us ſtraitly of our ſtate, and of our kindred, ſaying, Is your father yet alive? have ye another brother? and we told him according to the ‖ tenour of theſe words: § Could we certainly know that he would ſay, Bring your brother down? 8. And Judah ſaid unto Iſrael his father, Send the lad with me, and we will ariſe and go; that we may live and not die, both we, and thou, and alſo our little ones. 9. I will be ſurety for him; of my hand ſhalt thou require him: [b] if I bring him not unto thee, and ſet him before thee, then let me bear the blame for ever. 10. For except we had lingred, ſurely now we had returned † the ſecond time.

† Heb. Proteſting proteſted.

[a] Chap. xlii. 20. & xliv. 23.

‡ Heb. Aſking aſked us.

‖ Heb. Mouth.

§ Heb. Knowing could we know, &c.

[b] Chap. xliv. 32.

† Or, twice by this.

v. 1—10. The famine being ſevere, their corn is quickly ſpent. Jacob, with tender regard for his family, preſſes them to go; but Judah convinces him of the hopeleſſneſs of their journey, unleſs he will ſpare Benjamin, ſolemnly engaging to be ſurety for his return in ſafety. Note, In difficult circumſtances, where ſomething dear to us is at ſtake, it is wiſdom to take the advice of others, who, as leſs intereſted, muſt have leſs prejudice.

11. And their father Iſrael ſaid unto them, If it muſt be ſo now, do this: take of the beſt fruits in the land in your veſſels, and carry down the man a preſent, a little balm, and a little honey, ſpices, and myrrh, nuts, and almonds. 12. And take double money in your hand: and the money that was brought again in the mouth of your ſacks, carry it again in your hand; peradventure it was an overſight. 13. Take alſo your brother, and ariſe, go again unto the man. 14. And God Almighty give you mercy before the man, that he may ſend away your other brother and Benjamin: [c] † If I be bereaved of my children, I am bereaved.

[c] Eſth. iv. 16.

† Or, And I, as I have been, &c.

v. 11—14. The caſe was deſperate; neceſſity forces Jacob to comply. Note, We may alter our reſolutions, without being guilty of a lie, when we diſcover new reaſons againſt them. He takes every prudent means for the ſecurity of the journey.

The money returned is ſent back: he concluded ſome overſight, and honeſty will correct miſtakes. Double money is added, that there may be enough for any extraordinary occaſion, and beſides, a preſent for the lord of the land, of the produce of Canaan, v. 11. and, over all, he puts his benediction and prayer, with his reſignation of himſelf and children into God's hand. Note, (1.) What a bleſſing is bread! neither the mines of India, nor the ſpices of Arabia, can ſupply the want of it. (2.) Submiſſion to God's will is not only moſt for his glory, but for our own comfort alſo. (3.) Prayer ſhould ſanctify all our journies. If God Almighty go with us, mercy will compaſs us on every ſide.

15. ¶ And the men took that preſent, and they took double money in their hand, and Benjamin; and roſe up, and went down to Egypt, and ſtood before Joſeph. 16. And when Joſeph ſaw Benjamin with them, he ſaid to the ruler of his houſe, Bring theſe men home, and † ſlay and make ready: for theſe men ſhall ‡ dine with me at noon. 17. And the man did as Joſeph bade: and the man brought the men into Joſeph's houſe. 18. And the men were afraid, becauſe they were brought into Joſeph's houſe, and they ſaid, Becauſe of the money that was returned in our ſacks at the firſt time, are we brought in; that he may ‖ ſeek occaſion againſt us, and fall upon us, and take us for bond-men, and our aſſes. 19. And they came near to the ſteward of Joſeph's houſe, and they communed with him at the door of the houſe, 20. And ſaid, O ſir, [d] § we came indeed down at the firſt time to buy food. 21. And [e] it came to paſs when we came to the inn, that we opened our ſacks, and behold, every man's money was in the mouth of his ſack, our money in full weight: and we have brought it again in our hand. 22. And other money have we brought down in our hands to buy food: we cannot tell who put our money in our ſacks. 23. And he ſaid, Peace be to you, fear not: your God, and the God of your father hath given you treaſure in your ſacks: † I had your money. And he brought Simeon out unto them. 24. And the man brought the men into Joſeph's houſe, and [f] gave them water, and they waſhed their feet, and he gave their aſſes provender. 25. And they made ready the preſent againſt Joſeph came at noon: for they heard that they ſhould eat bread there.

† Heb. Kill a killing.
‡ Heb. Eat.
‖ Heb. Roll himſelf upon us.
[d] Chap. xlii. 3.
§ Heb. Coming down, we came down.
[e] Chap. xlii. 27, 35.
† Heb. Your money came to me.
[f] Chap. xviii. 4. & xxiv. 32.

v. 15—25. Once more they are ſafe arrived, nor grudge their pain to relieve their hunger. When there is a famine of the word, ſhall we take leſs pains to travel for it? They are kindly received, invited to Joſeph's houſe; and this, inſtead of comforting, terrifies them. Fear makes every mole-hill a mountain, and creates ſuſpicion even of our mercies. They reſolve to prevent all accuſation, by informing the ſteward of the money which was returned, with offers to repay it; but he quiets their fears with an acknowledgment of its receipt, bids them regard it as a gift from God, and takes all imaginable care of them till his maſter came home. Note, (1.) Honeſty will be found the beſt policy. (2.) Every ſucceſs in buſineſs ſhould be regarded as treaſure given of God.

26. ¶ And when Joſeph came home, they brought him the preſent which was in their hand into the houſe, and [g] bowed themſelves to him to the earth. 27. And he aſked them of their † welfare, and ſaid, ‡ Is your father well, the old man of whom ye ſpake? Is he yet alive? 28. And they anſwered, Thy ſervant our father is in good health, he is yet alive: and they bowed down their heads, and made obeiſance. 29. And he lift up his eyes, and ſaw his brother Benjamin, his mother's ſon, and ſaid, Is this your younger brother, [i] of whom ye ſpake unto me? And he ſaid, God be gracious unto thee, my ſon. 30. And Joſeph made haſte; for his bowels did yern upon his brother: and he ſought where to weep, and he entered into his chamber, and wept there. 31. And he waſhed his face, and went out, and refrained himſelf, and ſaid, Set on bread. 32. And they ſet on for him by himſelf, and for them by themſelves, and for the Egyptians, which did eat with him, by themſelves: becauſe the Egyptians might not eat bread with the Hebrews; for that is [k] an abomination unto the Egyptians. 33. And they ſat before him, the firſt-born according to his birth-right, and the youngeſt according to his youth: and the men marvelled one at another. 34. And he took and ſent meſſes unto them from before him: But Benjamin's meſs was five times ſo much as any of theirs. And they drank, and § were merry with him.

[g] Chap. xxxvii. 7, 10.
† Heb. Peace.
‡ Heb. Is there peace to your father?
[h] Chap. xlii. 11, 13.
[i] Chap. xlii. 13.
[k] Chap. xlvi. 34. Exod. viii. 26.
§ Heb. Drank largely. See Hag. i. 6. Joh. ii. 10.

v. 26—34. At dinner Joſeph returns: his brethren renew their lowly obeiſance, and, in their father's name, bow down before him as his ſervants. The ſight of Benjamin awakens all his tenderneſs. With a heart melted with love, (and how could he refrain?) he enquires after the good old man: Is he alive? And now unable longer to ſtand the moving ſcene, after an affectionate bleſſing on the lad, he haſtens to his chamber, to give vent in tears to thoſe tender paſſions, that burſt involuntary from his throbbing heart. When thus the commotion in his boſom was ſomewhat abated, he waſhes, and returns to entertain them. The tables are ſpread ſeverally for him and them, and the Egyptians, for the reaſon given, v. 32. and whilſt they wonder at the diſpoſition made according to their ſeveral ages, they are nobly entertained, forget their fears and cares, and make merry before him. Benjamin is diſtinguiſhed by a peculiar meſs, but it ſeems neither to awaken their ſuſpicion of the cauſe, nor jealouſy of the favour. Note, (1.) The tendereſt paſſions poſſeſs the nobleſt ſouls. (2.) A prayer for a bleſſing upon the ſoul, is a better gift than even Benjamin's diſtinguiſhed meſs: in ſuch charity, a poor man may be very rich. (3.) If others, weak or ſcrupulous, chuſe not to eat bread in communion with us, after our manner, we ſhould learn as Joſeph with the Egyptians, to bear with them in love.

CHAP. XLIV.

1. We have Joſeph's innocent device to try his brethren's regard for Benjamin, as well as the ſincerity of their repentance for what they had done againſt him, ver. 1—17. 2. The good ſucceſs of the experiment, ver. 18—34.

1. AND he commanded † the ſteward of his houſe ſaying, Fill the men's ſacks with food, as much as they can carry, and put every man's money in his ſack's mouth. 2. And put my cup, the ſilver cup, in the ſack's mouth of the youngeſt, and his corn-money: and he did according to the word that Joſeph had ſpoken. 3. As ſoon as the morning was light, the men were ſent away, they and their aſſes. 4. And when they were gone out of the city, and not yet far off, Joſeph ſaid unto his ſteward, Up, follow after the men; and when thou doſt overtake them, ſay unto them, Wherefore have ye rewarded evil for good? 5. Is not this it in which my lord drinketh? and whereby indeed he † divineth? ye have done evil in ſo doing. 6. ¶ And he overtook them, and he ſpake unto them theſe ſame words. 7. And they ſaid unto him, Wherefore ſaith my lord theſe words? God forbid that thy ſervants ſhould do according to this thing. 8. Behold the money which we found in our ſack's mouths, we brought again unto thee out of the land of Canaan: how then ſhould we ſteal out of thy lord's houſe ſilver or gold? 9. With whom ſoever of thy ſervants it be found, both [a] let him die, and we alſo will be my lord's bond-men. 10. And he ſaid, Now alſo let it be according unto your words: he with whom it is found ſhall be my ſervant; and ye ſhall be blameleſs. 11. Then they ſpeedily took down every man his ſack to the ground, and opened every man his ſack. 12. And he ſearched, and began at the eldeſt, and left at the youngeſt: and the cup was found in Benjamin's ſack. 13. Then they rent their clothes, and laded every man his aſs, and returned to the city. 14. ¶ And Judah and his brethren came to Joſeph's houſe (for he was yet there) and they fell before him on the ground. 15. And Joſeph ſaid unto them, What deed is this that ye have done? wot ye not, that ſuch a man as I can certainly † divine? 16. And Judah ſaid, What ſhall we ſay unto my lord? what ſhall we ſpeak? or how ſhall we clear ourſelves? God hath found out the iniquity of thy ſervants: behold, we are my lord's ſervants, both we, and he alſo with whom the cup is found. 17. And he ſaid, God forbid that I ſhould do ſo: but the man in whoſe hand the cup is found, he ſhall be my ſervant; and as for you, get you up in peace unto your father.

† Heb. Him that was over his houſe.
† Or maketh trial?
[a] Chap. xxxi. 32.
† Or make trial?

v. 1—17. After their hoſpitable entertainment, their fears are over, their beaſts loaded, and home they are travelling, little ſuſpecting the danger which ſeems to threaten them. An expreſs arrives, charges them with a theft, as ungrateful as bare-faced; they deny it ſolemnly; ſearch is made, the cup is found on Benjamin, and he is arreſted; they dare not leave their brother, nor make any plea to excuſe him. They regard God's hand in the affliction, as juſt in puniſhing them for former ſins, and return, to yield themſelves up ſervants to Joſeph. Thus (1.) They moſt eminently fulfilled their own prediction, Shalt thou have dominion over us? They are not only ſuitors for favour, but bondſmen for life. (2.) They ſhewed that regard for Benjamin, and that concern for Jacob, which Joſeph wiſhed. Note, Though once bad, it may not be always ſo. God can change men's hearts, and make them the reverſe of what they have been.

18. ¶ Then Judah came near unto him, and ſaid, O my lord, let thy ſervant, I pray thee, ſpeak a word in my lord's ears, and let not thine anger burn againſt thy ſervant: for thou art even as Pharaoh. 19. My lord aſked his ſervants, ſaying, Have ye a father, or a brother?
20. And we ſaid unto my lord, We have a father, an old man, and a child of his old age, a little one: and his brother is dead, and he alone is left of his mother, and his father loveth him. 21. And thou ſaidſt unto thy ſervants, [b] Bring him down unto me, that I may ſet mine eyes upon him. 22. And we ſaid unto my lord,
The lad cannot leave his father; for if he ſhould leave his father, his father would die. 23. And thou ſaidſt unto thy ſervants, [c] Except your youngeſt brother come down with you, you ſhall ſee my face no more. 24.
And it came to paſs, when we came up unto thy ſervant my father, we told him the words of my lord. 25. And [d] our father ſaid, Go again, and buy us a little food. 26.
And we ſaid, We cannot go down: if our youngeſt brother be with us, then will we go down; for we may not ſee the man's face, except our youngeſt brother be with us. 27. And thy ſervant my father ſaid unto us, Ye know that [e] my wife bare me two ſons. 28. And the one went out from me, and I ſaid, [f] Surely he is torn in pieces; and I ſaw him not ſince. 29. And if ye take this alſo from me, and [g] miſchief befal him, ye ſhall bring down my grey hairs with ſorrow to the grave. 30.
Now therefore when I come to thy ſervant my father, and the lad be not with us; (ſeeing [h] that his life is bound up in † the lad's life) 31. It ſhall come to paſs, when he ſeeth that the lad is not with us, that he will die: and thy ſervants ſhall bring down the grey hairs of thy ſervant our father with ſorrow to the grave. 32. For thy ſervant became ſurety for the lad unto my father, ſaying, [i] If I bring him not unto thee, then I ſhall bare the blame to my father for ever. 33. Now therefore, I pray thee, let thy ſervant abide inſtead of the lad, a bondman to my lord; and let the lad go up with his brethren. 34. For how ſhall I go up to my father, and the lad be not with me? leſt peradventure I ſee the evil that ſhall † come on my father.

[b] Chap. xlii. 15.
[c] Chap. xliii. 3, 5.
[d] Chap. xliii. 2.
[e] Chap. xlvi. 19.
[f] Chap. xxxvii. 33.
[g] Chap. xlii. 38.
[h] 1 Sam. xviii. 1.
† Heb. His.
[i] Chap. xliii. 9.
† Heb. Find my father.

v. 18—34. Bitter was the diſtreſs that now diſtracted their minds. What ſhall they ſay? To confeſs the charge, is to acknowledge guilt they did not believe; to deny it, were ſtill more dangerous, as a reflection on the governor's juſtice. In this dilemma, Judah, as moſt engaged, with rhetoric, ſuch as diſtreſs and nature taught, addreſſes with humbleſt ſubmiſſion, the ſuppoſed offended ruler; and pleads with arguments, that I doubt not, filled Joſeph's boſom with deeper agitation, than even Judah felt. Benjamin's youth, the only ſon of a beloved mother; another brother he had, but dead; the aged father's life is bound up in the darling boy; it was at his command he was brought with reluctance; extorted from his father: ſhould they return without him, death would inſtantly ſeize the good old man, and they be acceſſary to it: himſelf had become ſurety for the lad, and begs now to exchange; himſelf the bondman, if Benjamin might be free. The thought of his father's ſorrow recurs upon him; he can never think of ſeeing his face without the lad: thus caſts himſelf upon the mercy of the judge, and waits with terrible ſuſpenſe to receive that ſentence, on which the happineſs or miſery of Jacob's family depended. Note, (1.) Every good child will make his parent's comfort one great buſineſs of his life. (2.) When we addreſs a ruler, title and honour are his due. (3.) Lies may be told, as this of Joſeph's death, till the maker of them believes them true.

CHAP. XLV.

It is pity this chapter and that foregoing ſhould be parted. Here is, 1. Joſeph's diſcovery of himſelf to his brethren, and his diſcourſe with them upon that occaſion, ver. 1—15. 2. The orders Pharaoh hereupon gave to fetch Jacob and his family down to Egypt, and Joſeph's diſpatch of his brethren accordingly to his father with thoſe orders, ver. 16—24. 3. The joyful tidings of this brought to Jacob, ver. 25—28.

1706.

1. THEN Joſeph could not refrain himſelf before all them that ſtood by him; and he cried, Cauſe every man to go out from me: and there ſtood no man with him, while Joſeph made himſelf known unto his brethren. 2. And he † wept aloud: and the Egyptians and the houſe of Pharaoh heard. 3. And Joſeph ſaid unto his brethren, [a] I am Joſeph; Doth my father yet live? and his brethren could not anſwer him;
for they were ‡ troubled at his preſence. 4. And Joſeph ſaid unto his brethren, Come near to me, I pray you;
and they came near; and he ſaid, I am Joſeph your brother, [b] whom ye ſold into Egypt. 5. Now therefore be not grieved ‖, nor angry with yourſelves, that ye ſold me hither: for [c] God did ſend me before you, to preſerve life. 6. For theſe two years hath the famine been in the land: and yet there are five years in the which there ſhall neither be earing nor harveſt. 7. And God ſent me before you, † to preſerve you a poſterity in the earth, and to ſave your lives by a great deliverance. 8. So now it was not you that ſent me hither, but God: and he hath made me [d] a father to Pharaoh, and lord of all his houſe, and a ruler throughout all the land of Egypt. 9. Haſte you and go up to my father, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith thy ſon Joſeph, God hath made me lord of all Egypt; come down unto me, tarry not. 10. And [e] thou ſhalt dwell in the land of Goſhen, and thou ſhalt be near unto me, thou, and thy children, and thy children's children, and thy flocks, and thy herds, and all that thou haſt. 11. And there will I nouriſh thee, (for yet there are five years of famine) leſt thou and thy houſhold, and all that thou haſt, come to poverty. 12. And behold, your eyes ſee, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin, that it is my mouth that ſpeaketh unto you. 13. And you ſhall tell my father of all my glory in Egypt, and of all that you have ſeen; and ye ſhall haſte, and [f] bring down my father hither. 14. And he fell upon his brother Benjamin's neck, and wept; and Benjamin wept upon his neck. 15. Moreover, he kiſſed all his brethren, and wept upon them: and after that, his brethren talked with him.

† Heb. Gave forth his voice in weeping.
[a] Acts vii. 13.
‡ Or terrified.
[b] Chap. xxxvii. 28.
‖ Heb. Neither let there be anger in your eyes.
[c] Chap. l. 20. Pſal. cv. 16, 17. See 2 Sam. xvi 10. Acts iv. 24.
† Heb. To put for you a remnant.
[d] Chap. xli. 45.
[e] Chap. xlvii. 1.
[f] Acts vii. 14.

v. 1—15. An addreſs ſo affecting, could not fail of moving any heart, not a ſtranger to the feelings of humanity; and how much more Joſeph's, ſo deeply intereſted in every argument, and pierced with every word of Judah's expreſſive anguiſh. The ſervants inſtantly diſmiſſed, a burſt of tears, no longer to be reſtrained, gives vent to the overflowing tenderneſs of his ſoul. His brethren, who ſtood in tremulous ſuſpenſe of inſtant doom, are aſtoniſhed at the ſight; and how, beyond all imagination ſurprized, when words begin to find a paſſage, and he cries, I am Joſeph—Is my father yet alive? Confounded, they are dumb; guilt troubles them: but oh! how far is Joſeph's heart from anger or revenge. He draws then near; comforts, inſtead of reflecting on them; bids them ſee God's hand bringing good out of their evil; and haſtens them to carry his dear and aged father the ſtrange tidings, and bring him down, to ſpend in plenty, in the land of Goſhen, the remaining years of famine. With mutual kiſſes and embraces, he ſeals the happy meeting, whilſt tears of joy bedew each others neck, and teſtify firm reconciliation. Reader, thy heart is unfeeling, if thy tears mingle not with theirs. Note, (1.) We have here a beautiful emblem of God's compaſſions towards the ſinful ſons of men. (2.) An aſtoniſhing diſplay of his providence! how glorious and how merciful the diſpenſation! Bleſſed are they that truſt in him. (3.) It is not only the duty, but ſhould be the delight of children to ſupport their parents in their old age. (4.) As Joſeph ſays, come down to me, Jeſus ſaith, come up to me; and Pharaoh's kingdom cannot provide ſuch a dwelling, as thoſe manſions he hath prepared for us, in our father's houſe in heaven.

16. ¶ And the fame thereof was heard in Pharaoh's houſe, ſaying, Joſeph's brethren are come: and it † pleaſed Pharaoh well, and his ſervants. 17. And Pharoah ſaid unto Joſeph, Say unto thy brethren, This do ye;
lade your beaſts, and go, get you unto the land of Canaan, 18. And take your father, and your houſeholds, and come unto me: and I will give you the good of the land of Egypt, and ye ſhall eat the [g] fat of the land. 19. Now thou art commanded, this do ye: take you waggons out of the land of Egypt

† Heb. Was good in the eyes of Pharaoh.
[g] Chap. xxvii. 28.

for your little ones, and for your wives, and bring your father, and come. 20. Alſo † regard not your ſtuff: for the good of all the land of Egypt is yours. 21. And the children of Iſrael did ſo; and Joſeph gave them waggons, according to the ‡ commandment of Pharaoh, and gave them proviſion for the way. 22. To all of them he gave each man changes of raiment: but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of ſilver, and five changes of raiment. 23. And to his father he ſent after this manner; ten aſſes ‖ laden with the good things of Egypt, and ten ſhe-aſſes laden with corn and bread and meat for his father by the way. 24. So he ſent his brethren away, and they departed: and he ſaid unto them, See that ye fall not out by the way.

† Heb. Let not your eye ſpare, &c.
‡ Heb. Mouth.
‖ Heb. Carrying.

v. 16—24. We have here, 1. Joſeph in haſte to have his father with him; and Pharaoh well pleaſed with the event, orders his brethren all neceſſaries for their journey, and promiſes them the beſt of the land, ſo that they need not regard their ſtuff which they could not remove from Canaan; Egypt had enough for them. Note, Heaven is before us, the ſtuff of the world ſhould be little in our eyes; we ſhall there have enough and to ſpare.

2. Joſeph's diſmiſſion of them loaded with preſents, attended with carriages for their removal; to his father he ſends a particular cargo of the beſt things of the land, to comfort him by the way, and as an earneſt of the greater gifts he had in ſtore for him; and he adds one needful admonition, that they fall not out by the way. They might be apt, after what had paſſed, to upbraid one another for their wickedneſs: but as he had forgiven them, and was reconciled, they muſt forgive and love one another. Note, (1.) In our way to heaven, we ſhould carefully avoid diſputes; we are brethren. (2.) To forgive, becomes thoſe who are forgiven. (3.) We ſhall give the Egyptians, the men of this world, a bad opinion of our religion, if we quarrel among ourſelves.

25. ¶ And they went up out of Egypt, and came into the land of Canaan unto Jacob their father, 26. And told him, ſaying, Joſeph is yet alive, and he is governor over all the land of Egypt. And † Jacob's heart fainted, for he [h] believed them not. 27. And they told him all the words of Joſeph, which he had ſaid unto them; and when he ſaw the waggons which Joſeph had ſent to carry him, the ſpirit of Jacob their father revived. 28. And Iſrael ſaid, It is enough; Joſeph my ſon is yet alive: I will go and ſee him before I die.

[h] Job xxix. 24. Pſal. cxxvi. 1. Luke xxiv. 41.
† Heb. His.

v. 25—28. With eager haſte, they fly to their father with this tranſporting meſſage, Joſeph is yet alive. Overcome with the tranſport, Jacob's heart faints, and trembling in hope, ſuſpects it too good news to be true. But when the evidence is undoubted, and the waggons come in view, his ſpirit revives, exultation and joy burſt from his aged heart, and ſince Joſeph is alive, it is enough; this is the ſummit of his worldly bliſs, he will go and ſee him before he dies. Note, (1.) The waggons of death are coming to remove us to Jeſus, let not our trembling hearts faint, but revive at their approach. (2.) A ſight of their gracious children is among the greateſt comforts an aged parent knows. (3.) To keep death in our view, is always uſeful; for old men, it is doubly needful; it cannot be long before they die.

CHAP. XLVI.

Jacob is here removing to Egypt in his old age, forced thither by a famine, and invited thither by a ſon. 1. God ſends him thither, ver. 1—4. 2. All his family goes with him, ver. 5—27. 3. Joſeph bids him welcome, ver. 28—34.

1. AND Iſrael took his journey with all that he had, and came to Beer-ſheba, and offered ſacrifices [a] unto the God of his father Iſaac. 2. And God ſpake unto Iſrael in the viſions of the night, and ſaid, Jacob, Jacob: And he ſaid, Here am I. 3. And he ſaid, I am God, the God of thy father: fear not to go down into Egypt, for I will there make of thee a great nation. 4. I will go down with thee into Egypt; and I will alſo ſurely bring thee up again: and [b] Joſeph ſhall put his hand upon thine eyes.

[a] Chap. xxvi. 24, 25. & xxviii. 10.
[b] Chap. l. 1.

v. 1—4. We have here Jacob removing, bag and baggage, to Egypt, with ſome ſingular events in the way.

1. His ſolemn ſacrifice offered at Beer-ſheba. It was a place where his fathers had enjoyed ſweet communion with God; and he hoped there to enjoy the preſence of the God of his fathers. With thankfulneſs, thus he acknowledges the paſt, and particularly his late mercies, and begged the continuance of his bleſſing on his removal. Note, (1.) We muſt not neglect to worſhip God on a journey: as we need then peculiarly his care, we have a new call to intreat his protection. (2.) Thanks for paſt mercies, are an earneſt of greater in ſtore for us.

2. God graciouſly meets him there. Note, If our communion with God be interrupted, we muſt lay it to the door of our ſloth and negligence. He calls him by his name, with the moſt gracious condeſcenſion, and ſpeaks to him in terms of heart-reviving confidence. He is his covenant God, and will take care of him. 1. He ſilences his fears. Many fears muſt needs attend ſuch a change: fear for himſelf, an old man, and little able to bear the journey; fear for his family, leaſt they ſhould be ſo well pleaſed with Egypt, as to forget Canaan; or remembring Abraham's viſion, fearing this land of plenty may become a houſe of bondage. But one word from God quiets all. Note, If God ſays, fear not, we may well be at reſt, whatever our difficulties are. 2. He encourages him with promiſes. His family ſhall increaſe, God's preſence ſhall be with him, and he will ſurely bring him back again, his bones ſhall lie in Canaan, his ſeed return to this land of their poſſeſſion, and Joſeph ſhall cloſe his dying eyes. Note, (1.) It is an unſpeakable comfort to a ſervant of Jeſus going down to the grave, to have his promiſes to preſerve him there, and bring him up from thence in a reſurrection day. (2.) It is pleaſing even in death, when filial piety is at hand, to pay the laſt kind office to the beloved departing parent. It is a wiſh as natural as innocent, ille meos oculos comprimat, Let him cloſe my dying eyes.

5. And [c] Jacob roſe up from Beer-ſheba: and the ſons of Iſrael carried Jacob their father, and their little ones, and their wives, in the waggons which Pharaoh had ſent to carry him. 6. And they took their cattle and their goods which they had gotten in the land of Canaan, and came into Egypt, [d] Jacob, and all his ſeed with him. 7. His ſons, and his ſon's ſons with him, his daughters, and his ſon's daughters, and all his ſeed brought he with him into Egypt. 8. ¶ And [e] theſe are the names of the children of Iſrael, which came into Egypt, Jacob and his ſons: [f] Reuben, Jacob's firſt-born. 9. And the ſons of Reuben; Hanoch, and Phallu, and Hezron, and Carmi. 10. ¶ And [g] the ſons of Simeon; Jemuel, and Jamin, and Ohad, and Jachin, and Zohar, and Shaul the ſon of a Canaanitiſh woman. 11. ¶ And the ſons of [h] Levi; Gerſhon, Kohath, and Merari. 12. ¶ And the ſons of [i] Judah; [k] Er, and Onan, and Shelah, and Pharez, and Zerah: but Er, and Onan died in the land of Canaan. And [l] the ſons of Pharez, were Hezron and Hamul. 13. ¶ And [m] the ſons of Iſſachar; Tola, and † Phuvah, and Job, and Shimron. 14. ¶ And the ſons of Zebulun, Sered, and Elon, and Jahleel. 15. Theſe be the ſons of Leah, which ſhe bare unto Jacob in Padan-aram, with his daughter Dinah: all the ſouls of his ſons and his daughters, were thirty and three. 16. ¶ And the ſons of Gad; [n] Ziphion, and Haggai, Shuni, and † Ezbon, Eri, and Arodi, and Areli. 17. ¶ And [o] the ſons of Aſher; Jimnah, and Iſhuah, and Iſui, and Beriah, and Serah their ſiſter: And the ſons of Beriah; Heber, and Malchiel. 18. [p] Theſe are the ſons of Zilpah, [q] whom Laban gave to Leah his daughter: and theſe ſhe bare unto Jacob, even ſixteen ſouls. 19. The ſons of Rachel [r] Jacob's wife; Joſeph, and Benjamin. 20. And unto Joſeph in the land of Egypt were born Manaſſeh and Ephraim, [s] which Aſenath the daughter of Poti-pherah † prieſt of On bare unto him. 21. ¶ And [t] the ſons of Benjamin were Belah, and Becher, and Aſhbel, Gerah, and Naaman, [u] Ehi, and Roſh, [x] Muppim, and Huppim, and Ard. 22. Theſe are the ſons of Rachel, which were born to Jacob: all the ſouls were fourteen. 23. ¶ And [y] the ſons of Dan; † Huſhim. 24. ¶ And [z] the ſons of Naphtali; Jahzeel, and Guni, and Jezer, and Shillem. 25. [a] Theſe are the ſons of Bilhah, [b] which Laban gave unto Rachel his daughter, and ſhe bare theſe unto Jacob: all the ſouls were ſeven. 26. [c] All the ſouls that came with Jacob into Egypt, which came out of his ‡ loins, beſides Jacob's ſon's wives, all the ſouls were threeſcore and ſix; 27. And the ſons of Joſeph which were born him in Egypt, were two ſouls: [d] all the ſouls of the houſe of Jacob, which came into Egypt, were threeſcore and ten.

[c] Acts vii. 15.
[d] Joſh. xxiv. 4. Pſal. cv. 23. Iſa. lii. 4.
[e] Exod. i. 1. & vi. 14.
[f] Numb. xxvi. 5. 1 Chron. v. 1.
[g] Exod. vi. 15. 1 Chron. iv. 24.
[h] 1 Chron. vi. 1, 16.
[i] 1 Chron. ii. 3. & iv. 21.
[k] Chap. xxxviii. 3, 7, 10, 29, 30.
[l] 1 Chron. ii. 5.
[m] 1 Chron. vii. 1.
† Or Puah and Jaſhub.
[n] Numb. xxvi. 15.
† Or Ozni.
[o] 1 Chron. vii. 30.
[p] Chap. xxx. 10.
[q] Chap. xxix. 24.
[r] Chap. xliv. 27.
[s] Chap. xli. 50.
† Or prince.
[t] 1 Chron. vii. 6. & viii. 1.
[u] Numb. xxvi. 38, 39. Ahiram.
[x] Numb. xxvi. 39. Shupham. 1 Chron. vii. 12. Shuppim.
[y] 1 Chron. vii. 12.
† Or Shuham. Numb. xxvi. 42.
[z] 1 Chron. vii. 13.
[a] Chap. xxx. 5.
[b] Chap. xxix. 29.
[c] Exod. i. 5.
‡ Heb. Thigh.
[d] Deut. x. 22. See Acts vii. 4.

v. 5—27.

Before Chriſt 1706.

v. 5—27. Jacob and his family proceed on their journey. They amount to ſixty-ſix, beſides himſelf, his ſon Joſeph, and his children Ephraim and Manaſſeh, which make up ſeventy: a ſmall increaſe conſidering the promiſe, during the ſpace of 215 years, but now they quickly become a great multitude. Note, After we have met God, and obtained his bleſſing, we may well go on our way rejoicing.

28. ¶ And he ſent Judah before him unto Joſeph, to direct his face unto Goſhen; and they came into the land of Goſhen. 29. And Joſeph made ready his chariot, and went up to meet Iſrael his father, to Goſhen; and preſented himſelf unto him: and he fell on his neck, and wept on his neck a good while. 30. And Iſrael ſaid unto Joſeph, [e] Now let me die, ſince I have ſeen thy face, becauſe thou art yet alive. 31. And Joſeph ſaid unto his brethren, and unto his father's houſe, I will go up, and ſhew Pharaoh, and ſay unto him, My brethren, and my father's houſe, which were in the land of Canaan, are come unto me: 32. And the men are ſhepherds, for † their trade hath been to feed cattle; and they have brought their flocks and their herds, and all that they have. 33. And it ſhall come to paſs when Pharaoh ſhall call you, and [f] ſhall ſay, What is your occupation? 34. That ye ſhall ſay, Thy ſervant's trade hath been about cattle, from our youth even until now, both we and alſo our fathers: that ye may dwell in the land of Goſhen; for every ſhepherd [g] is an abomination unto the Egyptians.

[e] Luke ii. 29.

† Heb. They are men of cattle.

[f] Chap. xlvii. 2, 3.

[g] Chap. xliii. 32. Exod. viii. 26.

28—34. We have here, 1. The happy meeting of Jacob and Joſeph. Judah having informed him of his father's arrival, Joſeph's chariot is made ready, and he goes to meet him. Note, When a man's ſtation entitles him to it, a fine equipage is as innocent for him, as a waggon for his inferior. Joſeph's filial reverence and love equal Jacob's exultation: they embrace, and weep for joy, whilſt now the aged Patriarch thinks he hath lived enough, ſince he hath ſeen this happy day, and is content to die. Note, (1.) However the ſon may be advanced, it is his duty to reverence his parents, and not to grow above his own houſe. (2.) No joys here are without allay: when we embrace in heaven, the joy being perfect, every tear will be wiped from our eyes. (3.) That is a happy man, who can ſay with comfort, When God pleaſes, let me die.

2. His inſtructions how to behave before Pharaoh. He wiſhed them to ſettle near Canaan, becauſe they muſt return thither again; he deſires not to introduce them at court, leaſt they be infected with the idols of Egypt, or expoſed to the envy of the natives: beſides that he would keep them united in a family, and employed in their own profeſſion. Goſhen, in all reſpects, ſuited this deſign; and as the Egyptians hated ſhepherds, he bids them profeſs their occupation, that the land of Goſhen might more readily be allotted them. Note, (1.) High places are ſlippery; we ſhould rather keep at diſtance from advancement, than court it. (2.) An honeſt calling is no diſparagement to ourſelves or relations.

CHAP. XLVII.

In this chapter we have inſtances, 1. Of Joſeph's kindneſs and affection to his relations, preſenting his brethren firſt, and then his father to Pharaoh, ver. 1—10. ſettling them in Goſhen, and providing for them there, ver. 11, 12. paying his reſpects to his father when he ſent for him, ver. 27—31. 2. Of Joſeph's juſtice between prince and people, ver. 13—26.

1. THEN Joſeph came and told Pharaoh, and ſaid, My father and my brethren, and their flocks, and their herds, and all that they have, are come out of the land of Canaan; and behold, they are in [a] the land of Goſhen. 2. And he took ſome of his brethren, even five men, and preſented them unto Pharaoh. 3. And Pharaoh ſaid unto his brethren, What is your occupation? And they ſaid unto Pharaoh, [b] Thy ſervants are ſhepherds, both we and alſo our fathers. 4. They ſaid moreover unto Pharaoh, For to ſojourn in the land are we come: for thy ſervants have no paſture for their flocks, for the famine is ſore in the land of Canaan: now therefore, we pray thee, let thy ſervants dwell in the land of Goſhen. 5. And Pharaoh ſpake unto Joſeph, ſaying, Thy father and thy brethren are come unto thee. 6. The land of Egypt is before thee; in the beſt of the land make thy father and brethren to dwell, in the land of Goſhen let them dwell: and if thou knoweſt any man of activity amongſt them, then make them rulers over my cattle. 7. And Joſeph brought in Jacob his father, and ſet him before Pharaoh; and Jacob bleſſed Pharaoh. 8. And Pharaoh ſaid unto Jacob, † How old art thou? 9. And Jacob ſaid unto Pharaoh, [c] The days of the years of my pilgrimage are an hundred and thirty years: few and evil have the days of the years of my life been, and have not attained unto the days of the years of the life of my fathers in the days of their pilgrimage. 10. And Jacob bleſſed Pharaoh, and went out from before Pharaoh.

[a] Chap. xlv. 10.

[b] Chap. xlvi. 34.

Before Chriſt 1706.

† Heb. How many are the days of the years of thy life?

[c] Hebr. xi. 9, 13.

v. 1—10. Jacob's family being arrived, Joſeph acquaints Pharaoh. Whereupon,

1. We have their introduction to Pharaoh. Joſeph was not like many a great man now-a-days, aſhamed of his poor relations; he calls them brethren, and preſents them at court. Note, Chriſt is not aſhamed of the meaneſt of his brethren, nor will refuſe to preſent them before the throne of God, with exceeding great joy.

2. Pharaoh's kind reception of them. He enquires their occupation; and having received their anſwer, and heard the deſign of their coming, he appoints them the land of Goſhen for their flocks, and bids Joſeph prefer any man among them who was active over the royal herds. Note, (1.) For our Jeſus ſake, we ſhall find favour in the preſence of the heavenly king. (2.) Every member of the commonwealth, muſt by his occupation contribute to its welfare: no idle vagrants, no drones ſhould live in the hive. (3.) Activity and ingenuity in our profeſſion, is the way to preferment in it.

3. The particular regard paid to old Jacob. Pharaoh kindly enquires after his age, for hoary locks engage reſpect. Jacob replies, v. 9. with the ſubmiſſion of an inferior, and with the piety of a patriarch bleſſes Pharaoh. Note, (1.) Every Chriſtian counts life his pilgrimage. (2.) The longeſt age is but a few days compared with eternity, and the happieſt life full of evil, to which man now is born, as the ſparks fly upward. (3.) That our days are conſiderably ſhortned; they are now, compared with thoſe of old, but a ſpan long. (4.) An old man's benediction is to be regarded; and the prayers of aged miniſters and ſaints much to be valued.

11. ¶ And Joſeph placed his father and his brethren, and gave them a poſſeſſion in the land of Egypt, in the beſt of the land, [d] in the land of Rameſes, as Pharaoh had commanded. 12. And Joſeph nouriſhed his father and his brethren, and all his father's houſhold with bread, ‡ ‖ according to their families.

[d] Exod. i. 11. & xii. 37.

‡ Or as a little child that is nouriſhed.

‖ Heb. According to the little ones.

v. 11—12. By Joſeph's care, they are ſettled in the beſt of the land, and ſupplied abundantly with every neceſſary. Bleſſed be God for that better Jeſus, who ſatisfies the ſouls of his people with plenteouſneſs.

13. ¶ And there was no bread in the land: for the famine was very ſore, ſo that the land of Egypt and all the land of Canaan fainted by reaſon of the famine. 14. And Joſeph gathered up all the money that was found in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, for the corn which they bought: and Joſeph brought the money into Pharaoh's houſe. 15. And when money failed in the land of Egypt, and in the land of Canaan, all the Egyptians came unto Joſeph, and ſaid, Give us bread: for why ſhould we die in thy preſence? for the money faileth. 16. And Joſeph ſaid, Give your cattle; and I will give you for your cattle, if money fail. 17. And they brought their cattle unto Joſeph: And Joſeph gave them bread in exchange for horſes, and for the flocks, and for the cattle of the herds, and for the aſſes; and he † fed them with bread, for all their cattle, for that year. 18. When that year was ended, they came unto him the ſecond year, and ſaid unto him, We will not hide it from my lord, how that our money is ſpent, my lord alſo hath our herds of cattle: there is not ought left in the ſight of my lord, but our bodies and our lands. 19. Wherefore ſhall we die before thine eyes, both we and our land? buy us and our land for bread, and we and our land will be ſervants unto Pharaoh: and give us ſeed that we may live and not die, that the land be not deſolate. 20. And Joſeph bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for the Egyptians ſold every man his field, becauſe the famine prevailed over them: ſo the land became Pharaoh's. 21. And as for the people, he removed them to cities from one end of the borders of Egypt, even to the other end thereof. 22. [e] Only the land of the † priests

1702.

† Heb. Led them.

1701.

[e] Ezra vii. 24.

† Or princes,

Before Chriſt 1701.

prieſts bought he not: for the prieſts had a portion aſſigned them of Pharaoh, and did eat their portion which Pharaoh gave them: wherefore they ſold not their lands. 23. Then Joſeph ſaid unto the people, Behold, I have bought you this day, and your land for Pharaoh: lo here is ſeed for you, and ye ſhall ſow the land. 24. And it ſhall come to paſs in the increaſe, that you ſhall give the fifth part unto Pharaoh, and four parts ſhall be your own for ſeed of the field, and for your food, and for them of your houſholds, and for food for your little ones. 25. And they ſaid, Thou haſt ſaved our lives: let us find grace in the ſight of my lord, and we will be Pharaoh's ſervants. 26. And Joſeph made it a law over the land of Egypt unto this day, that Pharaoh ſhould have the fifth part; except the land of the † prieſts only, which became not Pharaoh's.

† Or princes.

v. 13—16. Buſineſs muſt interrupt the pleaſing intercourſe of friends: now Jacob is ſettled, Joſeph returns to his employment. The famine was ſevere; the years of plenty had been neglected by the improvident people, and now they are ready to die for want: their money, their ſtock, their land, are firſt parted with; and rather than periſh, they offer themſelves for meat: better live ſervants, they thought, than die of famine. Joſeph here diſplayed his prudence and goodneſs; he makes a compromiſe with them, as advantageous to his maſter as to the people: he removes them as a mark of his right, but gives them lands and corn to ſow, on condition of paying a fifth to Pharaoh and his ſucceſſors for ever. The prieſts lands only are excepted, and preſerved to them entire. Learn, (1.) How ſuddenly all our worldly comforts may leave us. If God with-holds but the dew of heaven from us, all we poſſeſs could not keep us from ſtarving. (2.) Behold in Joſeph the character of a wiſe and honeſt miniſter, ſupporting the prerogative of the king, whilſt he maintained the liberty and property of the ſubject. (3.) To defraud the prieſthood, or render it deſpicable by want, was regarded even by the heathens as impious. Let thoſe remember, who poſſeſs the revenues of churches, where the miniſter ſcarce eats bread from the altar which he ſerves, and they who pay a ſcandalous pittance for the ſervice, whilſt themſelves live on the fleeces of the ſheep they never feed, that even the Egyptian Pharaoh ſhall riſe up in judgment to condemn them.

27. ¶ And Iſrael dwelt in the land of Egypt in the country of Goſhen; and they had poſſeſſions therein, and grew and multiplied exceedingly. 28. And Jacob lived in the land of Egypt ſeventeen years: ſo † the whole age of Jacob was an hundred forty and ſeven years. 29. And the time drew nigh that Iſrael muſt die: and he called his ſon Joſeph, and ſaid unto him, If now I have found grace in thy ſight, [f] put, I pray thee, thy hand under my thigh, and deal kindly and truly with me; [g] bury me not, I pray thee, in Egypt. 30. But I will lie with my fathers, and thou ſhalt carry me out of Egypt, and [h] bury me in their burying-place. And he ſaid, I will do as thou haſt ſaid. 31. And he ſaid, Swear unto me: And he ſware unto him. And [i] Iſrael bowed himſelf upon the bed's-head.

1689.

† Heb. The days of the years of his life.

[f] Chap. xxiv. 2.

[g] Chap. l. 25.

[h] Chap. xlix. 29.

[i] Chap. xlviii. 2. 1 Kings i. 47. Hebr. xi. 21.

v. 27—31. Whilſt others pined with want, Jacob and his family lived in plenty. His old age paſſed on as peaceful and ſerene, as his former days had been tempeſtuous. Note, It is a peculiar bleſſing to age, to have eaſe and reſt, becauſe it is moſt unfit for toil and labour. And now the time was come when Iſrael muſt die, this is the certain end of the longeſt life: happy they who ſee the approaches of death, and prepare for it accordingly. One great concern now engaged the patriarch's heart, and that was the diſpoſal of his corpſe. He deſires to lie in the land of promiſe, as a confirmation to his poſterity of their poſſeſſion of it, and as a token of his own hope in that better reſt which remained for the people of God. Joſeph at his deſire therefore viſits him, and ſwears to fulfil this his dying command; then Iſrael is ſatisfied, and bows in acknowledgment of the mercy. Note, When we can with confidence truſt the divine promiſe, and reſt on the divine oath, we ſhall with pleaſure ſay, Now let thy ſervant depart in peace.

CHAP. XLVIII.

In this chapter dying Iſrael takes leave of his grand-children by Joſeph. 1. Joſeph hearing of his father's ſickneſs, goes to viſit him, and takes his two ſons with him, ver. 1, 2. 2. Jacob ſolemnly adopts them, ver. 3—7. 3. He bleſſeth them, ver. 8—16. 4. He explains and juſtifies the croſſing of his hands in bleſſing them, ver. 17—20. 5. He leaves a particular legacy to Joſeph, ver. 21, 22.

Before Chriſt 1689.

1. AND it came to paſs after theſe things, that one told Joſeph, Behold, thy father is ſick; and he took with him his two ſons, Manaſſeh and Ephraim. 2. And one told Jacob, and ſaid, Behold, thy ſon Joſeph cometh unto thee: and Iſrael ſtrengthned himſelf, and ſat upon the bed. 3. And Jacob ſaid unto Joſeph, God Almighty appeared unto me at [a] Luz in the land of Canaan, and bleſſed me, 4. And ſaid unto me, Behold, I will make thee fruitful, and multiply thee, and I will make of thee a multitude of people, and will give this land to thy ſeed after thee, for an everlaſting poſſeſſion. 5. ¶ And now [b] thy two ſons, Ephraim and Manaſſeh, which were born unto thee in the land of Egypt, before I came unto thee into Egypt, are mine: as Reuben and Simeon, they ſhall be mine. 6. And thy iſſue which thou begetteſt after them, ſhall be thine, and ſhall be called after the name of their brethren in their inheritance. 7. And as for me, when I came from Padan, [c] Rachel died by me in the land of Canaan, in the way, when yet there was but a little way to come unto Ephrath: and I buried her there in the way of Ephrath, the ſame is Beth-lehem.

[a] Chap. xxviii. 13. & xxxv. 6.

[b] Chap. xli. 50. & xlvi. 20. Joſh. xiii. 7. & xiv. 4.

[c] Chap. xxxv. 19.

v. 1—7. Joſeph no ſooner hears of Jacob's illneſs, than he ſets out to viſit him, with his two ſons; and he hoped his children might receive inſtruction that would be the more affecting and abiding, as from the dying lips of the holy patriarch. Note, As it is our duty to viſit the ſick, ſo it is a peculiar mercy to be preſent at the departure of dying ſaints; as it is fabled of the dying ſwan, they often then ſing ſweeteſt, and leave behind them a deep remembrance of their words. We have here,

1. Jacob's reception of Joſeph and his children: he made his laſt effort to ariſe and welcome him; his ſons are introduced to him, and he ſolemnly adopts them as his own: they ſhall, as the heads of two tribes, ſhare with his other ſons; and leaſt the glare of the world's pomp might ſeem to make the favour deſpicable, he recites the promiſe God had made him, to encourage them, notwithſtanding preſent appearances, to prefer the hope of Iſrael to the honours of Egypt. Note, They who, with dependance on God's promiſes, renounce the world, to ſuffer reproach and affliction with the people of God, will find in the end, the wiſdom of their choice. If Joſeph hath other ſons, they are to fall into their brethren's lot. Note, We cannot be too exact in our wills, to prevent diſputes when we are dead.

2. His mention of Joſeph's beloved mother. True lovers never forget: it is Jacob's comfort now, he ſhall meet her in glory, whom he loſt in Canaan.

8. And Iſrael beheld Joſeph's ſons, and ſaid, Who are theſe? 9. And Joſeph ſaid unto his father, They are my ſons, whom God hath given me in this place: And he ſaid, Bring them, I pray thee, unto me, and I will bleſs them. 10. (Now [d] the eyes of Iſrael were † dim for age, ſo that he could not ſee:) And he brought them near unto him; and he kiſſed them, and embraced them. 11. And Iſrael ſaid unto Joſeph, I had not thought to ſee thy face: and lo, God hath ſhewed me alſo thy ſeed. 12. And Joſeph brought them out from between his knees, and he bowed himſelf with his face to the earth. 13. And Joſeph took them both, Ephraim in his right hand towards Iſrael's left-hand, and Manaſſeh in his left hand towards Iſrael's right-hand, and brought them near unto him. 14. And Iſrael ſtretched out his right-hand, and laid it upon Ephraim's head, who was the younger, and his left-hand upon Manaſſeh's head: guiding his hands wittingly; for Manaſſeh was the firſt-born. 15. ¶ And [e] he bleſſed Joſeph, and ſaid, God, [f] before whom my fathers Abraham and Iſaac did walk, the God which fed me all my life long unto this day, 16. The angel [g] which redeemed me from all evil, bleſs the lads; and let my name be named on them, and the name of my fathers Abraham and Iſaac, and let them † grow into a multitude in the midſt of the earth. 17. And when Joſeph ſaw that his father laid his right-hand upon the head of Ephraim, it diſpleaſed him: and he held up his father's hand to remove it from Ephraim's head unto Manaſſeh's head. 18. And Joſeph ſaid unto his father, Not ſo, my father: for this is the firſt-born; put thy right-hand upon his head. 19. And his father refuſed, and ſaid, I know it, my ſon, I know it; he alſo ſhall become a people, and he alſo ſhall be great, but truly his [h] younger brother ſhall be greater than he, and his

[d] Chap. xxvii. 1. † Heb. Heavy.

[e] Hebr. xi. 21.

[f] Chap. xvii. 1. & xxiv. 40.

[g] Chap. xxviii. 15. & xxxi. 11, 13. † Heb. As fiſhes do increaſe. See Numb. xxvi. 34, 37.

[h] Numb. i. 33, 35. & ii. 19, 21. Deut. xxxiii. 17. Rev. vii. 6, 8.

Before Chriſt 1689.

ſeed ſhall become a † multitude of nations. 20. And he bleſſed them that day, ſaying, [i] In thee ſhall Iſrael bleſs, ſaying, God make thee as Ephraim, and as Manaſſeh: and he ſet Ephraim before Manaſſeh. 21. And Iſrael ſaid unto Joſeph, Behold, I die; but God ſhall be with you, and bring you again unto the land of your fathers. 22. Moreover, [k] I have given to thee one portion above thy brethren, which I took out of the hand of [l] the Amorite with my ſword and with my bow.

† Heb. Fulneſs.
[i] Ruth iv. 11, 12.
[k] Joſh. xxiv. 32. John iv. 5.
[l] Chap. xv. 16. & xxxiv. 22.

8—22. The good old Iſrael was ſinking faſt under the infirmities of age, the eyes of his body were dim, but the eyes of his faith bright and piercing. The ſons of Joſeph are brought near to him, and they are embraced with tendereſt affection, and deep acknowledgment of God's goodneſs, v. 11. Note, God often exceeds all his people's hopes, and therefore deſerves all their praiſes. We have here,

1. The bleſſing pronounced upon them. That God, whoſe tender mercies he and his fathers had experienced, who had delivered them out of every affliction, and before whom they had walked, ſhould bleſs the lads, and make them, according to the covenant of promiſe, a great people. Note, (1.) It becomes us to bear teſtimony for God in a dying hour, for the encouragement of others, as well as to teſtify our thankful acknowledgment to him. (2.) They who are redeemed from the evil of ſin, have no evil to fear in death. (3.) If we deſire the bleſſing of our pious parents upon us, we muſt be careful to follow their ſteps.

2. The croſſing of Jacob's hands. Joſeph would have the right hand on the eldeſt, but ſuch was not the order of bleſſing, Ephraim ſhall excel Manaſſeh in greatneſs. Note, (1.) In providence and grace, God beſtows according to the purpoſes of his own will. As we have no right to any of his gifts, he may ſurely do what he will with his own. (2.) Though God may invert the order of birthright, we may not.

3. The comfortable parting with Joſeph. He left him in confidence of God's care, and with a peculiar legacy, a parcel of land, which firſt by purchaſe, and afterwards by conqueſt, he took from the Amorite, and Ephraim afterwards enjoyed it, over and above his allotted portion. Note, (1.) When creature-comforts fail, ſtill God is with us; and though the deſire of our eyes by death is taken from us, we are encouraged to hope we ſhall ſhortly go to them, to this land of our fathers, though they cannot return to us. (2.) Every father may make diſtinctions in the portions of their children; peculiar deſert ſhould have peculiar reward.

CHAP. XLIX.

Jacob is here upon his death-bed, making his will: he ſpake as the ſpirit gave him utterance, who choſe this time that divine ſtrength might be perfected in his weakneſs. Here is, 1. The preface, ver. 1, 2. 2. The prediction concerning each tribe, ver. 3—28. 3. The charge repeated concerning his burial, ver. 29—32. 4. His death, ver. 33.

1. AND Jacob called unto his ſons, and ſaid, Gather yourſelves together, that I may tell you that which ſhall befal you [a] in the laſt days. 2. Gather yourſelves together, and hear, ye ſons of Jacob; and hearken unto Iſrael your father. 3. ¶ Reuben, thou art [b] my firſt-born, my might, and [c] the beginning of my ſtrength, the excellency of dignity, and the excellency of power. 4. Unſtable as water, † [d] thou ſhalt not excel, becauſe thou [e] wenteſt up to thy father's bed, then defiledſt thou it; ‡ he went up to my couch.

[a] Deut. iv. 30. Numb. xxiv. 14. Iſa. ii. 2. & xxxviii. 8, 16. Jer. xxiii. 20. Dan. ii. 29. Acts ii. 17. Hebr. i. 2.
[b] Chap. xxix. 32.
[c] Deut. xxi. 17. Pſal. lxxviii. 51.
† Heb. Do not thou excel.
[d] 1 Chron. v. 1.
[e] Chap. xxxv. 22. 1 Chron. v. 1.
‡ Or my couch is gone.

v. 1—4. The dying patriarch aſſembles his ſons, to inform them concerning their poſterity. They come at his command, and he enjoins them ſolemn attention, as to matters in which they were highly intereſted. Note, (1.) The words of dying parents ſhould deeply affect their children, and be long remembered by them. (2.) Tho' we cannot prophecy with Jacob: we can from God's word, admoniſh men of what will be the final iſſue of their conduct in this world. They who do good, ſhall go into life everlaſting; and they who do evil, into everlaſting fire. Reuben, as firſt-born, is called; his birthright, his excellence, and ſuperiority, are mentioned, but he is ſolemnly degraded into the loweſt place: no judge, prince, or prophet ſprings from that tribe: his crime is remembred to his confuſion, and his unſtable temper marked with indelible reproach. Note, Though ſin may be forgiven of God, groſs acts of lewdneſs leave a brand that is never forgotten among men.

5. ¶ [f] Simeon and Levi are brethren: † [g] inſtruments of cruelty are in their habitations. 6. O my ſoul, come not thou into their ſecret; unto their aſſembly, [h] mine honour, be not thou united: for [i] in their anger they ſlew a man, and in their ſelf-will they ‡ digged down a wall. 7. Curſed be their anger for it was fierce; and their wrath, for it was cruel: [k] I will divide them in Jacob, and ſcatter them in Iſrael.

[f] Chap. xxix. 33, 34.
† Or their ſwords are weapons of violence.
[g] Chap. xxvii. 3.
[h] Pſal. xvi. 19.
[i] Chap. xxxiv. 25.
‡ Or houghed oxen.
[k] Joſh. xix. 1. & xxi. 5, 6, 7. 1 Chron. iv. 24, 39.

v. 5—7. Simeon and Levi have ſtill a ſeverer judgment pronounced on them. They were men of a bloody mind, utterly unlike their peaceable father: and the murder of the Shechemites through a proſperous wickedneſs, meets now its recompence: ſince they will not be reſtrained by their father's advice, they ſhall lie under his curſe. With abhorrence of their deeds, he profeſſes his innocence, and brands their cruel wrath with deepeſt deteſtation: though by Providence preſerved from being ſcattered by the inraged Canaanites, yet God will viſit them, and ſcatter them among the tribes. Simeon's lot was diſperſed, and his poſterity made no figure; whilſt Levi had no portion with his brethren, God having fixed the ſacerdotal office in that family, and ſcattered them through all the tribes. Note, (1.) The beſt fathers cannot frequently reſtrain their children from vile deeds. (2.) The greateſt diſſimilarity of children from their parents, is obſervable; the meekeſt man has often a moſt paſſionate child. (3.) Though wickedneſs ſeems to ſucceed for a time, we may be aſſured the curſe is coming. (4.) We muſt diſclaim all fellowſhip with wicked men, and their deeds. (5.) As all anger is murder, God will reckon it as ſuch, in the judgment day, Mat. v. 22.

8. ¶ [l] Judah, thou art he whom thy brethren ſhall praiſe; [m] thy hand ſhall be in the neck of thine enemies: [n] thy father's children ſhall bow down before thee. 9. Judah is a lion's whelp; from the prey, my ſon, thou art gone up: [o] he ſtooped down, he couched as a lion, and as an old lion; who ſhall rouſe him up? 10. [p] The ſcepter ſhall not depart from Judah, nor [q] a law-giver from between his feet, [r] until Shiloh come, and [s] unto him ſhall the gathering of the people be. 11. Binding his foal unto the vine, and his aſſes colt unto the choice vine; he waſhed his garments in wine, and his clothes in the blood of grapes. 12. His [t] eyes ſhall be red with wine, and his teeth white with milk.

[l] Chap. xxix. 35.
[m] Pſal. xviii. 40.
[n] 1 Chron. v. 2.
[o] Numb. xxiii. 24. & xxiv. 9.
[p] Numb. xxiv. 17. Jer. xxx. 21. Zech. x. 11.
[q] Pſal. lx. 7. & cviii. 8. or Numb. xxi. 8.
[r] Ezek. xxi. 27. Luke i. 32.
[s] Iſa. xlii. 4. Hag. ii. 7.
[t] Prov. xxiii. 29.

v. 8—12. Judah inherits the birth-right of Reuben: his brethren ſhall praiſe him; victorious over his enemies, and chief among the tribes, valiant as a young lion to ſeize his prey, and ſtrong as an old lion to preſerve it: his land ſo plenteous, that vines ſhould be common as the thorn in the hedge, and their produce ſo abundant, that wine ſhould be plenty as water, and milk in equal abundance. Above all, the ſcepter ſhall be in his family; nor, which was the greateſt of bleſſings, depart from him, till the Meſſiah ſhould come: all which we ſhall ſee exactly fulfilled. Note, In a more glorious ſenſe, Jeſus is this lion of the tribe of Judah, head over all, to whom his enemies muſt bow, and whom his ſaints adore. He is the law-giver; to him will the gathering of the people be; and in him are the rivers of wine and milk, every goſpel bleſſing, richly and freely diſperſed without money and without price.

13. ¶ [u] Zebulun ſhall dwell at the haven of the ſea: and he ſhall be for an haven of ſhips; and his border ſhall be unto Zidon. 14. ¶ Iſſachar is a ſtrong aſs, couching down between two burdens. 15. And he ſaw that reſt was good, and the land, that it was pleaſant; and bowed [x] his ſhoulder to bear, and became a ſervant unto tribute. 16. ¶ [y] Dan ſhall judge his people, as one of the tribes of Iſrael. 17. [z] Dan ſhall be a ſerpent by the way, † an adder in the path; that biteth the horſe-heels, ſo that his rider ſhall fall backward. 18. [a] I have waited for thy ſalvation, O LORD. 19. ¶ [b] Gad, a troop ſhall overcome him: but he ſhall overcome at the laſt. 20. ¶ [c] Out of Aſher his bread ſhall be fat, and he ſhall yield royal dainties. 21. ¶ [d] Naphtali is a hind let looſe: he giveth goodly words.

[u] Deut. xxxiii. 18. Joſh. xix. 10, 11.
[x] 1 Sam, x. 9.
[y] Deut. xxxiii. 22.
[z] Judg. xviii. 27.
† Heb. An arrow-ſnake.
[a] Pſal. cxix. 166. Iſa. xxv. 9.
[b] Deut. xxxiii. 20. 1 Chron. v. 18.
[c] Deut. xxxiii. 24. Joſh. xix. 24.
[d] Deut. xxxiii. 23.

v. 13—21. A variety of mercies are allotted the ſeveral fathers, and each fulfilled in its time to the children.

1. Zebulun's lot was at the ſea, and Zidon being a famous mart, his tribe were the chief mariners.

2. Iſſachar's lot was tillage; and being rich with corn, was taxed high. Note, The huſbandman need not grudge to pay thoſe for his reſt at home, who fight for him abroad.

3. Dan was famed for policy; from him aroſe Sampſon, in whoſe deſtruction of the Philiſtines, living and dying, this prophecy was eminently fulfilled.

4. Jacob pauſes to make a warm ejaculation; with prophetic light, he ſees the predictions, as if already fulfilled, and his waiting ſoul now chearfully is yielded up to God. Note, They who wait for God's ſalvation, ſhall never be diſappointed: they will by faith, enjoy it in time, and be put in full poſſeſſion of it in eternity.

5. Gad was often, by his ſituation, expoſed to the inroads of his neighbours, the Moabites and Ammonites, but in the reign of David, they were wholly ſubdued. Note, Let us not deſpair, though the troops of our corruptions ſometimes overcome us, we ſhall be more than conquerors in the end.

6. Aſher is a tribe of plenty; not only fulneſs of bread, but abundance of dainties. Note, Dainties are God's gifts, and therefore not to be refuſed: a king, or a great man, may as lawfully enjoy the delicacies of food, as the poor eat bread.

7. Naphtali's lot is rich in paſture, and the tempers of the people, ſweet and affable. Note, There are a variety of natural diſpoſitions, and theſe, like the ſeveral parts of the body, compoſe a more beautiful figure. Let every man improve his own gift, and neither envy nor deſpiſe thoſe who differ from him.

22. ¶ Joſeph is a fruitful bough; even a fruitful bough by a well; whoſe † branches run over the wall. 23. The archers have ſorely grieved him, and ſhot at him, and hated him. 24. But his [e] bow abode in ſtrength, and the arms of his hands were made ſtrong, by the hands of [f] the mighty God of Jacob: from thence is [g] the ſhepherd, [h] the ſtone of Iſrael. 25. [i] Even by the God of thy father, who ſhall help thee, and [k] by the Almighty, [l] who ſhall bleſs thee with bleſſings of heaven above, bleſſings of the deep that lieth under, bleſſings of the breaſts, and of the womb. 26. The bleſſings of thy father have prevailed [m] above the bleſſings of my progenitors, unto the utmoſt bound of the everlaſting hills; they ſhall be on the head of Joſeph, and [n] on the crown of the head of him that was ſeparate from his brethren. 27. ¶ Benjamin ſhall raven as a wolf: [o] in the morning he ſhall devour the prey, and [p] at night he ſhall divide the ſpoil.

† Heb. Daughters.
[e] Job. xxix. 20.
[f] Pſal. cxxxii. 2.
[g] Pſal. lxxx. 1.
[h] Iſa. xxviii. 16.
[i] Chap. xxviii. 13. & xxxv. 11.
[k] Chap. xvii. 1.
[l] Deut. xxxiii. 13.
[m] Deut. xxxiii. 15. Hab. iii. 6.
[n] Deut. xxxiii. 16.
[o] Judg. i. 8, 21.
[p] Numb. xxiii. 24. Ezek. xxxix. 10. Zech. xiv. 1, 7.

v. 22—27. Joſeph being the beloved child, comes in for a peculiar bleſſing. His ſons are theſe branches of the ſpreading tree. Though ſore afflictions had been his lot, ſeverely treated by his brethren, and more ſeverely tempted by his miſtreſs; (what fiery darts ſo ſharp!) yet firm he ſtood, unmoved, unſhaken; nor is it ſtrange, when the everlaſting arms are under him. Note, If Chriſt ſtrengthen us, none ſhall pluck us out of his hands. Joſeph is Jacob's ſhepherd, to feed him in the time of dearth, and the ſupport of his ſinking family, and his reward ſhall be accordingly. God, his father's God, ſhall make his ſeed victorious, the beſt of bleſſings ſhall deſcend upon him, and greater than thoſe of his progenitors, in the immediate vaſt increaſe of his poſterity, and all thoſe bleſſings ſhould be enduring as the mountains. Thus, though ſeparated from and hated of his brethren, a crown of excellence is beſtowed upon him. Note, On the ſpiritual ſeed of Jeſus, the hated of his brethren, ſhall be theſe bleſſings of heaven above. They ſhall be fed with breaſts of preſent conſolations, and have their manſion on thoſe mountains which are truly everlaſting, ſeparated from the world which lieth in wickedneſs, and bleſt with the tranſcendantly glorious favour of Jacob's God. My ſoul, may this bleſſing be thine, and then every preſent trial will be light, every ſuffering joyous.

2. Benjamin ſhall be a warlike tribe; and eminently it was fulfilled in him. He ravened among his foes, and once among his friends, Jud. xx. 14. till they roſe up as one man againſt him, almoſt to his utter extirpation.

28. ¶ All theſe are the twelve tribes of Iſrael: and this is it that their father ſpake unto them, and bleſſed them; every one according to his bleſſing he bleſſed them. 29. And he charged them, and ſaid unto them, I am to be [q] gathered unto my people: [r] bury me with my fathers, in [s] the cave that is in the field of Ephron the Hittite. 30. In the cave that is in the field of Machpelah, which is before Mamre, in the land of Canaan, [t] which Abraham bought with the field of Ephron the Hittite, for a poſſeſſion of a burying-place. 31. ([u] There they buried Abraham and Sarah his wife, [x] there they buried Iſaac and Rebekah his wife, and there I buried Leah.) 32. The purchaſe of the field, and of the cave that is therein, was from the children of Heth. 33. And when Jacob had made an end of commanding his ſons, he gathered up his feet into the bed, and yielded up the ghoſt, and was gathered unto his people.

[q] Chap. xv. 15. & xxv. 9.
[r] Chap. xlvii. 30.
[s] Chap. l. 13.
[t] Chap. xxiii. 16.
[u] Chap. xxiii. 19. & xxv. 9.
[x] Chap. xxxv. 30.

v. 28—33. Thus the prophetic bleſſings end: each has ſomething: thoſe who are corrected, are not caſt off. Note, Though we are rebuked for our ſins, we muſt not deſpair under them; there is yet hope. And now he hath but one word to ſpeak, and die.

1. He charges them where he will be buried, as he had exacted an oath of Joſeph before, both in faith of the promiſe, and to remind them of it. Note, It is good with our dying lips, to teſtify the ſure truſt of our ſouls.

2. His death. He gathered up his feet from his ſitting poſture, into the bed; with a peaceful reſignation yielded up his ſoul to God, and went to that bleſſed aſſembly of his people, the ſouls of the faithful, who, after they are delivered from the burden of the fleſh, are in joy and felicity. May my laſt end be like unto his!

CHAP. L.

Here is, 1. The preparation for Jacob's funeral, ver. 1—6. 2. The funeral itſelf, ver. 7—14. 3. The ſettling of a good underſtanding between Joſeph and his brethren, after the death of Jacob, ver. 15—21. 4. The age and death of Joſeph, ver. 22—26. Thus the book of Geneſis, which began with the originals of light and life, ends with nothing but death and darkneſs, ſo ſad a change has ſin made.

1. AND Joſeph [a] fell upon his father's face, and wept upon him, and kiſſed him. 2. And Joſeph commanded his ſervants the phyſicians to [b] embalm his father: and the phyſicians embalmed Iſrael. 3. And forty days were fulfilled for him, (for ſo are fulfilled the days of thoſe which are embalmed) and the Egyptians † mourned for him threeſcore and ten days.

[a] Chap. xlvi. 4.
[b] 2 Chron. xvi. 14. Joh. xix. 40.
† Heb. Wept.

v. 1—3. Joſeph's love extends even to the clay-cold corpſe of his departed father. 1. He kiſſes, and weeps over it; pious tears, that teſtify the dutiful and affectionate child. Note, They who live reſpected, will die lamented. 2. He orders the body to be embalmed, in order to be preſerved for burial in Canaan. We have vile bodies, and have need be humble in them, when we know they will be quickly loathſome to our deareſt friends. 3. There was a ſolemn mourning, in which the Egyptians, to do honour to Joſeph, partook threeſcore and ten days. Note, It is kind, and a duty, by partaking to alleviate the ſorrows of the afflicted.

4. And when the days of his mourning were paſt, Joſeph ſpake unto the houſe of Pharaoh, ſaying, If now I have found grace in your eyes, ſpeak, I pray you, in the ears of Pharaoh, ſaying, 5. [c] My father made me ſwear, ſaying, Lo, I die: in my grave [d] which I have digged for me, in the land of Canaan, there ſhalt thou bury me. Now therefore let me go up, I pray thee, and bury my father, and I will come again. 6. And Pharaoh ſaid, Go up, and bury thy father, according as he made thee ſwear. 7. ¶ And Joſeph went up to bury his father: and with him went up all the ſervants of Pharaoh, the elders of his houſe, and all the elders of the land of Egypt. 8. And all the houſe of Joſeph, and his brethren, and his father's houſe: only their little ones, and their flocks, and their herds, they left in the land of Goſhen. 9. And there went up with him both chariots and horſemen, and it was a very great company. 10. And they came to the threſhing-floor of Atad, which is beyond Jordan, and there they mourned with a great and very ſore lamentation: and [e] he made a mourning for his father ſeven days. 11. And when the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, ſaw the mourning in the floor of Atad, they ſaid, This is a grievous mourning to the Egyptians: wherefore the name of it was called † Abel-mizraim, which is beyond Jordan. 12. And his ſons did unto him according as he commanded them. 13. For [f] his ſons carried him into the land of Canaan, and buried him in the cave of the field of Machpelah; [g] which Abraham bought with the field for a poſſeſſion of a burying-place, of Ephron the Hittite, before Mamre. 14. ¶ And Joſeph returned into Egypt, he and his brethren, and all that went up with him to bury his father, after he had buried his father.

[c] Chap. xlvii. 29.
[d] 2 Chron. xvi. 14. Iſa. xxii. 16. Mat. xxvii. 60.
[e] 1 Sam. xxxi. 13. Job ii. 13.
† i. e. The mourning of the Egyptians.
[f] Chap. xlix. 30. Acts vii. 16.
[g] Chap. xxiii. 16.

v. 4—14. Joſeph ſollicits leave of abſence, and Pharaoh kindly conſents he ſhould fulfil his oath to his father. Hereupon he immediately proceeds to Canaan.

1. The funeral was moſt honourably attended; not only all Jacob's family who could travail, went, but in reſpect to Joſeph, the great men of Pharaoh's houſhold, and the chief of the Egyptians, chariots and horſemen, a great company. Note, (1.) Thoſe who have been eminent in their day, deſerve to be honourably nourably attended to their grave. (2.) When we attend the funerals of others, it becomes us ſeriouſly to think of our own.

Before Christ 1689.

2. Their great ſorrow, v. 10, 11. brings a name on the place, the mourning of the Egyptians. Who could have thought they who thus lamented the father, could ſo ſorely have afflicted the children. Note, The death of a great good man is not only a loſs to his family, but to his country.

3. Joſeph's return according to his promiſe. Note, We muſt not give way to over much ſorrow: the living call for our regard, and our tears cannot profit the dead.

15. ¶ And when Joſeph's brethren ſaw that their father was dead, they ſaid, Joſeph will peradventure hate us, and will certainly requite us all the evil which we did unto him. 16. And they † ſent meſſengers unto Joſeph, ſaying, Thy father did command before he died, ſaying. 17. So ſhall ye ſay unto Joſeph, Forgive, I pray thee now, the treſpaſs of thy brethren, and their ſin; for they did unto thee evil: And now, we pray thee, forgive the treſpaſs of the ſervants of the God of thy father. And Joſeph wept when they ſpake unto him. 18. And his brethren alſo went and fell down before his face; and they ſaid, Behold we be thy ſervants. 19. And Joſeph ſaid unto them, [h] Fear not: for [i] am I in the place of God? 20. [k] But as for you, ye thought evil againſt me; but God meant it unto good, to bring to paſs, as it is this day, to ſave much people alive. 21. Now therefore fear ye not: I will nouriſh you and your little ones. And he comforted them, and ſpake † kindly unto them.

‡ Heb. Charged.

h Chap. xlv. 5.
i Rom. xii. 19.
k Iſa. x. 7.

† Heb. To their hearts.

v. 15—21. Conſcious guilt awakens the fears of Joſeph's brethren: their father's death they look upon as an open door for Joſeph's revenge. How apt are we to judge of others, by our own wicked hearts. We have,

1. Their application to him thereupon. With deep humility they acknowledge their ſin, and ſupplicate that forgiveneſs they knew they deſerved not. Note, We ſhould never forget, nor ceaſe to bewail the iniquities of our former days. They plead their common father's command, who no doubt enjoined it, not out of ſuſpicion of Joſeph, but to prove the repentance of his brethren: and more than that, they plead their common relation to their father's God; a prevalent plea they knew, with pious Joſeph. Learn, (1.) They who would have forgiveneſs, ſhould humble themſelves to aſk it. (2.) We are bound to treat them with eſpecial tenderneſs, who are worſhippers of the ſame God, and ſharers in the ſame covenant.

2. Joſeph's kind and affectionate reply. He wept with joy to ſee their ſubmiſſion, or that they ſhould have a ſuſpicion of his regard; and humbly directs them to God: his forgiveneſs is their great concern. Note, Though we ſhould be careful to humble ourſelves to men, when we have offended, our chief concern ſhould be to repent of the ſin which God only can forgive. He extenuates their offence againſt himſelf, in the view of the good which God produced from it, and bids them fear not, but be aſſured of his continual care and regard, with every kind expreſſion which could comfort their down-caſt hearts. Note, (1.) God, though never the author of evil, can bring good out of evil; not that ſin thereby is leſs malignant, but he appears more glorious. (2.) Broken ſpirits need kind words. (3.) A brotherly heart will be not only ready to forgive the injurious, but the firſt to comfort them, when deſponding.

Before Chriſt 1689.

22. ¶ And Joſeph dwelt in Egypt, he and his father's houſe: and Joſeph lived an hundred and ten years. 23. And Joſeph ſaw Ephraim's children [l] of the third generation: [m] the children alſo of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh, [n] were † brought up upon Joſeph's knees. 24. And Joſeph ſaid unto his brethren, I die: and [o] God will ſurely viſit you, and bring you out of this land, unto the land [p] which he ſware to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob. 25. And [q] Joſeph took an oath of the children of Iſrael, ſaying, God will ſurely viſit you, and ye ſhall carry up my bones from hence. 26. So Joſeph died, being an hundred and ten years old: and they embalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Egypt.

1635.

l Job xlii. 16.
m Numb. xxxii. 39.
n Chap. xxx. 3.
† Heb. Born.
o Exod. iii. 16. Heb. xi. 22.
p Chap. xv. 14. & xxvi. 3. & xxxv. 12. & xlvi. 4.
q Exod. xiii. 19. Joſh. xxiv. 32. Acts vii. 16.

v. 22—26. Joſeph was long ſpared through mercy, to fulfill his promiſe to his brethren. Here is,

1. His bleſſing in his children. He ſaw his ſon's ſons, to the third generation: it is the comfort of age, to ſee an increaſing and proſperous family.

2. His laſt injunctions to his brethren, when he perceived his death approaching. He confirms them in the fulfilment of God's promiſes, v. 24. Bids them expect their removal, and neither be induced by proſperity to ſettle in Egypt, nor faint under any adverſity, for God would bring them up. He charges them to take his bones along with them: though he dies in Egypt, he will not be buried there, but expreſſes his own faith, and ſtrengthens theirs by this pledge, and the oath he required of them. He then expires content, in a good old age; and after embalming, is laid in his coffin, ready for removal, when God's appointed time ſhall call them into the promiſed land. Note, (1.) When we loſe our beſt friends, and are lying down in our coffins, our comfort is, that God will ſurely bring us up again in a reſurrection day. (2.) A decent care ought to be had of the corpſe, not for any effect it can produce on the departed ſoul, but in honour to its having been once the temple of the Holy Ghoſt, and in proſpect of its riſing again a glorious body, to be the companion of ſaints and angels to eternity.

* * *

THE EVANGELICAL EXPOSITOR;
OR, A PRACTICAL COMMENT
Upon the Second Book of MOSES called EXODUS.

*M*OSES having, in the firſt book of his hiſtory, preſerved and tranſmitted the records of the Church, while it exiſted in private families, comes in this ſecond book to give us an account of its growth into a great nation; and as the former furniſheth us with the beſt Oeconomics, ſo this with the beſt Politics. The Greek tranſlators called this book Exodus, which ſignifies a departure, or going out, becauſe it begins with the ſtory of the going out of the children of Iſrael from Egypt. This book gives us, 1. The accompliſhment of the promiſes made before to Abraham, to chap. xix. And then, 2. The eſtabliſhment of the ordinances, which were afterwards obſerved by Iſrael: thence to the end. Moſes in this book begins, like Ceſar, to write his own Commentaries; nay a greater, a far greater, than Ceſar is here: But henceforward the penman is himſelf the hero, and gives us the hiſtory of thoſe things which he was himſelf an eye and ear-witneſs of, et quorum pars magna fuit. There are more types of Chriſt in this book, than perhaps in any other of the Old Teſtament, for Moſes wrote of him, John v. 46. And the way of man's reconciliation to God, and coming into covenant and communion with him by a Mediator, is here variouſly repreſented; and it is of great uſe to us for the illuſtration of the New Teſtament, as we have that to aſſiſt us in the explication of the Old.

Before Chriſt 1635.

CHAP. I.

We have here, 1. God's kindneſs to Iſrael, in multiplying them exceedingly, ver. 1—7. 2. The Egyptians wickedneſs to them, 1. Oppreſſing and enſlaving them, ver. 8—14. 2. Murdering their children, ver. 15—22. Thus whom the God of heaven bleſſed, the people of Egypt curſed, and for that reaſon.

[a] Jer. xlvi. 8. Chap. vi. 14. 1. NOW [a] theſe are the names of the children of Iſrael, which came into Egypt, every man and his houſhold came with Jacob. 2. Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah, 3. Iſſachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin, 4. Dan and Naphtali, Gad and Aſher.
† Heb. Thigh. 5. And all the ſouls that came out of the † loins of [b] Gen. xlvi. 27. Deut. x. 22. Jacob, were [b] ſeventy ſouls: for Joſeph was in Egypt already. 6. And [c] Joſeph died, and all his brethren, and
[c] Gen. l. 26. all that generation. 7. ¶ And [d] the children of Iſrael [d] Deut. xxvi. 5. Acts vii. 17. were fruitful, and increaſed abundantly, and multiplied, and waxed exceeding mighty; and the land was filled with them.

v. 1—7. The names of the twelve patriarchs, who are now to become twelve tribes, are here recited. They quickly followed Joſeph: death, when it once enters, makes great ravages in families. But though that generation paſſed away, a more numerous one aroſe: and as the time drew nearer, God began more evidently to fulfil the promiſe made to Abraham. Note, Living or dying, we may be ſure of this, God's promiſes never fail.

8. Now there aroſe up a new king over Egypt, which knew not Joſeph. 9. And he ſaid unto his people, Behold, [e] the people of the children of Iſrael are more and mightier than we. 10. Come on, [f] let us deal wiſely with them: leſt they multiply, and it come to paſs, that when there falleth out any war, they join alſo unto our enemies, and fight againſt us, and ſo get them up out of the land. 11. Therefore they did ſet over them taſkmaſters, [g] to afflict them with their burdens. And they built for Pharaoh treaſure cities, Pithom [h] and Raamſes. 12. † But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew. And they were grieved becauſe of the children of Iſrael. 13. And the Egyptians made the children of Iſrael to ſerve with rigour. 14. And they made their lives bitter with hard bondage, [i] in morter, and in brick, and in all manner of ſervice in the field: all their ſervice wherein they made them ſerve, was with rigour.

Before Chriſt about 1635.

[e] Pſal. cv. 24.
[f] Acts vii. 19.
[g] Gen. xv. 13.
[h] Gen. xlvii. 11.
† Heb. And as they afflicted them, ſo they multiplied, &c.
[i] Pſal. lxxxi. 6.

v. 8—14. We muſt not promiſe ourſelves long proſperity in this world. Where we have found the warmeſt love, we may ſoon experience the bittereſt hatred: ſo paſſing is the faſhion of ſublunary comforts. We have,

1. The great unkindneſs ſhewn to the Iſraelites in a ſucceeding reign: not by Pharaoh's immediate ſucceſſor, but one, who at a conſiderable diſtance of time, had forgotten the obligations the land lay under to Joſeph. Note, We ſhall often find men ungrateful and unmindful of the kind offices we have done them, but what is done for God, will be had in everlaſting remembrance. The poor Iſraelites are now become obnoxious to the ſtate; their multitude is a plea for their oppreſſion, as if they were a dangerous people; they pretend to fear, leſt they revolt to their enemies, or, according to the tradition which was well known, ſhould ſecede into Canaan. Note, The

Before Chriſt 1582.

The people of God have been often miſrepreſented as enemies to the ſtate, in order to countenance oppreſſion and perſecution againſt them. With crafty politics they therefore harraſs them with taxes, burdens, buildings, to break their ſpirits, diminiſh their numbers, and perhaps with a view to force them to incorporate with the Egyptians, in order to avoid the afflictions of their brethren. Note, (1.) The moſt deep-laid ſchemes of the wicked, however wiſe in their own eyes, will appear folly at the laſt. (2.) Where men attempt to defeat God's counſels, their very efforts againſt them ſhall ſooner produce their accompliſhment.

2. The great increaſe of the Iſraelites under their oppreſſion. A perſecuted church is ever a thriving one.

15. And the king of Egypt ſpake to the Hebrew midwives (of which the name of one was Shiphrah, and the name of the other Puah:) 16. And he ſaid, When ye do the office of a midwife to the Hebrew women, and ſee them upon the ſtools; if it be a ſon, then ye ſhall kill him, but if it be a daughter, then ſhe ſhall live. 17. But the midwives feared God, and did not as the king of Egypt commanded them, but ſaved the men-children alive. 18. And the king of Egypt called for the midwives, and ſaid unto them, Why have ye done this thing, and have ſaved the men-children alive? 19. And [k] the midwives ſaid unto Pharaoh, Becauſe the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women: for they are lively, and are delivered ere the midwives come in unto them. 20. Therefore God dealt well with the midwives: and the people multiplied, and waxed very mighty. 21. And it came to paſs, becauſe the midwives feared God, that [l] he made them houſes. 22. And Pharaoh charged all his people, ſaying, [m] Every ſon that is born, ye ſhall caſt into the river, and every daughter ye ſhall ſave alive.

[k] See Joſh. ii. 4, &c. 2 Sam. xvii. 19, 20.

[l] See 1 Sam. ii. 35. 2 Sam. xii. 11, 27, 29. 1 Kings ii. 24, & xi. 38. Pſ. cxxvii. 1.

[m] Acts vii. 19.

v. 15—22. We have here, 1. The inhuman attempt which this tyrant king makes to deſtroy the children in the birth, by engaging the midwives as inſtruments of his cruelty. Note, When God's people are the objects of enmity, perſecutors often diveſt themſelves not only of pity, but humanity. 2. The midwives diſobedience. No commands could influence, no bribes perſuade them to comply. Where we muſt diſobey God or man, there can be no heſitation. He that fears God, as theſe midwives, will rather riſque the loſs of man's favour, nay, of life too, than of his own ſoul by ſin. 3. The reaſons they gave to excuſe themſelves, when called upon, v. 19. Note, It is wiſer to avert a ſtorm, by an excuſe conſiſtent with truth, than irritate it by a flat denial. 4. God's kindneſs to them. None who ſerve his people, ſhall do it without wages, eſpecially in ſuffering ſeaſons. God built them houſes, gave them a return in kind, for the mercies they had ſhewn. 5. The enraged king ſeeing his deſigns diſappointed, publiſhes a bloody edict for the immediate deſtruction of every Hebrew male child that ſhould be born. Note, (1.) Diſappointed rage uſually makes men more furious. (2.) The patience of the ſaints muſt be proved by trial upon trial.

CHAP. II.

This chapter begins the ſtory of Moſes, the moſt remarkable type of Chriſt, as Prophet, Saviour, Lawgiver, and Mediator, in all the Old Teſtament. In this chapter we have, 1. The perils of his birth and infancy, ver. 1—4. 2. His preſervation through thoſe perils, and the preferment of his childhood and youth, ver. 5—10. 3. The pious choice of his riper years, which was to own the people of God. (1.) He offered them his ſervice at preſent, if they would have accepted it, ver. 11—14. (2.) He retired, that he might reſerve himſelf for farther ſervice hereafter, ver. 15—22. 4. The dawning of the day of Iſrael's deliverance, ver. 23, 24, 25.

1. AND there went [a] a man of the houſe of Levi, and took to wife a daughter of Levi. 2. And the woman conceived, and bare a ſon; and when ſhe ſaw him that he was a goodly child, ſhe [b] hid him three months. 3. And when ſhe could not longer hide him, ſhe took for him an ark of bulruſhes, and daubed it with ſlime and with pitch, and put the child therein; and ſhe laid it in the flags by the river's brink. 4. And [c] his ſiſter ſtood afar off, to wit what would be done to him.

[a] Chap. vi. 20. Numb. xxvi. 59. 1 Chron. xxiii. 13.

[b] Acts vii. 20. Heb. xi. 23.

[c] Numb. xxvi. 59.

v. 1—4. It ſeems, Moſes was born juſt at the time when the edict was publiſhed, and cruelly put in execution; though probably afterwards there was ſome abatement of its rigour. His parents, both of the tribe of Levi, had other children before: Moſes now comes in a diſtreſſing ſeaſon; ſo nearly allied are the comforts and the ſorrows of children. They obſerved his uncommon beauty, and determined at all hazards to attempt his preſervation. Note, There are often ſtrong impreſſions, even in the cradle, and in the earlieſt infancy, on thoſe who are deſigned for great exploits. Obſerve,

Before Chriſt 1571.

1. The methods they took. They hid him for three months; but it becoming, we may be aſſured, impracticable to conceal him longer; 2. They are obliged to expoſe him, and truſt him into the hand of providence; not without hope, as the watch they ſet intimated, that ſome way God might ſave him from his danger. As faith, Heb. xi. 23. encouraged them not to fear in concealing him, ſo, now that the caſe grew deſperate, faith enabled them to expoſe him. Note, There are ſeaſons, when we are driven to venture all on God's providence, and we ſhould do it with chearfulneſs and confidence. This is not to tempt him, but to truſt him.

5 ¶ And the daughter of Pharaoh came down to waſh herſelf at the river, and her maidens walked along by the river ſide; and when ſhe ſaw the ark among the flags, ſhe ſent her maid to fetch it. 6. And when ſhe had opened it, ſhe ſaw the child: and behold, the babe wept. And ſhe had compaſſion on him, and ſaid, This is one of the Hebrew's children. 7. Then ſaid his ſiſter to Pharaoh's daughter, Shall I go, and call to thee a nurſe of the Hebrew women, that ſhe may nurſe the child for thee? 8. And Pharaoh's daughter ſaid unto her, Go. And the maid went and called the child's mother. 9. And Pharaoh's daughter ſaid unto her, Take this child away and nurſe it for me, and I will give thee thy wages. And the woman took the child, and nurſed it. 10. And the child grew, and ſhe brought him unto Pharaoh's daughter, and he became her ſon. And ſhe called his name † Moſes: and ſhe ſaid, Becauſe I drew him out of the water.

† i. e. Drawn out.

v. 5—10. How admirable are the diſpoſitions of God's providence, in time, manner, means; all exact, critical, and wonderful! Obſerve,

1. The diſcovery of him by Pharaoh's daughter. Struck with his beauty and innocent tears, compaſſion moved her to ſave the child. Note, (1.) The helpleſſneſs and innocence of infancy awakens pity in the hardeſt hearts. (2.) When Pharaoh is deſtroying the people, his daughter is preſerving their deliverer. God can thus by his very enemies carry on his wiſe deſigns. (3.) Nothing happens by chance. The greateſt events depend on circumſtances, to our appearance, utterly trivial and fortuitous, but planned with deep deſign in the mind of the all-wiſe God.

2. The nurſe provided. His own mother. No breaſt ſo natural as her's who bore him. No wonder the child thrived. How may mothers, by refuſing their breaſts, become acceſſary to the death of their own offspring.

3. The Child at weaning is brought home, called Moſes, Drawn out of the water; and, as Pharaoh's daughter's ſon, educated in all the learning of Egypt, and in all the politeneſs of a court, and thus prepared for that part he was afterwards to act, both as the hiſtorian and leader of Iſrael. Providence not only raiſes great men from obſcurity, but, by the ſteps of their advancement, wonderfully prepares them for the place for which they are intended.

1531.

11. ¶ And it came to paſs in thoſe days, [d] when Moſes was grown, that he went out unto his brethren, and looked on their burdens: and he ſpied an Egyptian ſmiting an Hebrew, one of his brethren. 12. And he looked this way and that way; and when he ſaw that there was no man, he ſlew the Egyptian, and hid him in the ſand. 13. And when [e] he went out the ſecond day, behold, two men of the Hebrews ſtrove together: and he ſaid to him that did the wrong, Wherefore ſmiteſt thou thy fellow? 14. And he ſaid, Who made † thee a prince and judge over us? intendeſt thou to kill me, as thou killedſt the Egyptian? And Moſes feared, and ſaid, Surely this thing is known. 15. Now when Pharaoh heard this thing, he ſought to ſlay Moſes. But Moſes [f] fled from the face of Pharaoh, and dwelt in the land of Midian: and he ſat down by a well.

[d] Acts vii. 23. Heb. xi. 24.

[e] Acts vii. 26.

† Heb. A man, a prince.

[f] Acts vii. 29.

v. 11—15. Moſes now probably received ſome divine admonition to leave the court; for it is ſaid, Heb. xi. 24. He refuſed by faith to be called the ſon of Pharaoh's daughter, and left eaſe and honour, to ſhare with his brethren in affliction; to be their partner in it, or their deliverer from it. Hereupon,

1. We find him interpoſing in a quarrel between an Egyptian and an Hebrew, and ſlaying the Egyptian. An act of juſtice, no doubt, for which he had divine warrant; and hereby giving his people a ſpecimen of God's deſigns towards them.

Before Christ 1530.

Note, When we diſregard divine admonitions, as Iſrael did, we ſhall ſuffer for it.

2. His deſire next day to accomodate a quarrel between two of his brethren. He mildly reaſoned with the aggreſſor, and meets not only with an inſolent reply, but a malicious inſinuation, v. 14. which gave him to know his yeſterday's work was diſcovered, and that he would ſoon be in danger for it. Learn, (1.) The injurious is uſually the firſt to quarrel with him who would make peace. (2.) Even ſufferings will not unite the people of God; and they who riſe up to their help, find often as much trouble in reconciling their differences, as in reſcuing them from their oppreſſors. (3.) A faithful miniſter muſt not be diſcouraged, if his well-meant endeavours are by ſome ungratefully returned.

3. His flight hereupon. Egypt was now become a dangerous abode. The hint given him in anger, proved a warning of mercy; and as a juſt puniſhment of his brethren's neglect, as well as to qualify him for future ſervice, he is ſent into Midian, a fugitive like his fathers, that in the exerciſe of their faith he might come to their honour.

16. [g] Now the † prieſt of Midian had ſeven daughters: and [h] they came and drew water, and filled the troughs to water their father's flock 17. And the ſhepherds came and drove them away: but Moſes ſtood up and helped them, and watered their flock. 18. And when they came to [i] Reuel their father, he ſaid, How is it that you are come ſo ſoon to day? 19. And they ſaid, An Egyptian delivered us out of the hand of the ſhepherds, and alſo drew water enough for us, and watered the flock. 20. And he ſaid unto his daughters, And where is he? Why is it that ye have left the man? Call him, that he may eat bread. 21. And Moſes was content to dwell with the man: and he gave Moſes Zipporah his daughter. 22. And ſhe bare him a ſon, and he called his name [k] Gerſhom: for he ſaid, I have been [l] a ſtranger in a ſtrange land.

[g] Chap. iii. 1.
† Or prince, as Gen. xli. 45.
[h] Gen. xxiv. 11.
[i] Numb. x. 29.
1530.
[k] Chap. xviii. 3.
[l] Heb. xi. 13, 14.

v. 16—22. An occurrence of providence, graciouſly ordered, introduces him into the family of Reuel, elſewhere called Jethro, a prieſt or prince of Midian. Note, Every man ſhould be both prince and prieſt in his own houſe. We have,

1. His meeting of Reuel's daughters at the well. Some ſhepherds behaving rudely to them, Moſes aſſiſts them to water their flocks. No man is too great to do a kind act for the diſtreſſed.

2. Their report of it to their father. Though ſenſible of the kindneſs, they were too modeſt to aſk him home, till their father was acquainted with it. Note, Nothing ſo hateful in a woman as forwardneſs, nothing ſo pleaſing as modeſty.

3. Moſes is kindly entertained by Reuel, eſpouſes his daughter, and hath by her a ſon, called Gerſhom, as a remembrance of his being a ſtranger there. Here he finds a retreat, and whilſt he feeds his father's flocks, is prepared, by communion with God, and his appearances to him, for the great work he had appointed him. Note, There are greater enjoyments to be obtained in the wilderneſs with God, than in all the pleaſures in the courts of princes.

23. ¶ And it came to paſs [m] in proceſs of time, that the king of Egypt died, and the children of Iſrael [n] ſighed by reaſon of the bondage, and they cried; and [o] their cry came up unto God, by reaſon of the bondage. 24. And God heard their groaning, and God remembred his [p] covenant with Abraham, with Iſaac, and with Jacob. 25. And God looked upon the children of Iſrael, and God † [q] had reſpect unto them.

[m] Chap. vii. 7. Acts vii. 30.
[n] Numb. xx. 16.
[o] Gen. xviii. 20. Chap. xxii. 23, 27. Deut. xxiv. 15. Jam. v. 4.
[p] Gen. xv. 14. & xlvi. 4.
† Heb. Knew.
[q] Chap. iii. 7.

v. 23—25. The Iſraelites, who had neglected their deliverer, now groan under aggravated bondage. God will often long and ſeverely rebuke his own people, for their humiliation. Hereupon,

1. They cry unto God. Had they thought of him before, probably they had not groaned ſo long. It is a ſign God is beginning to ſave, when he pours out a ſpirit of prayer and ſupplication upon us.

2. God's attention to them, and his remembrance of them. No priſoner's ſighs are unnoticed, no burthened ſinner's groans diſregarded by him; he will hear their cry, and will help them.

CHAP. III.

Here is, 1. The diſcovery God was pleaſed to make of his glory to Moſes at the buſh, ver. 1—5. 2. A general declaration of God's grace and good-will to his people, ver. 6. 3. A particular notification of God's purpoſe concerning the deliverance of Iſrael out of Egypt. 1. He aſſures Moſes it ſhould now be done, ver. 7, 8, 9. 2. He gives him a commiſſion to act in it, as his ambaſſador both to Pharaoh, ver. 10. and to Iſrael, ver. 16. 3. He anſwers the objection Moſes made of his own unworthineſs, ver. 11, 12. 4. He gives him full inſtructions what to ſay, both to Pharaoh and to Iſrael, ver. 13—18. 5. He tells him beforehand what the iſſue would be, ver. 19—22.

Before Christ 1491.

1. NOW Moſes kept the flock of Jethro his father in law, the [a] prieſt of Midian: and he led the flock to the back-ſide of the deſert, and came to [b] the mountain of God, even to Horeb. 2. And the angel of the LORD appeared unto him in a [c] flame of fire out of the midſt of a buſh: and he looked, and behold, the buſh burned with fire, and the buſh was not conſumed. 3. And Moſes ſaid, I will now turn aſide, and ſee this great ſight, why the buſh is not burnt. 4. And when the LORD ſaw that he turned aſide to ſee, God called unto him [d] out of the midſt of the buſh, and ſaid, Moſes, Moſes. And he ſaid, Here am I. 5. And he ſaid, Draw not nigh hither: [e] put off thy ſhoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou ſtandeſt is holy ground. 6. Moreover he ſaid, [f] I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob. And Moſes hid his face: for [g] he was afraid to look upon God.

1491.
[a] Chap. ii. 16.
[b] Chap. xviii. 5. 1 Kings xix. 8.
[c] Deut. xxxiii. 16. Acts. vii. 30.
[d] Deut. xxxiii. 16.
[e] Joſh. v. 15. Acts vii. 33.
[f] Mat. xxii. 32. Mark xii. 26. Luke xx. 37. Acts vii. 32.
[g] So 1 Kings xix. 13. Iſa. vi. 2, 5.

v. 1—6. Moſes now ſeems to have forgotten Egypt, and Iſrael to be no more remembered of their God; but this is the day of ſalvation. Moſes, as uſual, was attending his father's flocks, buried in obſcurity, and humbly acquieſcing in his employment. Learn, 1. When we can ſee God's call, obſcurity becomes our duty, and the meaneſt occupation muſt be welcome. 2. If God be long before he calls us forth, it is becauſe he is preparing us for what he hath prepared for us.

1. God appears to him in a flame of fire in a buſh; and Moſes, ſtruck with the uncommon appearance, draws near to ſee this ſight, a buſh burning, yet unconſumed. The church of Chriſt is like this buſh, ever in affliction, yet never to be deſtroyed.

2. God ſpeaks to him out of the fire, and Moſes anſwers. He is hereupon directed how to approach, with reverence and godly fear, in order to hear the revelation God is about to make to him. Note, (1.) Attention to providences is a great means of keeping up communion with God. (2.) An obedient ear is ever open to inſtruction. (3.) In our appearances before God, the poſture of our body ſhould comport with the deep abaſement and ſacred awe which is upon our mind.

3. He makes himſelf known to him, as the covenant God of his fathers, to encourage his faith, and to engage his obedience. All live to God. Thoſe whom we reckon among the dead, are only removed into that better world, where life eternal reigns, Luke xx. 37.

4. Moſes is deeply affected with what he ſees and hears. A ſenſe of our own great unworthineſs may well cover our faces with ſhame, when we appear before God, and the more a ſaint of God experiences of his love, the deeper will be his humiliation before him.

7. ¶ And the LORD ſaid, I have ſurely ſeen the affliction of my people which are in Egypt, and have [h] heard their cry, by reaſon of their taſk-maſters: for I know their ſorrows. 8. And [i] I am come down to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land, unto a good land and a large, unto a land flowing with milk and honey: unto the place of [k] the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites. 9. Now therefore behold, the cry of the children of Iſrael is come unto me: and I have alſo ſeen the oppreſſion wherewith the Egyptians oppreſs them. 10. [l] Come now therefore, and I will ſend thee unto Pharaoh, that thou mayeſt bring forth my people the children of Iſrael out of Egypt.

[h] Chap. ii. 23.
[i] Gen. xi. 5, 7. & xviii. 21.
[k] Gen. xv. 18.
[l] Pſ. cv. 26.

v. 7—10. 1. God here begins to open his deſigns towards his people. He obſerves their ſorrows and oppreſſion, and hears their cry, and will not only deliver them from it, but bring them into the land promiſed to their fathers, and of ſlaves make them princes. Thus ſhall Jeſus bring us not only from the bondage of our corruptions, but raiſe us up to be kings on thrones of glory.

2. He ſends Moſes his ambaſſador to demand their releaſe. The weak things in God's hands are mighty. A ſhepherd brings Iſrael from Egypt; afterwards, a few deſpiſed fiſhermen lay the foundations of the Chriſtian church, againſt which all the powers of earth, or malice of devils, never could, and never ſhall prevail.

Before Chriſt 1491.

11. ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto God, [m] Who am I, that I ſhould go unto Pharaoh, and that I ſhould bring forth the children of Iſrael out of Egypt? 12. And he ſaid, [n] Certainly I will be with thee; and this ſhall be a token unto thee, that I have ſent thee: When thou haſt brought forth the people out of Egypt, ye ſhall ſerve God upon this mountain. 13. And Moſes ſaid unto God, Behold, when I come unto the children of Iſrael, and ſhall ſay unto them, The God of your fathers hath ſent me unto you, and they ſhall ſay to me, What is his name? What ſhall I ſay unto them? 14. And God ſaid unto Moſes, I AM THAT I AM: And he ſaid, Thus ſhalt thou ſay unto the children of Iſrael, [o] I AM hath ſent me unto you. 15. And God ſaid moreover unto Moſes, Thus ſhalt thou ſay unto the children of Iſrael, The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob, hath ſent me unto you: this is [p] my name for ever, and this is my memorial unto all generations.

[m] See Iſa. vi. 58. Jer. i. 6.
[n] Joſh. i. 5.
[o] Chap. vi. 3. 2 Cor. i. 20. Heb. xiii. 8. Rev. i. 4.
[p] Pſ. cxxxv. 13.

v. 11—15. Moſes ſtarts at the propoſal.

1. He pleads his inſufficiency for the taſk, v. 11. perhaps out of humility. Highly qualified as a man may be to miniſter before the Lord, lowly thoughts become him. Who is ſufficient for theſe things? Perhaps out of fear. The eſſay was dangerous, and he muſt put his life in his hand. Fear of man is a great hindrance to the work of God.

2. God ſilences his objection, v. 12, and promiſes him ſucceſs. If God be with us, our weakneſs ſhall become ſtrength, our folly wiſdom, and every mountain of difficulty be level as a plain; nor can we fail of ſucceeding under ſuch a leader.

3. Moſes begs farther inſtructions for his proceedings, v. 13. He expected they would call upon him to prove his miſſion, and who ſent him. Note, We muſt not run without our meſſage. They who are to ſpeak for God, need earneſtly enquire at his word, that they may be able to give an anſwer to every man that aſketh a reaſon of the hope which is in them.

4. The ſatisfaction he receives, v. 14, 15. God is the great I am, ſelf-exiſtent, unchangeable in his purpoſes, and all-ſufficient to accompliſh them. He is their father's God, and they ſhould remember the covenant which for the father's ſake they were intereſted in. Conſiderations admirably ſuited to engage their dependance on him, and make them ready to welcome their deliverer. Note, The remembrance of what God is, to his covenant people, is the great motive to hear him, truſt him, love him, and follow him.

16. Go and [q] gather the elders of Iſrael together, and ſay unto them, The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, of Iſaac, and of Jacob, appeared unto me, ſaying, [r] I have ſurely viſited you, and ſeen that which is done to you in Egypt. 17. And I have ſaid, I will bring you up out of the affliction of Egypt, unto the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, unto a land flowing with milk and honey. 18. And [s] they ſhall hearken to thy voice: and thou ſhalt come, thou and the elders of Iſrael, unto the king of Egypt, and you ſhall ſay unto him, The LORD [t] God of the Hebrews hath met with us; and now let us go (we beſeech thee) three days journey into the wilderneſs, that we may ſacrifice to the LORD our God. 19. ¶ And I am ſure that the king of Egypt will not let you go, † no, not by a mighty hand. 20. And I will ſtretch out my hand, and ſmite Egypt with all my wonders which I will do in the midſt thereof: and after that he will let you go. 21. And I will give this people favour in the ſight of the Egyptians: and it ſhall come to paſs, that when ye go, ye ſhall not go empty: 22. But [u] every woman ſhall borrow of her neighbour, and of her that ſojourneth in her houſe, jewels of ſilver, and jewels of gold, and raiment: and ye ſhall put them upon your ſons, and upon your daughters; and [x] ye ſhall ſpoil ‡ the Egyptians.

[q] Chap. iv. 29.
[r] Gen. l. 24.
[s] Chap. iv. 31.
[t] Chap. v. 3.
† Or, but by ſtrong hands.
[u] Gen. xv. 14. Chap. xi. 2. & xii. 35.
[x] Ezek. xxxix. 10.
‡ Or Egypt.

v. 16—22. Moſes is farther directed in his work.

1. He muſt aſſemble the elders of the people, and aſſure them of the fulfilment of God's promiſe, v. 17. and they ſhall hearken to it. Note, (1.) The faithful report of God's word is every miniſter's duty. (2.) When we do ſo, it is God's work to make it ſucceſsful, and we have God's promiſe to aſſure us he will, Matt. xxviii. 20.

2. He muſt ſpeak to Pharaoh, and the requeſt is moſt reaſonable, v. 18, but Pharaoh will not hearken. Learn hence, (1.) The obſtinacy of a ſinner's heart, that turns a deaf ear to the kindeſt pleas and remonſtrances. (2.) That God warns the impenitent, to leave them inexcuſable.

3. God will bring them out in ſpite of Pharaoh, v. 20, and not only free, but enriched with the ſpoils of the Egyptians; a juſt recompence for their hard ſervitude. Learn, (1.) Oppoſition againſt God is vain. (2.) Whether we have juſtice in this world or no, we know the day is near, when God will judge according to truth.

Before Chriſt 1491.

CHAP. IV.

1. Moſes objects the people's unbelief, and is anſwered by the miracles he ſhould work; ver. 1—9. 2. He objects his ſlowneſs of ſpeech, ver. 10. God promiſes his preſence, ver. 11, 12. and joins Aaron in commiſſion with him, ver. 14, 15, 16. and conſecrates his rod, ver. 17. 3. He, with his father's leave, goes, ver. 18. 4. Receives farther inſtructions, ver. 19—23. 5. Takes his family, ver. 20. 6. Circumciſes his ſon, ver. 24—26. 7. Meets Aaron, ver. 27—28. 8. Produces his commiſſion, ver. 29—31.

1. AND Moſes anſwered and ſaid, But behold, they will not believe me, nor hearken unto my voice: for they will ſay, the LORD hath not appeared unto thee. 2. And the LORD ſaid unto him, What is that in thine hand? And he ſaid, [a] A rod. 3. And he ſaid, Caſt it on the ground; and he caſt it on the ground, and it became a ſerpent: and Moſes fled from before it. 4. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Put forth thine hand, and take it by the tail: and he put forth his hand and caught it, and it became a rod in his hand. 5. That they may believe that the LORD God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Iſaac, and the God of Jacob, hath appeared unto thee. 6. ¶ And the LORD ſaid furthermore unto him, Put now thine hand into thy boſom; and he put his hand into his boſom: and when he took it out, behold his hand was leprous [b] as ſnow. 7. And he ſaid, Put thine hand into thy boſom again: and he put his hand into his boſom again, and plucked it out of his boſom, and behold, it was turned again as his other fleſh. 8. And it ſhall come to paſs, if they will not believe thee, neither hearken to the voice of the firſt ſign, that they will believe the voice of the latter ſign. 9. And it ſhall come to paſs, if they will not believe alſo theſe two ſigns, neither hearken unto thy voice, that thou ſhalt take of the water of the river, and pour it upon the dry land: and [c] the water which thou takeſt out of the river, † ſhall become blood upon the dry land.

[a] Verſe 20.
[b] Num. xii. 10. 2 Kings v. 27.
[c] Chap. vii. 19.
† Heb. Shall be and ſhall be.

v. 1—9. Moſes, from a diffidence of himſelf, and perhaps too from ſome ſinful diſtruſt of God,

1. Suggeſts his fears of the people's unbelief. God had aſſured him of the contrary; but how hard is it to reſt on God's word againſt human probabilities, and our own paſt experience?

2. God's anſwer, v. 2—9. The miracles ſhould ſpeak for his miſſion, and gain him credit in his meſſage. Two are performed immediately, for his own ſatisfaction; a third is promiſed, if needful, for theirs. When Jeſus came, the multitude and the nature of his miracles, to a demonſtration, proved him ſent from God. If Iſrael had been inexcuſable to have refuſed theſe evidences, what muſt we be, who are compaſſed about with ſuch a cloud of witneſſes, if we diſbelieve or reject him?

10. ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, O my LORD, I am not † eloquent, neither ‡ heretofore, nor ſince thou haſt ſpoken unto thy ſervant: but [d] I am ſlow of ſpeech, and of a ſlow tongue. 11. And the LORD ſaid unto him, [e] Who hath made man's mouth? or who maketh the dumb, or deaf, or the ſeeing, or the blind? Have not I the LORD? 12. Now therefore go, and I will be [f] with thy mouth, and teach thee what thou ſhalt ſay?

† Heb. A man of words.
‡ Heb. Since yeſterday, nor ſince the third day.
[d] Chap. vi. 12.
[e] Pſ. xciv. 9.
[f] Iſa. l. 4. Matt. x. 19. Mark xiii. 11. Luke xii. 11.

v. 10—12. Moſes ſtill objects, and God continues to anſwer him.

1. He is not eloquent. Though a man of great abilities, yet ſlow of ſpeech. God thus diſtributes diverſities of gifts to his ſervants. Some with deep underſtandings want expreſſion and fluency; others, leſs ſolid in judgment, have words at will. Few poſſeſs all excellencies.

2. God reaſons with him on his power and promiſe. The work is God's; he is able to accompliſh it, v. 11. It is his will it ſhall be done, v. 12. Note, Our gifts and graces are all from God; and if the ears are deaf to goſpel calls, or the eyes blind to the things which make for our peace, God will be found juſt in his judgments.

13. And he ſaid, O my LORD, ſend, I pray thee, by the hand of him whom thou † wilt ſend. 14. And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Moſes, and he ſaid, Is not Aaron the Levite thy brother? I know that he can ſpeak well. And alſo, behold, he cometh forth to meet thee: and when he ſeeth thee, he will be glad in his heart. 15. And [g] thou ſhalt ſpeak unto him, and put words in his mouth; and I will be with thy mouth, and with his mouth, and will teach you what ye ſhall do. 16. And he ſhall be thy ſpokeſman unto the people: and he ſhall be, even he ſhall be to thee inſtead of a mouth, and [h] thou ſhalt be to him inſtead of God. 17. And thou ſhalt take this rod in thine hand, wherewith thou ſhalt do ſigns.

† Or ſhouldeſt.

[g] Chap. vii. 1, 2.

[h] Chap. vii. 1. & xviii. 19.

v. 13—17. When he cannot get off by objections, he plainly begs to be excuſed. A ſad proof of his unbelief and cowardice. And now God might juſtly have rejected him, and given the honour to another; but his choice is unalterable, and he will overcome the reſiſtance of our perverſe hearts. But,

1. God teſtifies his diſpleaſure againſt him, v. 14. Note, He ſhews his indignation ſometimes againſt thoſe, whom notwithſtanding he will never caſt away.

2. He joins Aaron in commiſſion with him, to be his ſpokeſman. Thus he had compaſſion on his infirmities, gives him his brother for a yoke-fellow, and promiſes to be their director, to teach them what and how they ought to ſpeak. If God does not teach the moſt eloquent orator, and bleſs his diſcourſes, he will only ſpeak to the air, or at beſt to the ear, not to the heart.

3. He muſt take his rod. The miracles muſt be his chief rhetoric, and his works ſpeak more than his word. Note, A miniſter's life, like this rod, will give the greateſt weight to his diſcourſes.

18. ¶ And Moſes went and returned to † Jethro his father in law, and ſaid unto him, Let me go, I pray thee, and return unto my brethren, which are in Egypt, and ſee whether they be yet alive. And Jethro ſaid to Moſes, Go in peace. 19. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes in Midian, Go, return into Egypt: for [i] all the men are dead which ſought thy life. 20. And Moſes took his wife, and his ſons, and ſet them upon an aſs, and he returned to the land of Egypt. And Moſes took [k] the rod of God in his hand. 21. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, When thou goeſt to return into Egypt, ſee that thou do all thoſe wonders before Pharaoh which I have put in thine hand: but [l] I will harden his heart, that he ſhall not let the people go. 22. And thou ſhalt ſay unto Pharaoh: Thus ſaith the LORD, [m] Iſrael is my ſon, even [n] my firſt-born. 23. And I ſay unto thee, Let my ſon go, that he may ſerve me: And if thou refuſe to let him go, behold, [o] I will ſlay thy ſon, even thy firſt-born.

† Heb. Jether.

[i] Chap. ii. 15, 23. Mat. ii. 20.

[k] Num. xx. 8, 9.

[l] Chap. vii. 3, 13. & ix. 12. & x. 1. & xiv. 8. Deut. ii. 30. Joſh. xi. 20. Iſa. lxiii. 17. John xii. 40. Rom. ix. 18.

[m] Rom. ix. 4.

[n] Jer. xxxi. 9. Jam. i. 18.

[o] Chap. xi. 5. & xii. 29.

v. 18—23. We have here,

1. Moſes taking leave of his father in law. He had received much kindneſs from him; duty therefore and friendſhip required his aſking leave for himſelf and family to depart. We muſt never be wanting in reſpect to our parents, whatever calls of duty may be upon us.

2. God ſpeaks farther to him for his encouragement. His old enemies in Egypt are dead. His fears are thus ſilenced: not that he ſhould find Pharaoh favourable; though the miracles are to be wrought before him, he will be obſtinate; but he ſhall ſuffer for it, v. 23. We muſt expect to find in the work of the miniſtry many a heart like Pharaoh's. God calls Iſrael his firſt-born; for all are his dear children; he hath a father's heart towards them, and they ſhall find a father's care over them.

3. Moſes takes his family along with him. They who are hearty in God's cauſe, are very willing to hazard all in his ſervice.

24 ¶ And it came to paſs by the way in the inn, that the LORD [p] met him, and ſought to kill him. 25. Then Zipporah took [q] a ſharp † ſtone, and cut off the foreſkin of her ſon, and ‡ caſt it at his feet, and ſaid, Surely a bloody huſband art thou to me. 26. So he let him go: Then ſhe ſaid, A bloody huſband thou art, becauſe of the circumciſion.

[p] Num. xxii. 22.

[q] Joſh. v. 2, 3.

† Or knife.

‡ Heb. And made it touch.

v. 24—26. Moſes in Midian ſeems not to have been circumſpect in the obſervance of God's ordinances: perhaps too his wife was averſe to this bloody rite, and he feared to offend her. Now God meets him, as he met Balaam, and, to reſcue him from inſtant death, Zipporah with indignation haſtes to circumciſe the child, and caſts the foreſkin at his feet, with an angry reproach, and then God let him go in peace. His wife ſeems now to be ſent back to her father. Learn, (1.) How dangerous is abſence from the people of God, and the means of grace. (2.) How apt we are to yield to the fooliſh fondneſs of others, even to the offending God. (3.) That God's people will not eſcape his anger, when they offend him. (4.) When we have neglected duty, we muſt return to it without delay. (5.) The removal of our ſins will uſually alleviate or remove our judgments. (6.) We muſt be content to bear reproach in God's ſervice.

27. ¶ And the LORD ſaid to Aaron, Go into the wilderneſs to meet Moſes. And he went and met him in [r] the mount of God, and kiſſed him. 28. And Moſes told Aaron all the words of the LORD, who had ſent him, and all the ſigns which he had commanded him. 29. ¶ And Moſes and Aaron went, and gathered together all the elders of the children of Iſrael. 30. And Aaron ſpake all the words which the LORD had ſpoken unto Moſes, and did the ſigns in the ſight of the people. 31. And the people believed: and when they heard that the LORD had viſited the children of Iſrael, and that he had looked upon their affliction, then [s] they bowed their heads and worſhipped.

[r] Chap. iii. 21.

[s] Chap. xii. 27.

v. 27—31. For Moſes's farther comfort, God ſends Aaron to meet him. The interview was affectionate; and Moſes having informed him of God's commiſſion, they proceed together, and are received with joy by the elders and people. Note, (1.) Comfortable meeting of friends is a mercy, but the obedient attention of the people to their miniſters, a greater. (2.) We ſhould not be too ſanguine on the firſt promiſing appearances: the fulleſt blown tree bears not always proportionable fruit. (3.) If grace do not touch the heart, miracles can produce but temporary faith.

CHAP. V.

1. Moſes and Aaron are here dealing with Pharaoh, to get leave of him to go worſhip in the wilderneſs, ver. 1—3. 2. He anſwers their requeſt by a flat denial, with farther orders to oppreſs Iſrael, ver. 2—9. Theſe cruel orders were, 1. Executed by the taſkmaſters, ver. 10—14. 2. Complained of to Pharaoh, but in vain, ver. 15—19. 3. Complained of by the people to Moſes, ver. 20, 21. and by him to God, ver. 22, 23.

1. AND afterwards Moſes and Aaron went in, and told Pharaoh, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Let my people go, that they may hold a feaſt unto me in the wilderneſs. 2. And Pharaoh ſaid, [a] Who is the LORD, that I ſhould obey his voice to let Iſrael go? I know not the LORD, neither will I let Iſrael go.

[a] 2 Kings xviii. 35. Job. xxi. 15.

v. 1, 2. Moſes and Aaron make no delay.

1. They boldly deliver their meſſage, v. 1. God's people are his peculiar portion, and it is at their peril, who injure or oppreſs them. They muſt hold a feaſt to him, and the ſacrifice which points to the atonement is the ſubſtance of the feaſt. Faith in the atoning blood of Jeſus makes the ſweeteſt feaſt for the ſoul.

2. Pharaoh's impious anſwer, and flat denial, v. 2. They who oppreſs God's people, will deſpiſe their God; they neither know him nor fear him. Note, (1.) The cauſe of every ſin is ignorance of God; for where there is no knowledge, there is no fear of him. (2.) Obſtinate ſinners go from iniquity to impiety; they firſt offend, and then defy the God of Iſrael; but it ſhall be to their coſt.

3. And they ſaid, [b] The God of the Hebrews hath met with us: let us go, we pray thee, three days journey into the deſert, and ſacrifice unto the LORD our God; leſt he fall upon us with peſtilence, or with the ſword. 4. And the king of Egypt ſaid unto them, Wherefore do ye, Moſes and Aaron, let the people from their works? get you unto your burdens. 5. And Pharaoh ſaid, Behold, the people of the land now are many, and you make them reſt from their burdens. 6. And Pharaoh commanded the ſame day the taſk-maſters of the people, and their officers, ſaying, 7. Ye ſhall no more give the people ſtraw to make brick, as heretofore: let them go and gather ſtraw for themſelves. 8. And the tale of the bricks which they did make heretofore, you ſhall lay upon them; you ſhall not diminiſh ought thereof: for they be idle; therefore they cry, ſaying, Let us go and ſacrifice to our God. 9. † Let there more

[b] Chap. iii. 18.

† Heb. Let the work be heavy upon the men.

Before Chriſt 1491.

more work be laid upon the men, that they may labour therein: and let them not regard vain words.

v. 3—9. Their firſt application being in vain, the ſecond hath as ill ſucceſs. They who have no fear of God, will have little compaſſion for man.

1. They intreat him for three days reſpite, and urge a juſt excuſe, leſt God be angry for the neglect of his ſervice. Note, we have need to fear his viſitations, when we are found diſuſing his ordinances.

2. Pharaoh will not part with them for an hour; nay, reproaches them as idle, and adds to their burdens. Nor ſhall Moſes and Aaron fare better than the reſt. Learn, (1.) That faithful miniſters muſt expect, in dangerous times, to be the firſt to ſuffer. (2.) The ſervice of God often bears, from the enemies of it, the reproach of idleneſs. (3.) When we have to deal with men of perverſe minds, like Pharaoh, we muſt expect ſuch unreaſonable demands.

10. ¶ And the taſk-maſters of the people went out, and their officers, and they ſpake to the people, ſaying, Thus ſaith Pharaoh, I will not give you ſtraw. 11. Go ye, get you ſtraw where you can find it: yet not ought of your work ſhall be diminiſhed. 12. So the people were ſcattered abroad throughout all the land of Egypt, to gather ſtubble inſtead of ſtraw. 13. And the taſkmaſters haſted them, ſaying, Fulfil your works, your † daily taſks, as when there was ſtraw. 14. And the officers of the children of Iſrael, which Pharaoh's taſkmaſters had ſet over them, were beaten, and demanded, Wherefore have ye not fulfilled your taſk in making brick, both yeſterday and to day, as heretofore?

† Heb. A matter of a day in his day.

v. 10—14. Bad men will uſually find bad inſtruments to ſerve them. The taſk-maſters ſeverely urge the people; and though without ſtraw it was impoſſible to fulfil their tale of bricks, they are beaten. What a bleſſing is liberty! how ſhould we value it? Note, That miniſter is no better than theſe Egyptians, who, inſtead of the liberty of the goſpel, preaches the bondage of the law, which a fallen ſinner can no more keep, than he can make brick without ſtraw.

15. ¶ Then the officers of the children of Iſrael came and cried unto Pharaoh, ſaying, Wherefore dealeſt thou thus with thy ſervants? 16. There is no ſtraw given unto thy ſervants, and they ſay to us, Make brick: and behold, thy ſervants are beaten; but the fault is in thine own people. 17. But he ſaid, Ye are idle, ye are idle: therefore ye ſay, Let us go, and do ſacrifice to the LORD. 18. Go therefore now and work: for there ſhall no ſtraw be given you, yet ſhall ye deliver the tale of bricks. 19. And the officers of the children of Iſrael did ſee that they were in evil caſe, after it was ſaid, Ye ſhall not miniſh ought from your bricks of your daily taſk.

v. 15—19. An evil caſe no doubt. The remonſtrance they made was as juſt and humble, as the anſwer they receive is tyrannical and ſevere.

1. They are his ſervants, willing to labour, and are beaten, when the fault is in Pharaoh's people. It is the lot of God's people ever to ſuffer unjuſtly.

2. They are received with taunts and reproaches. How could they who were dying under hard ſervitude, be reproached with idleneſs? and was their deſire to ſacrifice to God ſuch a crime? Note, The world's reproaches are as groundleſs as Pharaoh's; and whatever pretence they may make, the real cauſe is, the inbred enmity of their heart againſt our God and his holy ways.

20. ¶ And they met Moſes and Aaron, who ſtood in the way, as they came forth from Pharaoh. 21. And [c] they ſaid unto them, The LORD look upon you, and judge; becauſe you have made our ſavour † to be abhorred in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes of his ſervants, to put a ſword in their hands to ſlay us. 22. And Moſes returned unto the LORD, and ſaid, Lord, wherefore haſt thou ſo evil intreated this people? why is it that thou haſt ſent me? 23. For ſince I came to Pharaoh to ſpeak in thy name, he hath done evil to this people; ‡ neither haſt thou delivered thy people at all.

[c] Chap. vi. 9.
† Heb. To ſtink. Gen. xxxiv. 30.
‡ Heb. Delivering thou haſt not delivered.

v. 20—23. We have here,

1. Their diſpleaſure at Moſes and Aaron. How unjuſt and ill-timed? Are they who put their lives in their hands to ſave them, to be reproached as deſtroyers? The beſt actions will, if not immediately ſucceſsful, expoſe us often to the cenſures of thoſe we meant to ſerve.

Before Chriſt 1491.

2. Moſes's application to God. He preſented a remonſtrance to Pharaoh in vain; but he ſhall not do ſo to God. He expoſtulates, complains, and begs help in this needful time of trouble. Note, (1.) Our ſufferings may increaſe, when God is working moſt for our deliverance. (2.) It is a heavy grief to miniſters, to ſee their labours of love, inſtead of being ſucceſsful, exaſperating the enmity, and ſtirring up the corruptions of their hearers. (3.) The way to be eaſed, is to go and complain to our God.

CHAP. VI.

Much ado there was to bring Moſes to his work, and no leſs to put him forward in it. Witneſs this chapter, in which, 1. God anſwers his complaints, ver. 1. 2. He gives him fuller inſtructions, ver. 2—8. But the people diſregard him, ver. 9. 3. He ſends him again to Pharaoh, ver. 10, 11. But Moſes objects againſt that, ver. 12. A ſtrict charge is given to him and his brother, to execute their commiſſion with vigour, ver. 13. 4. An abſtract of the genealogy of the tribes of Reuben, Simeon, and Levi, ver. 14—27.

1. THEN the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Now ſhalt thou ſee what I will do to Pharaoh: for [a] with a ſtrong hand ſhall he let them go, and with a ſtrong hand [b] ſhall he drive them out of his land. 2. And God ſpake unto Moſes, and ſaid unto him, I am the LORD: 3. And I appeared unto Abraham, unto Iſaac, and unto Jacob, by the name of [c] God Almighty, but by my name [d] JEHOVAH was I not known to them. 4. And [e] I have alſo eſtabliſhed my covenant with them, [f] to give them the land of Canaan, the land of their pilgrimage, wherein they were ſtrangers. 5. And [g] I have alſo heard the groaning of the children of Iſrael, whom the Egyptians keep in bondage; and I have remembred my covenant. 6. Wherefore ſay unto the children of Iſrael, I am the LORD, and I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians, and I will rid you out of their bondage: and I will redeem you with a ſtretched out arm, and with great judgments. 7. And I will take you to me for a people, and I will be to you a God: and ye ſhall know that I am the LORD your God, which bringeth you out [h] from under the burdens of the Egyptians. 8. And I will bring you in unto the land concerning the which † [i] I did ſwear to give it, to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob; and I will give it you for an heritage: I am the LORD. 9. ¶ And Moſes ſpake ſo unto the children of Iſrael: but [k] they hearkned not unto Moſes, for ‡ anguiſh of ſpirit, and for cruel bondage.

[a] Cha. iii. 19.
[b] Chap. xi. 1. & xii. 33, 39.
[c] Gen. xvii. 1. & xxxv. 11. & xlviii. 3.
[d] Chap. iii. 14.
[e] Gen. xvii. 4.
[f] Gen. xvii. 8. & xxviii. 4.
[g] Chap. ii. 24.
[h] Chap. v. 4, 5. Pſal. lxxxi. 6.
† Heb. Lift up mine hand. See Gen. xiv 22. Deut. xxxii. 40.
[i] Gen. xv. 14. & xxvi. 3. & xxxv. 12.
[k] Chap. v. 21.
‡ Heb. Shortneſs, or ſtraitneſs.

v. 1—9. 1. God ſilences Moſes's complaint with aſſurances of ſucceſs. He will work, and who ſhall let it? If his mighty hand of grace or judgment be ſtretched forth, when he begins he will make an end. He was known as El ſhaddai, a God all-ſufficient, before; but now he will accompliſh the hope of Iſrael, as Jehovah, the promiſe-fulfilling God. He heard his people's cries before Moſes ſpoke, and their deliverance is both certain and near. Let God's Iſrael then, in their deepeſt diſtreſſes, truſt, and not be afraid.

2. Moſes carries the glad meſſage to the people; but they are ſo dejected, they pay no attention to it. Thus often impatient ſorrow refuſes comfort, and deſpair turns a deaf ear to the promiſes of mercy.

10. And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 11. Go in, ſpeak unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, that he let the children of Iſrael go out of his land. 12. And Moſes ſpake before the LORD, ſaying, Behold, the children of Iſrael have not hearkned unto me; how then ſhall Pharaoh hear me, [l] who am of uncircumciſed lips? 13. And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, and gave them a charge unto the children of Iſrael, and unto Pharaoh king of Egypt; to bring the children of Iſrael out of the land of Egypt.

[l] Ver. 30. Chap. iv. 10. Jer. i. 6.

v. 10—13. Though ſinners be obſtinate, we muſt not ceaſe to warn them. It may be, God will yet turn their hearts. Moſes is ſent again unto Pharaoh with the ſame meſſage. Hereupon,

1. Moſes objects the improbability of ſucceſs: if his own people will not hear him, much leſs will Pharaoh. Beſides, he urges his own defective utterance to plead their cauſe. Note, (1.) It is very diſcouraging, when we find thoſe from whom we expected ſucceſs, untractable. (2.) Though we have God's commiſſion for our work, we are too ready to be diſheartened by our conſcious inſufficiency for it; but if it be God's work, the power too ſhall be of God.

2. God charges him to go without farther excuſe, and joins Aaron with him. It is not for us to diſpute, but to obey.

14. ¶ Theſe be the heads of their father's houſes: [m] The ſons of Reuben the firſt-born of Iſrael; Hanoch, and Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi: theſe be the families of Reuben. 15. And [n] the ſons of Simeon; Jemuel, and Jamin, and Ohad, and Jachin, and Zohar, and Shaul the ſon of a Canaanitiſh woman: theſe are the families of Simeon. 16. ¶ And theſe are the names of [o] the ſons of Levi, according to their generations; Gerſhon, and Kohath, and Merari: and the years of the life of Levi were an hundred thirty and ſeven years. 17. [p] The ſons of Gerſhon; Libni and Shimi, according to their families. 18. And [q] the ſons of Kohath; Amram, and Izhar, and Hebron, and Uzziel: And the years of the life of Kohath were an hundred thirty and three years. 19. And [r] the ſons of Merari; Mahali, and Muſhi: theſe are the families of Levi, according to their generations. 20. And [s] Amram took him Jochebed his father's ſiſter to wife; and ſhe bare him Aaron and Moſes: and the years of the life of Amram were an hundred and thirty and ſeven years. 21. ¶ And [t] the ſons of Izhar; Korah, and Nepheg, and Zichri. 22. And [u] the ſons of Uzziel; Miſhael, and Elzaphan, and Zithri. 23. And Aaron took him Eliſheba daughter of [x] Aminadab, ſiſter of Naaſhon, to wife; and ſhe bare him [y] Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. 24. And the ſons of Korah; Aſſir, and Elkanah, and Abiaſaph: theſe are the families of the Korhites. 25. And Eleazar Aaron's ſon took him one of the daughters of Putiel to wife; and [z] ſhe bare him Phinehas: theſe are the heads of the fathers of the Levites, according to their families. 26. Theſe are that Aaron and Moſes, to whom the LORD ſaid, Bring out the children of Iſrael from the land of Egypt, according to their armies. 27. Theſe are they which ſpake to Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring out the children of Iſrael from Egypt: theſe are that Moſes and Aaron.

[m] Gen. xlvi. 9. 1 Chron. v. 3.
[n] 1 Chron. iv. 24.
[o] Numb. iii. 17. 1 Chron. vi. 1, 16.
[p] 1 Chron. vi. 17. & xxiii. 7.
[q] Num. xxvi. 57. 1 Chron. vi. 2, 18.
[r] 1 Chron. vi. 19. & xxiii. 21.
[s] Chap. ii. 1, 2. Num. xxvi. 59.
[t] Num. xvi. 1. 1 Chron. vi. 37, 38.
[u] Lev. x. 4. Num. iii. 30.
[x] Ruth iv. 19, 20. 1 Chron. ii. 10.
[y] Num. iii. 2. & xxvi. 60. 1 Chron. vi. 3. & xxiv. 1.
[z] Num. xxv. 11.

v. 14—27. Moſes and Aaron begin to raiſe up the tribe of Levi from that deſpondence, into which the denunciation of their father Jacob muſt have caſt them. Like a faithful hiſtorian, Moſes ſuppreſſes not his father's unlawful marriage, nor fears to mention the honour God put upon himſelf. Our faults muſt be acknowledged to our humiliation, our favours be aſcribed to God's free grace.

1791. 28. ¶ And it came to paſs, on the day when the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in the land of Egypt, 29. That the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, I am the LORD: Speak thou unto Pharaoh king of Egypt all that I ſay unto thee. 30. And Moſes ſaid before the LORD, Behold, [a] I am of uncircumciſed lips, and how ſhall Pharaoh hearken unto me?

[a] Ver. 12. Chap. iv. 10.

v. 28—30. This is a repetition to connect the hiſtory. God will have his work done, and he has ways of conſtraining the moſt unwilling heart.

CHAP. VII.

In this chapter, 1. The diſpute between God and Moſes finiſhes, and Moſes applies himſelf to the execution of his commiſſion, ver. 1—7. 2. The diſpute between Moſes and Pharaoh begins: Moſes in God's name demands Iſrael's releaſe, Pharaoh denies it. 1. Moſes confirms the demand he made to Pharaoh, by a miracle, turning his rod into a ſerpent; but Pharaoh hardens his heart againſt this conviction, ver. 8—13. 2. He chaſtiſeth his diſobedience by a plague, the firſt of the ten, turning the waters into blood; but Pharaoh hardens his heart againſt this correction, ver. 14—25.

1. AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, See, I have made thee [a] a god to Pharaoh: and Aaron thy brother ſhall be thy prophet. 2. Thou ſhalt ſpeak all that I command thee: and Aaron thy brother ſhall ſpeak unto Pharaoh, that he ſend the children of Iſrael out of his land. 3. And [b] I will harden Pharaoh's heart, and multiply my ſigns and my wonders in the land of Egypt. 4. But Pharaoh ſhall not hearken unto you, that I may lay my hand upon Egypt, and bring forth mine armies, and my people the children of Iſrael, out of the land of Egypt, [c] by great judgments. 5. And the Egyptians ſhall know that I am the LORD, when I ſtretch forth mine hand upon Egypt, and bring out the children of Iſrael from among them. 6. And Moſes and Aaron did as the LORD commanded them, ſo did they. 7. And Moſes was fourſcore years old, and Aaron fourſcore and three years old, when they ſpake unto Pharaoh. 1491.

[a] Chap. iv. 16. Jer. i. 10.
[b] Chap. iv. 21.
[c] Chap. vi. 6.

v. 1—7. We have here,

1. Moſes enjoined to proceed, and furniſhed with power, as God, to work wonders in the ſight of Pharaoh, and with an aſſiſtant ſpokeſman in his brother Aaron. And though Pharaoh will not hearken, he ſhall feel God's heavy hand, and Iſrael be delivered. Note, (1.) The conteſt is very unequal between a worm of earth and the mighty God. (2.) However miniſters may find oppoſition, as many as are ordained unto eternal life ſhall hear them. (3.) They who will not bow before the ſceptre of grace, ſhall break beneath the rod of judgment.

2. Their obedience at laſt, without farther reluctance. It is well if at laſt, though late, we deſire to give ourſelves up wholly to the work and will of God.

8. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying, 9. When Pharaoh ſhall ſpeak unto you, ſaying, Shew a miracle for you: then thou ſhalt ſay unto Aaron, [d] Take thy rod and caſt it before Pharaoh, and it ſhall become a ſerpent. 10. ¶ And Moſes and Aaron went in unto Pharaoh, and they did ſo as the LORD had commanded: and Aaron caſt down his rod before Pharaoh, and before his ſervants, and it became a ſerpent. 11. Then Pharaoh alſo [e] called the wiſe-men and [f] the ſorcerers: now the magicians of Egypt, they alſo did in like manner with their inchantments. 12. For they caſt down every man his rod, and they became ſerpents: but Aaron's rod ſwallowed up their rods. 13. And he hardned Pharaoh's heart, that he hearkned not unto them; [g] as the LORD had ſaid.

[d] Chap. iv. 2, 17.
[e] Gen. xli. 8.
[f] 2 Tim. iii. 8.
[g] Chap. iv. 21.

v. 8—13. God inſtructs them in their proceedings, and, as he knew Pharaoh would aſk for a ſign, he gives them one.

1. Hereupon they go in, the ſign is demanded, and the rod becomes a ſerpent. Note, Many demand a miracle, not to yield to it if wrought, but to countenance their unbelief.

2. Pharaoh calls in his magicians, and they do the ſame. Their rods become ſerpents, either from diabolical agency, or, as I am induced to think, from the power of God, working beyond their art, and with a view in juſt judgment to harden Pharaoh's heart, which was the effect. For though Aaron's rod devoured theirs, a ſufficient proof of its ſuperiority, yet thoſe who are prejudiced againſt the truth, readily embrace every ſhadow of argument to countenance their infidelity. Note, The heavieſt judgment of God in this world, is to harden ſinners hearts, and this he doth by methods which leave them without excuſe.

14. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, [h] Pharaoh's heart is hardned, he refuſeth to let the people go. 15. Get thee unto Pharaoh in the morning, lo, he goeth out unto the water, and thou ſhalt ſtand by the river's brink, againſt he come: and the rod which was turned to a ſerpent ſhalt thou take in thine hand. 16. And thou ſhalt ſay unto him, The LORD God of the Hebrews hath ſent me unto thee, ſaying, Let my people go, [i] that they may ſerve me in the wilderneſs: and behold, hitherto thou wouldeſt not hear. 17. Thus ſaith the LORD, In this thou ſhalt know that I am the LORD: [k] behold, I will ſmite with the rod that is in mine hand, upon the waters which are in the river, and they ſhall be turned [l] to blood. 18. And the fiſh that is in the river ſhall die, and the river ſhall ſtink; and the Egyptians ſhall loath to drink of the water of the river. 19. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, Say unto Aaron, Take thy rod, and ſtretch out thine hand upon the waters of Egypt, upon their ſtreams, upon their rivers, and upon their ponds, and upon all their † pools of water, that they may become blood; and that there may be blood throughout all the land of Egypt, both in veſſels of wood, and in veſſels of ſtone. 20. And Moſes and Aaron did ſo, as the LORD commanded: and he [m] lift up the rod, and ſmote the waters that were in the river, in the ſight of Pharaoh, and in the ſight of his ſervants: and all [n] the waters that were in the river, were turned

[h] Chap. viii. 15. & x. 1, 20, 27.
[i] Chap. iii. 12, 18. & v. 1, 3.
[k] Chap. iv. 9.
[l] Rev. xvi. 6.
† Heb. Gathering of their waters.
[m] Chap. xvii. 5.
[n] Pſ. lxxviii. 44. & cv. 29.

turned to blood. 21. And the fiſh that was in the river, died : and the river ſtank, and the Egyptians could not drink of the water of the river, and there was blood o Wiſd. xvii. 7. throughout all the land of Egypt. . 22. And [o] the magicians of Egypt did ſo with their inchantments : and Pharaoh's heart was hardned, neither did he hearken p Ver. 3. unto them ; [p] as the LORD had ſaid. 23. And Pharaoh turned and went into his houſe, neither did he ſet his heart to this alſo. 24. And all the Egyptians digged round about the river for water to drink : for they could not drink of the water of the river. 25.
And ſeven days were fulfilled, after that the LORD had ſmitten the river.

v. 14—24. God gives warning before he ſtrikes. Vengeance is his ſtrange work ; but when admonition is vain, then he draws the glittering ſword.

1. The judgment is heavy. All the water turned into blood, their fiſh deſtroyed, their land threatned thus with dearth, and themſelves to die with thirſt. The waters of the Nile were the cauſe of Egypt's fruitfulneſs, but now they are its plague ; ſo eaſily can God turn our comforts into curſes. They had ſtained its ſtreams with the blood of Hebrew children, and now they ſhall in return have blood to drink. Thus God will repay in kind ; and this done openly for their greater conviction. Truth never needs nor ſeeks the covert. Learn hence, (1.) How ill we can do without the moſt common bleſſings : the want of water only would deſtroy us. (2.) That we muſt blame our ſins as the cauſe of all our ſufferings.

2. The magicians are ready to oppoſe miracles by lies. They ſeem to have juggled in this ; for if all the waters were blood, where ſhould they prove their power ? Had they turned the blood into water, they had been great indeed ; but if any water was found by thoſe who digged for it, God's permitting them to turn it into blood, but aggravated the judgment. However, falſe or real, Pharaoh was perſuaded. Note, Every infidel muſt believe things more abſurd and contradictory, to countenance his infidelity, than he can lay to the charge of thoſe whom he calls credulous.

CHAP. VIII.

Three more of the plagues of Egypt are related in this chapter, (1.) That of the frogs, threatned, inflicted, mimicked by the magicians, removed at the humble requeſt of Pharaoh, who yet hardens his heart, and refuſes to let Iſrael go, ver. 1—15. (2.) The plague of lice, ver. 16, 17. By which, 1. The magicians were baffled, ver. 18, 19. and yet, 2. Pharaoh was hardned, ver. 19. (3.) That of flies : 1. Pharaoh is warned of it before, ver. 20, 21. and told that the land of Goſhen ſhould be exempt from this plague, ver. 22, 23. 2. The plague is brought, ver. 24. 3. Pharaoh treats with Moſes, about the releaſe of Iſrael, and humbles himſelf, ver. 25—29. 4. The plague is thereupon removed, ver. 31. and Pharaoh's heart hardned, ver. 32.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, Go unto Pharaoh, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Let my people go, that they may ſerve me.
2. And if thou refuſe to let them go, behold, I will a Rev. xvi. 13. ſmite all thy borders with [a] frogs. 3. And the river ſhall bring forth frogs abundantly, which ſhall go up and come into thine houſe, and into thy bed-chamber, and upon thy bed, and into the houſe of thy ſervants, and upon thy people, and into thine ovens, and into thy † Or, dough. † kneading-troughs. 4. And the frogs ſhall come up both on thee, and upon thy people, and upon all thy ſervants. 5. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, Say unto Aaron, Stretch forth thine hand with thy rod over the ſtreams, over the rivers, and over the ponds, and cauſe frogs to come up upon the land of Egypt.
6. And Aaron ſtretched out his hand over the waters b Pſ. lxxviii. 45. & cv. 30. of Egypt ; and [b] the frogs came up, and covered the c Wiſd. xvii. 7. land of Egypt. 7. And [c] the magicians did ſo with their inchantments, and brought up frogs upon the land d Chap. ix. 28. & x. 17. Num. xxi. 7. 1 Kings xiii. 6. Acts viii. 24. of Egypt. 8. ¶ Then Pharaoh called for Moſes and Aaron, and ſaid, [d] Intreat the LORD, that he may take away the frogs from me, and from my people : and I will let the people go, that they may do ſacrifice unto the ‡ Or, Have this honour over me, &c. LORD. 9. And Moſes ſaid unto Pharaoh, ‡ Glory over ‖ Or, againſt when, &c. me : ‖ when ſhall I intreat for thee and for thy ſervants, § Heb. To cut off. and for thy people, § to deſtroy the frogs from thee, and thy houſes, that they may remain in the river only ? 10.
† Or, Againſt to-morrow. And he ſaid, † To-morrow. And he ſaid, Be it according to thy word : that thou mayeſt know, that there is none like unto the LORD our God. 11. And the frogs ſhall depart from thee, and from thy houſes, and from thy ſervants, and from thy people ; they ſhall remain in the river only. 12. And Moſes and Aaron went out from Pharaoh : and Moſes cried unto the LORD, becauſe of the frogs which he had brought againſt Pharaoh. 13. And the LORD did according to the word of Moſes : and the frogs died out of the houſes, out of the villages, and out of the fields. 14. And they gathered them together upon heaps : and the land ſtank.
15. But when Pharaoh ſaw that there was reſpite, [e] he e Chap. vii. 14.
hardned his heart, and hearkned not unto them ; as the LORD had ſaid.

v. 1—15. The ſeven days of the firſt plague being expired, God brings a ſecond. He has many arrows in his quiver. But, 1. He ſends to beg his people's deliverance, for Pharaoh's ſake, as well as theirs : for God delighteth not in the death of a ſinner. He adds threats to his intreaty, but in vain. Hereupon, 2. The plague is inflicted. The frogs come up, as an invading army : no place is free, even to their beds and kneading-troughs. Note, When God purſues the guilty conſcience, even his bed cannot give him reſt, nor his meals be in quiet. 3. The magicians imitate or aggravate the Judgment. It is a bad power, which we had better be without, only to be able to do hurt. 4. Pharaoh now at laſt begins for a moment to relent. Moſes and Aaron are called ; he begs their prayers, and promiſes to let the people go. In times of ſuffering, many will call for their help or prayers, which before it may be they deſpiſed. 5. Moſes gives Pharaoh the honour of fixing the time, with aſſurance of their removal. Pharaoh appoints to-morrow. 6. His prayer, and the ſucceſs of it, v. 12, 13. Note, (1.) If we muſt pray for our perſecutors, how much more for ſuch as give us hopes of penitence. (2.) The prayer of faith is wonderfully effectual. 7. Pharaoh's impenitence : no ſooner reſpited, than again hardned. Like his are moſt ſick-bed promiſes, that with returning health are all forgotten. Neither God's patience, nor his judgments, without his grace, will ſavingly convert the ſinner's heart. The more ſmitten, the more ſpared, the more impenitent.

16. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, ſay unto Aaron, Stretch out thy rod, and ſmite the duſt of the land, that it may become lice throughout all the land of Egypt. 17. And they did ſo ; for Aaron ſtretched out his hand with his rod, and ſmote the duſt of the earth, and [f] it became lice in man and in beaſt : all the duſt of f Pſ. cv. 31.
the land became lice throughout all the land of Egypt.
18. And the magicians did ſo with their inchantments to bring forth lice, but they could not : ſo there were lice upon man and upon beaſt. 19. Then the magicians ſaid unto Pharaoh, This is [g] the finger of God : and g 1 Sam. vi. 3, 9. Pſ. viii. 3. Mat. xii. 28. Luke xi. 20.
Pharaoh's heart was hardned, and he hearkned not unto them ; as the LORD had ſaid.

v. 16—19. The vileſt and moſt deſpicable of the creatures, when ſent from him, are ſufficient to plague the proudeſt. The frogs are gone, and Pharaoh at eaſe. But now, without warning,

1. The lice come upon him ; nor man nor beaſt is free from this loathſome intruder. They who will not repent of their ſins ſhall be plagued for them.

2. The magicians are baffled in their attempts. They who can bring frogs, can neither bring nor remove the lice. The devil can go no farther than his chain. They are made to own the finger of God. Thus the moſt inveterate of God's enemies have oft-times bore teſtimony to his glory.

3. Pharaoh's determined hardneſs of heart. When God gives a man up to a reprobate mind, nothing can ſave him.

20. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Riſe up early in the morning, and ſtand before Pharaoh, (lo, he cometh forth to the water) and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD, Let my people go, that they may ſerve me.
21. Elſe if thou wilt not let my people go, behold,
I will ſend † ſwarms of flies upon thee, and upon thy ſer- † Or, a mixture of noiſome beaſts, &c.
vants, and upon thy people, and into thy houſes : and the houſes of the Egyptians ſhall be full of ſwarms of flies, and alſo the ground whereon they are. 22. And ‡ I [h] will ſever in that day the land of Goſhen, in which ‡ h Chap. ix. 4, 26. & x. 23. & xii. 13.
my people dwell, that no ſwarms of flies ſhall be there :
to the end thou mayeſt know that I am the LORD in the midſt of the earth. 23. And I will put ‖ a diviſion ‖ Heb. A redemption.
between my people and thy people ; § to-morrow ſhall § Or, by to-morrow.
this ſign be. 24. And the LORD did ſo : and [i] there i Pſ. lxxviii. 45. & cv. 31. Wiſd. xvi. 9.
came a grievous ſwarm of flies into the houſe of Pharaoh,
and

Before Chriſt 1491.

and into his ſervants houſes, and into all the land of Egypt: the land was † corrupted by reaſon of the ſwarm of flies. 25 ¶ And Pharaoh called for Moſes and for Aaron, and ſaid, Go ye, ſacrifice to your God in the land. 26. And Moſes ſaid, It is not meet ſo to do: for we ſhall ſacrifice [k] the abomination of the Egyptians to the LORD our God: Lo, ſhall we ſacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians before their eyes, and will they not ſtone us? 27. We will go [l] three days journey into the wilderneſs, and ſacrifice to the LORD our God, [m] as he ſhall command us. 28. And Pharaoh ſaid, I will let you go, that ye may ſacrifice to the LORD your God in the wilderneſs; only you ſhall not go very far away: [n] intreat for me. 29. And Moſes ſaid, Behold, I go out from thee, and I will intreat the LORD, that the ſwarms of flies may depart from Pharaoh, from his ſervants, and from his people, to-morrow: but let not Pharaoh deal deceitfully any more, in not letting the people go to ſacrifice to the LORD. 30. And Moſes went out from Pharaoh, and intreated the LORD. 31. And the LORD did according to the word of Moſes, and he removed the ſwarms of flies from Pharaoh, from his ſervants, and from his people: there remained not one. 32. And Pharaoh [o] hardned his heart at this time alſo, neither would he let the people go.

† Or, deſtroyed.

[k] Gen. xliii. 32. & xlvi. 34.

[l] Chap. iii. 12.

[m] Chap. iii. 18.

[n] Ver. viii. Chap. ix. 28. 1 Kings xiii. 6.

[o] Ver. 15. Chap. iv. 21.

v. 20—32. 1. Pharaoh is warned of God's reſolution to ſend a grievous ſwarm of flies. He was probably praying at the river to his falſe gods, and here is a meſſage to him from Jehovah. Diſtinction ſhall be made between God's people and his, more evidently to demonſtrate the hand of God in the judgment. Whilſt Egypt is full of flies, Goſhen ſhall be free. Note, God is able to ſecure his ſervants from common deſolations here; but if they ſhould now ſink with others in affliction, the day is near, when he will make an awful and eternal ſeparation between the righteous and the wicked.

2. Pharaoh calls for Moſes and Aaron; and, tormented with theſe noiſome inſects, he makes ſome reluctant conceſſions: they ſhall worſhip, but in Egypt. The propoſal is rejected, and the reaſon given, v. 26. They inſiſt upon liberty to depart, v. 27. and he with unwillingneſs conſents they ſhall go, but not far out of his reach. Note, (1.) Sins that we are driven from by a tormented conſcience through fear only, like a miſtreſs caſt off in a paſſion, will ſoon be taken in again. (2) In order to ſerve God acceptably, we muſt be ſeparate from the ways and company of a wicked world. (3) No ſervice can pleaſe him, but what is according to his will and word.

3. Moſes is content to intercede for him, but admoniſhes him not to deal deceitfully. God is not mocked. Forced repentance uſually betrays itſelf; but though we impoſe upon men, we cannot upon God: we can only deceive ourſelves to our ruin.

4. The plague is removed, and Pharaoh's hypocriſy appears. Bad truſting to wicked men's words. The ambition and pride of kings make them often break their ſolemn treaties; but they only thereby court their own deſtruction.

CHAP. IX.

In this chapter we have an account of three more of the plagues of Egypt. 1. Murrain among the cattle, ver. 1—7. 2. Boils upon man and beaſt, ver. 8—12. 3. Hail with thunder and lightning. 1. Warning is given, ver. 13—21. 2. It is inflicted to their great terror, ver. 22—26. 3. Pharaoh in a fright renews his treaty with Moſes, but inſtantly breaks his word, ver. 27—35.

1. THEN the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go in unto Pharaoh, and tell him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may ſerve me. 2. For if thou refuſe to let them go, and wilt hold them ſtill, 3. Behold the hand of the LORD is upon thy cattle which is in the field, upon the horſes, upon the aſſes, upon the camels, upon the oxen, and upon the ſheep: there ſhall be a very grievous murrain. 4. And [a] the LORD ſhall ſever between the cattle of Iſrael, and the cattle of Egypt: and there ſhall nothing die of all that is the childrens of Iſrael. 5. And the LORD appointed a ſet time, ſaying, To-morrow the LORD ſhall do this thing in the land. 6. And the LORD did that thing on the morrow, and [b] all the cattle of Egypt died: but of the cattle of the children of Iſrael died not one. 7. And Pharaoh ſent, and behold, there was not one of the cattle of the Iſraelites dead. And [c] the heart of Pharaoh was hardned, and he did not let the people go.

[a] Chap. viii. 22.

[b] Pſ. lxxviii. 50.

[c] Chap. vii. 14.

v. 1—7. Who can ſtand before this holy Lord God? His ſtrokes fall ſtill heavier. The grievous murrain is denounced and comes. The cattle of Egypt die, whilſt thoſe of Iſrael live. Pharaoh ſends to ſee, yet rejects the conviction. Nothing will convince thoſe whom God determines to deſtroy.

8. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, Take to you handfuls of aſhes of the furnace, and let Moſes ſprinkle it towards the heaven in the ſight of Pharaoh. 9. And it ſhall become ſmall duſt in all the land of Egypt, and ſhall be [d] a boil breaking forth with blains, upon man, and upon beaſt, throughout all the land of Egypt. 10. And they took aſhes of the furnace, and ſtood before Pharaoh, and Moſes ſprinkled it up toward heaven: and it became [e] a boil breaking forth with blains upon man, and upon beaſt. 11. And the magicians could not ſtand before Moſes, becauſe of the boil: for the boil was upon the magicians, and upon all the Egyptians. 12. And the LORD hardned the heart of Pharaoh, and he hearkned not unto them, [e] as the LORD had ſpoken unto Moſes.

[d] Rev. xvi. 2.

[e] Deut. xxviii. 27.

[e] Chap. iv. 21.

v. 8—12. To humble ourſelves under the mighty hand of God, is the way to avert his judgments; to harden our heart, is but to increaſe them. Behold, another plague: that affected their cattle, this their perſons. A boil, as painful as loathſome. The fire of the furnace never ſcorched the Iſraelites, ſo much as this duſt the body of the Egyptians. Not even the magicians could ſtand before it: their folly is now as manifeſt, as their ſufferings are grievous. Note, (1.) God will moſt ſeverely handle thoſe who have been moſt inſtrumental in deceiving and hardening others. (2.) Though the devil delude men into ſin, he cannot preſerve them from ſuffering. Pharaoh ſtill is hardned: he had rejected God's warnings, and now his impenitence is both his puniſhment and crime. Note, When men reject God, it is juſt they ſhould be rejected by him.

13. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Riſe up early in the morning, and ſtand before Pharaoh, and ſay unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may ſerve me. 14. For I will at this time ſend all my plagues upon thine heart, and upon thy ſervants, and upon thy people: that thou mayeſt know that there is none like me in all the earth. 15. For now I will ſtretch out my hand, that I may ſmite thee and thy people with peſtilence; and thou ſhalt be cut off from the earth. 16. And in very deed for [f] this cauſe have I † raiſed thee up, for to ſhew in thee my power; and that my name may be declared throughout all the earth. 17. As yet exalteſt thou thyſelf againſt my people, that thou wilt not let them go? 18. Behold, to-morrow about this time I will cauſe it to rain a very grievous hail, ſuch as hath not been in Egypt ſince the foundation thereof, even until now. 19. Send therefore now, and gather thy cattle, and all that thou haſt in the field: for upon every man and beaſt which ſhall be found in the field, and ſhall not be brought home, the hail ſhall come down upon them, and they ſhall die. 20. He that feared the word of the LORD amongſt the ſervants of Pharaoh, made his ſervants and his cattle flee into the houſes. 21. And he that ‡ regarded not the word of the LORD, left his ſervants and his cattle in the field.

[f] Rom. ix. 17. See chap. xiv. 17. Prov. xvi. 4. 1 Pet. ii. 8.

† Heb. Made thee ſtand.

‡ Heb. Set not his heart unto.

v. 13—21. Did ever any man harden his heart againſt God, and proſper? Let us read and tremble.

1. A new demand is made, and a more terrible judgment threatened. Bodily plagues are grievous, but heart-plagues the worſt of miſeries. God will be glorified wherever he contends. The wrath and furiouſneſs of man ſhall praiſe him. Pharaoh is raiſed up, on purpoſe to make his power known: dreadful ſummit of dignity, like Lucifer's, only to fall with more diſtinguiſhed ruin. Note, The veſſels of wrath fitted for deſtruction ſhall as certainly ſhew forth the ſovereignty, power, and juſtice of God, as the veſſels of mercy, his diſtinguiſhing grace and love.

2. To thoſe who have any fear of God, time is given to prepare for, and avoid the ſtroke, by taking in their cattle. Mercy here mingles with judgment. Note, If a man hear and fear, he may eſcape; for there is in Jeſus Chriſt a covert from the ſtorm for the chief of ſinners. Some, like the maſter, deſpiſed the warning. Wickedneſs in high places affords a moſt pernicious and prevalent example. Some feared, and brought in their cattle. God hath his ſecret ones in the worſt days, and even in Cæſar's houſhold.

22. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch forth thine hand toward heaven, that there may be [g] hail in all the land of Egypt; upon man, and upon beaſt, and upon every herb of the field, throughout the land of Egypt. 23. And Moſes ſtretched forth his rod toward heaven, and [h] the LORD ſent thunder and hail, and the fire ran along upon the ground; and the LORD rained hail upon the land of Egypt. 24. So there was hail, and fire mingled with the hail, very grievous, ſuch as there was none like it in all the land of Egypt, ſince it became a nation. 25. And the hail ſmote throughout all the land of Egypt, all that was in the field, both man and beaſt: and the hail ſmote every herb of the field, and brake every tree of the field. 26. [i] Only in the land of Goſhen, where the children of Iſrael were, was there no hail. 27. ¶ And Pharaoh ſent, and called for Moſes and Aaron, and ſaid unto them, I have ſinned this time: the LORD is righteous, and I and my people are wicked. 28. [k] Intreat the LORD (for it is enough) that there be no more † mighty thunderings and hail; and I will let you go, and ye ſhall ſtay no longer. 29. And Moſes ſaid unto him, As ſoon as I am gone out of the city, I will ſpread abroad my hands unto the LORD: and the thunder ſhall ceaſe, neither ſhall there be any more hail; that thou mayeſt know, how that the [l] earth is the LORD's. 30. But as for thee and thy ſervants, I know that ye will not yet fear the LORD God. 31. And the flax and the barley was ſmitten: for the barley was in the ear, and the flax was bolled. 32. [m] But the wheat and the rye were not ſmitten; for they were ‡ not grown up. 33. And Moſes went out of the city from Pharaoh, and ſpread abroad his hands unto the LORD: and the thunders and hail ceaſed, and the rain was not poured upon the earth. 34. And when Pharaoh ſaw that the rain, and the hail, and the thunders were ceaſed, he ſinned yet more, and hardned his heart, he and his ſervants. 35. And [n] the heart of Pharaoh was hardned, neither would he let the children of Iſrael go; as the LORD had ſpoken ‖ by Moſes.

[g] Rev. xvi. 21.

[h] Pſ. lxxviii. 47. & cv. 32.

[i] Chap. viii. 22. & x. 23. & xi. 7. & xii. 13.

[k] Chap. viii. 8, 28. & x. 17. Acts viii. 24.

† Heb. Voices of God.

[l] Pſ. xxiv. 1.

[m] Ruth i. 22. & ii. 23.

‡ Heb. Hidden or dark.

[n] Chap. iv. 21.

‖ Heb. By the hand of Moſes.

v. 22—35. How terrible the ſtorm, how dreadful the havock! Whilſt mighty thunders utter their voices in the heavens, and the lightnings flaſh around, the battering hail, reſiſtleſs in its fury, beats down all before it. Egypt ſeems ſwept with the beſom of deſtruction: men, cattle, trees, corn, lie in promiſcuous ruin. Nothing is left alive, that is expoſed to the devouring tempeſt, whilſt Goſhen enjoys peaceful ſerenity. Pharaoh, aſtoniſhed, humbles himſelf to the duſt, confeſſes his wickedneſs, and intreats forgiveneſs. Moſes immediately goes out. They need not fear, whom God protects. In the midſt of the ſtorm he prays and is heard. Note, They who have learnt to pray, are thunder-proof. But no ſooner does the ſtorm ceaſe, than Pharaoh recants. Confeſſions extorted by fear are ſcarce ſooner made than revoked. How many a ſinner hath trembled, like Pharaoh, and, for a moment, owned a God of judgment; and then, when the danger was paſſed, perhaps laughed at his own fears, and carried it off with a bravado.

CHAP. X.

The eighth and ninth of the plagues of Egypt, that of locuſts, and that of darkneſs, are recorded in this chapter. 1. Concerning the plague of locuſts, (1.) God inſtructs Moſes in the meaning of theſe amazing diſpenſations, ver. 1, 2. (2.) He threatens the locuſts, ver. 3—6. (3.) Pharaoh, at the perſuaſion of his ſervants, is willing to treat again with Moſes, ver. 7, 8, 9. but they cannot agree, ver. 10, 11. (4.) The locuſts come, ver. 12—15. (5.) Pharaoh intreats, ver. 16, 17. Moſes prays for the removal of the plague, ver. 18, 19. Pharaoh ſtill hardned, ver. 20. 2. Concerning the plague of darkneſs, 1. It is inflicted, ver. 21, 22, 23. 2. Pharaoh again treats with Moſes about a ſurrender, but breaks off in a heat, ver. 24—29.

1. AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go in unto Pharaoh: for [a] I have hardned his heart, and the heart of his ſervants; that I might ſhew theſe my ſigns before him: 2. And that [b] thou mayſt tell in the ears of thy ſon, and of thy ſon's ſon, what things I have wrought in Egypt, and my ſigns which I have done amongſt them; that ye may know how that I am the LORD. 3. And Moſes and Aaron came in unto Pharaoh, and ſaid unto him, Thus ſaith the LORD God of the Hebrews, How long wilt thou refuſe to humble thyſelf before me? Let my people go, that they may ſerve me. 4. Elſe if thou refuſe to let my people go, behold, to-morrow will I bring the [c] locuſts into thy coaſt. 5. And they ſhall cover the † face of the earth, that one cannot be able to ſee the earth: and [d] they ſhall eat the reſidue of that which is eſcaped, which remaineth unto you from the hail, and ſhall eat every tree which groweth for you out of the field. 6. And they ſhall fill thy houſes, and the houſes of all thy ſervants, and the houſes of all the Egyptians; which neither thy fathers, nor thy fathers fathers have ſeen, ſince the day that they were upon the earth, unto this day. And he turned himſelf, and went out from Pharaoh. 7. And Pharaoh's ſervants ſaid unto him, How long ſhall this man be a ſnare unto us? Let the men go, that they may ſerve the LORD their God: Knoweſt thou not yet, that Egypt is deſtroyed? 8. And Moſes and Aaron were brought again unto Pharaoh: and he ſaid unto them, Go, ſerve the LORD your God: but ‡ who are they that ſhall go? 9. And Moſes ſaid, We will go with our young, and with our old, with our ſons, and with our daughters; with our flocks, and with our herds will we go: for we muſt hold a feaſt unto the LORD. 10. And he ſaid unto them, Let the LORD be ſo with you, as I will let you go, and your little ones: look to it, for evil is before you. 11. Not ſo: go now ye that are men, and ſerve the LORD, for that you did deſire. And they were driven out from Pharaoh's preſence.

[a] Chap. iv. 21. & vii. 14.

[b] Pſ. lxxi. 18. & lxxviii. 5.

[c] Wiſd. xvi. 9.

† Heb. Eye.

[d] Joel i. 4.

‡ Heb. Who and who ſhall, &c.

v. 1—11. God's judgments are ſtanding memorials of his power and juſtice, that the potſherds of the earth may not dare to contend with their Maker. Egypt is almoſt conſumed, but her king is obſtinate as ever. Therefore,

1. Moſes is ſent again to challenge God's people. Before he intreated, now he demands. It required courage indeed to ſtand thus before an incenſed king. Grace makes men as bold as lions. The locuſts are threatened, v. 4, 5, and, without waiting for reply, he turns and departs.

2. Pharaoh's ſervants intercede with him, for fear of that evident ruin which muſt attend his refuſal. On this he makes a new propoſal, v. 8, but, as they who ſerve God, muſt ſerve him with all they poſſeſs, Moſes inſiſts on leave to depart for themſelves, their children, and their cattle, v. 9. This Pharaoh rejects with indignation, and drives them from his preſence in a rage. Note, When the Devil gets a ſinner to the precipice, he puſhes him quickly headlong down.

12. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch out thine hand over the land of Egypt for the locuſts, that they may come up upon the land of Egypt, and eat every herb of the land, even all that the hail hath left. 13. And Moſes ſtretched forth his rod over the land of Egypt, and the LORD brought an eaſt wind upon the land all that day, and all that night: and when it was morning, the eaſt wind brought the locuſts. 14. And [e] the locuſts went up over all the land of Egypt, and reſted in all the coaſts of Egypt: very grievous were they; [f] before them there were no ſuch locuſts as they, neither after them ſhall be ſuch. 15. For they covered the face of the whole earth, ſo that the land was darkned, and they did eat every herb of the land, and all the fruit of the trees, which the hail had left: and there remained not any green thing in the trees, or in the herbs of the field, through all the land of Egypt. 16. ¶ Then Pharaoh † called for Moſes and Aaron in haſte; and he ſaid, I have ſinned againſt the LORD your God, and againſt you. 17. Now therefore forgive, I pray thee, my ſin only this once, and [g] intreat the LORD your God, that he may take away from me this death only. 18. And he went out from Pharaoh, and intreated the LORD. 19. And the LORD turned a mighty ſtrong weſt wind, which took away the locuſts, and ‡ caſt them [h] into the Red-ſea: there remained not one locuſt in all the coaſts of Egypt. 20. But the LORD [i] hardned Pharaoh's heart, ſo that he would not let the children of Iſrael go.

[e] Pſ. lxxviii. 46. & cv. 34.

[f] Joel, ii. 2.

† Heb. Haſtened to call.

[g] Chap. ix. 28.

‡ Heb. Faſtened.

[h] Joel ii. 20.

[i] Chap. iv. 21. & xi. 10.

v. 12—20. The locuſts come, the ſky is darkened, the earth covered, and the little which the hail had left utterly conſumed. How ſoon can God, by the moſt contemptible inſects, make our land a wilderneſs! Hereupon,

1. Pharaoh returns to ſubmiſſion and intreaty, begs pardon of God and his ſervants, and promiſes very largely, v. 16, 17. Note, (1.) They who deſpiſe God's miniſters, had well aſk their pardon, before they ſtand to accuſe them at the bar of God. (2.) They who are more ſollicitous to remove the threatened death, than their ſin which is the cauſe of it, are certainly hypocritical penitents.

2. Moſes prays, and a weſt wind carries the locuſts away. No ſooner is the plague removed, than Pharaoh returns as the dog to his vomit again. Frequent relapſes into ſin uſually end in final apoſtacy.

21. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch out thine hand towards heaven, that there may be darkneſs over the land of Egypt, † even darkneſs which may be felt. 22. And Moſes ſtretched forth his hand toward heaven: and there was [k] a thick darkneſs in all the land of Egypt three days. 23. They ſaw not one another, neither roſe any from his place for three days; but [l] all the children of Iſrael had light in their dwellings. 24. ¶ And Pharaoh called unto Moſes, and ſaid, Go ye, ſerve the LORD; only let your flocks and your herds be ſtayed: let your little ones alſo go with you. 25. And Moſes ſaid, Thou muſt give ‡ us alſo ſacrifices and burnt-offerings, that we may ſacrifice unto the LORD our God. 26. Our cattle alſo ſhall go with us; there ſhall not an hoof be left behind: for thereof muſt we take to ſerve the LORD our God; and we know not with what we muſt ſerve the LORD, until we come thither. 27. ¶ But the LORD [m] hardned Pharaoh's heart, and he would not let them go. 28. And Pharaoh ſaid unto him, Get thee from me, take heed to thyſelf, ſee my face no more: for in that day thou ſeeſt my face, thou ſhalt die. 29. And Moſes ſaid, Thou haſt ſpoken well, [n] I will ſee thy face again no more.

† Heb. That one may feel darkneſs.
k Pſ. cv. 28. Wiſd. xvii. 2.
l Chap. viii. 22. Wiſd. xviii. 1.
‡ Heb. Into our hands.
m Chap. xiv. 4, 8.
n Heb. xi. 27.

v. 21—29. When ſin is not repented of, God's wrath is not turned away; and though there may be intervals of reſpite, yet his hand is ſtretched out ſtill.

1. A more diſmal plague overtakes them; total darkneſs, ſo thick as to be felt, and made more frightful from the terrors of conſcience, which now muſt ſeize them, as well as perhaps from fiends of darkneſs, who, as tradition reports, with horrid yells tormented and haunted thoſe miſerable ſouls. Three days it continued, nor did any ſtir from his place. Note, Hell is the place of darkneſs and of torment. They who chuſe the darkneſs of ſin, are doomed to this outer darkneſs, where is weeping, and wailing, and gnaſhing of teeth. If three days ſo ſpent were dreadful, what muſt it be to ſpend eternity thus?

2. Iſrael had light in their dwellings. How much better the lightſome tent of a Hebrew ſervant, than the darkened palaces of proud Pharaoh? Note, The ſoul in a cottage, who enjoys the light of God's countenance, is unſpeakably more happy, than the greateſt monarch that walks in the darkneſs of ſin.

3. Pharaoh again ſounds a parley, advances a little farther, v. 24. Moſes is peremptory; a hoof ſhall not be left behind. Note, Falſe repentance is always partial, and ſome ſecret ſin is reſerved: true repentance is univerſal, in renouncing every known evil. Allowedly, not a hoof muſt be left behind.

4. Mad with rage, Pharaoh thruſts him out, and threatens him with death, if he dare ever appear in his preſence again. Impotent threats! The ungodly gnaſh with their teeth, and pine away. Moſes conſents to his commands, and leaves him quickly, with juſter indignation. That ſoul, that people, that place, are then paſt recovery, who thruſt out God's miniſters from them, and have the duſt of their feet ſhaken off for a teſtimony againſt them.

CHAP. XI.

Moſes takes his final leave of Pharaoh. 1. God gives him inſtructions what to do, ver. 1, 2, 3. 2. The laſt meſſage concerning the death of the firſt-born, ver. 4—8. 3. A repetition of the prediction of Pharaoh's hardning his heart, ver. 9. and the event anſwering it, ver. 10.

1. AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Yet will I bring one plague more upon Pharaoh, and upon Egypt; afterwards he will let you go hence: [a] when he ſhall let you go, he ſhall ſurely thruſt you out hence altogether. 2. Speak now in the ears of the people, and let every man borrow of his neighbour, and every woman of her neighbour, [b] jewels of ſilver, and jewels of gold. 3. And [c] the LORD gave the people favour in the ſight of the Egyptians. Moreover, the man [d] Moſes was very great in the land of Egypt, in the ſight of Pharaoh's ſervants, and in the ſight of the people.

a Chap. xii. 31, 33, 39.
b Chap. iii. 22. & xii. 35.
c Chap. xii. 36.
d Ecclus xlv. 1.

v. 1—3. They who deſpiſed Moſes at firſt, begin to fear and honour him at laſt. God gives him his laſt directions. Iſrael had ſerved for no wages long enough; God will now repay them in the jewels of Egypt. Some way or other, they who ſuffer for him ſhall obtain their reward. God hath a ſhort work to do; one ſtroke more, and then they ſhall be as earneſt to thruſt them out, as before to hold them priſoners. Note, There is one judgment yet to come after this life againſt ſinners, which ſhall humble them, if nothing elſe doth.

4. And Moſes ſaid, Thus ſaith the LORD, [e] About midnight will I go out into the midſt of Egypt. 5. And [f] all the firſt-born in the land of Egypt ſhall die, from the firſt-born of Pharaoh, that ſitteth upon his throne, even unto the firſt-born of the maid-ſervant that is behind the mill; and all the firſt-born of beaſts. 6. And there ſhall be a great cry throughout all the land of Egypt, ſuch as there was none like it, nor ſhall be like it any more. 7. [g] But againſt any of the children of Iſrael [h] ſhall not a dog move his tongue, againſt man or beaſt: that ye may know how that the LORD doth put a difference between the Egyptians and Iſrael. 8. And [i] all theſe thy ſervants ſhall come down unto me, and bow down themſelves unto me, ſaying, Get thee out, and all the people † that follow thee; and after that I will go out: and he went out from Pharaoh in ‡ a great anger. 9. And [k] the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Pharaoh ſhall not hearken unto you; that [l] my wonders may be multiplied in the land of Egypt. 10. And Moſes and Aaron did all theſe wonders before Pharaoh: and the LORD [m] hardned Pharaoh's heart, ſo that he would not let the children of Iſrael go out of his land.

e Chap. xii. 29.
f Chap. xii. 12.
g Chap. viii. 22.
h Joſh. x. 21.
i Chap. xii. 31, 33.
† Heb. That is at thy feet. So Judg. iv. 10. & viii. 5. 1 Kings xx. 10. 2 Kings iii. 9.
‡ Heb. Heat of anger.
k Chap. iii. 19. & x. 1.
l Chap vii. 3.
m Chap. iv. 21.

v. 4—10. The blow was long ſuſpended, Exod. iv. 23. Now it deſcends. God tries leſſer chaſtiſements firſt, to bring men to repentance; but when they are found incorrigible, then vengeance overtakes them to the uttermoſt.

1. The judgment is denounced; the time fixed, at dead of night; the extent of it, from the prince to the ſlave: Iſrael alone is exempted. In their dwellings there ſhall be life and joy, whilſt death and mourning ſhall fill the houſes of the Egyptians. Note, Death, as the wages of ſin, can never hurt thoſe who are paſſed from death unto life.

2. It is foretold how ſuppliant the proud perſecutors would grow, v. 8, and hereupon Moſes with indignation leaves the devoted palace. Note, (1.) The hardneſs of ſinners hearts is a bitter grief to the miniſters of Chriſt. (2.) When ſin is the object of our indignation, we may be angry, and ſin not.

3. The determined hardneſs of Pharaoh's heart, as foretold, continues. Note, We are not to wonder at the general rejection of God's truth; it was foretold long ago.

CHAP. XII.

Contains, 1. The inſtitution of the paſſover, 2. The killing and eating of the Paſchal Lamb, ver. 1—6, 8—11. 3. The ſprinkling of the blood upon the door-poſts, ver. 7. with the reaſon for it, ver. 11—13. 4. The feaſt of unleavened bread for ſeven days after, ver. 14—20. The people inſtructed in the obſervance, 1. Of this firſt paſſover, ver. 21—23. 2. Of the after-paſſovers, ver. 24—27. And the Iſraelites obedience to theſe orders, ver. 28. 2. The judgment on Egypt, 1. The firſt-born ſlain, ver. 29—30. 2. Orders are given immediately for Iſrael's diſcharge, ver. 31, 32, 33. 3. They begin their march, (1.) Loaded with their own effects, ver. 34. (2.) Enriched with the ſpoils of Egypt, ver. 35, 36. (3.) Attended with a mixt multitude, ver. 37, 38. (4.) Put to their ſhifts for preſent ſupply, ver. 39. This event is dated, ver. 40—42. Laſtly, A recapitulation, (1.) of this memorable ordinance, ver. 43—49. (2.) Of this memorable providence, ver. 50, 51.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and Aaron in the land of Egypt, ſaying, 2. This month ſhall be unto you the beginning of months: it ſhall be the firſt month of the year to you. 3. ¶ Speak ye unto all the congregation of Iſrael, ſaying, In the tenth day of this month they ſhall take to them every man a † lamb, according to the houſe of their fathers, a lamb for an houſe. 4. And if the houſhold be too little for the lamb, let him and his neighbour next unto his houſe, take it according to the number of the ſouls; every man according to his eating, ſhall make your count for the lamb. 5.

† Or kid.

Your

Before Chriſt 1491.

Your lamb ſhall be [a] without blemiſh, a male ‡ of the firſt year: ye ſhall take it out from the ſheep or from the goats. 6. And ye ſhall keep it up until the fourteenth day of the ſame month: and [b] the whole aſſembly of the congregation of Iſrael ſhall kill it ‖ in the evening. 7. And they ſhall take of the blood, and ſtrike it on the two ſide-poſts, and on the upper door-poſt of the houſes, wherein they ſhall eat it. 8. And they ſhall eat the fleſh in that night; roſt with fire, and [c] unleavened bread, and with bitter herbs they ſhall eat it. 9. Eat not of it raw, nor ſodden at all with water, but roſt with fire: his head with his legs, and with the purtenance thereof. 10. And [d] ye ſhall let nothing of it remain until the morning: and that which remaineth of it until the morning, ye ſhall burn with fire. 11. ¶ And thus ſhall ye eat it; with your loins girded, your ſhoes on your feet, and your ſtaff in your hand: and ye ſhall eat it in haſte: [e] it is the LORD's paſſover. 12. For I will paſs through the land of Egypt this night, and will ſmite all the firſt-born in the land of Egypt, both man and beaſt: and [f] againſt all the § gods of Egypt I will execute judgment: I am the LORD. 13. And the blood ſhall be to you for a token upon the houſes where you are: and when I ſee the blood, I will paſs over you, and the plague ſhall not be upon you † to deſtroy you, when I ſmite the land of Egypt. 14. And this day ſhall be unto you for a memorial; and you ſhall keep it a feaſt to the LORD throughout your generations! you ſhall keep it a feaſt by an ordinance for ever. 15. [g] Seven days ſhall ye eat unleavened bread, even the firſt day ye ſhall put away leaven out of your houſes: for whoſoever eateth leavened bread, from the firſt day until the ſeventh day, [h] that ſoul ſhall be cut off from Iſrael. 16. And in the firſt day there ſhall be an holy convocation, and in the ſeventh day there ſhall be an holy convocation to you: no manner of work ſhall be done in them, ſave that which every ‡ man muſt eat, that only may be done of you. 17. And ye ſhall obſerve the feaſt of unleavened bread; for in this ſelf-ſame day have I brought your armies out of the land of Egypt: therefore ſhall ye obſerve this day in your generations by an ordinance for ever. 18. ¶ [i] In the firſt month, on the fourteenth day of the month at even, ye ſhall eat unleavened bread, until the one and twentieth day of the month at even. 19. [k] Seven days ſhall there be no leaven found in your houſes: for whoſoever eateth that which is leavened, [l] even that ſoul ſhall be cut off from the congregation of Iſrael, whether he be a ſtranger or born in the land. 20. Ye ſhall eat nothing leavened: in all your habitations ſhall ye eat unleavened bread.

[a] Lev. xxii. 20, 21. Mal. i. 8. Heb. ix. 14. 1 Pet. i. 9.
‡ Heb. Son of a year.
[b] Lev. xxiii. 5. Numb. ix. 3. & xxviii. 16. Deut. xvi. 1.
‖ Heb. Between the two evenings. Deut. xvi. 6.
[c] 1 Cor. v. 8.
[d] Chap. xxiii. 18. & xxxiv. 25.
[e] Deut. xvi. 5.
[f] Num. xxxiii. 4.
§ Or princes.
† Heb. For a deſtruction.
[g] Chap. xiii. 6, & xxiii. 15. & xxxiv. 18, 25.
[h] Gen. xvii. 14.
‡ Heb. Soul.
[i] Lev. xxiii. 5. Num. xxviii. 16.
[k] Exod. xxiii. 15. & xxxiv. 18. Deut. xvi. 3.
[l] Num. ix. 13.

v. 1—20. The deliverance of Iſrael advances. Orders are iſſued out about their departure, and the preparations for it. As they now are to begin new lives, they are to count from this day the new year. Note, That is emphatically our birth-day, and the beginning of years, when we begin to eſcape from ſin, and live to God.

1. The paſſover is inſtituted, with particular directions for preſent and future uſe, v. 3—14. and the days of unleavened bread are to follow, in memory of this great event, their eſcape from the houſe of their priſon. We muſt begin with God, whatever haſte of buſineſs is upon our hands.

2. God's viſitation upon Egypt and her idols, v. 12. All the vain confidence of ſinners muſt periſh with them.

3. The reſpect theſe ordinances have to us in goſpel times. (1.) Chriſt is our paſſover; a lamb without blemiſh, appointed and ſet apart by God to be ſlain; enduring the fierceſt fire of divine wrath, and ſacrificed for all his ſpiritual Iſrael. (2.) His blood muſt by faith be ſprinkled on our conſciences. Wherever it is found, there is no condemnation; and we muſt never be aſhamed to profeſs our open dependance upon him. (3.) The Lamb of God is to be fed upon, as our ſpiritual ſtrength and nouriſhment. As the time is ſhort, we muſt make haſte to draw near to him. The bitter herbs of repentance ſhould attend the feaſt, and give a greater reliſh to the food; and as thoſe who remember how near their departure is, we ſhould be ready, not only to leave our ſins behind, but our bodies in the duſt, whenever he calls us away to his bleſſed ſelf. (4.) Then we ſhall keep the feaſt with holy joy, as pardoned ſinners; with fervent affection, as thoſe who are going to poſſeſs the ſame land; with ſincerity and truth, renouncing the leaven of malice and wickedneſs; and thus perſevering, till we come to ſit down in the true Canaan, the kingdom of eternal glory.

21. ¶ Then Moſes called for all the elders of Iſrael, and ſaid unto them, Draw out and take you a † lamb, according to your families, and kill the paſſover. 22. And [m] ye ſhall take a bunch of hyſſop, and dip it in the blood that is in the baſon: and ſtrike the lintel and the two ſide-poſts, with the blood that is in the baſon: and none of you ſhall go out at the door of his houſe until the morning. 23. For the LORD will paſs through to ſmite the Egyptians, and when he ſeeth the blood upon the lintel, and on the two ſide-poſts, the LORD will paſs over the door, and [n] will not ſuffer [o] the deſtroyer to come in unto your houſes to ſmite you. 24. And ye ſhall obſerve this thing for an ordinance to thee, and to thy ſons for ever. 25. And it ſhall come to paſs, when ye be come to the land, which the LORD will give you, according as he hath promiſed, that ye ſhall keep this ſervice. 26. And [p] it ſhall come to paſs, when your children ſhall ſay unto you, What mean you by this ſervice? 27. That ye ſhall ſay, it is the ſacrifice of the LORD's paſſover, who paſſed over the houſes of the children of Iſrael in Egypt, when he ſmote the Egyptians, and delivered our houſes. And the people [q] bowed the head and worſhipped. 28. And the children of Iſrael went away, and did as the LORD had commanded Moſes and Aaron, ſo did they.

Before Chriſt 1491.

† Or kid.
[m] Heb. xi. 28.
[n] Ezek. ix. 6. Rev. vii. 3. & ix. 4.
[o] 1 Cor. x. 10. Heb. xi. 28.
[p] Joſh. iv. 6.
[q] Chap. iv. 31.

v. 21—28. Moſes enjoins, and Iſrael humbly obeys. The lamb is killed, the lintels ſprinkled with blood. No man muſt go out, leſt he die. Note, The ſoul that truſts on any other hope than the blood of ſprinkling, periſhes with the Egyptians. Their children too hereafter muſt be taught the meaning of the ordinance, v. 26. When children aſk, (and it is pleaſing indeed to ſee them inquiſitive in matters relating to God) we ſhould take delight to ſpeak to them about the dear Lamb which was ſlain, and his diſtinguiſhing love to his people.

29. ¶ And [r] it came to paſs, that at midnight [s] the LORD ſmote all the firſt-born in the land of Egypt, [t] from the firſt-born of Pharaoh, that ſat on his throne, unto the firſt-born of the captive that was in the † dungeon; and all the firſt-born of cattle. 30. And Pharaoh roſe up in the night, he and all his ſervants, and all the Egyptians; and there was a great cry in Egypt; for there was not a houſe where there was not one dead. 31. ¶ And [u] he called for Moſes and Aaron by night, and ſaid, Riſe up, and get you forth from amongſt my people, [x] both you and the children of Iſrael: and go, ſerve the LORD, as ye have ſaid. 32. [y] Alſo take your flocks and your herds as ye have ſaid, and be gone: and bleſs me alſo. 33. And the Egyptians were urgent upon the people, that they might ſend them out of the land in haſte: for they ſaid, We be all dead men. 34. And the people took their dough before it was leavened, their † kneading troughs being bound up in their clothes upon their ſhoulders. 35. And the children of Iſrael did according to the word of Moſes: and they borrowed of the Egyptians [z] jewels of ſilver, and jewels of gold, and raiment. 36. And [a] the LORD gave the people favour in the ſight of the Egyptians, ſo that they lent unto them ſuch things as they required: and [b] they ſpoiled the Egyptians.

[r] Chap. xi. 4.
[s] Numb. viii. 17. & xxxiii. 4. Pſal. lxxviii. 51. & cv. 36. & cxxxv. 8. & cxxxvi. 10.
[t] Chap. iv. 23. Wiſd. xviii. 11.
† Heb. Houſe of the pit.
[u] Pſal. cv. 38.
[x] Chap. x. 9.
[y] Chap. x. 26.
† Or dough.
[z] Chap. iii. 22. & xi. 2.
[a] Chap. xi. 3.
[b] Gen. xv. 14. Chap. iii. 22. Pſal. cv. 37.

v. 29—36. Obſerve,

1. Heavy the dreadful ſtroke deſcends. At midnight the deſtroyer comes: one awful groan awakens every family, and one united dolorous cry echoes through the land. What guilty ſinner need not tremble at the thought of ſuch a dread ſurprize? He that cloſes his eyes each night in unrepented ſin upon his bed, is in danger of lifting them up before morning in the torments of hell.

2. Pharaoh haſtens to thruſt them out. Death is at his door; he trembles for himſelf; at midnight they muſt be gone; he cannot reſt till they are departed; and now he ſeeks their bleſſing whom late with imprecations he had driven from his preſence on pain of death. Note, The day is coming when men will value their prayers, whom once they reviled. His people are in the ſame mind. The death which had begun, ſtrikes them with a panic, leaſt it ſhould be univerſal. Note, Nothing ſhocks a ſinner ſo much, as near views of death; but whether they ſee it or no, every impenitent ſinner is certainly a dead man.

3. To get rid of their company, the Egyptians are glad to part with their gold and their jewels. When life is at ſtake, our goods appear inſignificant things. Iſrael thus as ſervants, receive their wages, and as conquerors, divide the ſpoil. It was an high act of juſtice from God, and they had his ſpecial order for their proceedings.

37. ¶ And [c] the children of Iſrael journeyed from [d] Rameſes to Succoth, about [e] ſix hundred thouſand on foot that were men, beſides children. 38. And † a mixed multitude went up alſo with them; and flocks, and herds, even very much cattle. 39. And they baked unleavened cakes of the dough, which they brought forth out of Egypt, for it was not leavened: becauſe [f] they were thruſt out of Egypt, and could not tarry, neither had they prepared for themſelves any victual. 40. ¶ Now the ſojourning of the children of Iſrael, who dwelt in Egypt, was [g] four hundred and thirty years. 41. And it came to paſs, at the end of the four hundred and thirty years, even the ſelf-ſame day it came to paſs, that all the hoſts of the LORD went out from the land of Egypt. 42. It is † a night to be much obſerved unto the LORD, for bringing them out of the land of Egypt: this is that night of the LORD to be obſerved of all the children of Iſrael, in their generation.

[c] Numb. xxxiii. 3, 5.
[d] Gen. xlvii. 11.
[e] Chap. xxxviii. 26. Numb. i. 46. & xi. 21.
† Heb. A great mixture. Numb. xi. 4.
[f] Chap. vi. 1. & xi. 1.
[g] Gen. xv. 13. Acts vii. 6. Gal. iii. 17.
† Heb. A night of Obſervations.

v. 37—42. 1. Moſes embraces the favourable moment. The people march immediately, an immenſe body, ſix hundred thouſand men, and twice or thrice as many women and children; beſide a mixed multitude, that from fear, curioſity, or conviction of the truth, went up with them. Note, In the church there is a mix'd multitude of profeſſors, but many Egyptians among them. Their cattle too are no longer with-held, and their dough, for want of time, is taken with them unleavened. Learn, (1.) The ſervants of God muſt not be curious in eating. (2.) If on our firſt awakenings from ſin we find ſome difficulties, we muſt not be diſcouraged; times will ſhortly mend.

2. The memorable night. Juſt 430 years from the date of the promiſe to Abraham. Though mercy is delayed, it is ſure. The Egyptians remembered this night to their ſorrow, the Iſraelites to their unſpeakable joy in their future generations. If temporal deliverances are ſo worthy a memorial, how ſhould we be affected with that eternal redemption which Jeſus hath obtained for his people, from a ſervitude more intolerable than Egyptian, into a country infinitely ſuperior to Canaan?

43. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes and Aaron, This is the ordinance of the paſſover: there ſhall no ſtranger eat thereof. 44. But every man's ſervant that is bought for money, when thou haſt circumciſed him, then ſhall he eat thereof. 45. A foreigner and an hired ſervant ſhall not eat thereof. 46. In one houſe ſhall it be eaten, thou ſhalt not carry forth ought of the fleſh abroad out of the houſe: [h] neither ſhall ye break a bone thereof. 47. All the congregation of Iſrael ſhall † keep it. 48. And [i] when a ſtranger ſhall ſojourn with thee, and will keep the paſſover to the LORD, let all his males be circumciſed, and then let him come near, and keep it: and he ſhall be as one that is born in the land: for no uncircumciſed perſon ſhall eat thereof. 49. One law ſhall be to him that is home-born, and unto the ſtranger that ſojourneth among you. 50. Thus did all the children of Iſrael; as the LORD commanded Moſes and Aaron, ſo did they. 51. And it came to paſs the ſelf-ſame day, that the LORD did bring the children of Iſrael out of the land of Egypt, [k] by their armies.

[h] Numb. ix. 12. John xix. 36.
† Heb. Do it.
[i] Numb. ix. 14.
[k] Chap. vi. 26.

v. 43—51. The paſſover being enjoined to all ſucceeding generations, ſome particulars are added. It muſt be kept univerſally, none are to be admitted uncircumciſed, but the circumciſed bondman has the ſame right as the free: it muſt be eaten in the families apart, and none be left till the morrow. Note, (1.) He renounces his right to the covenant of grace, who wilfully neglects the ſeals of it in the ſacrament. (2.) If a man be not circumciſed in heart, partaking of bread and wine will be no paſchal ſupper to him. (3.) The goſpel deſtroys all diſtinctions of bond and free; whoſoever will, let him come freely. The law itſelf was here a ſhadow of goſpel liberty,

CHAP. XIII.

In this chapter we have, 1. The commands God gave to Iſrael, (1.) To ſanctify all their firſt-born to him, ver. 1, 2. (2.) To remember their deliverance out of Egypt, ver. 3, 4. and to keep the feaſt of unleavened bread, ver. 5—8. (3.) To tranſmit the knowledge of it with all poſſible care to their children, ver. 8, 9, 10. (4.) To ſet apart unto God the firſtlings of their cattle, ver. 11, 12, 13. and to explain that alſo to their children, ver. 14, 15, 16. 2. The care God took of Iſrael when he had brought them out of Egypt. (1.) Chooſing their way for them, ver. 17, 18. (2.) Guiding them in the way, ver. 20, 21, 22. And their care of Joſeph's bones, ver. 19.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. [a] Sanctify unto me all the firſt-born, whatſoever openeth the womb among the children of Iſrael, both of man and of beaſt: it is mine. 3. ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the people, Remember this day, in which ye came out from Egypt, out of the houſe of † bondage; for by ſtrength of hand the LORD brought you out from this place: there ſhall no leavened bread be eaten. 4. [b] This day came ye out, in the month Abib. 5. ¶ And it ſhall be when the LORD ſhall bring thee into the land of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, which he ſware unto thy fathers to give thee, a land flowing with milk and honey, that [c] thou ſhalt keep this ſervice in this month. 6. [d] Seven days ſhalt thou eat unleavened bread, and in the ſeventh day ſhall be a feaſt to the LORD. 7. Unleavened bread ſhall be eaten ſeven days: and there ſhall no leavened bread be ſeen with thee, neither ſhall there be leaven ſeen with thee in all thy quarters. 8. ¶ And thou ſhalt ſhew thy ſon in that day, ſaying, This is done becauſe of that which the LORD did unto me, when I came forth out of Egypt. 9. And it [e] ſhall be for a ſign unto thee upon thine hand, and for a memorial between thine eyes; that the LORD's law may be in thy mouth: for with a ſtrong hand hath the LORD brought thee out of Egypt. 10. Thou ſhalt therefore keep this ordinance in his ſeaſon from year to year.

[a] Chap. xxii. 29. & xxxiv. 19. Lev. xxvii. 26. Numb. iii. 13. & viii. 16, 17. & xviii. 15. Luke ii. 23.
† Heb. Servants.
[b] Chap. xxiii. 15. & xxxiv. 18. Deut. xvi. 1.
[c] Chap. xii. 25, 26.
[d] Chap. xii. 15, 16.
[e] See ver. 16. Numb. xv. 38. Deut. vi. 8. & xi. 18. Prov. i. 9. Iſa. xlix. 16. Jer. xxii. 24. Matt. xxiii. 5.

v. 1—10. 1. God demands of his people a return for his mercies in their firſt-born. He claims, from his preſervation of them, a right in them. Note, (1.) The life which God hath reſcued from imminent danger, is doubly obliged to be devoted to his ſervice. (2.) They who truly love God, will ſerve him with the beſt.

2. He bids them remember the day of their deliverance, in the feaſt of unleavened bread, and inſtruct their children after them in the meaning of the ordinance: and very careful are they to this day, to obſerve the letter of the precept, in ſearching their houſes for leaven; may we be as careful to enter into the ſpirit of the command, and ſearch every corner of our hearts, that ſin may be put away from us. Note, It is a chief duty with parents to acquaint their children from earlieſt infancy with the ſcriptures, and ſcripture ſtories may be made matter of as pleaſing entertainment to them, as of profitable inſtruction.

11. ¶ And it ſhall be when the LORD ſhall bring thee into the land of the Canaanites, as he ſware unto thee and to thy fathers, and ſhall give it thee, 12. That [f] thou ſhalt † ſet apart unto the LORD all that openeth the matrix: and every firſtling that cometh of a beaſt, which thou haſt, the males ſhall be the LORD's. 13. And [g] every firſtling of an aſs thou ſhalt redeem with a ‡ lamb; and if thou wilt not redeem it, then thou ſhalt break his neck: and [h] all the firſt born of man amongſt thy children ſhalt thou redeem. 14. ¶ And it ſhall be when thy ſon aſketh thee ‖ in time to come, ſaying, What is this? that thou ſhalt ſay unto him, By ſtrength of hand the LORD brought us out from Egypt, from the houſe of bondage. 15. And it came to paſs when Pharaoh would hardly let us go, that the LORD ſlew all the firſt-born in the land of Egypt, both the firſt-born of man, and the firſt-born of beaſt: therefore I ſacrifice to the LORD all that openeth the matrix, being males; but all the firſt-born of my children I redeem. 16. And it ſhall be for a token upon thine hand, and for frontlets between thine eyes: for by ſtrength of hand the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt.

[f] Chap. xxii. 29. & xxxiv. 19. Lev. xxvii. 26. Numb. viii. 17. Deut. xv. 19. Ezek. xliv. 30.
† Heb. Cauſe to paſs over.
[g] Numb. xviii. 15, 16.
‡ Or kid.
[h] Numb. iii. 46, 47. & xviii. 16.
‖ Heb. To-morrow.

v. 11—16. The firſt-born of beaſts, as well as babes, are God's: the clean muſt be ſacrificed; the unclean killed, or as the children, redeemed. Note, Every child is not an innocent, but an unclean thing; and were it not for the redemption of Jeſus, muſt periſh. Repeated injunctions are given to inſtruct their children, to encourage and anſwer their enquiries; talking with them, is the beſt way of teaching them. Thus the remembrance will be preſerved, and each ſucceeding generation count the deliverance their own. Our father's mercies we reap the bleſſing of even in temporals, and how much more of the promiſes made to our fathers in ſpirituals, and accompliſhed in the glorious ſalvation of our redeemer Jeſus, which deſerves and ſhall have a remembrance to eternity.

17. ¶ And it came to paſs, when Pharaoh had let the people go, that God led them not through the way of the land of the Philiſtines, although that was near: for God ſaid, Leſt peradventure the people repent when they ſee war, and [l] they return to Egypt. 18. But God [k] led the people about, through the way of the wilderneſs of the Red-ſea: and the children of Iſrael went up † harneſſed out of the land of Egypt.

[l] Deut. xvii. 16.
[k] Chap. xiv. 2.
† Or by five in a rank.

v. 17, 18. God is their deliverer, and now becomes their guide: the direct way was ſhort; but God led them not by the ſhorteſt, but the ſafeſt way. If his ways ſeem winding, we may be ſatisfied he is a ſure guide. The Philiſtines were before them, and they muſt not ſee war, as ſoon as they eſcape from ſlavery: they are not fit for ſuch ſervice yet. God knows how to proportion our trials to our ſtrength, nor will ſuffer his people to be tempted above what they are able: beſide, he had much to do among them, both in mercies and judgments, and a wilderneſs was the fitteſt place for his deſigns, as it was the fulfilment alſo of his promiſe, Chap. iii. 12. Let us therefore commit all our ways unto the Lord.

19. And Moſes took the bones of Joſeph with him: for he had ſtraitly ſworn the children of Iſrael, ſaying, [l] God will ſurely viſit you; and ye ſhall carry up my bones away hence with you. 20. ¶ And [m] they took their journey from Succoth, and encamped in Etham, in the edge of the wilderneſs. 21. And [n] the LORD went before them by day in a pillar of a cloud, to lead them the way; and by night in a pillar of fire, to give them light: to go by day and night. 22. He took not away the pillar of the cloud by day, nor the pillar of fire by night, from before the people.

[l] Gen. l. 25. Joſh. xxiv. 32. Acts vii. 16.
[m] Numb. xxxiii. 6.
[n] Chap. xl. 38. Numb. ix. 15. & x. 34. & xiv. 14. Deut. i. 33. Neh. ix. 12, 19. Pſal. lxxviii. 14. & xcix. 7. & cv. 39. 1 Cor. x. 1.

v. 19—22. The army marches in rank and file, and two things are obſervable.

1. The care they took to fulfil their oath to Joſeph, in carrying his bones along with them. See what the greateſt men muſt come to; duſt and dry bones.

2. God's care of them in the way. His preſence was with them, he appeared viſibly to them in a pillar of a cloud by day, and in a pillar of fire by night; to be their leader in the pathleſs wilderneſs, their covering from the heat by day, and their chearing light and warmth by night: nor did he ever leave them, till they were ſafe lodged in Canaan. Bleſſed be God, the ſame care is promiſed to us. In our journey through this world, Jeſus by his word and ſpirit is our guide and comforter, our light and protector, and under his direction and influence we ſhall be led by the right way; nor need we fear danger or miſcarriage, when he ſaith, I will never leave nor forſake thee. Happy the ſoul that walks thus!

CHAP. XIV.

Here is, 1. The extreme diſtreſs and danger that Iſrael was in at the Red-ſea. (1.) Notice is given of it to Moſes, ver. 1—4. (2.) The cauſe of it, ver. 5—9. (3.) Iſrael's conſternation, ver. 10, 11, 12. (4.) Moſes endeavours to encourage them, ver. 13, 14. 2. Their wonderful deliverance. 1. Moſes is instructed concerning it, ver. 15—18. 2. Lines that could not be forced, are ſet between the camp of Iſrael and Pharaoh's camp, ver. 19, 20. 3. By the divine power the Red-ſea is divided, ver. 21. The Iſraelites paſs ſafely, ver. 22—29. The Egyptians are drowned, ver. 23—28. Laſtly, The impreſſion this made upon the Iſraelites, ver. 30, 31.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, [a] that they turn and encamp before [b] Pi-hahiroth, between [c] Migdol and the ſea, over againſt Baal-zephon: before it ſhall ye encamp by the ſea. 3. For Pharaoh will ſay of the children of Iſrael, They are intangled in the land, the wilderneſs hath ſhut them in. 4. And [d] I will harden Pharaoh's heart, that he ſhall follow after them, and I will be honoured upon Pharaoh, and upon all his hoſt; that the Egyptians may know that I am the LORD. And they did ſo.

[a] Chap. xiii. 18.
[b] Numb. xxxiii. 7.
[c] Jer. xliv.
[d] Chap. iv. 21.

v. 1—4. They were now got well out of Pharaoh's reach, but God hath farther deſigns for his own glory in his overthrow. He informs Moſes of his purpoſe, and they wheel to the right, to that part hemmed in by the ſea and the wilderneſs, that the difficulties of their ſituation might induce Pharaoh to follow them. God hath wiſe deſigns, even in the ſtraits to which he reduces his people, that in their deliverance he may make his power, grace, and love more evidently appear.

5. ¶ And it was told the king of Egypt, that the people fled: and [e] the heart of Pharaoh and of his ſervants was turned againſt the people, and they ſaid, Why have we done this, that we have let Iſrael go from ſerving us? 6. And he made ready his chariot, and took his people wih him. 7. And he took ſix hundred choſen chariots, and all the chariots of Egypt, and captains over every one of them. 8. And the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he purſued after the children of Iſrael: and [f] the children of Iſrael went out with an high hand. 9. But [g] the Egyptians purſued after them, (all the horſes and chariots of Pharaoh, and his horſemen, and his army) and overtook them encamping by the ſea, beſide Pi-hahiroth, before Baal-zephon.

[e] Pſal. cv. 25.
[f] Numb. xxxiii. 3.
[g] Joſh. xxiv. 6. 1 Mac. iv. 9.

v. 5—9. Now the Egyptians begin to recover from their fright, accuſe their own folly in parting with their ſlaves, and call their march a flight, though themſelves had thruſt them out: ſo eaſily can miſrepreſentations be made. Hereupon they determine, horſe and chariots, to purſue, and bring them back to the houſe of their priſon: encouraged by the dangerous encampment they had made, where they quickly found them, and promiſed themſelves an eaſy prey. Note (1.) They who are only frighted by God's word, will quickly be ſorry for the little good they did, and be aſhamed even of their pretended repentance. (2.) He that will eſcape out of a ſinful world, muſt expect a hot purſuit from the devil and his ſervants. (3.) He that brings us out with a high hand, can bear us up with everlaſting ſtrength.

10. ¶ And when Pharaoh drew nigh, the children of Iſrael lift up their eyes, and behold, the Egyptians marched after them, and they were ſore afraid: and the children of Iſrael cried out unto the LORD. 11. And [h] they ſaid unto Moſes, Becauſe there were no graves in Egypt, haſt thou taken us away to die in the wilderneſs? Wherefore haſt thou dealt thus with us, to carry us forth out of Egypt? 12. [i] Is not this the word that we did tell thee in Egypt, ſaying, Let us alone, that we may ſerve the Egyptians? For it had been better for us to ſerve the Egyptians, than that we ſhould die in the wilderneſs. 13. ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the people, [k] Fear ye not, ſtand ſtill, and ſee the ſalvation of the LORD, which he will ſhew to you to day: † for the Egyptians whom ye have ſeen to day, ye ſhall ſee them again no more for ever. 14. [l] The LORD ſhall fight for you, and ye ſhall hold your peace.

[h] Pſal. cvi. 7.
[i] Chap. v. 21. & vi. 9.
[k] 2 Chron. xx. 15, 17.
† Or whereas you have ſeen the Egyptians.
[l] Neh. iv. 20.

v. 10—14. How ſoon are the ſongs of liberty turned into the ſorrows of death. Obſerve,

1. The terrible diſmay which ſeizes the Iſraelites. Surrounded with inſurmountable obſtacles, and no door open for eſcape, except the Lord interpoſe. Bleſſed be God, though troubled on every ſide, we can ſtill ſay, Surſam corda, Look up and hope. Some did ſo, and they cried unto the Lord. But it is to be feared, it was the cry of anguiſh and deſpair, rather than of faith; for they fell hard on Moſes with reproaches, and ſeem to give themſelves up for loſt. Could not he who had done wonders in Egypt, do as great in the wilderneſs? and had he ſhewn them ſo much grace, to forſake them now? but they are as deſponding of God, as ungrateful to Moſes; and by their murmuring provoke the judgment they otherwiſe need not fear. They were now delivered, but their continued perverſeneſs, after ten provocations, brought on them at laſt, as on the Egyptians, after ten plagues, the ſame deſtruction. Unbelief, if uncured, muſt be fatal at laſt.

2. Moſes encourages them againſt their fears; he does not reproach their cowardice, but pities their weakneſs. Sharp rebukes will not ſuit all ſins; we muſt direct our advice to the circumſtances of the patient. They have but one buſineſs; to reſt upon God; he who hath brought them into danger, will bring them out of it. Note, (1.) Sedateneſs in danger, is the moſt likely means to extricate ourſelves from it. (2.) To encourage our heart in God, is the way, not only to remove our fears, but to ſurmount our difficulties.

15. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Wherefore crieſt thou unto me? Speak unto the children of Iſrael, that they go forward. 16. But lift thou up thy rod, and ſtretch out thine hand over the ſea, and divide it: and the children of Iſrael ſhall go on dry ground through the mids of the ſea. 17. And I, behold I will harden the hearts

Before Chriſt 1491.

hearts of the Egyptians, and they ſhall follow them: and I will get me honour upon Pharaoh, and upon all his hoſt, upon his chariots, and upon his horſemen. 18. And the Egyptians ſhall know that I am the LORD, when I have gotten me honour upon Pharaoh, upon his chariots, and upon his horſemen. 19. ¶ And [m] the angel of God, which went before the camp of Iſrael, removed and went behind them; and the pillar of the cloud went from before their face, and ſtood behind them. 20. And it came between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Iſrael, and [n] it was a cloud and darkneſs to them, but it gave light by night to theſe: ſo that the one came not near the other all the night.

[m] Chap. xiii. 21. & xxiii. 20.

[n] See Iſa. viii. 14. 2 Cor. iv. 3.

v. 15—20. Moſes ſpeaks the language of confidence to the people, and lifts up his heart in prayer to God. Prayer and faith are mutual helpers; faith quickens prayer, and prayer ſtrengthens faith.

1. Obſerve God's direction to Moſes. He had not ſpoken with his lips, but there is a language of the ſoul which cries moſt forcibly in the ears of God, and his anſwer is, Go forward: Whither, into the ſea? No, to the ſea, and truſt for the reſt. Note, However dangerous and dark the way of duty, when we go forward, God will take care of the event. The ſea ſhall be divided, and that which affords a paſſage to Iſrael, ſhall be the grave of the Egyptians. Thus God will get honour from both; in his mercies on the one, in his judgments on the other. Note, The damnation of the ſinner ſhall as ſurely redound to the glory of God, as the ſalvation of his ſaints.

2. The guard he ſets to preſerve his people from the Egyptians. The cloud removes between them; a light to guide the one through the ſea, and a barrier to prevent the other from approaching to hurt them. This pillar of the cloud ſtill ſtands in the ſame aſpect. To the impenitent ſinner, every proſpect is covered with darkneſs: to the child of God, light ſurrounds his path; and as their preſent ways are directed, ſo will be their end. The darkneſs of ſin will lead down to the darkneſs of eternal death; the light of grace conduct us to eternal life and light in glory.

21. And Moſes ſtretched out his hand over the ſea, and the LORD cauſed the ſea to go back by a ſtrong eaſt-wind all that night, and [o] made the ſea dry land, and the waters [p] were divided. 22. And [q] the children of Iſrael went into the midſt of the ſea upon the dry ground: and the waters were a wall to them on their right hand, and on their left. 23. ¶ And the Egyptians purſued, and went in after them, to the midſt of the ſea, even all Pharaoh's horſes, his chariots, and his horſemen. 24. And it came to paſs, that in the morning-watch [r] the LORD looked unto the hoſt of the Egyptians, through the pillar of fire and of the cloud, and troubled the hoſt of the Egyptians, 25. And took off their chariot wheels, † that they drave them heavily: ſo that the Egyptians ſaid, Let us flee from the face of Iſrael; for the LORD fighteth for them againſt the Egyptians. 26. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Stretch out thine hand over the ſea, that the waters may come again upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots, and upon their horſemen. 27. And Moſes ſtretched forth his hand over the ſea, and the ſea returned to his ſtrength, when the morning appeared, and the Egyptians fled againſt it: and the LORD ‡ overthrew the Eyptians in the midſt of the ſea. 28. And [s] the waters returned and covered the chariots, and the horſemen, and all the hoſt of Pharaoh that came into the ſea after them: [t] there remained not ſo much as one of them. 22. But [u] the children of Iſrael walked upon dry-land in the midſt of the ſea: and the waters were a wall unto them on their right hand, and on their left. 30. Thus the LORD ſaved Iſrael that day out of the hand of the Egyptians: and Iſrael ſaw the Egyptians dead upon the ſea-ſhore. 31. And Iſrael ſaw that great work † which the LORD did upon the Egyptians: and the people feared the LORD, and [x] believed the LORD, and his ſervant Moſes.

[o] Pſal. lxvi. 6.
[p] Joſh. iii. 15. & iv. 23. Neh. ix. 11. Pſal. lxxiv. 13. & cvi. 9. & cxiv. 3.
[q] Numb. xxxiii. 8. Pſal. lxxviii. 13. 1 Cor. x. 1. Hebr. xi. 29.
[r] See Pſal. lxxvii. 17, &c.
† Or made them to go heavily.
‡ Heb. Shook off. Deut. xi. 4. Pſal. lxxviii. 53.
[s] Hab. iii. 8, 13.
[t] Pſal. cvi. 11.
[u] Pſal. lxxvii. 20.
† Heb. Hand.
[x] Pſal. cvi. 12.

v. 21—31. Now the full meaſure of Egypt's ſin is come, and her puniſhment is accordingly.

1. God's own people are ſecured. Moſes, as commanded, ſtretches out his rod; ſtrait the eaſt wind ariſeth, the ſtormy billows part their curling heads, and deep divided foam around above them, whilſt Iſrael's hoſts ſafe under his wings, whom winds and waves obey, march fearleſs through; nor, though amidſt the darkneſs of the night, with ſuch a guide and ſuch a light, need apprehend miſtake or danger. Note, God's people in every age have found him a very preſent help in trouble, and ſhall we not remember the days of old, and truſt him? Surely we ſhall never be aſhamed when we do ſo.

2. The preſumption of ſinners is their ruin. The Egyptians, infatuated with rage, drive furiouſly between the parted waters, and madly preſs to overtake thoſe who were born, as it were, on eagles wings: but in their mid career, terrors overtake them; one look from the offended God of Iſrael, ſtrikes every heart with dire diſmay: their chariots hang entangled in the ſands, their wheels ſtart from their axles, their way is embarraſſed, they can neither fly nor purſue. Too late convinced, they fain would turn, but now the approaching watery walls prevent eſcape: in vain they cry, in vain they urge the fiery ſteed, or preſs towards the diſtant ſhore; every avenue is cloſed; advancing ſlow, the overwhelming waves firſt kill with fear, then burſt impetuous on theſe devoted heads. Proud Pharaoh and his horſemen now lie low, no more the terror of the mighty, but breathleſs corpſes floating on the waters. Learn, (1.) To tremble before an offended God: if his wrath be kindled but for a moment, who can abide it? (2.) It is too late for the ſinner to cry for mercy, or fly for life, when death unbars the gates of the grave. (3.) They muſt fall at laſt, who are found fighting againſt God.

3. Iſrael's triumph over them. Their bodies are caſt on ſhore, deſpicable now, as once feared. Oh what alterations doth the cold hand of death make! Now they gratefully acknowledge the hand of God, and believe in his care, and Moſes' miſſion from him. Who would have thought ſuch a ſcene could have been forgotten, or that theſe ſhould ever again refuſe credence to his word? We are ready in our proſperity to ſay, I ſhall never be removed, ſhall never doubt again, but the ſenſible impreſſions of preſent mercies decay, and unbelief, like theſe mighty waters, returneth to its ſtrength again. Lord, not only remove my unbelief, but preſerve the faith thou doſt beſtow!

CHAP. XV.

In this chapter we have, 1. The ſong of Moſes, ver. 1—21. 2. Iſrael marches forward in the wilderneſs, ver. 22. and there obſerve, 1. Their diſcontent at the waters of Marah, ver. 23, 24. and the relief granted them, ver. 25, 26. 2. Their ſatisfaction in the waters of Elim, ver. 27.

1. THEN [a] ſang Moſes and the children of Iſrael this ſong unto the LORD, and ſpake, ſaying, I will ſing unto the LORD, for he hath triumphed glorioúſly; the horſe and his rider hath he thrown into the ſea. 2. The LORD is my ſtrength and [b] ſong, and he is become my ſalvation: he is my God, and I will prepare him an habitation; my father's God, and I will exalt him. 3. The LORD is a man of war: the LORD is his name. 4. Pharaoh's chariots and his hoſt hath he caſt into the ſea: his choſen captains alſo are drowned in the Red ſea. 5. The depths have covered them: [c] they ſank into the bottom as a ſtone. 6. [d] Thy right hand, O LORD, is become glorious in power: thy right hand, O LORD, hath daſhed in pieces the enemy. 7. And in the greatneſs of thine excellency thou haſt overthrown them that roſe up againſt thee: thou ſenteſt forth thy wrath, which conſumed them [e] as ſtubble. 8. And [f] with the blaſt of thy noſtrils the waters were gathered together: [g] the floods ſtood upright as an heap, and the depths were congealed in the heart of the ſea. 9. [h] The enemy ſaid, I will purſue, I will overtake, I will divide the ſpoil: my luſt ſhall be ſatisfied upon them, I will draw my ſword, my hand ſhall † deſtroy them. 10. Thou didſt blow with thy wind, the ſea covered them: [i] they ſank as lead in the mighty waters. 11. [k] Who is like unto thee, O LORD, amongſt ‖ the gods? who is like thee, glorious in holineſs, fearful in praiſes, doing wonders? 12. Thou ſtretchedſt out thy right hand, the earth ſwallowed them. 13. Thou in thy mercy haſt led forth the people which thou haſt redeemed: thou haſt guided them in thy ſtrength unto thy holy habitation. 14. [l] The people ſhall hear, and be afraid: ſorrow ſhall take hold on the inhabitants of Paleſtina. 15. [m] Then [n] the dukes of Edom ſhall be amazed, [o] the mighty men of Moab, trembling ſhall take hold upon them: [p] all the inhabitants of Canaan ſhall melt away. 16. [q] Fear and dread ſhall fall upon them, by the greatneſs of thine arm they ſhall be as ſtill as a ſtone: till thy people paſs over, O LORD, till

[a] Wiſd. x. 20.
[b] Deut. x. 21. Pſal. xviii. 2. & xxii. 3. & cix. 1. & cxviii. 14. Iſa. xii. 2.
[c] Neh. ix. 11.
[d] Pſal. cxviii. 15, 16.
[e] Iſa. v. 24. & xlvii. 14.
[f] Chap. xiv. 21. Job iv. 9. 2 Theſſ. ii. 8.
[g] Pſal. lxxviii. 13.
[h] Judg. v. 30.
† Or repoſſeſs.
[i] Ver. 5.
[k] 2 Sam. vii. 22. 1 Kings viii. 23. Pſal. lxxxvi. 8. & lxxxix. 6. Jer. x. 6. & xlix. 19.
‖ Or mighty ones.
[l] Numb. xiv. 14. Deut. ii. 25. Joſh. ii. 9.
[m] Gen. xxxvi. 40.
[n] Deut. ii. 4.
[o] Numb. xxiii. 3. Hab. iii. 6.
[p] Joſh. v. 1.
[q] Deut. ii. 25. & xi. 25. Joſh. ii. 9.

Before Chriſt 1491.

till the people paſs over, [r] which thou haſt purchaſed. 17. Thou ſhalt bring them in, and [s] plant them in the mountain of thine inheritance, in the place, O LORD, which thou haſt made for thee to dwell in: in the ſanctuary, O LORD, which thy hands have eſtabliſhed. 18. [t] The LORD ſhall reign for ever and ever. 19. For the horſe of Pharaoh went in with his chariots, and with his horſemen into the ſea, and the LORD brought again the waters of the ſea upon them: but the children of Iſrael went on dry-land in the mids of the ſea. 20. ¶ And Miriam [u] the propheteſs, the ſiſter of Aaron, [x] took a timbrel in her hand; and all the women went out after her, [y] with timbrels, and with dances. 21. And Miriam anſwered them, Sing ye to the LORD, for he hath triumphed gloriouſly; the horſe and his rider hath he thrown into the ſea.

[r] Chap. xix. 5. Deut. xxxii. 9. 2 Sam. vii. 23. Tit. ii. 14. 1 Pet. ii. 9.
[s] Pſal. xliv. 2. & lxxx. 8.
[t] Pſal. cxlvi. 10. Iſa. lvii. 15.
[u] 1 Sam. x. 5.
[x] 1 Sam. xviii. 6.
[y] Judg. xi. 34. & xxi. 21. 2 Sam. vi. 16. Pſal. lxviii. 11, 25.

v. 1—21. Prayer and praiſe uſually go together: the mercies we have in faith deſired, we ſhall in ſong acknowledge; and a noble and enlivening part is this of divine worſhip. Nothing is a ſurer proof of a dead heart, a dead congregation, and a dead church, than negligence and careleſſneſs in ſinging God's praiſes.

1. Moſes opens with the triumphs of Jehovah, whoſe right hand had ſaved them. He proclaims his honour, as the God of ſovereign power, grace, and love; the Saviour of his people, and the avenger of his enemies: he mentions with exultation, the late diſplay of his mighty arm, and burſts into a queſtion of expreſſive wonder, Who is like unto thee? v. 11. Note, (1.) We cannot enough, in our praiſes, exalt the great and glorious name of our God. (2.) We ſhould ever profeſs our dependance upon him, and paſt experience ſhould confirm our preſent confidence.

2. The victory is deſcribed with the moſt ſublime expreſſions; the vain confidence of the Egyptians in their purſuit, and their cruelty in the threatned deſtruction; but how unequal in the conteſt, when all creation riſes at God's command, and they ſink as lead in the mighty waters? Note, (1.) The ſurer the ſelf-deceiver thinks himſelf of heaven, the more terrible will be his diſappointment, when he ſinks down to hell. (2.) They who are moſt expoſed for the goſpel ſake, will by and by remember their difficulties with greateſt delight; as making their deliverance more illuſtrious, and their obligations the greater to the God of their ſalvation.

3. The encouragement he draws from it, v. 14—17. Their enemies would hear and tremble: diſpirited by their fears, they would fall an eaſy prey, as was the caſe; and this beginning of mercy enſured the perfection of it, in the promiſed land, v. 17. For Jehovah their God for ever reigns, and reigns to protect and bleſs his favoured people: well may every humble believer rejoice in this conſideration, His God is not only a preſent Saviour, but will be the author of his eternal ſalvation.

4. The ſolemn manner of performing this anthem of praiſe. Though the women cannot weild the ſword, they can rejoice in the ſong: probably choirs of men and women joined in alternate reſponſes. Moſes led the way, and Miriam anſwered. They who are the firſt in leading God's people to victory, ſhould be the firſt in exciting them to gratitude, and the leaders of the ſong of thankſgiving. David, that great king and conqueror, as well as Moſes, added this to all their glories. 2 Sam. xxii. 1.

22. So Moſes brought Iſrael from the Red-ſea, and they went out into the wilderneſs of [z] Shur, and they went three days in the wilderneſs and found no water. 23. ¶ And when they came to [a] Marah, they could not drink of the waters of Marah, for they were bitter: therefore the name of it was called † Marah. 24. And the people murmured againſt Moſes, ſaying, What ſhall we drink? 25. And he cried unto the LORD, and the LORD ſhewed him a [b] tree, [c] which when he had caſt into the waters, the waters were made ſweet: there [d] he made for them a ſtatute and an ordinance, and there [e] he proved them, 26. And ſaid, If thou wilt diligently hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, and wilt do that which is right in his ſight, and wilt give ear to his commandments, and keep all his ſtatutes; [f] I will put none of theſe diſeaſes upon thee, which I have brought upon the Egyptians: for I am the LORD [g] that healeth thee. 27. ¶ And they came to Elim, where were twelve wells of water, and threeſcore and ten palm-trees: and [h] they encamped there by the waters.

[z] Gen. xvi. 7. & xxv. 18.
[a] Numb. xxxiii. 8.
† i. e. Bitterneſs.
[b] Eccluſ. xxxviii. 5.
[c] See 2 Kings iv. 41.
[d] See Joſh. xxiv. 25.
[e] Chap. xvi. 4.
[f] Deut. vii. 15.
[g] Chap. xxiii. 25. Pſal. ciii. 3. & cxlvii. 3.
[h] Numb. xxxiii. 9.

v. 22—27. They who will go to heaven, muſt expect rubs in their way. They no ſooner begin their journey, than, 1. They are in want of water, and to a marching army what more dangerous? Nor was their condition much mended at Marah, where, though there was plenty, it was bitter, or brackiſh, and not fit for drink. Our expected comforts are thus in the poſſeſſion often embittered, in order to lead us to the fountain of living waters. 2. Their impatience, v. 23. They who live by ſenſe, not by faith, will not long continue in a chearful frame: every new difficulty will deject them. 3. The ſupply granted at Moſes' prayer. A tree is pointed out, whoſe property either was to ſweeten the waters, or which by miraculous power God uſed, as Moſes' rod to work the wonder. There is not a uſeful plant for food or phyſic, but we ſhould read in it God's goodneſs and wiſdom. 4. The charge given them. Twice they had begun to ſhow their murmuring ſpirit: God now expects their confidence, promiſes them his bleſſing, and freedom from the plagues of Egypt, if they are obedient; and therein intimates, that if they ſhould join with Egypt in rebellion, they would ſhare with it in ſuffering. Note, God is no reſpecter of perſons; if his own people ſin, they muſt ſmart for it. 5. Another march brings them to Elim, where they have water in abundance, and ſhady palms to cover them. Note, (1.) If our comforts are delayed, yet we ſhould poſſeſs our ſouls in patience. (2.) God is uſually better to us, than our wiſhes. (3.) When we are moſt proſperous, we ſhould remember we are marching to the grave; that we may ſit as looſe to our comforts, as content under our croſſes.

Before Chri
1491.

CHAP. XVI.

This chapter gives us an account of the victualling of the camp of Iſrael. 1. Their complaint for want of bread, ver. 1—3. 2. The notice of the proviſion God intends to make for them, ver. 4—12. 3. The ſending of the manna, ver. 13—15. 4. The laws and orders concerning the manna. 1. They muſt gather it daily, ver. 16—21. 2. They ſhould gather a double portion on the ſixth day, ver. 22—26. 3. They muſt expect none on the ſeventh day, ver. 27—31. 4. That they ſhould preſerve a pot of it for a memorial, ver. 32.

1. AND they took their journey from Elim, and all the congregation of the children of Iſrael came unto [a] the wilderneſs of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the ſecond month, after their departing out of the land of Egypt. 2. And the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes and Aaron in the wilderneſs. 3. And the children of Iſrael ſaid unto them, Would to God we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, [b] when we ſat by the fleſh-pots, and when we did eat bread to the full: for ye have brought us forth into this wilderneſs, to kill this whole aſſembly with hunger. 4. ¶ Then ſaid the LORD unto Moſes, Behold, I will rain [c] bread from heaven for you; and the people ſhall go out and gather † a certain rate every day, that I may [d] prove them, whether they will walk in my law or no. 5. And it ſhall come to paſs, that on the ſixth day they ſhall prepare that which they bring in; and [e] it ſhall be twice as much as they gather daily. 6. And Moſes and Aaron ſaid unto all the children of Iſrael, [f] At even, then ye ſhall know that the LORD hath brought you out from the land of Egypt. 7. And in the morning, then ye ſhall [g] ſee the glory of the LORD; for that he heareth your murmurings againſt the LORD: And what are we, that ye murmur againſt us? 8. And Moſes ſaid, This ſhall be when the LORD ſhall give you in the evening fleſh to eat, and in the morning bread to the full; for that the LORD heareth your murmurings which ye murmur againſt him: And what are we? your murmurings are not againſt us, but [h] againſt the LORD. 9. ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto Aaron, Say unto all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, Come near before the LORD: for he hath heard your murmurings. 10. And it came to paſs, as Aaron ſpake unto the whole congregation of the children of Iſrael, that they looked toward the wilderneſs, and behold, [i] the glory of the LORD appeared in the cloud. 11. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 12. I have heard the murmurings of the children of Iſrael; ſpeak unto them, ſaying, At even ye ſhall eat fleſh, and in the morning ye ſhall be filled with bread: and ye ſhall know that I am the LORD your God.

[a] Numb. xxxiii. 11.
[b] Numb. xi. 4, 5.
[c] Pſal. lxxviii. 24, 25. & cv. 40. John vi. 31, 32. 1 Cor. x. 3.
† Heb. The portion of a day in his day. Prov. xxx. 8. Mat. vi. 11.
[d] Chap. xv. 25. Deut. viii. 2, 16.
[e] See Lev. xxv. 21.
[f] Ver. 13.
[g] Ver. 10.
[h] See 1 Sam. viii. 7. Luke x. 16. Rom. xiii. 2.
[i] Chap. xiii. 21.

v. 1—12. Freſh difficulties produce freſh murmurs. We have here,

I

1. The

Before Chriſt 1491.

1. The deſpairing impatience of the people for want of bread. Their proviſion being exhauſted, they ſee nothing but death before them, and charge Moſes as the murderer. What? had God ſo eminently ſpared their lives, to bring them to their graves in the wilderneſs? And had Moſes any concern at heart but their good? Yet ſo deaf are they to reaſon, that they baſely wiſh to be in Egypt again, though they died there under the plague. Aſtoniſhing perverſeneſs! Note, (1.) Diſcontent uſually villifies what it hath, and magnifies what it loſes. (2.) It is a great aggravation of our diſtruſts, when we have experienced much mercy, and are promiſed ſo much greater in ſtore for us.

2. The diſpleaſure God hath againſt them. He heard their murmurings, and regarded their complaints againſt his ſervants, as a charge againſt himſelf. Let thoſe who find fault with God's miniſters, remember they but deliver the meſſage, and that to be diſpleaſed with them, is to fly in the face of their maſter.

3. The gracious ſupply, of which God firſt informs Moſes. Himſelf appearing in the cloud, to give the greater rebuke to the murmurers, and put honour upon his ſervants, commands him to promiſe, that to-morrow he would give bread for their hoſts. God knows our wants, and will not ſuffer us to lack any manner of thing which is needful for us: though how many pretend to truſt God with their ſouls for heaven, and yet, like Iſrael, diſtruſt his providing bread for their bodies in the way thither?

[k] Numb. xi. 31. Pſal. cv. 40.
[l] Numb. xi. 7. Neh. ix. 15. Pſal. lxxviii. 24. & cv. 40. Wiſd. xvi. 20.
† Or what is this? or it is a portion.
[m] John vi. 31. 1 Cor. x. 3.
‡ Heb. By the poll or head.
‖ Heb. Souls.
[n] 2 Cor. viii. 15.

13. And it came to paſs, that at even [k] the quails came up, and covered the camp: and in the morning the dew lay round about the hoſt. 14. And when [l] the dew that lay was gone up, behold, upon the face of the wilderneſs there lay a ſmall round thing, as ſmall as the hoar froſt on the ground. 15. And when the children of Iſrael ſaw it, they ſaid one to another, † It is manna: for they wiſt not what it was. And Moſes ſaid unto them, [m] This is the bread which the LORD hath given you to eat. 16. ¶
This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, Gather of it every man, according to his eating: an omer ‡ for every man, according to the number of your ‖ perſons, take ye every man for them which are in his tents.
17. And the children of Iſrael did ſo, and gathered, ſome more, ſome leſs. 18. And when they did mete it with an omer, [n] he that gathered much, had nothing over, and he that gathered little, had no lack: they gathered every man according to his eating. 19. And Moſes ſaid, Let no man leave of it till the morning. 20. Notwithſtanding they hearkened not unto Moſes, but ſome of them left of it until the morning, and it bred worms and ſtank: And Moſes was wroth with them. 21. And they gathered it every morning, every man according to his eating: and when the ſun waxed hot it melted.

v. 13—21. The manna and quails are ſent; not only neceſſaries, but delicacies. God exceeds their expectations.

1. The nature of their food, quails. Some fowl, though perhaps not the ſame which bears this name with us; and manna, a congealed dew, like hoar froſt, ſweet as honey to the taſte, and ſtrengthening as bread. Note, He who gives us appetite for our food, hath given our food pleaſing qualities to gratify it. We have his proviſion, not merely as ſlaves fed with bread and water to live upon, but as children richly to enjoy.

2. They muſt gather it every day, for we muſt uſe the means whilſt we are depending on the divine bleſſing: As much as they needed, and no more; becauſe we may not abuſe God's gifts, by needleſs hoarding, or luxurious profuſion: None muſt be left till morning, becauſe we ought every day to truſt upon God for daily bread; not that we are forbidden a provident care for our families, but we muſt avoid anxious diſtruſt.

3. The diſobedience of ſome. They ſaved it out of covetouſneſs, or unbelief, and it bred worms and ſtunk, which juſtly provoked Moſes' anger, though the meekeſt man upon earth. Note, (1.) Covetouſneſs is God's abhorrence. (2.) A holy jealouſy in a miniſter's heart for the people's ſouls, will vent itſelf in juſt diſpleaſure againſt their ſins.

[o] Gen. ii. 3.
[p] Numb. xi. 7.

22. ¶ And it came to paſs that on the ſixth day they gathered twice as much bread, two omers for one man:
and all the rulers of the congregation came and told Moſes. 23. And he ſaid unto them, This is that which the LORD hath ſaid, To morrow is [o] the reſt of the holy ſabbath unto the LORD: bake that which ye will bake, to day, and ſeethe that ye will ſeethe; and that which remaineth over, lay up for you to be kept until the morning.
24. And they laid it up till the morning, as Moſes bade: and it did not ſtink, neither was there any worm therein. 25. And Moſes ſaid, Eat that to day; for to day is a ſabbath unto the LORD: to day ye ſhall not find it in the field. 26. Six days ye ſhall gather it, but on the ſeventh day which is the ſabbath, in it there ſhall be none.
27. ¶ And it came to paſs, that there went out ſome of the people on the ſeventh day for to gather, and they found none. 28. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, How long refuſe ye to keep my commandments and my laws? 29. See, for that the LORD hath given you the ſabbath, therefore he giveth you on the ſixth day the bread of two days: abide ye every man in his place, let no man go out of his place on the ſeventh day. 30.
So the people reſted on the ſeventh day. 31. And the houſe of Iſrael called the name thereof manna; And [p] it was like coriander ſeed, white; and the taſte of it was like wafers made with honey.

v. 22—31. Before the law was given, the Sabbath was obſerved. This was an inſtitution from the beginning, not peculiar to the Jewiſh oeconomy, but univerſally binding.

1. On the ſixth day, a double portion of manna is given, and what is preſerved, does not corrupt as before. To ſhew them alſo that this manna proceeded not from natural cauſes, working uniformly, none is ſent on the ſabbath. God will thus point out to them their duty; they muſt reſt from their works, as he from his. Note, (1.) No man was ever a loſer by a conſcientious obſervation of the Lord's day, whilſt the abuſe of it hath brought a curſe upon many a violator of it. (2.) The leſs we have to do on Sabbath-days, to divert us from the immediate work and ſervice of God, the better.

2. Some of them go out notwithſtanding, and God juſtly reſents their perverſeneſs. They are rebuked, and enjoined ſtrict obedience: God will have his day hallowed; they who diſhonour it, do it at their peril. Let thoſe who ſpend theſe ſacred hours, in idle company, parties of pleaſure, or works of wickedneſs, remember that God will viſit for theſe things.

[q] 1 Kings viii. 9. Heb. ix. 4.
[r] Numb. xxxiii. 38. Deut. viii. 2, 3.
[s] Joſh. v. 12. Neh. ix. 15.

32. ¶ And Moſes ſaid, This is the thing which the LORD commandeth, Fill an omer of it to be kept for your generations; that they may ſee the bread wherewith
I have fed you in the wilderneſs, when I brought you forth from the land of Egypt. 23. And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, [q] Take a pot, and put an omer full of manna therein, and lay it up before the LORD, to be kept for your generations. 34. As the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo Aaron laid it up before the teſtimony, to be kept. 35. And the children of Iſrael did eat manna [r] forty years, [s] until they came to a land inhabited: they did eat manna, until they came unto the borders of the land of Canaan. 36. Now an omer is the tenth part of an ephah.

v. 32—36. A pot of this manna is laid up before the Lord as a memorial: for we muſt leave behind us monuments of God's mercy, to awaken the praiſes of future generations: forty years they are fed, till they come to Canaan. God will not ceaſe his care over us, till he has ſafely lodged us in his eternal reſt. This manna is the type of Chriſt, given us from heaven, to nouriſh our famiſhed ſouls, to be fed upon by faith, as the ſtrength and comfort of our hearts, and not only ſatisfies our hunger, but ſaves us from death. He that eateth this bread, ſhall never die: well may we cry with the diſciples, Lord, evermore give us this bread!

CHAP. XVII.

Two paſſages of ſtory are recorded in this chapter, 1. The watering of the hoſt of Iſrael. (1) In the wilderneſs they wanted water, ver. 1. (2.) In their want they chid with Moſes, ver. 2, 3. (3.) Moſes cried to God, ver. 4. (4.) God ordered him to ſmite the rock, and fetch water out of that, and he did ſo, ver. 5, 6. (5.) The place named from it, ver. 7. 2. The defeating of the hoſt of Amalek. 1. The victory obtained by the prayer of Moſes, ver. 8—12. 2. By the ſword of Joſhua, ver. 13. 3. A record kept of it, ver. 14—16.

[a] Chap. xvi. 1. Num. xxxiii. 12, 13.
[b] Num. xx. 3, 4.
[c] Pſ. lxxviii. 41. 1 Cor. x. 9.

1. AND [a] all the congregation of the children of Iſrael journeyed from the wilderneſs of Sin, after their journeys, according to the commandment of the LORD, and pitched in Rephidim: and there was no water for the people to drink. 2. [b] Wherefore the people did chide with Moſes, and ſaid, Give us water that we may drink. And Moſes ſaid unto them, Why chide you with me? wherefore do [c] ye tempt the LORD?
3. And the people thirſted there for water; and the people murmured againſt Moſes, and ſaid, Wherefore is this this that thou haſt brought us up out of Egypt, to kill us, and our children, and our cattle with thirſt? 4. And Moſes cried unto the LORD, ſaying, What ſhall I do unto this people? they be almoſt ready to ſtone me. 5. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go on before the people, and take with thee of the elders of Iſrael: and thy [d] rod wherewith thou ſmoteſt the river, take in thine hand, and go. 6. [e] Behold, I will ſtand before thee there upon the rock in Horeb, and thou ſhalt ſmite the rock, and there ſhall come water out of it, that the people may drink. And Moſes did ſo in the ſight of the elders of Iſrael. 7. And he called the name of the place [f] † Maſſah, and ‡ Meribah, becauſe of the chiding of the children of Iſrael, and becauſe they tempted the LORD, ſaying, Is the LORD among us, or not?

[d] Chap. vii. 20.
[e] Num. xx. 9. Pſ. lxxviii. 15. & cv. 41. & cxiv. 8. Wiſd. xi. 4. 1 Cor. x. 4.
[f] Num. xx. 13. Pſ. lxxxi. 7. & xcv. 8. Heb. iii. 8.
† i. e. Temptation.
‡ i. e. Chiding, or ſtrife.

v. 1—7. In the way of duty we may meet with difficulties.

1. The children of Iſrael again want water, and as before but too impatient, quarrel with their beſt friend, and queſtion, after all they had ſeen, the reality of God's care and providence. Note, (1.) It is no uncommon thing for the greateſt kindneſſes to be thus ill requited. (2.) Who hath not ſometimes felt the ſame provoking queſtions of unbelief under diſtreſſing circumſtances, even to the very doubt of the providence, perhaps of the being of God? Such is man's fallen nature.

2. Moſes rebukes their unbelief, flies to God, caſts his burdens before him, for they threatened his life, and begs his aſſiſtance in their preſent perilous ſituation. Such dangers muſt they ſometimes run, who ſtand up eminently for God. Note, Prayer is the beſt means to compoſe our ſpirits under every diſturbance, and to obtain direction in all our difficulties.

3. God hears and anſwers. Inſtead of pouring out his wrath on the rebellious, he pours out his water on the thirſty, and floods on the dry ground. Moſes is commanded to ſmite the rock; inſtant the copious torrent flowed. Deep drank the parched Iſraelites of theſe living ſtreams; nor only quenched their preſent thirſt, but all the deſert through, the rock follows them, and pours around its miraculous waters. Note, (1.) God can open in our deepeſt diſtreſſes the moſt abundant ſupplies. (2.) Every believer ſpiritually experiences the ſame favour. This rock is Chriſt, ſmitten by the rod of God for our offences, opening a fountain in his ſide, quenching the thirſt of the guilty ſoul, ſatisfying the heart with the abundance of his conſolations, and never leaving us, but ſpringing up in our hearts as a well of water unto everlaſting life.

4. The name of the place, v. 7. Maſſah, Temptation, and Meribah, Strife. We ſhould long remember our ſins, and the places where and when committed, for our conſtant humiliation, and for our future caution.

8. ¶ [g] Then came Amalek, and fought with Iſrael in Rephidim. 9. And Moſes ſaid unto [h] Joſhua, Chooſe us out men, and go out, fight with Amalek: to-morrow I will ſtand on the top of the hill, with [i] the rod of God in mine hand. 10. So Joſhua did as Moſes had ſaid to him, and fought with Amalek: and Moſes, Aaron, and Hur, went up to the top of the hill. 11. And it came to paſs when Moſes held up his hand, that Iſrael prevailed: and when he let down his hand, Amalek prevailed. 12. But Moſes's hands were heavy, and they took a ſtone, and put it under him, and he ſat thereon: and Aaron and Hur ſtayed up his hands, the one on the one ſide, and the other on the other ſide; and his hands were ſteady until the going down of the ſun. 13. And Joſhua diſcomfited Amalek and his people with the edge of the ſword. 14. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Write this for a memorial in a book, and rehearſe it in the ears of Joſhua: for [k] I will utterly put out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven. 15. And Moſes built an altar, and called the name of it † JEHOVAH-niſſi. 16. For he ſaid, ‡ Becauſe ‖ the LORD hath ſworn, that the LORD will have war with Amalek from generation to generation.

[g] Deut. xxv. 17. 1 Sam. xv. 2. Wiſd. xi. 3.
[h] Called Jeſus, Acts vii. 45.
[i] Chap. iv. 20.
[k] Num. xxiv. 20. 1 Sam. xv. 3, 7. & xxx. 1, 17. 2 Sam. viii. 12. Ezra ix. 14.
† i. e. The Lord my banner. See Judg. vi. 24.
‡ Or, becauſe the hand of Amalek is againſt the throne of the Lord, therefore, &c.
‖ Heb. The hand upon the throne of the Lord.

v. 8—16. The firſt mention is now made of Iſrael's wars, and of Joſhua, who from henceforth becomes ſo eminent.

1. The Amalekites, the poſterity of Eſau, and heirs of their father's quarrel againſt Jacob, attack their rear; a viſitation for their late murmurings, and a proof, how ſoon the death they feared might find them, if God but withdrew his care of them.

2. The engagement under the conduct of Joſhua, and the prayers of Moſes. A detachment of ſelected men go forth to fight, and Moſes goes up to the mount, with the rod of God in his hand, to encourage them, by this banner on the hill, with the aſſurance of victory, and by his prayers to ſecure it. Note, The prayers of the faithful can do more than the drawn ſword, in turning to flight the armies of the aliens. Weary at laſt, his hands begin to fail, his rod declines, and Amalek ſeems to riſe victorious. Note, Fervent prayer is a wearineſs to the fleſh, and too apt are we to faint and grow tired of the bleſſed work; and whenever this is the caſe, ſin infallibly prevails. But now Aaron and Hur ſtay up his arms, and the day is crowned with a compleat victory. Note, (1.) They who continue inſtant in prayer, cannot fail to be conquerors in the end. (2.) Chriſt is to us inſtead of all; he is our unwearied and prevailing advocate, better than Moſes; our almighty captain, greater than Joſhua, on whoſe banners victory ſits enthroned; and our Aaron too, who holds up our fainting arms and feeble knees, that we may be enabled to perſevere in faith and prayer, until the ſun of life ſhall ſet, and death, our laſt enemy, be overcome.

3. The monument raiſed to God in the altar, acknowledging under whoſe banner they fought and conquered. Let it be ever remembered, in our victory over our corruptions, to the praiſe of the glory of God, that it is not I, but the grace of God which was with me. It is entred alſo upon record, that Amalek ſhall rue the day. Their enmity againſt Iſrael ſhall receive deſerved judgment: the deſtruction now begins, and their name ſhall finally be blotted out from under heaven. Let aſſurance of victory inſpire us with courage. Chriſt ſhall ſurely and ſhortly bruiſe all his enemies and ours under his feet.

CHAP. XVIII.

This chapter is concerning Moſes himſelf, and the affairs of his own family. 1. Jethro his father-in-law brings him his wife and children, ver. 1—6. 2. Moſes entertains him, ver. 7—12. 3. Jethro adviſeth him about the management of his buſineſs as a judge in Iſrael, ver. 13—23. and Moſes, after ſome time, takes his counſel, ver. 24—26. ſo they part, ver. 27.

1. WHEN [a] Jethro the prieſt of Midian, Moſes's father-in-law, heard of all that God had done for Moſes, and for Iſrael his people, and that the LORD had brought Iſrael out of Egypt: 2. Then Jethro, Moſes's father-in-law, took [b] Zipporah Moſes's wife, after he had ſent her back. 3. And her two ſons, of which [c] the name of the one was † Gerſhom (for he ſaid, I have been an alien in a ſtrange land). 4. And the name of the other was ‡ Eliezer (for the God of my father, ſaid he, was mine help, and delivered me from the ſword of Pharaoh). 5. And Jethro, Moſes's father-in-law, came with his ſons and his wife unto Moſes into the wilderneſs, where he encamped [d] at the mount of God. 6. And he ſaid unto Moſes, I thy father-in-law Jethro am come unto thee, and thy wife, and her two ſons with her.

[a] Chap. ii. 16. & iii. 1.
[b] Chap. iv. 25, 26.
[c] Chap. ii. 22.
† i. e. A ſtranger there.
‡ i. e. My God is an help.
[d] Chap. iii. 1.

v. 1—6. Jethro hearing of Moſes's proſperity, brings him his wife and children. It would be a great comfort to him to take them along with him, as it was a great duty not to be needleſſly ſeparated from them. The names of the children are mentioned, Gerſhom, a ſtranger, and Eliezer, God is my help, expreſſive of the ſtate of Moſes in Midian, and his confidence in God's care of him. Note, We are all ſtrangers upon earth, as our fathers were; but we have a child born unto us, to comfort us, the true Eliezer, even Emmanuel, the incarnate God, our helper.

7. ¶ And Moſes went out to meet his father-in-law, and did obeiſance, and kiſſed him, and they aſked each other of their † welfare: and they came into the tent. 8. And Moſes told his father-in-law all that the LORD had done unto Pharaoh, and to the Egyptians for Iſrael's ſake, and all the travel that had ‡ come upon them by the way, and how the LORD delivered them. 9. And Jethro rejoiced for all the goodneſs which the LORD had done to Iſrael: whom he had delivered out of the hand of the Egyptians. 10. And Jethro ſaid, Bleſſed be the LORD, who hath delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of Pharaoh, who hath delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians. 11. Now I know that the LORD is greater than all gods: for [f] in the thing wherein they dealt proudly, he was above them. 12. And Jethro Moſes's father-in-law took a burnt-offering and ſacrifices for God: and Aaron came, and all the elders of Iſrael, to eat bread with Moſes's father-in-law before God.

† Heb. Peace.
‡ Heb. Found them.
[e] Chap. i. 10, 16, 22. & v. 7. & xiv. 18.

v. 7—12. Moſes meets his father with affection and reſpect; for though he is become great, he is not become proud with it. As his heart is full of God's mercy, he begins immediately, on the firſt ſalutation, to recount God's dealings. Note, It is our duty, and ſhould be our delight, to tell of the things God hath done for our ſouls, for the encouragement and comfort of our brethren. Jethro is happy at the news, and bleſſes God for it. We muſt thus ever rejoice in the felicity of God's choſen, and give God the glory due to his name. And hereupon he makes a ſolemn profeſſion of his faith in Iſrael's God, convinced of his greatneſs above all the powers of man, as well as the inchantments of Egypt and her idols. In token of his faith he offers ſacrifice to God, and entertains all the elders of Iſrael. Though not an Iſraelite born, yet by faith of the Iſrael of God. Note, It is well when friends meet, not only to welcome them to our board, but to bring them to the altar. Our meetings will be joyful, and our feaſts ſanctified, when the word of God, and Christian converſation, and praiſe, and prayer, are our employment.

13. ¶ And it came to paſs on the morrow, that Moſes ſat to judge the people: and the people ſtood by Moſes, from the morning unto the evening. 14. And when Moſes's father-in-law ſaw all that he did to the people, he ſaid, What is this thing that thou doſt to the people? Why ſitteſt thou thyſelf alone, and all the people ſtand by thee from morning unto even? 15. And Moſes ſaid unto his father-in-law, Becauſe [f] the people come unto me to enquire of God. 16. When they have a matter, they come unto me, and I judge between † one and another, and I do make them know the ſtatutes of God and his laws. 17. And Moſes's father-in-law ſaid unto him, The thing that thou doſt is not good. 18. ‡ Thou wilt ſurely wear away, both thou, and this people that is with thee: for this thing is too heavy for thee; [g] thou art not able to perform it thyſelf alone. 19. Hearken now unto my voice, I will give thee counſel, and God ſhall be with thee: Be thou for the people to God-ward, that thou mayſt bring the cauſes unto God: 20. And thou ſhalt teach them ordinances and laws, and ſhalt ſhew them the way wherein they muſt walk, and the work that they muſt do. 21. Moreover, thou ſhalt provide out of all the people, [h] able men, ſuch as fear God, men of truth, hating covetouſneſs, and place ſuch over them, to be rulers of thouſands, and rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens. 22. And let them judge the people at all ſeaſons: and [i] it ſhall be, that every great matter they ſhall bring unto thee, but every ſmall matter they ſhall judge: So ſhall it be eaſier for thyſelf, and they ſhall bear the burden with thee. 23. If thou ſhalt do this thing, and God command thee ſo, then thou ſhalt be able to endure, and all this people ſhall alſo go to their place in peace. 24. So Moſes hearkned to the voice of his father-in-law, and did all that he had ſaid. 25. And [k] Moſes choſe able men out of all Iſrael, and made them heads over the people, rulers of thouſands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens. 26. And they judged the people at all ſeaſons: the hard cauſes they brought unto Moſes, but every ſmall matter they judged themſelves. 27. ¶ And Moſes let his father-in-law depart; and [l] he went his way into his own land.

[f] Lev. xxiv. 12. Num. xv. 34.
† Heb. A man and his fellow.
‡ Heb. Fading thou wilt fade.
[g] Num. xi. 14. Deut. i. 9.
[h] Deut. i. 16. & xvi. 18. 2 Chron. xix. 7, 9.
[i] Deut. i. 17. & xvii. 8.
[k] Deut. i. 15.
[l] Num. x. 29—32.

v. 13—27 Moſes was their law-giver and judge, as well as their deliverer; and faithful was he in the truſt committed to him.

1. Obſerve how he is employed, to decide in all matters of controverſy, and to inform them in all doubtful caſes concerning the will of God. Eaſy of acceſs, diligent and laborious in his office, and never diverted from the calls of buſineſs by any avocations. The greater a man is, the more uſeful he ſhould labour to be. The ſervant of the public muſt not ſeek his own pleaſure, but the good of the people.

2. Jethro's obſervation hereupon. It was inconvenient for the people, and is too much for himſelf. The multitude of buſineſs was attended with delay, and the greatneſs of the fatigue would kill him ſhortly. Note, (1.) A zealous miniſter is apt ſometimes to forget that his bones are not braſs, nor his ſinews iron, and even in well-doing to deſtroy himſelf: but this is neither for God's glory, nor the people's good. The continuance of his life and miniſtry is more deſirable; and God is too great a maſter to need, and too good a maſter to require, us to labour above our ſtrength.

3. His advice, with ſubmiſſion to God's direction, v. 23. is to reſerve himſelf for the weightier matters relating to the things of God, and the more difficult controverſies, and to appoint judges for the more ordinary affairs, reſerving an appeal to himſelf in thoſe of importance. Behold here the character of a good judge: of abilities to diſcern, of a clear underſtanding, and quick penetration; conſcientious, and one that fears God; who cannot be over-awed by authority, nor ſwayed by influence; of ſtrict integrity, whoſe word is ſacred, and whoſe fidelity is tried; eſpecially above the ſordid attachment to intereſt, whom bribes not only cannot corrupt, but who abhors the thought of ſuch unrighteous gain. Happy the land, where ſuch men ſit on the ſeat of judgment!

4. Moſes approves of it, for the wiſeſt men are moſt ready to receive good counſel. The judges are appointed in ſeveral diviſions, and in ſubordination one to another. Note, As we have reaſon to be thankful for the adminiſtration of juſtice, it is a farther privilege, that we have a right of appeal to higher courts, where wrong determinations may be reverſed, and equity ſoften the rigour of the letter of the law.

5. Jethro returns. It is pleaſing to be with our friends; but we have calls at home that demand our preſence, and we may then part with comfort, when, like Moſes and Jethro, we have profited by each other's converſation.

CHAP. XIX.

This chapter preſents us with one of the moſt ſenſible appearances of the Divine Glory, that ever was in this lower world. Here is, 1. The circumſtances of time and place, ver. 1, 2. 2. The gracious propoſal God makes to his people, ver. 3—6. And their conſent to it, ver. 7, 8. 3. Notice is given three days before of God's deſign to give the law out of a thick cloud, ver. 9. Orders to prepare for it, ver. 10—13. and care taken to execute thoſe orders, ver. 14, 15. 4. A terrible appearance of God's glory upon mount Sinai, ver. 16—20. 5. A ſtrict charge given to the people, ver. 21—25.

1. IN the third month, when the children of Iſrael were gone forth out of the land of Egypt, the ſame day [a] came they into the wilderneſs of Sinai. 2. For they were departed [b] from Riphidim, and were come to the deſert of Sinai, and had pitched in the wilderneſs, and there Iſrael camped before the mount. 3. And [c] Moſes went up unto God, and the LORD called unto him out of the mountain, ſaying, Thus ſhalt thou ſay to the houſe of Jacob, and tell the children of Iſrael; 4. [d] Ye have ſeen what I did unto the Egyptians, and how [e] I bare you on eagles wings, and brought you unto myſelf. 5. Now [f] therefore, if ye will obey my voice indeed, and keep my covenant, then [g] ye ſhall be a peculiar treaſure unto me above all people: for [h] all the earth is mine. 6. And ye ſhall be unto me [i] a kingdom of prieſts, and an holy nation. Theſe are the words which thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael. 7. ¶ And Moſes came and called for the elders of the people, and laid before their faces all theſe words which the LORD commanded him. 8. And [k] all the people anſwered together, and ſaid, All that the LORD hath ſpoken, we will do. And Moſes returned the words of the people unto the LORD.

[a] Numb. xxxiii. 15.
[b] Chap. xvii. 1, 8.
[c] Acts vii. 38.
[d] Deut. xxix. 2.
[e] Deut. xxxii. 11. Iſa. lxiii. 9. Rev. xii. 14.
[f] Deut. v. 2.
[g] Deut. iv. 20. & vii. 6. & xiv. 2, 21. & xxvi. 18. & xxxii. 8, 9. Pſ. cxxxv. 4. Cant. viii. 12. Iſa. xliii. 1. Jer. x. 16. Mal. iii. 17. Tit. ii. 14.
[h] Deut. x. 14. Pſ. xxiv. 1. & l. 12.
[i] Deut. xxxiii. 2, 3. 4. 1 Pet. ii. 5, 9. Rev. i. 6. & v. 10. & xx. 6.
[k] Chap. xxiv. 3, 7. Deut. v. 27. & xxvi. 17.

v. 1—8. About fifty days after their departure from Egypt, when they had marched to Sinai, God appears in glory on the mount, and calls up Moſes to communicate his deſigns reſpecting the people.

1. A covenant is propoſed. It is an act of God's free grace, and the tenor of the agreement as advantageous for Iſrael, as juſt reſpecting their Maker. Note, All the mercies we enjoy in time or eternity are purely owing to the ſovereign grace and undeſerved love of God. They are reminded of God's care and protection of them, v. 4, and therefore, as they are ſo much obliged to him, obedience is doubly their duty: this therefore he expects from them, aſſuring them hereupon of his diſtinguiſhing regard, and the honour he deſigns them, as ſovereignly choſen out from the nations of the earth, to be his peculiar people, a nation of prieſts unto him. Note, (1.) God's favours are as great as they are gracious. (2.) Every faithful ſervant of Jeſus is predeſtinated to be a prieſt and king before God, to be holy and glorious to eternity.

2. The ready acceptance of this propoſal, v. 8, which Moſes, as mediator, reports to God. Note, Like Iſrael we are ready to be haſty in our promiſes; but when the performance is called for, how backward to obey the voice of the Lord our God?

9. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Lo, I come unto thee [l] in a thick cloud, [m] that the people may hear when I ſpeak with thee, and [n] believe thee for ever. And Moſes told the words of the people unto the LORD. 10. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go unto the people, and ſanctify them to-day, and to-morrow, and let them [o] waſh their clothes, 11. And be ready againſt the third day: for the third day [p] the LORD

[l] Ver. 16. Chap. xx. 21. & xxiv. 15, 16. Pſ. xviii. 11, 12.
[m] Deut. iv. 12, 36.
[n] Chap. xiv. 31.
[o] Ver. 14. Gen. xxxv. 2. Lev. xv. 5.
[p] Chap. xxxiv. 5. Deut. xxxiii. 2.

Before Chriſt 1491.

LORD will come down in the ſight of all the people upon mount Sinai. 12. And thou ſhalt ſet bounds unto the people round about, ſaying, Take heed to your-ſelves, that ye go not up into the mount, or touch the border of it: [q] whoſoever toucheth the mount, ſhall be ſurely put to death. 13. There ſhall not an hand touch it, but he ſhall ſurely be ſtoned, or ſhot through; whether it be beaſt, or man, it ſhall not live: when the † trumpet ſoundeth long, they ſhall come up to the mount. 14. ¶ And Moſes went down from the mount unto the people, and ſanctified the people, and [r] they waſhed their clothes. 15. And he ſaid unto the people, Be ready againſt the third day: [s] come not at your wives.

[q] Heb. xii. 20.
† Or cornet.
[r] Ver. 10.
[s] 1 Sam. xxi. 4, 5. Zech. vii. 3. 1 Cor. vii. 5.

v. 9—15. The Lord informs Moſes of his appearing, and the intention of it, v. 9, and orders him to ſpeak to the people to prepare for this awful ſolemnity.

1. They muſt be ſanctified. They who approach God, ſhould ſeek to be ſeparated not only from the groſſer pollutions of ſin, but from the intruſion of vain thoughts, worldly buſineſs and cares, and whatever would interrupt our communion with him. Their cloaths muſt be waſhed, in token of that internal purity which becomes God's worſhippers; and even their lawful enjoyments muſt be abſtained from, that they may without diſtraction give themſelves up more entirely to the exerciſes of devotion.

2. They muſt not go up into the mount, nay, not ſo much as touch it; but when the trumpet ſounded long, they may draw near, as humble hearers, that God might ſpeak with them face to face. Note, No prohibition now forbids the neareſt acceſs to God. Chriſt Jeſus hath opened a way into the holieſt of all; we are no more called in terror to hear a fiery law, but invited by the goſpel's ſilver trumpet to draw near to a crucified Jeſus, and look and live.

16. And it came to paſs on the third day in the morning, that there were [t] thunders and lightnings, and a thick cloud upon the mount, and the voice of the trumpet exceeding loud; ſo that all the people that was in the camp trembled. 17. And [u] Moſes brought forth the people out of the camp to meet with God, and they ſtood at the nether part of the mount. 18. And [x] mount Sinai was altogether on a ſmoke, becauſe the LORD deſcended upon it in fire: and [y] the ſmoke thereof aſcended as the ſmoke of a furnace, and [z] the whole mount quaked greatly. 19. And when the voice of the trumpet ſounded long, and waxed louder and louder, [a] Moſes ſpake, and [b] God anſwered him by a voice. 20.
And the LORD came down upon mount Sinai, on the top of the mount: and the LORD called Moſes up to the top of the mount, and Moſes went up. 21. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Go down, † charge the people, leſt they break through unto the LORD [c] to gaze, and many of them periſh. 22. And let the prieſts alſo which come near to the LORD, ſanctify themſelves, leſt the LORD break forth upon them. 23. And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, The people cannot come up to mount Sinai: for thou chargedſt us, ſaying, Set bounds about the mount, and ſanctify it. 24. And the LORD ſaid unto him, Away, get thee down, and thou ſhalt come up, thou, and Aaron with thee: but let not the prieſts and the people break through to come up unto the LORD, leſt he break forth upon them.
25. So Moſes went down unto the people, and ſpake unto them.

[t] Heb. xii. 18.
[u] Deut. iv. 10.
[x] Deut. iv. 11. & xxxii. 2. Judg. v. 4. Pſ. lxviii. 7, 8. Hab. iii. 3.
[y] Gen. xv. 17.
[z] Heb. xii. 26.
[a] Heb. xii. 21.
[b] Neh. ix. 13. Pſ. lxxxi. 7.
† Heb. Conteſt.
[c] See 1 Sam. vi. 19.

v. 16—25. The third, the memorable day appears, uſhered in with thunderings and lightnings, and blaſts of the archangel's trumpet, like thoſe that ſhortly muſt awake the dead. The people are drawn out, and now the Lord deſcends, accompanied with his mighty angels; a fiery cloud his chariot, and Sinai trembles at his preſence, whilſt blaſts more loud and terrible proclaim the preſent deity. Even Moſes quakes with fear. God ſpeaks to him, v. 20, encourages him to approach. Moſes draws near, is ſent to repeat the former ſolemn injunctions, not to break through, nor gaze with vain curioſity. God knows their wilfulneſs; he muſt go down to prevent them, leſt they periſh through their preſumption. Note, (1.) Where God hath wrapped a ſacred veil around his ſecrets, to be contentedly ignorant, is our higheſt wiſdom. (2.) The boundaries God hath fixed are for our good: our folly or perverſeneſs, if unreſtrained, would deſtroy us. (3.) Whenever we approach him in his ordinances, let us remember his glory, that we may appear before him as becomes us, with reverence and godly fear.

CHAP. XX.

Before Chriſt 1491.

We have in this chapter, 1. The ten commandments, as God himſelf ſpake them upon mount Sinai, ver. 1—17. 2. The impreſſions made upon the people thereby, ver. 18—21. 3. Some particular instructions, which God gave privately to Moſes, to be by him communicated to the people, relating to his worſhip, ver. 22—26.

1. AND God ſpake all theſe words, ſaying, 2. [a] I am the LORD thy God, which have brought thee out of the land of Egypt, [b] out of the houſe of † bondage. 3. Thou ſhalt have no other gods before me. 4. [c] Thou ſhalt not make unto thee any graven image, or any likeneſs of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth. 5. Thou ſhalt not bow down thyſelf to them, nor ſerve them: for I the LORD thy God am [d] a jealous God, [e] viſiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me: 6. And [f] ſhewing mercy unto thouſands of them that love me, and keep my commandments. 7. [g] Thou ſhalt not take the name of the LORD thy God in vain: for [h] the LORD will not hold him guiltleſs that taketh his name in vain. 8. Remember the ſabbath-day, to keep it holy. 9. [i] Six days ſhalt thou labour, and do all thy work. 10. But the ſeventh day is the ſabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou ſhalt not do any work, thou, nor thy ſon, nor thy daughter, thy man-ſervant, nor thy maid-ſervant, nor thy cattle, [k] nor thy ſtranger that is within thy gates.
11. For [l] in ſix days the LORD made heaven and earth, the ſea, and all that in them is, and reſted the ſeventh day: wherefore the LORD bleſſed the ſabbath-day, and hallowed it.

[a] Lev. xxvi. 1. Deut. v. 6. Pſ. lxxxi. 10. Hoſ. xiii. 4.
[b] Chap. xiii. 3.
† Heb. Servants.
[c] Lev. xxvi. 1. Deut. iv. 15. Pſ. xcvii. 7.
[d] Chap. xxxiv. 14. Deut. vi. 15. Joſh. xxiv. 19. Neh. i. 2.
[e] Chap. xxxiv. 7. Lev. xx. 5. & xxvi. 39, 40. Num. xiv. 18, 33. 1 Kings, xxi. 29. Job v. 4. & xxi. 19. Pſ. lxxix. 8. & cix. 14. Iſa. xiv. 20, 21. & lxv. 6, 7. Jer. ii. 9. & xxxii. 18.
[f] Deut. vii. 9. Pſ. lxxxix. 34.
[g] Chap. xxiii. 1. Lev. xix. 12. Deut. v. 11. Pſ. xv. 3. Mat. v. 33.
[h] Mic. vi. 11.
[i] Chap. xxiii. 12. & xxxi. 14. & xxxiv. 21. Lev. xxiii. 3. Ezek. xx. 12. Luke xiii. 14.
[k] Neh. xiii. 16.
[l] Gen. ii. 2.

v. 1—11. Never before, or ſince, was ſuch an auditory, or ſuch a ſpeaker. God himſelf appears from heaven, to promulge that ſacred law which once was written on the heart, but by ſin defaced and obliterated. Obſerve,

1. The preface, v. 2. He is the Lord, who hath a right to demand the obedience he enjoins; and their God, in a covenant of peculiar favour, who would never be wanting in every inſtance of regard, which almighty power, joined with boundleſs love, could ſhew. He had manifeſted himſelf to them already in their deliverance from Egypt, and this is the earneſt of what he further could and would do for them. Note, That dear Redeemer, who hath delivered us from bondage worſe than Egyptian, may juſtly claim our bounden duty and ſervice in return.

2. The moral law. It opens with the duty we owe to God our Creator; enjoins his worſhip, ſervice, and obedience.

1. God muſt alone be the object of our worſhip, no other may be joined with him; for there is no other God beſides him, and on him muſt be placed our ſupreme confidence, fear, and love. To ſet them on any creature or thing, in preference to him, is immediately to become idolaters. How few are worſhippers then of the true God, when pleaſure, gain, honour, and the whole train of worldly gratifications, afford ſo many gods to the idol heart of fallen man!

2. God muſt be worſhipped, not under any repreſentation, but as a ſpirit, in ſpirit and in truth. No image muſt be made of him, nor religious worſhip be paid through any creature to him. We are not, even in our minds, to liken him to any object that is ſeen; and he is to be ſerved with the internal affections of the ſoul, and with the outward ſervice of prayer and praiſe. He threatens as a jealous God to viſit offenders. They who neglect his worſhip, or walk contrary to his command herein, ſhall be treated as haters of him; and children's children ſhall ſuffer for it; who, taught by their fathers example, ſhall ſhare in their viſitations: whilſt they who ſerve him in his preſcribed way, ſhall find his mercy, and entail their bleſſing on generations yet to come. Note, (1.) The idolatry of the Romiſh church, in ſuch groſs violations of this commandment, which they artfully would conceal from the people, by omitting the ſecond commandment in their catechiſms, and joining the reaſons againſt idolatry here given, to the firſt. (2.) The neceſſity of the conſcientious and conſtant worſhip of God, without which we never can be enabled to love him, and keep his commandments.

3. God's name muſt not be taken in vain, by hypocritical prayers, which never come from the heart, or by vows of fidelity to him we are negligent to keep; by any raſh or falſe ſwearing, or by light and irreverent uſe of his holy name in our ordinary converſation. And however little attended to this commandment may now be, the ſame ſanction guards it as ever. God will not hold the tranſgreſſor guiltleſs; and it is a fearful thing to meet him in wrath.

4. The

4. The ſabbath-day muſt be kept holy. Nothing ſhould break in to diſturb the ſacred reſt; all worldly buſineſs muſt be laid aſide, and the whole employed in the more immediate ſervice of God. And not only ourſelves, but all under our roof, muſt ceaſe from labour, and join with us in the celebration of the holy day: and this in memory of God's finiſhed work of creation, and becauſe he hath choſen it, and ſet it apart for his own. Note, (1.) We need many a remembrance, ſo apt are we to forget God and his laws. (2.) Nothing will conduce more, as a means to our preparation for the eternal reſt, which remaineth for the people of God, than a ſerious and conſtant obſervation of the ſeventh day.

12. ¶ [m] Honour thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee. 13. [n] Thou ſhalt not kill. 14. [o] Thou ſhalt not commit adultery. 15. Thou ſhalt not ſteal. 16. [p] Thou ſhalt not bear falſe witneſs againſt thy neighbour. 17. [q] Thou ſhalt not covet thy neighbour's houſe, [r] thou ſhalt not covet thy neighbour's wife, nor his man-ſervant, nor his maid-ſervant, nor his ox, nor his aſs, nor any thing that is thy neighbour's.

[m] Chap. xxiii. 26. Lev. xix. 3. Deut. v. 16. Jer. xxxv. 7. Mat. xv. 4. Eph. vi. 2.
[n] Mat. v. 21. Rom. xiii. 9.
[o] Mat. v. 27.
[p] Deut. xix. 16.
[q] Acts xx. 33.
[r] Job xxxi. 9.

v. 12—17. The firſt table related to God; the ſecond reſpects our neighbour. When we conſcientiouſly ſerve the one, we ſhall infallibly deſire to walk upright before the other.

1. The fifth commandment enjoins the reverence due to our parents, and in them to all ſuperiors; a reſpectful carriage towards them; obedient ſubmiſſion to their juſt commands; patience under their corrections; teachableneſs under their inſtructions; and readineſs to help and ſuccour them at all times, according to our abilities. The promiſe annexed to it, is long poſſeſſion of the promiſed land. Note, The career of a diſobedient child is often ſhort, and even in this world has a miſerable end.

2. The ſixth commandment forbids murder in every kind and degree, of others or ourſelves; and not only reſtrains from the outward act, but equally condemns the raſh anger that leads to it, whether in thought, word, or deed. Note, He that reads, Mat. v. 22. will need humble his ſoul for the murder he hath committed.

3. The ſeventh commandment reſpects our own, and our neighbour's chaſtity. Not only it condemns the groſſer act, but every deſire, thought, look, word, or action, which would lead to impurity.

4. The eighth commandment enjoins all honeſty and fidelity; condemns every act of injuſtice, fraud, or oppreſſion, whether to individuals or the public, and alſo that profuſion or covetouſneſs, which naturally leads to the breach of it.

5. The ninth commandment forbids all perjury, all lying, backbiting, ſlandering, equivocation, and whatever would deceive, or be to the injury of our neighbour.

6. The tenth commandment is the ſpirituality of all the reſt in one, and ſtrikes at the root of all that ſelfiſhneſs which is in the corrupted nature of man, forbidding the wandrings of vain deſire, and the imaginations of luſt and covetouſneſs. Well will it be for us, if the deep views of this holy law affect our hearts, both with a ſenſe of our need of the blood of Jeſus Chriſt, to ſave us from the violations of it, and of the ſpirit of Chriſt, to enable us to perform any acceptable obedience to it.

18. ¶ And [s] all the people [t] ſaw the thundrings, and the lightnings, and the noiſe of the trumpet, and the mountain ſmoaking: and when the people ſaw it, they removed, and ſtood afar off. 19. And they ſaid unto Moſes, [u] Speak thou with us, and we will hear: but let not God ſpeak with us, leſt we die. 20. And Moſes ſaid unto the people, Fear not: for [x] God is come to prove you, and that his fear may be before your faces, that ye ſin not. 21. And the people ſtood afar off, and Moſes drew near unto the [y] thick darkneſs where God was.

[s] Heb. xii. 18.
[t] Rev. i. 12.
[u] Deut. v. 24. & xviii. 16. Gal. iii. 19, 20. Hebr. xii. 19.
[x] Deut. xiii. 3.
[y] Chap. xix. 16. Deut. v. 5. 1 Kings viii. 12.

v. 18—21. With pomp of terrible majeſty God thus proclaims his holy will. An emblem of the diſpenſation they were under, begetting terror and bondage, and deſigned to make the reception of the grace and truth, which comes by Jeſus Chriſt, the more welcome. Obſerve,

1. The people's apprehenſions. They are now cured of their curioſity; and trembling retreat, even from the nearneſs permitted them; ſo fearful are they of the preſence of God. They entreat Moſes to be their mediator, whoſe terror cannot make them afraid. Who would have thought, after ſuch a ſcene, the golden calf could on that ſpot have ever reared its guilty head? Note, Legal terrors will never cure men of their ſins.

2. Moſes encourages them. Dejected hearts muſt be ſupported againſt their fears: God was come to prove, not to puniſh them; to put his fear before them, that they ſin not. A filial fear of offending, is the great preſervative from evil.

3. Moſes, at God's command, returns to the thick darkneſs to commune with God. It is the property of divine faith, to ſee through the thick cloud of ſenſe, and hold communion with him that is inviſible.

22. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Thus thou ſhalt ſay unto the children of Iſrael, Ye have ſeen that [z] I have talked with you from heaven. 23. Ye ſhall not make [a] with me gods of ſilver, neither ſhall ye make unto you gods of gold. 24. ¶ An altar of earth thou ſhalt make unto me, and ſhalt ſacrifice thereon thy burnt-offerings, and thy peace-offerings, [b] thy ſheep, and thine oxen: In all places where I record my name, I will come unto thee, and I will bleſs thee. 25. And [c] if thou wilt make me an altar of ſtone, thou ſhalt not † build it of hewn ſtone: for if thou lift up thy tool upon it, thou haſt polluted it. 26. Neither ſhalt thou go up by ſteps unto mine altar, that thy nakedneſs be not diſcovered thereon.

[z] Deut. iv. 36. Neh. ix. 13.
[a] See 1 Sam. v. 4, 5. 2 Kings xvii. 33. Ezek. xx. 39. & xliii. 8. Zeph. i. 4, 5. 2 Cor. vi. 14, 15, 16.
[b] Lev. i. 2.
[c] Deut. xxvii. 5. Joſh. viii. 31. 1 Mac. iv. 47.
† Heb. Build them with hewing.

v. 22—26. Idolatry being the ſin to which God ſaw the people moſt inveterately addicted, he gives Moſes ſome particular directions to guard them from it.

1. All images are forbidden: the moſt coſtly are an abomination in the ſight of God. The moſt expenſive worſhip, if not according to God's commandment, is but a more ſplendid iniquity.

2. Their altars muſt be plain, unadorned, of earth or unhewn ſtone, and low, for the reaſon given, v. 26. God muſt be worſhipped in ſpirit, and gorgeous ornaments are there ſuperfluous, where the heart is to be regarded. The ſhowy pageantry of the Romiſh church, is but as the finery of a whore; that though it may draw in the unwary, is the ſignal to the wiſe to turn away.

3. God will meet thoſe who wait upon him in his ways, and will bleſs them, in every place where his name ſhould be worſhipped, according to his own inſtitution. Now they were allowed as many altars as they choſe; afterwards their ſacrifices were all to be offered at Jeruſalem; but ſince the true Lamb of God was ſlain there, this peculiarity is deſtroyed; and now in every place, God is near thoſe who call upon him out of a pure heart fervently.

CHAP. XXI.

1. Here are ſeveral enlargements upon the fifth commandment, (1.) The duty of maſters towards their men-ſervants, ver. 2—6. and maid-ſervants, ver. 7—11. (2.) The puniſhment of diſobedient children that ſtrike their parents, ver. 15. or curſe them, ver. 17. 2. Upon the ſixth commandment, 1. Concerning murder, ver. 12—14. 2. Manſtealing, ver. 16. 3. Aſſault and battery, ver. 18, 19. 4. Correcting a ſervant, ver. 20, 21. 5. Hurting a woman with child, ver 22, 23. 6. The law of retaliation, ver. 24, 25. 7. Maiming a ſervant, ver. 26, 27. 8. An ox goring, ver. 26—32. 9. Damage done by opening a pit, ver. 33, 34. 10. Cattle fighting, ver. 35, 36.

1. NOW theſe are the judgments which thou ſhalt [a] ſet before them. 2. [b] If thou buy an Hebrew ſervant, ſix years ſhall he ſerve: and in the ſeventh he ſhall go out free for nothing. 3. If he came in † by himſelf, he ſhall go out by himſelf: if he were married, then his wife ſhall go out with him. 4. If his maſter have given him a wife, and ſhe have born him ſons or daughters; the wife and her children ſhall be her maſter's, and he ſhall go out by himſelf. 5. And [c] if the ſervant ‡ ſhall plainly ſay, I love my maſter, my wife, and my children, I will not go out free: 6. Then his maſter ſhall [d] bring him unto the judges; he ſhall alſo bring him to the door, or unto the door-poſt: and his maſter ſhall bore his ear through with an awl, and he ſhall ſerve him for ever. 7. ¶ And if a man ſell his daughter to be a maid-ſervant, ſhe ſhall not go out as the men-ſervants do. 8. If ſhe † pleaſe not her maſter, who hath betrothed her to himſelf, then ſhall he let her be redeemed: to ſell her unto a ſtrange nation he ſhall have no power, ſeeing he hath dealt deceitfully with her. 9. And if he have betrothed her unto his ſon, he ſhall deal with her after the manner of daughters. 10. If he take him another wife; her food, her raiment, and [e] her duty of marriage ſhall he not diminiſh. 11. And if he do not theſe three unto her, then ſhall ſhe go out free without money.

[a] Chap. xxiv. 3, 4. Deut. iv. 14.
[b] Lev. xxv. 39. Deut. xv. 12. Jer. xxxiv. 14.
† Heb. With his body.
[c] Deut. xv. 16.
‡ Heb. Saying, ſhall ſay.
[d] Chap. xxii. 28.
† Heb. Be evil in the eyes of.
[e] 1 Cor. vii. 5.

v. 1—11. God was himſelf the head of the Jewiſh ſtate, and governed them in an eſpecial manner, by laws immediately given from himſelf. We have here, ordinances concerning ſervants: they had been ſervants themſelves, and therefore are peculiarly called to exerciſe gentleneſs towards ſuch. Though they had ſuffered, they muſt not play the tyrant in their turn.

1. Of the man-ſervant, v. 2—6. He muſt be free every ſeventh year, unleſs he chuſe to ſtay; on which, in the preſence of the judges, v. 6. his ear was bored, and he was then a ſervant for life, or till the year of jubilee. Note, Voluntary ſervitude will ſeldom be found among men; but they who have taſted the bleſſed freedom of God's ſervice, are happy to be confirmed in his houſe for ever, and deſire to go out no more.

2. Of the maid-ſervants, v. 7—11. The meaneſt of Iſrael's daughters are honourably taken care of: thus Jeſus firſt bought the church with his blood; then, mean and unequal as was the match, eſpouſed her to himſelf in mercy, and liberally endowed her with all the rich bleſſings of his grace.

12. ¶ [f] He that ſmiteth a man, ſo that he die, ſhall be ſurely put to death. 13. And if a man lie not in wait, but God deliver him into his hand; then [g] I will appoint thee a place whither he ſhall flee. 14. But if a man come preſumptuouſly upon his neighbour, to ſlay him with guile; [h] thou ſhalt take him from mine altar, that he may die. 15. ¶ And he that ſmiteth his father, or his mother, ſhall ſurely be put to death. 16. ¶ And [i] he that ſtealeth a man, and ſelleth him, or if he be found in his hand, he ſhall ſurely be put to death. 17. ¶ And [k] he that † curſeth his father, or his mother, ſhall ſurely be put to death.

[f] Gen. ix 6. Lev. xxiv. 17. Mat. xxvi. 52.
[g] Numb. xxxv. 11. Deut. xix. 3. Joſh. xx. 2.
[h] 1 Kings ii. 28. 2 Kings xi. 15.
[i] Deut. xxiv. 7.
[k] Lev. xx. 9. Prov. xx. 20. Mat. xv. 4. Mark vii. 10.
† Or revileth.

v. 12—17. Three capital crimes are laid down. Murder, man-ſtealing, and ſtriking or curſing of parents. Note, (1.) If the murderer will find no ſanctuary even at God's altar, ſurely he ſhould find none elſewhere. Mercy to a murderer, is cruelty to mankind. (2.) Though the behaviour of an undutiful ſon under our laws, meets not ſuch exemplary puniſhment, God will ſurely take vengeance, either in time or eternity.

A proviſion is made for manſlaughter: where there was no malice prepenſe, but God delivered him into his hand, a city of refuge ſhall be provided. Note, Nothing is accidental: if a ſparrow falls not to the ground, without Divine direction, much leſs doth a man.

18. ¶ And if men ſtrive together, and one ſmite ‡ another with a ſtone, or with his fiſt, and he die not, but keepeth his bed: 19. If he riſe again, and walk abroad upon his ſtaff, then ſhall he that ſmote him be quit: only he ſhall pay for ‖ the loſs of his time, and ſhall cauſe him to be thoroughly healed. 20. ¶ And if a man ſmite his ſervant, or his maid with a rod, and he die under his hand; he ſhall be ſurely † puniſhed. 21. Notwithſtanding, if he continue a day or two, he ſhall not be puniſhed: for [l] he is his money. 22. ¶ If men ſtrive, and hurt a woman with child, ſo that her fruit depart from her, and yet no miſchief follow: he ſhall be ſurely puniſhed, according as the woman's huſband will lay upon him; and he ſhall pay as the judges determine. 23. And if any miſchief follow, then thou ſhalt give life for life, 24. [m] Eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, 25. Burning for burning, wound for wound, ſtripe for ſtripe. 26. ¶ And if a man ſmite the eye of his ſervant, or the eye of his maid, that it periſh; he ſhall let him go free for his eye's ſake. 27. And if he ſmite out his man-ſervant's tooth, or his maid-ſervant's tooth; he ſhall let him go free for his tooth's ſake.

‡ Or his neighbour.
‖ Heb. His ceaſing.
† Heb. Avenged.
[l] Lev. xxv. 46.
[m] Ibid. xxiv. 20. Deut. xix. 21. Mat. v. 38.

v. 18—27. We have here, 1. Satisfaction for damage in quarrels, v. 18, 19. 2. What was to be done, if a ſlave died under correction, or lived a day or two after it, v. 20, 21. Note, Though laws may not puniſh every inſtance of cruelty, there is a maſter in heaven, with whom there is no reſpect of perſons. 3. The penalty of hurting a woman with child, ſo as to miſcarry, v. 22. 4. General directions for judges, regarding the laws of retaliation, though private perſons may not avenge themſelves, the judges may and ought to decree reparation, according to the damage. 5. A ſervant ſtruck by his maſter, ſo as to be maimed, or even loſe a tooth, was to be free. Self-intereſt would thus reſtrain paſſionate maſters from uſing violence; at leaſt the injured ſervant would be recompenſed with his liberty.

28. ¶ If an ox gore a man or a woman, that they die, then [n] the ox ſhall be ſurely ſtoned, and his fleſh ſhall not be eaten; but the owner of the ox ſhall be quit. 29. But if the ox were wont to puſh with his horn in time paſt, and it hath been teſtified to his owner, and he hath not kept him in, but that he hath killed a man or a woman; the ox ſhall be ſtoned, and his owner alſo ſhall be put to death. 30. If there be laid on him a ſum of money, then he ſhall give for [o] the ranſom of his life, whatſoever is laid upon him. 31. Whether he have gored a ſon, or have gored a daughter, according to this judgment ſhall it be done unto him. 32. If the ox ſhall puſh a man-ſervant, or maid-ſervant; he ſhall give unto their maſter [p] thirty ſhekels of ſilver, and the ox ſhall be ſtoned. 33. ¶ And if a man ſhall open a pit, or if a man ſhall dig a pit, and not cover it, and an ox or an aſs fall therein; 34. The owner of the pit ſhall make it good, and give money unto the owner of them; and the dead beaſt ſhall be his. 35. ¶ And if one man's ox hurt another's that he die, then they ſhall ſell the live ox, and divide the money of it, and the dead ox alſo they ſhall divide. 36. Or if it be known that the ox hath uſed to puſh in time paſt, and his owner hath not kept him in; he ſhall ſurely pay ox for ox, and the dead ſhall be his own.

[n] Gen. ix. 5.
[o] Numb. xxxv. 31.
[p] See Mat. xxvi. 15. Phil. ii. 7.

v. 28—36. We have ſundry directions concerning damage done to life or limb by cattle; damage done by cattle fighting; damage ſuſtained by a pit being uncovered: In which we may obſerve, 1. The care God hath of man's life, even the ox muſt be ſtoned that kills a man. 2. That they who are acquainted with the miſchievouſneſs of their cattle, and take not proper care of them, are looked upon as acceſſary to the hurt done by them. Not to reſtrain the evil that is in our power, is to commit it. 3. We deſerve to be puniſhed for negligence, as well as miſchief. They who put a ſtumbling block in their brother's way, perhaps deſign no harm; but when harm is done, that will be no excuſe.

CHAP. XXII.

The laws of this chapter relate, 1. To the eighth commandment, concerning theft, ver. 1—4. Treſpaſs by cattle, ver. 5. Damage by fire, ver. 6. Truſts, ver. 7—13. Borrowing cattle, ver. 14, 15. or money, ver. 25—27. 2. To the ſeventh commandment. Againſt fornication, ver. 16, 17. Beſtiality, ver. 19. 3. To the firſt table, forbidding witchcraft, ver. 18. Idolatry, ver. 20. Commanding to offer the firſt-fruits, ver. 29, 30. 4. To the poor, ver. 21—24. 5. To the civil government, ver. 28. 6. To the peculiarity of the Jewiſh nation, ver. 31.

1. IF a man ſhall ſteal an ox or a † ſheep, and kill it, or ſell it; he ſhall reſtore five oxen for an ox, and [a] four ſheep for a ſheep. 2. ¶ If a thief be found breaking up, and be ſmitten that he die, there ſhall no blood be ſhed for him. 3. If the ſun be riſen upon him, there ſhall be blood ſhed for him: for he ſhould make full reſtitution; if he have nothing, then he ſhall be ſold for his theft. 4. If the theft be certainly found in his hand alive, whether it be ox, or aſs, or ſheep; he ſhall reſtore double. 5. ¶ If a man ſhall cauſe a field or vineyard to be eaten, and ſhall put in his beaſt, and ſhall feed in another man's field: of the beſt of his own field, and of the beſt of his own vineyard ſhall he make reſtitution. 6. ¶ If fire break out, and catch in thorns ſo that the ſtacks of corn, or the ſtanding-corn, or the field be conſumed therewith; he that kindled the fire ſhall ſurely make reſtitution.

† Or goat.
[a] 2 Sam. xii. 6. Luke xix. 8. See Prov. vi. 31.

v. 1—6. Laws concerning theft, 1. For an ox ſtolen, if killed, or ſold, five muſt be reſtored; for a ſheep, four; if found alive, in his cuſtody, double. If the thief hath nothing to pay, he muſt be ſold for a ſlave. Note, No man was ever at laſt the richer, for what he got by thieving. 2. If a thief broke a houſe at night, and was killed, no blood was to be ſhed for him: but if in the day, unleſs in ſelf-defence, he that ſlew him was anſwerable for it. Obſerve, we ſhould be tender, even to ſhed the blood of a robber. 3. Concerning treſpaſs, v. 5. Reſtitution muſt be made of our beſt. 4. For fire ſpread by thorns, though undeſigned, damages muſt be made good, v. 6. Thoſe who by tattling, ſlander, &c. injure their neighbour, though they may plead they did not intend harm, will find in God's court a ſevere account laid for idle words.

7. ¶ If a man ſhall deliver unto his neighbour money or ſtuff to keep, and it be ſtolen out of the man's houſe; if the thief be found, let him pay double. 8. If the thief be not found, then the maſter of the houſe ſhall be brought unto the judges, to ſee whether he have put his hand unto his neighbour's goods. 9. For all manner of treſpaſs, whether it be for ox, for aſs, for ſheep, for raiment, or for any manner of loſt thing, which another challengeth to be his: the cauſe of both parties ſhall come before the judges; and whom the judges ſhall condemn, he ſhall pay double unto his neighbour. 10. If a man deliver unto his neighbour an aſs, or an ox, or a ſheep, or any beaſt to keep; and it die, or be hurt, or driven away, no man ſeeing it: 11. Then ſhall an oath of the LORD be between them both, that he hath not put his hand unto his neighbour's goods: and the owner of it ſhall accept thereof, and he ſhall not make it good. 12. And [b] if it be ſtolen from him, he ſhall make reſtitution unto the owner thereof. 13. If it be torn in pieces; then let him bring it for witneſs, and he ſhall not make good that which was torn. 14. ¶ And if a man borrow ought of his neighbour, and it be hurt, or die, the owner thereof being not with it; he ſhall ſurely make it good. 15. But if the owner thereof be with it, he ſhall not make it good: if it be an hired thing, it came for his hire.

b Gen. xxxi. 39.

v. 7—15. Farther laws are given, 1. Concerning truſts. If ought be loſt or ſtolen, and the thief be found, or the truſtee privy to it, he ſhall pay double. If he prove his innocence by evidence, or oath, before the judges to their ſatisfaction, he ſhould be free. Note, (1.) To betray a truſt, is to add ingratitude to injuſtice. (2.) The great diſhoneſty of the world makes oaths neceſſary. (3.) A man muſt be advanced to a daring pitch of wickedneſs, that can ſolemnly make a falſe appeal to the avenging God.

2. Concerning loans, v. 14, 15. If a man hired ought, and the owner was with it, the care was repoſed on him. If it was lent freely, and received injury, it was to be made good. What we borrow, we ſhould be twice careful of, out of gratitude to the lender.

16. ¶ And [c] if a man entice a maid that is not betrothed, and lie with her; he ſhall ſurely endow her to be his wife. 17. If her father utterly refuſe to give her unto him, he ſhall † pay money according to the dowry of virgins. 18. ¶ [d] Thou ſhalt not ſuffer a witch to live. 19. ¶ [e] Whoſoever lieth with a beaſt, ſhall ſurely be put to death. 20. ¶ [f] He that ſacrificeth unto any god, ſave unto the LORD only, he ſhall be utterly deſtroyed. 21. ¶ [g] Thou ſhalt neither vex a ſtranger, nor oppreſs him: for ye were ſtrangers in the land of Egypt.

c Deut. xxii. 28.
† Heb. Weigh.
d Lev. xix. 26, 31. & xx. 27. Deut. xviii. 10, 11. 1 Sam. xxviii. 9.
e Lev. xviii. 23. & xx. 15.
f Deut. xiii. 1, 6, 13, 14, 15. & xvii. 2. 1 Mac. ii. 24.
g Ex. xxiii. 9. Lev. xix. 33. & xxv. 35.

v. 16—21. We have,

1. The reſtitution to be made to a maiden, who ſhould be debauched. The perſon muſt marry her; or if her father refuſed his conſent, make her a ſatisfaction in money.

2. Three capital crimes; witchcraft, buggery, and idolatry. They who forſake God in ſpirit, or thus abuſe their own bodies, are no longer fit to live.

22. ¶ [h] Ye ſhall not afflict any widow, or fatherleſs child. 23. If thou afflict them in any wiſe, and they cry at all unto me: I will ſurely hear their cry; 24. And my wrath ſhall wax hot, and I will kill you with the ſword; and [i] your wives ſhall be widows, and your children fatherleſs. 25. [k] If thou lend money to any of my people that is poor by thee, thou ſhalt not be to him as an uſurer, neither ſhalt thou lay upon him uſury. 26. [l] If thou at all take thy neighbour's raiment to pledge, thou ſhalt deliver it unto him by that the ſun goeth down: 27. For that is his covering only, it is his raiment for his ſkin: wherein ſhall he ſleep? and it ſhall come to paſs, when he crieth unto me, that I will hear: for I am gracious.

h Deut. x. 18. & xxiv. 17. & xxvii. 19. Iſa. i. 17. Zech. vii. 10. Jam. i. 27.
i Pſal. cix. 9.
k Lev. xxv. 35, 36, 37. Deut. xxiii. 19. Neh. v. 7. Pſal. xv. 5. Ezek. xviii. 8, 17.
l Deut. xxiv. 6, 10, 13. Job xxiv. 3, 9. Prov. xx. 16. & xxii. 27. Amos ii. 8.

v. 22—27. 1. Strangers muſt not be oppreſſed, v. 21. neither advantage taken of their ignorance, or partiality ſhewn to them in judgment; or any affront or unkindneſs offered them. Strangers have a double title to our protection and humanity, as from their circumſtances they muſt be more expoſed, and liable to impoſition or oppreſſion. 2. The fatherleſs and widows are under God's peculiar care: woe to thoſe who give cauſe for their cries, by unkindneſs to them, or by any injuries done them. If among men they find no helper, God will be the avenger of all ſuch. 3. A law againſt uſury. It was wholly forbidden among the Jews, though allowed reſpecting ſtrangers. All extorted premiums, or exorbitant gain from loans to the neceſſitous, are contrary not only to the laws of God, but puniſhable alſo by the judges. But if he who borrows, does it to make a more conſiderable advantage to himſelf, it is as reaſonable he ſhould pay for the uſe of money, as of land. 4. Againſt retaining cloaths for a pledge, v. 26, 27. When we lie warm ourſelves, let us remember thoſe who want cloaths to cover them; and never add affliction to the needy, but ſtudy how to relieve it.

28. ¶ [m] Thou ſhalt not revile the † gods, nor curſe the ruler of thy people. 29. ¶ Thou ſhalt not delay to offer ‡ the firſt of thy ripe fruits, and of thy ‖ liquors: [n] the firſt-born of thy ſons ſhalt thou give unto me. 30. Likewiſe ſhalt thou do with thine oxen, and with thy ſheep: [o] ſeven days it ſhall be with his dam; on the eighth day thou ſhalt give it me. 31. ¶ And ye ſhall be holy men unto me: [p] neither ſhall ye eat any fleſh that is torn of beaſts in the field: ye ſhall caſt it to the dogs.

m Eccleſ. x. 20. Acts xxiii. 5. Jude viii.
† Or judges, Pſal. lxxxii. 6.
‡ Heb. Thy fulneſs.
‖ Heb. Tear.
n Chap. xiii. 2, 12. & xxxiv. 19. Deut. xv. 19.
o Lev. xxii. 27.
p Ibid. 8. Ezek. xliv. 31.

v. 28—31. 1. A law againſt contempt of magiſtrates, v. 28. They are cloathed with their character from God. To oppoſe or revile them, is to revile and oppoſe the ordinance of God. Note, A faithful magiſtrate muſt expect malignant tongues. 2. Concerning the firſt-fruits, v. 29—30. They muſt not delay to offer them: nothing ſo dangerous as procraſtination: how many ſouls have periſhed, by putting off to a more convenient ſeaſon, what preſent duty required? Happy they, who offer their youngeſt days to God, and devote to him not the dregs of age, but the prime of life. 3. They muſt not eat what was torn of beaſts, v. 31. for they are holy: they muſt remember their dignity. A chriſtian will no more do a mean and baſe thing, than a ſinful one.

CHAP. XXIII.

Contains, 1. Some laws of univerſal obligation againſt bearing falſe witneſs, ver. 1: and giving falſe judgment, ver. 2, 3, 6, 7, 8. Alſo of doing good to our enemies, ver. 4, 5. and not oppreſſing ſtrangers, ver. 9. 2. Some laws peculiar to the Jews: The ſabbatical year, ver. 10, 11. the three annual feaſts, ver. 14—17. with ſome laws pertaining thereto. 3. Promiſes to them, if obedient, ver. 20—24. That he would proſper all they had, ver. 25, 26. That he would put them in poſſeſſion of Canaan, ver. 27—31. But they muſt not mingle themſelves with the nations, ver. 32, 33.

1. [a] THOU ſhalt not † raiſe a falſe report: put not thine hand with the wicked to be an unrighteous witneſs. 2. ¶ [b] Thou ſhalt not follow a multitude to do evil; neither ſhalt thou ‡ ſpeak in a cauſe, to decline after many, to wreſt judgment: 3. ¶ [c] Neither ſhalt thou countenance a poor man in his cauſe. 4. ¶ [d] If thou meet thine enemies ox or his aſs going aſtray, thou ſhalt ſurely bring it back to him again. 5. [e] If thou ſee the aſs of him that hateth thee, lying under his burden, † and wouldſt forbear to help him; thou ſhalt ſurely help him. 6. Thou ſhalt not wreſt the judgment of thy poor in his cauſe. 7. Keep thee far from a falſe matter: and the innocent and righteous ſlay thou not: for [f] I will not juſtify the wicked. 8. ¶ And [g] thou ſhalt take no gift: for the gift blindeth † the wiſe, and perverteth the words of the righteous. 9. ¶ Alſo [h] thou ſhalt not oppreſs a ſtranger: for ye know the † heart of a ſtranger, ſeeing ye were ſtrangers in the land of Egypt.

a Pſal. xv. 3.
† Or receive.
b Lev. xix. 15. Deut. i. 17.
‡ Heb. Anſwer.
c Pſal. lxxii. 2. d Deut. xxii. 1. Job xxxi. 29. Prov. xxiv. 17. & xxv. 21. Mat. v. 44. Rom. xii. 20.
e Deut. xxii. 4.
† Or, wilt thou ceaſe to help him? or, And wouldſt ceaſe to leave thy buſineſs for him; thou ſhalt ſurely leave it to join with him.
f Chap. xxxiv. 7.
g Deut. xvi. 19. Prov. xvii. 8, 23. Ecclus xx. 29.
† Heb. The ſeeing.
h Chap. xxii. 21. Deut. x. 19. & xxiv. 14, 17. & xxvii. 19.
† Heb. Soul.

v. 1—9. We have here ſundry laws of univerſal obligation:

1. Againſt falſe accuſation: not only by perjury, in a court of judicature, but by every ſcandal propagated in common converſation. Note, To ſpeak evil of any man behind his back, or to hear it, without vindicating the injured and the abſent, is to be guilty of a great act of injuſtice, as well as uncharitableneſs. 2. Every judge muſt act from conſcience, and not be influenced by any conſideration of the might or multitude of thoſe who may be againſt him. It is generally bad following the multitude: they who are going with the crowd, infallibly periſh. 3. No pity for a poor man, muſt prevent the execution of juſtice againſt him. 4. Kindneſs muſt be ſhewn to enemies, in helping their beaſt when fallen, or bringing it back, if gone aſtray. Note, To love, and be kind to thoſe who hate us, is no new commandment. 5. The poor muſt have juſtice done them, v. 6. It is enough to be poor, they ought not to be oppreſſed too. 6. All approach to injuſtice muſt be guarded againſt, v. 7. They who would keep from evil, muſt abſtain from the appearance of it. 7. No bribe muſt be taken; juſtice muſt be adminiſtered freely, as well as impartially. 8. The ſtranger muſt not be oppreſſed: this is enforced upon them, from their having experienced the diſadvantages ſuch labour under, in Egypt. Similarity of diſtreſſes ſhould teach us compaſſion. Haud ignara mali, &c.

10. And [i] ſix years thou ſhalt ſow thy land, and ſhalt gather in the fruits thereof: 11. But the ſeventh year thou ſhalt let it reſt and lie ſtill; that the poor of thy people may eat: and what they leave, the beaſt of the field ſhall eat. In like manner thou ſhalt deal with thy vineyard, and with thy † olive-yard. 12. [k] Six days thou ſhalt do thy work, and on the ſeventh day thou ſhalt reſt: that thine ox and thine aſs may reſt, and the ſon of thy handmaid, and the ſtranger may be refreſhed. 13. And in all things that I have ſaid unto you, be circumſpect: and [l] make no mention of the names of other gods, neither let it be heard out of thy mouth.

[i] Lev. xxv. 3.
† Or olive-trees.
[k] Chap. xx. 8. Deut. v. 13. Luke xiii. 14.
[l] Numb. xxxii. 38. Deut. xii. 3. Joſh. xxiii. 7. Pſal. xvi. 4. Hoſ. ii. 17. Zech. xiii. 2.

10—13. We have here,

1. The ſabbatical year. Every ſeventh year the land was neither plowed nor ſown, nor their vineyards or oliveyards gathered: the poor had a right to the increaſe. A tender concern for the needy will ſtill be in every true Iſraelite. 2. The ſabbath-day, as before, ſtrictly to be obſerved. 3. A caution againſt the very mention of idol gods. How many, who profeſs themſelves Chriſtians, by their invocations, oaths, &c. in the name of theſe idols, ſhew the heatheniſm of their hearts?

14. ¶ [m] Three times thou ſhalt keep a feaſt unto me in the year. 15. [n] Thou ſhalt keep the feaſt of unleavened bread: thou ſhalt eat unleavened bread ſeven days, as I commanded thee, in the time appointed of the month Abib: for in it thou cameſt out from Egypt: and [o] none ſhall appear before me empty: 16. And [p] the feaſt of harveſt, the firſt-fruits of thy labours, which thou haſt ſown in the field: and the feaſt of in-gathering, which is in the end of the year, when thou haſt gathered in thy labours out of the field. 17. [q] Three times in the year all thy males ſhall appear before the LORD God. 18. [r] Thou ſhalt not offer the blood of my ſacrifice with leavened bread, neither ſhall the fat of my † ſacrifice remain until the morning. 19. [s] The firſt of the firſt-fruits of thy land thou ſhalt bring into the houſe of the LORD thy God. [t] Thou ſhalt not ſeethe a kid in his mother's milk.

[m] Chap. xxxiv. 23. Lev. xxiii. 5. Deut. xvi. 16.
[n] Chap. xii. 15. & xiii. 3. & xxxiv. 18.
[o] Chap. xxxiv. 20. Deut. xvi. 16. Ecclus xxxv. 4.
[p] Deut. xvi. 13.
[q] Chap. xxxiv 23. Deut. xvi. 16.
[r] Chap. xxxiv. 25. Lev. ii. 11. Deut. xvi. 4.
† Or feaſt.
[s] Chap. xxii. 29. & xxxiv. 26. Num. xviii. 13.
[t] Deut. xiv. 21.

v. 14—19. Three ſolemn feaſts are enjoined, the paſſover, pentecoſt, and the feaſt of tabernacles. They muſt at theſe ſeaſons all appear, not empty handed, but with their oblations, and rejoice together before the Lord. Note, (1.) God will have his people happy: they who worſhip him, ſhall feaſt before him. (2.) Grateful acknowledgments of God's mercies, are our bounden duty. (3.) All ſuperſtitious uſages, ſuch as that mentioned, v. 19. muſt be baniſhed.

20. ¶ [u] Behold, I ſend an angel before thee, to keep thee in the way, and to bring thee into the place which I have prepared. 21. Beware of him, and obey his voice, provoke him not: for he will not pardon your tranſgreſſions: for my name is in him. 22. But if thou ſhalt indeed obey his voice, and do all that I ſpeak; then [x] I will be an enemy unto thine enemies, and † an adverſary unto thine adverſaries. 23. For [y] mine angel ſhall go before thee, and [z] bring thee in unto the Amorites, and the Hittites, and the Perizzites, and the Canaanites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites: and I will cut them off. 24. Thou ſhalt not bow down to their gods, nor ſerve them,[a] nor do after their works: but [b] thou ſhalt utterly overthrow them, and quite break down their images. 25. And ye ſhall ſerve the Lord your God, and [c] he ſhall bleſs thy bread, and thy water: and [d] I will take ſickneſs away from the midſt of thee. 26. ¶ [e] There ſhall nothing caſt their young, nor be barren in thy land: the number of thy days I will fulfil. 27. I will ſend my fear before thee, and will deſtroy all the people to whom thou ſhalt come, and I will make all thine enemies turn their † backs unto thee. 28. And [f] I will ſend hornets before thee, which ſhall drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite from before thee. 29. [g] I will not drive them out from before thee in one year; leſt the land become deſolate, and the beaſts of the field multiply againſt thee. 30. By little and little I will drive them out from before thee, until thou be increaſed, and inherit the land. 31. And [h] I will ſet thy bounds from the Red ſea even unto the ſea of the Philiſtines, and from the deſert unto the river: for I will deliver the inhabitants of the land into your hand: and thou ſhalt drive them out before thee. 32. [l] Thou ſhalt make no covenant with them, nor with their gods. 33. They ſhall not dwell in thy land, leſt they make thee ſin againſt me: for if thou ſerve their gods, [k] it will ſurely be a ſnare unto thee.

[u] Chap. xiv. 19. & xxxiii. 14. Num. xx. 16. Joſh. v. 13. & vi. 2. Iſa. lxiii. 9.
[x] Gen. xii. 3. Deut. xxx. 7. Jer. xxx. 20.
† Or I will afflict them that afflict thee.
[y] Ver. xx. Chap. xxxiii. 2.
[z] Joſh. xxiv. 11.
[a] Lev. xviii. 3. Deut. xii. 31.
[b] Chap. xxxiv. 13. Num. xxxiii. 52. Deut. vii. 5, 25. & xii. 3.
[c] Deut. xxviii. 5, 8.
[d] Chap. xv. 26. Deut. vii. 15.
[e] Ibid. 14.
† Heb. Neck.
[f] Deut. vii. 20. Joſh. xxiv. 12. Wiſd. xii. 8.
[g] Deut. vii. 22.
[h] Gen. xv. 18. Num. xxxiv. 3. Deut. xi. 24. Joſh. i. 4. 1 Kings iv. 21, 24. Pſal. lxxii. 8.
[l] Chap. xxxiv. 15. Deut. vii. 2.
[k] Chap. xxxiv. 12. Deut. vii. 16. Joſh. xxiii. 13. Judg. ii. 3. 1 Sam. xviii. 21. Pſal. cvi. 36.

20—33. God having explained his judgments, concludes with moſt encouraging promiſes, and ſolemn warnings.

1. He promiſes, that the angel of the covenant, the great head of his church, ſhall go before them; under his conduct, their enemies ſhould fear and fall before them, till they were conſumed; yet not all at once, but by little and little, till they were able to occupy the whole land. Mean time, every earthly bleſſing, of health, riches, long life, and enjoyment of the creatures, is aſſured to them: God's people have even here ſometimes a peculiar portion. Note, (1.) It is the comfort of every true Iſraelite, that he is under the guidance of the great Redeemer, and therefore ſhall be conducted ſafe to the promiſed poſſeſſion of eternal reſt. (2.) Though corruption, like theſe Canaanites, dies but by degrees, yet its power ſhall be immediately broken, and it ſhall be rooted out at the laſt.

2. The injunctions given them to be obedient, and hear his voice. Chriſt muſt be not only truſted upon as a Saviour, but ſerved as our Lord and Maſter: and how reaſonable to yield to him a grateful return for all we are and have, ſince to his love we are indebted for all?

3. The care to be taken in deſtroying all monuments of Idolatry, and avoiding all connection with Idolaters, v. 24. and v. 33, 34. Removal of all temptations to ſin is neceſſary, in order to be preſerved from it. Nothing is more dangerous than evil companions, and we muſt ſhun their company, if we would eſcape their wickedneſs.

CHAP. XXIV.

Moſes, in this chapter, (1.) Comes down to the people, acquaints them with the laws he had received, ver. 3. who repeat their conſent, ver. 4, 7. and then by ſacrifice, and the ſprinkling of blood, ratifies the covenant between God and them, ver. 5, 6, 8. (2.) He returns to God again, as commanded, ver. 1, 2. with ſeventy of the elders, to whom God made a diſcovery of his glory, ver. 9—11. Moſes is ordered up into the mount, ver. 12, 13. the reſt are ordered down to the people, ver. 14. The cloud of glory is ſeen by all the people on the top of mount Sinai, ver. 15—17. and Moſes is there with God forty days, and forty nights, ver. 18.

1. AND he ſaid unto Moſes, Come up unto the LORD, thou and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and [a] ſeventy of the elders of Iſrael: and worſhip ye afar off. 2. And Moſes alone ſhall come near the LORD: but they ſhall not come nigh, neither ſhall the people go up with him. 3. ¶ And Moſes came and told the people all the words of the LORD, and all the judgments: and all the people anſwered with one voice, and ſaid, [b] All the words which the LORD hath ſaid, will we do. 4. And Moſes wrote all the words of the LORD, and roſe up early in the morning, and builded an altar under the hill, and twelve pillars, according to the twelve tribes of Iſrael. 5. And he ſent young men of the children of Iſrael, which offered burnt-offerings, and ſacrificed peace-offerings of oxen unto the LORD. 6. And Moſes took half of the blood, and put it in baſons; and half of the blood he ſprinkled on the altar. 7. And he took the book of the covenant, and read in the audience of the people: and they ſaid, [c] All that the LORD hath ſaid, will we do, and be obedient. 8. And Moſes took the blood, and ſprinkled it on the people, and ſaid, Behold, [d] the blood of the covenant, which the LORD hath made with you, concerning all theſe words.

[a] Chap. i. 5.
[b] Ver. 7. Chap. xix. 8. Deut. v. 27.
[c] Ver. 3.
[d] Heb. ix. 20. & xiii. 20. 1 Pet. i. 2.

v. 1—8. Moſes is now diſmiſſed to carry down theſe ordinances, and bring back with him ſeventy of the elders of Iſrael, to behold the glory of God, and confirm the people in their obedience. They muſt come and worſhip in the mount, but far off; Moſes alone muſt come near. Note, Every believer muſt aſcend into the mount of prayer, to ſee God's glory, and we may now boldly draw nigh, thro' our mediator Jeſus Chriſt: this honour have all his ſaints. Moſes hereupon,

1. Comes down, rehearſes, and writes in a book, for ſtanding uſe, theſe ordinances. The people ſolemnly conſent to them. It was as much their intereſt as duty to do ſo. Note, Many are convinced of their duty, and haſtily reſolve to follow it, but going forth in their own ſtrength, quickly fail in their promiſes, and forget their vows.

2. A ſolemn covenant is made between God and Iſrael, Moſes being mediator. An altar ſtands for Jehovah, and twelve pillars on behalf of the twelve tribes. Sacrifices are offered, for without an atonement, there can be no intercourſe between God and ſinners: and the blood ſprinkled partly on the altar, partly on the people, ſignified the ſealing and ratification of the terms agreed upon. Note, Chriſt is the true ſacrifice which makes peace between God and us; his blood confirms the covenant of grace. He ſprinkles it on our conſciences by faith, and as our high prieſt appears with it before the altar of God in heaven, at all times to plead that covenant of redemption, he hath on our behalf fulfilled, by his obedience unto death, even the death of the croſs.

e Ezek. i. 26. & x. 1. f Chap. xxxiii. 20. Gen. xvi. 13. & xxxii. 30. Deut. iv. 33. Judg. xiii. 23.

9. ¶ Then went up Moſes and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and ſeventy of the elders of Iſrael. 10. And they ſaw the God of Iſrael: and there was under his feet as it were a paved work of [e] a ſapphire-ſtone, and as it were the body of heaven in his clearneſs. 11. And upon the nobles of the children of Iſrael he laid not his hand: alſo [f] they ſaw God, and did eat and drink.

v. 9—11. The covenant being thus ſigned and ſealed, Moſes returns to God, with ſeventy elders: and they are admitted to approach his preſence.

1. God made ſome awful manifeſtation of his glory unto them. They beheld his footſtool onſy, and it afforded the moſt ſtupenduous admiration, v. 10. Note, We may not repreſent even in idea any image of the inviſible God. His glory exceeds angelic comprehenſion; our higheſt thoughts, nay even our moſt enlarged conceptions, are ſtill infinitely below him.

2. He neither overwhelmed them with his dazzling brightneſs, as worms, nor laid an avenging hand on them as ſinners, but they did eat and drink before him, in token of the friendſhip eſtabliſhed in the covenant between them. It will be among the bleſſings enjoyed in the better mount of God, to behold much more than Moſes even ſaw, when we ſit and eat bread in the company of him, who is the brightneſs of his father's glory, and the expreſs image of his perſon.

g Chap. xxxi. 18. xxxii. 16. h Chap. xxxii. 7.

12. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Come up to me into the mount, and be there: and I will give thee [g] tables of ſtone, and a law, and commandments which I have written; that thou mayeſt teach them. 13. And Moſes roſe up, and [h] his miniſter Joſhua: and Moſes went up into the mount of God. 14. And he ſaid unto the elders, Tarry ye here for us, until we come again unto you: And behold, Aaron and Hur are with you: if any man have any matters to do, let him come unto them. 15. And Moſes went up into the mount, and [i] a cloud covered the mount. 16. And [k] the glory of the LORD abode upon mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it ſix days: and the ſeventh day he called unto Moſes out of the midſt of the cloud. 17. And the ſight of the glory of the LORD was like [l] devouring fire on the top of the mount, in the eyes of the children of Iſrael. 18. And Moſes went into the midſt of the cloud, and gat him up into the mount: and [m] Moſes was in the mount forty days, and forty nights.

i Chap. xix. 9, 16. k Numb. xiv. 10.

l Deut. iv. 36. Hebr. xii. 29.

m Chap. xxxiv. 28. Deut. ix. 9.

v. 12—18. Moſes hath now another call to come up higher. Hereupon Aaron and Hur are entruſted with the management of affairs in his abſence. Joſhua is taken with him, that, being deſigned for his ſucceſſor, peculiar honour might be put upon him. Six days Moſes waited for the Lord, whilſt the fiery cloud, the emblem of the Divine Preſence, appeared upon the mount. On the ſeventh, Moſes is called up into the midſt of this awful appearance, and fears not to dwell in this devouring fire, v. 17. There he continued alone forty days and forty nights. Learn, (1.) They who are found faithful in God's ſervice, he will bring nearer to himſelf. (2.) We muſt wait upon God patiently, till he is pleaſed to manifeſt himſelf to us, as he doth not unto the world. (3.) Though God be a conſuming fire to his enemies, his faithful people may draw near with boldneſs. (4.) The time ſpent with God will never be thought long by a believing ſoul; for the ſake of this honour and comfort, he would forget to eat his bread.

CHAP. XXV.

Here are, 1. Orders given for a collection to be made among the people for erecting the tabernacle, ver. 1—9. 2. Particular inſtructions, (1.) Concerning the ark of the covenant, ver. 10—22. (2.) The table of ſhew-bread, ver. 23—30. (3.) The golden candleſtick, ver. 31. to the end.

† Heb. Take for me. ‡ Or heave-offering. a Chap. xxxv. 5.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, that they † bring me an ‡ offering: [a] of every man that giveth it willingly with his heart, ye ſhall take my offering. 3. And this is the offering which ye ſhall take of them: gold, and ſilver, and braſs, 4. And blue and purple, and ſcarlet, and ‖ fine linen, and goats hair. 5. And ram-ſkins died red, and badger's ſkins, and ſhittim-wood, 6. [b] Oil for the light, [c] ſpices for anointing oil, and for [d] ſweet incenſe, 7. Onyx-ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet in [e] the ephod, and in the [f] breaſt-plate. 8. And let them make me a ſanctuary; that [g] I may dwell amongſt them. 9. According to all that I ſhew thee, after the pattern of the tabernacle, and the pattern of all the inſtruments thereof, even ſo ſhall ye make it.

1 Chron. xxix. 3, 5, 9, 14. Ezra ii. 68. & iii. 5. Neh. xi. 2. ‖ Or ſilk. b Chap. xxvii. 20. c Chap. xxx. 23. d Chap. xxx. 34. e Chap. xxviii. 4, 6. f Chap. xxviii. 15. g Chap. xxix. 45. 1 Kings vi. 13. 2 Cor. vi. 16. Heb. iii. 6. Rev. xxi. 3.

v. 1—9. Moſes begins to receive from God directions for the tabernacle which ſhould be erected, as the palace for the King of Glory.

1. The people muſt furniſh him with the materials, and that by a free-will-offering, v. 1—7. Whatever we have, it is the Lord's, and whenever his ſervice and glory requires it, moſt readily ſhould we open our heart and hand. A true chriſtian needs no argument to extort his liberality in God's cauſe, not only to his power, but above his power he is willing.

2. The exact pattern muſt be followed, which God would ſhew him. In God's ſervice, we muſt beware of will-worſhip, and be guided by his revealed word.

3. The deſign of this tabernacle: for God's dwelling, there to manifeſt his preſence in the midſt of them, and travel with them as their king and their leader, through the wilderneſs. This tabernacle was typical of the incarnation of the Lord Jeſus. He was the true tabernacle, he dwelt among us, and we beheld his glory. In him was the fulneſs of the Godhead bodily; and he ſtill makes the hearts of his people the throne of his ſanctuary, reigning in them, and over them, and ſubduing before them all their enemies.

4. All their oblations muſt be offered there, and there they muſt enquire after him, as at the place where his honour dwelleth. Note, All our prayers and ſervices are only then acceptable with God, when they are preſented in and through the Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

h Chap. xxxvii. 1. Heb. ix. 4.

10. ¶ And [h] they ſhall make an ark of ſhittim-wood: two cubits and a half ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the heighth thereof. 11. And thou ſhalt overlay it with pure gold, within and without ſhalt thou overlay it: and ſhalt make upon it a crown of gold round about. 12. And thou ſhalt caſt four rings of gold for it, and put them in the four corners thereof; and two rings ſhall be in the one ſide of it, and two rings in the other ſide of it. 13. And thou ſhalt make ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and over-lay them with gold. 14. And thou ſhalt put the ſtaves into the rings, by the ſides of the ark, that the ark may be born with them. 15. [i] The ſtaves ſhall be in the rings of the ark: they ſhall not be taken from it. 16. And thou ſhalt put into the ark [k] the teſtimony which I ſhall give thee. 17. And [l] thou ſhalt make a mercy-ſeat of pure gold: two cubits and a half ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit and a half the breadth thereof. 18. And thou ſhalt make two cherubims of gold: of beaten work ſhalt thou make them, in the two ends of the mercy-ſeat. 19. And make one cherub on the one end, and the other cherub on the other end: even † of the mercy-ſeat ſhall ye make the cherubims on the two ends thereof. 20. And [m] the cherubims ſhall ſtretch forth their wings on high, covering the mercy-ſeat with their wings, and their faces ſhall look one to another: toward the mercy-ſeat ſhall the faces of the cherubims be. 21. And [n] thou ſhalt put the mercy-ſeat above upon the ark, and in the ark thou ſhalt put the teſtimony that I ſhall give thee. 22. And [o] there I will meet with thee, and I will commune with thee, from above the mercy-ſeat, from [p] between the two cherubims which are upon the ark of the teſtimony, of all things which I will give thee in commandment unto the children of Iſrael.

i 1 Kings viii. 8.

k Chap. xvi. 34. & xxxi. 18. Deut. x. 2. 1 Kings viii. 9. Heb. ix. 4. l Chap. xxxvii. 6. † Or of the matter of the mercy-ſeat. m 1 Kings viii. 7. 1 Chron. xxviii 18. Heb. ix. 5.

n Chap. xxvi. 34.

o Chap. xxix. 42. & xxx. 36. Lev. xvi. 2. Numb. xvii. 4. p Numb. vii. 89.

v. 10—22. Few words relate the glorious work of the creation of all things; here every particular is nicely deſcribed and inſiſted upon. Note, The church of God is more precious in his account, than all the other works of his hands.

1. The ark of the teſtimony is deſcribed; ſo called, as containing God's teſtimony of his will and their duty. The furniture of the moſt holy place is firſt appointed, and this is the moſt diſtinguiſhed part. A cheſt over-laid within and without with gold, capable of containing the two tables of ſtone, on which the law was to be written, a corniſh of gold ſurrounded it at the top, and four golden rings were placed at the corners, for its more convenient carriage. Learn, (1.) Our hearts ſhould be this ark of gold, purified by divine grace, and full of love, which is the fulfilling of the law. (2.) Where God's preſence is with any ſoul, obedience will be his delight. (3.) Whenever the law of God is truly made our rule of conduct, and we delight in it after the inner man, it is a teſtimony of our ſimplicity, and God's approbation.

2. The mercy-ſeat was the covering of the ark, and made of ſolid gold, v. 17—21. whereon the blood of atonement was ſprinkled. Chriſt is the true mercy-ſeat, ſtanding between a holy law, and an offended God, to make reconciliation for the ſins of his people.

3. The cherubims of gold: they were emblematical figures of angels, bending towards the mercy-ſeat, in token of adoration, or deep contemplation of the myſteries of grace therein contained; and winged, to ſignify the ſpeed, alacrity, and delight, with which they obey the Divine commands. From between theſe cherubims, above the mercy-ſeat, God promiſes to meet, and commune with them. Note, They who draw near to God, in his appointed way, will find him ever ready to hear and anſwer them.

[q] Chap. xxxvii. 10. 1 Kings vii. 48. 2 Chron. iv. 8.

23. ¶ [q] Thou ſhalt alſo make a table of ſhittim-wood: two cubits ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and half the height thereof. 24. And thou ſhalt overlay it with pure gold, and make thereto a crown of gold round about. 25. And thou ſhalt make unto it a border of an hand-breadth round about, and thou ſhalt make a golden crown to the border thereof round about. 26. And thou ſhalt make for it four rings of gold, and put the rings in the four corners that are on the four feet thereof. 27. Over againſt the border ſhall the rings be for places of the ſtaves to bear the table. 28. And thou ſhalt make the ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and over-lay them with gold, that the table may be born with them. 29. And thou ſhalt make [r] the diſhes thereof, and ſpoons thereof, and covers thereof, and bowls thereof, † to cover withal: of pure gold ſhalt thou make them. 30. And thou ſhalt ſet upon the table [s] ſhew-bread before me alway.

[r] Num. iv. 7.
† Or to pour out withal.
[s] Lev. xxiv. 5.

v. 23—30. The table of ſhew bread and its appurtenances, are directed to be made, to ſtand in the holy place without the vail. Twelve loaves were placed upon it continually, in token of their thankfulneſs for the proviſion in the wilderneſs, and afterwards for their abundance in Canaan. Note, (1.) Our daily bread is God's, and ſhould be ſanctified by daily prayer and thankful acknowledgment.

2. They who viſit God's houſe, ſhall be fed with his bread. He hath conſolations to beſtow ſweeter than manna, and more ſtrengthning to our ſoul, than bread to our bodies.

[t] Chap. xxxvii. 17. 1 Kings vii. 49. Zech. iv. 2. Rev. i. 12. & iv. 5.

31. ¶ And [t] thou ſhalt make a candleſtick of pure gold: of beaten work ſhall the candleſtick be made: his ſhaft, and his branches, his bowls, his knops, and his flowers ſhall be of the ſame. 32. And ſix branches ſhall come out of the ſides of it: three branches of the candleſtick out of the one ſide, and three branches of the candleſtick out of the other ſide. 33. Three bowls made like unto almonds, with a knop and a flower in one branch; and three bowls made like almonds in the other branch, with a knop and a flower: ſo in the ſix branches that come out of the candleſtick. 34. And in the candleſtick ſhall be four bowls made like unto almonds, with their knops and their flowers. 35. And there ſhall be a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, according to the ſix branches that proceed out of the candleſtick. 36. Their knops and their branches ſhall be of the ſame: all it ſhall be one beaten work of pure gold. 37. And thou ſhalt make the ſeven lamps thereof: and [u] they ſhall † light the lamps thereof, that they may [x] give light over againſt ‡ it. 38. And the tongs thereof, and the ſnuff-diſhes thereof, ſhall be of pure gold. 39. Of a talent of pure gold ſhall he make it, with all theſe veſſels. 40. And [y] look that thou make them after their pattern, ‖ which was ſhewed thee in the mount.

[u] Chap. xxvii. 21. & xxx. 8. Lev. xxiv. 3, 4.
† Cauſe to aſcend.
[x] Num. viii. 2.
‡ Heb. The face of it.
[y] Chap. xxvi. 30. Num. viii. 4. 1 Chron. xxviii. 11, 19. Acts vii. 44. Hebr. viii. 5.
‖ Which thou waſt cauſed to ſee.

31—40. 1. The tabernacle being without a window, light was neceſſary, and a moſt noble candleſtick of gold of ſeven branches, highly ornamented, muſt be provided. Chriſt is to his church, and to every individual believer, what this candleſtick was to the tabernacle. He ſhines in the temple of his grace, to ſhew them the way to the preſence and throne of God, who dwelleth between the cherubims.

2. Moſes is charged not to deviate from the divine pattern, in any particular. In God's ordinances, we muſt abide by his expreſs inſtitutions.

CHAP. XXVI.

Moſes here receives inſtructions, (1.) Concerning the inner curtains and the coupling, ver. 1—6. (2.) Concerning the outer curtains which were of goats hair, to ſtrengthen the former, ver. 7—13. (3.) Concerning the cover to ſecure it from the weather, ver. 14. (4.) Concerning the boards to ſupport the curtains, with their bars and ſockets, ver. 15—30. (5.) The partition between the holy place, and the moſt holy, ver. 31—35. (6.) The vail for the door, ver. 36, 37.

1. MOreover, [a] thou ſhalt make the tabernacle with ten curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet: with cherubims † of cunning work ſhalt thou make them. 2. The length of one curtain ſhall be eight and twenty cubits, and the breadth of one curtain, four cubits: and every one of the curtains ſhall have one meaſure. 3. The five curtains ſhall be coupled together one to another: and other five curtains ſhall be coupled one to another. 4. And thou ſhalt make loops of blue upon the edge of the one curtain, from the ſelvedge in the coupling: and likewiſe ſhalt thou make in the uttermoſt edge of another curtain, in the coupling of the ſecond. 5. Fifty loops ſhalt thou make in the one curtain, and fifty loops ſhalt thou make in the edge of the curtain that is in the coupling of the ſecond; that the loops may take hold one of another. 6. And thou ſhalt make fifty taches of gold, and couple the curtains together with the taches: and it ſhall be one tabernacle.

[a] Chap. xxxvi. 8.
† Heb. The work of a cunning workman, or embroiderer.

v. 1—6. The furniture being deſcribed, the covering is ordered. There muſt be a tabernacle or tent made, with curtains richly embroidered, and united by loops and claſps of gold. Note, (1.) We dwell at preſent in tabernacles of clay, whoſe foundation is in the duſt; but if God is with us, his preſence ſhall comfort us, till he brings us to the promiſed inheritance. (2.) All true chriſtians, whatever their denomination may be, are united in love to Jeſus Chriſt and one another, like theſe curtains of the tabernacle, and make one truly glorious catholic and apoſtolic church.

7. ¶ And [b] thou ſhalt make curtains of goat's hair to be a covering upon the tabernacle: eleven curtains ſhalt thou make. 8. The length of one curtain ſhall be thirty cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: and the eleven curtains ſhall be all of one meaſure. 9. And thou ſhalt couple five curtains by themſelves, and ſix curtains by themſelves, and ſhalt double the ſixth curtain in the forefront of the tabernacle. 10. And thou ſhalt make fifty loops on the edge of the one curtain that is outmoſt in the coupling, and fifty loops in the edge of the curtain which coupleth the ſecond. 11. And thou ſhalt make fifty taches of braſs, and put the taches into the loops, and couple the † tent together, that it may be one. 12. And the remnant that remaineth of the curtains of the tent, the half-curtain that remaineth, ſhall hang over the back-ſide of the tabernacle. 13. And a cubit on the one ſide, and a cubit on the other ſide ‡ of that which remaineth in the length of the curtains of the tent, it ſhall hang over the ſides of the tabernacle, on this ſide, and on that ſide, to cover it. 14. And [c] thou ſhalt make a covering for the tent, of rams ſkins died red, and a covering above of badgers ſkins.

[b] Chap. xxxvi. 14.
† Or covering.
‡ Heb. In the remainder, or ſurpluſage.
[c] Chap. xxxvi. 19.

v. 7—14. Three other coverings provided, to preſerve the rich curtains within.. The firſt of goat's hair, with braſs claſps, the next of rams ſkins dyed red; and the outermoſt of all, badgers ſkin, or as it is elſewhere tranſlated, very fine leather, Ezek. xv. 10. Note, (1.) A coarſe garment covers often a precious ſoul. (2.) A true chriſtian is beſt within, whilſt a hypocrite ſeeks only outward ſhow. (3.) They who take refuge in God's true ſanctuary, Jeſus Chriſt, have a ſafe and glorious covert from all the ſtorms of wrath, and the tempeſts of ſin.

15. ¶ And thou ſhalt make boards for the tabernacle, of ſhittim-wood, ſtanding up. 16. Ten cubits ſhall be the length of a board, and a cubit and a half ſhall be the breadth of one board. 17. Two † tenons ſhall there be in one board, ſet in order one againſt another: thus ſhalt thou make for all the boards of the tabernacle. 18. And thou ſhalt make the boards for the tabernacle, twenty boards on the ſouth ſide, ſouthward. 19. And thou ſhalt make forty ſockets of ſilver under the twenty boards: two ſockets under one board for his two tenons, and two ſockets under another board for his two tenons. 20. And for the ſecond ſide of the tabernacle on the north-ſide, there ſhall be twenty boards. 21. And their forty ſockets of ſilver, two ſockets under one board, and two ſockets under another board. 22. And for the ſides of the tabernacle weſt-ward, thou ſhalt make ſix boards. 23. And two boards ſhalt thou make for the corners of the tabernacle, in the two ſides. 24. And they ſhall be ‡ coupled together beneath, and they ſhall be coupled together above the head of it unto one ring: thus ſhall it be for them both; they ſhall be for the two corners. 25. And they ſhall be eight boards, and their ſockets of ſilver, ſixteen ſockets: two ſockets under one board, and two ſockets under another board. 26. ¶ And thou ſhalt make bars of ſhittim-wood: five for the boards of the one ſide of the tabernacle, 27. And five bars for the boards of the other ſide of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the ſide of the tabernacle for the two ſides weſt-ward. 28. And the middle bar in the mids of the boards ſhall reach from end to end. 29. And thou ſhalt overlay the boards with gold, and make their rings of gold for places for the bars: and thou ſhalt overlay the bars with gold. 30. And thou ſhalt rear up the tabernacle [d] according to the faſhion thereof, which was ſhewed thee in the mount.

† Heb. Hands.

‡ Heb. Twined.

[d] Chap. xxv. 9, 40. & xxvii. 8. Acts vii. 44. Hebr. viii. 5.

v. 15—30. Directions are given for the boards and frame-work, on which the curtains ſhould be ſupported. They are richly adorned, and ſtrongly mortiſed. Beauty and ſtrength unite in the church of Chriſt: beauty that renders it the admiration of angels; and ſtrength, that defies all the malice of devils.

31. ¶ And [e] thou ſhalt make a vail of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen of cunning work: with cherubims ſhall it be made. 32. And thou ſhalt hang it upon four pillars of ſhittim-wood, overlaid with gold: their hooks ſhall be of gold, upon the four ſockets of ſilver. 33. ¶ And thou ſhalt hang up the vail under the taches, that thou mayeſt bring in thither within the vail, the ark of the teſtimony: and the vail ſhall divide unto you, between [f] the holy place and the moſt holy. 34. And thou ſhalt put the mercy-ſeat upon the ark of the teſtimony, in the moſt holy place. 35. And [g] thou ſhalt ſet the table without the vail, and the candleſtick over againſt the table on the ſide of the tabernacle toward the ſouth: and thou ſhalt put the table on the north-ſide. 36. And [h] thou ſhalt make an hanging for the door of the tent, of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen, wrought with needlework. 37. And thou ſhalt make for the hanging, five pillars of ſhittim-wood, and [i] overlay them with gold, and their hooks ſhall be of gold: and thou ſhalt caſt five ſockets of braſs for them.

[e] Chap. xxxvi. 35. 2 Chron. iii. 14. Mat. xxvii. 51. Hebr. ix. 3.

[f] Heb. ix. 2, 3.

[g] Heb. ix. 2.

[h] Chap. xxxvi. 37.

[i] Ibid. 38.

v. 31—37. Two vails of partition are ordered; one to ſeparate the moſt holy place, where was the ark and mercy-ſeat: none muſt enter it, on pain of death, ſave the high-prieſt once a year: the other, to ſeparate the outer tent from the court around it; thither the prieſts came every day to miniſter. Note, No vail of ſeparation now keeps us from the holieſt of all; it was rent when the Saviour ſuffered; and ſince the great High Prieſt is entered into the heavens, every believer is conſecrated a prieſt, and may with boldneſs approach the mercy-ſeat, thro' the blood of Jeſus. Bleſſed be God for his unſpeakable gift!

CHAP. XXVII.

In this chapter directions are given, 1. Concerning the brazen altar for burnt-offerings, ver. 1—8. 2. Concerning the court of the tabernacle, with the hangings of it, ver. 9—19. 3. Concerning oil for the lamp, ver. 20, 21.

1. AND thou ſhalt [a] make an altar of ſhittim-wood, five cubits long, and five cubits broad: the altar ſhall be four ſquare, and the height thereof ſhall be three cubits. 2. And thou ſhalt make the horns of it upon the four corners thereof: his horns ſhall be of the ſame: and [b] thou ſhalt overlay it with braſs. And thou ſhalt make his pans to receive his aſhes, and his ſhovels, and his baſons, and his fleſh-hooks, and his fire-pans: all the veſſels thereof thou ſhalt make of braſs. 4. And thou ſhalt make for it a grate of net-work of braſs; and upon the net ſhalt thou make four brazen rings in the four corners thereof. 5. And thou ſhalt put it under the compaſs of the altar beneath, that the net may be even to the midſt of the altar. 6. And thou ſhalt make ſtaves for the altar, ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlay them with braſs. 7. And the ſtaves ſhall be put into the rings, and the ſtaves ſhall be upon the two ſides of the altar to bear it. 8. Hollow with boards ſhalt thou make it: [c] as † it was ſhewed thee in the mount, ſo ſhall they make it.

[a] Chap. xxxviii. 1. Ezek. xliii. 13.

[b] See Num. xvi. 38.

[c] Chap. xxv. 40. & xxvi. 30.

† Heb. He ſhewed.

v. 1—8. The tabernacle being compleat, the court and its furniture are next ordered. The moſt material part is the brazen altar here deſcribed, on which all the offerings of the children of Iſrael are to be offered, and there accepted as a ſweet-ſmelling ſavour. It was the type of Chriſt, who is both altar and ſacrifice; and who by one oblation of himſelf, once offered, hath obtained eternal redemption for us. Our ſacrifices of prayer and praiſe, are acceptable only as offered up through him, who is the true altar which ſanctifieth the gift. And to him, under the continual accuſations of ſin, we muſt fly as the malefactor did to the horns of the altar, and then we ſhall be ſafe.

9. ¶ And [d] thou ſhalt make the court of the tabernacle for the ſouth ſide ſouthward: there ſhall be hangings for the court of fine twined linen of an hundred cubits long for one ſide. 10. And the twenty pillars thereof, and their twenty ſockets ſhall be of braſs: the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets ſhall be of ſilver. 11. And likewiſe for the north ſide in length, there ſhall be hangings of an hundred cubits long, and his twenty pillars, and their twenty ſockets of braſs: the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets of ſilver. 12. ¶ And for the breadth of the court, on the weſt ſide, ſhall be hangings of fifty cubits: their pillars ten, and their ſockets ten. 13. And the breadth of the court on the eaſt ſide, eaſtward, ſhall be fifty cubits. 14. The hangings of one ſide of the gate ſhall be fifteen cubits; their pillars three, and their ſockets three. 15. And on the other ſide ſhall be hangings, fifteen cubits: their pillars three, and their ſockets three. 16. ¶ And for the gate of the court, ſhall be an hanging of twenty cubits, of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen, wrought with needle-work: and their pillars ſhall be four, and their ſockets four. 17. All the pillars round about the court ſhall be filleted with ſilver: their hooks ſhall be of ſilver, and their ſockets of braſs. 18. ¶ The length of the court ſhall be an hundred cubits, and the breadth † fifty every where, and the height five cubits of fine twined linen, and their ſockets of braſs. 19. All the veſſels of the tabernacle in all the ſervice thereof, and all the pins thereof, and all the pins of the court ſhall be of braſs.

[d] Chap. xxxviii. 9.

† Heb. Fifty by fifty.

v. 9—19. This court ſurrounded the tabernacle, and is typical of the church of chriſt, incloſed from the reſt of the world, and brought into a nearer ſtate of communion with his bleſſed ſelf. It was about fifty yards long, and twenty-five broad; ſmall, compared with the wide camp of Iſrael. Thus, among the profeſſors of Chriſt, a ſmall compaſs will contain the faithful; for many are called, but few choſen.

20. ¶ And [e] thou ſhalt command the children of Iſrael, that they bring thee pure oil-olive beaten, for the light, to cauſe the lamp to † burn always. 21. In the tabernacle of the congregation [f] without the vail, which is before the teſtimony, [g] Aaron and his ſons ſhall order it from evening to morning before the LORD: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever unto their generations, on the behalf of the children of Iſrael.

[e] Lev. xxiv. 2.

† Heb. To aſcend up.

[f] Chap. xxvi. 31, 33.

[g] Chap. xxx. 8. 1 Sam. iii. 3. 2 Chron. xiii. 11.

v. 20—21. Proviſion is here made for the continual ſupply of the lamps in the golden candleſtick, and Aaron and his ſons muſt attend them. The oil ſignifies the graces of God's ſpirit, which ſhine forth in the converſation of his people; and Aaron's care is to remind every faithful miniſter, how diligent he ſhould be in his labours towards the flock, of which the Holy Ghoſt hath made him overſeer.

CHAP.

CHAP. XXVIII.

In this chapter, (1.) God pitcheth upon the perſons who ſhould be his ſervants, ver. 1. (2.) He appoints their garments, ver. 2—5. 1. Of the high-prieſt, (1.) An ephod and girdle, ver. 6—14. (2.) A breaſt-plate of judgment, ver. 15—29, in which muſt be put the Urim and Thummim, ver. 30. (3.) The robe of the ephod, ver. 31—35. (4.) The mitre, ver. 36—39. 2. Of the inferior prieſts, ver. 40—43. And theſe alſo were ſhadows of good things to come.

[a] Heb. v. 1, 4.

[b] Chap. xxix. 5. & xxxix. 2.

[c] Chap. xxxvi. 1.

[d] Chap. xxxi. 3. & xxxv. 30.

1. AND take thou unto thee [a] Aaron thy brother, and his ſons with him, from among the children of Iſrael, that he may miniſter unto me in the prieſt's office, even Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar, Aaron's ſons. 2. And [b] thou ſhalt make holy garments for Aaron thy brother, for glory and for beauty. 3. And [c] thou ſhalt ſpeak unto all that are wiſe-hearted, [d] whom I have filled with the ſpirit of wiſdom, that they may make Aaron's garments to conſecrate him, that he may miniſter unto me in the prieſt's office. 4. And theſe are the garments which they ſhall make; a breaſt-plate, and an ephod, and a robe, and a broidered coat, a mitre, and a girdle: and they ſhall make holy garments for Aaron thy brother, and his ſons, that he may miniſter unto me in the prieſt's office. 5. And they ſhall take gold, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine linen.

v. 1—5. The altar being prepared, they who muſt miniſter at it are appointed, with their robes.

1. Aaron and his ſons. His deſcendants are preferred to Moſes's own children. God chuſes his own ſervants. Note, It is bad intruding into the miniſtry without a divine call. No man may take this office, but he who is called of God, as was Aaron.

2. Their garments muſt be glorious and beautiful, not only in the preciouſneſs of the materials, but alſo in the exquiſiteneſs of the work. Theſe magnificent garments, 1. Signify the tranſcendent excellence and glory of the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. 2. The beauty of holineſs, which God puts on every believer, when he is conſecrated a prieſt unto him. 3. The eminence of gifts and graces, which every goſpel miniſter ſhould poſſeſs.

† Or embroidered.

[e] Wiſd. xviii. 24.

6. ¶ And they ſhall make the ephod of gold, of blue, and of purple, of ſcarlet, and fine twined linen, with cunning work. 7. It ſhall have the two ſhoulder-pieces thereof joined at the two edges thereof; and ſo it ſhall be joined together. 8. And the † curious girdle of the ephod which is upon it, ſhall be of the ſame, according to the work thereof; even of gold, of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen. 9. And thou ſhalt take two onyx-ſtones, and grave on them the names of the children of Iſrael: 10. Six of their names on one ſtone, and the other ſix names of the reſt on the other ſtone, according to their birth. 11. [e] With the work of an engraver in ſtone, like the engravings of a ſignet, ſhalt thou engrave the two ſtones, with the names of the children of Iſrael: thou ſhalt make them to be ſet in ouches of gold. 12. And thou ſhalt put the two ſtones upon the ſhoulders of the ephod, for ſtones of memorial unto the children of Iſrael. And Aaron ſhall bear their names before the LORD, upon his two ſhoulders for a memorial. 13. ¶ And thou ſhalt make ouches of gold; 14. And two chains of pure gold at the ends: of wreathen work ſhalt thou make them, and faſten the wreathen chains to the ouches.

v. 6—14. The high-prieſt's cloathing is peculiar. The other prieſts wore an ephod (or ſhort coat without ſleeves) of linen; his was embroidered with gold, and his girdle of the ſame. On the ſhoulders it was faſtened with jewels ſet in gold, with the names of the twelve tribes engraven on them. Thus Chriſt appears, Rev. i. 13. ever living to make interceſſion for his people. He preſents their names, not merely engraven on ſtones of onyx, but more deeply on his heart, in characters of unchangeable love.

[f] Chap. xxxix. 8.

[g] Chap. xxxix. 10, &c.

† Heb. Fill in it fillings of ſtone.

‡ Or, Ruby.

|| Heb. Fillings.

15. ¶ And [f] thou ſhalt make the breaſt-plate of judgment, with cunning work after the work of the ephod thou ſhalt make it; of gold, of blue, and of purple, and of ſcarlet, and of fine twined linen ſhalt thou make it. 16. Four-ſquare it ſhall be, being doubled; a ſpan ſhall be the length thereof, and a ſpan ſhall be the breadth thereof. 17. And [g] thou ſhalt † ſet in it ſettings of ſtones, even four rows of ſtones: the firſt row ſhall be a ‡ ſardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle: this ſhall be the firſt row. 18. And the ſecond row ſhall be an emerald, a ſapphire, and a diamond. 19. And the third row, a ligure, an agate, and an amethyſt. 20. And the fourth row a beryl, and an onyx, and a jaſper: they ſhall be ſet in gold in their || incloſings. 21. And the ſtones ſhall be with the names of the children of Iſrael, twelve, according to their names: like the engravings of a ſignet, every one with his name ſhall they be, according to the twelve tribes. 22. ¶ And thou ſhalt make upon the breaſt-plate chains at the ends, of wreathen work, of pure gold. 23. And thou ſhalt make upon the breaſt-plate two rings of gold, and ſhalt put the two rings on the two ends of the breaſt-plate. 24. And thou ſhalt put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings which are on the ends of the breaſt-plate. 25. And the other two ends of the two wreathen chains, thou ſhalt faſten in the two ouches, and put them on the ſhoulder-pieces of the ephod before it. 26. ¶ And thou ſhalt make two rings of gold, and thou ſhalt put them upon the two ends of the breaſt-plate, in the border thereof, which is in the ſide of the ephod inward. 27. And two other rings of gold thou ſhalt make, and ſhalt put them on the two ſides of the ephod, underneath towards the fore part thereof, over-againſt the other coupling thereof, above the curious girdle of the ephod. 28. And they ſhall bind the breaſt-plate by the rings thereof, unto the rings of the ephod with a lace of blue, that it may be above the curious girdle of the ephod, and that the breaſt-plate be not looſed from the ephod. 29. And Aaron ſhall bear the names of the children of Iſrael in the breaſt-plate of judgment, upon his heart, when he goeth in unto the holy place, for a memorial before the LORD continually.

v. 15—29. This was another diſtinguiſhed part of the high-prieſt's dreſs; the breaſt-plate of judgment, to be worn when Aaron went into the holy place. On it were fixed precious ſtones, engraven with the names of the children of Iſrael; and it was faſtened to the ephod by the golden chains. Note, (1.) Though the holy place of heaven is not yet acceſſible, yet, our high-prieſt bearing our names there, we are, in virtue thereof, already ſaid to be ſet down with him in heavenly places. (2.) The ſpiritual graces adorning particular ſaints, make them like theſe ſtones: all are jewels, though each ſhine with ſome different and peculiar luſtre.

[h] Lev. viii. 8. Num. xxvii. 21. Deut. xxxiii. 8. 1 Sam. xxviii. 6. Ezra ii. 63. Neh. vii. 65.

30. ¶ And [h] thou ſhalt put in the breaſt-plate of judgment the Urim and the Thummim; and they ſhall be upon Aaron's heart, when he goeth in before the LORD: and Aaron ſhall bear the judgment of the children of Iſrael upon his heart, before the LORD continually.

v. 30. Many have been the conjectures of learned men reſpecting theſe words, Urim and Thummim; ſome conceiving it a part of the high-prieſt's cloathing; others, that it ſignified ſome bright appearance of the precious ſtones of the breaſt-plate; others, that it meant no more than the peculiar gifts which ſhould be communicated to the high-prieſt, when thus cloathed he ſhould appear to enquire of God: which latter ſenſe ſeems moſt probable. The words ſignify Illuminations and Perfections, and may well imply the clear anſwers, and perfect direction, which in all caſes of difficulty God would give the high-prieſt, either by ſecret impulſe, or an audible voice. The written word of God is now our Urim and Thummim; and when we are enquiring there of his will, he can, and ſtill doth, by divine irradiation on our minds, inform and comfort us under every difficulty.

[i] Chap. xxxix. 22.

† Or ſkirts.

[k] Ecclus xlv. 9.

31. ¶ And [i] thou ſhalt make the robe of the ephod all of blue. 32. And there ſhall be an hole in the top of it, in the midſt thereof: it ſhall have a binding of woven work, round about the hole of it, as it were the hole of an habergeon, that it be not rent. 33. ¶ And beneath upon the † hem of it thou ſhalt make pomegranates of blue, and of purple, and of ſcarlet, round about the hem thereof, and bells of gold between them round about. 34. A golden bell and a pomegranate, a golden bell and a pomegranate, upon the hem of the robe round about. 35. And [k] it ſhall be upon Aaron, to miniſter: and his ſound ſhall be heard when he goeth in unto the holy holy place before the LORD, and when he cometh out, that he die not. 36. ¶ And [l] thou ſhalt make a plate of pure gold, and grave upon it, like the engravings of a ſignet, HOLINESS TO THE LORD. 37. And thou ſhalt put it on a blue lace, that it may be upon the mitre: upon the fore-front of the mitre it ſhall be. 38. And it ſhall be upon Aaron's forehead, that Aaron may bear the iniquity of the holy things, which the children of Iſrael ſhall hallow in all their holy gifts: and it ſhall be always upon his forehead, that they may be accepted before the LORD. 39. ¶ And thou ſhalt embroider the coat of fine linen, and thou ſhalt make the mitre of fine linen, and thou ſhalt make the girdle of needle-work.

[l] Chap. xxxix. 30.

v. 31—39. The other parts of the high-prieſt's garments are here deſcribed.

1. The robe of the ephod, all of blue, without ſleeves, reaching to the knees, ſurrounded with bells, and woven work like pomegranates. Aaron, on peril of death, muſt not dare to draw near to God without it. Note, A peculiar as well as decent garb becomes thoſe who miniſter in holy things.

2. The golden plate on his forehead, with its engraving, v. 36—38, teaching us, 1. That God's miniſters muſt never be aſhamed of their profeſſion. 2 That they who appear before God, ſhould have holineſs written on their hearts. 3. That true holineſs is not a ſuperficial thing, but deep engraven, and durable. 4. That in our beſt duties, ſo much corruption cleaves to them, that, were it not for our great high-prieſt's advocacy, our very prayers would deſtroy us; whilſt in him all our ſervices are ſacrifices of a ſweet ſmell.

3. His other garments; his inſide embroidered coat, which reached to his feet, and to his wriſts, with a girdle of needle-work around it, and a linen mitre, or diadem, on his head. Our High-prieſt is alſo our King: he not only atones for our ſins, but will ſubdue all our enemies without or within us.

[m] Chap. xxviii. 8, 9. & xxxix. 28, 41. Ezek. xliv. 18.
[n] Chap. xxix. 7. & xxx. 30. & xl. 15. Lev. x. 7.
† Heb. Fill their hand.
‡ Heb. Fleſh of their nakedneſs.
‖ Heb. Be.
[o] Chap. xxix. 29, 30.

40. ¶ And [m] for Aaron's ſons thou ſhalt make coats, and thou ſhalt make for them girdles, and bonnets ſhalt thou make for them, for glory and for beauty. 41. And thou ſhalt put them upon Aaron thy brother, and his ſons with him: and ſhalt [n] anoint them, and † conſecrate them, and ſanctify them, that they may miniſter unto me in the prieſt's office. 42. And thou ſhalt make them linen breeches to cover ‡ their nakedneſs: from the loins even unto the thighs they ſhall ‖ reach. 43. And they ſhall be upon Aaron, and upon his ſons, when [o] they come in unto the tabernacle of the congregation, or when they come near unto the altar to miniſter in the holy place; that they bear not iniquity, and die. It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever unto him, and his ſeed after him.

v. 40—43. The inferior prieſts muſt be cloathed nearly as to faſhion in the ſame dreſs for beauty and glory, though not equal to the high-prieſt. It is well for us, if at an humble diſtance, we are in any thing like our glorious head; and they are enjoined, on penalty of death, never to appear before God but in theſe garments. Note, (1.) The righteouſneſs of our divine Redeemer can only cover our iniquity: if we preſume with any other plea to draw near to God, we die. (2.) When a miniſter of known immorality approaches God's altar, or preaches to others what he hath never practiſed himſelf, this is to expoſe his nakedneſs to the people.

CHAP. XXIX.

Particular orders are given in this chapter, 1. Concerning the conſecration of the prieſts, and the ſanctification of the altar, 1—37. 2. Concerning the daily ſacriſice, ver. 38—41. To which gracious promiſes are annexed, that God would own and bleſs them in all their ſervices, ver. 42—46.

[a] Lev. ix. 2.
[b] Lev. vi. 20.
[c] Lev. viii. 6.
[d] Chap. xxviii. 2.

1. AND this is the thing that thou ſhalt do unto them, to hallow them, to miniſter unto me in the prieſt's office: [a] take one young bullock, and two rams without blemiſh, 2. And [b] unleavened bread, and cakes unleavened tempered with oil, and wafers unleavened anointed with oil: of wheaten flour ſhalt thou make them. 3. And thou ſhalt put them into one baſket, and bring them in the baſket, with the bullock and the two rams. 4. And Aaron and his ſons thou ſhalt bring unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and [c] ſhalt waſh them with water. 5. And [d] thou ſhalt take the garments, and put upon Aaron the coat, and the robe of the ephod, and the ephod, and the breaſt-plate, and gird him with [e] the curious girdle of the ephod. 6. And [f] thou ſhalt put the mitre upon his head, and put the holy crown upon the mitre. 7. Then ſhalt thou take [g] the anointing oil, and pour it upon his head, and anoint him. 8. And thou ſhalt bring his ſons, and put coats upon them. 9. And thou ſhalt gird them with girdles (Aaron and his ſons) and † put the bonnets on them: and the prieſt's office ſhall be theirs for a perpetual ſtatute: and thou ſhalt ‡ [h] conſecrate Aaron and his ſons. 10. And thou ſhalt cauſe a bullock to be brought before the tabernacle of the congregation; and [i] Aaron and his ſons ſhall put their hands upon the head of the bullock. 11. And thou ſhalt kill the bullock before the LORD, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. 12. And thou ſhalt take of the blood of the bullock, and put it upon [k] the horns of the altar with thy finger, and pour all the blood beſide the bottom of the altar. 13. And [l] thou ſhalt take all the fat that covereth the inwards, and the ‖ caul that is above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and burn them upon the altar. 14. But [m] the fleſh of the bullock, and his ſkin, and his dung, ſhalt thou burn with fire without the camp: it is a ſin-offering. 15. ¶ [n] Thou ſhalt alſo take one ram, and Aaron and his ſons ſhall put their hands upon the head of the ram. 16. And thou ſhalt ſlay the ram, and thou ſhalt take his blood, and ſprinkle it round about upon the altar. 17. And thou ſhalt cut the ram in pieces, and waſh the inwards of him, and his legs, and put them unto his pieces, and § unto his head. 18. And thou ſhalt burn the whole ram upon the altar: it is a burnt-offering unto the LORD: it is a ſweet ſavour, an offering made by fire unto the LORD. 19. ¶ And [o] thou ſhalt take the other ram, and Aaron and his ſons ſhall put their hands upon the head of the ram. 20. Then ſhalt thou kill the ram, and take of his blood, and put it upon the tip of the right ear of Aaron, and upon the tip of the right ear of his ſons, and upon the thumb of their right hand, and upon the great toe of their right foot, and ſprinkle the blood upon the altar round about. 21. And thou ſhalt take of the blood that is upon the altar, and of [p] the anointing oil, and ſprinkle it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his ſons, and upon the garments of his ſons with him: and [q] he ſhall be hallowed, and his garments, and his ſons, and his ſons garments with him. 22. Alſo thou ſhalt take of the ram the fat and the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, and the right ſhoulder; for it is a ram of conſecration: 23. And [r] one loaf of bread, and one cake of oiled bread, and one wafer out of the baſket of the unleavened bread, that is before the LORD. 24. And thou ſhalt put all in the hands of Aaron, and in the hands of his ſons; and ſhalt † wave them for a wave-offering before the LORD. 25. And [s] thou ſhalt receive them of their hands, and burn them upon the altar for a burnt-offering, for a ſweet ſavour before the LORD: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD. 26. And thou ſhalt take [t] the breaſt of the ram of Aaron's conſecrations, and wave it for a wave-offering before the LORD: and [u] it ſhall be thy part. 27. And thou ſhalt ſanctify [x] the breaſt of the wave-offering, and the ſhoulder of the heave-offering, which is waved, and which is heaved up of the ram of the conſecration, even of that which is for Aaron, and of that which is for his ſons. 28. And it ſhall be Aaron's and his ſons by a ſtatute for ever, from the children of Iſrael: for it is an heave-offering: and [y] it ſhall be an heave-offering from the children of Iſrael of the ſacrifice of their peace-offerings, even their heave-offering unto the LORD. 29. ¶ And the holy garments of Aaron ſhall be his ſons after him, [z] to be anointed therein, and to be conſecrated in them. 30. And ‡ [a] that ſon that is prieſt in his ſtead ſhall put them on ſeven days, when he cometh into the tabernacle of the congregation, to miniſter in the holy place. 31. ¶ And thou ſhalt take the ram of the conſecration, and ſeethe his fleſh in the holy place. 32. And Aaron and his ſons ſhall eat the fleſh of the ram, and [b] the bread that is in the baſket, by the door of the ta-

[e] Chap. xxviii. 8.
[f] Lev. viii. 9.
[g] Chap. xxx. 25.
† Heb. Bind.
‡ Heb. Fill the hand of.
[h] Chap. xxviii. 41.
[i] Lev. i. 4. & viii. 14.
[k] Chap. xxvii. 2. & xxx. 2.
[l] Lev. iii. 3.
‖ Or midriff.
[m] Lev. iv. 11, 12, 21. Heb. xiii. 11.
[n] Lev. viii. 18.
§ Or upon.
[o] Ver. 3. Lev. viii. 22.
[p] Chap. xxx. 25, 31.
[q] Heb. ix. 22.
[r] Lev. viii. 26.
† Heb. Shake to and fro.
[s] Lev. viii. 28.
[t] Lev. viii. 29.
[u] Pſ. xcix. 6.
[x] Lev. vii. 34. Numb. xviii. 18. Deut. xviii. 3.
[y] Lev. vii. 34.
[z] Num. xviii. 8. & xxxv. 25.
‡ Heb. He, of his ſons.
[a] Num. xx. 28.
[b] Lev. viii. 31. Matt. xii. 4.

bernacle of the congregation. 33. And they ſhall eat thoſe things wherewith the atonement was made, to conſecrate and to ſanctify them: but a ſtranger ſhall not eat thereof, becauſe they are holy. 34. And if ought of the fleſh of the conſecrations, or of the bread remain unto the morning; then thou ſhalt burn the remainder with fire: it ſhall not be eaten, becauſe it is holy. 35. And thus ſhalt thou do unto Aaron, and to his ſons, according to all things which I have commanded thee: [c] ſeven days ſhalt thou conſecrate them. 36. And thou ſhalt offer every day a bullock for a ſin-offering for atonement: and thou ſhalt cleanſe the altar, when thou haſt made an atonement for it, and [d] thou ſhalt anoint it to ſanctify it. 37. Seven days thou ſhalt make an atonement for the altar, and ſanctify it: and [e] it ſhall be an altar moſt holy: [f] whatſoever toucheth the altar ſhall be holy.

[c] Exod. xl. 12. Lev. viii. 33, 34.
[d] Chap. xxx. 29. & xl. 10.
[e] Chap. xl. 10.
[f] Chap. xxx. 29. Matt. xxiii. 10.

v. 1—37. The conſecration of Aaron and his ſons ſucceeds the preparation of the ſanctuary, where they are to miniſter. The manner is ſolemn, to intimate the greatneſs of the charge committed to them, and the ſurrender they are called upon to make of themſelves to God. Moſes is employed as an extraordinary miniſter from God for the purpoſe, and he begins the ceremonial,

1. With bringing them to the door of the tabernacle, as perſons ſelected of God. 2. By a general ablution, v. 4. God will be ſanctified in thoſe who come nigh him. How can an unholy miniſter dare approach the Holy God? 3. By robing them, v. 5, 6, &c. They who would miniſter before the Lord, muſt be cloathed with righteouſneſs, as a garment. 4. By anointing the high prieſt with holy oil, v. 7. The unction from the Holy One can only qualify a miniſter for the diſcharge of his office. 5. By a variety of ſacrifices. A ſin-offering precedes, v. 10—14, for, as men, they firſt needed to offer for their own ſins, before they could make atonement for the ſins of others. The burnt-offering followed, v. 15—18, intimating the warmth of holy love in their hearts, inclining them to yield themſelves up as living ſacrifices to God. The peace-offering, v. 19, &c. compleated the conſecration. (1.) The blood of it muſt be put upon them, and, with the holy anointing oil, be ſprinkled upon them. The blood of Jeſus Chriſt muſt be thus applied to our hearts; and when we would appear before God with acceptance, it muſt be with our robes made white in this blood of the Lamb. (2.) The prieſts hands muſt be filled with the parts devoted to God, and thus they begin their miniſtrations. If we miniſter acceptably before God, it muſt be given us; he muſt fill our hands, or we cannot feed the people; and when he doth, every miniſter will find buſineſs in abundance. No time will be left for idling or vanity. (3.) God's part muſt be burnt; afterward, the prieſts portion is aſſigned them, v. 24—28. They who ſerve the altar, have a right to live by the altar. (4.) The remainder muſt be eaten by Aaron and his ſons, in token of their joyful acceptance of the mercy beſtowed on them. They who are called to communion with Chriſt, whilſt they commemorate his ſacrifice, ſhould feed upon him with thankſgiving. (5.) Seven days were to be employed in the conſecration, and peculiar ſacrifices every day. It requires ſolemn deliberation to ordain a miniſter of the ſanctuary; and they have abundant need, who are to preach remiſſion of ſins to others, to gain ſome ſure and certain hope, that their own are pardoned. (6.) The altar too muſt be conſecrated, v. 36, 37, to intimate the univerſal pollution which reigns by ſin, and that without atoning blood, nothing can be an acceptable ſervice to God. Laſtly, we have in this, 1. A type of Chriſt, who is both prieſt and altar, and ſacrifice together, conſecrated of God, with the oil of gladneſs above his fellows, cloathed with ſpotleſs purity, and by his own blood perfecting the atonement. 2. Of every faithful ſoul, who is called, choſen, waſhed in the blood, and cloathed with the righteouſneſs of the Redeemer; and thus by grace enabled to offer up ſpiritual ſacrifices acceptable to God through Jeſus Chriſt.

38. ¶ Now this is that which thou ſhalt offer upon the altar; [g] two lambs of the firſt year, [h] day by day continually. 39. The one lamb thou ſhalt offer in the morning: and the other lamb thou ſhalt offer at even. 40. And with the one lamb a tenth deal of flour mingled with the fourth part of an hin of beaten oil: and the fourth part of an hin of wine for a drink-offering. 41. And the other lamb thou ſhalt offer at even, and ſhalt do thereto according to the meat-offering of the morning, and according to the drink-offering thereof, for a ſweet ſavour, an offering made by fire unto the LORD. 42. This ſhall be [i] a continual burnt-offering throughout your generations, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, before the LORD: [k] where I will meet you, to ſpeak there unto thee. 43. And there will I meet with the children of Iſrael, and † the tabernacle ſhall be ſanctified by my glory. 44. And I will ſanctify the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar: I will ſanctify alſo both Aaron and his ſons, to miniſter to me in the prieſts office. 45. ¶ And [l] I will dwell amongſt the children of Iſrael, and will be their God. 46. And they ſhall know that I am the LORD their God, that brought them forth out of the land of Egypt, that I may dwell amongſt them: I am the LORD their God.

[g] Num. xxviii. 3.
[h] See Dan. ix. 27. & xii. 11.
[i] Chap. xxx. 8.
[k] Chap. xxx. 36. Num. xvii. 4.
† Or Iſrael.
[l] Exod. xxv. 8. Lev. xxvi. 12. Zech. ii. 10. 2 Cor. vi. 16. Rev. xxi. 3.

v. 38—46. The prieſts and altar being conſecrated, their continual daily employment is appointed them.

1. The daily ſacrifice; to intimate the neceſſity of daily pardon for our ſins, and our obligations to the conſtant worſhip of God. Chriſt was not only once offered, but, as the Lamb newly ſlain, continually preſents his own blood before the mercy-ſeat: and we are every day called upon, morning and evening, without ceaſing, to offer up our ſupplications and prayers, in virtue of this atoning blood before the throne of God. Neglect of prayer is the ſure proof of contempt of God.

2. God promiſes to meet them whilſt they wait upon him, and bleſs them, and dwell in the midſt of them, and be their God. Note, (1.) A life of prayer will be a life of communion with God. (2.) He will ever be preſent in the congregations of his people to bleſs them. (3.) The greateſt of bleſſings is to have a portion in a covenant God.

CHAP. XXX.

Moſes is in this chapter further inſtructed, 1. Concerning the altar of incenſe, ver. 1—10. 2. Concerning the ranſom money, ver. 11—16. 3. Concerning the laver of braſs, ver. 17—21. 4. Concerning the anointing oil, ver. 22—33. 5. Concerning the incenſe and perfume, to be burned on the golden altar, ver. 34—38.

1. AND thou ſhalt make [a] an altar [b] to burn incenſe upon: of ſhittim-wood ſhalt thou make it. 2. A cubit ſhall be the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof (four ſquare ſhall it be) and two cubits ſhall be the height thereof: the horns thereof ſhall be of the ſame. 3. And thou ſhalt overlay it with pure gold, the † top thereof and the ‡ ſides thereof round about, and the horns thereof: and thou ſhalt make unto it a crown of gold round about. 4. And two golden rings ſhalt thou make to it under the crown of it, by the two ‖ corners thereof, upon the the two ſides of it ſhalt thou make it: and they ſhall be for places for the ſtaves to bear it withal. 5. And thou ſhalt make the ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlay them with gold. 6. And thou ſhalt put it before the vail, that is by the ark of the teſtimony; before the mercy-ſeat, that is over the teſtimony, where I will meet with thee. 7. And Aaron ſhall burn thereon § ſweet incenſe every morning: when [c] he dreſſeth the lamps he ſhall burn incenſe upon it. 8. And when Aaron † lighteth the lamps ‡ at even, he ſhall burn incenſe upon it; a perpetual incenſe before the LORD, throughout your generations. 9. Ye ſhall offer no ſtrange incenſe thereon, nor burnt-ſacrifice, nor meat-offering; neither ſhall ye pour drink-offering thereon. 10. And [d] Aaron ſhall make an atonement upon the horns of it once in a year, with the blood of the ſin-offering of atonements: once in the year ſhall he make atonement upon it, throughout your generations: it is moſt holy unto the LORD.

[a] Chap. xxxvii. 25.
[b] See ver. 10. Lev. iv. 7, 18.
† Heb. Roof.
‡ Heb. Walls.
‖ Heb. Ribs.
§ Heb. Incenſe of ſpices.
[c] Chap. xxvii. 20.
† Heb. Cauſeth to aſcend.
‡ Heb. Between the two evenings.
[d] Lev. xvi. 14. & xxiii. 27.

v. 1—10. The altar of incenſe ſtood in the tabernable without the vail before the mercy ſeat. Incenſe of God's appointment muſt be burned upon it by Aaron continually, and accompany the daily offering morning and evening. Praiſe for daily mercies is as needful as prayer for daily pardon. And once a year it muſt be ſprinkled with blood on its horns, on the great day of atonement. Our holieſt ſervices need the blood of Chriſt, or they would be regarded of God as an unclean thing. Note, Whilſt Chriſt is thus interceding for us in heaven before the golden altar, it becomes us to be found ſending up the incenſe of prayer and praiſe, that, perfumed by him, they may appear before the throne of God as a ſweet ſmelling ſavour.

11. And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 12. [e] When thou takeſt the ſum of the children of Iſrael, after † their number; then they ſhall give every man a ranſom for his ſoul unto the LORD, when thou

[e] Chap. xxxviii. 25. Num. i. 2, 5. & xxvi. 2.
† Heb. Them that are to be numbered. See Num. xxxi. 50.

numbereſt them: that there be no plague amongſt them, when thou numbereſt them. 13. This they ſhall give, every one that paſſeth among them that are numbered; [f] half a ſhekel after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary ([g] a ſhekel is twenty gerahs) an half ſhekel ſhall be the offering of the LORD. 14. Every one that paſſeth among them that are numbered, from twenty years old and above, ſhall give an offering unto the LORD. 15. The rich ſhall not ‡ give more, and the poor ſhall not ‖ give leſs than half a ſhekel, when they give an offering unto the LORD, to make an atonement for your ſouls. 16. And thou ſhalt take the atonement money of the children of Iſrael, and [h] ſhalt appoint it for the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation; that it may be a memorial unto the children of Iſrael before the LORD, to make an atonement for your ſouls.

[f] Matt. xvii. 24.
[g] Lev. xxvii. 25. Num. iii. 47. Ezek. xlv. 12.
‡ Heb. Multiply.
‖ Heb. Diminiſh.
[h] Chap. xxxviii. 25.

v. 11—16. This ranſom is ſuppoſed to have been yearly paid. It was in value about fifteen pence, and employed wholly for the uſe of God's ſanctuary. They who value the goſpel, will never grudge to contribute for the ſupport of it. The rich and poor payed alike; for it coſts the ſame to redeem one ſoul as another, and in God's ſight they are equally precious.

17. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 18. [i] Thou ſhalt alſo make a laver of braſs, and his foot alſo of braſs, to waſh withal: and thou ſhalt put it between the tabernacle of the congregation and the altar, and thou ſhalt put water therein. 19. For Aaron and his ſons [k] ſhall waſh their hands and their feet thereat. 20. When they go into the tabernacle of the congregation, they ſhall waſh with water, that they die not: or when they come near to the altar to miniſter, to burn an offering made by fire unto the LORD. 21. So they ſhall waſh their hands and their feet, that they die not: and it ſhall be a ſtatute for ever to them, even to him and to his ſeed throughout their generations.

[i] Chap. xxxviii. 8.
[k] Pſ. xxvi. 6. Iſa. lii. 11. Heb. x. 22.

v. 17—21. In theſe waſhings God would repreſent to them the neceſſity of ſpiritual purity in their miniſtrations. We contract defilement every day, and muſt therefore daily come to the laver of Chriſt's blood, that we may ſtand before God without fear.

22. ¶ Moreover, the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 23. Take thou alſo unto thee principal ſpices, of pure myrrh five hundred ſhekels, and of ſweet cinnamon half ſo much, even two hundred and fifty ſhekels, and of ſweet calamus two hundred and fifty ſhekels. 24. And of caſſia five hundred ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, and of oil-olive [l] an hin. 25. And thou ſhalt make it an oil of holy ointment, an ointment compound after the art of the † apothecary: it ſhall be an holy anointing oil. 26. And [m] thou ſhalt anoint the tabernacle of the congregation therewith, and the ark of the teſtimony. 27. And the table and all his veſſels, and the candleſtick and his veſſels, and the altar of incenſe, 28. And the altar of burnt-offering with all his veſſels, and the laver and his foot. 29. And thou ſhalt ſanctify them, that they may be moſt holy: [n] whatſoever toucheth them, ſhall be holy. 30. And [o] thou ſhalt anoint Aaron and his ſons, and conſecrate them, that they may miniſter unto me in the prieſts office. 31. And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This ſhall be an holy anointing oil unto me, throughout your generations. 32. Upon man's fleſh ſhall it not be poured, neither ſhall ye make any other like it, after the compoſition of it: it is holy, and it ſhall be holy unto you. 33. Whoſoever compoundeth any like it, or whoſoever putteth any of it upon a ſtranger, [p] ſhall even be cut off from his people. 34. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, [q] Take unto thee ſweet ſpices, ſtacte, and onycha, and galbanum; theſe ſweet ſpices with pure frankincenſe: of each ſhall there be a like weight. 35. And thou ſhalt make it a perfume, a confection after the art of the apothecary, ‡ tempered together, pure and holy. 36. And thou ſhalt beat ſome of it very ſmall, and put of it before the teſtimony in the tabernacle of the congregation, [r] where I will meet with thee: it ſhall be unto you moſt holy. 37. And as for the perfume which thou ſhalt make, you ſhall not make to yourſelves according to the compoſition thereof: it ſhall be unto thee holy for the LORD. 38. Whoſoever ſhall make like unto that, to ſmell thereto, ſhall even be cut off from his people.

[l] Chap. xxix. 40.
† Or perfumer.
[m] Chap. xl. 9. Lev. viii. 10. Num. vii. 10.
[n] Chap. xxix. 37.
[o] Chap. xxix. 7. &c.
[p] Gen. xvii. 14.
[q] Chap. xxv. 6.
‡ Heb. Salted.
[r] Chap. xxix. 37, 42. Lev. xvi. 2.

v. 22—38. We have,

1. The preſcription for the anointing oil, v. 22—33. The riches and fragrance of theſe materials repreſented that more glorious unction of the Holy Ghoſt, which every ſoul conſecrated to God receives.

2. The ingredients for the incenſe, v. 34—36. They muſt be bruiſed, that they may more abundantly yield their perfume. Note, No fragrance ſo pleaſing, as the cry which aſcends from a broken and contrite heart.

CHAP. XXXI.

God here concludes what he had to ſay to Moſes. 1. He appoints what workmen ſhould be employed in the building and furniſhing of the tabernacle, ver. 1—11. 2. He repeats the law of the ſabbath, and the religious obſervation of it, ver. 12—17. 3. He delivers him the two tables of the teſtimony at parting, ver. 18.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. [a] See, I have called by name Bezaleel the [b] ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, of the tribe of Judah: 3. And [c] I have filled him with the ſpirit of God, in wiſdom, and in underſtanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanſhip, 4. To deviſe cunning works, to work in gold, and in ſilver, and in braſs. 5. And in cutting of ſtones, to ſet them, and in carving of timber, to work in all manner of workmanſhip. 6. And I, behold, I have given with him Aholiab the ſon of Ahiſamach, of the tribe of Dan; and in the hearts of all that are wiſe-hearted I have put wiſdom: that they may make all that I have commanded thee: 7. The tabernacle of the congregation, and the ark of the teſtimony, and the mercy-ſeat that is thereupon, and all the † furniture of the tabernacle, 8. And the table and his furniture, and the pure candleſtick with all his furniture, and the altar of incenſe. 9. And the altar of burnt-offering with all his furniture, and the laver and his foot, 10. And [d] the clothes of ſervice, and the holy garments for Aaron the prieſt, and the garments of his ſons, to miniſter in the prieſts office. 11. And [e] the anointing oil, and ſweet incenſe for the holy place: according to all that I have commanded thee, ſhall they do.

[a] Chap. xxxv. 30.
[b] 1 Chron. ii. 20.
[c] 1 Kings, vii. 14.
† Heb. Veſſels.
[d] Chap. xxix, 1, 41. Num. iv. 6, &c.
[e] Chap. xxx, 25, 31.

v. 1—11. The work was deſcribed in the former chapter, the workmen now are divinely appointed alſo. They had not in their long ſervitude, we may be ſure, been ever engaged in ſuch curious arts, as were required for the furniture of the tabernacle; but God, who appoints the perſons, qualifies them for the work. The chief perſons are Bezaleel and Aholiab, and they are furniſhed with abilities for the ſervice, and with aſſiſtants under them to execute their commands. Learn, (1.) When God hath work to do, he will find inſtruments, and fit them for their employment. (2.) All ſkill and excellence in every buſineſs is the gift of God, and ſhould be acknowledged to his glory. (3.) When we admire the inſtruments God makes uſe of, we muſt beware of aſcribing too much to the man, and too little to his maker. (4.) They who are employed in the ſervice of the tabernacle, under a divine call, may with comfort and confidence enter upon it. He who calls them to the work, will ſupport and own them in it.

12. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes ſaying, 13. Speak thou alſo unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, [f] Verily my ſabbaths ye ſhall keep: for it is a ſign between me and you, throughout your generations; that ye may know that I am the LORD that doth ſanctify you. 14. [g] Ye ſhall keep the ſabbath therefore: for it is holy unto you. Every one that defileth it, ſhall ſurely be put to death: for [h] whoſoever doth any work therein, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from amongſt his people. 15. Six days may work be done, but in the ſeventh is the ſabbath of reſt, † holy to the LORD: whoſoever doth any work in the ſabbath-days he ſhall ſurely be put to death. 16. Wherefore the children of Iſrael ſhall keep the ſabbath, to obſerve the ſabbath throughout their generations, for a perpetual covenant. 17. It is a ſign between me and the children of Iſrael for ever: for [i] in ſix days the LORD made heaven and earth, and on the ſeventh day he reſted, and was refreſhed.

[f] Lev. xix. 3, 30. & xxvi. 2. Ezek. xx. 12, 20.
[g] Chap. xx. 8. Deut. v. 12. Ezek. xx. 12.
[h] Chap. xxxv. 2. Num. xv. 34.
† Heb. Holineſs.
[i] Gen. i. 31. & ii. 2.

v. 12—17. The ſabbath is again ſtrictly enjoined. It was the diſtinguiſhing badge of their ſeparation from the reſt of the world. As long as they religiouſly obſerved it, it was a ſign of God's favour to them, and a conſtant evidence of their obedience to him. Next to the repeated warnings againſt idolatry, we find no injunctions ſo frequent as thoſe which regard the ſabbath. Theſe indeed have the moſt immediate connection with each other, nothing being ſo effectual to preſerve them from turning to falſe gods, as the ſtrict and religious obſervance of that day, which was devoted to the worſhip of the true God. And as it was the means of ſanctifying them, it hath ſtill the ſame gracious tendency to us; nor doth any thing conduce more to the ſanctification of our hearts and lives, than the careful obſervance of this holy day; whilſt, on the contrary, the neglect of it is the moſt evident proof of a mind eſtranged from God, and the inlet to every abomination which naturally flows from forgetfulneſs of him. The breach of the ſabbath was, among the Jews, puniſhed with death: our laws too make it penal, and many who have been brought to an ignominious death, have confeſſed this to be the beginning of their ruin. But though men elude human penalties, and with impunity continue in pleaſure, buſineſs, idleneſs, gaming, the ſervice of their luſts, and indulgence of their appetites, to profane theſe ſacred hours, the time approaches, when a judge ſhall ſit upon the throne, with whom there is no reſpect of perſons; when every ſabbath-breaker will find, to his unutterable ſorrow, that the wages of his ſin is everlaſting death.

18. ¶ And he gave unto Moſes, when he had made an end of communing with him upon mount Sinai, [k] two tables of teſtimony, tables of ſtone, written with the finger of God.

[k] Chap. xxxii. 16. & xxxiv. 28. Deut. ix. 10. 2 Cor. iii. 3.

v. 18. Moſes is now diſmiſſed, and the tables of the covenant given him to lay up in the ark, for a perpetual remembrance. The ſtones on which the commandments were written, fitly repreſent the hardneſs of men's hearts; and the finger of God, that Almighty Grace, which can, even on ſuch hearts as ours, inſcribe his holy law. The ſtones indeed, however durable, were quickly broken; but if the fleſhly tables of our hearts bear the divine impreſſion, the writing ſhall never be obliterated: it is an everlaſting covenant, which God, who makes with us, will keep us from breaking.

CHAP. XXXII.

The ſtory of this chapter is very afflictive. Hitherto things went on admirably well towards a happy ſettlement. God had ſhewed himſelf very favourable, and the people were tractable; Moſes is now returning, to eſtabliſh God's ordinances and worſhip, and to ſet up the tabernacle, where the Lord promiſed to dwell in the midſt of them; but behold, the meaſures are broken; the ſin of Iſrael puts a ſtop to the current of God's favours, and brings heavy judgments upon them. Here is, 1. The ſin of Iſrael, and Aaron particularly, in making the golden calf for a god, ver. 1—4. and worſhipping it, ver. 5, 6. 2. The notice which God gave of this to Moſes, ver. 7, 8. and the ſentence of his wrath againſt them, ver. 9, 10. 3. The interceſſion which Moſes immediately made for them in the mount, ver. 11, 12, 13. and the prevalency of that interceſſion, ver. 14. 4. His coming down from the mount, when he became an eye-witneſs of their idolatry, ver. 15—19. in deteſtation of which, and a juſt indignation at it, he broke the tables, ver. 19. and burnt the golden calf, ver. 20. 5. The examination of Aaron about it, ver. 21—24. 6. Execution done upon the ring-leaders in the idolatry, ver. 25—29. 7. The farther interceſſion Moſes made for them, to turn away the wrath of God from them, ver. 30—32. and a reprieve granted thereupon, reſerving them for a farther reckoning, ver. 33—35.

1. AND when the people ſaw that Moſes delayed to come down out of the mount, the people gathered themſelves together unto Aaron, and ſaid unto him, [a] Up, make us gods, which ſhall go before us: for as for this Moſes, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him.

[a] Acts vii. 40.

v. 1. When Moſes is now ready to deſcend from the mount, the perverſeneſs and impatience of the people deſtroy all the bleſſings which were deſigned for them. They had before been often diſtruſtful and diſobedient, but now they break out into open rebellion. They riotouſly aſſemble, and preſent a petition to Aaron, to make them gods to go before them. They were weary of waiting, and though they had want of nothing, are in haſte to be in the promiſed land. Note, Haſte makes waſte. When we run before God's providence leads, inſtead of ſeizing the mercy, we uſually fall into a ſnare. Two grievous ſins are the conſequence of this proceeding.

1. Impious idolatry againſt God. They were not ſatisfied with the repeated evidences he had given them of his preſence in the midſt of them. They would have gods of their own making. The idols of Egypt were ſtill in their hearts, and they will go a whoring after them. Note, Where the heart is not truly converted to God, though for a time partial reformations may deceive, the old ſins will again break out, and the dog return to his vomit.

2. Baſe ingratitude to Moſes. He had been long their governor; they were moſt highly indebted to him. He was now gone expreſsly on their affairs. As he had God's call to go, they had ſufficient reaſon to expect his return: but ſhould he not, they were at leaſt bound to treat him with reſpect and regard. But they overlook every conſideration, and, with a careleſs mention of their great deliverer, pretend to inſinuate, that he hath forſaken them, and never intends to return. Note, (1.) The beſt of men, and the greateſt miniſters, may expect to meet with moſt ungrateful returns from thoſe whom they have ſerved. (2.) They who are inclined to think evil, will pretend, in the cleareſt caſe, not to know what to think. (3.) Forgetfulneſs, and doubt of the return of Jeſus from the mount of glory, is the great means of hardening the ſinner; whilſt it is among the ſoreſt temptations of the true believer, that in times of greateſt difficulty our Lord ſeems to delay his coming; but if he tarry, let us wait for him.

2. And Aaron ſaid unto them, Break off the golden ear-rings which are in the ears of your wives, of your ſons, and of your daughters, and bring them unto me. 3. And all the people brake off the golden ear-rings which were in their ears, and brought them unto Aaron. 4. And [b] he received them at their hand, and faſhioned it with a graving tool, after he had made it a molten calf: and they ſaid, [c] Theſe be thy gods, O Iſrael, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt. 5. And when Aaron ſaw it, he built an altar before it, and Aaron made proclamation, and ſaid, To-morrow is a feaſt to the LORD. 6. And they roſe up early on the morrow, and offered burnt-offerings, and brought peace-offerings: and [d] the people ſat down to eat and to drink, and roſe up to play.

[b] 1 Kings xii. 28. Pſ. cvi. 19. [c] Neh. ix. 18. [d] 1 Cor. x. 7.

v. 2—6. Aaron, inſtead of indignation at the propoſal, infamouſly tame conſents to gratify them.

1. He aſks for their golden ear-rings, which, however dear to them, they readily part with; for when men are ſet on ſin, they ſtick at nothing, and think they never pay too dear for the gratification. Note, It is a bad ſign, if we are leſs ready to part with our gold to forward God's cauſe, than they were to part with theirs to diſhonour him. Theſe ear-rings were the ſpoil of the Egyptians, with which God had ſo lately enriched them; and now they are abuſed to the vileſt idolatry. How often do the gifts of God thus prove a ſnare to us, and engage our idolatrous affections to them, ſo as to prove a curſe, inſtead of a bleſſing.

2. He makes a molten calf; a ſtrange god indeed! and, dreadful proof of their infatuated blindneſs, to change the glory of the incorruptible God into the ſimilitude of an ox that eateth graſs. Pſ. cvi. 20.

3. An altar is built, and a feaſt proclaimed to Jehovah; for they deſigned not to terminate their worſhip in the calf, but regarded it as the repreſentation of the true God; though this we find was not the leaſt exculpation of their guilt. Let the papiſts ſee in their image-worſhip, how exactly conformable is their conduct, and equally abominable their idolatry.

4. The people gladly obey the ſummons, and rejoice in the work of their own hands. The day is ſpent in feaſting, mirth, and jollity. Such ſervice could not ſuit Jehovah; but as the calf was the idol, their belly ſeems to have been their god. Note, Though the calf is no more, his worſhippers are ſtill numerous, if ſuch be the ſervice, to ſit down to eat and drink, and riſe up to play.

7. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, [e] Go, get thee down: for [f] thy people which thou broughteſt out of the land of Egypt [g] have corrupted themſelves. 8. They have turned aſide quickly out of the way which I commanded them: they have made them a molten calf, and have worſhipped it, and have ſacrificed thereunto, and ſaid, [h] Theſe be thy gods, O Iſrael, which have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt. 9. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, [i] I have ſeen this people, and behold, it is a ſtiff-necked people. 10. Now therefore let me alone, that my wrath may wax hot againſt them, and that I may conſume them: and [k] I will make of thee a great nation.

[e] Deut. ix. 12. [f] Chap. xxxiii. 1. Dan. ix. 14. [g] Deut. xxxii. 5. [h] Ver. 4. 1 Kings xii. 28. [i] Chap. xxxiii. 3. Deut. ix. 6, 13. Iſa. xlviii. 4. [k] Num. xiv. 12.

v. 7—10. God informs Moſes of the people's crime, and hereupon, 1. Haſtens him down to them. Had he left them without God's warrant, he had been chargeable for their rebellion. When miniſters unneceſſarily leave their flocks, or maſters their families, and miſchief enſues, they muſt anſwer it to God. 2. He ſeems to caſt them off, and calls them thy people, as if he diſclaimed any farther relation to them. Sin makes fearful ſeparations between God and the ſoul. 3. He charges them with corrupting themſelves. They had ſolemn warnings to flee idolatry; but they followed the perverſe imaginations of their own hearts. Every ſinner is ſelf-corrupted, and therefore at the laſt day will appear ſelf-condemned. 4. He upbraids their unfaithfulneſs, that they had ſo ſoon turned aſide, after ſuch diſtinguiſhing favours had been ſhewn them, and ſuch ſolemn engagements made by them. To ſin againſt our vows and our mercies is doubly guilty. 5. He tells him of their groſs idolatry, the proof of their utterly abandoned temper. 6. He adds the perverſeneſs he ſaw in them, as a ſtiff-necked people, whom mercies would neither conſtrain, nor terrors over-awe. It is deſperate indeed with the ſoul, when God declares all methods of dealing with it to be vain. 7. He threatens to deſtroy them in his wrath. Who need not tremble for himſelf, when he thinks how often he hath provoked this wrath, which, if it were kindled, yea but for a moment, who may abide it? Laſtly, He ſeems to reſtrain Moſes from interceding for them, and promiſes to raiſe up to him another nation in their ſtead. But one thing could ſave them from immediate ruin, and that was Moſes's prayer; and here was enough, if he was at all ſelf-intereſted, to lead him to abandon them. But the heart that is filled with charity, as Moſes, will ſhew, that he can love his neighbour even as himſelf, and can forego his own intereſt for their good.

11. And [l] Moſes beſought † the LORD his God, and ſaid, LORD, why doth thy wrath wax hot againſt thy people, which thou haſt brought forth out of the land of Egypt, with great power, and with a mighty hand? 12. [m] Wherefore ſhould the Egyptians ſpeak and ſay, For miſchief did he bring them out, to ſlay them in the mountains, and to conſume them from the face of the earth? Turn from thy fierce wrath, and repent of this evil againſt thy people. 13. Remember Abraham, Iſaac, and Iſrael thy ſervants, to whom thou ſwareſt by thine own ſelf, and ſaidſt unto them, [n] I will multiply your ſeed as the ſtars of heaven, and all this land that I have ſpoken of, will I give unto your ſeed, and they ſhall inherit it for ever. 14. And the LORD repented of the evil which he thought to do unto his people.

[l] Deut. ix. 18. Pſ. cvi. 23.
† Heb. The face of the Lord.
[m] Num. xiv. 13. Deut. ix. 28. & xxxii. 27.
[n] Gen. xii. 7. & xiii. 15. & xv. 7, 18. & xxvi. 4. & xxviii. 13. & xlviii. 16.

v. 11—14. We have here the prayer of Moſes, and an effectual fervent prayer it is. God, even in the reſtraint he ſeemed to lay, had given a ground of encouragement, and faith knows how to plead every argument. Though their provocations were great, and God might juſtly conſume them, he begs for mercy, and that God would repent of the evil; that he would change the ſentence he was ready to utter: for which purpoſe he urges,

1. The mercy God had ſhewn them. He had brought them from Egypt, and will he now caſt them off? Paſt mercies received are an encouraging ground to hope ſtill. If God hath pardoned and been gracious to us before, let us not deſpair, but apply to him again, however undeſerving. 2. God's glory was concerned. The Egyptians will triumph in their ruin. It lies near upon the heart of a true believer to hear the heathen blaſpheme; and he wiſhes in himſelf and others, to remove every ſuch occaſion. 3. He produces the promiſe made to their fathers. If they were not ſpared on any other conſideration, yet, for his oath to Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, let them find mercy. God's promiſes are a ſure ground of hope: whilſt we have them to plead, we may draw near, and not deſpair.

Hereupon God is entreated. He ſpares at Moſes's interceſſion. Behold the power of prayer. And ſhall Moſes be heard for the thouſands of Iſrael, and ſhall not Jeſus in heaven ſucceed for the ſinful ſoul? However deſperate our ſtate may appear, we ſhould not utterly abandon ourſelves: whilſt we have ſuch an advocate with the Father, the moſt miſerable may find mercy.

15. ¶ And Moſes turned and went down from the mount, and the two tables of the teſtimony were in his hand: the tables were written on both their ſides: on the one ſide, and on the other were they written. 16. And [o] the tables were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God graven upon the tables. 17. And when Joſhua heard the noiſe of the people as they ſhouted, he ſaid unto Moſes, There is a noiſe of war in the camp. 18. And he ſaid, It is not the voice of them that ſhout for maſtery, neither is it the voice of them that cry for † being overcome: but the noiſe of them that ſing, do I hear.

[o] Chap. xxxi. 18.
† Heb. Weakneſs.

v. 15—18. How often doth the ſinner in fatal ſecurity thus ſing and dance on the brink of the grave, though all God's fiery law is armed againſt him!

Moſes, with the ſacred charge of the tables of the covenant, now deſcends. Joſhua waited for him, and the noiſe in the camp ſoon reaches their ears. Joſhua was a man of war, and conſtrues it the ſound of war; but Moſes knew the cauſe, and theſe ſongs of melody were in his ears jarring diſcord. Shall the praiſes of a golden calf, ſhall the ſongs of the drunkard, and the wanton ſtrains of pleaſure ring ſo loud? and ſhall we be ſilent to, or aſhamed of, the praiſes of our Immanuel? God forbid!

19. ¶ And it came to paſs aſſoon as he came nigh unto the camp, that he ſaw the calf, and the dancing: and Moſes's anger waxed hot, and he caſt the tables out of his hands, and brake them beneath the mount. 20. And [p] he took the calf which they had made, and burnt it in the fire, and ground it to powder, and ſtrawed it upon the water, and made the children of Iſrael drink of it.

[p] Deut. ix. 21.

v. 19, 20. When God's honour is at ſtake, to be lukewarm is to be criminal. Filled with indignation, Moſes beheld the ſhocking ſcene; and though, in his own concerns, the meekeſt of men, now holy anger kindles in his boſom.

1. The ſacred tables he daſhes on the ground. Since they had thus forſaken God's covenant, he would awaken in them a ſenſe of the heinouſneſs of their guilt. The bleſſings God intended them are loſt, and they are left as it were open to every judgment they had provoked. Note, The greateſt curſe that can fall upon any people, is the taking from them the word of God: when that is gone, all is gone.

2. He ſeizes the hateful idol, plucks him from his throne in the midſt of the aſtoniſhed multitude, ſtamps it to powder, and ſprinkling the duſt in the water, makes them drink it, to ſhew them the vanity of their wretched god. Note, The heart which departs from God, drinks in iniquity like water; but in all its draughts of pleaſurable ſin, the curſe, like this duſt, mixes with it, and leaves a miſery behind, which only they who taſte it know.

21. And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, What did this people unto thee, that thou haſt brought ſo great a ſin upon them? 22. And Aaron ſaid, Let not the anger of my lord wax hot: thou knoweſt the people that they are ſet on miſchief. 23. For they ſaid unto me, Make us gods, which ſhall go before us: for as for this Moſes, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him. 24. And I ſaid unto them, Whoſoever hath any gold, let them break it off: So they gave it me: then I caſt it into the fire, and there came out this calf.

v. 21—24. Having executed vengeance on the idol, 1. Moſes ſharply rebukes Aaron. He was firſt in office, and therefore firſt in guilt. The ſins which magiſtrates ſuffer through their connivance, or with their conſent, God will heavily reckon for, when he judgeth. He enquires the cauſe which drew him into it, judging, no doubt, that it muſt have been ſome violent temptation. Thus charitably deſirous was he to cover his brother's tranſgreſſion: not that any force can excuſe us; the greateſt ſuffering is preferable to the leaſt ſin. 2. Aaron's excuſe is frivolous and evaſive. Inſtead of condemning his own ſhameful conduct, he ſeeks to caſt off the load, by turning accuſer againſt the people. When we ſin, like Aaron, how naturally does the devil help us to excuſe ourſelves at the expence of others? He could not deny the calf's being made; but he ſpeaks of it with ſuch prevarication, as if it was merely accidental. So do we all ſeek to cover our ſins, and thus ſhew our folly, as well as our wickedneſs. From God they cannot be concealed. Aaron ſeems to have been more ſollicitous to avert Moſes's anger, than God's diſpleaſure. He begs him not to be wroth, as if it were of importance what man thought of him. But how often does the fear of man thus frighten us, more than all the wrath of an offended God. See the deep unbelief of the heart, when hardened by ſin. Note, Good men may ſometimes fall thus into grievous ſin, and, like Aaron, for a time be unhumbled; but God is merciful, and when we deſerve judgment, he thinketh upon mercy, that he may ſhew us, to our everlaſting wonder and praiſe, that where ſin abounded, grace doth much more abound.

25. ¶ And when Moſes ſaw that the people were [q] naked (for [r] Aaron had made them naked unto their ſhame, amongſt † their enemies). 26. Then Moſes ſtood in the gate of the camp, and ſaid, Who is on the LORD's ſide? let him come unto me. And all the ſons

[q] Chap. xxxiii. 4, 5.
[r] 2 Chron. xxviii. 19.
† Heb. Thoſe that roſe up againſt them.

ſons of Levi gathered themſelves together unto him. 27. And he ſaid unto them, Thus ſaith the LORD God of Iſrael, Put every man his ſword by his ſide, and go in and out from gate to gate throughout the camp, and [s] ſlay every man his brother, and every man his companion, and every man his neighbour. 28. And the children of Levi did according to the word of Moſes: and there fell of the people that day about three thouſand men. 29. [t] ‡ For Moſes had ſaid, ‖ Conſecrate yourſelves to-day to the LORD, even every man § upon his ſon, and upon his brother: that he may beſtow upon you a bleſſing this day.

[s] Num. xxv. 5. Deut. xxxiii. 9.
[t] Deut. xxxiii. 9, 10.
‡ Or, And Moſes ſaid, &c.
‖ Heb. Fill your hands.
§ Or, againſt his ſon.

v. 25—29. Moſes now turns to the people, and not by words, but deeds, teſtifies his indignation.

1. They were become naked, expoſed to God's judgments, and the ſword of their enemies. Sin is the nakedneſs of the ſoul; and if that be not covered by the blood and righteouſneſs of a Redeemer, the ſword of God's wrath will ſurely find us out.

2. Vengeance is executed upon the ringleaders. Moſes ſtands and charges thoſe who are on God's ſide to come to him: the ſons of Levi obey. They gird on their ſwords, paſs, at Moſes's command, through the camp, and conſecrate themſelves to God in the blood of the rebels. Note, (1.) They were on the Lord's ſide, had not joined perhaps with the reſt, or were the firſt to repent of it. We muſt ſide either with God, or with the world and the devil; and it highly concerns us to enquire, whoſe intereſts we ſupport, and whoſe banners we fight under. (2.) They were but few. Comparatively few will the faithful ever be found. (3.) They were fearleſs of danger. They who would miniſter before God in a ſinful world, have need of fortitude. (4.) They met no reſiſtance. Guilt makes men cowards: the very preſence of a godly man ſtrikes an evident awe upon them.

3. Three thouſand fell. The morning opened with ſhouts of joy, the evening cloſed with dying groans. Such changes doth divine judgments ſuddenly make. Tremble, thou joyous ſinner, at that ſword which threatens to deſcend, and turn thy mirth into never-ending miſery.

30. ¶ And it came to paſs on the morrow, that Moſes ſaid unto the people, Ye have ſinned a great ſin: and now I will go up unto the LORD; [u] peradventure I ſhall make an atonement for your ſin. 31. And Moſes returned unto the LORD, and ſaid, Oh this people have ſinned a great ſin, and have made them gods of gold. 32. Yet now, if thou wilt, forgive their ſin: and if not, [x] blot me, I pray thee, out of [y] thy book which thou haſt written. 33. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, [z] Whoſoever hath ſinned againſt me, him will I blot out of my book. 34. Therefore now go, lead the people unto the place of which I have ſpoken unto thee: [a] Behold, mine angel ſhall go before thee: nevertheleſs, [b] in the day when I viſit, I will viſit their ſin upon them. 35. And the LORD plagued the people, becauſe they made the calf which Aaron made.

[u] 2 Sam. xvi. 12. Amos v. 15.
[x] Pſ. lxix. 28. Rom. ix. 3.
[y] Pſ. lvi. 8. & cxxxix. 16. Dan. xii. 1. Phil. iv. 3. Rev. iii. v. & xiii. 8. & xx. 12.
[z] Lev. xxiii. 30. Ezek. xviii. 4.
[a] Chap. xxxiii. 2, 14, &c. Num. xx. 16.
[b] Deut. xxxii. 35.

v. 30—35. It was, no doubt, a melancholy night which Iſrael ſpent. The morning comes, and Moſes goes forth,

1. To admoniſh the people of the greatneſs of their ſin. Though God had not executed vengeance upon all, it was not that they did not all deſerve it. Whether God would ſpare the reſt was yet a peradventure; and therefore it became them to be deeply affected with the ſenſe of their ingratitude, whilſt he offered once more to go up to God, and plead for them. Note, (1.) To affect the conſcience with a ſenſe of ſin, ſhould be the firſt labour of God's miniſters. (2.) The atonement which the Saviour hath made for ſin, ſhews, in the moſt aſtoniſhing view, its evil and malignity. (3.) It is our comfort, that he who is gone up with his own blood to the preſence of God, to make atonement, not only gives us the peradventure of hope, but the aſſurance of promiſe. (4.) It is ſtill our duty to be found waiting upon him in prayer, that we may receive the atonement.

2. He goes up to the mount, and prays. He confeſſes the greatneſs of the crime: for it is not by extenuating, but by acknowledging our guilt, that we may hope for mercy. He begs hard for pardon; but, if he cannot obtain it, he begs to fall with them, rather than ſurvive the afflicting ſcene. Note, The welfare of God's Iſrael is dearer to God's miniſters than every conſideration of their own, yea, even than their own lives: they are ready to lay down that for their ſake.

3. God graciouſly receives his interceſſion, and grants his requeſt, with ſome alarming threatnings however againſt the tranſgreſſors. Death is always the wages of ſin, though not always immediately executed on the ſinner. He may ſpare them for a time, but they ſhall at laſt feel his viſitations. Note, Reprieves are not pardons. He conſents to confirm the promiſed land to them, though, inſtead of his own preſence, they are left under Moſes' guidance, and the guard of an angel: nor do they eſcape even thus: the plague of God is among them, for the calf which Aaron made. The calf was Aaron's infirmity, the preſumptuous ſin was theirs. God knoweth how to diſtinguiſh the aggravations of men's ſins, and will accordingly puniſh with more or fewer ſtripes.

CHAP. XXXIII.

1. Moſes brings a very humbling meſſage from God to them, ver. 1, 2, 3, 5. which has a good effect upon them, ver. 4, 6. 2. A correſpondence reſtored between God and them: God deſcending in a cloudy pillar, and the people worſhipping at the tent-doors, ver. 7—12. 3. Moſes prays, and prevails, 1. For a promiſe of his preſence with the people, ver. 12—17. 2. For a ſight of his glory for himſelf, ver. 18—23.

1. AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Depart, and go up hence, thou and [a] the people which thou haſt brought up out of the land of Egypt, unto the land which I ſware unto Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob, ſaying, [b] Unto thy ſeed will I give it: 2. And [c] I will ſend an angel before thee; and I will drive out the Canaanite, the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, the Hivite, and the Jebuſite: 3. Unto a land flowing with milk and honey: for I will not go up in the midſt of thee, for thou art [d] a ſtiff-necked people: leſt I [e] conſume thee in the way. 4. ¶ And when the people heard theſe evil tidings, they mourned: and [f] no man did put on him his ornaments. 5. For the LORD had ſaid unto Moſes, Say unto the children of Iſrael, Ye are a ſtiff-necked people: I will come up into the midſt of thee in a moment, and conſume thee: therefore now put off thy ornaments from thee, that I may know what to do unto thee.

[a] Chap. xxxii. 7.
[b] Gen. xii. 7. Chap. xxxii. 13.
[c] Chap. xxxii. 34. Deut. vii. 22. Joſh. xxiv. 11.
[d] Chap. xxxii. 9. Deut. ix. 13.
[e] Chap. xxiii. 21.
[f] Iſa. xxxii. 11.

v. 1—5. It was a diſcouraging meſſage Moſes brought them, and beſpoke God's high diſpleaſure againſt them. For, 1. God refuſes to go up with them, and leaves them to Moſes and a miniſtring angel; againſt whom their provocations, though continued, might not be ſo aggravated as againſt himſelf in the midſt of them; for the abuſe of greater privileges brings along with it greater guilt. 2. He reproaches them with their ſtubbornneſs, as a ſtiff-necked people: he knew what was in them. Note, God ſees our hearts, and of all our ſins, is moſt offended with the inbred alienation of our affections from him. 3. He threatens to conſume them, as juſtly he might. It becomes us to know and feel the juſtice of our condemnation, that we may be more affected with the wonders of God's grace in pardoning. 4. He ſtands, as it were, to conſider how to deal with them, and bids them humble themſelves before him: if ſo be, yet he may have mercy on them. God delights not in the death of a ſinner: he ſtays his deſcending arm, and when he ſees us in the duſt, ſtripped of every hope, then he will magnify his grace unto the uttermoſt.

6. And the children of Iſrael ſtript themſelves of their ornaments by the mount Horeb.

v. 6. The people were juſtly confounded at this meſſage: to be forſaken of God, was matter of bitter mourning, and therefore they humble their ſouls, ſtrip off their ornaments, and give every deep expreſſion of a contrite heart. Note (1.) To be forſaken of God, is the heavieſt puniſhment which can fall upon us: if he but withdraw the light of his countenance from his people, they go mourning all the day long. (2.) When ſin is committed, ſorrow and ſhame ſhould cover us; and though tears cannot waſh away our guilt, yet it is in the way of humble abaſement we may expect to hear a meſſage of peace.

7. And Moſes took the tabernacle, and pitched it without the camp, afar off from the camp, and [g] called it the tabernacle of the congregation: and it came to paſs, that every one which ſought the LORD went out unto the tabernacle of the congregation, which was without the camp. 8. And it came to paſs, when Moſes went out unto the tabernacle, that all the people roſe up, and ſtood every man at his tent door, and looked after Moſes, until he was gone into the tabernacle. 9. And it came to paſs as Moſes entered into the tabernacle, the cloudy pillar deſcended, and ſtood at the door of the tabernacle, and the LORD talked with Moſes. 10. And all the people ſaw the cloudy pillar ſtand at the tabernacle door: and all the people roſe up and worſhipped, every man in his tent door. 11. And [h] the LORD ſpake unto Moſes face to face, as a man ſpeaketh unto his [g] Chap. xxix. 42, 43.

[h] Gen. xxxii. 30. Numb. xii. 8. Deut. xxxiv. 10.

Before Chriſt 1491.

his friend. And he turned again into the camp, but his ſervant Joſhua the ſon of Nun, a young man, departed not out of the tabernacle.

v. 7—11. Whilſt matters ſtood thus in ſuſpenſe, God ſeparates himſelf from them. The tabernacle where Moſes, as God's vicegerent, uſed to miniſter juſtice, is removed without the camp, in token that he left them: yet not ſo removed, but they, who were diſpoſed, might follow it. Thither the people, whoſe hearts ſought after God, reſorted; and thither Moſes, as their advocate, went to intercede for them. The people followed him with their eyes, and God's appearance in the cloud, at the door of the tabernacle, beſpoke his returning favour to them, and brought each man on his knees at the door of their tents, to beg that mercy they had ſo juſtly forfeited. God there ſpeaks friendly to Moſes, and he returns to encourage the people, whilſt Joſhua remains before the Lord. Learn, (1.) That the removal of God's ordinances are a great judgment upon any people. (2.) Whilſt there is a praying remnant left, there is hope. (3.) The eye of faith which follows Jeſus into the heavenly tabernacle, keeps the ſoul from ſinking under its fears.

12. ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, See, thou ſayeſt unto me, Bring up this people: and thou haſt not let me know whom thou wilt ſend with me. Yet thou haſt ſaid, [i] I know thee by name, and thou haſt alſo found grace in my ſight. 13. Now therefore I pray thee, if I have found grace in thy ſight, ſhew me now thy way, that I may know thee, that I may find grace in thy ſight: and conſider that this nation is thy people. 14. And he ſaid, [k] My preſence ſhall go with thee, and I will give thee reſt. 15. And he ſaid unto him, [l] If thy preſence go not with me, carry us not up hence. 16. For wherein ſhall it be known here, that I and thy people have found grace in thy ſight? Is it not in that thou goeſt with us? So [m] ſhall we be ſeparated, I and thy people, from all the people that are upon the face of the earth. 17. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, I will do this thing alſo that thou haſt ſpoken: for thou haſt found grace in my ſight, and I know thee by name.

[i] Jer. i. 5.
[k] Iſa. lxiii. 9.
[l] Chap. xxxiv. 9.
[m] Chap. xxxiv. 10.

12—17. Moſes now appears before God, pleading for the people, and prevails. He had gained for them already a reſpite from wrath, but he ſeeks the manifeſtation of his preſence and favour.

1. His prayer. Since it pleaſed God to employ him, he begs his preſence with him: though Iſrael had forfeited all favour, he pleads God's gracious expreſſions to himſelf, and that they may appear in the grant of mercy to the people, at his interceſſion. He deſires the divine guidance, as ſenſible he elſe could never lead them aright; and introduces at laſt their covenant relation to God. Though they were rebellious children, he inſinuates God was a father to them ſtill: nay, he inſiſts upon the impoſſibility of advancing, unleſs God go with them, and rather chuſes to die there, than move without him. He then cloſes with an argument drawn from God's glory, for the ſucceſs of his petition, and if the people were unworthy, or himſelf undeſerving, yet for his own great name's ſake, he pleads for his preſence among them. Learn, (1.) Without Divine guidance, we never could find the way to heaven. (2.) If ever we are led thither, we muſt be indebted to the interceſſion of our dear Redeemer, for whoſe ſake alone God can have any reſpect to us. (3.) God's glory being engaged in the ſalvation of his Redeemed people, we may with confidence caſt ourſelves upon him, who will never leave nor forſake us.

2. God's anſwer. He grants his requeſt, promiſes his preſence, and acknowledges the efficacy of his pleadings. Note, (1.) When Jeſus is our advocate, we are ſure of prevailing: not only guilt will be pardoned, but grace conferred, and glory ſecured to us. (2.) They will never fail of an anſwer of peace, who thus with Moſes, in humble faith and importunity, make their requeſts known unto God.

18. And he ſaid, I beſeech thee, ſhew me thy glory. 19. And he ſaid, [n] I will make all my goodneſs paſs before thee; and I will proclaim the name of the LORD before thee; and will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and [o] will ſhew mercy on whom I will ſhew mercy. 20. And he ſaid, Thou canſt not ſee my face: for [p] there ſhall no man ſee me, and live. 21. And the LORD ſaid, Behold, there is a place by me, and thou ſhalt ſtand upon a rock. 22. And it ſhall come to paſs, while my glory paſſeth by, that I will put thee in a clift of the rock; and will cover thee with my hand while I paſs by. 23. And I will take away mine hand, and thou ſhalt ſee my back-parts: but my face ſhall not be ſeen.

[n] Chap. xxxiv. 5, 6.
[o] Rom. ix. 15.
[p] Gen. xxxii. 30. Deut. v. 24. Judg. xiii. 22. Iſa. vi. 5. Rev. i. 16, 17.

v. 18—23. Mercies received, are an earneſt of greater in ſtore: one prayer anſwered, is the encouragement for renewed ſupplication. Whilſt we are not weary of aſking, God is never weary of granting. Moſes had obtained one favour for the people, now he ſeeks another for himſelf.

1. He begs to ſee God's glory; ſome more eminent diſplay of it than had yet been manifeſted to him. They who have taſted of God's grace, are longing with Moſes to behold God's glory, to ſee him face to face.

2. God is pleaſed to grant him all that can be granted: the full blaze of uncreated glory the angels cannot bear, and much leſs man, who is a worm. But he ſhall ſee as much as he can endure and live. God will make his goodneſs paſs before him, and ſhew him ſome glimpſe of the tranſcendant brightneſs of his train, whilſt hid in the cleft of the rock from the intolerable blaze. Note, (1.) The glory God doth moſt diſplay, is his ſovereign mercy. Let others cavil againſt his diſtinguiſhing grace, and his ſovereignty in the choice of ſinners, but let us admire and adore it. (2.) All our views of God in this world, are poor and imperfect. It is reſerved for the felicity of a better ſtate, to ſee him as he is, and to know even as we are known. (3.) Whoever hopes to come to this beatific viſion, muſt remember that there is no way to enjoy it, but by being found in Chriſt, as Moſes in the cleft of this rock which repreſented him. Lord, I beſeech thee, ſhew me the glory of thy grace, in the face of Jeſus Chriſt on earth, and bring me to behold its moſt reſplendent brightneſs, in thy preſence in heaven!

CHAP. XXXIV

God having in the foregoing chapter intimated to Moſes his reconciliation to Iſrael, here gives proof of it, 1. In the orders he gives to Moſes, to come up to the mount the next morning, and bring two tables of ſtone with him, ver. 1—4. 2. His meeting him there, ver. 6—9. 3. The inſtructions he gave him, ver. 10—28. 4. The honour he put upon him, ver. 29—35. In all which God dealt with Moſes as a public perſon, and mediator between him and Iſrael, and a type of the great mediator.

1. AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, [a] Hew thee two tables of ſtone like unto the firſt: and I will write upon theſe tables the words that were in the firſt tables which thou brakeſt. 2. And be ready in the morning, and come up in the morning unto mount Sinai, and preſent thyſelf there to me, [b] in the top of the mount. 3. And [c] no man ſhall come up with thee, neither let any man be ſeen throughout all the mount: neither let the flocks nor herds feed before that mount. 4. ¶ And he hewed two tables of ſtone, like unto the firſt; and Moſes roſe up early in the morning, and went up unto mount Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him, and took in his hand the two tables of ſtone.

[a] Chap. xxxii. 16, 19. Deut. x. 1.
[b] Chap. xix. 20.
[c] Chap. xix. 12, 13.

v. 1—4. God being reconciled through Moſes' interceſſion, the covenant is renewed.

1. Moſes is commanded to hew new tables for God to write upon, inſtead of thoſe which were broken. Note, (1.) Wherever God through Chriſt is reconciled to a ſoul, there he will a-new engrave on the heart the law which ſin had utterly defaced. Though it is not our covenant of life, it muſt become our rule of conduct; and we ſhall be under a dangerous deluſion, if we promiſe ourſelves peace with God, and live in the allowed tranſgreſſion of his commandments. (2.) Whatever pains miniſters may take to hew the table of the heart, it is God alone can write his law there. We cannot aſcribe too little to man in our converſion, nor too much to God.

2. He goes up without delay into the mount of God, whilſt the people with fear and trembling, ſtand at a diſtance, and are left to lament for a ſeaſon their late rebellion againſt God. Note, (1.) We can never be in too great haſte to make up the breaches between God and our ſouls. (2.) Though God forgives our ſins, we ought to remember, and in duſt and aſhes repent of them.

5. And the LORD deſcended in the cloud, and ſtood with him there, and [d] proclaimed the name of the LORD. 6. And the LORD paſſed by before him, and proclaimed, The LORD, The LORD [e] God, merciful and gracious, long-ſuffering, and abundant in goodneſs and truth, 7. [f] Keeping mercy for thouſands, forgiving iniquity, and tranſgreſſion and ſin, and [g] that will by no means clear the guilty; viſiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, and upon the children's children, unto the third and to the fourth generation.

[d] Chap. xxxiii. 19.
[e] Num. xiv. 18.
[f] Chap. xx. 6. Deut. 5. 10. Pſal. lxxxvi. 15. Jer. xxxii. 18.
[g] Chap. xxiii. 7, 21. Joſh. xxiv. 19. Job x. 14. Mic. vi. 11. Nah. i. 3.

v. 5—7. Moſes is now, at the Divine command, gone up to meet God, and he condeſcends to manifeſt his glory in the cloudy pillar, and proclaims thoſe adorable perfections which are

Before Chriſt 1491.

are not only the hope of Iſrael, but of all the ends of the earth. May we ſeriouſly conſider this glorious character, and be duly affected with the proclamation before us.

The Lord, the Lord God, the Self-exiſtent, and the Almighty, whoſe power is able to the uttermoſt to ſave or to deſtroy, and good as he is great, delighting in the darling attribute of mercy. Merciful and gracious, full of ſuch bowels of compaſſion, as even fathers never knew, and freely diſpenſing his grace without reſpect to our deſerts; yea, making the moſt tranſcendent diſplays of it to the moſt undeſerving. Long-ſuffering, though our provocations be numberleſs, and our ſins repeated and aggravated, yet his patience is not tired, nor his offers of pardon withheld. Abundant in goodneſs and truth; like a mighty river are the ſtreams of his grace, ever flowing, and overflowing: and in his promiſes pledging his word, yea his oath, for the fulfillment of his moſt extenſive engagements of mercy: Yea, keeping mercy for thouſands, inexhauſtible the ſource, and endleſs the current; the greatneſs of the number who ſhare it, does not in the leaſt diminiſh the fulneſs of mercy in him, and it runs parallel with the days of eternity. Forgiving iniquity, tranſgreſſion and ſin, ſo that we may never be afraid to return, after our longeſt or deepeſt falls, ſince He is the ſame yeſterday, to-day, and for ever, and ſaves to the uttermoſt. But remember withal, he is as juſt as he is merciful; as incapable of clearing the impenitent as of rejecting thoſe who return to him; and therefore He executes vengeance on his enemies, viſiting their iniquity upon children's children. How then ſhould we fear, how ſhould we love this great and gracious and holy Lord God?

8. And Moſes made haſte, and bowed his head toward the earth, and worſhipped. 9. And he ſaid, If now I have found grace in thy ſight, O LORD, [h] let my LORD, I pray thee, go amongſt us (for it is a ſtiff-necked people) and pardon our iniquity and our ſin, and take us for thine inheritance.

[h] Chap. xxxiii. 15.

v. 8, 9. Moſes receives this proclamation with reverence, thankfulneſs, and ſubmiſſion; and having ſuch grounds, improves them into a prayer for the pardon of Iſrael, and God's preſence among them. The more ſtiff-necked they had been, the more God's patience and power to bear with and convert them, was needful. Note, (1.) The ground of all prayer is the promiſes of God. (2.) We have need continually to be crying for pardon of ſin, becauſe we continually need it. (3.) They who have found favour for their own ſouls, ought never to forget their ſtiff-necked neighbours.

10. ¶ And he ſaid, Behold, [i] I make a covenant: before all thy people I will do marvels, ſuch as have not been done in all the earth, nor in any nation: and all the people amongſt which thou art, ſhall ſee the work of the LORD: for it is a terrible thing that I will do with thee. 11. Obſerve thou that which I command thee this day: Behold, I drive out before thee the Amorite, and the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Hivite, and the Jebuſite. 12. [k] Take heed to thyſelf, leſt thou make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land whither thou goeſt, leſt it be for a ſnare in the midſt of thee. 13. But ye ſhall deſtroy their altars, [l] break their † images, and [m] cut down their groves. 14. For thou ſhalt worſhip no other God: for the LORD, whoſe name is Jealous, is [n] a jealous God: 15. Leſt thou make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land, and they go a whoring after their gods, and do ſacrifice unto their gods, and one call thee, and thou eat of his ſacrifice. 16. And [o] thou take of their daughters unto thy ſons, and their daughters [p] go a whoring after their gods, and make thy ſons go a whoring after their gods. 17. [q] Thou ſhalt make thee no molten gods.

[i] Deut. v. 2.
[k] Chap. xxiii. 32. Deut. vii. 2.
[l] Chap. xxiii. 24. Deut. xii. 3.
† Heb. Statues.
[m] Judg. vi. 25. 2 Kings xviii. 4. & xxiii. 14. 1 Chron. xxxi. 1. & xxxiv. 3.
[n] Chap. xx. 5.
[o] 1 Kings xi. 2. Neh. xiii. 25.
[p] Num. xxv. 1, 2.
[q] Chap. xxxii. 8.

v. 10—17. God graciouſly anſwers Moſes in the renewal of his covenant with them; and an aſtoniſhing inſtance of his mercy it was.

1. He promiſes to go with them, to work his miracles in the midſt of them for their comfort, and for the terror of their enemies; and to bring them into the promiſed land. Note, It is a marvellous thing how any ſoul gets ſafe to heaven, and we ſhall be a wonder to ourſelves when we come thither.

2. He ſolemnly enjoins them to beware of Idolatry, leaſt his jealouſy again ſhould be awakened, and burn like fire againſt them. They muſt take care of every occaſion which might lead them aſide. They muſt not only worſhip no other God, nor make any image to repreſent himſelf, but they muſt deſtroy every monument of idolatry, and utterly avoid every connection with thoſe nations who might enſnare them. Learn, (1.) The great danger of being unequally yoked with unbelievers; they will more eaſily ſucceed to turn us aſide from God, than we ſhall to turn them to him. (2.) The neceſſity of removing from us whatever may be a ſnare to us, and particularly of avoiding every occaſion which would ſtir up our eaſily beſetting ſin.

Before Chriſt 1491.

18. ¶ [r] The feaſt of unleavened bread ſhalt thou keep: Seven days ſhalt thou eat unleavened bread, as I commanded thee, in the time of the month Abib: for [s] in the month Abib thou cameſt out from Egypt. 19. [t] All that openeth the matrix is mine: and every firſtling among thy cattle, whether ox or ſheep, that is male. 20. But [u] the firſtling of an aſs thou ſhalt redeem with a † lamb: and if thou redeem him not, then ſhalt thou break his neck. All the firſt-born of thy ſons thou ſhalt redeem: and [x] none ſhall appear before me empty. 21. ¶ [y] Six days thou ſhalt work, but on the ſeventh day thou ſhalt reſt: in earing time and in harveſt thou ſhalt reſt. 22. ¶ And [z] thou ſhalt obſerve the feaſt of weeks, of the firſt-fruits of wheat-harveſt, and the feaſt of in-gathering at the ‡ year's end. 23. ¶ [a] Thrice in the year ſhall all your men-children appear before the Lord GOD, the God of Iſrael. 24. For I will caſt out the nations before thee, and enlarge thy borders: [b] neither ſhall any man deſire thy land, when thou ſhalt go up to appear before the LORD thy God, thrice in the year. 25. [c] Thou ſhalt not offer the blood of my ſacrifice with leaven, [d] neither ſhall the ſacrifice of the feaſt of paſſover be left unto the morning. 26. [e] The firſt of the firſt-fruits of thy land, thou ſhalt bring unto the houſe of the LORD thy God. [f] Thou ſhalt not ſeethe a kid in his mother's milk.

[r] Chap. xii. 15. & xxiii. 15.
[s] Chap. xiii. 4.
[t] Chap. xiii. 2, 13. & xxii. 29. Ezek. xliv. 30. Luke ii. 23.
[u] Num. xviii. 15.
† Or kid.
[x] Chap. xxiii. 15. Deut. xvi. 16. 1 Sam. ix. 7, 8. 2 Sam. xxiv. 24.
[y] Chap. xxiii. 12. Deut. v. 12. Luke xiii. 14.
[z] Chap. xxiii. 16.
‡ Heb. Revolution of the year.
[a] Chap. xxiii. 14, 17. Deut. xvi. 16.
[b] See Gen. xxxv. 5. 2 Chron. xvii. 10. Acts xviii. 10.
[c] Chap. xxiii. 18.
[d] Chap. xii. 10.
[e] Chap. xxiii. 19. Deut. xxvi. 2.
[f] Chap. xxiii. 19. Deut. xiv. 21.

18—27. We have here a repetition of ſundry laws, which had been before enjoined, relating to the ſabbath and the three ſolemn feaſts; and a particular promiſe is added, that during their abſence from home, none ſhould deſire their cities and land then defenceleſs: God will not only bind up the hands, but the hearts of their enemies. Note, (1.) When God calls, we may ſafely leave our all in his hands. (2.) Every man is under the reſtraint of a ſuperior hand; even the wicked are confined in bounds they cannot paſs over. (3.) God's ſervice is a ſervice of great gladneſs; they who are faithful in it, find that therein only, true joy is to be found.

27. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, [g] Write thou theſe words: for after the tenour of theſe words, I have made a covenant with thee and with Iſrael.

[g] Deut. iv. 13.

v. 27. What was before ſpoken, is now committed to writing; and abundant cauſe have we to bleſs God, that His word is thus tranſmitted to us, and not left to oral tradition. A covenant is entered into between God and Moſes, in behalf of the people of Iſrael: thus peace is re-eſtabliſhed, and Moſes' mediation effectual. As we have a greater mediator than Moſes, we have alſo a part in a better covenant, eſtabliſhed on better promiſes, and ſecured by a better title than our own obedience, even by the finiſhed righteouſneſs of our Divine Lord.

28. And [h] he was there with the LORD forty days and forty nights: he did neither eat bread, nor drink water: and [i] he wrote upon the tables the words of the covenant, the ten † commandments. 29. ¶ And it came to paſs, when Moſes came down from mount Sinai (with the two tables of teſtimony in Moſes' hand, when he came down from the mount) that Moſes wiſt not that [k] the ſkin of his face ſhone while he talked with him. 30. And when Aaron and all the children of Iſrael ſaw Moſes, behold, the ſkin of his face ſhone, and they were afraid to come nigh him. 31. And Moſes called unto them; and Aaron and all the rulers of the congregation returned unto him: and Moſes talked with them. 32. And afterward all the children of Iſrael came nigh: and he gave them in commandment all that the LORD had ſpoken with him in mount Sinai. 33. And till Moſes had done ſpeaking with them, [l] he put a vail on his face. 34. But when Moſes went in before the LORD to ſpeak with him, he took the vail off, until he came out. And he came out, and ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, that which he was commanded. 35. And the children of Iſrael ſaw the face of Moſes, that the ſkin of Moſes' face ſhone: and Moſes put the vail upon his face again until he went in to ſpeak with him.

[h] Chap. xxiv. 18. Deut. ix. 9, 18.
[i] Chap. xxxi. 18. & xxxiv. 1. Deut. iv. 13. & x. 2, 4.
† Heb. Words.
[k] 2 Cor. iii. 7, 13.
[l] 2 Cor. iii. 13.

v. 28—35. Moſes now ſpends another forty days with God, nor needed other refreſhment than what was drawn from the preſence of, and communion with the fountain of his life: no doubt he could ſay, It is good to be here. They who know the bleſſing of communion with God, will never count the time long they ſpend with him, but for the ſake of it, will ſometimes chuſe to rob their bodies of the refreſhments of meat and ſleep. His work being finiſhed,

1. He deſcends with the tables in his hand, and his countenance bearing a divine impreſſion of the glory he had beheld. Thus God put upon him a diſtinguiſhing badge of honour: they who converſe often with God, carry the impreſſion on their countenances, and ſhew it in their converſation. A real chriſtian may be known by the brightneſs and glory of his daily walk, ſhining as a light in a dark world.

2. He knew not that ſuch a glory was upon him, but the people were ſtruck, and terrified with it. Note, (1.) The ſaint that is moſt diſtinguiſhed with God's gifts and graces, will have the lowlieſt opinion of himſelf, and be leaſt conſcious of his own excellences. (2.) Others often ſee more of true grace in us, than we can ſee in ourſelves; jealouſy over our hearts leading us to doubt the mercy we have found. (3.) Guilt makes us afraid even of our beſt friends, when ſent with meſſages of kindneſs to us, from the conſciouſneſs of our own deſerts.

3. He veiled his face before the people, that they might talk with him, but when he appeared before the Lord, he uncovered himſelf: true humility will lead us rather to conceal, than make a ſhew of our excellences; and as miniſters, rather ſeek to be uſeful, than to be admired. The vail on Moſes' face was an emblem of the darkneſs of that diſpenſation. In Chriſt, that vail is done away: only there is the vail of ſenſe ſtill around us; but when death takes away this body of fleſh, then, and not till then, ſhall we with open face behold the glory of the Lord.

CHAP. XXXV.

1. Moſes gives Iſrael thoſe inſtructions he had received, (1.) Concerning the ſabbath, ver. 1, 2, 3. (2.) Concerning the contribution for the erecting of the tabernacle, ver. 4—9. (3.) Concerning the framing of the tabernacle, and the utenſils of it, ver. 10—19. 2. The people bring in their contributions, ver. 20—29. 3. The head-workmen are appointed, ver. 30—35.

1. AND Moſes gathered all the congregation of the children of Iſrael together, and ſaid unto them, Theſe are the words which the LORD hath commanded, that ye ſhould do them. 2. [a] Six days ſhall work be done, but on the ſeventh day there ſhall be to you † an holy day, a ſabbath of reſt to the LORD: whoſoever doth work therein, ſhall be put to death. 3. [b] Ye ſhall kindle no fire throughout your habitations upon the ſabbath day. 4. ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This is the thing which the LORD commanded, ſaying, 5. Take ye from amongſt you an offering unto the LORD: [c] Whoſoever is of a willing heart, let him bring it, an offering of the LORD; gold, and ſilver, and braſs, 6. And blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine linen, and goat's hair, 7. And rams ſkins dyed red, and badgers ſkins, and ſhittim-wood, 8. And oil for the light, and [d] ſpices for anointing oil, and for the ſweet incenſe, 9. And onyx-ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet, for the ephod, and for the breaſt-plate. 10. And [e] every wiſe-hearted among you ſhall come and make all that the LORD hath commanded; 11. [f] The tabernacle, his tent, and his covering, his taches, and his boards, his bars, his pillars, and his ſockets, 12. The ark and the ſtaves thereof, with the mercy-ſeat, and the vail of the covering, 13. The table and his ſtaves, and all his veſſels, and [g] the ſhew-bread, 14. The candleſtick alſo for the light, and his furniture, and his lamps, with the oil for the light, 15. And [h] the incenſe altar, and his ſtaves, and the anointing oil, and the ſweet incenſe, and the hanging for the door at the entring in of the tabernacle, 16. [i] The altar of burnt-offering with his brazen grate, his ſtaves, and all his veſſels, the laver and his foot, 17. The hangings of the court, his pillars, and their ſockets, and the hanging for the door of the court, 18. The pins of the tabernacle, and the pins of the court, and their cords, 19. The clothes of ſervice, to do ſervice in the holy place, the holy garments for Aaron the prieſt, and the garments of his ſons to miniſter in the prieſt's office.

[a] Chap. xx. 9 & xxxi. 14, 15. Lev. xxiii. 3. Deut. v. 12. Luke xiii. 14.

† Heb. Holineſs.

[b] Chap. xvi. 23.

[c] Chap. xxv. 2.

[d] Ibid. 6.

[e] Chap. xxxi. 6.

[f] Chap. xxvi. 1, &c.

[g] Chap. xxv. 30.

[h] Chap. xxx. 1.

[i] Chap. xxvii. 1.

v. 1—19. God now condeſcending to dwell among them, the tabernacle is to be erected. Moſes delivers all his orders, and is particular on this head; with all convenient ſpeed they muſt begin, yet though the work be urgent, the ſabbath muſt not be infringed, on pain of death: they may not ſo much as kindle a fire for any ſervile work. The ſabbath is a day of ſacred reſt, and to be employed wholly with and for God. The tabernacle is to be built by voluntary contribution; God will be ſerved, not by force, but by choice; and they who love the God of the tabernacle will delight to honour him with their beſt, and be happy to employ their wealth to ſo bleſſed a purpoſe. He hath no part among the true Iſrael, who hath a niggard heart in God's ſervice. The wiſeſt muſt be ſelected; it is not every man is fit for tabernacle work. It is the ſhame of many, that when their children are fit for nothing elſe, they thruſt them into the miniſtry, and count that ſhining talents ſhould have a more gainful employment. But ſurely the greateſt parts, and moſt diſtinguiſhed abilities, can never be ſo becomingly employed, as in the immediate ſervice of God's church and kingdom.

20. ¶ And all the congregation of the children of Iſrael departed from the preſence of Moſes. 21. And they came every one whoſe heart ſtirred him up, and every one whom his ſpirit made willing, and they brought the LORD's offering to the work of the tabernacle of the congregation, and for all his ſervice, and for the holy garments. 22. And they came both men and women, as many as were willing-hearted, and brought bracelets, and ear-rings, and rings, and tablets, all jewels of gold: and every man that offered, offered an offering of gold unto the LORD. 23. And every man with whom was found blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine linen, and goat's hair, and red ſkins of rams, and badgers ſkins, brought them. 24. Every one that did offer an offering of ſilver and braſs, brought the LORD's offering: and every man with whom was found ſhittim-wood for any work of the ſervice, brought it. 25. And all the women that were wiſe-hearted, did ſpin with their hands, and brought that which they had ſpun, both of blue, and of purple, and of ſcarlet, and of fine linen. 26. And all the women whoſe hearts ſtirred them up in wiſdom, ſpun goats hair. 27. And the rulers brought onyx-ſtones, and ſtones to be ſet, for the ephod, and for the breaſt-plate: 28. And [k] ſpice and oil for the light, and for the anointing oil, and for the ſweet incenſe. 29. The children of Iſrael brought a willing offering unto the LORD; every man and woman, whoſe heart made them willing to bring for all manner of work, which the LORD had commanded to be made, by the hand of Moſes.

[k] Chap. xxx. 23.

v. 20—29. Their ſwift obedience to the command, was a bleſſed proof of the ſincerity of the repentance they had profeſſed. They no ſooner hear, than they obey; delays in duty are dangerous; what we do, we muſt do quickly: their heart was willing, and therefore their hands were open: a genuine principle of love makes a chearful giver. The richeſt jewels are brought in, for they who have taſted of God's grace, think they can never enough teſtify their gratitude to him; it was not indeed in every man's power to bring gold or diamonds, but if it was a ſheep's ſkin, or goat's hair, it was accepted: not the greatneſs of the gift, ſo much as the temper of the giver, is precious in God's ſight. The idol calf had robbed them of much; it is a ſhame to reflect how much we have ſpent upon our ſins: yet the ſpoils of Egypt abundantly ſupplied them; they had better have left behind the gold indeed, than made a god of it: but now they have an opportunity of employing even the unrighteous mammon, in the ſervice of the living God. Whilſt ſome are opening their ſtores, others are at work with their hands; every man has ſomething he can do for God and and his neighbour; and we ſhould remember, that a thread ſpun for the tabernacle, or two mites caſt into the treaſury of God, will prove more durable riches, than if we could fill our coffers with diamonds, or adorn our own houſes with tapeſtry of gold.

30. ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, See, [l] the LORD hath called by name Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, of the tribe of Judah: 31. And he hath filled him with the Spirit of God, in wiſdom, in underſtanding, and in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanſhip; 32. And to deviſe curious works, to work in gold, and in ſilver, and in braſs, 33. And in the cutting of ſtones to ſet them, and in carving of wood to make any manner of cunning work. 34. And he hath put in his heart that he may teach, both he and

[l] Chap. xxxi. 2.

Before Christ 1491.

Aholiab the ſon of Ahiſamach, of the tribe of Dan. 35. Them hath he filled with wiſdom of heart, to work all manner of work, of the engraver, and of the cunning workman, and of the embroiderer, in blue, and in purple, in ſcarlet, and in fine linen, and of the weaver, even of them that do any work, and of thoſe that deviſe cunning work.

v. 30—35. The workmen are now appointed according to the Divine choice, and qualified for their work: wiſe to contrive, diligent to execute, and able to teach others alſo. Note, (1.) In the church of God, they who are diſtinguiſhed in ſtation, ſhould be more diſtinguiſhed for abilities, zeal, and labour. (2.) Whoever are truly called to the work of the miniſtry, God will give them the ſpirit of wiſdom and underſtanding, to know how rightly to divide the word of truth. (3.) Whatever learning or abilities we are poſſeſſed of, if there be not a communication of them for the inſtruction of others, they become as uſeleſs, as the candle under a buſhel.

CHAP. XXXVI.

In this chapter, 1. The work of the tabernacle is begun, ver. 1—4. 2. A ſtop put to the people's contributions, ver. 5—7. 3. A particular account is given of the making of the tabernacle itſelf; the fine curtains, ver. 8—13. The coarſe ones, ver. 14—19. The boards, ver. 20—30. The bars, ver. 31—34. The partition vail, ver. 35, 36. and the hanging for the door, ver. 37, 38.

1490. 1. THEN wrought Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every wiſe-hearted man, in whom the LORD put wiſdom and underſtanding, to know how to work all manner of work for the ſervice of the ſanctuary, according to all that the LORD had commanded. 2. And Moſes called Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every wiſe-hearted man, in whoſe heart the LORD had put wiſdom, even every one whoſe heart ſtirred him up to come unto the work to do it. 3. And they received of Moſes all the offering which the children of Iſrael had brought for the work of the ſervice of the ſanctuary, to make it withal. And they brought yet unto him free offerings every morning. 4. And all the wiſe men that wrought all the work of the ſanctuary, came every man from his work which they made. 5. ¶ And they ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, The people bring much more than enough for the ſervice of the work which the LORD commanded to make. 6. And Moſes gave commandment, and they cauſed it to be proclaimed throughout the camp, ſaying, Let neither man nor woman make any more work for the offering of the ſanctuary. So the people were reſtrained from bringing. 7. For the ſtuff they had was ſufficient for all the work to make it, and too much.

v. 1—7. The appointment is no ſooner made, than the workmen begin. They are pleaſed with the employment, and that makes the toil a pleaſure. Note, To ſpend, and be ſpent in the ſervice of God and immortal ſouls, is the happineſs of the faithful labourer: whilſt to be forced to miniſter in holy things, without any reliſh for, or rather with a loathing of the work, is ſurely the moſt wretched drudgery that can be conceived.

There was no want of materials. Every morning the people liberally continued to increaſe the ſtock, and now there was abundance, the honeſt workmen ſay there is enough, and Moſes ſtays the people from farther contributions. Note, (1.) The great honeſty of theſe workmen: they were not like thoſe privileged robbers, who fleece the church or ſtate, and whilſt they pretend to ſerve the public, mean only their own baſe ends and intereſts, and think they never have enough; no, they wanted not to enrich themſelves, but to be faithful to their truſt. (2.) The reſtraint laid on the people: their hands were open, becauſe their hearts were engaged: They think they can never do enough for God and his ſervice, who hath done ſo much for them. But alas, how are times changed! few now a-days need a bridle, many a ſpur.

8. ¶ And [a] every wiſe-hearted man, among them that wrought the work of the tabernacle, made ten curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet: with cherubims of cunning work made he them. 9. The length of one curtain was twenty and eight cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits: the curtains were all of one ſize. 10. And he coupled the five curtains one unto another: and the other five curtains he coupled one unto another. 11. And he made loops of blue on the edge of one curtain, from the ſelvedge in the coupling: likewiſe he made in the uttermoſt ſide of another curtain, in the coupling of the ſecond. 12. [b] Fifty loops made he in one curtain, and fifty loops made he in the edge of the curtain which was in the coupling of the ſecond: the loops held one curtain to another. 13. And he made fifty taches of gold, and coupled the curtains one unto another with the taches. So it became one tabernacle. 14. ¶ And he made curtains of goat's hair, for the tent over the tabernacle: eleven curtains he made them. 15. The length of one curtain was thirty cubits, and four cubits was the breadth of one curtain: the eleven curtains were of one ſize. 16. And he coupled five curtains by themſelves, and ſix curtains by themſelves. 17. And he made fifty loops upon the uttermoſt edge of the curtain in the coupling, and fifty loops made he upon the edge of the curtain, which coupleth the ſecond. 18. And he made fifty taches of braſs to couple the tent together, that it might be one. 19. And he made a covering for the tent, of rams ſkins dyed red, and a covering of badgers ſkins above that. 20. ¶ And he made boards for the tabernacle, of ſhittim-wood, ſtanding up. 21. The length of a board was ten cubits, and the breadth of a board one cubit and a half. 22. One board had two tenons, equally diſtant one from another: thus did he make for all the boards of the tabernacle. 23. And he made boards for the tabernacle: twenty boards for the ſouth-ſide, ſouthward. 24. And forty ſockets of ſilver he made under the twenty boards: two ſockets under one board for his two tenons, and two ſockets under another board for his two tenons. 25. And for the other ſide of the tabernacle which is toward the north corner, he made twenty boards, 26. And their forty ſockets of ſilver: two ſockets under one board, and two ſockets under another board. 27. And for the ſides of the tabernacle weſtward, he made ſix boards. 28. And two boards made he for the corners of the tabernacle in the two ſides. 29. And they were † coupled beneath, and coupled together at the head thereof, to one ring: thus he did to both of them in both the corners. 30. And there were eight boards, and their ſockets were ſixteen ſockets of ſilver, ‡ under every board two ſockets. 31. ¶ And he made [c] bars of ſhittim-wood: five for the boards of the one ſide of the tabernacle, 32. And five bars for the boards of the other ſide of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the tabernacle for the ſides weſtward. 33. And he made the middle bar to ſhoot through the boards from the one end to the other. 34. And he overlaid the boards with gold, and made their rings of gold to be places for the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold. 35. ¶ And he made [d] a vail of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twiſted linen: with cherubims made he it of cunning work. 36. And he made thereunto four pillars of ſhittim-wood, and overlaid them with gold: their hooks were of gold, and he caſt for them four ſockets of ſilver. 37. ¶ And he made [e] an hanging for the tabernacle door, of blue and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen, † of needle-work. 38. And the five pillars of it with their hooks: and he overlaid their chapiters, and their fillets with gold: but their five ſockets were of braſs.

Before Christ 1490.

[a] Chap. xxvi. 3, 4. & xxxi. 6. & xxxv. 10.

[b] Chap. xxvi. 10.

† Heb. Twined.

‡ Heb. Two ſockets under one board.

[c] Chap. xxv. 28. & xxx. 5.

[d] Chap. xxvi. 31.

[e] Ibid. 36.

† Heb. The work of the needle-worker or embroiderer.

v. 8—38. We have here,

1. The tabernacle compleated, v. 8—13. The inſide is finiſhed firſt. Note, Our firſt care muſt be about the hidden man of the heart.

2. The coverings are prepared to guard it from the injuries of the weather. They who dwell under the ſhadow of Jeſus, the true tabernacle, have ſuch a covert, that no ſtorms of wrath, nor blaſts of temptation, will ever be able to hurt them.

3. The two vails are hung on their pillars, to ſeparate the holieſt of all from the holy place, and the firſt tabernacle from the court of the congregation. The people then might not draw near; but now by the body of Jeſus, the vail is rent from the top to the bottom, and every worſhipper may approach with boldneſs the mercy-ſeat.

CHAP. XXXVII.

1. The ark finiſhed with the mercy-ſeat and the cherubims, ver. 1—9. 2. The table with its veſſels, ver. 10—16. 3. The candleſtick with its appurtenances, ver. 17—24. 4. The golden altar for incenſe, ver. 25—28. 5. The holy oil and incenſe, ver. 29.

1. AND

Before Chriſt 1490.

a Chap. xxv. 10.

1. AND Bezaleel [a] made the ark of ſhittim-wood: two cubits and a half was the length of it, and a cubit and a half the breadth of it, and a cubit and a half the height of it. 2. And he overlaid it with pure gold within and without, and made a crown of gold to it round about. 3. And he caſt for it four rings of gold, to be ſet by the four corners of it: even two rings upon the one ſide of it, and two rings upon the other ſide of it. 4. And he made ſtaves of ſhittim wood, and overlaid them with gold. 5. And he put the ſtaves into the rings, by the ſides of the ark, to bear the ark. 6. ¶ And he [b] made the mercy-ſeat of pure gold: two cubits and an half was the length thereof, and one cubit and an half the breadth thereof. 7. And he made two cherubims of gold, beaten out of one piece made he them, on the two ends of the mercy-ſeat. 8. One cherub † on the end on this ſide, and another cherub on the other end on that ſide: out of the mercy-ſeat made he the cherubims on the two ends thereof. 9. And the cherubims ſpread out their wings on high, and covered with their wings over the mercy-ſeat, with their faces one to another; even to the mercy-ſeat-ward were the faces of the cherubims.

b Chap. xxv. 17.

† Or out of, &c.

v. 1—9. In God's work, great exactneſs is needful; we muſt follow his written word, neither adding thereto, nor diminiſhing therefrom: thus did Moſes.

The furniture of the moſt holy place is finiſhed: the ark, the cherubims, and mercy-ſeat; theſe are inſeparable. Note, Where Jeſus, the true mercy-ſeat, is in our hearts, there ſhall we ſee the favourable countenance of God over us, and within us the deep engravings of his holy mind and will.

c Chap. xxv. 23.

10. ¶ And he [c] made the table of ſhittim-wood: two cubits was the length thereof, and a cubit the breadth thereof, and a cubit and a half the height thereof. 11. And he overlaid it with pure gold, and made thereunto a crown of gold round about. 12. Alſo he made thereunto a border of an hand-breadth, round about: and made a crown of gold for the border thereof round about. 13. And he caſt for it four rings of gold, and put the rings upon the four corners that were in the four feet thereof. 14. Over againſt the border were the rings, the places for the ſtaves, to bear the table. 15. And he made the ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlaid them with gold to bear the table. 16. And he made the veſſels which were upon the table, his [d] diſhes and his ſpoons, and his bowls, and his covers † to cover withal, of pure gold.

d Ibid. 29.

† Or to pour out withal.

10—16. God's table and its veſſels were rich with gold, but the proviſion which was placed upon it, was far more precious. The gold might decay, and its beauty be tarniſhed, but the ſoul that feeds upon Chriſt, that living bread, which the loaves there placed repreſented, ſhall outlive that gold in duration, outſhine it in luſtre, and outweigh it in excellence.

e Chap. xxv. 31.

17. ¶ And he [e] made the candleſtick of pure gold: of beaten work made he the candleſtick, his ſhaft and his branch, his bowls, his knops, and his flowers were of the ſame. 18. And ſix branches going out of the ſides thereof: three branches of the candleſtick out of the one ſide thereof, and three branches of the candleſtick out of the other ſide thereof. 19. Three bowls made after the faſhion of almonds, in one branch, a knop and a flower; and three bowls made like almonds, in another branch, a knop and a flower: ſo throughout the ſix branches, going out of the candleſtick. 20. And in the candleſtick were four bowls made like almonds, his knops and his flowers. 21. And a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, and a knop under two branches of the ſame, according to the ſix branches going out of it. 22. Their knops and their branches were of the ſame: all of it was one beaten work of pure gold. 23. And he made his ſeven lamps, and his ſnuffers, and his ſnuff-diſhes, of pure gold. 24. Of a talent of pure gold made he it, and all the veſſels thereof.

17—24. The word of God is this golden candleſtick, pure in itſelf, without alloy, and ſerving to enlighten us for all the ſpiritual ſervices whereunto we are conſecrated. May we know how to value the ineſtimable bleſſing, and never provoke God to remove his bleſſed and holy word from us, by our ſins againſt the light of it.

Before Chriſt 1490.

f Chap. xxx. 1.

25. ¶ And he [f] made the incenſe-altar of ſhittim-wood: the length of it was a cubit, and the breadth of it a cubit (it was four-ſquare), and two cubits was the height of it; the horns thereof were of the ſame. 26. And he overlaid it with pure gold, both the top of it, and the ſides thereof round about, and the horns of it: alſo he made unto it a crown of gold round about. 27. And he made two rings of gold for it, under the crown thereof, by the two corners of it, upon the two ſides thereof, to be places for the ſtaves to bear it withal. 28. And he made the ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and overlaid them with gold. 29. ¶ And he made [g] the holy anointing oil, and the pure incenſe of ſweet ſpices, according to the work of the apothecary.

g Chap. xxx. 23, 35.

v. 25—29. Jeſus is our altar, offered on whom our prayers and praiſes become a ſweet ſmelling ſavour. The incenſe was a compound; confeſſion, ſupplication, interceſſion, thankſgiving are the ſeveral ingredients, kindled by the holy fire of love in the centre of the heart.

CHAP. XXXVIII.

Here is an account, 1. Of the making of the brazen altar, ver. 1—7. and the laver, ver. 8. 2. The preparing of the hangings for the incloſing of the court in which the tabernacle was to ſtand, ver. 9—20. 3. A ſummary account of the gold, ſilver, and braſs, that was contributed to, and uſed in the preparing of the tabernacle, ver. 21—31.

a Chap. xxvii. 1.

1. AND he [a] made the altar of burnt-offering of ſhittim-wood: five cubits was the length thereof, and five cubits the breadth thereof, (it was four-ſquare) and three cubits the height thereof. 2. And he made the horns thereof on the four corners of it: the horns thereof were of the ſame, and he overlaid it with braſs. 3. And he made all the veſſels of the altar, the pots, and the ſhovels, and the baſons, and the fleſh-hooks, and the fire-pans: all the veſſels thereof made he of braſs. 4. And he made for the altar a brazen grate of net-work, under the compaſs thereof, beneath unto the midſt of it. 5. And he caſt four rings for the four ends of the grate of braſs, to be places for the ſtaves. 6. And he made the ſtaves of ſhittim-wood, and over-laid them with braſs. 7. And he put the ſtaves into the rings on the ſides of the altar, to bear it withal; he made the altar hollow with boards. 8. ¶ And he [b] made the laver of braſs, and the foot of it of braſs, of the † looking-glaſſes of the women ‡ aſſembling, which aſſembled at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation.

b Chap. xxx. 18.

† Or brazen glaſſes.

‡ Heb. Aſſembling by troops, as 1 Sam. ii. 22.

v. 1—8. The brazen altar for the ſacrifices, and the laver for the prieſts, is next faſhioned. Both typical of him who made the one atonement for ſin, and whoſe blood can only cleanſe our ſouls from the guilt, or the defilement of it. This laver was made of the looking-glaſſes of the devout women who frequently aſſembled to worſhip at the door of the congregation. Be it remembered to their honour, Note, (1.) They who appear often before the ſanctuary, and in the glaſs of God's holy law ſee the deformity of their nature, will never ſpend their time at their toilette, in admiring their perſons. (2.) When God's ſervice requires it, we ſhould be willing to part with any thing, however uſeful to us, or precious, and count that beſt beſtowed, which is employed for his glory. (3.) When we go to the laver of Chriſt's blood, we muſt look into the glaſs of the law, and then we ſhall ſee more diſtinctly in the one, how much we want the other.

c Chap. xxvii. 9.

9. ¶ And he [c] made the court: on the ſouth-ſide, ſouthward, the hangings of the court were of fine twined linen, an hundred cubits. 10. Their pillars were twenty, and their brazen ſockets twenty: the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets were of ſilver. 11. And for the north-ſide, the hangings were an hundred cubits, their pillars were twenty, and their ſockets of braſs twenty: the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets of ſilver. 12. And for the weſt-ſide were hangings of fifty cubits, their pillars ten, and their ſockets ten: the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets of ſilver. 13. And for the eaſt-ſide, eaſtward, fifty cubits. 14. The hangings of the one ſide of the gate were fifteen cubits, their pillars three, and their ſockets three. 15. And for the other ſide of the court gate, on this hand and that hand, were hangings of fifteen cubits, their pillars three, and their ſockets three. 16. All the hangings of the court round about, were of fine twined linen. 17. And the ſockets for the pillars were of braſs; the hooks of the pillars, and their fillets, of ſilver; and the overlaying of their chapiters of ſilver; and all the pillars of the court were filleted with ſilver. 18. And the hanging for the gate of the court was needle-work, of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen: and twenty cubits was the length, and the height in the breadth was five cubits, anſwerable to the hangings of the court. 19. And their pillars were four, and their ſockets of braſs four, their hooks of ſilver, and the overlaying of their chapiters, and their fillets, of ſilver. 20. And all [d] the pins of the tabernacle, and of the court round about, were of braſs.

[d] Chap. xxvii. 19.

v. 9—20. Behold a figure of the church of God. A little incloſure, with Chriſt in the midſt of it, and his worſhippers around him, ſeparated from the world, and ready to remove out of it. Death is coming to fold up the curtains, and then we ſhall have a more durable abode, tranſlated from the church militant on earth, to the church triumphant in heaven.

21. ¶ This is the ſum of the tabernacle, even of the tabernacle of teſtimony, as it was counted, according to the commandment of Moſes, for the ſervice of the Levites, by the hand of Ithamar, ſon to Aaron the prieſt. 22. And Bezaleel the ſon of Uri, the ſon of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made all that the LORD commanded Moſes. 23. And with him was Aholiab, ſon of Ahiſamach, of the tribe of Dan, an engraver, and a cunning workman, and an embroiderer in blue, and in purple, and in ſcarlet, and fine linen. 24. All the gold that was occupied for the work, in all the work of the holy place, even the gold of the offering, was twenty and nine talents, and ſeven hundred and thirty ſhekels, after [e] the ſhekel of the ſanctuary. 25. And the ſilver of them that were numbered of the congregation, was an hundred talents, and a thouſand ſeven hundred and threeſcore and fifteen ſhekels, after the ſhekels of the ſanctuary. 26. [f] A bekah for † every man, that is, half a ſhekel, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, for every one that went to be numbered, from twenty years old and upward, for [g] ſix hundred thouſand and three thouſand and five hundred and fifty men. 27. And of the hundred talents of ſilver, were caſt [h] the ſockets of the ſanctuary, and the ſockets of the vail; an hundred ſockets of the hundred talents, a talent for a ſocket. 28. And of the thouſand ſeven hundred ſeventy and five ſhekels, he made hooks for the pillars, and overlaid their chapiters, and filleted them. 29. And the braſs of the offering was ſeventy talents, and two thouſand and four hundred ſhekels. 30. And therewith he made the ſockets to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the brazen altar, and the brazen grate for it, and all the veſſels of the altar. 31. And the ſockets of the court round about, and the ſockets of the court-gate, and all the pins of the tabernacle, and all the pins of the court round about.

[e] Chap. xxx. 13.
[f] Ibid. 15.
† Heb. A poll.
[g] Num. i. 46.
[h] Chap. xxvi. 19, 21, 25, 32.

v. 21—31. They who are entruſted with the gold for the uſe of the tabernacle, ought to keep fair accounts. When the great audit comes, woe to the unfaithful ſteward. The employment of the whole which the workmen received, is here produced, amounting to a very conſiderable ſum, and ſhews both the generoſity of the people, and the fidelity of the ſervants. Note, The church of Chriſt cannot fail of riſing in beauty and glory, when there is ſo happy a concurrence of a willing mind in the people, and of uprightneſs and diligence in the miniſters.

CHAP. XXXIX.

This chapter gives us an account of the finiſhing of the work of the tabernacle. 1. The holy garments. The ephod and its curious girdle, ver. 1—5. The onyx-ſtones for the ſhoulders, ver. 6, 7. The breaſt-plate with the precious ſtones in it, ver. 8—21. The robe of the ephod, ver. 22—26. The coats, bonnets, and breeches for the inferior prieſts, ver. 27—29. And the plate of the holy crown, ver. 30, 31. 2. A ſummary account of the whole work, as it was preſented to Moſes when it was all finiſhed, ver. 32—43.

1. AND of the blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, they made clothes of ſervice, to do ſervice in the holy place, and [a] made the holy garments for Aaron; [b] as the LORD commanded Moſes. 2. And he made the ephod of gold, blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen. 3. And they did beat the gold into thin plates, and cut it into wires; to work it in the blue, and in the purple, and in the ſcarlet, and in the fine linen, with cunning work. 4. They made ſhoulder-pieces for it, to couple it together: by the two edges was it coupled together. 5. And the curious girdle of his ephod that was upon it, was of the ſame, according to the work thereof; of gold, blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen; as the LORD commanded Moſes. 6. ¶ And [c] they wrought onyx-ſtones incloſed in ouches of gold, graven as ſignets are graven, with the names of the children of Iſrael. 7. And he put them on the ſhoulders of the ephod, that they ſhould be ſtones for [d] a memorial to the children of Iſrael; as the LORD commanded Moſes. 8. ¶ And he made the breaſt-plate of cunning work, like the work of the ephod; of gold, blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and fine twined linen. 9. It was four-ſquare, they made the breaſt-plate double: a ſpan was the length thereof, and a ſpan the breadth thereof, being doubled. 10. And [e] they ſet in it four rows of ſtones: the firſt row was a † ſardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle: this was the firſt row. 11. And the ſecond row, an emerald, a ſapphire, and a diamond. 12. And the third row, a ligure, an agate, and an amethyſt. 13. And the fourth row, a beryl, an onyx, and a jaſper: they were incloſed in ouches of gold in their incloſings. 14. And the ſtones were according to the names of the children of Iſrael, twelve, according to their names, like the engravings of a ſignet, every one with his name, according to the twelve tribes. 15. And they made upon the breaſt-plate chains, at the ends, of wreathen work of pure gold. 16. And they made two ouches of gold, and two gold rings, and put the two rings in the two ends of the breaſt-plate. 17. And they put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings on the ends of the breaſt-plate. 18. And the two ends of the two wreathen chains, they faſtened in the two ouches, and put them on the ſhoulder-pieces of the ephod, before it. 19. And they made two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breaſt-plate upon the border of it, which was on the ſide of the ephod inward. 20. And they made two other golden rings, and put them on the two ſides of the ephod, underneath, toward the fore-part of it, over-againſt the other coupling thereof, above the curious girdle of the ephod. 21. And they did bind the breaſt-plate by his rings unto the rings of the ephod, with a lace of blue, that it might be above the curious girdle of the ephod, and that the breaſt-plate might not be looſed from the ephod; as the LORD commanded Moſes. 22. ¶ And he made the robe of the ephod of woven work, all of blue. 23. And there was a hole in the midſt of the robe, as the hole of an habergeon, with a band round about the hole, that it ſhould not rent. 24. And they made upon the hems of the robe, pomegranates of blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, and twined linen. 25. And they made [f] bells of pure gold, and put the bells between the pomegranates, upon the hem of the robe, round about between the pomegranates. 26. A bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate, round about the hem of the robe to miniſter in; as the LORD commanded Moſes. 27. ¶ And they made coats of fine linen, of woven work, for Aaron and for his ſons. 28. And [g] a mitre of fine linen, and goodly bonnets of fine linen, and [h] linen breeches of fine twined linen. 29. And a girdle of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and ſcarlet, of needle-work; as the LORD commanded Moſes. 30. ¶ And they made the plate of the holy crown, of pure gold, and wrote upon it a writing, like to the engravings of a ſignet, [i] HOLINESS TO THE LORD. 31. And they tied unto it a lace of blue, to faſten it on high upon the mitre; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

[a] Chap. xxxi. 10. & xxxv. 19.
[b] Chap. xxviii. 4.
[c] Chap. xxviii. 9.
[d] Ibid. 12.
[e] Ibid. 17, &c.
† Or ruby.
[f] Chap. xxviii. 33.
[g] Ezek. xliv. 18.
[h] Chap. xxviii. 42.
[i] Ibid. 36.

v. 1—31. The ſacerdotal garments are provided for the prieſts to miniſter before the Lord: they were badges of their ſervice, and honourable marks of diſtinction. Note, If we have the honour of wearing God's livery, it ſhould remind us of our obligations to miniſter before him. Many, it is to be feared, covet the mitre, who care not how little they ſerve the pulpit and the altar.

Before Chriſt 1490.

32. ¶ Thus was all the work of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation finiſhed: and the children of Iſrael did according to all that the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo did they. 33. ¶ And they brought the tabernacle unto Moſes, the tent, and all his furniture, his taches, his boards, his bars, and his pillars, and his ſockets, 34. And the covering of rams ſkins dyed red, and the covering of badgers ſkins, and the vail of the covering; 35. The ark of the teſtimony, and the ſtaves thereof, and the mercy-ſeat, 36. The table, and all the veſſels thereof, and the ſhew-bread, 37. The pure candleſtick, with the lamps thereof, even with the lamps to be ſet in order, and all the veſſels thereof, and the oil for light, 38. And the golden altar, and the anointing oil, and † the ſweet incenſe, and the hanging for the tabernacle door, 39. The brazen altar, and his grate of braſs, his ſtaves, and all his veſſels, the laver and his foot, 40. The hangings of the court, his pillars, and his ſockets, and the hanging for the court-gate, his cords, and his pins, and all the veſſels of the ſervices of the tabernacle, for the tent of the congregation. 41. The clothes of ſervice to do ſervice in the holy place, and the holy garments for Aaron the prieſt, and his ſons garments to miniſter in the prieſt's office. 42. According to all that the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo the children of Iſrael made all the work. 43. And Moſes did look upon all the work, and behold, they had done it as the LORD had commanded, even ſo had they done it: and Moſes bleſſed them.

† Heb. The incenſe of ſweet ſpices.

v. 32—43. 1. The whole is compleatly finiſhed. The time was ſhort, ſcarce more than five months; but the workmen were hearty and unanimous; and much may be done in little time, when we ſet about it with a good will. It is want of unanimity among the builders, and want of zeal in the labourers, that makes church-work ſo ſlow.

2. They bring the ſeveral pieces to Moſes, and he approves of them, as exactly correſponding to the pattern ſhewed them. God, who gave the model, has added the wiſdom to copy it. Note, If we are enabled to walk and to pleaſe God, we muſt aſcribe it to the praiſe of the glory of his grace, who worketh in us both to will and to do.

3. Moſes in the name of God bleſſes them, and this was ſufficient wages. They were now working for God; the enjoyment of his preſence in the tabernacle would amply recompence their toil. Note, No work of faith, or labour of love, ſhall loſe its reward. When we appear in the preſence of Jeſus our judge, he will pronounce the bleſſing on his ſervants, and admit them into the everlaſting joy of their Lord.

CHAP. XL.

In this chapter, 1. The tabernacle is ſet up, ver. 1—8. The conſecrating of it, ver. 8—11. and of the prieſts, ver. 12—15. 2. Care taken to do all this, and as it was appointed to be done, ver. 16—33. 3. God's taking poſſeſſion of it by the cloud, ver. 34—38.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. On the firſt day of the firſt month ſhalt thou ſet up the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation; 3. And thou ſhalt put therein the ark of the teſtimony, and cover the ark with the vail: 4. And [a] thou ſhalt bring in the table, and ſet in order † the things that are to be ſet in order upon it, and thou ſhalt bring in the candleſtick, and light the lamps thereof. 5. And thou ſhalt ſet the altar of gold for the incenſe before the ark of the teſtimony, and put the hanging of the door to the tabernacle. 6. And thou ſhalt ſet the altar of the burnt-offering before the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation. 7. And [b] thou ſhalt ſet the laver between the tent of the congregation and the altar, and ſhalt put water therein. 8. And thou ſhalt ſet up the court round about, and hang up the hanging at the court-gate. 9, And thou ſhalt take the anointing oil, and [c] anoint the tabernacle, and all that is therein, and ſhalt hallow it, and all the veſſels thereof: and it ſhall be holy. 10. And thou ſhalt anoint the altar of the burnt-offering, and all his veſſels, and ſanctify the altar: and [d] it ſhall be an altar ‡ moſt holy. 11. And thou ſhalt anoint the laver and his foot, and ſanctify it. 12. And [e] thou ſhalt bring Aaron and his ſons unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and waſh them with water. 13. And thou ſhalt put upon Aaron the holy garments, and [f] anoint him, and ſanctify him; that he may miniſter unto me in the prieſt's office. 14. And thou ſhalt bring his ſons, and clothe them with coats: 15. And thou ſhalt anoint them, as thou didſt anoint their father, that they may miniſter unto me in the prieſt's office: for their anointing ſhall ſurely be an everlaſting prieſthood, throughout their generations. 16. Thus did Moſes: according to all that the LORD commanded him, ſo did he.

[a] Chap. xxvi. 35.
† Heb. The order thereof.
[b] Chap. xxx. 18.
[c] Chap. xxx. 26.
[d] Chap. xxix. 36, 37.
‡ Heb. Holineſs of holineſſes.
[e] Lev. viii. 1, 13.
[f] Chap. xxviii. 41.

v. 1—16. The whole being compleat, is ordered to be ſet up.

1. The time; on the firſt day of the new year; and a happy new-year's day to them it was. Almoſt a year had elapſed ſince their departure from Egypt; a year full of God's mercies and their unfaithfulneſs. Now God is come to dwell in the midſt of them, it is to be hoped, a new life will begin with a new year. Note, New years ſhould begin with humbling reviews of the paſt, and humble purpoſes of amendment for the future.

2. The conſecration. The whole was ſolemnly ſet apart for God's uſe and ſervice. When we are raiſed from beds of ſickneſs, and when we ariſe from beds of ſleep, we ſhould anew conſecrate and devote to his ſervice the tabernacle of our bodies.

3. Aaron and his ſons are ordained for the ſervice. As there muſt be a call from God, there muſt alſo be an ordination from men lawfully appointed, before a man preſume to exerciſe the prieſt's office.

17. ¶ And it came to paſs, in the firſt month in the ſecond year, on the firſt day of the month, that [g] the tabernacle was reared up. 18. And Moſes reared up the tabernacle, and faſtned his ſockets, and ſet up the boards thereof, and put in the bars thereof, and reared up his pillars. 19. And he ſpread abroad the tent over the tabernacle, and put the covering of the tent above upon it; as the LORD commanded Moſes. 20. ¶ And he took and [h] put the teſtimony into the ark, and ſet the ſtaves on the ark, and put the mercy-ſeat above upon the ark. 21. And he brought the ark into the tabernacle, and [i] ſet up the vail of the covering, and covered the ark of the teſtimony; as the LORD commanded Moſes. 22. ¶ [k] And he put the table in the tent of the congregation, upon the ſide of the tabernacle northward, without the vail. 23. And he ſet the bread in order upon it before the LORD; as the LORD had commanded Moſes. 24. ¶ And he put the candleſtick in the tent of the congregation, over-againſt the table, on the ſide of the tabernacle ſouthward. 25. And he lighted the lamps before the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moſes. 26. ¶ And he put the golden altar in the tent of the congregation, before the vail. 27. [l] And he burnt ſweet incenſe thereon, as the LORD commanded Moſes. 28. ¶ And he ſet up the hanging at the door of the tabernacle. 29. And he put the altar of burnt-offering by the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation, and offered upon it the burnt-offering, and the meat-offering; [m] as the LORD commanded Moſes. 30. ¶ And he ſet the laver between the tent of the congregation and the altar, and put water there, to waſh withal. 31. And Moſes, and Aaron, and his ſons, waſhed their hands and their feet thereat. 32. When they went into the tent of the congregation, and when they came near unto the altar, they waſhed; [n] as the LORD commanded Moſes. 33. And he reared up the court round about the tabernacle and the altar, and ſet up the hanging of the court gate: ſo Moſes finiſhed the work.

[g] Num. vii. 1.
[h] Chap. xxv. 16.
[i] Chap. xxxv. 12.
[k] Chap. xxvi. 35.
[l] Chap. xxx. 7.
[m] Chap. xxx. 9.
[n] Chap. xxx. 19.

v. 17—33. Moſes ſets up the glorious fabric, and begins the ſervice of the ſanctuary. The candleſtick is lighted up, the table covered, the incenſe ſmoaking, the offering on the altar. Thus he taught the prieſts the method of their ſervice; and himſelf, and Aaron and his ſons, waſhed in the laver: for they who miniſter before a holy God, muſt purge themſelves from all filthineſs of fleſh and ſpirit: and as even in our duties ſin is incurred, whenever we would approach God, we muſt firſt waſh in the open fountain of a Saviour's blood, without which we never can draw near with acceptance to him.

34. ¶ [o] Then a cloud covered the tent of the congregation, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle. 35. And Moſes was not able to enter into the [o] Lev. xvi. 2. Num. ix. 15. 1 Kings viii. 10. 2 Chron. v. 13. & vii. 2. Iſa. vi. 4. Rev. xv. 8.

Before Chriſt 1490.

tent of the congregation, becauſe the cloud abode thereon, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle. 36. And [p] when the cloud was taken up from over the tabernacle, the children of Iſrael † went onward in all their journeys: 37. But if the cloud were not taken up, then they journeyed not, till the day that it was taken up. 38. For [q] the cloud of the LORD was upon the tabernacle by day, and fire was on it by night, in the ſight of all the houſe of Iſrael, throughout all their journeys.

[p] Num. x. 11.

† Heb. Journeyed.

[q] Chap. xiii. 21.

v. 34—38. No ſooner is the tent pitched, than the divine inhabitant comes to take up his reſidence in it; declaring hereby his favour towards them, and his acceptance of their ſervices. All the glory of the tabernacle had been uſeleſs pomp, without the preſence of the Deity: all the gifts and greatneſs of man, without the in-dwelling of the true Shechinah, are no better than the miſerable ruins of a deſolate palace. The ſoul is only truly glorious and happy, when it becomes a living temple, an habitation of God through the ſpirit.

1. There was an awful diſplay of the Divine Majeſty. The cloudy pillar from the top of Sinai deſcends, enters the tabernacle, and paſſes to the throne between the cherubims; and ſo tranſplendent was the brightneſs, that for a while Moſes cannot enter. But though Moſes is weak through the fleſh, He, who from eternity dwells in the light which no man can approach unto, is now, in our nature, for us entered into the holy place; and not only ſo, but will open a way for us to follow him, and ſtrengthen us to bear the brighteſt coruſcations of the divine light and glory.

2. This cloud covered the tent, viſible to all the hoſt; a conſtant proof, that God was in the midſt of them, and as conſtant a pledge of his protection. Note, If the Spirit of God and of glory reſteth upon us, we may well be comforted; neither ſin nor Satan ſhall be able to deſtroy us.

3. The cloud directed their journeyings, and guided them in the way, hovering over their tabernacle, till they reſted at laſt in Canaan. Such to every believer is the word of God in his journey to glory. Under its guidance he ſets out, and by its light ſhall he be conducted, till he ſhall take his laſt Exodus, his final departure from this ſublunary ſcene, to his manſion in the ſkies, and his eternal and fixed abode with God in glory.

Before Chriſt 1490.

THE

THE EVANGELICAL EXPOSITOR;
OR, A PRACTICAL COMMENT
Upon the Third Book of MOSES called LEVITICUS.

THIS book is chiefly taken up with the laws concerning their ſacrifices and offerings, their meats and drinks, and divers waſhings, and other peculiarities, by which God ſet the people of Iſrael apart for himſelf, and diſtinguiſhed them from other nations: all which were ſhadows of good things to come, which are realized and ſuperſeded by the goſpel of Chriſt.——We call the book Leviticus, becauſe it contains the laws and ordinances of the levitical prieſthood: The Levites were principally charged with theſe inſtitutions, both to do their part, and to teach the people theirs.——We read in the cloſe of the foregoing book, of the ſetting up of the tabernacle, which was to be the place of worſhip; and as that was framed according to the pattern, ſo muſt the ordinances of worſhip be, which were there to be adminiſtred. In theſe the divine appointment was as particular as in the former, and muſt be as punctually obſerved. The remaining record of theſe abrogated laws is of uſe to us, for the ſtrengthening of our faith in Jeſus Chriſt, as the Lamb ſlain from the foundation of the world; and for the increaſe of our thankfulneſs to God, that by him we are freed from the yoke of the ceremonial law, and live in the times of reformation.

Before Chriſt 1490.

CHAP. I.

This book begins with the laws concerning ſacrifices, of which the moſt ancient were the burnt-offerings. Orders are here given how that ſort of ſacrifice muſt be managed. 1. If it were a bullock, ver. 3—9. 2. If it were a ſheep or goat, a lamb or kid, ver. 10—13. 3. If it were a turtle-dove, or a young pigeon, ver. 14—17. And whether the offering were more or leſs valuable in itſelf, if it was offered in faith, it was accepted of God.

AND the LORD called unto Moſes, and ſpake unto him out of the tabernacle of the congregation, ſaying, 2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, [a] If any man of you bring an offering unto the LORD, ye ſhall bring your offering of the cattle, even of the herd, and of the flock.

[a] Chap. xxii. 18.

v. 1, 2. God having taught the firſt man, after his fall, the neceſſity of atonement for ſin by ſacrifice, we find it faithfully tranſmitted to his poſterity; and when the true religion was loſt in idolatry, the ſacrifices ſtill remained. When God therefore takes a people to himſelf, he both teaches them the uſe of ſacrifices, and directs them in the choice of ſuch as were moſt ſignificant of the one great ſacrifice, which in the fulneſs of time ſhould be offered. The thunders of Sinai uſhered in that law which only gave the knowledge of ſin; but now, when ſacrifices of peace are enjoined, God ſpeaks in milder accents from the mercy-ſeat. The law is a voice of terror; the goſpel, of grace and love.

3. If his offering be a burnt-ſacrifice of the herd, let him offer a male without blemiſh; he ſhall offer it of his own voluntary will, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD. 4. [b] And he ſhall put his hand upon the head of the burnt offering: and it ſhall be accepted for him to make atonement for him. 5. And he ſhall kill the bullock before the LORD: and [c] the prieſts Aaron's ſons ſhall bring the blood, and [d] ſprinkle the blood round about upon the altar that is by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. 6. And he ſhall ſlay the burnt-offering, and cut it into his pieces. 7. And the ſons of Aaron the prieſt ſhall put fire upon the altar, and lay the wood in order upon the fire. 8. And the prieſts Aaron's ſons ſhall lay the parts, the head and the fat, in order upon the wood that is on the fire, which is upon the altar. 9. But his inwards and his legs ſhall he waſh in water: and the prieſt ſhall burn all on the altar, to be a burnt-ſacrifice, an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

Before Chriſt 1490.

[b] Chap. iv. 15. & iii. 2, 8, 13. & viii. 14, 22. & xvi. 21. Exod. xxix. 10, 15.

[c] 2 Chron. xxxv. 11.

[d] Chap. iii. 8.

v. 3—9. The ſacrifice, if of the herd, muſt be a male without blemiſh. God requires and deſerves we ſhould offer him our beſt. The blind and lame ſervices of negligent prayers are not a ſacrifice, but an abomination. The oblation muſt be voluntary. That is only acceptable obedience, which flows from love as its principle. He muſt come with it to the door of the tabernacle, as one unworthy to enter, yet deſiring to draw near unto God. He muſt lay his hand on the head of the beaſt, intimating his acknowledgement of his deſerving that death by reaſon of ſin, to which this bullock was devoted, and his faith in the acceptance of this ſacrifice in his ſtead. The beaſt was then to be ſlain, and his blood ſprinkled by the prieſts upon the altar, as typical of the death of the great ſacrifice, who bore our ſins, and of that atoning blood of Jeſus, which is ſprinkled on the guilty conſcience. The whole then, properly divided and cleanſed, muſt be burnt with fire, as a ſweet ſavour to the Lord. And thus Jeſus on the croſs offered up himſelf to be conſumed by the fierce wrath of God, a ſacrifice of a ſweet-ſmelling ſavour, by which peace and reconciliation are obtained for the ſinner, and his perſon and ſervices become acceptable to God through Jeſus Chriſt.

10. ¶ And if his offering be of the flocks, namely of the ſheep, or of the goats, for a burnt-ſacrifice, he ſhall bring it a male without blemiſh. 11. And he ſhall kill it on the ſide of the altar northward before the LORD; and the prieſts Aaron's ſons ſhall ſprinkle his blood round about upon the altar. 12. And he ſhall cut it into his pieces, with his head and his fat: and the prieſt ſhall lay them in order on the wood that is on the fire which is upon the altar. 13. But he ſhall waſh the inwards and the legs with water: and the prieſts ſhall bring it all, and burn it upon the altar: it is a burnt-ſacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD. 14. ¶ And if the burnt-ſacrifice for his offering to the LORD be of fowls, then he ſhall bring his offering of [e] turtle-doves, or of young pigeons. 15. And the prieſt ſhall bring it unto the altar, and † wring off his head, and burn it on the altar: and the blood thereof ſhall be wrung out at the ſide of the altar. 16. And he ſhall pluck away his crop with ‡ his feathers, and caſt it beſide the altar on the eaſt part, by the place of the aſhes. 17. And he ſhall cleave it, with the wings thereof, but [f] ſhall not divide it aſunder: and the prieſt ſhall burn it upon the altar, upon the wood that is upon the fire: it is a burnt-ſacrifice, an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

[e] Chap. v. 7.
† Or pinch off the head with the nail.
‡ Or the filth thereof.
[f] Gen. xv. 10.

v. 10—17. They who had flocks and herds, could afford to offer of them; but as all who needed the ſame atonement had not theſe more expenſive ſacrifices, a turtle-dove, or pigeon, ſhould be to them as effectual, as the bullock or the ram. Note, (1.) All are in the ſame condemnation, and need the ſame atonement. (2.) Chriſt Jeſus is alike the Saviour of high and low, rich and poor. (3.) In all our ſervices, God requires we ſhould offer according as he hath bleſſed us. He that hath much, muſt give much; he that hath little, ſhould chearfully give of that little. (4.) God regards not the expenſiveneſs of the gift, but the faith and love of the offerer. A pigeon with theſe, is better than the ſtalled ox without them.

CHAP. II.

In this chapter we have the law concerning the meat-offering. 1. The matter of it, ver. 1—7. 2. The management of it, ver. 8, 9, 10. 3. Some particular rules concerning it, that leaven and honey muſt never be admitted, ver. 11, 12. and ſalt never omitted in the meat-offering, ver. 13. 4. The law concerning the offering of firſt-fruits in the ear, ver. 14, 15, 16.

1. AND when any will offer [a] a meat-offering unto the LORD, his offering ſhall be of fine flour; and he ſhall pour oil upon it, and put frankincenſe thereon. 2. And he ſhall bring it to Aaron's ſons the prieſts: and he ſhall take thereout his handful of the flour thereof, and of the oil thereof, with all the frankincenſe thereof; and [b] the prieſt ſhall burn the memorial of it upon the altar, to be an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD. 3. And [c] the remnant of the meat-offering ſhall be Aaron's and his ſons: [d] it is a thing moſt holy of the offerings of the LORD made by fire. 4. ¶ And if thou bring an oblation of a meat-offering baken in the oven, it ſhall be unleavened cakes of fine flour mingled with oil, or unleavened wafers [e] anointed with oil. 5. ¶ And if thy oblation be a meat-offering baken † in a pan, it ſhall be of fine flour unleavened, mingled with oil. 6. Thou ſhalt part it in pieces, and pour oil thereon: it is a meat-offering. 7. ¶ And if thy oblation be a meat-offering baken in the frying-pan, it ſhall be made of fine flour with oil. 8. And thou ſhalt bring the meat-offering, that is made of theſe things, unto the LORD: and when it is preſented unto the prieſt, he ſhall bring it unto the altar. 9. And [f] the prieſt ſhall take from the meat-offering a memorial thereof, and ſhall burn it upon the altar: it is [g] an offering made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD. 10. And that which is left of the meat-offering, ſhall be Aaron's and his ſons: it is a thing moſt holy, of the offerings of the LORD made by fire.

[a] Chap. vi. 14. & ix. 17. Num. xv. 4.
[b] Ver. 2 & Chap. v. 12. & vi. 15. & xxiv. 7. Iſa. lxvi. 3. Ecclus xlv. 16.
[c] Chap. vii. 6. & x. 12. Ecclus vii. 31.
[d] Exod. xxix. 37. Num. xviii. 9.
[e] Exod. xxix. 2.
† Or, on a flat plate or ſlice.
[f] Ver. 2.
[g] Exod. xxix. 18.

v. 1—10. As we are indebted to God for every bit of bread we put in our mouths, it is but reaſonable and juſt we ſhould acknowledge his kind proviſion for us, by offering a part to his ſervice. Though we have no longer the earthly ſanctuary, we have the poor always with us; and when we break our bread to the hungry, God will accept the offering as done unto himſelf.

The ingredients of the meat-offering muſt be fine flour and oil, if dreſſed; if undreſſed, frankincenſe was to be added. It was brought to the prieſts, and part burnt on the altar, as a ſweet ſavour to the Lord; the reſt belonged to Aaron and his ſons. Note, (1.) The leaſt acknowledgment which flows from a grateful heart is acceptable to God. (2.) It is highly reaſonable, that they who miniſter in holy things, ſhould live by the altars they ſerve: but it is now the juſt grief of the people, to be obliged to pay the indolent and ambitious, who ſeldom or never miniſter unto them; and the great ſin of the prieſts, to devour the meat for which they have never laboured. Pudent hæc opprobria.

11. No meat-offering, which ye ſhall bring unto the LORD, ſhall be made [h] with leaven: for ye ſhall burn no leaven, nor any honey, in any offering of the LORD made by fire. 12. ¶ [i] As for the oblation of the firſt-fruits, ye ſhall offer them unto the LORD: but they ſhall not † be burnt on the altar for a ſweet ſavour. 13. And every oblation of thy meat-offering [k] ſhalt thou ſeaſon with ſalt; neither ſhalt thou ſuffer [l] the ſalt of the covenant of thy God to be lacking from thy meat-offering; with all thine offerings thou ſhalt offer ſalt. 14. And if thou offer a meat-offering of thy firſt-fruits unto the LORD, thou ſhalt offer for the meat-offering of thy firſt-fruits, green ears of corn dried by the fire, even corn beaten out of full ears. 15. And thou ſhalt put oil upon it, and lay frankincenſe thereon: it is a meat-offering. 16. And the prieſt ſhall burn the memorial of it, part of the beaten corn thereof, and part of the oil thereof, with all the frankincenſe thereof: it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD.

[h] See Mat. xvi. 12. Mark viii. 15. Luke xii. 1. 1 Cor. v. 8. Gal. v. 9.
[i] Exod. xxii. 29.
† Heb. Aſcend.
[k] Mark ix. 49.
[l] Num. xviii. 19.

v. 11—16. 1. Honey and leaven are forbidden in all their offerings on the altar, and ſalt commanded always to be ſprinkled on them. Note, (1.) They who ſerve God, muſt purge out the old leaven of malice and wickedneſs, and bring the unleavened bread of ſincerity and truth. (2.) Unleſs the ſalt of divine grace be in our offerings, all we can bring of our own will be unſavory. (3.) Salt, being the ſymbol of friendſhip, intimates, that we ſhould in all our offerings exerciſe faith in God, as our reconciled friend.

2. The firſt-fruits were for the prieſts maintenance, and with them leaven and honey might be offered: but if a man made a free-will offering of firſt-fruits, beſides thoſe mentioned Deut. xxvi. 2. then theſe were to be treated as the other meat-offering with oil and frankincenſe. If the corn offered was from green ears, they muſt be the faireſt in the field, dried and threſhed out; to intimate, 1. That our green days of infancy and youth ſhould be devoted to God, and that God accepts with delight ſuch offerings. 2. In youth the fire of zeal, and fervency in religious duties, is becoming, and, in one ſenſe, natural. 3. The blood of Jeſus is the ſweet frankincenſe to which we are indebted for every acceptable ſervice.

CHAP. III.

In this chapter we have the law concerning the peace-offerings, whether they were, 1. Of the herd, a bullock or a heifer, ver. 1—5. Or, 2. Of the flock, either a lamb, ver. 6—11. or a goat, ver. 12—17.

1. AND if his oblation be [a] a ſacrifice of peace-offering, if he offer it of the herd, whether it be a male or female, he ſhall offer it without blemiſh before the LORD. 2. And [b] he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of his offering, and kill it at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and Aaron's ſons the prieſts ſhall ſprinkle the blood upon the altar round about. 3. And he ſhall offer of the ſacrifice of the peace-offering, an offering made by fire unto the LORD; [c] the † fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards: 4. And the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the

[a] Chap. vii. 11, 29. & xxii. 18, 21.
[b] Exod. xxix. 10. Chap. i. 4.
[c] Exod. xxix. 13, 22.
† Or ſuet.

Before Chriſt 1490.

‡ Or Midriff over the liver and over the kidneys.

d Chap. vi. 12.

flanks: and the ‡ caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away. 5. And Aaron's ſons [d] ſhall burn it on the altar, upon the burnt-ſacrifice, which is upon the wood that is on the fire: it is an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

v. 1—5. Peace-offerings were either to expreſs their grateful acknowledgments for mercies received, or to ſecond their prayers for ſome good which was deſired. It was called a peace-offering, becauſe God was regarded therein as in a ſtate of reconciliation with them. Note, Chriſt is our peace, and it is to him we may make our requeſts with confidence of being heard, and offer our praiſes, aſſured they will pleaſe God.

The ſame formalities were obſerved as before. The offerer laid his hand on the victim's head, expreſſive of the ſenſe of his own deſerts. The beaſt is killed, and the blood ſprinkled upon the altar; intimating, that in our very ſacrifices of prayer and praiſe, we need pardon from God; and then the beaſt is divided. Part is the Lord's portion, v. 3, 4. of the remainder, part was the prieſt's, the reſt to be eaten by the offerer and his family, See chap. vii. Two things are to be obſerved, 1. The fat muſt be burned on the altar. So ſhould every corrupt affection of our hearts continually be conſuming by the fire of divine love. 2. It was burned upon the daily burnt-offering; for it is with a conſtant eye to the Lamb that was ſlain, that we can hope to keep up any peaceful intercourſe and communion with the holy God.

e See chap. xxi. 6, 8, 17, 21, 22, & xxii. 25. Ezek. xliv. 7. Mal. i. 7, 12.

f Chap. vii. 23, 25.

g Gen. ix. 4. Chap. vii. 23, 26. & xvii. 10, 14. Deut. xii. 16. 1 Sam. xiv. 33. Ezek. xliv. 7.

6. ¶ And if his offering for a ſacrifice of peace-offering unto the LORD be of the flock, male or female; he ſhall offer it without blemiſh. 7. If he offer a lamb for his offering, then ſhall he offer it before the LORD. 8. And he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of his offering, and kill it before the tabernacle of the congregation: and Aaron's ſons ſhall ſprinkle the blood thereof round about upon the altar. 9. And he ſhall offer of the ſacrifice of the peace-offering, an offering made by fire unto the LORD: the fat thereof, and the whole rump, it ſhall he take off hard by the back-bone: and the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards. 10. And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away. 11. And the prieſt ſhall burn it upon the altar: it is [e] the food of the offering made by fire unto the LORD. 12. ¶ And if his offering be a goat, then he ſhall offer it before the LORD. 13. And he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of it, and kill it before the tabernacle of the congregation; and the ſons of Aaron ſhall ſprinkle the blood thereof upon the altar round about. 14. And he ſhall offer thereof his offering, even an offering made by fire unto the LORD; the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards. 15. And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away. 16. And the prieſt ſhall burn them upon the altar: it is the food of the offering made by fire, for a ſweet ſavour. [f] All the fat is the LORD's. 17. It ſhall be a perpetual ſtatute for your generations throughout all your dwellings, that ye eat neither fat [g] nor blood.

v. 6—17. The ſame proceſs was to attend the leſſer ſacrifices of peace-offerings. The rump of the ſheep only was added to the fat. An expreſs prohibition is alſo added of eating either any of the fat of the inwards or blood. As the blood was typical of the atonement, it muſt be regarded as ſacred; and the fat being God's portion of the ſacrifices, muſt not be uſed as a common thing. As the ſhadows are now paſſed away in Chriſt, the reaſon of the prohibition ceaſes; only one command remains, that we live in holy temperance to the glory of God, not luxuriouſly eating the fat, and riotouſly drinking the blood of the ſlain.

CHAP. IV.

This chapter is concerning the offering for a ſin committed through ignorance; either, 1. By the prieſt himſelf, ver. 1—12. Or, 2. By the whole congregation, ver. 13—21. Or, 3. By a ruler, ver. 22—26. Or, 4. By a private perſon, ver. 27—35.

a Num. xv. 22.

b Chap. viii. 12.

c Chap. ix. 2.

d Chap. i. 4.

e Chap. xvi. 14. Num. xix. 4.

f Chap. v. 9.

g Chap. iii. 3.

h Exod xxix. 14. Num. xix. 5.

† Heb. To without the camp.

i Chap. vi. 11.

k Hebr. xiii. 11.

‡ Heb. At the pouring out of the aſhes.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, [a] If a ſoul ſhall ſin through ignorance againſt any of the commandments of the LORD (concerning things which ought not to be done) and ſhall do againſt any of them: 3. [b] If the prieſt that is anointed, do ſin according to the ſin of the people; then let him bring for his ſin which he hath ſinned, [c] a young bullock without blemiſh unto the LORD for a ſin-offering. 4. And he ſhall bring the bullock unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD; and [d] ſhall lay his hand upon the bullock's head, and kill the bullock before the LORD. 5. And the prieſt that is anointed, [e] ſhall take of the bullock's blood, and bring it to the tabernacle of the congregation. 6. And the prieſt ſhall dip his finger in the blood, and ſprinkle of the blood ſeven times before the LORD, before the vail of the ſanctuary. 7. And the prieſt ſhall put ſome of the blood upon the horns of the altar of ſweet incenſe before the LORD, which is in the tabernacle of the congregation, and ſhall [f] pour all the blood of the bullock at the bottom of the altar of the burnt-offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. 8. And he ſhall take off from it all the fat of the bullock for the ſin-offering; the fat that covereth the inwards, and all the fat that is upon the inwards: 9. And the two kidneys, and the fat that is upon them, which is by the flanks, and the caul above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away, 10. [g] As it was taken off from the bullock of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings: and the prieſt ſhall burn them upon the altar of the burnt-offering. 11. [h] And the ſkin of the bullock, and all his fleſh, with his head, and with his legs, and his inwards, and his dung, 12. Even the whole bullock ſhall he carry forth † without the camp, unto a clean place, [i] where the aſhes are poured out, [k] and burn him on the wood with fire: ‡ where the aſhes are poured out, ſhall he be burnt.

v. 1—12. The wages of ſin, wherever it is found, is death: even ſins of ignorance and infirmity are mortal, without an atonement. We have here therefore an expreſs appointment of a ſin-offering for the ſoul that ſins through ignorance. The ſin is ſuppoſed to be an outward act, committed either through ignorance of the law, or ſurprize. There may be alleviations of guilt, but no excuſe for ſin.

The ſacrifice for the ſin of the high-prieſt is firſt appointed. They were men, and therefore compaſſed about with infirmity. Note, (1.) We muſt not expect too much from ſinful men, however holy their calling, or high their attainments. (2.) Yet a prieſt's ſin is ever moſt aggravated, ſince he who is appointed to guide others, is peculiarly bound to ſet them an example.

The ſin-offering is a bullock, to be offered with the uſual form. Confeſſion of guilt, and dependance on that blood, without which there is no remiſſion, is the only way of obtaining pardon for ſin. The blood was ſprinkled before the vail, and on the horns of the golden altar; to ſignify, that all his ſervices were polluted, till his iniquity was done away. The fat, &c. as in the peace-offering, was burned on the altar; to ſignify, that God accepted the ſacrifice, and was reconciled to the offender; and the whole of the beaſt that remained, was burned without the camp, as a deteſtable thing. Thus Jeſus, when he made his ſoul an offering for ſin, ſuffered without the camp; and, in the ſharpneſs of his ſorrows, and the ignominy he endured, ſhewed us the dreadful evil of ſin, whilſt he thus took it away by the ſacrifice of himſelf.

l Num. xv. 24.

m Chap. v. 2, 3, 4.

13. ¶ [l] And if the whole congregation of Iſrael ſin through ignorance, [m] and the thing be hid from the eyes of the aſſembly, and they have done ſomewhat againſt any of the commandments of the LORD, concerning things which ſhould not be done, and are guilty: 14. When the ſin which they have ſinned againſt it is known, then the congregation ſhall offer a young bullock for the ſin, and bring him before the tabernacle of the congregation. 15. And the elders of the congregation ſhall lay their hands upon the head of the bullock before the LORD: and the bullock ſhall be killed before the LORD. 16. And the prieſt that is anointed ſhall bring of the bullock's blood to the tabernacle of the congregation. 17. And the prieſt ſhall dip his finger in ſome of the blood, and ſprinkle it ſeven times before the LORD, even before the vail. 18. And he ſhall put ſome of the blood upon the horns of the altar which is before the LORD, that is in the tabernacle of the congregation, and ſhall pour out all the blood at the bottom of the altar of the burnt-offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. 19. And he ſhall take all his fat from him, and burn it upon the altar. 20. And he ſhall do with the bullock as [a] he did with the bullock for a ſin-offering, ſo ſhall he do with this: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for them, and it ſhall be forgiven them. 21. And he ſhall carry forth the bullock without the camp, and burn him as he burned the firſt bullock: it is a ſin-offering for the congregation.

[a] Ver. 3.

v. 13—21. Whatever is human, is liable to error. Nations and churches are all fallible, and therefore an atonement for national ſins of ignorance is provided. The offering is the ſame as for the prieſt, as moſt likely their ſins would be the ſame. Note, If the people live in ignorance and ſin, much is to be feared for their teachers.

22. ¶ When a ruler hath ſinned, and done ſomewhat through ignorance againſt any of the commandments of the LORD his God, concerning things which ſhould not be done, and is guilty; 23. Or if his ſin, wherein he hath ſinned, come to his knowledge: he ſhall bring his offering, a kid of the goats, a male without blemiſh. 24. And he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of the goat, and kill it in the place where they kill the burnt-offering before the LORD: it is a ſin-offering. 25. And the prieſt ſhall take of the blood of the ſin-offering with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt-offering, and ſhall pour out his blood at the bottom of the altar of burnt-offering. 26. And he ſhall burn all his fat upon the altar, [o] as the fat of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him as concerning his ſin, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

[o] Chap. iii. 5.

v. 22—26. However ſin comes to our knowledge, we ſhould be thankful for the notice. Rulers have need often to open their ears to admonition; they may, even when they mean well, do ill. A kid ſufficed for the atonement; intimating, that though the offence were the ſame, the crime was not ſo aggravated, or pernicious in its conſequence, as that of the high-prieſt or congregation. Note, Though all ſins are not alike evil in their effects to others, they are all mortal to the ſinful ſoul, without an atonement.

27. ¶ And [p] if † any one of the ‡ common people ſin through ignorance, while he doth ſomewhat againſt any of the commandments of the LORD, concerning things which ought not to be done, and be guilty; 28. Or if his ſin which he hath ſinned, come to his knowledge: then he ſhall bring his offering, a kid of the goats, a female without blemiſh, for his ſin which he hath ſinned. 29. And he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of the ſin-offering, and ſlay the ſin-offering in the place of the burnt-offering. 30. And the prieſt ſhall take of the blood thereof with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt-offering, and ſhall pour out all the blood thereof at the bottom of the altar. 31. [q] And he ſhall take away all the fat thereof, [r] as the fat is taken away from off the ſacrifice of peace-offerings; and the prieſt ſhall burn it upon the altar, for [s] a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him, and it ſhall be forgiven him. 32. And if he bring a lamb for a ſin-offering, he ſhall bring it a female without blemiſh. 33. And he ſhall lay his hand upon the head of the ſin-offering, and ſlay it for a ſin-offering in the place where they kill the burnt-offering. 34. And the prieſt ſhall take of the blood of the ſin-offering with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt-offering, and ſhall pour out all the blood thereof at the bottom of the altar. 35. And he ſhall take away all the fat thereof, as the fat of the lamb is taken away from the ſacrifice of the peace-offerings: and the prieſt ſhall burn them upon the altar, [t] according to the offerings made by fire unto the LORD: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for his ſin that he hath committed, and it ſhall be forgiven him.

[p] Num. xv. 27.
† Heb. Any ſoul.
‡ Heb. People of the land.
[q] Chap. iii. 14.
[r] Chap. iii. 3.
[s] Exod. xxix. 18.
[t] Chap. iii. 5.

v. 27—35. The offering of a private perſon reſembles the ruler's, ſave that he may uſe a lamb or a kid, and a female inſtead of a male. Note, (1.) No ſinner is too little to be overlooked, or too great to be excuſed. (2.) All alike need the atoning blood of Chriſt. (3.) Every application to Chriſt for pardon of ſin, lays an obligation upon us to forſake ſin. There is no atonement to be made for wilful diſobedience. (4.) The ſenſe of the deſert of ſin will affect our hearts with deep ſorrow for it. The tears of penitence ſhould always mingle with the blood of atonement.

CHAP. V.

Concerns the treſpaſs-offering. 1. A variety of caſes of treſpaſs, ver. 1—19. 2. The treſpaſs-offerings, (1.) Of the flock, ver. 5, 6. (2.) Of fowls, ver. 7—10. (3.) Of flour, ver. 11—13. but chiefly a ram without blemiſh, ver. 15, 16, 18, 19.

1. AND if a ſoul ſin, and [a] hear the voice of ſwearing, and is a witneſs, whether he hath ſeen or known of it; if he do not utter it, then he ſhall bear his iniquity. 2. Or [b] if a ſoul touch any unclean thing, whether it be a carcaſe of an unclean beaſt, or a carcaſe of unclean cattle, or the carcaſe of unclean creeping things, and if it be hidden from him, he alſo ſhall be unclean and guilty. 3. Or if he touch the uncleanneſs of man, [c] whatſoever uncleanneſs it be that a man ſhall be defiled withal, and it be hid from him, when he knoweth of it, then he ſhall be guilty. 4. Or if a ſoul ſwear, pronouncing with his lips [d] to do evil, or [e] to do good; whatſoever it be that a man ſhall pronounce with an oath, and it be hid from him; when he knoweth of it, then he ſhall be guilty in one of theſe. 5. And it ſhall be, when he ſhall be guilty in one of theſe things, that [f] he ſhall confeſs that he hath ſinned in that thing. 6. And he ſhall bring his treſpaſs-offering unto the LORD for his ſin which he hath ſinned, a female from the flock, a lamb or a kid of the goats, for a ſin-offering: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him concerning his ſin.

[a] 1 Kings viii. 31.
[b] Chap. xi. 24, 28, 31, 39.
[c] Chap. xii. & xiii. & xv.
[d] As 1 Sam. xxv. 22. Acts xxiii. 12.
[e] As Mark vi. 23.
[f] Num. v. 7.

v. 1—6. Three inſtances of treſpaſs are mentioned. 1. Concealing the truth, when adjured by the judges. In all caſes of an oath, we muſt ſpeak the whole truth, as well as nothing but the truth: to hide it, is as criminal as to add to it. 2. Contracting ceremonial uncleanneſs, v. 2, 3, and not waſhing according to law before he comes unto the tabernacle. When it comes to his knowledge, he muſt confeſs his ſin, and bring his offering. Note, When God's ſpirit awakens the conſcience, we begin to ſee ourſelves guilty, where we never ſuſpected harm. 3. Raſhly ſwearing, either to do what is unlawful or impracticable. Though a raſh vow may be better broken than kept, yet, like a two-edged ſword, it cuts both ways. No member needs ſtricter government than the tongue.

An offering in theſe caſes muſt be brought, accompanied with humble and particular confeſſion of the ſin. True penitents never deal in general acknowledgments, but in diſtinct and particular enumeration of their ſins. Then the prieſt made the atonement, and the ſin was pardoned. Though our repentance be not the cauſe of our acceptance, but Chriſt's blood alone, yet they are inſeparable: true faith produces ever true penitence.

7. And [g] if † he be not able to bring a lamb, then he ſhall bring for his treſpaſs which he hath committed, two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, unto the LORD; one for a ſin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering. 8. And he ſhall bring them unto the prieſt, who ſhall offer that which is for the ſin-offering firſt, and [i] wring off his head from his neck, but ſhall not divide it aſunder. 9. And he ſhall ſprinkle of the blood of the ſin-offering upon the ſide of the altar; and [k] the reſt of the blood ſhall be wrung out at the bottom of the altar: it is a ſin-offering. 10. And he ſhall offer the ſecond for a burnt-offering, according to the ‡ [l] manner: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him, for his ſin which he hath ſinned, and it ſhall be forgiven him. 11. ¶ But if he be not able to bring two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons; then he that ſinned ſhall bring for his offering the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a ſin-offering: [m] he ſhall put no oil upon it, neither ſhall he put any frankincenſe thereon: for it is a ſin-offering. 12. Then ſhall he bring it to the prieſt, and the prieſt ſhall take his handful of it, [n] even a memorial thereof, and burn it on the altar, [o] according to the offerings made by fire unto the LORD: it is a ſin-offering. 13. And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him, as touching his ſin that he hath ſinned in one of theſe, and it ſhall be forgiven him: and [p] the remnant ſhall be the prieſt's, as a meat-offering.

[g] Chap. xii. 8. & xiv. 21.
† Heb. His hand cannot reach to the ſufficiency of a lamb.
[h] Chap. i. 14.
[i] Chap. i. 15.
[k] Chap. iv. 7, 18, 30, 34.
‡ Or, Ordinance.
[l] Chap. i. 14.
[m] Num. v. 15.
[n] Chap. ii. 2.
[o] Chap. iv. 35.
[p] Chap. ii. 3.

v. 7—13. As many needed the atonement, who through poverty were unable to afford a lamb, for them a pair of turtles or pigeons were accepted, or the ſtill cheaper offering of ſome fine flour. Note, Poverty is no bar to heaven.

If two pigeons or doves were offered, one ſerved for a ſin-offering, and was killed firſt; the other was a burnt-offering. Atonement muſt firſt be made; then thankſgiving is pleaſing as dutiful. If flour was offered, it muſt be without oil or frankincenſe. Note, Sin muſt be as unſavory to the ſoul, as this offering was on the altar.

14. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 15. [q] If a ſoul commit a treſpaſs, and ſin through ignorance, in the holy things of the LORD, then he ſhall bring for his treſpaſs unto the LORD a ram without blemiſh out of the flocks, with thy eſtimation by ſhekels of ſilver, after [r] the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, for a treſpaſs-offering. 16. And he ſhall make amends for the harm that he hath done in the holy thing, and [s] ſhall add the fifth part thereto, and give it unto the prieſt: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him with the ram of the treſpaſs-offering, and it ſhall be forgiven him. 17. ¶ And [t] if a ſoul ſin, and commit any of theſe things which are forbidden to be done by the commandments of the LORD; [u] though he wiſt it not, yet is he guilty, and ſhall bear his iniquity. 18. And he ſhall bring a ram without blemiſh out of the flock, with thy eſtimation for a treſpaſs-offering, unto the prieſt: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him, concerning his ignorance wherein he erred and wiſt it not; and it ſhall be forgiven him. 19. It is a treſpaſs-offering: he hath certainly treſpaſſed againſt the LORD.

[q] Chap. xxii. 14.

[r] Exod. xxx. 13.

[s] Chap. xxii. 14. & xxvii. 13, 15, 27. Num. v. 7.

[t] Chap. iv. 2.

[u] Luke xii. 48.

v. 14—19. As ſacrilege is a very heinous ſin, a more coſtly atonement is enjoined for it. Whoever through ignorance with-held the tythes or offerings due to the ſanctuary, or any holy things dedicated to God, when he found it out, muſt bring a ram for an offering, and the whole value of the thing in money, and a fifth part over. Or if he but ſuſpected a miſtake, he was to chuſe the ſafer ſide, and make the oblation and full reſtitution. Note, (1.) Men think it is no ſin to cheat God's miniſters of their lawful dues; but if ſins of this kind, even when committed through ignorance, needed ſuch an atonement, what will be the puniſhment of deſigned fraud? (2.) To make reſtitution for injuſtice, is a very mortifying exerciſe; but there can be no hope of pardon, whilſt the wages of unrighteouſneſs is kept back.

CHAP. VI.

1. Farther laws concerning treſpaſſes, which belong to the former chapter, ver. 1—7. 2. Ver. 8, begins a new ſection, relative to other rites and ſacrifices. 1. The burnt-offering, ver. 8—13. 2. The meat-offering, ver. 14—18. particularly that at the conſecration of the prieſt, ver. 19—23. 3. The ſin-offering, ver. 24—30.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. If a ſoul ſin, and commit a treſpaſs againſt the LORD, and lye unto his neighbour in that which was delivered him to keep, or † in fellowſhip, or in a thing taken away by violence, or hath deceived his neighbour; 3. Or hath found that which was loſt, and lyeth concerning it, and [a] ſweareth falſly; in any of all theſe that a man doth, ſinning therein: 4. Then it ſhall be, becauſe he hath ſinned, and is guilty, that he ſhall reſtore that which he took violently away, or the thing which he hath deceitfully gotten, or that which was delivered him to keep, or the loſt thing which he found, 5. Or all that about which he hath ſworn falſly; [b] he ſhall even reſtore it in the principal, and ſhall add the fifth part more thereto, and give it unto him to whom it appertaineth, ‡ in the day of his treſpaſs-offering. 6. And [c] he ſhall bring his treſpaſs-offering unto the LORD, a ram without blemiſh, out of the flock, with thy eſtimation, for a treſpaſs-offering, unto the prieſt. 7. And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him, before the LORD; and it ſhall be forgiven him, for any thing of all that he had done, in treſpaſſing therein.

† Heb. Putting of the hand, i. e. dealing.

[a] Num. v. 6.

[b] Chap. v. 16.

‡ Heb. In the day of his treſpaſs, i. e. when he is found guilty.

[c] Chap. v. 15.

v. 1—7. A variety of treſpaſſes againſt our neighbour are mentioned, which, though immediately affecting them, are yet ſins againſt God, as being breaches of his law, v. 2. Theſe are either denying what was lent us; or defrauding our partners; or impoſing upon others by unjuſt commendation of our wares; or not returning what we find to the owner; or diſowning it, when we are charged with any of theſe things. In ſuch caſes, 1. Reſtitution muſt be made to the injured perſon, and a fifth part of the value added. 2. A treſpaſs-offering muſt be brought to God. Note, (1.) All ſacrifice for ſin is vain, till, to the utmoſt of our power, reſtitution is made unto man. (2.) When we have done all in our power to indemnify our neighbour, we are ſtill debtors to the law, and muſt periſh, unleſs we plead the treſpaſs-offering of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt.

8. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 9. Command Aaron and his ſons, ſaying, This is the law of the burnt-offering: (It is the burnt-offering, † becauſe of the burning upon the altar all night unto the morning, and the fire of the altar ſhall be burning in it.) 10. [d] And the prieſt ſhall put on his linen garment, and his linen breeches ſhall he put upon his fleſh, and take up the aſhes which the fire hath conſumed with the burnt-offering on the altar, and he ſhall put them [e] beſides the altar. 11. And he ſhall put off his garments, and put on other garments, and carry forth the aſhes without the camp, [f] unto a clean place. 12. And the fire upon the altar ſhall be burning in it, it ſhall not be put out: and the prieſt ſhall burn wood on it every morning, and lay the burnt-offering in order upon it, and he ſhall burn thereon [g] the fat of the peace-offerings. 13. The fire ſhall ever be burning upon the altar: it ſhall never go out.

† Or for the burning.

[d] Chap. xvi. 4. Exod. xxviii. 40, 41, 43.

[e] Chap. i. 16.

[f] Chap. iv. 12.

[g] Chap. iii. 3, 9. 14.

v. 8—13. Directions are given for the prieſts in their miniſtrations.

1. To take care of the aſhes of the altar. A perpetual burnt-offering of a lamb was offered morning and evening, and on it the fat of the peace-offering was burned. There were beſides through the day continual ſacrifices: theſe conſumed much wood, the aſhes of which was laid beſide the altar, till the morning, when the prieſt took off his holy garments, and put on his ordinary cloaths, and carried the aſhes into a clean place without the camp. They who are above ſtooping to the meaneſt offices for God's glory, are unfit to miniſter before him.

2. To keep the fire always burning. The fire came down from heaven, and was never permitted to go out. They attended it by night as well as by day; and thus this ſacred fire continued burning till the Babyloniſh captivity. Note, (1.) If God hath kindled up the fire of divine love in our hearts, it becomes us day and night to feed it with the fuel of prayer and praiſe. And let us remember, (2.) That when it is kindled, we are under the care of that watchful prieſt, who will keep it burning to eternity.

14. ¶ [h] And this is the law of the meat-offering: the ſons of Aaron ſhall offer it before the LORD, before the altar. 15. And he ſhall take of it his handful, of the flour of the meat-offering, and of the oil thereof, and all the frankincenſe which is upon the meat-offering, and ſhall burn it upon the altar, for a ſweet ſavour, even [i] the memorial of it unto the LORD. 16. And [k] the remainder thereof ſhall Aaron and his ſons eat: with unleavened bread ſhall it be eaten in the holy place: [l] in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation they ſhall eat it. 17. It ſhall not be baken with leaven: [m] I have given it unto them for their portion of my offerings made by fire: [n] it is moſt holy, as is the ſin-offering, and as the treſpaſs-offering. 18. All the males among the children of Aaron ſhall eat of it: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in your generations concerning the offerings of the LORD made by fire: [o] Every one that toucheth them ſhall be holy.

[h] Chap. ii. 1. Num. xv. 4.

[i] Chap. ii. 2, 9.

[k] Chap. ii. 3.

[l] Chap. x. 12.

[m] Num. xviii. 9. 10.

[n] Chap. ii. 3. Exod. xxix. 37.

[o] Chap. xxii. 4, 5, 6. Exod. xxix. 37.

v. 14—18. The chief part of the meat-offering made by the people belonged to the prieſts. They are commanded to eat it unleavened, in the holy place, with their ſons only, not their daughters; and both the perſons muſt be free from all ceremonial uncleanneſs, and the utenſils only employed in ſacred uſes. Note, (1.) They who ſerve at the altar, ſhould be partakers with the altar. (2.) The miniſters of God muſt not be nice in their diet; unleavened bread was often their food. (3.) Holineſs of heart ſhould always accompany the ſacredneſs of office.

19. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 20. [p] This is the offering of Aaron and of his ſons, which they ſhall offer unto the LORD, in the day when he is anointed; the tenth part of [q] an ephah of fine flour for a meat-offering perpetual, half of it in the morning, and half thereof at night. 21. In a pan it ſhall be made with oil, and when it is baken, thou ſhalt bring it in: and the baken pieces of the meat-offering ſhalt thou offer for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD. 22. And the prieſt of his ſons [r] that is anointed in his ſtead, ſhall offer it: It is a ſtatute for ever unto the LORD, [s] it ſhall be wholly burnt. 23. For every meat-offering for the prieſt ſhall be wholly burnt: it ſhall not be eaten.

[p] Exod. xxix. 2.

q Exod. xvi. 36.
r Chap. iv. 3.
s Exod. xxix. 25.

v. 19—23. The conſecration meat-offering of the high-prieſt was to be wholly burnt, and it was to be perpetual; either to be offered by every anointed prieſt at his conſecration, or, as the Jews ſay, every day by the high-prieſt continually, with the morning and evening ſacrifice. Note, They whom God advances to his ſervice, are bound to a particular and perpetual oblation of themſelves to him.

24. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 25. Speak unto Aaron and to his ſons, ſaying, [t] This is the law of the ſin-offering: [u] In the place where the burnt-offering is killed, ſhall the ſin-offering be killed before the LORD: [x] it is moſt holy. 26. [y] The prieſt that offereth it for ſin, ſhall eat it: in the holy place ſhall it be eaten, in the court of the tabernacle of the congregation. 27. Whatſoever ſhall touch the fleſh thereof ſhall be holy: and when there is ſprinkled of the blood thereof upon any garment, thou ſhalt waſh that whereon it was ſprinkled, in the holy place. 28. But the earthen veſſel wherein it is ſodden, [z] ſhall be broken: and if it be ſodden in a brazen pot, it ſhall be both ſcoured, and rinſed in water. 29. All the males among the prieſts ſhall eat thereof: it is moſt holy. 30. [a] And no ſin-offering whereof any of the blood is brought into the tabernacle of the congregation to reconcile withal in the holy place, ſhall be eaten: it ſhall be burnt in the fire.

t Chap. iv. 2.
u Ibid. i. 3, 5, 11. & iv. 24, 29, 33.
x Ibid. xxi. 22.
y Numb. xviii. 9.
z Chap. xi. 33.
a Chap. iv. 7, 11, 12, 18, 21. & xvi. 27. Heb. xiii. 11.

v. 24—30. In thoſe particular offerings for ſin, on the great day of atonement, or for a prieſt, or the whole congregation where the blood was brought into the tabernacle, no part was to be eaten, but the ſacrifice burnt with fire, tho' in general the ſin-offering belonged to the prieſts. It was to be killed where the burnt-offering was killed, and eaten by them, and their ſons, in the court of the tabernacle; if any blood of it was ſprinkled on their cloaths, it muſt be waſhed out; and the veſſel it was boiled in, if earthen, broken; if braſs, ſcoured and rinſed with water. Note, (1.) Every chriſtian, as a ſpiritual prieſt, is fed by the ſacrifices he offers before the Lord. (2.) They who draw near to the table of the Lord, need examine themſelves, leaſt by their prophane approach, the blood of the covenant be found on their garments to condemn them, inſtead of on their conſcience to comfort them.

CHAP. VII.

Here is, 1. The law of the treſpaſs-offering, ver. 1—7. with ſome farther directions concerning the burnt-offering and the meat-offering, ver. 8, 9, 10. 2. The law of the peace-offering. The eating of it, ver. 11—21. on which occaſion the prohibition of eating of fat or blood is repeated, ver. 22—27. And the prieſts ſhare of it, ver. 28—34. 3. The concluſion of theſe inſtitutions, ver. 35—38.

1. LIkewiſe [a] this is the law of the treſpaſs-offering: [b] it is moſt holy. 2. [c] In the place where they kill the burnt-offering, ſhall they kill the treſpaſs-offering: and the blood thereof ſhall he ſprinkle round about upon the altar. 3. And he ſhall offer of it, [d] all the fat thereof; the rump, and the fat that covereth the inwards, 4. And the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them, which is by the flanks, and the caul that is above the liver, with the kidneys, it ſhall he take away. 5. And the prieſt ſhall burn them upon the altar, for an offering made by fire unto the LORD: it is a treſpaſs-offering. 6. [e] Every male among the prieſts ſhall eat thereof: it ſhall be eaten in the holy place: [f] it is moſt holy. 7. As the ſin-offering is, [g] ſo is the treſpaſs-offering: there is one law for them: the prieſt that maketh atonement therewith, ſhall have it. 8. And the prieſt that offereth any man's burnt-offering, even the prieſt ſhall have to himſelf the ſkin of the burnt-offering which he hath offered. 9. And [h] all the meat-offering that is baken in the oven, and all that is dreſſed in the frying-pan, and † in the pan, ſhall be the prieſt's that offereth it. 10. And every meat-offering mingled with oil, and dry, ſhall all the ſons of Aaron have, one as much as another.

a Ver. 6. Chap. xiv. 13.
b Ibid. xxi. 22.
c Ibid. i. 3, 5, 11. & iv. 24, 29, 33.
d Chap. iii. 4, 10. & iv. 8, 9. Exod. xxix. 13.
e Numb. xviii. 9, 10.
f Chap. xiv. 13.
g Ibid. vi. 26.
h Chap. ii. 3, 10. Numb. xviii. 9.
† Or on the flat plate or ſlice.

v. 1—10. The treſpaſs-offering was diſpoſed of as the ſin-offering. It was the prieſt's who offered it, as was alſo the hide of the burnt-offering, and the meat-offering which was dreſſed, but the undreſſed meat-offerings were divided among all the prieſts in waiting. Note, (1.) They who labour moſt in the ſervice of God, deſerve to be beſt paid. (2.) They who ſerve at the ſame altar, ſhould be careful to communicate one to another of their good things: a covetous prieſt is a monſter in the ſanctuary!

11. And [i] this is the law of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings, which he ſhall offer unto the LORD. 12. If he offer it for a thankſgiving, then he ſhall offer with the ſacrifice of thankſgiving unleavened cakes mingled with oil, and unleavened wafers [k] anointed with oil, and cakes mingled with oil, of fine flour fried. 13. Beſides the cakes, he ſhall offer for his offering leavened bread, with the ſacrifice of thankſgiving of his peace-offerings. 14. And of it he ſhall offer one out of the whole oblation, for an heave-offering unto the LORD, and it ſhall be the prieſts that ſprinkleth the blood of the peace-offerings. 15. And the fleſh of the ſacrifice of his peace-offerings for thankſgiving, ſhall be eaten the ſame day that it is offered: he ſhall not leave any of it until the morning. 16. But [l] if the ſacrifice of his offering be a vow, or a voluntary offering, it ſhall be eaten the ſame day that he offereth his ſacrifice: and on the morrow alſo the remainder of it ſhall be eaten. 17. But the remainder of the fleſh of the ſacrifice on the third day, ſhall be burnt with fire. 18. And if any of the fleſh of the ſacrifice of his peace-offerings be eaten at all on the third day, it ſhall not be accepted, neither ſhall it be imputed unto him that offereth it: it ſhall be an abomination, and the ſoul that eateth of it, ſhall bear his iniquity. 19. And the fleſh that toucheth any unclean thing, ſhall not be eaten, it ſhall be burnt with fire: and as for the fleſh, all that be clean ſhall eat thereof. 20. But the ſoul that eateth of the fleſh of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings, that pertain unto the LORD, [m] having his uncleanneſs upon him, even [n] that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people. 21. Moreover, the ſoul that ſhall touch any unclean thing, as [o] the uncleanneſs of man, or any [p] unclean beaſt, or any abominable unclean thing, and eat of the fleſh of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings, which pertain unto the LORD, even that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people.

i Chap. iii. 1. & xxii. 18, 21.
k Ibid. ii. 4. Numb. vi. 15.
l Ibid. xix 6, 7, 8.
m Ibid. xv. 3.
n Gen. xvii. 14.
o Chap. xii. & xiii. & 15.
p Ibid. xi. 24, 28.

v. 11—21. Farther directions about peace-offerings. They were offered on occaſion of ſome particular deliverance, or as a vow, or to ſupplicate ſome mercy. With them, leavened bread was offered, as well as the unleavened meat-offering: they muſt be eaten the ſame day they were offered, if a thankſgiving; and at fartheſt the next, if a vow; if ought remained, it muſt be burnt. When the offering of God's part on the altar was made, the reſt was permitted to be eaten at home by the prieſts, and offerers and their families, not having any ceremonial uncleanneſs; only if in removing it to their houſes it touched any unclean thing, it muſt not be eaten, but burnt. Learn hence, (1.) Though we are left at liberty about our peace-offerings, the grateful heart needs no command, but is willing of its own accord. (2.) Let thoſe who come to feaſt before God, examine themſelves, leaſt, inſtead of a bleſſing, they eat and drink their own damnation.

22. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 23. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, [q] Ye ſhall eat no manner of fat, of ox, or of ſheep, or of goat. 24. And the fat of the † beaſt that dieth of itſelf, and the fat of that which is torn with beaſts, may be uſed in any other uſe: but ye ſhall in no wiſe eat of it. 25. For whoſoever eateth the fat of the beaſt, of which men offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, even the ſoul that eateth it, ſhall be cut off from his people. 26. [r] Moreover, ye ſhall eat no manner of blood, whether it be of fowl, or of beaſt, in any of your dwellings. 27. Whatſoever ſoul it be that eateth any manner of blood, even that ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people. 28. ¶

And

q Chap. iii. 17.
† Heb. Carcaſe.
r Gen. ix. 4. Chap. iii. 17. & xvii. 14.

And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 29. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, He that offereth the ſacrifice of his peace-offerings unto the LORD, ſhall bring his oblation unto the LORD, of the ſacrifice of his peace offerings. 30. [s] His own hands ſhall bring the offerings of the LORD made by fire, the fat with the breaſt; it ſhall he bring, that [t] the breaſt may be waved for a wave-offering before the LORD. 31. And the prieſt ſhall burn the fat upon the altar: but the breaſt ſhall be Aaron's and his ſons. 32. And the right ſhoulder ſhall ye give unto the prieſt for an heave-offering, of the ſacrifices of your peace-offerings. 33. He among the ſons of Aaron that offereth the blood of the peace-offerings, and the fat, ſhall have the right ſhoulder for his part. 34. For [u] the wave-breaſt and the heave-ſhoulder have I taken of the children of Iſrael, from off the ſacrifices of their peace-offerings, and have given them unto Aaron the prieſt, and unto his ſons, by a ſtatute for ever, from among the children of Iſrael.

[s] Chap. iii. 3, 4, 9, 14.
[t] Exod. xxix. 24, 27.
[u] Chap. x. 14. Exod. xxix. 28. Numb. xviii. 18. Deut. xviii. 3.

v. 22—34. We have here,

1. The prohibition of fat and blood repeated. They muſt not eat the fat of any beaſt that was offered in ſacrifices, though of the other clean beaſts they might eat the fat; but the blood of every creature is expreſsly forbidden. In reverence to God's altar, they muſt abſtain from the fat, but the atonement for the ſoul rendered the blood ſtill more ſacred.

2. The prieſt's part in the ſacrifice is deſcribed, and the manner of its being preſented: the prieſt cut off the ſhoulder and neck from the beaſt, and laid them with the fat, on the offerer's hands, and he brought them to the door of the tabernacle, and waved them in token of dedication to the Lord. The fat was the Lord's, and burnt; the ſhoulder was the portion of the prieſt who ſacrificed, and the breaſt belonged to the high-prieſt and his family. Note, (1.) They who honour God, will have a regard about the becoming maintenance of his miniſters, and ſhare their morſel with them. (2.) The Lord's ſupper is a feaſt upon a ſacrifice, where blood is ſhed, and a feaſt of mercies provided for miniſters and people. Let us then together often keep the feaſt.

35. ¶ This is the portion of the anointing of Aaron, and of the anointing of his ſons, out of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, in the day when he preſented them to miniſter unto the LORD in the prieſts office: 36. Which the LORD commanded to be given them of the children of Iſrael, [x] in the day that he anointed them, by a ſtatute for ever, throughout their generations. 37. This is the law of the burnt-offering, of the meat-offering, and of the ſin-offering, and of the treſpaſs-offering, and of the conſecrations, and of the ſacrifice of the peace-offerings: 38. Which the LORD commanded Moſes in mount Sinai, in the day that he commanded the children of Iſrael to offer their oblations unto the LORD, in the wilderneſs of Sinai.

[x] Chap. viii. 12, 30. Exod. xl. 13, 15.

v. 35—38. It was a juſt proviſion thus to care for the ſons of Aaron, and an unalterable law that Iſrael ſhould offer their oblations. God's worſhip and ſervice are ſtill our indiſpenſible duty, and God's miniſters have a right to a worthy portion; which though they may be defrauded of by the impiety of men, they ſhall not fail to find in God, who will remember them for good.

CHAP. VIII.

This chapter gives us an account of the ſolemn and public conſecration of Aaron and his ſons, according to God's appointment, ver. 1—5. (1.) They were waſhed and dreſſed, ver. 1—9, 13. (2.) The tabernacle and the utenſils of it were anointed, and then the prieſts, ver. 10—12. (3.) A ſin-offering was offered for them, ver. 14—17. (4.) A burnt-offering, ver. 18—21. (5.) The ram of conſecration, ver. 22—30. (6.) The continuance of this ſolemnity for ſeven days, ver. 31—36.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. [a] Take Aaron and his ſons with him, and [b] the garments, and [c] the anointing oil, and a bullock for the ſin-offering, and two rams, and a baſket of unleavened bread. 3. And gather thou all the congregation together unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. 4. And Moſes did as the LORD commanded him, and the aſſembly was gathered together unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. 5. And Moſes ſaid unto the congregation, [d] This is the thing which the LORD commanded to be done. 6. And Moſes brought Aaron and his ſons, and [e] waſhed them with water. 7. And [f] he put upon him the coat, and girded him with a girdle, and clothed him with the robe, and put the ephod upon him, and he girded him with the curious girdle of the ephod, and bound it unto him therewith. 8. And he put the breaſt-plate upon him: alſo [g] he put in the breaſt-plate the Urim and Thummim. 9. And [h] he put the mitre upon his head: alſo upon the mitre, even upon his fore-front did he put the golden plate, the holy crown; [i] as the LORD commanded Moſes. 10. [k] And Moſes took the anointing oil, and anointed the tabernacle, and all that was therein, and ſanctified them. 11. And he ſprinkled thereof upon the altar ſeven times, and anointed the altar, and all his veſſels, both the laver and his foot, to ſanctify them. 12. [l] And he poured of the anointing oil upon Aaron's head, and anointed him to ſanctify him. 13. [m] And Moſes brought Aaron's ſons, and put coats upon them, and girded them with girdles, and † put bonnets upon them; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

[a] Exod. xxix. 1.
[b] Ibid. xxviii. 2, 4.
[c] Ibid. xxx. 24.
[d] Exod. xxix. 4.
[e] Ibid. ib.
[f] Ibid. xxviii. 4. & xxix. 5.
[g] Ibid. xxviii. 30.
[h] Ibid. xxix. 6.
[i] Ibid. xxviii. 37, &c.
[k] Ibid. xxx. 26.
[l] Chap. xxi. 10, 12. Exod. xxix. 7. & xxx. 30. Pſal. cxxxiii. 2. Ecclus xlv. 15.
[m] Exod. xxix. 8.
† Heb. Bound.

v. 1—13. Aaron and his ſons are here conſecrated. The people are called to the door of the tabernacle, to grace the ſolemnity, and by their prayers, to implore the divine benediction. Moſes, according to God's directions, proceeds in the conſecration; he firſt waſhes them. They who are to preach the efficacy of the blood of Chriſt, muſt firſt themſelves be waſhed by it, and ſhew by their own examples the purity they teach. Aaron is cloathed with the beautiful garments and diadem, and anointed with the holy oil, as is alſo the tabernacle, and all the veſſels of the ſanctuary. Note, (1.) Every believer in Jeſus hath brighter robes provided for him, even garments of everlaſting righteouſneſs, and crowns of glory never-fading. (2.) The oil ran down from the high-prieſt's head to the ſkirts of his cloathing: the gifts and graces of the Holy Ghoſt, wherewith our great high-prieſt was anointed, deſcend to every member of his body myſtical, who have an anointing from the Holy One.

14. [n] And he brought the bullock for the ſin-offering, and Aaron and his ſons [o] laid their hands upon the head of the bullock for the ſin-offering. 15. And he ſlew it, and Moſes took the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about with his finger, and [p] purified the altar; and poured the blood at the bottom of the altar, and ſanctified it, to make reconciliation upon it. 16. And he took all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and Moſes burnt it upon the altar. 17. But the bullock and his hide, his fleſh and his dung, he burnt with fire without the camp; [q] as the LORD commanded Moſes. 18. [r] And he brought the ram for the burnt-offering: and Aaron and his ſons laid their hands upon the head of the ram. 19. And he killed it, and Moſes ſprinkled the blood upon the altar round about. 20. And he cut the ram into pieces, and Moſes burnt the head, and the pieces, and the fat. 21. And he waſhed the inwards and the legs in water; and Moſes burnt the whole ram upon the altar: it was a burnt-ſacrifice for a ſweet ſavour, and an offering made by fire unto the LORD; [s] as the LORD commanded Moſes. 22. ¶ [t] And he brought the other ram, the ram of conſecration: and Aaron and his ſons laid their hands upon the head of the ram. 23. And he ſlew it, and Moſes took of the blood of it, and put it upon the tip of Aaron's right ear, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot. 24. And he brought Aaron's ſons, and Moſes put of the blood upon the tip of their right ear, and upon the thumbs of their right hands, and upon the great toes of their right feet: and Moſes ſprinkled the blood upon the altar round about. 25. And he took the fat, and the rump, and all the fat that was upon the inwards, and the caul above the liver, and the two kidneys, and their fat, and the right ſhoulder. 26. [u] And out of the baſket of unleavened bread, that was before the LORD, he took one unleavened cake, and a cake of oiled bread, and one wafer, and put them on the fat, and upon the right ſhoulder. 27 [x] And he put all upon Aaron's hands, and upon his ſons hands, and waved them for a wave-offering before [n] Exod. xxix. 1, 10.

[o] Chap. i. 4.
[p] Exod. xxix. 36.
[q] Chap. iv. 11. Exod. xxix. 14.
[r] Ibid. 15.
[s] Ibid. 18.
[t] Ibid. 19, 31.
[u] Ibid. 23.
[x] Ibid. 24, &c.

the LORD. 28. And Moſes took them from off their hands, and burnt them on the altar upon the burnt-offering; they were conſecrations for a ſweet ſavour: [y] it is an offering made by fire unto the LORD. 29. And [z] Moſes took the breaſt and waved it for a wave-offering before the LORD: for of the ram of conſecration it was Moſes part; as the LORD commanded Moſes. 30. [a] And Moſes took of the anointing oil, and of the blood which was upon the altar, and ſprinkled it upon Aaron, and upon his garments, and upon his ſons, and upon his ſons garments with him, and ſanctified Aaron, and his garments, and his ſons, and his ſons garments with him.

[y] Exod. xxix. 25.
[z] Ibid. 26.
[a] Ibid 21. & xxx. 30.

v. 14—30. They who were to offer ſacrifice for the ſins of others, firſt need make atonement for their own. Nothing fits a miniſter to deal with wounded conſciences, or engages him to have compaſſion to the tempted, ſo much as a humbling ſenſe of his own ſins.

A bullock was offered for a ſin-offering, a ram as a burnt-offering, and another for conſecration; the blood of which was partly ſprinkled on the altar, and partly put upon their right ears, thumbs, and great toes, and on their garments; and a cake of the meat-offering was put into their hands with the wave-ſhoulder, and burnt upon the altar. Learn hence, (1.) That they who are called to the office of the miniſtry, ought to be deeply thankful to God for the honour he puts upon them. (2.) Every prieſt is married to the altar, and engages to give up himſelf wholly to the work of the miniſtry. (3.) We ſhall always miniſter with comfort to others, when we have the blood of ſprinkling ſpeaking peace to our own ſouls.

31. ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, and to his ſons, Boil the fleſh at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and there [b] eat it with the bread that is in the baſket of conſecrations, as I commanded, ſaying, Aaron and his ſons ſhall eat it. 32. And that which remaineth of the fleſh and of the bread, ſhall ye burn with fire. 33. And ye ſhall not go out of the door of the tabernacle of the congregation in ſeven days, until the days of your conſecration be at an end: for [c] ſeven days ſhall he conſecrate you. 34. As he hath done this day, ſo the LORD hath commanded to do, to make an atonement for you. 35. Therefore ſhall ye abide at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation day and night, ſeven days, and keep the charge of the LORD, that ye die not: for ſo I am commanded. 36. So Aaron and his ſons did all things which the LORD commanded by the hand of Moſes.

[b] Ibid. 31.
[c] Ibid. xxx. 35. Ezek. xliii. 25.

v. 31—36. Seven days the conſecration laſted; every day the ſame ſacrifices were repeated; and they are enjoined, on penalty of death, not to go out of the tabernacle, but to keep the charge of the Lord day and night; and the mean while, their peace-offerings were to be eaten before the Lord, according to the commandment; all which was exactly performed. Note, (1.) They who will ſerve the Lord, muſt learn to endure hardneſs, as good ſoldiers, and to diſengage themſelves from the affairs of this life. (2.) They who have the charge of the Lord, have an awful charge indeed. If through their neglect the ſinner die in his iniquity, his blood will be required at their hands. (3.) When we have once ſolemnly given up ourſelves to God, we muſt never look back. (4.) They who give themſelves up to him, ſhall be ſatisfied with the plenteouſneſs of his houſe. God himſelf will be their portion and exceeding great reward.

CHAP. IX.

Aaron and his ſons immediately enter upon the execution of their office. 1. Moſes (no doubt by a direction from God) appoints a meeting between God and his prieſts, and the repreſentatives of his people, aſſuring them that he would appear to them, ver. 1—7. 2. They meet according to the appointment. (1.) Aaron offers a ſin-offering and a burnt-offering for himſelf, ver. 8—14. and then the offerings for the people, whom he bleſſed in the name of the Lord, ver. 15—22. (2.) God ſignifies his acceptance, 1. Of their perſons, by ſhewing them his glory, ver. 23. 2. Of their ſacrifices, by conſuming them with fire from heaven, ver. 24.

1. AND [a] it came to paſs on the eighth day, that Moſes called Aaron and his ſons, and the elders of Iſrael: 2. And he ſaid unto Aaron, [b] Take thee a young calf for a ſin-offering, and [c] a ram for a burnt-offering, without blemiſh, and offer them before the LORD. 3. And unto the children of Iſrael thou ſhalt ſpeak, ſaying, [d] Take ye a kid of the goats for a ſin-offering, and a calf, and a lamb, both of the firſt year, without blemiſh, for a burnt-offering. 4. Alſo a bullock and a ram, for peace-offerings, to ſacrifice before the LORD; and a meat-offering mingled with oil: for [e] to day the LORD will appear unto you. 5. ¶ And they brought that which Moſes commanded before the tabernacle of the congregation: and all the congregation drew near and ſtood before the LORD. 6. And Moſes ſaid, This is the thing which the LORD commanded that ye ſhould do: and the glory of the LORD ſhall appear unto you. 7. And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, Go unto the altar, and [f] offer thy ſin-offering, and thy burnt-offering, and make an atonement for thyſelf, and for the people: and offer the offering of the people, and make an atonement for them; as the LORD commanded.

[a] Ezek. xliii. 27.
[b] Chap. iv. 3. & viii. 14.
[c] Ibid. viii. 18.
[d] Chap. iv. 23. Ezra vi. 17.
[e] Ver. 23. Exod. xxix. 43.
[f] Hebr. v. 3. & vii. 27. & ix. 7.

v. 1—7. They who are ordained for the ſervice of the miniſtry, muſt know no idleneſs. Wo to the ſlumbering ſhepherds! Aaron and his ſons muſt immediately, on their conſecration, enter on the ſervice.

1. They muſt begin the work of ſacrificing. As their own ſin would be their firſt concern, a calf of atonement is ordered, and a ram for a burnt-offering. To ſave ourſelves, will beſt enable us to ſave thoſe who hear us: the people alſo are enjoined to bring their offering to Aaron, that he may offer it up, as an atonement for them. Note, It is among the deepeſt concerns of a faithful miniſter, to bring the people committed to his care into a ſtate of reconciliation with God.

2. God promiſes to manifeſt an eſpecial diſplay of his glory to them, as a token of his good pleaſure towards them. Note, (1.) When we go forth to the work of the miniſtry, under a divine call, God will ſenſibly own our labours to our unſpeakable comfort. (2.) When God's people aſſemble in his worſhip, they ſhall ſee his glory. He will manifeſt himſelf to them, as he doth not to the world.

8. ¶ Aaron therefore went unto the altar, and ſlew the calf of the ſin-offering, which was for himſelf. 9. And [g] the ſons of Aaron brought the blood unto him: and he dipt his finger in the blood, and [h] put it upon the horns of the altar, and poured out the blood at the bottom of the altar. 10. [i] But the fat, and the kidneys, and the caul above the liver of the ſin-offering he burnt upon the altar; [k] as the LORD commanded Moſes. 11. [l] And the fleſh and the hide he burnt with fire without the camp. 12. And he ſlew the burnt-offering, and Aaron's ſons preſented unto him the blood [m] which he ſprinkled round about upon the altar. 13. [n] And they preſented the burnt-offering unto him, with the pieces thereof, and the head, and he burnt them upon the altar. 14. [o] And he did waſh the inwards, and the legs, and burnt them upon the burnt-offering on the altar. 15. ¶ And he brought the people's offering, and took the goat which was the ſin-offering for the people, and ſlew it, and offered it for ſin, as the firſt. 16. And he brought the burnt-offering, and offered it [p] according to the † manner. 17. And he brought [q] the meat-offering, and ‡ took a handful thereof, and burnt it upon the altar, [r] beſide the burnt-ſacrifice of the morning. 18. He ſlew alſo the bullock and the ram, for [s] a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, which was for the people: and Aaron's ſons preſented unto him the blood (which he ſprinkled upon the altar round about.) 19. And the fat of the bullock, and of the ram, the rump, and that which covereth the inwards, and the kidneys, and the caul above the liver. 20. And they put the fat upon the breaſts, and he burnt the fat upon the altar. 21. And the breaſts and the right ſhoulder Aaron waved for [t] a wave-offering, before the LORD; as Moſes commanded. 22. And Aaron lift up his hand towards the people, and [u] bleſſed them: and came down from offering of the ſin-offering, and the burnt-offering, and peace-offerings.

[g] Chap. viii. 15.
[h] See Chap. iv. 7.
[i] Chap. viii. 16.
[k] Ibid. iv. 8.
[l] Ibid. 11. & viii. 17.
[m] Ibid. viii. 19.
[n] Ibid. 20.
[o] Ibid. 21.
[p] Ibid. i. 3, 10.
† Or ordinance.
[q] Chap. ii. 1, 2.
‡ Heb. Filled his hand out of it.
[r] Exod. xxix. 38.
[s] Chap. iii. 1.
[t] Ibid. vii. 34. Exod. xxix. 34.
[u] Numb. vi. 23. Deut. xxi. 5.

v. 8—22. Aaron here begins his miniſtrations, and offers the ſeveral different kinds of ſacrifice, according to the commandment of the Lord. Note, In all our miniſtrations, we muſt make his word our rule.—The daily burnt ſacrifice was offered, beſides theſe extraordinary ones. Our ſtated ſeaſons of worſhip muſt never be neglected, becauſe of any extraordinary ſervices or buſineſs. When the whole was finiſhed, he, as high-prieſt on God's behalf, gave his benediction to the people.

Before Chriſt 1490.

Where God accepts our offerings, he will leave a bleſſing behind him.

[x] Gen. iv. 4. Judg. vi. 21. 1 Kings xviii. 38. 2 Chron. vii. 1. 2 Mac. ii. 10, 11.

23. And Moſes and Aaron went into the tabernacle of the congregation, and came out, and bleſſed the people, and the glory of the LORD appeared unto all the people. 24. And [x] there came a fire out from before the LORD, and conſumed upon the altar the burnt-offering, and the fat: which when all the people ſaw, they ſhouted, and fell on their faces.

v. 23, 24. Moſes goes with Aaron into the tabernacle, whether to pray for the promiſed manifeſtation of the divine glory, or to inſtruct him in the ſervice. At their return, they join in their benedictions upon the people who waited at the door of the tabernacle, and God ſealed the bleſſing, 1. By a viſible diſplay of his glory from the holy place. We are not told the manner, but probably in ſome auguſt appearance, like the fiery pillar which filled the ſanctuary the day it was ſet up. Note, It is good not to be weary of waiting upon God; a glimpſe of his glory, if but at parting, will amply repay our attendance. 2. There came a fire out from before the Lord, (from the appearance of his glory it ſhould ſeem) and conſumed the ſacrifice; moſt probably the evening ſacrifice now ready to be offered, with the fat of the peace-offerings that were to be burnt upon it. A gracious token of God's acceptance of their offerings, and of his conſtant benediction on thoſe who brought the ſacrifices to that altar, the fire of which now kindled by him, was never permitted to go out. Note, (1.) The fire of God's ſpirit in our heart, muſt kindle up unquenchable love, and conſume our vile affections. (2.) Unleſs he gives the holy fire of grace, none of our ſervices can pleaſe him. (3.) If it be kindled, we muſt ſupport it with the daily fuel of the word, meditation and prayer. 3. The people, with holy joy and reverential awe, ſhout and fall proſtrate before the Lord. Note, (1.) It is matter of great triumph to experience God's ſenſible preſence with our ſouls. (2.) The more we taſte of God's love, the more humble it will make us.

CHAP. X.

The ſtory of this chapter is as ſad an interruption to the inſtitutions of the levitical law, as that of the golden calf was to the account of the erecting of the tabernacle. Here is, 1. The ſin and death of Nadab and Abihu, the ſons of Aaron, ver. 1, 2. 2. The quieting of Aaron under this ſore affliction, ver. 3. 3. Orders given and obſerved about the funeral, and mourning, ver. 4—7. 4. A command to the prieſts not to drink wine when they went in to miniſter, ver. 8—11. 5. The care Moſes took that they ſhould go on with their work, notwithſtanding this ruffle, ver. 12—20.

[a] Num. iii. 3, 4. & xxvi. 61. 1 Chron. xxiv. 2. [b] Chap. xvi. 12.

1. AND [a] Nadab and Abihu, the ſons of Aaron, [b] took either of them his cenſer, and put fire therein, and put incenſe thereon, and offered ſtrange fire before the LORD, which he commanded them not. 2. And there went out fire from before the LORD, and devoured them, and they died before the LORD.

v. 1, 2. God who preſcribes his own worſhip, will ſee it obſerved, or execute exemplary judgment on the diſobedient; of which we have an awful inſtance in the puniſhment of Nadab and Abihu.

1. Their ſin was offering ſtrange incenſe; not that which God preſcribed, nor in the way, nor at the time he commanded. They ſeem to have been proud of their new office, and in haſte to run before God called them; not without ſuſpicion that they had drank too freely in their feaſts, and thus ruſhed, in their iniquity, into the preſence of the Lord. A drunken prieſt is a monſter indeed.

2. Their puniſhment; immediate death, in the very act of their rebellion. So God ſtops ſometimes the mouth of the profane with the lie and the oath half uttered, and lets the drunkard fall into eternal death. Fire from the Lord devoured them; not burnt up their bodies, but ſlew them, like lightning, without ſingeing even their garments. Thus damned ſinners, tormented with fire from the preſence of the Lord, continue conſuming, yet unconſumed, in everlaſting burnings.

[c] Exod. xix. Iſa. lii. 11. [d] Exod. vi. 18, 22. Num. iii. 19. [e] Chap. xiii. 45. & xxi. 1, 10. Num. vi. 6. Deut. xxxiii. 9. Ezek. xxiv. 16. [f] Exod. xxviii. 41.

3. Then Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, This is it that the LORD ſpake, ſaying, [c] I will be ſanctified in them that come nigh me, and before all the people I will be glorified: and Aaron held his peace. 4. And Moſes called Miſhael and Elzaphan, the ſons of [d] Uzziel, the uncle of Aaron, and ſaid unto them, Come near, carry your brethren from before the ſanctuary, out of the camp. 5. So they went near, and carried them in their coats out of the camp; as Moſes had ſaid. 6. And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, and unto Eleazer, and unto Ithamar his ſons, [e] Uncover not your heads, neither rend your clothes, leſt you die, and leſt wrath come upon all the people: but let your brethren, the whole houſe of Iſrael, bewail the burning which the LORD hath kindled. 7. And ye ſhall not go out from the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, leſt you die; for [f] the anointing oil of the LORD is upon you: and they did according to the word of Moſes.

Before Chriſt 1490.

v. 3—7. An aweful ſtroke this, which muſt ſpread a terror around, and particularly affect Aaron and his family. But Moſes beheld the juſtice of the judgment, and therefore takes the proper means to prevent any interruption in the preſent ſolemnity.

1. He endeavours to ſuggeſt arguments of reſignation to Aaron, from the juſtice of the ſentence, and the glory of God therein manifeſted. God had before often admoniſhed them of being holy in their approaches to him; and if they will not glorify him by obedience to his will, he muſt glorify himſelf by ſome exemplary ſtroke, for a warning to others. Note, (1.) God's word will ſurely be fulfilled; and it becomes us to acquieſce in it, however nearly concerned therein. (2.) They who draw near to God, muſt remember what a holy God they have to do with, that they may approach him with reverence and godly fear. (3.) When ſinners, eſpecially wicked miniſters, rob him of his glory, by their impiety and profaneneſs, he will ſometimes make them fearful monuments of his holy vengeance.

2. Aaron held his peace. Deeply touched as he was with the death of his ſons, he acknowledged the juſtice of God, and if He was glorified, dared not complain. Note, (1.) When God corrects us, it becomes us to be dumb, and not to open our mouths. We muſt always own, we have leſs than our iniquities deſerve. (2.) If our children are wicked, and God breaks forth upon them, parental tenderneſs muſt be ſwallowed up in approbation of the Divine holineſs.

3. Moſes commands the bodies to be removed. Aaron and his ſons might not touch them, leaſt they be defiled: their other near relations therefore take them up, and carry them without the camp, and bury them in their cloaths. Thus God gave the hoſt a ſolemn warning: if he began at his own prieſts, ſurely no other tranſgreſſors may hope to go unpuniſhed. It were greatly to be wiſhed, that our burying-places, like theirs, were farther removed from our churches. It ſeems both diſhonourable to the houſe of God, and cannot but be hurtful to the living, to make the place of worſhip the receptacle of dead corpſes.

4. Aaron and his ſons are forbid to ſhew any token of mourning, on penalty of death, leaſt they ſhould bring down wrath on all the people. They were now no longer their own, the holy anointing oil was upon them, and therefore all private regards muſt give way to their preſent relation to God. Note, (1.) They who would ſerve the Lord without diſtraction, muſt forget their worldly cares and ſorrows, when they appear before him. (2.) To repine at God's judgments, is to rebel againſt his government. (3.) The viſitations of God upon others, ſhould beget in our hearts holy jealouſy for ourſelves, not to provoke the like. (4.) The grace of God will reſtrain all immoderate grief: they who know God doth all things right, will kiſs the rod.

5. Though Aaron might not mourn, the people muſt. That fire that was kindled, might have burnt much farther than theſe. They might ſee herein the mercy of God, who had ſpared them, notwithſtanding their own deſerts; and this would lead them to grieve for their paſt provocations, whilſt they beheld what a fearful thing it was to fall in the hands of that God, who is ſuch a conſuming fire. Judgments on others are bleſſings to us, when they lead us to deeper mourning over our own ſins.

[g] Ezek. xliv. 21. 1 Tim. iii. 3. Tit. i. 7. [h] Jer. xv. 19. Ezek. xxii. 26. & xliv. 23.

8. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Aaron, ſaying, 9. [g] Do not drink wine nor ſtrong drink, thou nor thy ſons with thee, when ye go into the tabernacle of the congregation, leſt ye die: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout your generations: 10. And that ye may [h] put difference between holy and unholy; and between unclean and clean: 11. And that ye may teach the children of Iſrael all the ſtatutes which the LORD hath ſpoken unto them by the hand of Moſes.

v. 8—11. Aaron now being conſecrated high prieſt, God immediately addreſſes his commands to him. Wine and ſtrong drink are forbidden the prieſts, whenever they go to miniſter in holy things, for then they needed clear heads, as well as clean hearts, that they might rightly diſtinguiſh between holy and unholy, and their tranſgreſſion is threatned to be death: perhaps their brethren owed their ſin and ſuffering to this. Note, (1.) Drunkenneſs is highly criminal in all, but it is in miniſters doubly infamous. (2.) Intemperance is often attended with ſudden death. (3.) It is impoſſible they ſhould teach the people ſobriety, whoſe practice gives a lie to their preaching.

12. And Moſes ſpake unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar, and unto Ithamar his ſons that were left, [i] Take the meat-offering that remaineth of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and eat it [k] with leaven [l] beſide the altar; for [m] it is moſt holy. 13. And ye ſhall eat it in the holy place, becauſe it is thy due, and thy ſons due of the ſacrifices of the LORD made by fire: for [n] ſo I am commanded. 14. And [o] the wave-breaſt, and heave-ſhoulder ſhall ye eat in a clean place, thou and thy ſons, and thy daughters with thee: for they be thy due, and thy ſons due, which are given out of the ſacrifice of peace-offerings of the children of Iſrael. 15. [p] The heave-ſhoulder, and the wave-breaſt ſhall they bring, with the offerings made by fire of the fat, to wave it for a wave-offering before the LORD, and it ſhall be thine, and thy ſons with thee, by a ſtatute for ever, as the LORD hath commanded. 16. ¶ And Moſes diligently ſought [q] the goat of the ſin-offering, and behold, it was burnt: and he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, the ſons of Aaron, which were left alive, ſaying, 17. [r] Wherefore have ye not eaten the ſin-offering in the holy place, ſeeing it is moſt holy, and God hath given it you to bear the iniquity of the congregation, to make atonement for them before the LORD? 18. Behold, the blood of it was not brought in, within the holy place: ye ſhould indeed have eaten it in the holy place [s] as I commanded. 19. And Aaron ſaid unto Moſes, Behold, [t] this day have they offered their ſin-offering, and their burnt-offering before the LORD; and ſuch things have befallen me: and if I had eaten the ſin-offering to-day, ſhould it have been accepted in the ſight of the LORD? 20. And when Moſes heard that, he was content.

[i] Chap. ii. 3, 10. & v. 13. Ezek. xliv. 29.
[k] Chap. ii. 4, 5, 11. & vi. 16, 17.
[l] Ibid vi. 16.
[m] Ibid. ii. 3, 10. & vi. 16.
[n] Ibid. ii. 3. & vi. 16.
[o] Exod. xxix. 24. Chap. vii. 31, 34.
[p] Ibid. 29, 30.
[q] Ibid. ix. 3.
[r] Ibid. vi. 26, 29.
[s] Ibid. 26.
[t] Ibid. ix. 8.

v. 12—20. The ſervice muſt proceed, though the breach was ſo ſad. The remaining prieſts muſt learn greater caution, and ſince they are ſpared, uſe greater diligence. 1. Moſes repeats the former directions concerning the offerings that were to be eaten before the Lord, and thoſe that were to be eaten at home at their houſes. Miſtakes of ignorance are dangerous, though not ſo deadly as preſumptuous ſins. 2. An error committed in the ſin-offering, v. 16. they had burnt the whole without the camp, though the blood had not been brought into the holy place, contrary to the injunction, chap. vi. 26. 3. Moſes enquires concerning it, and is angry with Aaron and his ſons. Holy zeal in God's cauſe, is laudible: but though we condemn, we ſhould hear what may be alledged in mitigation of the offender. 4. Aaron's excuſe: he pleads his affliction, v. 19. and how could he feaſt with ſuch a mourning heart? He ſubmitted as an Iſraelite, but he felt as a father. Note, (1.) We are not forbidden to feel, though we are forbidden to find fault with God's dealings. (2.) Worldly ſorrows are often great interruptions to our holy duties: the bitter remembrance breaks in, and diſcompoſes us. 5. Moſes is ſatisfied with the plea: either he thought the matter juſtified by Aaron's circumſtances, or that as his intention was to pleaſe God in what he did, the Lord would pardon his infirmity. Jeſus our high-prieſt, is a gracious maſter, and is tenderly touched with the feeling of our infirmities.

CHAP. XI.

This chapter appoints the different kinds of fleſh, which might or might not be eaten. 1. Of beaſts, ver. 1—8. 2. Of fiſhes, ver. 9—12. 3. Of birds, ver. 13—19. 4. Of creeping things, which are diſtinguiſhed into two ſorts, flying creeping things, ver. 20—28. and creeping things upon the earth, ver. 29—43. And the law concludes with the general rule of holineſs, and reaſons for it, ver. 44—47.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and to Aaron, ſaying unto them, 2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, [a] Theſe are the beaſts which ye ſhall eat among all the beaſts that are on the earth. 3. Whatſoever parteth the hoof, and is cloven-footed, and cheweth the cud among the beaſts, that ſhall ye eat. 4. Nevertheleſs, theſe ſhall ye not eat, of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the hoof: as the camel, becauſe he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you. 5. And the cony, becauſe he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you. 6. And the hare, becauſe he cheweth the cud, but divideth not the hoof; he is unclean unto you. 7. And [b] the ſwine, though he divide the hoof, and be cloven-footed, yet he cheweth not the cud; [c] he is unclean to you. 8. Of their fleſh ſhall ye not eat, and their carcaſe ſhall ye not touch: [d] they are unclean unto you.

[a] Deut. xiv. 4. Acts x. 12, 14.
[b] 2 Mac. vi. 18. & vii. 1.
[c] Iſa. lxv. 4. & lxvi. 3, 17.
[d] See Acts x. 14, 15. & xv. 29. Rom. xiv. 14, 17. 1 Cor. viii. 8. Col. ii. 21.

v. 1—8. The diſtinction of clean and unclean beaſts was before the flood, and, no doubt, continued afterwards, See Gen. xliii. 32. God now expreſsly preſcribes rules to his people in this point, v. 3; and if they had no other reaſon than God's will, it were ſufficient for them to acquieſce in his diſpoſition. But the beaſts forbidden were either for the moſt part unwholeſome, or diſagreeable; and God would make the fence ſtrong between his people and the nations around them, who either regarded many of theſe beaſts as holy to their deities, or uſed them for food, which would prevent the Iſraelites from frequenting their houſes and tables. Note, (1.) God's people muſt always be ſeparated from the world. Though theſe ceremonial diſtinctions are ceaſed, yet the table of the godly man, and of the profane, will afford as great a difference ſtill; not only in the temperance of the one and the luxury of the other, but alſo in the prayer which conſecrates the one, and the impious neglect of it which profanes the other. (2.) The beaſts which anſwered but half the deſcription, v. 3, were unclean. Thoſe who with ſome marks of children of God, carry evident proofs of the want of others, are only almoſt Chriſtians, and as ſurely periſh, unleſs altogether ſuch, as they who make no pretences to religion. (3.) They muſt not touch, when dead at leaſt, what they may not eat when living, v. 8. If we keep not out of the way of temptation, we ſhall not long keep from evil.

9. ¶ Theſe ſhall ye eat of all that are in the waters: whatſoever hath fins and ſcales in the waters, in the ſeas, and in the rivers, them ſhall ye eat. 10. And all that have not fins nor ſcales in the ſeas, and in the rivers, of all that move in the waters, and of any living thing, which is in the waters, they ſhall be an abomination unto you. 11. They ſhall be even an abomination unto you: ye ſhall not eat of their fleſh, but you ſhall have their carcaſes in abomination. 12. Whatſoever hath no fins nor ſcales in the waters, that ſhall be an abomination unto you.

v. 9—12. A general rule concerning fiſhes, v. 9, 10. We never heard of unclean fiſh before; but the Jews, who were to be kept ſeparate for God, were fenced with peculiar reſtraints. Note, God's Iſrael will ſtill deny themſelves many things, in which others indulge themſelves.

13. ¶ And theſe are they which ye ſhall have in abomination among the fowls, they ſhall not be eaten, they are an abomination: the eagle, and the oſſifrage, and the oſpray, 14. And the vulture, and the kite after his kind: 15. Every raven after his kind: 16. And the owl, and the night-hawk, and the cuckow, and the hawk after his kind: 17. And the little owl, and the cormorant, and the great owl, 18. And the ſwan, and the pelican, and the gier-eagle, 19. And the ſtork, the heron after her kind, and the lapwing, and the bat.

v. 13—19. The fowls which are unclean, are particularly ſpecified. Their names are uncertain now, and the inſtitution has ceaſed. They were in general birds of prey, or unclean feeders, or birds of the night. Note, God's people muſt not be rapacious, nor allow themſelves in any deeds of impurity or darkneſs. Theſe are ſtill forbidden things.

20. All fowls that creep going upon all four ſhall be an abomination unto you. 21. Yet theſe may ye eat of every flying creeping thing that goeth upon all four, which have legs above their feet, to leap withal upon the earth: 22. Even theſe of them ye may eat: [e] the locuſt after his kind, and the bald locuſt after his kind, and the beetle after his kind, and the graſhopper after his kind. 23. But all other flying creeping things, which have four feet, ſhall be an abomination unto you. 24. And for theſe ye ſhall be unclean: whoſoever toucheth the carcaſe of them ſhall be unclean until the even. 25. And whoſoever beareth ought of the carcaſe of them, ſhall [f] waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even. 26. The carcaſes of every beaſt which divideth the hoof, and is not cloven-footed, nor cheweth

[e] Mat. iii. 4. Mark i. 6.
[f] Chap. xiv. 8, 27. & xxviii. 40. Num. xix. 10, 22. & xxxi. 24.

the cud, are unclean unto you: every one that toucheth them ſhall be unclean. 27. And whatſoever goeth upon his paws, among all manner of beaſts, that go on all four, thoſe are unclean unto you: whoſo toucheth their carcaſe, ſhall be unclean until the even. 28. And he that beareth the carcaſe of them, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: they are unclean unto you. 29. ¶ Theſe alſo ſhall be unclean unto you among the creeping things that creep upon the earth: the weaſel, and [g] the mouſe, and the tortoiſe after his kind. 30. And the ferret, and the chameleon, and the lizard, and the ſnail, and the mole. 31. Theſe are unclean to you among all that creep; whoſoever doth touch them when they be dead, ſhall be unclean until the even. 32. And upon whatſoever any of them when they are dead doth fall, it ſhall be unclean, whether it be any veſſel of wood, or raiment, or ſkin, or ſack, whatſoever veſſel it be, wherein any work is done, it muſt be put into water, and it ſhall be unclean until the even; ſo it ſhall be cleanſed. 33. And every earthen veſſel whereinto any of them falleth, whatſoever is in it ſhall be unclean, and [h] ye ſhall break it. 34. Of all meat which may be eaten, that on which ſuch water cometh, ſhall be unclean: and all drink that may be drunk in every ſuch veſſel, ſhall be unclean. 35. And every thing, whereupon any part of their carcaſe falleth, ſhall be unclean; whether it be oven, or ranges for pots, they ſhall be broken down; for they are unclean, and ſhall be unclean unto you. 36. Nevertheleſs, a fountain or pit, † wherein there is plenty of water, ſhall be clean: but that which toucheth their carcaſe ſhall be unclean. 37. And if any part of their carcaſe fall upon any ſowing ſeed which is to be ſown; it ſhall be clean. 38. But if any water be put upon the ſeed, and any part of their carcaſe fall thereon; it ſhall be unclean unto you. 39. And if any beaſt of which ye may eat, die; he that toucheth the carcaſe thereof ſhall be unclean until the even. 40. [i] And he that eateth of the carcaſe of it, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: he alſo that beareth the carcaſe of it, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even. 41. And every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth, ſhall be an abomination: it ſhall not be eaten. 42. Whatſoever goeth upon the belly, and whatſoever goeth upon all four, or whatſoever ‡ hath more feet among all creeping things that creep upon the earth, them ye ſhall not eat: for they are an abomination.

[g] Iſa. lxvi. 17.

[h] Chap. vi. 28. & xv. 12.

† Heb. A gathering together of water.

[i] Chap. xvii. 15. & xxii. 8. Deut. xiv. 21. Ezek. iv. 14. & xliv. 31.

‡ Heb. Doth multiply feet.

v. 20—42. Further laws concerning inſects, v. 20—23. Flying creeping animals are all forbidden, and particular injunctions given concerning their carcaſes. Every one who touched them was unclean; and whatever they touched or fell upon muſt be waſhed, or, if earthen, muſt be broken, and the liquor ſpilt, except it be a fountain or pit, where there was plenty of water. And if a clean beaſt die, he who removed him was unclean till the even that he waſhed himſelf. In all which, God's Iſrael muſt learn the neceſſity of a holy walk and converſation. We ought at leaſt to be as careful of moral defilement, as they were of ceremonial.

43. [k] Ye ſhall not make † yourſelves abominable with any creeping thing that creepeth, neither ſhall ye make yourſelves unclean with them, that ye ſhould be defiled thereby. 44. For I am the LORD your God: ye ſhall therefore ſanctify yourſelves, and [l] ye ſhall be holy, for I am holy: neither ſhall ye defile yourſelves with any manner of creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. 45. For I am the LORD that bringeth you up out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: ye ſhall therefore be holy, for I am holy. 46. This is the law of the beaſts, and of the fowl, and of every living creature that moveth in the waters, and of every creature that creepeth upon the earth: 47. To make a difference between the unclean and the clean, and between the beaſt that may be eaten, and the beaſt that may not be eaten.

[k] Chap. xx. 25.

† Heb. Your ſouls.

[l] Chap. xix. 2. & xx. 7. 1 Theſ. iv. 7. 1 Pet. i. 15, 16.

v. 43—47. The great reaſon of all theſe injunctions is here given: Be ye holy, for I am holy. God deſigns in his ordinances to ſanctify his people for himſelf; and he who had ſeparated them, by bringing them forth from Egypt, might well enjoin them thus to ſeparate themſelves from the heathen around them. Note, (1.) They who are God's people, deſire conformity to him in holineſs. (2.) For this end they carefully obſerve all his inſtitutions, that in the means of grace they may grow in grace. (3.) We need be thankful that all theſe ceremonies are aboliſhed, and that now nothing is unclean of itſelf. When their forbidden meat comes on our tables, it ſhould excite freſh gratitude. (4.) Let us beware only of making that unholy by intemperance or forgetfulneſs of God, which in itſelf is good, when ſanctified by the word of God and prayer.

CHAP. XII.

The ceremonial uncleanneſs of women in childbirth, ver. 1—5. And their purification from that uncleanneſs, ver. 6—8.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, [a] If a woman have conceived ſeed, and born a man-child, then ſhe ſhall be unclean ſeven days; according to the days of the ſeparation for her infirmity ſhall ſhe be unclean. 3. And [b] in the eighth day, the fleſh of his foreſkin ſhall be circumciſed. 4. And ſhe ſhall then continue in the blood of her purifying three and thirty days: ſhe ſhall touch no hallowed thing, nor come into the ſanctuary, until the days of her purifying be fulfilled. 5. But if ſhe bear a maid-child, then ſhe ſhall be unclean two weeks, as in her ſeparation, and ſhe ſhall continue in the blood of her purifying threeſcore and ſix days.

[a] Luke ii. 22.

[b] Gen. xvii. 12. Luke i. 59. & ii. 21. John vii. 22.

v. 1—5. Women in child-bed were ceremonially unclean; as were alſo their attendants. If the child were a male, they were counted unclean ſeven days, till the child was circumciſed. If a female, fourteen; during which their huſbands came not near them; and thirty-three days more for a ſon, and twice as long for a daughter, they were ſeparated from the ſanctuary, and from all holy things. As the woman was firſt in the tranſgreſſion, ſhe ſuffers by child-bearing; and her ſeparation from the ſanctuary ſhews us the juſt deſert of every ſoul that now comes into the world, who is more than ceremonially unclean, even born in ſin, and conceived in wickedneſs, and therefore deſerving death from the womb.

6. And when the days of her purifying are fulfilled, for a ſon, or for a daughter; ſhe ſhall bring a lamb † of the firſt year for a burnt-offering, and [c] a young pigeon, or a turtle-dove, for a ſin-offering, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, unto the prieſt: 7. Who ſhall offer it before the LORD, and make an atonement for her, and ſhe ſhall be cleanſed from the iſſue of her blood. This is the law for her that hath born a male or a female. 8. And if † ſhe be not able to bring a lamb, then ſhe ſhall bring [d] two turtles, or two young pigeons; the one for the burnt-offering, and the other for a ſin-offering: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for her, and ſhe ſhall be clean.

† Heb. A ſon of his year.

[c] Ver. viii. Luke ii. 24.

† Heb. Her hand find not ſufficiency of.

[d] Ver. 6.

v. 6—8. When her days were fulfilled, ſhe muſt bring her offerings: 1. A thankſgiving for mercies; and a great mercy it is to be delivered from the pain and peril of child-birth. 2. A ſacrifice for her ſin. They who come from the bed of labour, have need to acknowledge the ſin that makes their ſufferings, and their impatience or unthankfulneſs under them.

The offering was according to the quality of the perſons; for the rich, a lamb and a pigeon; for the poor, a pair of pigeons or turtles. The mother of our Lord was reduced to the meaneſt ſacrifice; but it was her honour, that ſhe bore him, who taketh away the ſin of the world.

CHAP. XIII.

The ceremonial uncleanneſs of leproſy. (1.) Rules by which the prieſt muſt judge whether a man had the leproſy or no, 1. If it was a ſwelling, a ſcab, or a bright ſpot, ver. 1—17. 2. If it was a bile, ver. 18—23. 3. If it was an inflammation, ver. 24—28. 4. If it was in the head or beard, ver. 29—37. 5. If it was a bright ſpot, ver. 38, 39. 6. If it was in a bald head, ver. 40—44. (2.) Direction is given how the leper muſt be diſpoſed of, ver. 45, 46. (3.) Concerning the leproſy in garments, ver. 47—59.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and Aaron, ſaying, 2. When a man ſhall have in the ſkin of his fleſh a † riſing, a ſcab, or bright ſpot, and it be in the ſkin of his fleſh like the plague of leproſy, [a] then he † Or ſwelling.

[a] Deut. xvii. 8. xxiv. 8.

ſhall be brought unto Aaron the prieſt, or unto one of his ſons the prieſts. 3. And the prieſt ſhall look on the plague in the ſkin of the fleſh: and when the hair in the plague is turned white, and the plague in ſight be deeper than the ſkin of his fleſh; it is a plague of leproſy:
and the prieſt ſhall look on him, and pronounce him unclean. 4. If the bright ſpot be white in the ſkin of his fleſh, and in ſight be not deeper than the ſkin, and the hair thereof be not turned white; then the prieſt ſhall ſhut up him that hath the plague, ſeven days. 5. And the prieſt ſhall look on him the ſeventh day: and behold, if the plague in his ſight be at a ſtay, and the plague ſpread not in the ſkin; then the prieſt ſhall ſhut him up ſeven days more. 6. And the prieſt ſhall look on him again the ſeventh day: and behold, if the plague be ſomewhat dark, and the plague ſpread not in the ſkin;
the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean: it is but a ſcab, and he ſhall waſh his clothes, and be clean. 7. But if the ſcab ſpread much abroad in the ſkin, after that he hath been ſeen of the prieſt for his cleanſing; he ſhall be ſeen of the prieſt again. 8. And if the prieſt ſee, that behold the ſcab ſpreadeth in the ſkin, then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean: it is a leproſy. 9. ¶ When the plague of leproſy is in a man, then he ſhall be brought unto the prieſt. 10. And the prieſt ſhall ſee him: and behold, if the riſing be white in the ſkin, and it have turned the hair white, and there be † quick raw fleſh in the riſing; 11. It is an old leproſy in the ſkin of his fleſh, and the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean, and ſhall not ſhut him up: for he is unclean. 12. And if a leproſy break out abroad in the ſkin, and the leproſy cover all the ſkin of him that hath the plague, from his head even to his foot, whereſoever the prieſt looketh; 13. Then the prieſt ſhall conſider: and behold, if the leproſy have covered all his fleſh, he ſhall pronounce him clean that hath the plague: it is all turned white: he is clean. 14. But when raw fleſh appeareth in him, he ſhall be unclean.
15. And the prieſt ſhall ſee the raw fleſh, and pronounce him to be unclean: for the raw fleſh is unclean: it is a leproſy. 16. Or if the raw fleſh turn again, and be changed unto white, he ſhall come unto the prieſt: 17.
And the prieſt ſhall ſee him: and behold, if the plague be turned into white, then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean that hath the plague: he is clean.

† Heb. The quickening of living fleſh.

v. 1—17. We have here the treatment of the plague of leproſy. This ſeems to have been rather an uncleanneſs, than a diſeaſe; and, if a diſeaſe, not of the ſame kind with what at preſent paſſes under this name, but inflicted by the hand of God as a puniſhment, and therefore coming more properly under the inſpection of the prieſt than the phyſician. In it he was to uſe the greateſt circumſpection and deliberation. Raſh cenſures, or haſty concluſions, ill become God's miniſters. God lays down his rule of judgment. By the word of God muſt every man's ſpiritual eſtate be determined. Not every ſpot or ſore was a leproſy: if it were no more than ſkin-deep, nor had ſpread after being ſhut up, the perſon is clean. Infirmities attend the beſt of God's people; but every ſpot is not reprobacy. But if, after being ſhut up, it were deep, and ſpread, then he was pronounced unclean. Scandalous ſins are a juſt cauſe of excluſion from the church of God; and when, inſtead of mending after reproof, the evil ſpreads, then there is little hope. No time need be ſpent in waiting, where raw fleſh appeared in the ſore. Pride and ſelf-righteouſneſs are evident marks of a confirmed ſtate of ſpiritual leproſy. But if he were white all over, he was pronounced clean. They who ſee and feel their univerſal depravity and corruption, will come to Chriſt to be made whole. After inſpection, though clean, he muſt waſh his clothes. We need not only have our ſins once pardoned thro' the blood of the Lamb, but muſt every day come to the ſame fountain, to waſh away the ſpots which daily appear upon us.

18. ¶ The fleſh alſo, in which, even in the ſkin thereof was a bile, and is healed, 19. And in the place of the bile there be a white riſing, or a bright ſpot white, and ſomewhat reddiſh, and it be ſhewed to the prieſt; 20. And if when the prieſt ſeeth it, behold, it be in ſight lower than the ſkin, and the hair thereof be turned white; the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean: it is a plague of leproſy broken out of the bile. 21. But if the prieſt look on it, and behold, there be no white hairs therein, and if it be not lower than the ſkin, but be ſomewhat dark; then the prieſt ſhall ſhut him up ſeven days. 22. And if it ſpread much abroad in the ſkin, then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean; it is a plague. 23. But if the bright ſpot ſtay in his place, and ſpread not, it is a burning bile; and the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean. 24. ¶ Or if there be any fleſh, in the ſkin whereof there is † a hot burning, and the quick fleſh that burneth have a white bright ſpot, ſomewhat reddiſh, or white; 25. Then the prieſt ſhall look upon it: and behold, if the hair in the bright ſpot be turned white, and it be in ſight deeper than the ſkin; it is a leproſy broken out of the burning: wherefore the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leproſy.
26. But if the prieſt look on it, and behold, there be no white hair on the bright ſpot, and it be no lower than the other ſkin, but be ſomewhat dark; then the prieſt ſhall ſhut him up ſeven days. 27. And the prieſt ſhall look upon him the ſeventh day: and if it be ſpread much abroad in the ſkin, then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean:
it is the plague of leproſy. 28. And if the bright ſpot ſtay in his place, and ſpread not in the ſkin, but it be ſomewhat dark; it is a riſing of the burning, and the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean: for it is an inflammation of the burning. 29. ¶ If a man or woman hath a plague upon the head or the beard; 30. Then the prieſt ſhall ſee the plague: and behold, if it be in ſight deeper than the ſkin, and there be in it a yellow thin hair; then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him unclean: it is a dry ſcall, even a leproſy upon the head or beard. 31. And if the prieſt look on the plague of the ſcall, and behold, it be not in ſight deeper than the ſkin, and that there is no black hair in it; then the prieſt ſhall ſhut up him that hath the plague of the ſcall, ſeven days. 32. And in the ſeventh day the prieſt ſhall look on the plague: and behold, if the ſcall ſpread not, and there be in it no yellow hair, and the ſcall be not in ſight deeper than the ſkin; 33. He ſhall be ſhaven, but the ſcall ſhall he not ſhave: and the prieſt ſhall ſhut up him that hath the ſcall ſeven days more. 34. And in the ſeventh day the prieſt ſhall look on the ſcall: and behold, if the ſcall be not ſpread in the ſkin, nor be in ſight deeper than the ſkin, then the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean: and he ſhall waſh his clothes, and be clean. 35.
But if the ſcall ſpread much in the ſkin after his cleanſing;
36. Then the prieſt ſhall look on him; and behold, if the ſcall be ſpread in the ſkin, the prieſt ſhall not ſeek for yellow hair: he is unclean: 37. But if the ſcall be in his ſight at a ſtay, and that there is black hair grown up therein; the ſcall is healed, he is clean: and the prieſt ſhall pronounce him clean.

† Heb. A burning of fire.

v. 18—37. What bodies of corruption do we bear about with us? How abominable to be proud of that which may be ſhortly ſo loathſome? Other appearances of leproſy are mentioned in an old ulcer, or burn, or ſcald-head, with directions for the prieſt's judgment. Note, (1.) Old ſins breaking out afreſh, are a bad ſymptom of the uncured leproſy of ſin. (2.) A froward ſpirit, like the burn in the fleſh, continuing unſubdued, is a plain proof of the unſoundneſs of the heart.

38. ¶ If a man alſo or a woman have in the ſkin of their fleſh bright ſpots, even white bright ſpots; 39. Then the prieſt ſhall look: and behold, if the bright ſpots in the ſkin of their fleſh be darkiſh white; it is a freckled ſpot that groweth in the ſkin: he is clean. 40. And the man whoſe † hair is fallen off his head, he is bald: yet is he clean. 41.
And he that hath his hair fallen off, from the part of his head toward his face, he is forehead-bald: yet is he clean.
42. And if there be in the bald head, or bald forehead, a white reddiſh ſore; it is a leproſy ſprung up in his bald head or his bald forehead. 43. Then the prieſt ſhall look upon it; and behold, if the riſing of the ſore be white reddiſh in his bald head, or in his bald forehead, as the leproſy appeareth in the ſkin of the fleſh; 44. He is a leprous man, he is unclean: the prieſt ſhall pronounce him utterly unclean, his plague is in his head. 45. And the leper in whom the plague is, his clothes ſhall be rent, and his head bare, and he ſhall put a covering upon his upper lip, and ſhall cry [b] Unclean, unclean. 46. All the days wherein the plague ſhall be in him, he ſhall be defiled;
he is unclean: [c] he ſhall dwell alone, without the camp ſhall his habitation be.

† Heb. Head is pilled.

[b] See Job xl. 4. Iſa. vi. 5. & lxiv. 6.

[c] Num. v. 2. & xii. 14. 2 Kings vii. 3. & xv. 5. 2 Chron. xxvi. 21.

v. 38—46. A bald head, or freckled face, muſt not be miſtaken for leproſy. Not every failing is the proof of a bad heart.

But if in the bald head the plague is found, he is utterly unclean. A conſcience defiled with ſin makes a man unclean; but a head filled with infidelity, and enmity againſt the goſpel, for the moſt part renders the ſtate utterly deſperate. The leper convicted muſt,

1. Cry out, Unclean, unclean; and no doubt it was an exceeding bitter cry, when from that hour, in a ſort, he was buried alive, by his excluſion from human ſociety, and removal from the congregation of God's people. Every ſoul convinced of ſin will adopt the leper's cry, and own himſelf, through actual ſin, and more eſpecially through original corruption, unclean, unclean, juſtly deſerving to be caſt out from God to all eternity.

2. He muſt dwell alone, or only with lepers like himſelf, without the camp, and none muſt approach him, for fear of defilement. Note, (1.) It is dangerous to come into the company of open ſinners, leſt, ſomehow, by ſeeing and partaking of their ſins, we partake of their plagues. (2.) The ſoul that dies in an unconverted ſtate, with the leproſy of ſin not cured by the blood of the Lord Jeſus, and by the Spirit of the Living God, will be for ever baniſhed from the preſence of God and his people, and ſhut up with ſinners like himſelf in the belly of hell.

47. ¶ The garment alſo, that the plague of leproſy is in, whether it be a woollen garment, or a linen garment, 48. Whether it be in the warp, or woof, of linen or of woollen, whether in a ſkin, or in any † thing made of ſkin; 49. And if the plague be greeniſh or reddiſh in the garment, or in the ſkin, either in the warp or in the woof, or in any ‡ thing of ſkin: it is a plague of leproſy, and ſhall be ſhewed unto the prieſt. 50. And the prieſt ſhall look upon the plague, and ſhut up it that hath the plague ſeven days. 51. And he ſhall look on the plague on the ſeventh day: if the plague be ſpread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in a ſkin, or in any work that is made of ſkin; the plague is a fretting leproſy: it is unclean. 52. He ſhall therefore burn that garment, whether warp or woof, in woollen or in linen, or any thing of ſkin, wherein the plague is: for it is a fretting leproſy: it ſhall be burnt in the fire. 53. And if the prieſt ſhall look, and behold, the plague be not ſpread in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of ſkin; 54. Then the prieſt ſhall command that they waſh the thing wherein the plague is, and he ſhall ſhut it up ſeven days more. 55. And the prieſt ſhall look on the plague after that it is waſhed: and behold, if the plague have not changed his colour, and the plague be not ſpread, it is unclean, thou ſhalt burn it in the fire: it is fret inward, † whether it be bare within or without. 56. And if the prieſt look, and behold the plague be ſomewhat dark after the waſhing of it, then he ſhall rend it out of the garment, or out of the ſkin, or out of the warp, or out of the woof: 57. And if it appear ſtill in the garment, either in the warp, or in the woof, or in any thing of ſkin, it is a ſpreading plague: thou ſhalt burn that wherein the plague is, with fire. 58. And the garment, either warp, or woof, or whatſoever thing of ſkin it be, which thou ſhalt waſh, if the plague be departed from them, then it ſhall be waſhed the ſecond time, and ſhall be clean. 59. This is the law of the plague of leproſy in a garment of woollen or linen, either in the warp, or woof, or any thing of ſkins, to pronounce it clean, or to pronounce it unclean.

† Heb. Work of.

‡ Heb. Veſſel, or inſtrument.

‡ Heb. Whether it be bald in the head thereof, or in the forehead thereof.

v. 47—59. The plague of leproſy in garments ſeems to be peculiar to Iſrael, and a judgment from heaven upon the perſon or family. The examination is preſcribed, and the deciſion to be made with deliberation, as before. Note, The leproſy of ſin cleaves to the very garments which cover us, when abuſed to the ſervice of pride and luſt; and not the garments, but they that wear them, muſt ſuffer the vengeance of eternal fire.

CHAP. XIV.

We have here, 1. The ſolemn declaration of the leper's being clean, with the ſignificant ceremony attending it, ver. 1—9. 2. The ſacrifices which he was to offer to God eight days after, ver. 10—32. 3. The management of a houſe, in which appeared ſigns of a leproſy, ver. 33—53. And the concluſion and ſummary of this whole matter, ver. 54—57.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. This ſhall be the law of the leper, in the day of his cleanſing: [a] he ſhall be brought unto the prieſt: 3. And the prieſt ſhall go forth out of the camp; and the prieſt ſhall look, and behold, if the plague of leproſy be healed in the leper; 4. Then ſhall the prieſt command to take for him that is to be cleanſed, two † birds alive, and clean, and [b] cedar-wood, and [c] ſcarlet, and [d] hyſſop. 5. And the prieſt ſhall command that one of the birds be killed in an earthen veſſel, over running water. 6. As for the living bird, he ſhall take it and the cedar-wood, and the ſcarlet, and the hyſſop, and ſhall dip them and the living bird, in the blood of the bird that was killed over the running water. 7. And he ſhall ſprinkle upon him that is to be cleanſed from the leproſy ſeven times, and ſhall pronounce him clean, and ſhall let the living bird looſe ‡ into the open field. 8. And he that is to be cleanſed ſhall waſh his clothes, and ſhave off all his hair, and [e] waſh himſelf in water, that he may be clean: and after that he ſhall come into the camp, and [f] ſhall tarry abroad out of his tent ſeven days. 9. But it ſhall be on the ſeventh day, that he ſhall ſhave all his hair off his head, and his beard, and his eye-brows, even all his hair he ſhall ſhave off, and he ſhall waſh his clothes, alſo he ſhall waſh his fleſh in water, and he ſhall be clean.

[a] Mat. viii. 2, 4. Mark i. 40, 44. Luke v. 12, 14. & xvii. 14.

† Or ſparrows.

[b] Num. xix. 6.

[c] Heb. ix. 19.

[d] Pſ. li. 7.

‡ Heb. Upon the face of the field.

[e] Chap. xi. 25.

[f] Num. xii. 15.

v. 1—9. As the leproſy was a diſeaſe of God's inflicting, it ſeems only curable by the ſame hand. No methods of cure are preſcribed therefore, but the method of cleanſing. Note, It is not in the power of means or miniſters to cure men of ſin: this muſt be effected by the power and grace of Chriſt alone.

In caſe any leper appeared to be cured, the prieſt went forth to him to view him. Though a ſinner be for a time given up to his own heart's luſts, yet, when he is by grace deſirous of returning, we muſt charitably lend our helping hand. After careful inſpection, if he appeared clean, the prieſt was to pronounce him ſuch, after the proper ſolemnities were performed. We may neither be too ſuſpicious, nor too credulous, reſpecting the reality of grace in men's hearts, but, after ſerious obſervation, judge according to our beſt knowledge, agreeably to God's word.

1. Two birds are to be brought, one of them killed, his blood mixed with water: the other, with the ſcarlet wool and hyſſop, were dipped therein, and the leper ſprinkled therewith ſeven times: then the living bird was let looſe, and the prieſt pronounced the perſon clean. Note, (1.) If our ſoul be ſprinkled with that blood and water which flowed from the Saviour's wounded ſide, then ſhall we be preſented before the tabernacle of God, without ſpot, or blemiſh, or any ſuch thing. (2.) They who are delivered from the power and guilt of ſin, as birds eſcaped from the ſnare of the fowler, rejoice in their liberty, and fly away on wings of faith and love towards the heavens.

2. The perſon cleanſed was to waſh, and ſhave off all his hair, and this repeatedly at the end of ſeven days, that ſo no remaining infection might be lodged about him. Thus they who are ſaved by the blood of Jeſus, will give diligence to cleanſe themſelves, that they may appear, in the congregation of God's people, to have put off the old man, and to have put on the new man, which after Chriſt is renewed in righteouſneſs and true holineſs.

10. And on the eighth day he ſhall take two he-lambs without blemiſh, and one ewe-lamb † of the firſt year without blemiſh, and three tenth-deals of fine flour for [g] a meat-offering, mingled with oil, and one log of oil. 11. And the prieſt that maketh him clean, ſhall preſent the man that is to be made clean, and thoſe things before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: 12. And the prieſt ſhall take one he-lamb, [h] and offer him for a treſpaſs-offering, and the log of oil, and [i] wave them for a wave-offering before the LORD. 13. And he ſhall ſlay the lamb [k] in the place where he ſhall kill the ſin-offering, and the burnt-offering, in the holy place: for [l] as the ſin-offering is the prieſts, ſo is the treſpaſs-offering: [m] it is moſt holy. 14. And the prieſt ſhall take ſome of the blood of the treſpaſs-offering, and the prieſt ſhall put it [n] upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleanſed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot. 15. And the prieſt ſhall take ſome of the log of oil, and pour it into the palm of his own left hand: 16. And the prieſt ſhall dip his right finger in the oil that is in his left hand, and ſhall ſprinkle of the oil with his finger, ſeven times before the LORD. 17. And of the reſt of the oil that is in his hand, ſhall the prieſt put upon † Heb. The daughter of her year.

[g] Chap. ii. 1. Num. xv. 4, 15.

[h] Chap. iv. 2.

[i] Exod. xxix. 24.

[k] Ibid. xxix. 11 Chap. iii. 8. & iv. 4, 24.

[l] Chap. vii. 7.

[m] Chap. vii. 1, 6.

[n] Exod. xxix. 20. Chap. viii. 23.

Before Chriſt 1490.

upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleanſed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot, upon the blood of the treſpaſs-offering. 18. And the remnant of the oil that is in the prieſt's hand, he ſhall pour upon the head of him that is to be cleanſed: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him before the LORD. 19. And [o] the prieſt ſhall offer the ſin-offering, and make an atonement for him that is to be cleanſed from his uncleanneſs, and afterward he ſhall kill the burnt-offering. 20. And the prieſt ſhall offer the burnt-offering, and the meat-offering upon the altar: and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him, and he ſhall be clean.

[o] Chap. iv. 20, 26, 35. & ver. 29, 31.

v. 10—20. When God hath reſtored us again from ſickneſs, or journeyings to viſit his tabernacle, it becomes us to appear with our grateful acknowledgments for the mercies. The leper was before pronounced clean; now he is introduced as ſuch to the door of the congregation, with his three lambs, a meat-offering, and log (about a half-pint) of oil. The treſpaſs-offering is firſt killed, and the blood applied to the ear, thumb, and toe of the perſon; ſignifying now his being wholly clean, and typifying the application of the blood of atonement by Jeſus, the great high-prieſt, to the conſcience by faith: then the oil is put upon it, in token of his healing. The oil of Divine Grace ever accompanies the ſprinkling of atoning blood. Hereupon his ſin-offering is accepted for atonement; and his burnt-offering is a ſweet ſavour of thankſgiving, and now he is free among the people. Note, They whoſe ſin is pardoned, and whoſe leproſy is cleanſed, however before they may have been ſeparated from the faithful, will now be received with joy into the boſom of the church, and every true Iſraelite.

21. And [p] if he be poor, and † cannot get ſo much; then he ſhall take one lamb for a treſpaſs-offering, ‡ to be waved, to make an atonement for him, and one tenth deal of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering, and a log of oil: 22. And two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, ſuch as he is able to get; and the one ſhall be a ſin-offering, and the other a burnt-offering. 23. And he ſhall bring them on the eighth day, for his cleanſing unto the prieſt, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, before the LORD. 24. And the prieſt ſhall take the lamb of the treſpaſs-offering, and the log of oil, and the prieſt ſhall wave them for a wave-offering before the LORD. 25. And he ſhall kill the lamb of the treſpaſs-offering, and the prieſt ſhall take ſome of the blood of the treſpaſs-offering, and put it upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleanſed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot. 26. And the prieſt ſhall pour of the oil into the palm of his own left hand. 27. And the prieſt ſhall ſprinkle with his right finger, ſome of the oil that is in his left hand, ſeven times before the LORD. 28. And the prieſt ſhall put of the oil that is in his hand, upon the tip of the right ear of him that is to be cleanſed, and upon the thumb of his right hand, and upon the great toe of his right foot; upon the place of the blood of the treſpaſs-offering. 29. And the reſt of the oil that is in the prieſt's hand, he ſhall put upon the head of him that is to be cleanſed, to make an atonement for him before the LORD. 30. And he ſhall offer the one of the turtle-doves, or of the young pigeons, ſuch as he can get: 31. Even ſuch as he is able to get, the one for a ſin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering, with the meat-offering. And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him that is to be cleanſed before the LORD. 32. This is the law of him in whom is the plague of leproſy, [q] whoſe hand is not able to get that which pertaineth to his cleanſing.

[p] Chap. v. 7.
† Heb. His hand reach not.
‡ Heb. For a waving.
[q] Ver. 21.

v. 21—32. A gracious proviſion for the poor. God ever teſtifies an eſpecial care for them, and provides, that however deſtitute they may be of things temporal, they ſhall not lack the ſpiritual bleſſings in Chriſt Jeſus.

33. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and unto Aaron, ſaying, 34. When ye be come into the land of Canaan, which I give to you for a poſſeſſion, and I put the plague of leproſy in a houſe of the land of your poſſeſſion; 35. And he that owneth the houſe ſhall come and tell the prieſt, ſaying, It ſeemeth to me there is as it were a plague in the houſe: 36. Then the prieſt ſhall command that they † empty the houſe, before the prieſt go into it to ſee the plague: that all that is in the houſe be not made unclean: and afterward the prieſt ſhall go in to ſee the houſe. 37. And he ſhall look on the plague, and behold, if the plague be in the walls of the houſe, with hollow ſtrakes, greeniſh or reddiſh, which in ſight are lower than the wall; 38. Then the prieſt ſhall go out of the houſe, to the door of the houſe, and ſhut up the houſe ſeven days. 39. And the prieſt ſhall come again the ſeventh day, and ſhall look: and behold, if the plague be ſpread in the walls of the houſe; 40. Then the prieſt ſhall command that they take away the ſtones in which the plague is, and they ſhall caſt them into an unclean place without the city. 41. And he ſhall cauſe the houſe to be ſcraped within round about, and they ſhall pour out the duſt that they ſcrape off, without the city, into an unclean place. 42. And they ſhall take other ſtones, and put them in the place of thoſe ſtones, and he ſhall take other morter, and ſhall plaiſter the houſe. 43. And if the plague come again, and break out in the houſe, after that he hath taken away the ſtones, and after he hath ſcraped the houſe, and after it is plaiſtered: 44. Then the prieſt ſhall come, and look: and behold, if the plague be ſpread in the houſe, it is a fretting leproſy in the houſe: it is unclean. 45. And he ſhall break down the houſe, the ſtones of it, and the timber thereof, and all the morter of the houſe: and he ſhall carry them forth out of the city into an unclean place. 46. Moreover, he that goeth into the houſe all the while that it is ſhut up, ſhall be unclean until the even. 47. And he that lieth in the houſe, ſhall waſh his clothes: and he that eateth in the houſe, ſhall waſh his clothes. 48. And if the prieſt ‡ ſhall come in, and look upon it, and behold, the plague hath not ſpread in the houſe, after the houſe was plaiſtered: then the prieſt ſhall pronounce the houſe clean, becauſe the plague is healed. 49. And he ſhall take to cleanſe the houſe [r] two birds, and cedar-wood, and ſcarlet, and hyſſop. 50. And he ſhall kill the one of the birds in an earthen veſſel, over running water. 51. And he ſhall take the cedar-wood and the hyſſop, and the ſcarlet, and the living bird, and dip them in the blood of the ſlain bird, and in the running water, and ſprinkle the houſe ſeven times. 52. And he ſhall cleanſe the houſe with the blood of the bird, and with the running water, and with the living bird, and with the cedar-wood, and with the hyſſop, and with the ſcarlet. 53. But he ſhall let go the living bird out of the city into the open fields, and make an atonement for the houſe: and it ſhall be clean.

Before Chriſt 1490.
† Heb. Prepare.
‡ Heb. In coming in ſhall come in.
[r] See ver. 4.

v. 33—53. Leproſy of the houſe, like that of the cloaths, appears to be a judgment from God. On information, the prieſt muſt examine; if the infected ſtones taken out ſtopped its ſpreading, it was cleanſed and ſpared: if inveterate, it was pulled down, and made a dunghill. Note, (1.) Maſters of families ſhould look well to their houſes, and ſeek to ſtop the firſt appearances of ſin. (2.) We ſhould remove thoſe from us, whoſe converſation is dangerous and infectious. (3.) If error or corruption have ſeized generally upon a church or ſtate, their ruin is near. (4.) Becauſe corruption hath got ſuch hold of our body, perfect deliverance from it can only be obtained by deſtruction of the fleſhly tabernacle in the grave.

54. This is the law for all manner of plague of leproſy and [s] ſcall. 55. And for the leproſy of a garment, and of an houſe, 56. And for a riſing, and for a ſcab, and for a bright ſpot: 57. To teach † when it is unclean, and when it is clean: this is the law of leproſy.

[s] Chap. xiii. 30.
† Heb. In the day of the unclean, and in the day of the clean.

v. 54—57. The particular notice taken of this plague of leproſy, ſhould teach us, if ceremonial defilement was ſo odious, how much more abominable the filthineſs of fleſh and ſpirit is in the eyes of a Holy God, and how much need we have to cleanſe ourſelves from theſe, that we may be veſſels fit and meet for the maſter's uſe.

CHAP. XV.

Laws concerning ceremonial uncleanneſſes contracted by bodily diſeaſe, or ſome natural incidents, and this either, 1. in men, ver. 1—18. Or, 2. In women, ver. 19—33. We need not be at all curious in explaining theſe antiquated laws; it is enough if we obſerve their general deſign; but we have need to be very cautious, leſt ſin take occaſion by the commandment to become more exceeding ſinful; and exceeding ſinful it is, when luſt is kindled by ſparks of fire from God's altar. The caſe is bad with the ſoul when it is putrified by that which ſhould purify it.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and to Aaron, ſaying, 2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, [a] When any man hath a † running iſſue out of his fleſh, becauſe of his iſſue he is unclean. 3. And this ſhall be his uncleanneſs in his iſſue: whether his fleſh run with his iſſue, or his fleſh be ſtopped from his iſſue: it is his uncleanneſs. 4. Every bed whereon he lieth that hath the iſſue is unclean: and every ‡ thing whereon he ſitteth, ſhall be unclean. 5. And whoſoever toucheth his bed, ſhall waſh his clothes, and [b] bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even. 6. And he that ſitteth on any thing whereon he ſat that hath the iſſue, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even. 7. And he that toucheth the fleſh of him that hath the iſſue, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even. 8. And if he that hath the iſſue ſpit upon him that is clean; then he ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even. 9. And what ſaddle ſoever he rideth upon that hath the iſſue, ſhall be unclean. 10. And whoſoever toucheth any thing that was under him, ſhall be unclean until the even: and he that beareth any of thoſe things, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even. 11. And whomſoever he toucheth that hath the iſſue (and hath not rinſed his hands in water) he ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even. 12. And [c] the veſſel of earth that he toucheth which hath the iſſue, ſhall be broken: and every veſſel of wood ſhall be rinſed in water. 13. And when he that hath an iſſue is cleanſed of his iſſue; then [d] he ſhall number to himſelf ſeven days for his cleanſing, and waſh his clothes, and bathe his fleſh in running water, and ſhall be clean. 14. And on the eighth day [e] he ſhall take to him two turtle-doves, or two young pigeons, and come before the LORD unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and give them unto the prieſt. 15. And the prieſt ſhall offer them, the one for a ſin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering; and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him before the LORD, for his iſſue.

[a] Num. v. 2.
† Or, Running of the reins.
‡ Or veſſel.
[b] See Chap. ix. 25. & xiv. 8, 27. & xxviii. 40. Num. xix. 10, 22. & xxxi. 24.
[c] Chap. vi. 28. & xi. 32, 33.
[d] Chap. xiv. 10.
[e] Chap. xiv. 22.

v. 1—15. The euphemiſm of the ſcripture is beautiful, and to be imitated. Even when it ſpeaks of evil things, it is in ſuch a way as to avoid exciting evil ideas.

The loathſome diſeaſe here mentioned is uſually the conſequence and puniſhment of impurity, leaving a rotten carcaſs, and a guilty conſcience. It rendered a man incapable of appearing at the ſanctuary, it made him ſhunned by every body around him, and whatever he touched was unclean. When he was healed he waſhed, and after ſeven days waiting gave full confirmation of his cure, he might bring his ſacrifice. Note, (1.) Though the ſervants of their luſts may count it a light affair to be cut off from the congregation of the Lord, where they ſeldom care to appear, they will find it a terrible thing to be cut off from it in eternity. (2.) Nothing wars more dangerouſly againſt the ſoul than fleſhly luſts. (3.) The company of ſuch perſons are more to be avoided than of him that hath the plague. (4.) Yet the vileſt need not deſpair; when he returns to the blood of Jeſus, there is hope in his end.

16. And [f] if any man's ſeed of copulation go out from him, then he ſhall waſh all his fleſh in water, and be unclean until the even. 17. And every garment and every ſkin whereon is the ſeed of copulation, ſhall be waſhed with water, and be unclean until the even. 18. The woman alſo with whom man ſhall lie with ſeed of copulation, they ſhall both bathe themſelves in water, and be unclean until the even.

[f] Deut. xxiii. 10.

v. 16—18. Even what may be involuntary in ſleep is not without ceremonial defilement; and uſually moral guilt is involved therein, from impure imaginations before entertained. Ver. 18. ſeems not to relate to the uſe of the marriage-bed, but to a perſon diſeaſed as above-deſcribed.

19. ¶ And [g] if a woman have an iſſue, and her iſſue in her fleſh be blood, ſhe ſhall be † put apart ſeven days: and whoſoever toucheth her ſhall be unclean until the even. 20. And every thing that ſhe lieth upon in her ſeparation, ſhall be unclean: every thing alſo that ſhe ſitteth upon, ſhall be unclean. 21. And whoſoever toucheth her bed, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even. 22. And whoſoever toucheth any thing that ſhe ſat upon, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even. 23. And if it be on her bed, or on any thing whereon ſhe ſitteth, when he toucheth it; he ſhall be unclean until the even. 24. And [h] if any man lie with her at all, and her flowers be upon him, he ſhall be unclean ſeven days; and all the bed whereon he lieth, ſhall be unclean. 25. And [i] if a woman have an iſſue of her blood many days, out of the time of her ſeparation, or if it run beyond the time of her ſeparation; all the days of the iſſue of her uncleanneſs ſhall be as the days of her ſeparation: ſhe ſhall be unclean. 26. Every bed whereon ſhe lieth all the days of her iſſue, ſhall be unto her as the bed of her ſeparation: and whatſoever ſhe ſitteth upon ſhall be unclean, as the uncleanneſs of her ſeparation. 27. And whoſoever toucheth thoſe things ſhall be unclean, and ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even. 28. But if ſhe be cleanſed of her iſſue, then ſhe ſhall number to herſelf ſeven days, and after that ſhe ſhall be clean. 29. And on the eighth day ſhe ſhall take unto her two turtles, or two young pigeons, and bring them unto the prieſt, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. 30. And the prieſt ſhall offer the one for a ſin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering; and the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for her before the LORD, for the iſſue of her uncleanneſs. 31. Thus ſhall ye ſeparate the children of Iſrael from their uncleanneſs; that they die not in their uncleanneſs, when they defile my tabernacle that is among them. 32. This is the law of him that hath an iſſue, and of him whoſe ſeed goeth from him, and is defiled therewith: 33. And of her that is ſick of her flowers, and of him that hath an iſſue, of the man, and of the woman, and of him that lieth with her which is unclean.

[g] Chap. xii. 7.
† Heb. In her ſeparation.
[h] Chap. xx. 18.
[i] Matt. ix. 20. Mark v. 25. Luke viii. 43.

v. 19—33. The ſame uncleanneſs and its effects were occaſioned by the iſſues of women, whether natural, or diſeaſed, and to be atoned for in the ſame way. It was death thus to approach the ſanctuary. And hereby veneration and awe was kept up in their minds for the tabernacle, and more for that holy God who dwelt in it; if even natural or involuntary infirmities were offenſive, how much had they need fear to provoke his holineſs by wilful impurities? Though theſe ordinances have ceaſed with the worldly ſanctuary, the uſe of them is permanent. To warn us of the defiling nature of ſin, to engage us to keep the body as well as the ſoul pure for the Lord; and thus to be always ready to appear before him, whether in his tabernacle on earth, or before his throne in heaven.

CHAP. XVI.

The inſtitution of the annual ſolemnity of the day of atonement, or expiation has much of the goſpel in it, Heb. ix. 7, &c. The whole ſervice of the day is committed to the high-prieſt. (1.) He muſt never come into the moſt holy place but upon this day, ver. 1, 2. (2.) He muſt come dreſſed in the linen garments, ver. 4. (3.) He muſt bring a ſin-offering and a burnt-offering for himſelf, ver. 3. offer his ſin-offering, ver. 6—11. then go within the vail with ſome of the blood of his ſin-offering, burn incenſe, and ſprinkle the blood before the mercy-ſeat, ver. 12, 13, 14. (4.) Two goats muſt be provided for the people, lots caſt upon them, and, 1. One of them muſt be a ſin-offering for the people, ver. 5, 7, 8, 9. and the blood of it muſt be ſprinkled before the mercy-ſeat, ver. 15, 16, 17. And then ſome of the blood of both the ſin-offerings muſt be ſprinkled upon the altar, ver. 18, 19. 2. The other muſt be a ſcape-goat, ver. 10. the ſins of Iſrael muſt be confeſſed over him, and then he muſt be ſent away into the wilderneſs, ver. 20, 21, 22. and he that led him away muſt be ceremonially unclean. (5.) The burnt offerings were then to be offered, the fat of the ſin-offerings burnt on the altar, and their fleſh burnt without the camp, ver. 23, 24, 25, 27, 28. (6.) The people were to obſerve the day religiouſly by a holy reſt, and holy mourning for ſin; and this was to be a ſtatute for ever, ver. 29—34.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes after [a] the death of the two ſons of Aaron, when they offered

[a] Chap. x. 2.

Before Chriſt 1490.

ed before the LORD, and died: 2. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Speak unto Aaron thy brother, that [b] he come not at all times into the holy place within the vail, before the mercy-ſeat, which is upon the ark; that he die not: for [c] I will appear in the cloud upon the mercy-ſeat. 3. Thus ſhall Aaron come into the holy place; [d] with a young bullock for a ſin-offering, and a ram for a burnt-offering. 4. [e] He ſhall put on the holy linen coat, and he ſhall have the linen breeches upon his fleſh, and ſhall be girded with the linen girdle, and with the linen mitre ſhall he be attired: theſe are holy garments; therefore [f] ſhall he waſh his fleſh in water, and ſo put them on.

[b] Exod. xxx. 10. Chap. xxiii. 27. Heb. ix. 7.
[c] Exod. xl. 35. 1 Kings viii. 12.
[d] Chap iv. 3.
[e] Exod. xxviii. 39, 43. Chap. vi. 10.
[f] Exod. xxx. 20.

v. 1—4. Aaron had ſuſtained a heavy loſs in his two ſons, and might well fear to miniſter before ſuch a jealous God. He is therefore now to begin to make the annual atonement for himſelf and his houſe, as well as the people. One day in a year only muſt he come before the mercy-ſeat, where God appeared in the cloud; and then alone, with the blood of the ſin-offering, in his ordinary garments of ſervice, to denote that, as a ſinner, he was on a footing with his brethren. Such was the bondage, darkneſs, and diſtance of that diſpenſation. But now, ſince Jeſus is once for us entered, every believer hath boldneſs and acceſs to the mercy-ſeat continually; and, inſtead of fearing death from the preſence of the Lord, finds his nearneſs the true and happy life of his ſoul.

5. And he ſhall take of the congregation of the children of Iſrael, two kids of the goats for a ſin-offering, and one ram for a burnt-offering. 6. And Aaron ſhall offer his bullock of the ſin-offering, which is for himſelf, and [g] make an atonement for himſelf, and for his houſe. 7. And he ſhall take the two goats, and preſent them before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. 8. And Aaron ſhall caſt lots upon the two goats; one lot for the LORD, and the other lot for † the ſcape-goat. 9. And Aaron ſhall bring the goat upon which the LORD's lot ‡ fell, and offer him for a ſin-offering. 10. But the goat on which the lot fell to be the ſcape-goat, ſhall be preſented alive before the LORD, to make an atonement with him, and to let him go for a ſcape-goat into the wilderneſs. 11. And Aaron ſhall bring the bullock of the ſin-offering which is for himſelf, and ſhall make an atonement for himſelf, and for his houſe, and ſhall kill the bullock of the ſin-offering, which is for himſelf. 12. [h] And he ſhall take a cenſer full of burning coals of fire from off the altar before the LORD, and his hands full of [i] ſweet incenſe, beaten ſmall, and bring it within the vail. 13. And he ſhall put the incenſe upon the fire before the LORD, that the cloud of the incenſe may cover the mercy-ſeat that is upon the teſtimony, that he die not. 14. And [k] he ſhall take of the blood of the bullock, and [l] ſprinkle it with his finger upon the mercy-ſeat, eaſtward: and before the mercy-ſeat ſhall he ſprinkle of the blood with his finger ſeven times.

[g] Heb. vii. 27, 28. & ix. 7.
† Heb. Azazel.
‡ Heb. went up.
[h] Chap. x. 1.
[i] Exod. xxx. 34.
[k] Heb. ix. 13, 25. & x. 4.
[l] Chap. iv. 6.

v. 5—14. The whole buſineſs of this day pertained to the high-prieſt alone; or, in caſe of ſickneſs or uncleanneſs, to his deputy. After the daily burnt ſacrifice (which always was offered after dreſſing the lamps and burning incenſe) he began the extraordinary ſervice with changing his garments and waſhing, which was often repeated; he then brought his ſin-offering for himſelf, his hands being laid on the head of the bullock, with ſolemn confeſſion of his own ſins, and thoſe of his houſe. The two goats for the people's ſin-offering were next preſented before the Lord; lots are caſt on them, and the ſcape-goat a ſecond time preſented. Then the bullock for the ſin-offering was killed, and whilſt the blood was ſtirred to keep it fluid, Aaron carried a cenſer with incenſe within the vail, the ſmoke and perfume of which filled the place: on this he retired, and immediately returned with the blood of his ſin-offering, and with his finger ſprinkled it ſeven times before the mercy-ſeat. Note, Jeſus, our better high-prieſt, is for us entered into the holy place, with nobler blood, even his own; an atonement which, once offered, is compleat and everlaſting; and having no perſonal ſins to atone for, he hath by one oblation perfected his people for ever. Bleſſed be God for ſuch an high-prieſt!

15. ¶ Then ſhall he kill the goat of the ſin-offering that is for the people, and bring his blood within the vail, and do with that blood as he did with the blood of the bullock, and ſprinkle it upon the mercy-ſeat, and before the mercy-ſeat. 16. And [m] he ſhall make an atonement for the holy place, becauſe of the uncleanneſs of the children of Iſrael, and becauſe of their tranſgreſſions in all their ſins: and ſo ſhall he do for the tabernacle of the congregation, that † remaineth among them, in the midſt of their uncleanneſs. 17. [n] And there ſhall be no man in the tabernacle of the congregation when he goeth in to make an atonement in the holy place, until he come out, and have made an atonement for himſelf, and for his houſhold, and for all the congregation of Iſrael. 18. And he ſhall go out unto the altar that is before the LORD, and make an atonement for it, and ſhall take of the blood of the bullock, and of the blood of the goat, and put it upon the horns of the altar round about. 19. And he ſhall ſprinkle of the blood upon it with his finger ſeven times, and cleanſe it, and hallow it from the uncleanneſs of the children of Iſrael.

[m] See Exod. xxix. 36. Heb. ix. 23.

Before Chriſt 1490.

† Heb. dwelleth.
[n] Luke i. 10.

v. 15—19. Having made atonement for his own ſins and his houſe, the people's ſin-offering is ſlain, with the blood of which he again returns into the moſt holy place, ſprinkling it as before; and when he comes out he muſt mix the blood of the bullock with that of the goat, and ſprinkle the outer tabernacle therewith ſeven times, and with his finger put ſome of this blood mixed around the golden altar of incenſe on its horns, to ſignify the purifying of all theſe from the uncleanneſs contracted by ſtanding in the midſt of ſuch a people. During this whole ſolemnity all the prieſts ſtood without, as unworthy to enter till the atonement had thus been made. Note, (1.) Our moſt ſolemn ſervices need pardon; even our prayers and duties muſt be ſprinkled with the blood of Jeſus. (2.) When Jeſus gave himſelf for us, of the people there was none with him. The work was all his own, and to him be all the glory of it aſcribed.

20. ¶ And when he hath made an end of reconciling the holy place, and the tabernacle of the congregation, and the altar, he ſhall bring the live goat: 21. And Aaron ſhall lay both his hands upon the head of the live goat, and confeſs over him all the iniquities of the children of Iſrael, and all their tranſgreſſions in all their ſins, putting them upon the head of the goat, and ſhall ſend him away by the hand of † a fit man into the wilderneſs. 22. And the goat ſhall bear upon him all their iniquities, unto a land ‡ not inhabited: and he ſhall let go the goat in the wilderneſs. 23. And Aaron ſhall come into the tabernacle of the congregation, and ſhall put off the linen garments, which he put on when he went into the holy place; and ſhall leave them there. 24. And he ſhall waſh his fleſh with water in the holy place, and put on his garments, and come forth, and offer his burnt-offering, and the burnt-offering of the people, and make an atonement for himſelf, and for the people. 25. And [o] the fat of the ſin-offering ſhall he burn upon the altar. 26. And he that let go the goat for the ſcape-goat, ſhall waſh his clothes, and [p] bathe his fleſh in water, and afterward come into the camp. 27. [q] And the bullock for the ſin-offering, and the goat for the ſin-offering, whoſe blood was brought in to make atonement in the holy place, ſhall one carry forth without the camp, and they ſhall burn in the fire their ſkins, and their fleſh, and their dung. 28. And he that burneth them, ſhall waſh his clothes, and bathe his fleſh in water, and afterward he ſhall come into the camp.

† Heb. A man of opportunity.
‡ Heb. of ſeparation.
[o] Chap. iv. 10.
[p] Chap. xv. 5.
[q] Chap. iv. 12, 21. & vi. 30. Heb. xiii. 11.

v. 20—28. The work of reconciliation within the tabernacle being finiſhed; the ſcape-goat is brought to the door of the tabernacle. Aaron, with both his hands on his head, confeſſes all the tranſgreſſions of the people, and transfers them to this devoted beaſt. Thus all the iniquities of his Iſrael are laid on their great Redeemer and Saviour by imputation. The goat hereupon was ſent and let go into the wilderneſs, bearing their burdens. And thus hath our divine Lord carried away our ſins into the land of forgetfulneſs; where they ſhall never more be found to condemn us. The high-prieſt hereupon, atonement being compleated, put off his robes of humiliation, and waſhed. After this he put on his beautiful garments, and offered the burnt-offerings of thankſgiving: for pardoning mercies juſtly deſerve ſacrifices of praiſe. The fleſh of the ſin-offerings was then removed, and burnt without the camp; for our ſins, when forgiven of God, muſt be renounced and caſt out by us. The perſons who performed this office, as well as he who led the ſcape-goat into the wilderneſs, were unclean, and muſt waſh their clothes and bathe, before they preſumed to come into the camp. Such is the defiling nature of ſin. At laſt the high-prieſt, having brought out the cenſer from within the vail, retires; and the evening ſacrifice cloſes the ſolemnity of the day.

29. ¶ And this ſhall be a ſtatute for ever unto you: that [r] in the ſeventh month, on the tenth day of the month, ye ſhall afflict your ſouls, and do no work at all; whether it be one of your own country, or a ſtranger that ſojourneth among you. 30. For on that day ſhall the prieſt make an atonement for you, to cleanſe you, that ye may be clean from all your ſins before the LORD. 31. It ſhall be a ſabbath of reſt unto you; and ye ſhall afflict your ſouls by a ſtatute for ever: 32. [s] And the prieſt whom he ſhall anoint, and whom he ſhall † conſecrate, to miniſter in the prieſt's office in his father's ſtead, ſhall make the atonement, and ſhall put on the linen clothes, even the holy garments. 33. And he ſhall make an atonement for the holy ſanctuary, and he ſhall make an atonement for the tabernacle of the congregation, and for the altar: and he ſhall make an atonement for the prieſts, and for all the people of the congregation. 34. And this ſhall be an everlaſting ſtatute unto you, [t] to make an atonement for the children of Iſrael, for all their ſins once a year. And he did as the LORD commanded Moſes.

[r] Exod. xxx. 10. Chap. xxiii. 27. Num. xxix. 7.
[s] Chap. iv. 3, 5, 16.
† Heb. fill his hand.
[t] Exod. xxx. 10. Heb. ix. 7.

v. 29—34. The perpetual obſervation of this ſolemnity is rejoined; it muſt be a day of ſacred reſt, and faſting, and humiliation. Note, (1.) They who receive the pardon of ſins will ever loath and abhor themſelves in their own ſight, even when God is pacified towards them. (2.) Whilſt we are in this body we ſhall be continually repenting and grieving for our daily and yearly tranſgreſſions: though the redemption is compleated, we are yet in the valley of humiliation; 'tis only when in glory ſin ſhall be utterly deſtroyed in us, as well as for us, that ſorrow and ſighing ſhall be no more. (3.) We muſt never forget that 'tis not our own repentant ſorrows, but the efficacy of our divine ſacrifice that can cleanſe us from all our ſins, and open a way for us into the preſence of God.

CHAP. XVII.

No ſacrifice muſt be offered by any other but the prieſts, nor any where but at the door of the tabernacle, and this upon pain of death, ver. 1—9. no blood muſt be eaten, nor any thing that dieth of itſelf, 10—16.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Speak unto Aaron, and unto his ſons, and unto all the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded, ſaying, 3. What man ſoever there be of the houſe of Iſrael, [a] that killeth an ox, or lamb, or goat in the camp, or that killeth it out of the camp, 4. [b] And bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer an offering unto the LORD, before the tabernacle of the LORD; blood ſhall be imputed unto that man, he hath ſhed blood, and that man ſhall be cut off from among his people: 5. To the end that the children of Iſrael may bring their ſacrifices, which they offer in the open field, even that they may bring them unto the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, unto the prieſt, and offer them for peace-offerings unto the LORD. 6. And the prieſt ſhall ſprinkle the blood upon the altar of the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and burn the fat for a [c] ſweet ſavour unto the LORD. 7. And they ſhall no more offer their ſacrifices [d] unto devils, after whom they [e] have gone a whoring: This ſhall be a ſtatute for ever unto them throughout their generations. 8. ¶ And thou ſhalt ſay unto them, Whatſoever man there be of the houſe of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers which ſojourn among you, that offereth a burnt-offering or ſacrifice, 9. And bringeth it not unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, to offer it unto the LORD, even that man ſhall be cut off from among his people.

[a] See Deut. xii. 5, 15, 21.
[b] Deut. xii. 13.
[c] Exod. xxix. 18. Chap. iv. 31.
[d] Deut. xxxii. 17. 2 Chron. xi. 15. Iſaiah xiii. 21. Rev. ix. 20.
[e] Ezek. xxiii. 8.

v. 1—9. Before the erection of the tabernacle they had liberty to ſacrifice where they choſe, and this had opened the door to abominable idolatries: to prevent this ſpiritual adultery for the future, God having now eſpouſed them to himſelf, and ſet up his abode among them,

1. They are commanded to kill all their ſacrifices at the door of the tabernacle, and no where elſe. Some have thought that every beaſt that was deſigned for common food, is included in the command, but that ſeems rather improbable. 2. Death is the puniſhment of the tranſgreſſor, whether an Iſraelite or a proſelyte. God will thus remove temptation to idolatry from them, and unite them in one holy worſhip to himſelf, the only worthy object of worſhip. Note, (1.) As there is no acceſs to or acceptance with God but through Jeſus Chriſt, all our ſervices muſt be brought to him, to be preſented before the Lord. (2.) We ſhould maintain unity of worſhip: our unhappy variances are much to be lamented; whilſt we are praying for their healing, let us endeavour to be drawing nearer to each other in love, which will be the readieſt way to unite us, that with one mouth, as well as one heart, we may glorify God.

¶ 10. [f] And whatſoever man there be of the houſe of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers that ſojourn among you, that eateth any manner of blood; [g] I will even ſet my face againſt that ſoul that eateth blood, and will cut him off from among his people. 11. For the life of the fleſh is in the blood, and I have given it to you upon the altar, to make an atonement for your ſouls: for [h] it is the blood that maketh an atonement for the ſoul. 12. Therefore I ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, No ſoul of you ſhall eat blood, neither ſhall any ſtranger that ſojourneth among you, eat blood. 13. And whatſoever man there be of the children of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers that ſojourn among you, † which [i] hunteth and catcheth any beaſt or fowl that may be eaten; he ſhall even pour out the blood thereof, and cover it with duſt: 14. [k] For it is the life of all fleſh, the blood of it is for the life thereof: therefore I ſaid unto the children of Iſrael, Ye ſhall eat the blood of no manner of fleſh: for the life of all fleſh is the blood thereof: whoſoever eateth it, ſhall be cut off. 15. [l] And every ſoul that eateth ‡ that which died of itſelf, or that which was torn with beaſts (whether it be one of your own country, or a ſtranger) [m] he ſhall both waſh his clothes, [n] and bathe himſelf in water, and be unclean until the even: then ſhall he be clean. 16. But if he waſh them not, nor bathe his fleſh, then he ſhall bear his iniquity.

[f] Gen. ix. 4. Chap. vii. 26. & xix. 26. Deut. xii. 16, 23. and xv. 23. 1 Sam. xiv. 33. Ezek. xliv. 7.
[g] Jer. xliv. 11.
[h] Heb. ix. 22.
† Heb. that hunteth any hunting.
[i] Chap. vii. 26.
[k] Gen. ix. 4. Deut. xii. 23.
[l] Exod. xxii. 31. Chap. xxii. 8. Ezek. xliv. 31.
‡ Heb. A carcaſe.
[m] Chap. xi. 25.
[n] Chap. xv. 5.

v. 10—16. The former law, concerning blood, is again repeated: God threatens to ſet his face againſt the tranſgreſſor; and woe to the man againſt whom his wrath be kindled, yea but for a moment. The reaſon is, becauſe the blood, which is the life of the beaſt, is appointed as the atonement for the ſouls of men. The ſinner's life was forfeited to God; He accepted the life of the beaſt inſtead of it. Becauſe of this vicarious ſubſtitution, the blood was ſacred. But ſince the true blood is ſhed, which cleanſeth from all ſin, the reaſon of the prohibition ceaſes. And they who are now called to feed upon Chriſt's blood ſpiritually, need fear no uncleanneſs from eating blood, properly prepared for food, and temperately uſed.

v. 13. Some precepts are added, with reſpect to the ſame thing; they muſt cover the blood of the beaſt or fowl they took in hunting. And becauſe what died of itſelf, or was torn of a beaſt, could not be cleanſed properly of its blood, they muſt abſtain from it. If they did ignorantly eat it, they were ceremonially defiled, and muſt waſh themſelves and their clothes, and be unclean till even; neglect of which being wilful diſobedience, was to be puniſhed ſeverely. Note, If our iniquity be not taken away by the waſhing of regeneration, it will be a burden we can never bear ourſelves, but which muſt cruſh us into the belly of hell.

CHAP. XVIII.

Here is, 1. A general law againſt all conformity to the corrupt uſages of the heathen, ver. 1—5. 2. Particular laws, (1.) Againſt inceſt, ver. 6—18. (2.) Againſt beaſtly luſts, and barbarous idolatries, ver. 19—23. 3. The enforcement of theſe laws from the ruin of the Canaanites, ver. 24—30.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, I am the LORD your God. 3. After the doings of the land of Egypt wherein ye dwelt, ſhall ye not do: and [a] after the doings of the land of Canaan whither I bring you, ſhall ye not do: neither ſhall ye walk in their ordinances. 4. Ye ſhall do my judgments, and keep mine ordinances, to walk therein: I am the LORD your God. 5. Ye ſhall therefore keep my ſtatutes and my judgments: [b] which if a man do, he ſhall live in them: I am the LORD.

[a] Chap. xx. 23.
[b] Ezek. xx. 11, 13. Luke x. 28. Rom. x. 5. Gal. iii. 12.

v. 1—5. The moral precepts are binding, though the ceremonial are aboliſhed. Such are the injunctions here given. God, as the Lord, has a right to command obedience; as our God reconciled in Jeſus Chriſt, has reaſon to expect it. They were going into a land as idolatrous as that they had come out of; and as they were but too prone to their old practices, they had need of repeated ſolemn warnings. Note, Becauſe ſin hath ſuch deep hold on our hearts, and old habits are ſo hardly eradicated, we have need of line upon line, and precept upon precept. God charges them to remember his commandments to do them, and promiſes a happy and long life to the obedient. They who in ſimplicity follow God will find themſelves no loſers thereby.

Note, 1. As perfection of obedience is not to be found in man, therefore eternal life cannot be obtained by our own obedience. But, 2. In Chriſt Jeſus there is that univerſal righteouſneſs which the law demands; and they who believe in him, have this imputed to them, and are rewarded as if it were their own. 3. We are not leſs bound hereby to perſonal obedience, but farther urged thereto, as well as aſſiſted therein through faith, which worketh by love.

† Heb. remainder of his fleſh.
c Chap. xx. 11.
d Chap. xx. 11. Deut. xxii. 30. & xxvii. 20. Ezek. xxii. 10. Amos ii. 5. 1 Cor. v. 1.
e Chap. xx. 17. 2 Sam. xiii. 12. Ezek. xxii. 11.
f Chap. xx. 19.
g Chap. xx. 20.
h Chap. xx. 12. Ezek. xxii. 11.
i Chap. xx. 21. Matth. xiv. 4. See Deut. xxv. 5.
k Cha. xx. 14.
‡ Or, one wife to another.

6. ¶ None of you ſhall approach to any that is † near of kin to him, to uncover their nakedneſs: I am the LORD. 7. [c] The nakedneſs of thy father, or the nakedneſs of thy mother, ſhalt thou not uncover; ſhe is thy mother, thou ſhalt not uncover her nakedneſs. 8.
[d] The nakedneſs of thy father's wife ſhalt thou not uncover: it is thy father's nakedneſs. 9. [e] The nakedneſs of thy ſiſter, the daughter of thy father, or daughter of thy mother, whether ſhe be born at home, or born abroad, even their nakedneſs thou ſhalt not uncover. 10. The nakedneſs of thy ſon's daughter, or of thy daughter's daughter, even their nakedneſs thou ſhalt not uncover:
for theirs is thine own nakedneſs. 11. The nakedneſs of thy father's wife's daughter, begotten of thy father, (ſhe is thy ſiſter) thou ſhalt not uncover her nakedneſs. 12.
[f] Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy father's ſiſter: ſhe is thy father's near kinſwoman. 13. Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy mother's ſiſter, for ſhe is thy mother's near kinſwoman. 14. [g] Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy father's brother, thou ſhalt not approach to his wife: ſhe is thine aunt.
15. [h] Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy daughter-in-law: ſhe is thy ſon's wife, thou ſhalt not uncover her nakedneſs. 16. [i] Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy brother's wife: it is thy brother's nakedneſs. 17.
[k] Thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of a woman and her daughter, neither ſhalt thou take her ſon's daughter, or her daughter's daughter, to uncover her nakedneſs;
for they are her kinſwomen: it is wickedneſs. 18. Neither ſhalt thou take ‡ a wife to her ſiſter to vex her, to uncover her nakedneſs, beſides the other in her lifetime.

v. 6—18. God forbids,

1. All marriages between perſons within the degrees of kindred here ſpecified; which equally affects women as well as men. The very heathens, in general, deteſted theſe inceſtuous connexions; and they are not only poſitive commands of God, but highly reaſonable in themſelves.

2. All indecent familiarities between ſuch near relatives. The living together in the ſame houſe, and being on ſuch a footing of intimacy, would expoſe them to much temptation, unleſs their minds were impreſſed with particular horror at the thought of any lewd intercourſe. Let near relations be doubly on their guard. The corrupt heart of man is deſperately wicked.

l Chap. xx. 18. Ezek. xviii. 6. & xxii. 11.
m Exod. xx. 14. Chap. xx. 10.
n Chap. xx. 2. 1 Kings xi. 33. 2 Kings xxiii. 10. Jer. xix. 5. Exek. xxiii. 37, 39.
o Called Acts vii. 43. Moloch.
p Chap. xx. 13. 1 Cor. vi. 9. 1 Tim. i. 10.
q Exod. xxii. 19. Chap. xx. 15, 16.

19. [l] Alſo thou ſhalt not approach unto a woman to uncover her nakedneſs, as long as ſhe is put apart for her uncleanneſs. 20. Moreover, [m] thou ſhalt not lie car-nally with thy neighbour's wife to defile thyſelf with her.
21. And thou ſhalt not let any of thy ſeed [n] paſs through the fire to [o] Molech, neither ſhalt thou profane the name of thy God: I am the LORD. 22. [p] Thou ſhalt not lie with mankind as with womankind: it is abomination.
23. [q] Neither ſhalt thou lie with any beaſt, to defile thyſelf therewith: neither ſhall any woman ſtand before a beaſt to lie down thereto: it is confuſion. 24. Defile not you yourſelves in any of theſe things: for in all theſe the nations are defiled which I caſt out before you.
25. And the land is defiled: therefore I do viſit the iniquity thereof upon it, and the land itſelf vomiteth out her inhabitants. 26. [r] Ye ſhall therefore keep my ſta-tutes and my judgments, and ſhall not commit any of theſe abominations; neither any of your own nation, nor any ſtranger that ſojourneth among you: 27. (For all theſe abominations have the men of the land done, which were before you, and the land is defiled) 28. [s] That the land ſpue not you out alſo, when ye defile it, as it ſpued out the nations that were before you. 29. For whoſoever ſhall commit any of theſe abominations, even the ſouls that commit them, ſhall be cut off from among their people. 30. Therefore ſhall ye keep mine ordinance, [t] that ye commit not any one of theſe abominable cuſtoms, which were committed before you, and that ye defile not yourſelves therein: I am the LORD your God.

r Chap. xx. 22.
s Jer. ix. 19. Ezek. xxxvi. 13, 17.
t Ver. 3. Chap. xx. 23.

v. 19—30. Here are,

1. Other laws againſt impurity. 1. Againſt an unſeaſonable uſe of the marriage-bed. Note, They who are lawfully married may be very criminally lewd. 2. Againſt adultery; a ſin of the blackeſt die. 3. Againſt the abominable idolatry of conſecrating their children to Moloch, by paſſing them between two fires, and ſometimes burning them. 4. Againſt ſodomy and beaſtiality; crimes, the mention of which are ſhocking: and it is among the dire proofs of the deſperate corruptneſs of man's nature, that ever ſuch wretches ſhould exiſt, or that ſuch prohibitions ſhould be neceſſary.

2. Awful warnings againſt theſe ſins. 1. The offender ſhall be cut off, v. 29. not only his body doomed to death, but his ſoul to everlaſting burnings. The fire of luſt, and the fire of hell, are kindled for each other. 2. The nation ſhall be deſtroyed where ſuch abominations are committed. They themſelves are now going to Canaan, to be God's executioners upon that devoted people, for theſe very ſins; and therefore, with ſuch an inſtance before them, they need take warning not to defile themſelves with ſuch wickedneſs; for if they did, they would ſink in the ſame deſtruction. Note, Nothing fills up the meaſure of a nation's guilt faſter than theſe abominable and unnatural luſts.

3. A ſolemn charge to keep God's ordinances, and avoid theſe hateful cuſtoms. Note, The world we live in is like Canaan, and its cuſtoms ſcarce leſs deteſtable; we have need tremble, leaſt we ſhould ſwim with the ſtream, and loſe the horror of ſin by beholding the commonneſs of the practice; from which nothing can ſo effectually preſerve us as a conſtant attention to God's word, and daily application for his grace, to keep us from the pollutions that are in the world through luſt. And in this way we ſhall find ſuch genuine pleaſures to be enjoyed, as will make us loath the deceitful and ſoul-deſtroying pleaſures of ſin.

CHAP. XIX.

Some ceremonial precepts there are in this chapter, but moſt of them are moral. (1.) The laws peculiar to the Jews, are, 1. Concerning their peace-offerings, ver. 5—8. 2. Concerning the gleanings of their fields, ver. 9, 10. 3. Againſt mixtures of their cattle, ſeed, and cloth, ver. 19. 4. Concerning their trees, ver. 23—25. 5. Againſt ſome ſuperſtitious uſages, ver. 26—28. (2.) Precepts moral obligatory upon all. 1. The ſum of all the commandments in general, ver. 2, 18. 2. Something of each commandment. 1. A prohibition of enchantment, ver. 26. and witchcraft, ver. 31. which make a god of the devil, and are a breach of the firſt commandment. 2. Of idolatry againſt the ſecond commandment, ver. 4. 3. Profanation of God's name againſt the third, ver. 12. 4. Sabbath ſanctification is preſſed, ver. 3, 30. 5. Children are required to honour their parents, ver. 3. and the aged, ver. 32. 6. Hatred and revenge are here forbidden, ver. 17, 18. 7. Adultery, ver. 20—22. and whoredom, ver. 29. 8. Juſtice required, ver. 15. theſt forbidden, ver. 11. fraud, and withholding dues, ver. 13. and falſe weights, ver. 35, 36. 9. Lying, ver. 11. Slandering, ver. 14. Tale-bearing, and falſe witneſs, ver. 16. 10. The tenth commandment, laying a reſtraint upon the heart; ſo doth that, ver. 17. Thou ſhalt not hate thy brother in thine heart. And here is a ſolemn charge to obſerve all theſe ſtatutes, ver. 37. Now theſe are things which need not much help for the underſtanding of them, but require conſtant care and watchfulneſs for the obſerving of them. A good underſtanding have all they that do theſe commandments.

a Chap. xi. 44. & xx. 7, 26. 1 Pet. i. 16.
b Exod. xx. 12.
c Exod. xx. 8. & xxxi. 13.
d Exod. xx. 4.
e Exod. xxxiv. 17. Deut. xxvii. 15.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2.
Speak unto all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, [a] Ye ſhall be holy: for I the LORD your God am holy. 3. ¶ [b] Ye ſhall fear every man his mother and his father, and [c] keep my ſabbaths: I am the LORD your God. 4. [d] Turn ye not unto idols, [e] nor make to yourſelves molten gods: I am
the

the LORD God. 5. ¶ And [f] if ye offer a ſacrifice of peace-offerings unto the LORD; ye ſhall offer it at your own will. 6. It ſhall be eaten the ſame day ye offer it, and on the morrow: and if ought remain until the third day, it ſhall be burnt in the fire. 7. And if it be eaten at all on the third day, it is abominable; it ſhall not be accepted. 8. Therefore every one that eateth it, ſhall bear his iniquity, becauſe he hath profaned the hallowed thing of the LORD: and that ſoul ſhall be cut off from among his people. 9. ¶ [g] And when ye reap the harveſt of your land, thou ſhalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither ſhalt thou gather the gleanings of thy harveſt. 10. And thou ſhalt not glean thy vineyard, neither ſhalt thou gather every grape of thy vineyard;
thou ſhalt leave them for the poor and ſtranger: I am the LORD your God.

[f] Chap. vii. 16.

[g] Chap. xxiii. 22. Deut. xxiv. 19. Ruth ii. 15, 16.

v. 1—10. It was Moſes's concern to make God's will known to all the people; and a faithful ſteward he was in God's houſe.

1. A general command is given, including all the reſt. Be ye holy. The deſign of both law and goſpel, next to God's glory, is the holineſs and happineſs of his people. For there can be no enjoyment of God, in which true happineſs conſiſts, without conformity to him.

2. Particular commands, wherein this holineſs muſt be expreſſed 1. In fearing father and mother. Implying that filial affection, dutiful obedience, diligence to pleaſe, and dread of offending, which every ſon of Iſrael muſt ſhew to both his parents. 2. In ſanctifying the ſabbath. They ſhew themſelves truly children of God, who join piety towards their Father in heaven, to dutifulneſs to their parents on earth. To deſpiſe father or mother, or to profane God's ſabbaths, is the ſure mark of a reprobate ſon. 3. No idols muſt be worſhipped. 4. Their ſacrifices of peace-offerings muſt not be eat beyond the preſcribed time. 5. They muſt conſider and leave a portion for the poor in the harveſt-field, and at the vintage. Note, (1.) There can be no true piety towards God, where there is not charity towards men. A covetous heart can never have written upon it, Holineſs to the Lord. (2.) The prayers of the poor, who partake of our bleſſings, will make us ample amends for the handful we leave them. No gain ſo great, or ſure, as what is thus lent to the Lord.

11. ¶ [h] Ye ſhall not ſteal, neither deal falſly, neither lie one to another. 12. ¶ And [i] ye ſhall not ſwear by my name falſly, neither ſhalt thou profane the name of thy God: I am the LORD. 13. ¶ [k] Thou ſhalt not defraud thy neighbour, neither rob him: [l] the wages of him that is hired, ſhall not abide with thee all night until the morning. 14. ¶ Thou ſhalt not curſe the deaf, [m] nor put a ſtumbling-block before the blind, but ſhalt fear thy God: I am the LORD. 15. ¶ Ye ſhall do no unrighteouſneſs in judgment; [n] thou ſhalt not reſpect the perſon of the poor, nor honour the perſon of the mighty;
but in righteouſneſs ſhalt thou judge thy neighbour. 16.
¶ [o] Thou ſhalt not go up and down as a tale-bearer among thy people; neither ſhalt thou ſtand againſt the blood of thy neighbour: I am the LORD. 17. ¶ [p] Thou ſhalt not hate thy brother in thine heart: [q] thou ſhalt in any wiſe rebuke thy neighbour, † and not ſuffer ſin upon him. 18. ¶ Thou ſhalt not avenge, nor bear any grudge againſt the children of thy people, [r] but thou ſhalt love thy neighbour as thyſelf: I am the LORD.

[h] Exod. xx. 15. & xxii. 1, 7, 10. Chap. vi. 2.

[i] Exod. xx. 7. Chap. vi. 3. Deut. v. 11. Mat. v. 34. Jam. v. 12.

[k] Ecclus. x. 6.

[l] Deut. xxiv. 14,15. Mal. iii. 5. Job iv. 14. Jam. v. 4.

[m] Deut. xxvii. 18.

[n] Exod. xxiii. 3. Deut. i. 17. & xvi. 19. & xxvii. 19. Prov. xxiv. 23. Jam. ii. 9.

[o] Exod. xxiii. 1. Pſ. xv. 3. & xl. 20. Prov. xi. 13. & xx. 19.

[p] 1 John ii. 11. & iii. 15.

[q] Ecclus. xix. 13. Mat. xviii. 15. Luke xvii. 3. Gal. vi. 1. Eph. v. 11. 1 Tim. v. 20.

† Or, that thou bear not ſin for him. See Rom. i. 32. 1 Cor. v. 2. Eph. v. 11. 1 Tim. v. 22. 2 John 10. 11.

[r] Prov. xx. 22. Mat. v. 43. & xxii. 39. Rom. xiii. 9. Gal. v. 14. Jam. ii. 8.

v. 11—18. Farther moral precepts. 1. Againſt theft, fraud, and lying. 'Tis a bad world we are in. Every trade almoſt is now ſo mixed with injuſtice, and ſo ſupported by lies, that 'tis hard for an honeſt man to live: but the ſtraiter the gate the more ſhould we ſtrive to enter. And in the end, at leaſt, honeſty and truth will prove the beſt policy. 2. Againſt falſe-ſwearing, or an irreverent uſe of the names of God. Which, to the ſhame of chriſtians, is now made ſo common in ordinary converſation. 3. To be punctual in our payments. To detain a juſt debt, or wages, beyond the time agreed, is to defraud our neighbour. 4. We may not curſe the deaf, nor make the blind to ſtumble. To ſport with man's natural infirmities is a high reflection upon God. 5. Juſtice muſt be adminiſtered with impartiality. No compaſſion for the perſon of the poor, nor fear of the mighty, muſt have the leaſt influence on our deciſions. 6. The tale-bearer condemned. A vile character! that picks up his neighbour's faults for the pleaſure of relating them. To hurt a man's reputation thus is more injurious than to rob his houſe. 7. We may not bear falſe teſtimony ourſelves, nor ſtand ſilent by and ſee the innocent condemned. 8. We owe our neighbour the rebuke of love. Nothing ſo friendly, nothing ſo faithful as theſe wounds, Prov. xxvii. 5. Note, To ſee our brother ſin, and not reprove him, is the greateſt injury we can do him, and brings great guilt upon our own ſouls. 9. All ſecret reſentment is forbidden, and all revenge. We muſt forgive and forget every injury; and ſo far from deſiring to hurt our enemy in return, muſt not ceaſe to pray that God would forgive and forget his ſin. 10. We have the whole in a word: we muſt love our neighbour as ourſelves. Love will make us honeſt, true, juſt, tender, kind, jealous for his good, and ſincerely deſirous of, and laborious for his welfare in body and ſoul, as for our own. Lord ſhed abroad this love in my heart!

19. ¶ Ye ſhall keep my ſtatutes: Thou ſhalt not let thy cattle gender with a divers kind: [s] Thou ſhalt not ſow thy field with mingled ſeed: [t] neither ſhall a garment mingled of linen and woollen come upon thee.
20. ¶ And whoſoever lieth carnally with a woman that is a bond-maid † betrothed to an huſband, and not at all redeemed, nor freedom given her, ‡ ſhe ſhall be ſcourged: they ſhall not be put to death, becauſe ſhe was not free. 21. [u] And he ſhall bring his treſpaſs-offering unto the LORD, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, even a ram for a treſpaſs-offering.
22. And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for him with the ram of the treſpaſs-offering before the LORD, for his ſin which he hath done: and the ſin which he hath done ſhall be forgiven him. 23. ¶ And when ye ſhall come into the land, and ſhall have planted all manner of trees for food, then ye ſhall count the fruit thereof as uncircumciſed: three years ſhall it be as uncircumciſed unto you; it ſhall not be eaten of. 24. But in the fourth year all the fruit thereof ſhall be ‖ holy to praiſe the LORD withal. 25. And in the fifth year ſhall ye eat of the fruit thereof, that it may yield unto you the increaſe thereof: I am the LORD your God. 26. ¶ [x] Ye ſhall not eat any thing with the blood: [y] neither ſhall ye uſe inchantment, nor obſerve times. 27. [z] Ye ſhall not round the corners of your heads, neither ſhalt thou mar the corners of thy beard. 28. [a] Ye ſhall not make any cuttings in your fleſh for the dead, nor print any marks upon you: I am the LORD. 29. ¶ [b] Do not § proſtitute thy daughter, to cauſe her to be a whore:
leſt the land fall to whoredom, and the land become full of wickedneſs.

[s] Deut. xxii. 9, 10.

[t] Deut. xxii. 11.

† Heb. Reproached by or for man.

‡ Heb. there ſhall be a ſcourging.

[u] Chap. v. 15.

‖ Heb. Holineſs of praiſes to the Lord.

[x] Chap. xvii. 10. &c. Deut. xii. 23.

[y] Deut. xviii. 10. 1 Sam. xv. 23.

[z] Chap. xxi. 5. Jer. ix. 26. & xlviii. 37.

[a] Deut. xiv. 1. Jer. xvi. 6. & xlviii. 37.

[b] Deut. xxiii. 17.

§ Heb. profane.

v. 19—29. Sundry laws. 1. Againſt mixtures between different cattle, in which is ſomething unnatural; againſt ſowing mingled corn, or wearing linſey woolſey garments. Iſrael muſt be kept pure from mingling with the heathen in their uſages. Note, All blending works with faith, as conducing to our juſtification, is making this hateful and forbidden mixture. 2. The puniſhment and ſacrifice for ſeducing an eſpouſed bond-woman. They who give way to their fleſhly luſts muſt ſuffer for it, by the ſcourgings of repentance now, or by the arm of the tormentor for ever. 3. Concerning fruit-trees. Three years after their planting they muſt not eat of them; the fourth their produce was ſacred, and given to God's prieſts; afterwards it was their own. When we have ſerved God with a part of our ſtore firſt, we may hope for a bleſſing and comfort in what we uſe ourſelves. 4. Againſt ſuperſtitious cuſtoms. Such as eating round the blood of their ſacrifices, in honour of demons; or uſing inchantments, or obſerving ſuperſtitiouſly days and times, or rounding their heads, or cutting their beards, in honour of idols; or making inciſions in their fleſh, or prints in their ſkin for the dead, or to appeaſe the infernal deities. Let theſe vain and ſinful cuſtoms admoniſh us of the folly and ſin of fortune-telling, ſeeking to gypſies, conjurers, &c. all amulets, charms, &c. fearing croſs days, or croſs knives and forks, or ſpilt ſalt, and ſuch fooleries. Shall the dregs of paganiſm enter amidſt the profeſſion of chriſtianity? To have any dependance on theſe Elilim, (nothings) is ſtill to have fellowſhip with devils. 5. Againſt proſtitution of their children, as was common in ſome lewd rites of the heathen gods. Theſe gods are renounced; but he who deludes the unwary, and ſacrifices injured beauty to his own vile luſts, is ſtill the votary of theſe unclean ſpirits.

30. ¶ [c] Ye ſhall keep my ſabbaths, and reverence my ſanctuary: I am the LORD. 31. ¶ [d] Regard not them that have familiar ſpirits, neither ſeek after wizards, to be defiled by them: I am the LORD your God. 32. ¶ [e] Thou ſhalt riſe up before the hoary head, and honour the face of the old man, and fear thy God: I am the LORD. 33. ¶ And [f] if a ſtranger ſojourn with thee in your land, ye ſhall not † vex him. 34. [g] But the ſtranger

[c] Chap. xxvi. 2.

[d] Chap. xx. 6,27. Deut. xviii. 10. Iſa. viii. 19. Acts xvi. 6.

[e] 1 Tim. v. 1.

[f] Exod. xxii. 21. & xxiii. 9.

† Or oppreſs.

[g] Exod. xxiii. 9.

Before Christ 1490.

that dwelleth with you, ſhall be unto you as one born amongſt you, and [h] thou ſhalt love him as thyſelf; for ye were ſtrangers in the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God. 35. ¶ Ye ſhall do no unrighteouſneſs in judgment, in mete-yard, in weight, or in meaſure. 36. [i] Juſt balances, juſt † weights, a juſt ephah, and a juſt hin ſhall ye have: I am the LORD your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt. 37. Therefore ſhall ye obſerve all my ſtatutes, and all my judgments, and do them: I am the LORD.

h Deut. x. 19.
i Ibid. xxv. 13. Prov. xi. 1. & xvi. 11. & xx. 10.
† Heb. Stones.

v. 30—37. 1. God's ſabbaths muſt be kept, and his ſanctuary reverenced. Wherever Chriſtians aſſemble for worſhip, there is the divine Shechinah. 2. A warning againſt wizards, or ventriloquiſts, who either had, or pretended to have more than human ſight; they muſt neither be ſought to for advice, nor feared in their predictions. 3. Age muſt be honoured: the younger muſt riſe up before the elder, and ſhew him the reſpect due to his years and wiſdom. 4. Strangers are to be treated kindly. The remembrance of their own ſtate in Egypt muſt teach them to pity others. They muſt not be oppreſſed, nor defrauded, nor reproached, but loved as a brother, and treated with equal affection. They who are ſtrangers, have a right to peculiar kindneſs: it is enough that they are removed from their domeſtic comforts, they need not have their abſence more embittered by ill uſage. 5. Juſtice muſt be obſerved, in meaſures, weights, and ſcales. To ſell leſs than weight or meaſure, is at leaſt equally criminal with other acts of theft, which though man may never diſcover, ſhall be ſeverely viſited, when God weighs ſuch in his balances, and finds them wanting. 6. All God's ſtatutes muſt be obſerved and done; head, heart, and hand, muſt concur. Note, No man ſincerely obeys God, who makes any reſerves; and he will never really pleaſe him by obedience to any one command, who does not in ſimplicity ſeek to obſerve them all.

CHAP. XX.

The laws which before were made, are in this chapter repeated, and penalties annexed to them; that they who would not be deterred from ſin by the fear of God, might be deterred from it by the fear of puniſhment. 1. Many particular crimes that are made capital, 1. Giving their children to Moloch, ver. 1—5. 2. Conſulting witches, ver. 6, 27. 3. Curſing parents, ver. 9. 4. Adultery, ver. 10. 5. Inceſt, ver. 11, 12, 14, 17, 19, 20, 21. 6. Unnatural luſts, ver. 13, 15, 16, 18. 2. General commands given to be holy, ver. 7, 8, 22—26.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. [a] Again, thou ſhalt ſay to the children of Iſrael, [b] Whoſoever he be of the children of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers that ſojourn in Iſrael, that giveth any of his ſeed unto Molech, he ſhall ſurely be put to death; the people of the land ſhall ſtone him with ſtones. 3. And [c] I will ſet my face againſt that man, and will cut him off from among his people: becauſe he hath given of his ſeed unto Molech, to defile my ſanctuary, and to profane my holy name. 4. And if the people of the land do any ways hide their eyes from the man, when he giveth of his ſeed unto Molech, and kill him not: 5. Then [d] I will ſet my face againſt that man, and [e] againſt his family, and will cut him off, and all that [f] go a whoring after him, to commit whoredom with Molech, from among their people. 6. ¶ And [g] the ſoul that turneth after ſuch as have familiar ſpirits, and after wizards, to go a whoring after them, I will even ſet my face againſt that ſoul, and will cut him off from among his people. 7. ¶ [h] Sanctify yourſelves therefore, and be ye holy: for I am the LORD your God. 8. And ye ſhall keep my ſtatutes, and do them: I am the LORD which ſanctify you. 9. [i] ¶ For every one that curſeth his father or his mother, ſhall be ſurely put to death: he hath curſed his father or his mother; his blood ſhall be upon him.

a Chap. xviii. 21.
b Deut. xviii. 10. 2 Kings xvii. 17. & xxiii. 10. Jer. xxxii. 35.
c Chap. xvii. 10.
d Ibid.
e Exod. xx. 5.
f Chap. xvii. 7.
g Ibid. xix. 31.
h Ibid. xi. 44. & xix. 2. 1 Pet. i. 16.
i Exod. xxi. 17. Deut. xxvii. 16. Prov. xx. 20. Mat. xv. 4.

v. 1—9. The ſoul that ſinneth, it ſhall die. The former laws are here armed with their ſanction, and we need hear and fear before this holy Lord God.

1. The firſt is ſacrificing their children to Moloch: idolatry as inhuman as impious. When we ſee the votaries of ſin in general ſerving the devil with ſuch loſs and ſuffering, how ought we to value the perfect freedom of God's ſervice? The puniſhment is ſtoning to death; and there is no eſcape for the criminal: for if his friends connived at him, and refuſed to inform againſt him, or the judge acquitted him, notwithſtanding proof made, God would then take the matter into his own hand, and cut him off by ſome fearful judgment. Note, Sinners may eſcape the hand of juſtice here, but at God's tribunal they muſt ſtand, and none can deliver them out of his hand—Nor ſhall the abettors of the idolater ſhare a milder judgment; God will viſit their ſin upon them and their families, and they ſhall die by the ſame ſecret hand. Note, (1.) The character of an informer is often ſtamped with infamy, but there are offences where ſilence involves us in the guilt of the crime we conceal; and it is at our peril if we hold our tongue. (2.) A negligent magiſtrate is a moſt criminal character, and they who will not judge for God, ſhall be judged by him.

2. Conſulting a witch is a capital offence. It is called going a whoring from God, as it implies the alienation of the heart from him, and a dependance on the devil for advice and direction.

3. To curſe father or mother, is death; to inſult paternal authority, is rebellion againſt God, and ſhall meet with the ſame puniſhment as idolatry.

4. A general charge given to ſanctify themſelves for God, i. e. ſeparate themſelves from the ways and company of ſinners; and the reaſons given, 1. Becauſe God is their lord and maſter, and they muſt ſerve him only. 2. Becauſe they thus anſwer his deſigns of grace upon them: I am he that ſanctifieth you. Note, (1.) Sanctification is God's work: he muſt give the power, or elſe impotent would be the command. (2.) All God's people are a holy people: though the meaſure of their attainments differ, yet univerſal ſanctification of heart and life is the prayer and purpoſe of every gracious ſoul. (3.) Becauſe God is pleaſed to work in us, we are both inclined and enabled to work out our own ſalvation.

10. ¶ And [k] the man that committeth adultery with another man's wife, even he that committeth adultery with his neighbour's wife, the adulterer and the adultereſs ſhall ſurely be put to death. 11. [l] And the man that lieth with his father's wife, hath uncovered his father's nakedneſs: both of them ſhall ſurely be put to death; their blood ſhall be upon them. 12. [m] And if a man lie with his daughter-in-law, both of them ſhall ſurely be put to death: they have wrought confuſion; their blood ſhall be upon them. 13. [n] If a man alſo lie with mankind, as he lieth with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination: they ſhall ſurely be put to death: their blood ſhall be upon them. 14. [o] And if a man take a wife and her mother, it is wickedneſs: they ſhall be burnt with fire, both he and they, that there be no wickedneſs among you. 15. [p] And if a man lie with a beaſt, he ſhall ſurely be put to death; and ye ſhall ſlay the beaſt. 16. And if a woman approach unto any beaſt, and lie down thereto, thou ſhalt kill the woman and the beaſt: they ſhall ſurely be put to death; their blood ſhall be upon them. 17. [q] And if a man ſhall take his ſiſter, his father's daughter, or his mother's daughter, and ſee her nakedneſs, and ſhe ſee his nakedneſs; it is a wicked thing; and they ſhall be cut off in the ſight of their people: he hath uncovered his ſiſter's nakedneſs, he ſhall bear his iniquity. 18. [r] And if a man ſhall lie with a woman having her ſickneſs, and ſhall uncover her nakedneſs; he hath † diſcovered her fountain, and ſhe hath uncovered the fountain of her blood: and both of them ſhall be cut off from among the people. 19. [s] And thou ſhalt not uncover the nakedneſs of thy mother's ſiſter, nor of thy father's ſiſter: for he uncovereth his near kin: they ſhall bear their iniquity. 20. [t] And if a man ſhall lie with his uncle's wife, he hath uncovered his uncle's nakedneſs: they ſhall bear their ſin, they ſhall die childleſs. 21. [u] And if a man ſhall take his brother's wife, it is † an unclean thing: he hath uncovered his brother's nakedneſs, they ſhall be childleſs.

k Chap. xviii. 20. Deut. xxii. 22. John viii. 4, 5.
l Chap. xviii. 8.
m Ibid. 15. Deut. xxvii. 23.
n Chap. xviii. 22.
o Ibid. 27. Deut. xxvii. 21.
p Chap. xviii. 23. Deut. xxvii. 21.
q Chap. xviii. 9. Deut. xxvii. 22.
r Chap. xviii. 19. See Chap. xv. 24.
† Heb. Made naked.
s Chap. xviii. 12, 13.
t Ibid. 14.
u Ibid. 16.
† Heb. A ſeparation.

v. 10—21. Nothing needs ſeverer reſtraints than the luſts which naturally reign in our mortal bodies; no ſins have ſeverer puniſhments denounced on their indulgence. 1. The adulterer and adultereſs muſt periſh together. The wrong is irreparable to the injured, the peace of conſcience for ever deſtroyed to the guilty, and the avenging wrath of God provoked, by ſuch a daring violation of his ordinance of marriage. 2. Inceſt is a capital crime, whether with a mother, mother-in-law, or ſiſter, or daughter, or daughter-in-law: near relations muſt love, but with all purity. 3. Sodomy and Beaſtiality, crimes that make us ſhudder but to mention, are to be puniſhed with death; and the beaſt muſt be ſlain alſo, in deteſtation of ſuch abominations. 4. Lying with a woman ſet apart for uncleanneſs, is death for both. Lawleſs luſt will meet with an aveng-

Before Chriſt 1490.

ing God. 5. Some inceſtuous copulations between more diſtant relations, are to be puniſhed with barrenneſs, as the preſent judgment. And they ſhall alſo bear their iniquity, when God maketh inquiſition for ſin.

22. ¶ Ye ſhall therefore keep all my † ſtatutes, and all my judgments, and do them: that the land whither I bring you to dwell therein, [y] ſpue you not out. 23. [z] And ye ſhall not walk in the manners of the nation, which I caſt out before you: for they committed all theſe things, and [a] therefore I abhorred them. 24. But I have ſaid unto you, Ye ſhall inherit their land, and I will give it unto you to poſſeſs it, a land that floweth with milk and honey: I am the LORD your God, which have ſeparated you from other people. 25. [b] Ye ſhall therefore put difference between clean beaſts and unclean, and between unclean fowls and clean: and ye ſhall not make your ſouls abominable by beaſt or by fowl, or by any manner of living thing that || creepeth on the ground, which I have ſeparated from you as unclean. 26. And ye ſhall be holy unto me; [c] for I the LORD am holy, and have ſevered you from other people, that ye ſhould be mine. 27. ¶ [d] A man alſo or woman that hath a familiar ſpirit, or that is a wizard, ſhall ſurely be put to death: they ſhall ſtone them with ſtones: their blood ſhall be upon them.

† Chap. xviii. 26.
y Ibid. 25. 28.
z Ibid. 3, 30.
a Ibid. 27. Deut. ix. 5.
b Chap. xi. 2. Deut. xiv. 4.
|| Or moveth
c Ver. 7. Chap. xix. 2. 1 Pet. i. 16.
d Exod. xxii. 18. Chap. xix. 31. Deut. xviii. 10, 11. 1 Sam. xxviii. 7, 8.

v. 22—27. We cannot be too often admoniſhed, when we are ſo prone to err. 1. God repeats his ſolemn charge to them, to keep all his ſtatutes, to obſerve the diſtinctions of clean and unclean, to beware of the nations around them, and not make their ſouls abominable. Note, Sin is the abominable thing which God hates, and we muſt flee from. The more evil examples are around us, the more we need watch and pray. 2. The arguments again repeated: God's right in and over them, and the neceſſity of being like him in holineſs, if they would have any relation to him as their God; and his ſeparation of them from others, that they might ſeparate themſelves for him. Note, Chriſt's are a peculiar people, and they muſt ſee that their converſation proves them ſuch. 3. The ruin which diſobedience would bring on them. The nations whither they were going, were examples to them of God's judgments againſt ſin; and after all the mercies they had experienced, they could not, if they corrupted themſelves, expect lighter viſitations. Note, Fellowſhip in ſin, will bring fellowſhip in ſuffering: only as we ſin againſt greater mercies and knowledge, ſo much heavier will be our condemnation.

The chapter concludes with the puniſhment of every witch or wizard with death. They who hold communion with the devil, or pretend to do it, are only fit to be with him in his place of torment.

CHAP. XXI.

The deſign of this chapter is to preſerve the dignity of the prieſthood. 1. The inferior prieſts are charged concerning their mourning, their marriages, and their children, ver. 1—9. 2. The high-prieſt is reſtrained more than any of them, ver. 10—15. 3. Neither the one nor the other muſt have any blemiſh, ver. 16—24.

1. AND the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Speak unto the prieſts the ſons of Aaron, and ſay unto them, [a] There ſhall none be defiled for the dead among his people. 2. But for his kin, that is near unto him, that is, for his mother, and for his father, and for his ſon, and for his daughter, and for his brother, 3. And for his ſiſter a virgin, that is nigh unto him, which hath had no huſband: for her may he be defiled. 4. But † he ſhall not defile himſelf, being a chief man among the people, to profane himſelf. 5. [b] They ſhall not make baldneſs upon their head, neither ſhall they ſhave off the corner of their beard, nor make any cuttings in their fleſh. 6. They ſhall be holy unto their God, and not profane the name of their God: for the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and [c] the bread of their God they do offer: therefore they ſhall be holy. 7. [d] They ſhall not take a wife that is a whore, or profane; neither ſhall they take a woman put away from her huſband: for he is holy unto his God. 8. Thou ſhalt ſanctify him therefore, for he offereth the bread of thy God: he ſhall be holy unto thee: for I the LORD which ſanctify you, am holy. 9. ¶ And [e] the daughter of any prieſt, if ſhe profane herſelf by playing the whore, ſhe profaneth her father: ſhe ſhall be burnt with fire.

a Ezek. xliv. 25.
† Or being an huſband among his people, he ſhall not defile himſelf for his wife. See Ezek. xxiv. 16, 17.
b Chap. xix. 27, 28. Deut. xiv. 1. Ezek. xliv. 20.
c See Chap. iii. 11.
d Ezek. xliv. 22.
e Gen. xxxviii. 24.

v. 1—9. Particular injunctions are given to the prieſts:

1. Reſpecting their mourning. (1.) The perſons for whom they may mourn, v. 2, 3. As all approach to a dead corpſe rendered mourners ceremonially unclean, they would be hereby prevented from executing the functions of their office. Though therefore God permits their abſence for their neareſt relations, yet he will not allow it for any other. Natural affection cannot but make us mourn over the loſſes of our houſe and family, but we muſt remember there are ſervices to be performed for the living, which it were evil to interrupt by continued ſorrow. (2.) The manner of their mourning: not extravagant and immoderate, but ſerious and temperate. They muſt not cut themſelves, or ſuperſtitiouſly devote their hair, as a propitiation to any ſuppoſed infernal deity, nor indulge exceſs of ſorrow, but practice themſelves the ſubmiſſion they inculcate on others. Note, Miniſters muſt be examples to their flock, and when God exerciſes them with ſevereſt trials, they are called to eminent reſignation.

2. Reſpecting their marriages. They may not marry a whore, or a profane perſon; one who had been ſeduced, though not openly common, nor a woman divorced, becauſe her conduct was ſuſpicious. The dignity of the prieſthood muſt be maintained in the exemplarineſs, and irreproachable character of their wives. Note, Miniſters ſhould be very cautious in their choice; a light and vain woman will be a diſcredit to themſelves, a reproach to the ſervice they are engaged in, and a hindrance to their labours.

3. Reſpecting their children. Severeſt puniſhments ſhall accompany their ſins, as they are ſuppoſed to be better inſtructed, to act againſt greater light, and to bring a diſhonour upon their holy family. A prieſt's daughter that plays the whore, ſhall be burnt with fire: an offence in a miniſter's family, is doubly criminal and ſcandalous.

Before Chriſt 1490.

10. And he that is the high prieſt among his brethren, upon whoſe head [f] the anointing oil was poured, and [g] that is conſecrated to put on the garments, [h] ſhall not uncover his head, nor rent his clothes. 11. Neither ſhall he go in to any dead body, nor defile himſelf for his father or for his mother. 12. [i] Neither ſhall he go out of the ſanctuary, nor profane the ſanctuary of his God; for [k] the crown of the anointing oil of his God is upon him: I am the LORD. 13. And [l] he ſhall take a wife in her virginity. 14. A widow, or a divorced woman, or profane, or an harlot, theſe ſhall he not take: but he ſhall take a virgin of his own people to wife. 15. Neither ſhall he profane his ſeed among his people: for I the LORD do ſanctify him.

f Exod. xxx. 30.
g Ibid. xxviii. 2. Chap. xvi. 32.
h Ibid. x. 6.
i Ibid. 7.
k Exod. xxviii. 36.
l Ezek. xliv. 22.

v. 10—15. As the high-prieſt excelled in dignity, he muſt keep himſelf under greater reſtrictions, than even the prieſts his brethren.

1. He may not defile himſelf for the dead, even for his neareſt relations, v. 11. nor expreſs any of the uſual ſymptoms of mourning, not even to uncover his head. When God's ſanctuary calls for our attendance, the deepeſt ties that would withdraw us from it muſt be broken through.

2. Beſides the reſtrictions in common with the reſt, he muſt not marry a widow, but a virgin. Every believer muſt be preſented to Jeſus the great high-prieſt a chaſte virgin; and he is counted ſuch, when having waſhed his ſoul in the blood of the lamb, with fervent affection he cleaves to him alone.

3. He muſt not profane his ſeed, by marrying himſelf contrary to God's ordinances, which would incapacitate his children from ſucceeding him, or by giving them in marriage to any profane perſon, which would reflect diſhonour on himſelf and the prieſthood. Note, (1.) There is a propriety in perſons marrying in their own rank and ſtation. (2.) Miniſters muſt, for their children's ſake, avoid a profane partner, as their families are in more danger of being corrupted by the ill converſation of the one, than by the good converſation of the other.

16. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 17. Speak unto Aaron, ſaying, Whoſoever he be of thy ſeed in their generations, that hath any blemiſh, let him not approach to offer the † bread of his God: 18. For whatſoever man he be that hath a blemiſh, he ſhall not approach: a blind man, or a lame, or he that hath a flat noſe, or any thing [m] ſuperfluous. 19. Or a man that is broken-footed or broken-handed. 20. Or crook-backt, or ‡ a dwarf, or that hath a blemiſh in his eye, or be ſcurvy, or ſcabbed, or hath his ſtones broken: 21. No man that hath a blemiſh, of the ſeed of Aaron the prieſt, ſhall come nigh to offer the offerings of the LORD made by fire; he hath a blemiſh, he ſhall not come nigh to offer the bread of his God. 22. He ſhall eat the bread of † Or food.

m Chap. xxii. 23.
‡ Or too ſlender.

his God, both of the moſt holy, and of the holy. 23. Only he ſhall not go in unto the vail, nor come nigh unto the altar, becauſe he hath a blemiſh; that he profane not my ſanctuaries: for I the LORD do ſanctify them. 24. And Moſes told it unto Aaron, and to his ſons, and unto all the children of Iſrael.

v. 16—24. All natural blemiſhes and deformities of body incapacited the ſons of Aaron and Levi from the exerciſe of the ſacerdotal function; whether they were curable or incurable, as long as they continued, they were unfit to miniſter. God will have the people reſpect the perſon, as well as the office of his prieſts: not that their natural defects ſhould morally, or ceremonially defile them: though with-held from the ſervice, they are alike to be maintained at the altar, and ſhare with the other prieſts the holy things. Note, (1.) Though under the goſpel perſonal blemiſhes, where abilities and zeal are found, may not diſqualify a man for the miniſtry; yet it is ſtill deſirable to avoid ordaining ſuch, whoſe ſtriking deformity may make their perſons appear deſpicable. (2.) If natural defects make men unqualified for the prieſthood, how much more ought moral turpitude to do ſo? A miniſter ſpiritually blind, or halting in his opinions, or perverſe in his walk, or vicious in his temper, ought for ever to be baniſhed from God's altar.

CHAP. XXII.

In this chapter we have divers laws concerning the prieſts and ſacrifices, all for the preſerving the honour of the ſanctuary, 1. That the prieſts ſhould not eat of the holy things in their uncleanneſs, ver. 1—9. 2. That no ſtranger ſhould eat of the holy things, ver. 10—13. if he did it unwittingly, he muſt make reſtitution, ver. 14—16. 3. That the ſacrifices that were offered, muſt be without blemiſh, ver. 17—25. 4. That they muſt be more than eight days old, ver. 26—28. And that the ſacrifices of thankſgiving muſt be eaten the ſame day they were offered, ver. 29—33.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Speak unto Aaron, and to his ſons, that they ſeparate themſelves from the holy things of the children of Iſrael, and that they profane not my holy name, in thoſe things which they hallow unto me: I am the LORD. 3. Say unto them, Whoſoever he be of all your ſeed, among your generations, that goeth unto the holy things which the children of Iſrael hallow unto the LORD, having his uncleanneſs upon him, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from my preſence: I am the LORD. 4. What man ſoever of the ſeed of Aaron is a leper, or hath [a] a † running iſſue, he ſhall not eat of the holy things [b] until he be clean. And [c] whoſo toucheth any thing that is unclean by the dead, or [d] a man whoſe ſeed goeth from him: 5. Or [e] whoſoever toucheth any creeping thing, whereby he may be made unclean, or [f] a man of whom he may take uncleanneſs, whatſoever uncleanneſs he hath: 6. The ſoul which hath touched any ſuch, ſhall be unclean until even, and ſhall not eat of the holy things, unleſs he waſh his fleſh with water. 7. And when the ſun is down, he ſhall be clean, and ſhall afterward eat of the holy things, becauſe it is his food. 8. [g] That which dieth of itſelf, or is torn with beaſts, he ſhall not eat to defile himſelf therewith: I am the LORD. 9. They ſhall therefore keep mine ordinance, leaſt they bear ſin for it, and die therefore, if they profane it: I the LORD do ſanctify them.

[a] Chap. xv. 2.
† Heb. Running of the reins.
[b] Chap. xiv. 2. & xv. 13.
[c] Num. xix. 11.
[d] Chap. xv. 16.
[e] Chap. xi. 24.
[f] Ibid. xv. 7, 19.
[g] Exod. xxii. 31. Chap. xvii. 15. Ezek. xliv. 31.

v. 1—9. Holineſs becometh God's houſe. He will ſuffer no unclean prieſt to approach his ſanctuary: if the defilement of leproſy was permanent, he muſt be totally excluded, or till he was cured: if by the touch of any thing he was defiled, he muſt be unclean till the evening, and waſh before he could return to his office. Nothing dying of itſelf, nor torn of beaſts, muſt he taſte, and death is the penalty of diſobedience. Note, (1.) It is no light matter to profane with unhallowed touch the ſacred table of the Lord. Many come to the Lord's ſupper, who being unwaſhed from their iniquities, eat and drink their own damnation. (2.) The higher the ſtation, the deeper the fall. A prieſt that periſhes, ſinks into the loweſt pit. (3.) It becomes us with jealouſy, knowing what a God we have to do with, to take heed to our ways in this naughty world, and never to omit daily application to the fountain that is opened for ſin and for uncleanneſs.

10. [h] There ſhall no ſtranger eat of the holy thing: a ſojourner of the prieſt, or an hired ſervant ſhall not eat of the holy thing. 11. But if the prieſt buy any ſoul † with his money, he ſhall eat of it, and he that is born in his houſe: they ſhall eat of his meat. 12. If the prieſt's daughter alſo be married unto ‡ a ſtranger, ſhe may not eat of an offering of the holy things. 13. But if the prieſt's daughter be a widow, or divorced, and have no child, and is returned unto her father's houſe, [i] as in her youth, ſhe ſhall eat of her father's meat, but there ſhall no ſtranger eat thereof. 14. ¶ And if a man eat of the holy thing unwittingly, then he ſhall put the fifth part thereof unto it, and ſhall give it unto the prieſt, with the holy thing. 15. And they ſhall not profane the holy things of the children of Iſrael, which they offer unto the LORD: 16. Or † ſuffer them to bear the iniquity of treſpaſs, when they eat their holy things: for I the LORD do ſanctify them.

[h] See 1 Sam. xxi. 6.
† Heb. With the purchaſe of his money.
‡ Heb. A man, a ſtranger.
[i] Chap. x. 14.
† Or lade themſelves with the iniquity of treſpaſs in their eating.

v. 10—16. None but the prieſt's family muſt eat the holy things. A ſojourner, or a hired ſervant, are excluded, and their own daughters, if married to one not a prieſt. Though if a widow, or divorced, and without children, on returning to their father's houſe, they were again admitted to partake of them. If a perſon undeſignedly did eat of the holy things who had no right, he muſt make reſtitution to the prieſt, and add a fifth part more than the value of the thing, and atone for his treſpaſs by an offering. It was the prieſt's buſineſs to take care ſuch profaneneſs in his family was not committed. We muſt, to the utmoſt, reſtrain others from ſin, as well as avoid it ourſelves; and as they alone were to bear the treſpaſs of the people, it would be great impiety in others, to pretend to partake with them. There is but one mediator, who is appointed to bear our ſins, and we muſt be careful to join no other with him. His blood and righteouſneſs alone, not any works of our own, or of others, have the leaſt efficacy in obtaining remiſſion of the iniquity of our treſpaſs.

17. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 18. Speak unto Aaron, and to his ſons, and unto all the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, [k] Whatſoever he be of the houſe of Iſrael, or of the ſtrangers in Iſrael, that will offer his oblation for all his vows, and for all his free-will offerings, which they will offer unto the LORD for a burnt-offering: 19. [l] Ye ſhall offer at your own will a male without blemiſh of the beeves, of the ſheep, or of the goats. 20. But [m] whatſoever hath a blemiſh, that ſhall ye not offer: for it ſhall not be acceptable for you. 21. And [n] whoſoever offereth a ſacrifice of peace-offerings unto the LORD, to accompliſh his vow, or a free-will offering in beeves or † ſheep, it ſhall be perfect, to be accepted: there ſhall be no blemiſh therein. 22. [o] Blind, or broken, or maimed, or having a wen, or ſcurvy, or ſcabbed, ye ſhall not offer theſe unto the LORD, nor make an offering by fire of them upon the altar unto the LORD. 23. Either a bullock, or a † lamb that hath any thing [p] ſuperfluous, or lacking in his parts, that mayeſt thou offer for a free-will offering; but for a vow it ſhall not be accepted. 24. Ye ſhall not offer unto the LORD that which is bruiſed, or cruſhed, or broken, or cut: neither ſhall you make any offering thereof in your land. 25. Neither from a ſtranger's hand ſhall ye offer the bread of your God of any of theſe; becauſe their corruption is in them, and blemiſhes be in them: they ſhall not be accepted for you. 26. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 27. [q] When a bullock, or a ſheep, or a goat is brought forth, then it ſhall be ſeven days under the dam: and from the eighth day and thenceforth, it ſhall be accepted for an offering made by fire unto the LORD. 28. And whether it be cow or † ewe, ye ſhall not kill it and [r] her young both in one day. 29. And when ye will offer a ſacrifice of thankſgiving unto the LORD, offer it at your own will. 30. On the ſame day it ſhall be eaten up, ye ſhall leave [s] none of it until the morrow: I am the LORD. 31. Therefore ſhall ye keep my commandments, and do them: I am the LORD. 32. Neither ſhall ye profane my holy name, but [t] I will be hallowed among the children of Iſrael: I am the LORD which hallow you, 33. That brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD.

[k] Chap. i. 2, 3, 10.
[l] Ibid. 3.
[m] Deut. xv. 21. & xvii. 1. Mal. i. 8.
[n] Chap. iii. 1.
† Or goats.
[o] Ver. 20.
† Or kid.
[p] Chap. xxi. 18.
[q] Exod. xxii. 30. & xxiii. 19. & xxxiv. 26. Deut. xiv. 21.
† Or ſhe-goat.
[r] Deut. xxii. 6.
[s] Chap. vii. 15.
[t] Ibid. x. 3.

v. 17—33. Curſed is the deceiver that hath in his flock a male, and offereth and ſacrificeth a corrupt thing unto the Lord. God will be ſerved with the beſt, or not at all. Therefore,

Before Chriſt 1490.

1. Every blemiſhed beaſt is forbidden to be offered. The blemiſhes are pointed out, v. 22. an exception is made, v. 23. in caſe of a free-will offering; but for a vow, it muſt not be accepted, even from a ſtranger. The prieſts therefore carefully examined the beaſts, and rejected thoſe, where ſuch blemiſhes were found. Note, (1.) Our Lord Jeſus was thus a lamb without ſpot or blemiſh, and when examined, no fault was found in him. (2.) It is but mockery, inſtead of ſervice, to appear before God with blind devotion and lame formality: unleſs our ſouls are engaged, and our hearts given up to him, the reſt is no better than abomination.

2. Other regulations concerning the ſacrifice. It muſt be eight days old; the dam and her young muſt not be ſacrificed together. Note, God teaches us humanity, even in his ſacrifices.

3. The offerings of thankſgiving muſt be eaten the ſame day they were offered, as before enjoined, with the reaſon, He is their God. No obligation ſo forcible to engage our hearts to keep his commandments, as a ſenſe of his redeeming love.

CHAP. XXIII.

The ſolemn feaſts enjoined, 1. The weekly feaſt of the ſabbath, ver. 3. 2. The yearly feaſts. (1.) The paſſover, and the feaſt of unleavened bread, ver. 4–8. to which was annexed the offering of the ſheaf of firſt fruits, ver. 9—14. (2.) The Pentecoſt, ver. 15—22. (3.) The ſolemnities of the ſeventh month. The feaſt of trumpets on the firſt day, ver. 23—25. The day of atonement on the tenth day, ver. 26—32. And the feaſt of tabernacles on the fifteenth, ver. 33—44.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, Concerning the feaſts of the LORD, which ye ſhall proclaim to be holy convocations, even theſe are my feaſts. 3. [a] Six days ſhall work be done, but the ſeventh day is the ſabbath of reſt, an holy convocation; ye ſhall do no work therein: it is the ſabbath of the LORD in all your dwellings.

[a] Exod. xx. 9. & xxiii. 12. & xxxi. 13. & xxxiv. 21. Chap. xix. 3. Deut. v. 13. Luke xiii. 14.

v. 1—3. The holy ſolemnities are appointed. On thoſe days there was a convocation of the people to the door of the tabernacle, to join with united voices in prayer and praiſe.

The ſabbath was a weekly feaſt, and ſtill is ſuch, to every true believer, who eſpecially feaſts then on God's word and ordinances. A holy reſt was to be obſerved. We muſt reſt from ſin as from labour. There was on it to be a holy convocation. Nothing on that day muſt keep us from waiting in the courts of God's houſe together, nothing but works of neceſſity. Note, If ſervants are kept from church to provide for our bodies, when they ſhould be feeding their own ſouls, the guilt of ſabbath-breaking will be againſt the heads of that family—And not only by a convocation, but in their dwellings the ſabbath muſt be kept: public duties are but a part of the ſervice; on that day every houſe muſt be a temple, and reſound with prayer and praiſe. To proſtitute the hours of the evening in vanity, or viſiting, or idleneſs, is to profane the day, as much as when we forſake the aſſembly of God's people.

4. ¶ Theſe are the feaſts of the LORD, even holy convocations, which ye ſhall proclaim in their ſeaſons. 5. [b] In the fourteenth day of the firſt month at even, is the LORD's paſſover. 6. And on the fifteenth day of the ſame month, is the feaſt of unleavened bread unto the LORD: ſeven days ye muſt eat unleavened bread. 7. In the firſt day ye ſhall have an holy convocation: ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein. 8. But ye ſhall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD ſeven days: in the ſeventh day is an holy convocation, ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein. 9. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 10. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, [c] When ye be come into the land which I give unto you, and ſhall reap the harveſt thereof, then ye ſhall bring † a ſheaf of the firſt fruits of your harveſt unto the prieſt: 11. And he ſhall wave the ſheaf before the LORD, to be accepted for you: on the morrow after the ſabbath the prieſt ſhall wave it. 12. And ye ſhall offer that day when ye wave the ſheaf, an he-lamb without blemiſh, of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering unto the LORD. 13. And the meat-offering thereof ſhall be two tenth-deals of fine flour mingled with oil, an offering made by fire unto the LORD for a ſweet ſavour: and the drink-offering thereof ſhall be of wine, the fourth part of an hin. 14. And ye ſhall eat neither bread, nor parched corn, nor green ears, until the ſelf ſame day that ye have brought an offering unto your God: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout your generations, in all your dwellings.

[b] Exod. xii. 18. & xiii. 3. & xxiii. 15. & xxxiv. 18. Num. ix. 2. & xxviii. 16. Deut. xvi. 1.

[c] Exod. xxiii. 16. & xxxiv. 22. Num. xxviii. 26. Deut. xvi. 9. Joſh. i. 15.

† Heb. An mer.

Before Chriſt 1490.

v. 4—14. The annual feaſts are next enjoined. The chief of theſe being the paſſover, that is firſt mentioned. It had been before appointed, for the commemoration of their wondrous deliverance from Egypt: Divine mercies ſhould never be forgotten. During the ſeven days of unleavened bread which followed, extraordinary ſacrifices were offered, Num. xxviii. 19—24. They who come to acknowledge divine mercies, ſhall have their ſouls refreſhed, as with marrow and fatneſs. The firſt and laſt days were holy convocations. On the ſecond day, the firſt fruits were offered, with a lamb for a ſacrifice, in thanks for the produce of the field, and to obtain the Divine bleſſing upon their harveſt. Note, (1.) Holy ſeaſons ſhould be obſerved in a holy manner. (2.) God has a right to his ſheaf: we muſt honour him with part of our ſubſtance, if we would have his bleſſing on the reſt. (3.) Theſe firſt fruits were typical of Jeſus riſing, as the firſt fruits from the dead, on this very day, and thereby aſſuring us of our own reſurrection.

15. ¶ And [d] ye ſhall count unto you from the morrow after the ſabbath, from the day that ye brought the ſheaf of the wave-offering; ſeven ſabbaths ſhall be complete: 16. Even unto the morrow after the ſeventh ſabbath ſhall ye number fifty days, and ye ſhall offer a new meat-offering unto the LORD. 17. Ye ſhall bring out of your habitations two wave-loaves, of two tenth-deals: they ſhall be of fine flour, they ſhall be baken with leaven, they are [e] the firſt-fruits unto the LORD. 18. And ye ſhall offer with the bread ſeven lambs without blemiſh, of the firſt year, and one young bullock, and two rams: they ſhall be for a burnt-offering unto the LORD, with their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, even an offering made by fire of ſweet ſavour unto the LORD. 19. Then ye ſhall ſacrifice [f] one kid of the goats, for a ſin-offering, and two lambs of the firſt year, for a ſacrifice of [g] peace-offerings. 20. And the prieſt ſhall wave them with the bread of the firſt-fruits, for a wave-offering before the LORD, with the two lambs: [h] they ſhall be holy to the LORD for the prieſt. 21. And ye ſhall proclaim on the ſelf-ſame day, that it may be an holy convocation unto you: ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in all your dwellings throughout your generations. 22. ¶ And [i] when ye reap the harveſt of your land, thou ſhalt not make clean riddance of the corners of thy field, when thou reapeſt, [k] neither ſhalt thou gather any gleaning of thy harveſt: thou ſhalt leave them unto the poor, and to the ſtranger: I am the LORD your God.

[d] Chap. xxv. 8. Deut. xvi. 9.

[e] Exod. xxiii. 16, 19. & xxii. 29. & xxxiv. 26. Numb. xv. 17. & xxviii. 26. Deut. xxvi. 1.

[f] Chap. iv. 2.

[g] Ibid. iii. 1.

[h] Num. xviii. 12. Deut. xviii. 4.

[i] Chap. xix. 9.

[k] Deut. xxiv. 19.

v. 15—22. The feaſt of Pentecoſt was ſeven weeks after the paſſover. The harveſt was then gathered in, and they brought their grateful acknowledgments in the two loaves of wheaten bread, for firſt-fruits to the Lord, with a burnt-offering of thankſgiving, a ſin-offering to intimate their unworthineſs of theſe mercies, and peace-offerings to implore a bleſſing on the fruits they had gathered. That harveſt will yield well, where the reapers have ſuch a regard to God: a holy convocation was kept on this day, and all the men required to appear before the Lord, in memory of God's giving them the law from Sinai. It was at this feaſt, that the Holy Ghoſt afterwards was poured out on the apoſtles, and three thouſand ſouls converted as firſt-fruits to God and the Lamb.

The charge of leaving a portion for the poor is repeated. They who will honour God with ſacrifice, muſt alſo have pity on the needy; and God will accept with greater delight the feeding his hungry ſaints, than the feeding the fire of his altar with the fat of bullocks or rams.

23. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 24. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, In [l] the ſeventh month, in the firſt day of the month, ſhall ye have a ſabbath, [m] a memorial of blowing of trumpets, an holy convocation. 25. Ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein; but ye ſhall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD. 26. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 27. [n] Alſo on the tenth day of this ſeventh month, there ſhall be a day of atonement, it ſhall be an holy convocation unto you, and ye ſhall afflict your ſouls and offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD. 28. And ye ſhall do no work in that ſame day: for it is a day of atonement, to make an atonement for you before the LORD your God. 29. For whatſoever ſoul it be

[l] Num. xxix. 1.

[m] Chap. xxv. 9.

[n] Ibid. xvi. 30. Num. xxix. 7.

that ſhall not be afflicted in that ſame day, [o] he ſhall be cut off from among his people. 30. And whatſoever ſoul it be that doeth any work in that ſame day, [p] the ſame ſoul will I deſtroy from among his people. 31. Ye ſhall do no manner of work: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout your generations in all your dwellings. 32. It ſhall be unto you a ſabbath of reſt, and ye ſhall afflict your ſouls in the ninth day of the month at even: from even unto even ſhall ye † celebrate your ſabbath.

[o] Gen. xvii. 14.
[p] Chap. xx. 3, 5, 6.
† Heb. Reſt.

v. 23—32. 1. The feaſt of trumpets inſtituted. Every new moon was uſhered in with trumpets, but this day they blew from morning until evening. As the jubilee year began with this ſeventh month, it might prefigure that joyful ſound of goſpel grace which ſhould go forth into all lands. The Jews ſay it was a preparation call for the day of atonement, which was on the ninth; and need there is, that we ſhould have loud calls to ſhake off ſpiritual ſloth, and awake to ſerious attention about our everlaſting concerns.

2. The day of atonement muſt be obſerved as a day of ſacred reſt, to be ſpent wholly in reflection upon, and humiliation for the ſins of the preceding year. A day of faſting: the body, as well as ſoul, muſt be afflicted, as both ſhare in guilt; and the whole day, from even unto even, muſt be ſpent in thoſe exerciſes of deep abaſement, which anſwered the inſtitution. Note, (1.) They who feel the burden of ſin, will be careful to beat down the body, as well as to humble the ſoul under it. (2.) Solemn ſeaſons for the review of paſt tranſgreſſions, cannot but have a bleſſed effect upon the heart. (3.) When we would afflict our bodies with faſting, there ſhould be total abſtinence from all kinds of meat. To keep a faſt on rich fiſh, and high ſauces, is ridiculous mockery, inſtead of a holy faſt.

33. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 34. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, [q] The fifteenth day of this ſeventh month ſhall be the feaſt of tabernacles for ſeven days unto the LORD: 35. On the firſt day ſhall be an holy convocation: ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein. 36. Seven days ye ſhall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: [r] on the eighth day ſhall be an holy convocation unto you, and ye ſhall offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD: it is a † [s] ſolemn aſſembly, and ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein. 37. Theſe are the feaſts of the LORD, which ye ſhall proclaim to be holy convocations, to offer an offering made by fire unto the LORD, a burnt-offering, and a meat offering, a ſacrifice, and drink-offerings, every thing upon his day: 38. Beſide the ſabbaths of the LORD, and beſide your gifts, and beſide all your vows, and beſide all your free-will offerings, which ye give unto the LORD. 39. Alſo in the fifteenth day of the ſeventh month, when ye have gathered in the fruit of the land, ye ſhall keep a feaſt unto the LORD ſeven days: on the firſt day ſhall be a ſabbath, and on the eighth day ſhall be a ſabbath. 40. And [t] ye ſhall take you on the firſt day the † boughs of goodly trees, branches of palm-trees, and the boughs of thick trees, and willows of the brook: and ye ſhall rejoice before the LORD your God ſeven days. 41. And ye ſhall keep it a feaſt unto the LORD ſeven days in the year: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in your generations, ye ſhall celebrate it in the ſeventh month. 42. Ye ſhall dwell in booths ſeven days; all that are Iſraelites born, ſhall dwell in booths: 43. That your generations may know that I made the children of Iſrael to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God. 44. And Moſes declared unto the children of Iſrael the feaſts of the LORD.

[q] Exod. xxiii. 16. Num. xxix. 12. Deut. xvi. 13.
[r] Joh. vii. 37.
† Heb. A day of reſtraint.
[s] 2 Chron. vii. 9.
[t] Neh. viii. 15.
† Heb. Fruit.

v. 33—44. The ſorrows of repentance are the certain forerunners of peace and joy in believing. The humiliation of the day of atonement prepared for the feaſt of tabernacles, one of the three great feſtivals, celebrated for eight days, with every expreſſion of gladneſs, with many ſacrifices, and two days of ſolemn convocation. During ſeven days, they lived in booths, made of the branches of trees; the eighth was a holy day of reſt and joy. They thus remembered their long abode in tents, in the wilderneſs, and God's care of them there: and as the fruits of the whole year were now gathered in, this added to their thankfulneſs. Note, (1.) When we come to our true land of reſt, it will ever warm our hearts with peculiar gratitude, to remember the hardſhips we have endured in the wilderneſs, and from which the Lord delivered us. (2.) If the joy of harveſt was ſo great, how much greater will it be when we ſhall reap the harveſt of eternal glory? (3.) We, in this world, dwell in booths, but in a few days we ſhall return to our houſe, which is from heaven, and then everlaſting joy will be upon our heads.

Theſe ſolemnities were annually obſerved, beſide their ſabbaths and free-will offerings; for nothing muſt interrupt our ordinary duties, and we are never reſtrained from adding any farther portion of our time and ſubſtance to the immediate ſervice of God, if we find our hearts inclined, and our circumſtances enabling us.

CHAP. XXIV.

In this chapter we have, 1. A repetition of the laws concerning the lamps and the ſhew-bread, ver. 1—9. 2. A violation of the law againſt blaſphemy, with the impriſonment, trial, condemnation, and execution of the blaſphemer, ver. 10—14. with ver. 23. 3. The law againſt blaſphemy re-enforced, ver. 15, 16. with ſundry other laws, ver. 17—22.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. [a] Command the children of Iſrael that they bring unto thee pure oil-olive, beaten, for the light †, to cauſe the lamps to burn continually. 3. Without the vail of the teſtimony, in the tabernacle of the congregation, ſhall Aaron order it from the evening unto the morning, before the LORD continually: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever in your generations. 4. He ſhall order the lamps upon [b] the pure candleſtick before the LORD continually. 5. ¶ And thou ſhalt take fine flour, and bake twelve [c] cakes thereof: two tenth-deals ſhall be in one cake. 6. And thou ſhalt ſet them in two rows, ſix in a row, upon the pure table, before the LORD. 7. And thou ſhalt put pure frankincenſe upon each row, that it may be on the bread for a memorial, even an offering made by fire unto the LORD. 8. Every ſabbath he ſhall ſet it in order before the LORD continually, being taken from the children of Iſrael, by an everlaſting covenant. 9. And [d] it ſhall be Aaron's and his ſons, and they ſhall eat it in the holy place: for it is moſt holy unto him, of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, by a perpetual ſtatute.

[a] Exod. xxvii. 20.
† Heb. To cauſe to aſcend.
[b] Exod. xxxi. 8.
[c] Ibid. xxv. 30.
[d] Ibid. xxix. 33. Chap. viii. 31. 1 Sam. xxi. 6. Mat. xii. 4.

v. 1—9. We have here,

1. Proviſion for the lamps to be kept conſtantly burning. The oil muſt be of the fineſt ſort, provided at the public expence, and the prieſts are carefully to repleniſh them morning and evening, ſnuff them, and keep them clean. Note, (1.) They who would enjoy the light of the goſpel, ſhould gladly ſupport a godly miniſtry. (2.) They who ſerve in God's ſanctuary, muſt be careful not to adulterate the oil of divine truth, but make the light ſhine bright in the fervency of their miniſtrations, and the exemplarineſs of their own conduct.

2. The ſhew-bread muſt be ſupplied continually. Twelve loaves, according to the twelve tribes, in two piles, with a ſaucer of frankincenſe by each of them. The frankincenſe was burnt on the altar of incenſe, when the loaves were renewed every ſabbath-day; and thoſe that were removed, eaten by the prieſts in the holy place. Note, (1.) They who come to God will find a table ſpread for them even in the wilderneſs. (2.) They who eat of his bread, ſhould remember their obligations to ſerve him. (3.) Every ſabbath-day miniſters muſt provide freſh food for the ſouls of the people, and not lazily put them off with ſtale diſcourſes.

10. ¶ And the ſon of an Iſraelitiſh woman, whoſe father was an Egyptian, went out among the children of Iſrael, and this ſon of the Iſraelitiſh woman, and a man of Iſrael ſtrove together in the camp. 11. And the Iſraelitiſh woman's ſon blaſphemed the name of the LORD, and curſed: and they brought him unto Moſes (and his mother's name was Shelomith, the daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan.) 12. And they [e] put him in ward, † that the mind of the LORD might be ſhewed them. 13. And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 14. Bring forth him that hath curſed without the camp, and let all that heard him [f] lay their hands upon his head, and let all the congregation ſtone him. 15. And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, Whoſoever curſeth his God, ſhall bear his ſin. 16. And [g] he that blaſphemeth the name of the LORD, he ſhall ſurely be put to death, and all the congregation ſhall certainly ſtone him: as well the ſtranger, as he that is born in the land, when he blaſphemeth the name of the LORD, ſhall be put to death.

[e] Num. xv. 34.
† Heb. To expound unto them, according to the mouth of the Lord.
[f] Deut. xiii. 9. & xvii. 7.
[g] 1 Kings xxi. 10, 13.

v. 10—23.

Before Chriſt 1490.

v. 10—16, 23. This is the firſt capital crime and execution ſince the giving the law. The offence was blaſphemy, occaſioned by a quarrel between an Iſraelite and a man born of an Egyptian father and Iſraelitiſh mother. Note, (1.) Quarrels always end ill. (2.) When an Iſraelitiſh woman marries an Egyptian, or a Chriſtian an unbeliever, no wonder the children turn after the worſt ſide. It ſhould ſeem, he wanted to dwell among the Danites, becauſe his mother was of that tribe; and, when oppoſed by one of the tribe, brought his cauſe before the judges, and was caſt: in indignation and wrath againſt which deciſion, he blaſphemed probably God himſelf, or imprecated ſome curſe on the judge, or the Iſraelite his adverſary. Anger and blaſphemy are uſually allied, and both mortal ſins. If we would avoid the one, we ſhould ſuppreſs the other. Hereupon the matter is brought before Moſes, that in a caſe of ſuch importance they might be directed how to proceed according to the mind of God, and, till this is known, the blaſphemer is put in priſon. When life or death are at ſtake, judges need much deliberation, and humbly to look up to God for wiſdom to judge aright, knowing, that at his bar they muſt give account. God commands immediate execution to be done upon him. He is to be dragged out of the camp, as a profanation to it, and all the congregation muſt ſtone him, to teſtify their abhorrence of his ſin, when the witneſſes had laid their hands on his head, as free from his blood. Note, Blaſphemers are now ſo common, that ſtones would almoſt be wanting to caſt at them; but though they find impunity for a moment, there is a judgment near, when they ſhall die a more terrible death, ſuffering the vengeance of eternal fire. The execution of this offender produces a ſtanding law for the future puniſhment of the like crime. It muſt in no caſe be diſpenſed with; and even a ſtranger living among them, is as liable to the ſame penalty, as the Iſraelite born. God is a jealous God, and will in no wiſe ſpare the blaſphemer: and when we hear ſuch dreadful language, we ſhould tremble for thoſe who have no fear for themſelves.

17. ¶ [h] And he that † killeth any man, ſhall ſurely be put to death. 18. And he that killeth a beaſt, ſhall make it good; ‡ beaſt for beaſt. 19. And if a man cauſe a blemiſh in his neighbour, [i] as he hath done, ſo ſhall it be done unto him. 20. Breach for breach, eye for eye, tooth for tooth: as he hath cauſed a blemiſh in a man, ſo ſhall it be done to him again. 21. [k] And he that killeth a beaſt, he ſhall reſtore it: and he that killeth a man, he ſhall be put to death. 22. Ye ſhall have [l] one manner of law, as well for the ſtranger, as for one of your own country: for I am the LORD your God. 23. ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, that they ſhould bring forth him that had curſed, out of the camp, and ſtone him with ſtones: and the children of Iſrael did as the LORD commanded Moſes.

[h] Exod. xxi. 12. Numb. xxxv. 31. Deut. xix. 21.
† Heb. Smiteth the life of a man.
‡ Heb. Life for life.
[i] Exod. xxi. 24. Deut. xix. 21. Mat. v. 38.
[k] Exod. xxi. 33.
[l] Ibid. xii. 49.

v. 17—22. We have here a repetition of former laws. The murderer muſt be put to death. He that killed a beaſt muſt reſtore it; for God will have no injury done to our bodies, or to our goods. The law of retaliation is enjoined; not that any private perſon might avenge himſelf, but the judge muſt give him damages equal to his hurt. Note, Though in general the goſpel teaches us leſſons of forgiveneſs towards thoſe who injure or miſuſe us, yet ſometimes, for the ſake of others and the public, it would be wrong not to claim that redreſs to which we are entitled. Strangers, as well as Jews, were bound by thoſe laws. It is highly equitable, that they who live among us, as they have a right to the protection, ought to be alike obnoxious to the penalties of the law.

CHAP. XXV.

The law of this chapter concerns the lands and eſtates of the Iſraelites in Canaan. 1. Every ſeventh year muſt be a ſabbatical year, ver. 1—7. Thus God tried their faith in his providence, ver. 18—22. 2. Every fiftieth year muſt be a year of jubile, that is, (1.) A year of releaſe of debts and mortgages, and return to the poſſeſſion of their alienated lands, ver. 8—17. Particular directions are given, 1. Concerning the ſale and redemption of lands, ver. 23—28. 2. Of houſes in cities and villages, with a proviſo for Levite cities, ver. 29—34. (2.) A year of releaſe of ſervants and bond-ſlaves. (1.) Here is inſerted, a law for the kind uſage of poor debtors, ver. 35—38. (2.) Then comes the law for the diſcharge of all Iſraelites that were ſold for ſervants in the year of jubile. (1.) If they were ſold to Iſraelites, ver. 39—46. And, (2.) If ſold to proſelytes, ver. 47—55.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in mount Sinai, ſaying, 2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye come into the land which I give you, then ſhall the land † keep [a] ſabbath unto the LORD. 3. Six years thou ſhalt ſow thy field, and ſix years thou ſhalt prune thy vineyard, and gather in the fruit thereof. 4. But in the ſeventh year ſhall be a ſabbath of reſt unto the land, a ſabbath for the LORD: thou ſhalt neither ſow thy field, nor prune thy vineyard. 5. [b] That which groweth of its own accord of thy harveſt, thou ſhalt not reap, neither gather the grapes ‡ of thy vine undreſſed: for it is a year of reſt unto the land. 6. And the ſabbath of the land ſhall be meat for you; for thee, and for thy ſervant, and for thy maid, and for thy hired ſervant, and for thy ſtranger that ſojourneth with thee, 7. And for thy cattle, and for the beaſt that are in thy land, ſhall all the increaſe thereof be meat.

Before Chriſt 1491.

† Heb. Reſt.
[a] Exod. xxiii. 11. See Chap. xxvi. 34.
[b] 2 Kings xix. 29.
‡ Heb. Of thy ſeparation.

v. 1—7. As every ſeventh day was a day of reſt, every ſeventh year was ſabbatical. It began in September, and that year there was no ſeed-time nor harveſt, no pruning vineyards or olives, or any vintage; but what was ſpontaneouſly produced, was common for all. God thus, as the proprietor, taught them to remember, that they held all at his grant, and obliged them to live upon his providence. They were thus more at leiſure to attend upon God, and taught, by having the land in common, to remember their brethren, as being of one family, and to communicate with them their good things. Note, (1.) The ſalvation of the goſpel is a common ſalvation, and all the great and precious promiſes of pardon, righteouſneſs, adoption, ſtrength, conſolation, &c. which grow in the field of grace, as they ſpring up without our labour, are to be gathered freely: whoſoever will, let him come. (2.) When we have for the few years of life toiled to ſubdue the ſtubborn ſoil of our hearts, we ſhall at laſt ſet down, and reſt from our labours, in the enjoyment of an eternal ſabbath in glory.

8. ¶ And thou ſhalt number ſeven ſabbaths of years unto thee, ſeven times ſeven years, and the ſpace of the ſeven ſabbaths of years ſhall be unto thee forty and nine years. 9. Then ſhalt thou cauſe the trumpet † of [c] the jubile to ſound on the tenth day of the ſeventh month; in [d] the day of atonement ſhall ye make the trumpet ſound throughout all your land. 10. And ye ſhall hallow the fiftieth year, and [e] proclaim liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof: it ſhall be a jubile unto you, and [f] ye ſhall return every man unto his poſſeſſion, and [g] ye ſhall return every man unto his family. 11. A jubile ſhall that fiftieth year be unto you: ye ſhall not ſow, neither reap that which groweth of itſelf in it, nor gather the grapes in it of thy vine undreſſed. 12. For it is the jubile, it ſhall be holy unto you: ye ſhall eat the increaſe thereof out of the field. 13. In the year of this jubile, ye ſhall return every man unto his poſſeſſions. 14. And if thou ſell ought unto thy neighbour, or buyeſt ought of thy neighbour's hand, ye ſhall not oppreſs one another. 15. According to the number of years after the jubile thou ſhalt buy of thy neighbour, and according unto the number of years of the fruits he ſhall ſell unto thee: 16. According to the multitude of years thou ſhalt increaſe the price thereof, and according to the fewneſs of years thou ſhalt diminiſh the price of it: for according unto the number of the years of the fruits doth he ſell unto thee. 17. Ye ſhall not therefore oppreſs one another: but thou ſhalt fear thy God: For I am the LORD your God. 18. ¶ Wherefore ye ſhall do my ſtatutes, and keep my judgments, and do them; and ye ſhall dwell in the land in ſafety. 19. And the land ſhall yield her fruit, and [h] ye ſhall eat your fill, and dwell therein in ſafety. 20. And if ye ſhall ſay, What ſhall we eat the ſeventh year? behold, we ſhall not ſow, nor gather in our increaſe: 21. Then I will command my bleſſing upon you in the ſixth year, and it ſhall bring forth fruit for three years. 22. And ye ſhall ſow the eighth year, and eat yet of old fruit, until the ninth year; until her fruits come in, ye ſhall eat of the old ſtore.

† Heb. Loud of ſound.
[c] Chap. xxvii. 17, &c. Numb. xxxvi. 4. See Iſa. lxi. 2. Luke iv. 19.
[d] Chap. xxiii. 27, &c.
[e] See Iſa. lxi. 1. Luke iv. 18.
[f] Ver. 13, 28, 41.
[g] Ver. 41, 54.
[h] Chap xxvi. 5

v. 8—22. As every ſeventh was a ſabbatical year, every fiftieth was a jubile, when the land muſt reſt, and no work of agriculture be performed. Proclamation of it was made throughout the land, on the evening of the day of atonement; and thereupon an immediate reſtoration of liberty and property commenced. Thus when the trump of goſpel grace proclaims pardon to the guilty, then peace of conſcience, and deliverance from the bondage of ſin, begins; and when the trump of judgment ſhall awake the dead, a yet more glorious jubile will commence ; when every true Iſraelite ſhall receive his inheritance, unalienable and eternal in the heavens.

1. Every man's eſtate returned to his heirs, without fee or reward, in the ſtate it had been mortgaged : by which proviſion every tribe was kept diſtinct, and every family careful of their genealogy. None were ſuffered to increaſe their eſtates, ſo as to lord it over his brethren ; nor any family, through the extravagance of a member of it, reduced to poverty for ever. Note, Though Adam, like an extravagant father, ſold his patrimony, Chriſt hath reſtored the loſt inheritance to all his Iſrael.

2. Every ſlave was at liberty ; no contract extended longer than this period. Though we have ſold ourſelves to work wickedneſs, and juſtly deſerve perpetual ſervitude, yet, bleſſed be God, we are, through the blood of redemption, delivered from the bondage of corruption, and reſtored to the houſhold of God.

3. Every bargain was to be made with a view to this year. According to the nearneſs or diſtance of it, the value of a purchaſe was to be proportionable. Their contracts muſt be made in the fear of God, and then they will neceſſarily be equitable. Note, The perſon who is not poſſeſſed with the fear of God, and love of his brother, cannot be an honeſt man.

4. Leſt they ſhould fear a famine, by the want of harveſt for two ſucceſſive years, God promiſes to preſerve them, and give them ſuch extraordinary increaſe on the ſixth year, that they ſhould have enough till the corn was reaped in the ninth. Note, (1.) They who follow God's will, may ſafely truſt him for a proviſion. (2.) It would be a ſhame to a Chriſtian, if he has leſs faith than a Jew, and if we ſhould be more afraid of wanting bread than they were. (3.) With the bleſſing of God, a little will go far ; ſo that, like the widow's cruiſe, we ſhall ſtill have enough and to ſpare.

23. ¶ The land ſhall not be ſold † for ever : for the land is mine, for ye are [i] ſtrangers and ſojourners with me. 24. And in all the land of your poſſeſſion, ye ſhall grant a redemption for the land. 25. ¶ [k] If thy brother be waxen poor, and hath ſold away ſome of his poſſeſſion, and if [l] any of his kin come to redeem it, then ſhall he redeem that which his brother ſold. 26. And if the man have none to redeem it, and ‡ himſelf be able to redeem it : 27. Then let him count the years of the ſale thereof, and reſtore the overplus unto the man to whom he ſold it ; that he may return unto his poſſeſſion. 28. But if he be not able to reſtore it to him, then that which is ſold, ſhall remain in the hand of him that hath bought it, until the year of jubile : and in the jubile it ſhall go out, and he ſhall return unto his poſſeſſion. 29. And if a man ſell a dwelling-houſe in a walled city, then he may redeem it within a whole year after it is ſold : within a full year may he redeem it. 30. And if it be not redeemed within the ſpace of a full year : then the houſe that is in the walled city, ſhall be eſtabliſhed for ever to him that bought it, throughout his generations : it ſhall not go out in the jubile. 31. But the houſes of the villages which have no walls round about them, ſhall be counted as the fields of the country : || they may be redeemed, and they ſhall go out in the jubile. 32. Notwithſtanding, [m] the cities of the Levites, and the houſes of the cities of their poſſeſſion, may the Levites redeem at any time. 33. And if § a man purchaſe of the Levites, then the houſe that was ſold, and the city of his poſſeſſion ſhall go out in the year of jubile : for the houſes of the cities of the Levites are their poſſeſſion among the children of Iſrael. 34. But the field of the ſuburbs of their cities may not be ſold, for it is their perpetual poſſeſſion.

† Heb. For cutting off.
[i] Pſ. cxix. 19. 1 Pet. ii. 11.
[k] Ruth ii. 20. & iv. 6.
[l] See Ruth iii. 2, 9, 12. Jer. xxxii. 7.
‡ Heb. His hand hath attained, and found ſufficiency.
|| Heb. Redemption belongeth unto it.
[m] See Num. xxxv. 2. Joſh. xxi. 2, &c.
§ Or, one of the Levites redeem them.

v. 23—34. The lands were God's, and they only occupants for him ; therefore they muſt never be ſold for perpetuity. The longeſt alienation was till the year of jubile, and they were redeemable at any time before. If the owner himſelf could not redeem his eſtate, his neareſt kinſman might, and thus keep it in the family. If not redeemed, it reverted of courſe at the jubile. Some exceptions are made, reſpecting houſes in walled towns, (for thoſe in the country went as the lands) ; if a man bought a houſe, during a year it might be redeemed ; but afterwards it was his own for ever ; which would encourage artificers and merchants to live among them, ſince they might have a dwelling of their own, though not a landed eſtate. The houſes in the cities of the Levites only were at all times redeemable, and reverted at the jubile, as lands ; and the fields in their ſuburbs never could be alienated at all ; they belonging to the city as a community, being appointed for the maintenance of ſucceeding generations of the prieſthood. We are taught here, 1. In the near kinſman and redeemer to behold Jeſus, fleſh of our fleſh, and bone of our bone, who, when we had ſold all, and were become incapable of recovering our inheritance, hath paid down the purchaſe, and reſtored the loſt title. 2. If God has ſuch care for his church lands, they need fear a reckoning, who continue the ſacrilegious alienation of the tythes devoted to the ſervice of his ſanctuary, and have, in many pariſhes among us, ſcarce left the miniſters a houſe to cover them, or a ſalary to provide them bread.

35. ¶ And if thy brother be waxen poor, and † fallen in decay with thee, then thou ſhalt ‡ relieve him : yea though he be a ſtranger, or a ſojourner ; that he may live with thee. 36. [n] Take thou no uſury of him, or increaſe : but [o] fear thy God, that thy brother may live with thee. 37. Thou ſhalt not give him thy money upon uſury, nor lend him thy victuals for increaſe. 38. I am the LORD your God, which brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, to give you the land of Canaan, and to be your God.

† Heb. His hand faileth.
‡ Heb. ſtrengthen.
[n] Exod. xxii. 25. Deut. xxiii. 19. Prov. xxviii. 8. Ezek. xviii. 8. & xxii. 12.
[o] Neh. v. 9.

v. 35—38. God will have particular regard paid to his poor people ; and no difference muſt be made between home-born or ſtranger. Wherever poverty is, it is a demand for our aſſiſtance. They muſt pity, and, out of their abundance, ſupply their wants ; and as a ſmall ſum lent the induſtrious poor, is often the greateſt charity which can be done them, as enabling them to work for themſelves, they may not take any uſury for it. Theſe are laws ſtill in force ; for though intereſt from thoſe who uſe our money to traffic and make gain with, is lawful, yet many times the ſame charity that bids us freely give to one, obliges us freely to lend another. The rich muſt not live for themſelves merely, or engroſs all ; God expects, that as he hath given the poor life, we ſhould make their ſubſiſtence comfortable.

39. ¶ And [p] if thy brother that dwelleth by thee be waxen poor, and be ſold unto thee ; thou ſhalt not † compel him to ſerve as a bond-ſervant : 40. But as an hired ſervant, and as a ſojourner, he ſhall be with thee, and ſhall ſerve thee unto the year of jubile. 41. And then ſhall he depart from thee, both he and his children with him, and ſhall return unto his own family, and unto the poſſeſſion of his fathers ſhall he return. 42. For they are my ſervants, which I brought forth out of the land of Egypt : they ſhall not be ſold ‡ as bondmen. 43. [q] Thou ſhalt not rule over him with rigour, but ſhalt fear thy God. 44. Both thy bondmen and thy bondmaids, which thou ſhalt have, ſhall be of the heathen that are round about you ; of them ſhall ye buy bondmen and bondmaids. 45. Moreover of the children of the ſtrangers that do ſojourn among you, of them ſhall ye buy, and of their families that are with you, which they begat in your land : and they ſhall be your poſſeſſion. 46. And ye ſhall take them as an inheritance for your children after you, to inherit them for a poſſeſſion, || they ſhall be your bondmen for ever : but over your brethren, the children of Iſrael, ye ſhall not rule one over another with rigour. 47. ¶ And if a ſojourner or ſtranger § wax rich by thee, and thy brother that dwelleth by him wax poor, and ſell himſelf unto the ſtranger or ſojourner by thee, or to the ſtock of the ſtranger's family : 48. After that he is ſold, he may be redeemed again ; one of his brethren may redeem him. 49. Either his uncle, or his uncle's ſon may redeem him, or any that is nigh of kin unto him of his family, may redeem him ; or if he be able, he may redeem himſelf. 50. And he ſhall reckon with him that bought him, from the year that he was ſold to him, unto the year of jubile : and the price of his ſale ſhall be according to the number of years, according to the time of an hired ſervant ſhall it be with him. 51. If there be yet many years behind, according unto them he ſhall give again the price of his redemption, out of the money that he was bought for. 52. ¶ And if there remain but few years unto the year of jubile, then he ſhall count with him, and according unto his years ſhall he give him again the price of his redemption. 53. And as a yearly hired ſervant ſhall he be with him, and the other ſhall not rule with rigour over him in thy ſight. 54. And if he be not redeemed † in theſe years, then he ſhall go out in the year of jubile, both he and his children with him. 55. For unto me the children of Iſrael are ſervants,

they

[p] Exod. xxi. 2. Deut. xv. 12. Jer. xxxiv. 14.
† Heb. Serve thyſelf with him with the ſervice, &c.
‡ Heb. With the ſale of a bond-man.
[q] Eph vi. 9. Col. iv. 1.
|| Heb. Ye ſhall ſerve yourſelves with them.
§ Heb. His hand obtain, &c.
† Or, by theſe means.

they are my ſervants, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

v. 39—55. As God had done ſo much for Iſrael, in bringing them from Egypt, he will no more ſuffer them to live in perpetual ſervitude. The ſoul whom God hath reſcued once from ſpiritual Egypt, though fooliſhly and wickedly he may part with his glorious liberty for a time, God will not ſuffer him to live for ever a bond-ſervant to ſin, but will ſave him from final apoſtacy.

1. A native Iſraelite, who through extreme poverty ſold himſelf to one of his brethren, was to be regarded as a hired ſervant, to be looked upon above a bond-man, as being by and by to go free; and, as a brother, to be treated with gentleneſs. Our ſervants being of the ſame fleſh and blood, have as much a right to our kindneſs and good uſage, as we have to their ſervice and fidelity. He hath never known the gentle ſway of a Saviour's love in his heart, who becoming inſolent, unreaſonable, or fretful, is a lion in his houſe, and frantic among his ſervants. If the Iſraelite were ſold for debt, or a crime, he was free the ſeventh year: if it was his own act, it extended to the year of jubile. Of other nations, except the devoted ones, they might have perpetual bond-ſervants, and theſe the jubile year did not affect. It is only thoſe who are of the election of grace, as Abraham's believing ſeed, that have a right to ſpiritual liberty; the reſt die, as they were born, the ſervants of corruption. Though the ſinner hath ſold himſelf, bleſſed be God, the right of redemption remains good, and we have one of our brethren able and willing to pay the price, and ſet the poor ſoul at liberty from the ſervitude of ſin.

2. If an Iſraelite ſold himſelf to a wealthy ſtranger, beſides the other privileges of going out in common with others at the year of jubile, particular care is taken that his brethren have an eye to him, that he be not uſed with rigour; and alſo any of his relations had a right to redeem him, according to the number of years which remained before the jubile.

CHAP. XXVI.

This chapter is a ſolemn concluſion of the main body of the Levitical law. Here is, 1. A repetition of two or three of the principal of the commandments, ver. 1, 2. 2. An inviting promiſe of all good things, if they would but keep God's commandments, ver. 3—13. 3. A terrible threatning of ruining judgments which would be brought upon them, if they were refractory and diſobedient, ver. 14—39. 4. A gracious promiſe of the return of mercy to thoſe of them that would repent and reform, ver. 40, &c. Deut. xxviii. is parallel to this.

1. YE ſhall make you [a] no idols, nor graven image, neither rear you up a † ſtanding image, neither ſhall ye ſet up any ‡ image of ſtone in your land, to bow down unto it: for I am the LORD your God. 2. [b] Ye ſhall keep my ſabbaths, and reverence my ſanctuary: I am the LORD. 3. ¶ [c] If ye walk in my ſtatutes, and keep my commandments, and do them; 4. Then I will give you rain in due ſeaſon, and the land ſhall yield her increaſe, and the trees of the field ſhall yield their fruit. 5. And [d] your threſhing ſhall reach unto the vintage, and the vintage ſhall reach unto the ſowing time: and [e] ye ſhall eat your bread to the full, and [f] dwell in your land ſafely. 6. And I will give peace in the land, and [g] ye ſhall lie down, and none ſhall make you afraid: and I will ‖ rid evil beaſts out of the land, neither ſhall the ſword go through your land. 7. And ye ſhall chaſe your enemies, and they ſhall fall before you by the ſword. 8. And [h] five of you ſhall chaſe an hundred, and an hundred of you ſhall put ten thouſand to flight: and your enemies ſhall fall before you by the ſword. 9. For I will have reſpect unto you, and make you fruitful, and multiply you, and eſtabliſh my covenant with you. 10. And ye ſhall eat old ſtore, and bring forth the old becauſe of the new. 11. And [i] I will ſet my tabernacle amongſt you; and my ſoul ſhall not abhor you. 12. [k] And I will walk among you, and will be your God, and ye ſhall be my people. 13. I am the LORD your God, which brought you forth out of the land of Egypt, that ye ſhould not be their bondmen; and I have broken the bands of your yoke, and made you go upright.

[a] Exod. xx. 4. Deut. v. 8. & xvi. 12. & xxvii. 15. Pſ. xcvii. 7.
† Or pillar,
‡ Heb. A ſtone of picture, i. e. A pictured ſtone.
[b] Chap. xix. 30.
[c] Deut. xxviii. 1.
[d] Amos ix. 13.
[e] Chap. xxv. 19.
[f] Job xi. 18.
[g] Job xi. 19. Iſa. xxxv. 9. Ezek. xxxiv. 25.
‖ Heb. Cauſe to ceaſe.
[h] Deut. xxxii. 30. Joſh. xxiii. 10.
[i] Ezek. xxxvii. 26, 27.
[k] 2 Cor. vi. 16.

v. 1—13. God will not prove an unkind maſter to thoſe who ſerve him: none follow him with fidelity, whom he will not follow with bleſſings. We have,

1. A ſolemn repetition of thoſe commands, on the obſervance of which their happineſs eſpecially depended, viz. Abſtaining from idolatry, and keeping holy God's ſabbaths. Whilſt they worſhipped the true God, and in the ways of his own appointments, ſo long they would be a peculiar people to him.

2. Rich promiſes to the obedient. The things ſpecified are temporal; but they look further, even to eternal bleſſings. Plenty ſhall crown the year, and peace be in their borders. Their enemies ſhall bow before them, and their people multiply exceedingly. God's favour ſhall be continually towards them, his preſence in the midſt of them, and his covenant perpetually eſtabliſhed with them. They ſhall be his people, and he will be their God for ever. To the Iſrael of God theſe promiſes are daily fulfilling: the rain of divine grace produces the abundance of ſpiritual gifts and holy diſpoſitions: the peace of God ſhall keep our hearts and minds: our enemies, Satan, ſin, and death, ſhall be vanquiſhed: the in-dwelling preſence of Jeſus in our heart, ſhall exceed the tabernacle glory; and though in ourſelves deſerving God's loathing, we ſhall be the objects of his everlaſting love; the covenant he hath made with us ſhall ſtand faſt to eternity; and in death, and after death he will be our God for ever and ever, and we ſhall be his people. Amen! Amen!

14. [l] But if ye will not hearken unto me, and will not do all theſe commandments; 15. And if ye ſhall deſpiſe my ſtatutes, or if your ſoul abhor my judgments, ſo that ye will not do all my commandments, but that ye break my covenant: 16. I alſo will do this unto you, I will even appoint † over you terror, conſumption, and the burning ague, that ſhall conſume the eyes, and cauſe ſorrow of heart: and [m] ye ſhall ſow your ſeed in vain, for your enemies ſhall eat it. 17. [n] And I will ſet my face againſt you, and ye ſhall be ſlain before your enemies: they that hate you ſhall reign over you, and [o] ye ſhall flee when none purſueth you. 18. And if ye will not yet for all this hearken unto me, then I will puniſh you [p] ſeven times more for your ſins. 19. And I will break the pride of your power: and I will make your heaven as iron, and your earth as braſs: 20. And your ſtrength ſhall be ſpent in vain: for your land ſhall not yield her increaſe, neither ſhall the trees of the land yield their fruits. 21. ¶ And if ye walk ‡ contrary unto me, and will not hearken unto me, I will bring ſeven times more plagues upon you, according to your ſins. 22. [q] I will alſo ſend wild beaſts among you, which ſhall rob you of your children, and deſtroy your cattle, and make you few in number, and [r] your high-ways ſhall be deſolate. 23. And if ye will not be reformed by me by theſe things, but will walk contrary unto me: 24. Then will [s] I alſo walk contrary unto you, and will puniſh you yet ſeven times for your ſins. 25. And I will bring a ſword upon you, that ſhall avenge the quarrel of my covenant: and when ye are gathered together within your cities, I will ſend the peſtilence among you, and ye ſhall be delivered into the hand of the enemy. 26. And [t] when I have broken the ſtaff of your bread, ten women ſhall bake your bread in one oven, and they ſhall deliver you your bread again by weight: and [u] ye ſhall eat and not be ſatisfied. 27. And if ye will not for all this hearken unto me, but walk contrary unto me: 28. Then I will walk contrary unto you alſo in fury; and I, even I, will chaſtiſe you ſeven times for your ſins. 29. [x] And ye ſhall eat the fleſh of your ſons, and the fleſh of your daughters ſhall ye eat. 30. And I will deſtroy your high places, and [y] cut down your images, and caſt your carcaſes upon the carcaſes of your idols, and my ſoul ſhall abhor you. 31. And I will make your cities waſte, and [z] bring your ſanctuaries unto deſolation: and I will not ſmell the ſavour of your ſweet odours. 32. And I will bring the land into deſolation: and your enemies which dwell therein ſhall be aſtoniſhed at it. 33. [a] And I will ſcatter you among the heathen, and will draw out a ſword after you: and your land ſhall be deſolate, and your cities waſte. 34. [b] Then ſhall the land enjoy her ſabbaths as long as it lieth deſolate, and ye be in your enemies land; even then ſhall the land reſt, and enjoy her ſabbaths. 35. As long as it lieth deſolate, it ſhall reſt: becauſe it did not reſt in your [c] ſabbaths, when ye dwelt upon it. 36. And upon them that are left alive of you, I will ſend a faintneſs into their hearts in the lands of their enemies; and [d] the ſound of a † ſhaken leaf ſhall chaſe them; and they ſhall flee, as fleeing from a ſword: and they ſhall fall when none

[l] Deut. xxviii. 15. Lam. ii. 17. Mal. ii. 2.
† Heb. Upon you.
[m] Deut. xxviii. 33. Job. xxxi. 8. Jer. v. 17. & xii. 13.
[n] Chap. xvii. 10.
[o] Pſ. liii. 5. Prov. xxviii. 1.
[p] 1 Sam. ii. 5. Pſ. cxix. 164. Prov. xxiv. 16.
‡ Heb. At all adventures with me. So ver. 24.
[q] Deut. xxxii. 24. Ezek. v. 17.
[r] Judg. v. 6. 2 Chron. xv. 5. Iſa. xxxiii. 8. Lam. i. 4.
[s] 2 Sam. xxii. 27. Pſ. xviii. 26.
[t] Iſa. iii. 1. Ezek. iv. 16. & v. 16. & xiv. 13.
[u] Mic. vi. 14. Hag. i. 6.
[x] Deut. xxviii. 53. Ezek. v. 10. Bar. ii. 3.
[y] 2 Chron. xxxiv. 7. Iſa. xxvii. 9. Ezek. vi. 4, 5, 13.
[z] Pſ. lxxiv. 7. Lam. i. 10. Ezek. ix. 6. & xxi. 7.
[a] Deut. iv. 27. & xxviii. 62, 64.
[b] 2 Chron. xxxvi. 21.
[c] Chap. xxv. 2.
[d] Prov. xxviii. 1.
† Heb. Driven.

Before Chriſt 1491.

[e] Iſa. x. 4.

purſueth. 37. And [e] they ſhall fall one upon another, as it were before a ſword, when none purſueth: and ye ſhall have no power to ſtand before your enemies. 38. And ye ſhall periſh among the heathen, and the land of your enemies ſhall eat you up. 39. And they that are left of you, ſhall [f] pine away in their iniquity in your enemies lands; and alſo in the iniquities of their fathers ſhall they pine away with them.

[f] Deut. iv. 29. & xxx. 1. Neh. i. 9. Jer. iii. 25. & xxix. 12, 13. Ezek. iv. 17. & vi. 9. & xx. 44. & xxiv. 23. & xxxiii. 10. & xxxvi. 31. Hoſ. v. 15. Zech. x. 9.

v. 14—39. As God encouraged to obedience by rewards, he threatened the diſobedient with the moſt awful judgments. If mercy will not draw them, at leaſt let terror drive them.

1. The ſins God threatens are, wilful diſobedience perſiſted in, with impenitence under their chaſtiſements. This is ſuppoſed to begin in careleſsneſs and diſregard of God's commandments, the conſequence of which would ſoon be to deſpiſe them. Sin is a down-hill road; the tranſition from evil to worſe is moſt natural. When they began to ſlight religion, deſtruction would haſten apace: they would then loath it, and breaking off every reſtraint, give ſcope to the inſatiable luſts of their corrupted hearts. Such is the uſual proceſs of evil. God will viſit for theſe things; and if his rod of correction is deſpiſed, his ſword of judgment ſhall be unſheathed. Before he ſtrikes, he warns; if they will hearken to the calls of his word, and the pleadings of their conſcience; if they turn from the evil of their way, and reform their courſe of evil, there would be hope; but when his calls were rejected with obſtinacy, and his judgments exaſperated and hardened, inſtead of humbling them, then wo unto them. Note, They who reſiſt the calls of God, and convictions of conſcience; and, under the corrections of ſickneſs and affliction, continue unhumbled, impatient, murmuring, and unreformed, have nothing to hope for, but wrath to the uttermoſt.

2. The puniſhments to be inflicted on the rebellious. The firſt and soreſt judgment, and the cauſe of all the reſt, is God's face being ſet againſt them. They who contend with their Maker, will find the ſtruggle moſt unequal. He threatens to croſs their deſigns, and diſappoint their hopes; evil and misfortune ſhall attend them as their ſhadows. Diſeaſes, like a flight of locuſts, ſhall ſeize upon their bodies; unfruitful ſeaſons ſhall make their lands barren, and the ſword of their enemies ſhall be drenched in their blood. If theſe judgments have no effect, greater ſhall follow: God will not ſtay his arm from puniſhment, whilſt we refuſe to bow our hearts in penitence. The beaſts of the earth ſhall devour their children, and, as executioners of God's wrath, make their habitations deſolate. If they remain yet incorrigible, heavier and thicker ſtrokes deſcend. Whilſt the ſinner is out of hell there is hope; but every rejected call haſtens him thither. Famine ſhall ſtalk thro' their barren land, and peſtilence devour and depopulate their cities. God arms thus all creation againſt his enemies, and heaven and earth conſpire to deſtroy them. If, after all, their deſperate hearts reject the warning, and continue impenitent, their ruin ſhall come. When God begins, he will make an end with the ſinner, nor leave him till he is brought to everlaſting burnings. Their cities ſhould be beſieged, and they ſhall eat their ſons and daughters through the famine: their enemies ſhall throw down their walls, and lay their carcaſes on their idols. And whilſt in deſolation forſaken the land enjoys her ſabbaths, the poor remnant ſhall be ſcattered among the heathen, nor even there be at reſt. A ſword ſhall purſue them, and their ſouls withal be as miſerable as their bodies. Continual terror within ſhall torment their coward guilty hearts; and in their iniquities they ſhall pine away, without proſpect of redreſs. Deſpair in this life is the conſummation of a ſinner's guilt, and, in hell, of his torment. Vengeance ſo exemplary ſhall even aſtoniſh their enemies, and they ſhall be ſeen and acknowledged the objects of God's juſt abhorrence. Note, (1.) What a dreadful thing is ſin! (2.) How ſure is the ruin of the impenitent ſinner! (3.) How aggravated the guilt of that ſoul, whom mercies cannot engage, nor corrections deter. (4.) How juſt will God appear, to give up thoſe to deſpair, who have given up themſelves to work wickedneſs.

[g] Num. v. 7. 1 Kings viii. 33, 35, 47.

40. [g] If they ſhall confeſs their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, with their treſpaſs which they treſpaſſed againſt me, and that alſo they have walked contrary unto me; 41. And that I alſo have walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies; if then their [h] uncircumciſed hearts be humbled, and they then accept of the puniſhment of their iniquity: 42. Then will I remember my covenant with Jacob, and alſo my covenant with Iſaac, and alſo my covenant with Abraham will I remember; and I will remember the land. 43. The land alſo ſhall be left of them, and ſhall enjoy her ſabbaths, while ſhe lieth deſolate without them: and they ſhall accept of the puniſhment of their iniquity: becauſe, even becauſe they deſpiſed my judgments, and becauſe their ſoul abhorred my ſtatutes. 44. And yet for all that, when they be in the land of their enemies, [i] I will not caſt them away, neither will I abhor them to deſtroy them utterly, and to break my covenant with them: for I am the LORD their God. 45. But I will for their ſakes remember the covenant of their anceſtors, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt, in the ſight of the heathen, that I might be their God: I am the LORD. 46. Theſe are the ſtatutes, and judgments, and laws, [k] which the LORD made between him and the children of Iſrael in mount Sinai, by the hand of Moſes.

[h] See Jer. vi. 10. & ix 25, 26. Rom. ii. 29. Col. ii. 11.

Before Chriſt 1491.

[i] Deut. iv. 31. Rom. xi. 26.

[k] Chap. xxvii. 34.

v. 40—46. Whilſt there is life, there is hope. It is never too late to return to God. The greatneſs of our provocations, or the length of our rebellions, prevent not his compaſſions towards us. May ſuch patience and goodneſs of God lead us to repentance!

1. Their repentance is here deſcribed. They muſt confeſs their ſins, and acknowledge God's hand in their viſitation. Deep humiliation of heart muſt accompany theſe penitent acknowledgments, in the view of their baſeneſs and ingratitude to their gracious God, with humble acquieſcence in their puniſhment, glorifying God in the juſtice of it. Note, (1.) The great evil of ſin is the oppoſition of the heart to God. This carnal mind is the heavieſt burden to the awakened ſoul. (2.) When God's grace joins with his afflictive providences, then the heart is ſoftened to ſenſibility, and bowed into the duſt of humiliation. (3.) The humble ſoul will ever bear the miſeries ſin hath brought upon him with patience, and be more ſollicitous to have the end of the viſitation anſwered, than the burden of it removed.

(2.) Mercy promiſed them. Not indeed for their ſake, or on account of their repentance; but becauſe of that covenant which God had eſtabliſhed with their fathers, he will not utterly caſt them away. He will remember mercy in the midſt of judgment, and, as a tender father, extend to them that favour they have ſo juſtly forfeited. Note, All the hopes of the ſinner are bound up in the covenant of grace. It is for Jeſus's ſake, not our own, the leaſt regard can be ſhewed us; and in him there is ſuch fulneſs of merit, and freedom of promiſe, that none need deſpair.

Thus Moſes concludes his meſſage from God, and Iſrael are to prove their obedience. Whilſt they do ſo, God will be in the midſt of them, and they ſhall experience the bleſſings of fidelity.

CHAP. XXVII.

This chapter is added as an appendix: it fixes the price of redemption of what had been conſecrated to God; as, Perſons, ver. 2—8. Cattle, clean or unclean, ver. 9—13. Houſes and lands, ver. 14—25. With an exception of firſtlings, ver. 26, 27. 2. Concerning what was devoted, ver. 28, 29. 3. Concerning tythes, ver. 30—34.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When a man ſhall make a ſingular vow, the perſons ſhall be for the LORD, by thy eſtimation. 3. And thy eſtimation ſhall be, of the male from twenty years old, even unto ſixty years old; even thy eſtimation ſhall be fifty ſhekels of ſilver, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary. 4. And if it be a female, then thy eſtimation ſhall be thirty ſhekels. 5. And if it be from five years old, even unto twenty years old, then thy eſtimation ſhall be, of the male twenty ſhekels, and for the female ten ſhekels. 6. And if it be from a month old, even unto five years old; then thy eſtimation ſhall be of the male, five ſhekels of ſilver, and for the female, thy eſtimation ſhall be three ſhekels of ſilver. 7. And if it be from ſixty years old, and above; if it be a male, then thy eſtimation ſhall be fifteen ſhekels, and for the female ten ſhekels. 8. But if he be poorer than thy eſtimation, then he ſhall preſent himſelf before the prieſt, and the prieſt ſhall value him: according to his ability that vowed, ſhall the prieſt value him. 9. And if it be a beaſt whereof men bring an offering unto the LORD; all that any man giveth of ſuch unto the LORD, ſhall be holy. 10. He ſhall not alter it, nor change it, a good for a bad, or a bad for a good: and if he ſhall at all change beaſt for beaſt, then it and the exchange thereof ſhall be holy. 11. And if it be any unclean beaſt, of which they do not offer a ſacrifice unto the LORD; then he ſhall preſent the beaſt before the prieſt: 12. And the prieſt ſhall value it, whether it be good or bad: † as thou valueſt it, who art the prieſt, ſo ſhall it be.

† Heb. According to thy eſtimation, O Prieſt, &c.

be. 13. But if he will at all redeem it, then he ſhall add a fifth part thereof unto thy eſtimation.

v. 1—13. When in return for ſome ſingular mercy, or out of pious zeal, any man ſhould ſanctify to God any of his family, his lands, or houſes, or cattle, an eſtimation is to be made, and they may be redeemed.

1. If a man conſecrated himſelf, his child, or bond-ſervant, to the ſervice of God at the tabernacle, as by the appointment of the tribe of Levi ſuch ſervice was not needed, the prieſt muſt lay a valuation upon the perſon devoted, according to their age, ſex, and uſefulneſs. The ſhekel of the ſanctuary was to be the coin, ſomewhat leſs than half a crown; and nothing conſecrated muſt be valued at leſs than one, nor more than fifty. But if a man was poor, and unable to pay the valuation of what he had conſecrated, the prieſt, on examination of his circumſtances, ſhould abate according to his ability. Note, (1.) A zealous heart is not only willing to its power, but above its power. (2.) We ſhould be careful not to be haſty to vow, leaſt we involve ourſelves in difficulties, and repent of our raſhneſs. There is a zeal not according to knowledge.

2. If the vow was of a beaſt. The clean were not redeemable, but muſt be holy, either offered on the altar, or in caſe of blemiſh belong to the prieſt, or the price of it be for repairs of the ſanctuary. It might not be altered nor changed; and if another was ſubſtituted, both the exchanged and conſecrated beaſt were the Lord's. If the beaſt were unclean, then it was valued and ſold at the price ſet by the prieſt; but if the perſon who vowed it would redeem it, he muſt pay a fifth part more than the valuation. Note, We ſhould think before we ſpeak; but when we have vowed unto the Lord, we ſhould pay without reſerve or change: for he loveth the chearful giver.

14. ¶ And when a man ſhall ſanctify his houſe to be holy unto the LORD: then the prieſt ſhall eſtimate it, whether it be good or bad: as the prieſt ſhall eſtimate it, ſo ſhall it ſtand. 15. And if he that ſanctified it, will redeem his houſe, then he ſhall add the fifth part of the money of thy eſtimation unto it, and it ſhall be his. 16. And if a man ſhall ſanctify unto the LORD ſome part of a field of his poſſeſſion; then thy eſtimation ſhall be according to the ſeed thereof: † an homer of barley-ſeed ſhall be valued at fifty ſhekels of ſilver. 17. If he ſanctify his field from the year of jubile, according to thy eſtimation it ſhall ſtand. 18. But if he ſanctify his field after the jubile, then the prieſt ſhall reckon unto him the money according to the years that remain, even unto the year of the jubile, and it ſhall be abated from thy eſtimation. 19. And if he that ſanctified the field will in any wiſe redeem it: then he ſhall add the fifth part of the money of thy eſtimation unto it, and it ſhall be aſſured to him. 20. And if he will not redeem the field, or if he have ſold the field to another man; it ſhall not be redeemed any more. 21. But the field, when it goeth out in the jubile, ſhall be holy unto the LORD, as a field devoted: the poſſeſſion thereof ſhall be the prieſt's. 22. And if a man ſanctify unto the LORD a field which he hath bought, which is not of the fields of his poſſeſſion; 23. Then the prieſt ſhall reckon unto him the worth of thy eſtimation, even unto the year of the jubile; and he ſhall give thine eſtimation in that day, as a holy thing unto the LORD. 24. In the year of the jubile, the field ſhall return unto him of whom it was bought, even to him to whom the poſſeſſion of the land did belong. 25. And all thy eſtimation ſhall be according to the ſhekel of the ſanctuary: [a] twenty gerahs ſhall be the ſhekel.

† Or, the land of an homer.

[a] Exod. xxx. 13. Num. iii.47. Ezek. xlv. 12.

v. 14—25. Houſes and lands, as well as perſons and cattle, might be conſecrated, and redeemed at a fixed price.

1. If a houſe was by a vow ſanctified to God, the prieſt fixed the eſtimation, and it was ſold, and the money employed in holy uſes. If the perſon who vowed choſe to be the purchaſer, he muſt give a fifth part more than another. Note, Though we need not ſell our houſes now for God's ſervice, it becomes us to ſanctify them to him, by conſtant worſhip, and his fear in the midſt of them.

2. If land were conſecrated. A field which came by deſcent could not be wholly alienated, but only a part. God will have our families to be dear to us, as well as his ſanctuary; we muſt not ſerve the one to the injury of the other. The valuation was according to the quantity of barley required to ſow it: if an homer, containing ten ephahs, it was rated at fifty ſhekels, and ſo in proportion; and a diſcount, according to the diſtance of the jubile year. The owner might redeem it, but at a fifth added to the eſtimation. If the treaſurer of the temple ſold it to another, the perſon who vowed it might not purchaſe it; and at the jubile it reverted not to him, but was the prieſt's for ever. If the lands were a purchaſe and not an inheritance, then the value of them was given by the perſon who conſecrated it, or any other, and at the jubile they returned to the family from which they were purchaſed.

26. ¶ Only [b] the † firſtling of the beaſts, which ſhould be the LORD's firſtling, no man ſhall ſanctify it, whether it be ox, or ſheep: it is the LORD's. 27. And if it be of an unclean beaſt, then he ſhall redeem it according to thine eſtimation, and ſhall add a fifth part of it thereto: or if it be not redeemed, then it ſhall be ſold according to thy eſtimation. 28. [c] Notwithſtanding, no devoted thing that a man ſhall devote unto the LORD, of all that he hath, both of man and beaſt, and of the field of his poſſeſſion, ſhall be ſold or redeemed: every devoted thing is moſt holy unto the LORD. 29. [d] None devoted, which ſhall be devoted of men, ſhall be redeemed: but ſhall ſurely be put to death. 30. [e] And all the tithe of the land, whether of the ſeed of the land, or of the fruit of the tree, is the LORD's: it is holy unto the LORD. 31. And if a man will at all redeem ought of his tithes, he ſhall add thereto the fifth part thereof. 32. And concerning the tithe of the herd or of the flock, even of [f] whatſoever paſſeth under the rod: the tenth ſhall be holy unto the LORD. 33. He ſhall not ſearch whether it be good or bad, neither ſhall he change it: and if he change it at all, then both it and the change thereof ſhall be holy; it ſhall not be redeemed. 34. [g] Theſe are the commandments which the LORD commanded Moſes, for the children of Iſrael, in mount Sinai.

[b] Exod. xiii. 2, 12.

† Heb. Firſt born.

[c] Joſh. vi. 19.

[d] Num. xxi. 2, 3.

[e] Gen. xxviii. 22. Num. xviii. 21, 24. 2 Chron. xxxi. 5, 6, 12. Mal. iii. 8, 10.

[f] See Jer. xxxiii. 13. Ezek xx. 37.

[g] Chap. xxvi. 46.

v. 26—34. 1. The firſtlings of clean beaſts were God's by a former law, and therefore could not be conſecrated. Thoſe of unclean beaſts might be redeemed with a lamb: but if, after redemption, they were again dedicated, then they muſt be ſold at the prieſt's eſtimate, or if redeemed, a fifth of the valuation muſt be added.

2. There was a difference between devoted things or perſons, and ordinary vows. In this caſe they bound themſelves with a ſolemn curſe, never to alienate the perſon or thing from the uſe to which it was devoted. If a perſon or beaſt, it muſt be put to death. The perſons devoted were not ſuch as might be conſecrated to God by a vow, for over them they had no ſuch power of death, but the ſeven devoted nations, or their enemies, with whom they were at war, or thoſe condemned to death by the judges. For theſe there could be no redemption.

3. Tithes of all kinds are to be paid of the land, of the trees, and of the cattle; and as this was to be done according to juſtice, v. 32. what was once marked muſt not be changed, on pain of forfeiture of the thing ſubſtituted, and both it and the tithe was then irredeemable; otherwiſe, on adding a fifth to the prieſt's valuation, the perſon might keep his tithes, by compoſition. Note, Tithes are of divine appointment, and though the Levitical prieſthood is ceaſed, the goſpel miniſtry does not deſerve a leſs proviſion. Let thoſe who eat thoſe ſacred ſpoils of the church remember, that though law or cuſtom maintain them in poſſeſſion, God may, by and by, diſpute their right, and condemn them for ſacrilege.

4. The book thus concludes; and from the whole of theſe commandments we have much to learn. What thankfulneſs is due for the mercies we enjoy in the clear light of goſpel-day, when theſe ſhadows are paſſed away, and Chriſt the ſon of righteouſneſs ariſen, to guide our feet into the paths of peace? We now no longer ſee through the dark glaſs of types and figures, but face to face behold a reconciled God in Chriſt. The burdenſome ſervices of ceremonial ordinances are ceaſed, and all our preſent required offering is the broken and contrite heart. In this liberty, wherewith Chriſt has made us free, every humble believer rejoices, and whilſt ceremonial uncleanneſs is no longer his concern, he labours more ſollicitouſly to cleanſe himſelf from all filthineſs of fleſh and ſpirit, and to perfect holineſs in the fear of God.

THE EVANGELICAL EXPOSITOR;
OR, A PRACTICAL COMMENT
Upon the Fourth Book of MOSES called NUMBERS.

THIS book derives its name from the numbering the children of Iſrael twice in the wilderneſs. It contains the Hiſtory of the Iſraelites during their wanderings there, for the ſpace of thirty-eight years. The principal occurrences recorded in it happened in the ſecond year after their coming from Egypt, and the laſt before they entered the promiſed land. The book contains, beſides the hiſtory of the people, ſundry laws, ceremonial and judicial; not without many general truths, of everlaſting concern, and much goſpel preached to them in the wilderneſs, even as unto us.

Before Chriſt 1490.

CHAP. I.

The government of Iſrael was a theocracy. Moſes as, under God, king in Jeſhurun, is ordered to regulate the good order of the kingdom. 1. He is to number his ſubjects, ver. 1—4. 2. Perſons are nominated to aſſiſt him herein, ver. 5—16. 3. The particular number of each tribe, as it was given in to Moſes, ver. 17—43. 4. The ſum total of all together, ver. 44—46. 5. An exception of the Levites, ver. 47—54.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, in the wilderneſs of Sinai, in the tabernacle of the congregation, on the firſt day of the ſecond month, in the ſecond year, after they were come out of the land of Egypt, ſaying, 2. [a] Take ye the ſum of all the congregation of the children of Iſrael after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, with the number of their names, every male by their poll. 3. From twenty years old and upward, all that are able to go forth to war in Iſrael: thou and Aaron ſhall number them by their armies. 4. And with you there ſhall be a man of every tribe: every one head of the houſe of his fathers. 5. ¶ And theſe are the names of the men that ſhall ſtand with you: Of the tribe of Reuben; Elizur the ſon of Shedeur. 6. Of Simeon; Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai. 7. Of Judah; Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab. 8. Of Iſſachar; Nethaneel the ſon of Zuar. 9. Of Zebulun; Eliab the ſon of Helon. 10. Of the children of Joſeph: Of Ephraim; Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud: Of Manaſſeh; Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur. 11. Of Benjamin; Abidan the ſon of Gideoni. 12. Of Dan; Ahiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai. 13. Of Aſher; Pagiel the ſon of Ocran. 14. Of Gad; Eliaſaph the ſon of [b] Deuel. 15. Of Naphtali; Ahira the ſon of Enan. 16. [c] Theſe were the renowned of the congregation, princes of the tribes of their fathers, heads of thouſands in Iſrael.

[a] Exod. xxx. 12. & xxxviii. 26.

[b] Called Ruel. Chap. ii. 14.

[c] 1 Chron. xxvii. 16.

Before Chriſt 1490.

v. 1—16. God, as the king, from the royal throne between the cherubims, iſſues his mandate for the numbering the people. A year and ſome days had now elapſed ſince their departure from Egypt; Moſes and Aaron are commiſſioned for the taſk; and God informs them what perſons muſt be regiſtered, and the manner of their procedure.

1. All the males, above twenty years of age, that were fit for war, the Levites excepted, are to be enrolled. The church, in its militant ſtate, muſt be for ever expecting enemies and prepared for battle. 2. Each particular perſon was regiſtered according to the houſe of his fathers, that the ſum of every houſe, every family, every tribe might be particularly known. In the Lamb's book of life his ſpiritual Iſrael are diſtinctly written, and he calleth them all by their names. None of the mixt multitude, which followed the camp, were numbered with them. Note, 'Tis not our being among profeſſors, but our being born of God, and Abraham's children by faith, which entitles us to a place in the church of the redeemed. 3. The heads of the ſeveral tribes are appointed to aſſiſt them. They who by their ſtation are moſt exalted, ſhould be beſt qualified to ſerve the public, and moſt ready to employ themſelves in the ſervice.

17. ¶ And Moſes and Aaron took theſe men which are expreſſed by their names. 18. And they aſſembled all the congregation together on the firſt day of the ſecond month, and they declared their pedigrees after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of their names, from twenty years old and upward, by their poll. 19. As the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo he numbered them in the wilderneſs of Sinai. 20. And the children of Reuben, Iſrael's eldeſt ſon, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, by their poll, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war: 21. Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Reuben, were forty and ſix thouſand, and five hundred. 22. ¶ Of the children of Simeon, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, thoſe that were numbred of them, according to the number of the names by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war: 23. Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Simeon, were fifty and nine thouſand and three hundred. 24. ¶ Of the children of Gad, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war: 25. Thoſe that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Gad, were forty and five thouſand ſix hundred and fifty. 26. ¶ Of the children of Judah, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war: 27. Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Judah, were threeſcore and fourteen thouſand and ſix hundred. 28. ¶ Of the children of Iſſachar, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war: 29. Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Iſſachar, were fifty and four thouſand and four hundred. 30. ¶ Of the children of Zebulun, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war: 31. Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Zebulun, were fifty and ſeven thouſand and four hundred. 32. ¶ Of the children of Joſeph, namely, of the children of Ephraim, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war: 33. Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Ephraim, were forty thouſand and five hundred. 34. ¶ Of the children of Manaſſeh, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war: 35. Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Manaſſeh, were thirty and two thouſand and two hundred. 36. ¶ Of the children of Benjamin, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war: 37. Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Benjamin, were thirty and five thouſand and four hundred. 38. ¶ Of the children of Dan, by their generations after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war: 39. Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Dan, were threeſcore and two thouſand and ſeven hundred. 40. ¶ Of the children of Aſher, by their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war: 41. Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Aſher, were forty and one thouſand and five hundred. 42. ¶ Of the children of Napthali, throughout their generations, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war: 43. Thoſe that were numbred of them, even of the tribe of Naphtali, were fifty and three thouſand and four hundred.

v. 17—43. As they were now about to march, they muſt be regimented. Order in an army is of the laſt importance. Thoſe who were commanded were expeditious in their work, and in leſs than three weeks the review, and regiſter, were completed. Zeal to ſerve God makes quick work. Every tribe gave account of the families in it; every family, of the houſes; every houſe, the number and age of males in it. And in their numbers we ſee the prophecies fulfilled eminently, in Judah's increaſe, in Ephraim's ſurpaſſing Manaſſeh, in Reuben, though the eldeſt, being inferior to many others. Thus they might confirm their faith in future promiſes, by ſeeing the fulfilment of paſt predictions.

44 Theſe are thoſe that were numbered, which Moſes and Aaron numbered, and the princes of Iſrael, being twelve men: each one was for the houſe of his fathers. 45. So were all thoſe that were numbered of the children of Iſrael, by the houſe of their fathers, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war in Iſrael: 46. Even all they that were numbred, were [d] ſix hundred thouſand and three thouſand and five hundred and fifty.

[d] Exod. xxxviii. 26. See Exod. xii. 37. Chap. xxvi. 51.

v. 44—46. The ſum total is 603,550, and exactly the ſame as when they were numbred before, Exod. xxviii. 26. If the Levites were then reckoned, ſo many of the other tribes had come of age as equalled their number; or thoſe who died were ſupplied by thoſe who were now paſſed their twentieth year. God's providence continues to keep up a proportion between births and burials; and if one militant ſaint or miniſter is gone, another ſhall ſpring up in his ſtead. We may obſerve here,

1. How fully God accompliſhed his promiſe to Abraham. Againſt every human probability, faith waits patiently, and is ſurely anſwered at laſt.

2. All theſe, except two, died in the wilderneſs for their unbelief. Death, the wages of ſin, makes dreadful havock; let us fear leſt we fall after the ſame example of unbelief.

3. When God's Iſrael ſhall go up to poſſeſs their inheritance in glory, they ſhall be ſuch a multitude as no man can number.

47. ¶ But [e] the Levites, after the tribe of their fathers, were not numbred among them. 48. For the LORD had ſpoken unto Moſes, ſaying, 49. [f] Only thou ſhalt not number the tribe of Levi, neither take the ſum of them among the children of Iſrael: 50. But thou ſhalt appoint the Levites over the tabernacle of teſtimony, and over all the veſſels thereof, and over all things that belong to it: they ſhall bear the tabernacle, and all the veſſels thereof, and they ſhall miniſter unto it, and ſhall encamp round about the tabernacle. 51. And when the tabernacle ſetteth forward, the Levites ſhall take it down: and when the tabernacle is to be pitched, the Levites ſhall ſet it up: and [g] the ſtranger that cometh nigh, ſhall be put to death. 52. And the children of Iſrael ſhall pitch their tents every man by his own camp, and every man by his own ſtandard, throughout their hoſts. 53. But the Levites ſhall pitch round about the tabernacle of teſtimony; that there be no wrath upon the congregation of the children of Iſrael: and the Levites ſhall keep the charge of the tabernacle of teſtimony. 54. And the children of Iſrael did according to all that the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo did they.

[e] See Chap. iii. & iv. & xxvi. 57. 1 Chron. vi. & xxi. 6.

[f] Chap. xxvi. 62.

[g] Chap. iii. 10, 38. & xviii. 22.

v. 47—54. The Levites being a kind of body guard to the tabernacle, muſt not be numbred with the hoſt. Their office was to take down and carry in their marches the holy things; nor muſt any of the other tribes, on pain of death, intrude into their buſineſs. Whilſt each man pitched their tents under their own ſtandards, the Levites encamped around the tabernacle, to prevent profane intruſion, and to be ready in waiting on the ſervice. Note (1.) It muſt be every miniſter's care to reſtrain the people from ſin. (2). They who are called to the ſervice of God, ſhould have no other engagements, that they may give themſelves up wholly to the work of the miniſtry.

CHAP. II.

The thouſands of Iſrael having been muſtered in the former chapter, in this are marſhalled, and a regular diſpoſition made of their camp, by a divine appointment. Here is, 1. A general order concerning it, ver. 1, 2. 2. Particular directions for the poſting of each of the tribes, in four diſtinct ſquadrons, three tribes in each ſquadron. (1.) In the van-guard, on the eaſt, Judah, Iſſachar, and Zebulon were poſted, ver. 3—9. (2.) In the right wing, ſouthward, Reuben, Simeon, and Gad, ver. 10—16. (3.) In the rear, weſtward, Ephraim, Manaſſeh, and Benjamin, ver. 18—24. (4.) In the left wing, northward, Dan, Aſher, and Naphtali, ver. 25—31. (5.) The tabernacle in the center, ver. 17. And laſtly, The concluſion of this appointment, ver. 32—34.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying, 2. Every man of the children of Iſrael ſhall pitch by his own ſtandard, with the enſign of their father's houſe: † far off, about the tabernacle of the congregation ſhall they pitch.

† Heb. over-againſt.

Before Chriſt 1490.

v. 1, 2. Order in their march and encampments is here preſcribed. They were a military body, moving to the promiſed land. God's Iſrael, like them, are fighting the good fight of faith, and waiting to change the tabernacle of the body, for the city of God. Each tribe was camped under the enſign of his ſquadron. What colours or figures each bore are uncertain. And each man poſted under his own ſtandard, among his own relations. Thus mutual love would be cultivated, and mutual aſſiſtance be given.—Each ſquadron had a different enſign, but all ſerved in the ſame cauſe. The different denominations of real chriſtians, though their ſtandards differ, are engaged in the ſame warfare. The tabernacle was in the centre. For God is the ſtrength of his Iſrael, their courage and ſucceſs is from him. And each of their camps at a reſpectful diſtance, not too near to diſturb the ſolemn ſervice, nor too diſtant, to make their attendance inconvenient. Note, Our wilderneſs-ſtate is ſhort; yet a little while, and we ſhall encamp around the throne of God in glory, and Jeſus, the captain of our ſalvation, ſpread over us the banner of his everlaſting love.

3. ¶ And on the eaſt ſide toward the riſing of the ſun, ſhall they of the ſtandard of the camp of Judah pitch, throughout their armies: and Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab ſhall be captain of the children of Judah. 4. And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were threeſcore and fourteen thouſand and ſix hundred. 5. And thoſe that do pitch next unto him, ſhall be the tribe of Iſſachar: and Nathaneel the ſon of Zuar ſhall be captain of the children of Iſſachar. 6. And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred thereof, were fifty and four thouſand and four hundred. 7. Then the tribe of Zebulun: and Eliab the ſon of Helon ſhall be captain of the children of Zebulun. 8. And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred thereof, were fifty and ſeven thouſand and four hundred. 9. All that were numbred in the camp of Judah, were an hundred thouſand and fourſcore thouſand and ſix thouſand and four hundred, throughout their armies: Theſe ſhall firſt ſet forth. 10. ¶ On the ſouth ſide ſhall be the ſtandard of the camp of Reuben, according to their armies: and the captain of the children of Reuben ſhall be Elizur, the ſon of Shedeur. 11. And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred thereof, were forty and ſix thouſand and five hundred. 12. And thoſe which pitch by him, ſhall be the tribe of Simeon, and the captain of the children of Simeon ſhall be Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai. 13. And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were fifty and nine thouſand and three hundred. 14. Then the tribe of Gad: and the captain of the ſons of Gad ſhall be Eliaſaph the ſon of † Reuel. 15. And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were forty and five thouſand and ſix hundred and fifty. 16. All that were numbred in the camp of Reuben, were an hundred thouſand and fifty and one thouſand and four hundred and fifty, throughout their armies: and they ſhall ſet forth in the ſecond rank. 17. ¶ Then the tabernacle of the congregation ſhall ſet forward with the camp of the Levites, in the midſt of the camp: as they encamp, ſo ſhall they ſet forward, every man in his place by their ſtandards. 18. ¶ On the weſt ſide ſhall be the ſtandard of the camp of Ephraim, according to their armies: and the captain of the ſons of Ephraim, ſhall be Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud. 19. And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were forty thouſand and five hundred. 20. And by him ſhall be the tribe of Manaſſeh: and the captain of the children of Manaſſeh, ſhall be Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur. 21. And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were thirty and two thouſand and two hundred. 22. Then the tribe of Benjamin: and the captain of the ſons of Benjamin, ſhall be Abidan the ſon of Gideoni. 23. And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were thirty and five thouſand and four hundred. 24. All that were numbred of the camp of Ephraim, were an hundred thouſand and eight thouſand and an hundred, throughout their armies: and they ſhall go forward in the third rank. 25. ¶ The ſtandard of the camp of Dan ſhall be on the north ſide by their armies: and the captain of the children of Dan, ſhall be Ahiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai. 26. And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were threeſcore and two thouſand and ſeven hundred. 27. And thoſe that encamp by him, ſhall be the tribe of Aſher: and the captain of the children of Aſher, ſhall be Pagiel the ſon of Ocran. 28. And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were forty and one thouſand and five hundred. 29. Then the tribe of Naphtali: and the captain of the children of Naphtali, ſhall be Ahira the ſon of Enan. 30. And his hoſt, and thoſe that were numbred of them, were fifty and three thouſand and four hundred. 31. All they that were numbred in the camp of Dan, were an hundred thouſand and fifty and ſeven thouſand and ſix hundred: they ſhall go hindmoſt with their ſtandards. 32. ¶ Theſe are thoſe which were numbred of the children of Iſrael, by the houſe of their fathers, [a] all thoſe that were numbred of the camps throughout their hoſts, were ſix hundred thouſand and three thouſand and five hundred and fifty. 33. But [b] the Levites were not numbred among the children of Iſrael; as the LORD commanded Moſes. 34. And the children of Iſrael did according to all that the LORD commanded Moſes: ſo they pitched by their ſtandards, and ſo they ſet forward, every one after their families, according to the houſe of their fathers.

† Deut. Chap. i. 14. & vii. 42, 47. & x. 20.

Before Chriſt 1490.

[a] Exod. xxxviii. 26. Chap. i. 46.

[b] Chap. i. 47.

v. 3—34. When God himſelf ſettles the precedence, there is no room left for diſpute among themſelves. Thoſe whom God honours we may not envy. Judah leads the van, with Iſſachar and Zebulun, each under captains of their own tribes. Subordination in rank and ſtation is God's appointment, and muſt be obſerved. Nothing but pride makes men levellers. Judah was the tribe whence Shiloh was expected, and therefore juſtly preferred to lead the way to Canaan; as Chriſt his offspring was to be the captain of eternal ſalvation to his people. Reuben, who encamped on the ſouth, followed next with Simeon and Gad. Levi encamped within, between the reſt of the tribes and the tabernacle, and marched in the midſt of them, defended before and behind. Of all things dear to us the church of God ſhould be firſt, and beſt guarded, and her miniſters eſpecially protected. Ephraim, with Manaſſeh and Benjamin, encamped weſtward, and followed the tabernacle, whilſt Dan, with Aſher and Naphtali, encamped on the north, and in the march cloſed the rear; he, next to Judah, was moſt numerous, and therefore fitteſt for the poſt aſſigned. God's diſpoſitions are always wiſe, and juſt, and good. Obedience ready and chearful was paid to all theſe orders. God's word muſt thus regulate our march, as God's providence doth our ſtation; and when the one is chearfully ſubmitted to, and the other carefully followed, then we are ſure of the divine bleſſing, and may go forth boldly, conquering and to conquer all our ſpiritual enemies.

CHAP. III.

We have in this chapter. 1. A genealogy of the prieſts, ver. 1—4. 2. The Levites given them for aſſiſtants, inſtead of the firſt-born, ver. 5—13. 3. The ſeveral families of Levi numbred, and their poſts aſſigned, ver. 14—39. 4. The firſt-born numbred of the people, ver 40—45. 5. What were more than the Levites redeemed, ver. 46—51.

1. THESE alſo are the generations of Aaron and Moſes, in the day that the LORD ſpake with Moſes in mount Sinai. 2. And theſe are the names of the ſons of Aaron; [a] Nadab the firſt-born, and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. 3. Theſe are the names of the ſons of Aaron, the prieſts which were anointed, † whom he conſecrated to miniſter in the prieſt's office. 4. [b] And Nadab and Abihu died before the LORD, when they offered ſtrange fire before the LORD, in the wilderneſs of Sinai, and they had no children: and Eleazar and Ithamar miniſtred in the prieſt's office, in the ſight of Aaron their father. 5. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 6. Bring the tribe of Levi near, and preſent them before Aaron the prieſt, that they may miniſter unto him. 7. And they ſhall keep his charge, and the charge of the whole congregation, before the tabernacle of the congregation, to do [c] the ſervice of the tabernacle. 8. And they ſhall keep all the inſtruments of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the charge of the children of Iſrael, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle. 9. And [d] thou ſhalt give the Levites unto Aaron, and to his ſons: they are wholly given unto him out of the children of Iſrael. 10. And thou ſhalt appoint Aaron and his ſons, and they ſhall wait on their prieſt's office; and [e] the ſtranger that cometh nigh ſhall be put to death.

[a] Exod. vi. 23.

† Whoſe hand he filled.

[b] Lev. x. 1. Chap. xxvi. 61. 1 Chron. xxiv. 2.

[c] See Chap. i. 50.

[d] Chap. viii. 19.

[e] Ver. xxxviii. Chap. i. 51. & xvi. 40.

death. 11. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 12. And I, behold [f] I have taken the Levites from among the children of Iſrael, inſtead of all the firſt-born that openeth the matrix among the children of Iſrael: therefore the Levites ſhall be mine. 13. Becauſe [g] all the firſt-born are mine: [h] for on the day that I ſmote all the firſt-born in the land of Egypt, I hallowed unto me all the firſt-born in Iſrael, both man and beaſt, mine they ſhall be: I am the LORD.

[f] Chap. viii. 16. & xviii. 6.
[g] Exod. xiii. 2. Lev. xxvii. 26. Chap. viii. 16. Luke ii. 23.
[h] Exod. xiii. 12, 15.

v. 1—13. The family of Aaron being appointed to the prieſt's office, we have,

1. A particular account of them, Nadab and Abihu periſhed childleſs, for their diſobedience, Eleazar and Ithamar remained. Made cautious by the warning given them, they miniſtered under Aaron's eye. 'Tis good to be under direction of the elder and more experienced. They alone were permitted to enter the holy place, and it was death for any other to come there. Note, Intruders into the prieſt's office, who have no divine call, will by and by be met with a terrible enquiry, Friend, how cameſt thou in hither?

2. As there was much work in the tabernacle, and ſo few to miniſter, the tribe of Levi is given to Aaron, as his aſſiſtants. The charge of the tabernacle, and all its appurtenances in their marches, was committed to them; they helped the prieſts about the ſacrifices, kept clean the court, and were the conſtant guard. They were taken of God inſtead of the firſt-born, who were conſecrated to him in return for their deliverance in Egypt, when God ſpared them and ſlew the Egyptians. The lives which God preſerves by his providence, he hath a double right to expect ſhould be employed in his ſervice: and how much more the ſouls redeemed by the death of his own ſon!

14. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in the wilderneſs of Sinai, ſaying, 15. Number the children of Levi, after the houſe of their fathers, by their families: [i] every male, from a month old and upward, ſhalt thou number them. 16. And Moſes numbred them according to the † word of the LORD, as he was commanded. 17. And [k] theſe were the ſons of Levi, by their names: Gerſhon, and Kohath, and Merari. 18. And theſe are the names of the ſons of Gerſhon, by their families: Libni and Shimei. 19. And the ſons of Kohath by their families: [l] Amram, and Izehar, Hebron, and Uzziel. 20. And the ſons of Merari by their families: Mahli, and Muſhi: theſe are the families of the Levites, according to the houſe of their fathers. 21. Of Gerſhon was the family of the Libnites, and the family of the Shimites: theſe are the families of the Gerſhonites. 22. Thoſe that were numbred of them according to the number of all the males, from a month old and upward, even thoſe that were numbred of them, were ſeven thouſand and five hundred. 23. The families of the Gerſhonites ſhall pitch behind the tabernacle weſtward. 24. And the chief of the houſe of the father of the Gerſhonites, ſhall be Eliaſaph the ſon of Lael. 25. And [m] the charge of the ſons of Gerſhon, in the tabernacle of the congregation, ſhall be [n] the tabernacle, and [o] the tent, [p] the covering thereof, and [q] the hanging for the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: 26. And [r] the hangings of the court, and [s] the curtain for the door of the court, which is by the tabernacle, and by the altar round about, and [t] the cords of it, for all the ſervice thereof. 27. ¶ And [u] of Kohath was the family of the Amramites, and the family of the Izeharites, and the family of the Hebronites, and the family of the Uzzielites: theſe are the families of the Kohathites. 28. In the number of all the males, from a month old and upward, were eight thouſand and ſix hundred, keeping the charge of the ſanctuary. 29. The families of the ſons of Kohath ſhall pitch on the ſide of the tabernacle ſouthward. 30. And the chief of the houſe of the father of the families of the Kohathites, ſhall be Elizaphan the ſon of Uzziel. 31. And their [x] charge ſhall be [y] the ark, and [z] the table, and [a] the candleſtick, and [b] the altars, and the veſſels of the ſanctuary, wherewith they miniſter, and the [c] hanging, and all the ſervice thereof. 32. And Eleazar the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, ſhall be chief over the chief of the Levites, and have the overſight of them that keep the charge of the ſanctuary. 33. ¶ Of Merari was the family of the Mahlites, and the family of the Muſhites: theſe are the families of Merari. 34. And thoſe that were numbred of them, according to the number of all the males, from a month old and upward, were ſix thouſand and two hundred. 35. And the chief of the houſe of the father of the families of Merari, was Zuriel the ſon of Abihail: theſe ſhall pitch on the ſide of the tabernacle, northward. 36. And under ‡ the cuſtody and charge of the ſons of Merari ſhall be the boards of the tabernacle, and the bars thereof, and the pillars thereof, and the ſockets thereof, and all the veſſels thereof, and all that ſerveth thereto. 37. And the pillars of the court round about, and their ſockets, and their pins, and their cords. 38. ¶ But thoſe that encamp before the tabernacle toward the eaſt, even before the tabernacle of the congregation eaſtward, ſhall be Moſes and Aaron, and his ſons, keeping the charge of the ſanctuary, for the charge of the children of Iſrael: and [d] the ſtranger that cometh nigh, ſhall be put to death. 39. [e] All that were numbred of the Levites, which Moſes and Aaron numbred at the commandment of the LORD, throughout their families, all the males, from a month old and upward, were twenty and two thouſand.

[i] Chap. xxvi. 62.
† Heb. mouth.
[k] Gen. xlvi. 11. Exod. vi. 16. Chap. xxvi. 57. 1 Chron. vi. 1. & xxiii. 6.
[l] Exod. vi. 18.
[m] Chap. iv. 24.
[n] Exod. xxv. 9.
[o] Ibid. xxvi. 1.
[p] Ibid. 7, 14.
[q] Ibid. 36.
[r] Ibid. xxvii. 9.
[s] Ibid. 16.
[t] Ibid. xxxv. 18.
[u] 1 Chron. xxvi. 23.
[x] Chap. iv. 4, 15.
[y] Exod. xxv. 10.
[z] Ibid. 23.
[a] Ibid. 31.
[b] Exod. xxvii. 1. & xxx. 1.
[c] Exod. xxvi. 31.
‡ Heb. the office of the charge. See Chap. iv. 31.
[d] Ver. 10.
[e] See Chap. xxvi. 62.

v. 14—39. The Levites are ordered to be numbred, that they may have their work appointed them. They are to be reckoned from a month old, as being taken in lieu of the firſt-born, to be trained up for the ſervice of the ſanctuary, and according to their houſes and family, each family being aſſigned a ſeparate employ. If a woman were married to one of another tribe, her children were reckoned to their father's tribe. They were divided into three branches, as deſcended from Gerſhon, Kohath and Merari; and theſe ſubdivided, according to the names of their families: when encamped each branch had their ſtation and captain, Gerſhon weſtward, Kohath ſouthward, Merari northward, Moſes, Aaron and the prieſts eaſtward, at the door of the tabernacle. In a march the curtains and coverings of the tabernacle belonged to the family of Gerſhon, the ſacred furniture of the tabernacle were Kohath's charge, the boards, pillars, &c. were aſſigned to Merari. Moſes's poſterity have not the leaſt diſtinguiſhed honour, but claſs with the houſe of Amram. Nothing has a worſe appearance than when rulers ſeek to raiſe their needy relations, without reſpect to their merit. The numbers of each family united make 22,300, though they are called only 22,000, three hundred being firſt-born, and therefore not to be reckoned in the exchange to be made, God having a prior right to them. Levi was the leaſt of the tribes, ſignifying the few choſen, of which the ſpiritual church of Chriſt will ever be compoſed. Happy they who are of that few.

40. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Number all the firſt-born of the males of the children of Iſrael, from a month old and upward, and take the number of their names. 41. And thou ſhalt take the Levites for me (I am the LORD) inſtead of all the firſt-born among the children of Iſrael: and the cattle of the Levites inſtead of all the firſtlings among the cattle of the children of Iſrael. 42. And Moſes numbred, as the LORD commanded him, all the firſt-born among the children of Iſrael. 43. And all the firſt-born males, by the number of names, from a month old and upward, of thoſe that were numbred of them, were twenty and two thouſand two hundred and threeſcore and thirteen. 44. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 45. Take the Levites inſtead of all the firſt-born among the children of Iſrael, and the cattle of the Levites inſtead of their cattle, and the Levites ſhall be mine: I am the LORD. 46. And for thoſe that are to be redeemed of the two hundred and threeſcore and thirteen, of the firſt-born of the children of Iſrael, which are more than the Levites; 47. Thou ſhalt even take five ſhekels apiece by the poll, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary ſhalt thou take them: [f] the ſhekel is twenty gerahs. 48. And thou ſhalt give the money wherewith the odd number of them is to be redeemed, unto Aaron and to his ſons. 49. And Moſes took the redemption money of them that were over and above them that were redeemed by the Levites. 50. Of the firſt-born of the children of Iſrael took he the money, a thouſand three hundred and threeſcore and five ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary. 51. And Moſes gave the money of them that were redeemed, unto Aaron and to his ſons, according to the word of the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

[f] Exod. xxx. 13. Lev. xxvii. 25. Chap. xviii. 16. Ezek. xiv. 12.

v. 40—51. Moſes is ordered to number the firſt-born of the people,

Before Chriſt 1490.

people, and the Levites and their cattle are taken in exchange for God. The number was found 22,273. The ſurplus 273 are ordered to be redeemed at five ſhekels a-piece, and theſe to be given to Aaron, in lieu of the perſons. Whether this were done by Lot, or whether the laſt who were numbred, paid, or whether the public redeemed them, is uncertain. Note, Though ſilver and gold might ranſom theſe, nothing leſs than the blood of Jeſus Chriſt could redeem thoſe firſt-born, whoſe names are written in heaven.

CHAP. IV.

In the former chapter an account was taken of the whole tribe of Levi, in this of thoſe of that tribe that were in the prime of their time for ſervice, betwixt thirty and fifty years old. 1. The ſerviceable men of the Kohathites are ordered to be numbred, and their charges given them, ver. 2, 20. 2. Of the Gerſhonites, ver. 24, 28. 3. Of the Merarites, ver. 29—33. 4. The numbers of each, and the ſum total at laſt are recorded, ver. 34—49.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying, 2. Take the ſum of the ſons of Kohath from among the ſons of Levi, after their families, by the houſe of their fathers; 3. [a] From thirty years old and upward, even until fifty years old, all that enter into the hoſt, to do the work in the tabernacle of the congregation. 4. This ſhall be the ſervice of the ſons of Kohath in the tabernacle of the congregation, about the moſt holy things. 5. And when the camp ſetteth forward, Aaron ſhall come and his ſons, and they ſhall take down [b] the covering vail, and cover the ark of teſtimony with it: 6. And ſhall put thereon the covering of badgers ſkins, and ſhall ſpread over it a cloth wholly of blue, and ſhall put in [c] the ſtaves thereof. 7. And upon [d] the table of ſhew-bread they ſhall ſpread a cloth of blue, and put thereon the diſhes, and the ſpoons, and the bowls, and covers to † cover withal: and the continual bread ſhall be thereon. 8. And they ſhall ſpread upon them a cloth of ſcarlet, and cover the ſame with a covering of badgers ſkins, and ſhall put in the ſtaves thereof. 9. And they ſhall take a cloth of blue, and cover [e] the candleſtick of the light, and [f] his lamps, and his tongs, and his ſnuff-diſhes, and all the oil-veſſels thereof, wherewith they miniſter unto it. 10. And they ſhall put it and all the veſſels thereof within a covering of badgers ſkins, and ſhall put it upon a bar. 11. And upon the golden altar they ſhall ſpread a cloth of blue, and cover it with a covering of badgers ſkins, and ſhall put to the ſtaves thereof. 12. And they ſhall take all the inſtruments of miniſtry, wherewith they miniſter in the ſanctuary, and put them in a cloth of blue, and cover them with a covering of badgers ſkins, and ſhall put them on a bar. 13. And they ſhall take away the aſhes from the altar, and ſpread a purple cloth thereon: 14. And they ſhall put upon it all the veſſels thereof, wherewith they miniſter about it, even the cenſers, the fleſh-hooks, and the ſhovels, and the † baſons, all the veſſels of the altar; and they ſhall ſpread upon it a covering of badgers ſkins, and put to the ſtaves of it. 15. And when Aaron and his ſons have made an end of covering the ſanctuary, and all the veſſels of the ſanctuary, as the camp is to ſet forward; after that, the ſons of Kohath ſhall come to bear it: [g] but they ſhall not touch any holy thing, leſt they die [h]. Theſe things are the burden of the ſons of Kohath, in the tabernacle of the congregation. 16. ¶ And to the office of Eleazar the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, pertaineth [i] the oil for the light, and [k] the ſweet incenſe, and [l] the daily meat-offering, and [m] the anointing oil, and the overſight of all the tabernacle, and of all that therein is, in the ſanctuary, and in the veſſels thereof. 17. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying, 18. Cut ye not off the tribe of the families of the Kohathites, from among the Levites. 19. But thus do unto them, that they may live and not die, when they approach unto the moſt holy things; Aaron and his ſons ſhall go in, and appoint them every one to his ſervice, and to his burden. 20. [n] But they ſhall not go in to ſee when the holy things are covered, leſt they die.

[a] See Chap. viii. 24.
[b] Exod. xxvi. 31.
[c] Ibid. xxv. 13.
[d] Ibid. 30.
† Or pour out withal.
[e] Exod. xxv. 31.
[f] Ibid. 37, 38.
† Or bowls.
[g] 2 Sam. vi. 6.
[h] Chap. iii. 31.
[i] Exod. xxv. 6.
[k] Ibid. xxx. 34.
[l] Ibid. xxix. 40.
[m] Ibid. xxx. 23.
[n] See Exod. xix. 21. 1 Sam. vi. 19.

v. 1—20. Since no Levite was capable of miniſtring till thirty, nor longer than fifty, a new review is neceſſary to ſelect theſe from their brethren. Miniſters have need of much wiſdom and ſolidity: youthful novices, it is to be feared, will diſcredit their holy calling. They are to enter the hoſt, and do the work of the tabernacle: the miniſtry is not a calling of eaſe, but labour; they who take it upon them, need approve themſelves hardy and good ſoldiers of Jeſus Chriſt. As in all our removes, we muſt take God and his worſhip with us, charge is given about the tabernacle: the carriage of the nobleſt part of it is committed to the ſons of Kohath. Aaron and his ſons muſt take down, and cover all the holy things: the Levites may not touch nor ſee them: this diſpenſation was dark, a vail covered it, which vail is done away in Chriſt. Eleazar muſt take care both of their burdens and perſons, leaſt by tranſgreſſing, they ſhould be cut off. The charge of men's lives is great, but how much greater the charge of immortal ſouls.

21. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 22. Take alſo the ſum of the ſons of Gerſhon, throughout the houſes of their fathers, by their families; 23. From thirty years old and upward, until fifty years old ſhalt thou number them; all that enter in † to perform the ſervice, to do the work in the tabernacle of the congregation. 24. This is the ſervice of the families of the Gerſhonites, to ſerve, and for ‡ burdens. 25. And [o] they ſhall bear the curtains of the tabernacle, and the tabernacle of the congregation, his covering, and the covering of the badgers ſkins that is above upon it, and the hanging for the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. 26. And the hangings of the court, and the hanging for the door of the gate of the court which is by the tabernacle, and by the altar round about, and their cords, and all the inſtruments of their ſervice, and all that is made for them: ſo ſhall they ſerve. 27. At the ‖ appointment of Aaron and his ſons, ſhall be all the ſervice of the ſons of the Gerſhonites, in all their burdens, and in all their ſervice; and ye ſhall appoint unto them in charge all their burdens. 28. This is the ſervice of the families of the ſons of Gerſhon, in the tabernacle of the congregation: and their charge ſhall be under the hand of Ithamar the ſon of Aaron the prieſt. 29. ¶ As for the ſons of Merari, thou ſhalt number them after their families, by the houſe of their fathers; 30. From thirty years old and upward, even unto fifty years old ſhalt thou number them, every one that entereth in to the § ſervice, to do the work of the tabernacle of the congregation. 31. And [p] this is the charge of their burden, according to all their ſervice in the tabernacle of the congregation; [q] the boards of the tabernacle, and the bars thereof, and the pillars thereof, and ſockets thereof. 32. And the pillars of the court round about, and their ſockets, and their pins, and their cords, with all their inſtruments, and with all their ſervice: and by name ye ſhall reckon the inſtruments of the charge of their burden. 33. This is the ſervice of the families of the ſons of Merari, according to all their ſervice in the tabernacle of the congregation, under the hand of Ithamar the ſon of Aaron the prieſt.

† Heb. T war the warfare.
‡ Or carriage.
[o] Chap. iii. 25.
‖ Heb. Mouth.
§ Heb. Warfare.
[p] Chap. iii. 36.
[q] Chap. xxvi. 15.

v. 21—33. Ithamar had the charge of the other families: Gerſhon took care of the drapery, and Merari of the more heavy carriage of the tabernacle. Every pin muſt be produced, and nothing be loſt. Note, (1.) Every tittle of God's word is precious, and to be preſerved with ſacred reverence. (2.) When this earthly tabernacle of our bodies ſhall be diſſolved, as our ſouls under the conduct of the divine Eleazar go before, our bodies ſhall follow, and on the reſurrection day, a glorious tabernacle be raiſed up again, that never more ſhall be taken down or removed.

34. ¶ And Moſes and Aaron, and the chief of the congregation numbred the ſons of the Kohathites, after their families, and after the houſe of their fathers: 35. From thirty years old and upward, even unto fifty years old, every one that entreth in to the ſervice for the work in the tabernacle of the congregation: 36. And thoſe that were numbred of them by their families, were two thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty. 37. Theſe were they that were numbred of the families of the Kohathites, all that might do ſervice in the tabernacle of the congregation, which Moſes and Aaron did number, according to the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moſes. 38. And thoſe that were numbred of the ſons of Gerſhon, throughout their families, and by the houſe of their fathers; 39. From thirty years old, and upward, even unto fifty years old, every one that entreth in to the ſervice for the work in the tabernacle of the congregation: 40. Even thoſe that were numbered of them, throughout their families, by the houſes of their fathers, were two thouſand and ſix hundred and thirty. 41. Theſe are they that were numbered of the families of the ſons of Gerſhon, of all that might do ſervice in the tabernacle of the congregation, whom Moſes and Aaron did number, according to the commandment of the LORD. 42. ¶ And thoſe that were numbered of the families of the ſons of Merari, throughout their families, by the houſe of their fathers; 43. From thirty years old and upward, even unto fifty years old, every one that entreth in to the ſervice for the work in the tabernacle of the congregation: 44. Even thoſe that were numbered of them after their families, were three thouſand and two hundred. 45. Theſe be thoſe that were numbered of the families of the ſons of Merari, whom Moſes and Aaron numbred, according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moſes. 46. All thoſe that were numbered of the Levites, whom Moſes and Aaron, and the chief of Iſrael numbred, after their families and after the houſe of their fathers: 47. From thirty years old and upward, even unto fifty years old, every one that came to do the ſervice of the miniſtry, and the ſervice of the burden in the tabernacle of the congregation; 48. Even thoſe that were numbered of them, were eight thouſand and five hundred and fourſcore. 49. According to the commandment of the LORD, they were numbred by the hand of Moſes, every one according to his ſervice, and according to his burden: thus were they numbered of him, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

v. 34—49. An account is taken of the effective men of two of the families: they were but about a third. The Merarites, who had the heavieſt part of the duty, had more than half their number of age; ſo conſtantly will God prepare the back for the burden. The whole who were engaged in the ſervice, were no more than 8580, a ſmall number, compared with the men of war. Note, God's peculiar people are a little flock, compared with the legions liſted in the cauſe and ſervice of ſin.

CHAP. V.

In this chapter we have, 1. An order paſſed purſuant to the laws already made, for the removing the unclean out of the camp, ver. 1—4. 2. A repetition of the laws concerning reſtitution, in caſe of wrong done to a neighbour, ver. 5—8. and concerning the appropriating of the hallowed things to the prieſts, ver. 9, 10. 3. A new law made concerning the trial of a wife ſuſpected of adultery, by the waters of jealouſy, ver. 11—31.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Command the children of Iſrael that they put out of the camp every [a] leper, and every one [b] that hath an iſſue, and whoſoever is [c] defiled by the dead. 3. Both male and female ſhall ye put out, without the camp ſhall ye put them; that they defile not their camps, in the midſt whereof I dwell. 4. And the children of Iſrael did ſo, and put them out without the camp: as the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſo did the children of Iſrael. 5. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 6. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, [d] When a man or woman ſhall commit any ſin that men commit, to do a treſpaſs againſt the LORD, and that perſon be guilty; 7. [e] Then they ſhall confeſs their ſin which they have done: and he ſhall recompenſe his treſpaſs with [f] the principal thereof, and add unto it the fifth part thereof, and give it unto him againſt whom he hath treſpaſſed. 8. But if the man have no kinſman to recompenſe the treſpaſs unto, let the treſpaſs be recompenſed unto the LORD, even to the prieſt: beſide [g] the ram of the atonement, whereby an atonement ſhall be made for him. 9. And every † [h] offering of all the holy things of the children of Iſrael, which they bring unto the prieſt, ſhall be his. 10. And every man's hallowed things ſhall be his: whatſoever any man giveth the prieſt, it ſhall be [i] his.

[a] Lev. xiii. 3, 4, 6. Chap. xii. 14.
[b] Lev. xv. 2.
[c] Ibid. xxi. 1. Chap. ix. 6, 10. & xix. 11. & xxxi. 19.
[d] Lev. vi. 2, 3.
[e] Ibid. xxvi. 40. Joſh. vii. 19.
[f] Lev. vi. 5.
[g] Ibid. vi. 6. & vii. 8.
† Or heave-offering.
[h] Exod. xxix. 28. Lev. vi. 18, 26. & vii. 6. 32. Chap. xviii. 8. Deut. xviii. 3.
[i] Lev. x. 13.

v. 1—10. We have here,

1. The ſeparation of the unclean from the camp and tabernacle, till the cauſe of it was removed. Note, (1.) God's church and people muſt have no fellowſhip with the unholy and impure. (2.) Such ſhould be cut off from the viſible communion of ſaints. (3.) If not before, at death the ſeparation will be made, and that final and eternal.

2. The reſtitution of unjuſt gain, or fraudulent acquiſitions. Though it cover the delinquent with ſhame, confeſſion muſt be made; and better take ſhame before man, than be covered with everlaſting confuſion before men and angels. Atonement to God muſt be offered, as well as reſtitution to man, with a fifth part over: if the perſon were dead, his near kinſman was entitled to it; if he had none, it was the prieſt's. Reſtitution muſt be made. The poor are now God's receivers, when the party injured cannot be found. The prieſt who officiated, was entitled to the hallowed things of the atoning ſacrifice: it is fit he who doth the work ſhould have the wages.

11. And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 12. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, If any man's wife go aſide, and commit a treſpaſs againſt him, 13. And a man lie with her carnally, and it be hid from the eyes of her huſband, and be kept cloſe, and ſhe be defiled, and there be no witneſs againſt her, neither ſhe be taken with the manner; 14. And the ſpirit of jealouſy come upon him, and he be jealous of his wife, and ſhe be defiled; or if the ſpirit of jealouſy come upon him, and he be jealous of his wife, and ſhe be not defiled: 15. Then ſhall the man bring his wife unto the prieſt, and he ſhall bring her offering for her, the tenth part of an ephah of barley-meal; he ſhall pour no oil upon it, nor put frankincenſe thereon, for it is an offering of jealouſy, an offering of memorial, bringing iniquity to rememberance. 16. And the prieſt ſhall bring her near, and ſet her before the LORD. 17. And the prieſt ſhall take holy water in an earthen veſſel, and of the duſt that is in the floor of the tabernacle the prieſt ſhall take, and put it into the water. 18. And the prieſt ſhall ſet the woman before the LORD, and uncover the woman's head, and put the offering of memorial in her hands, which is the jealouſy-offering: and the prieſt ſhall have in his hand the bitter water that cauſeth the curſe. 19. And the prieſt ſhall charge her by an oath, and ſay unto the woman, If no man have lien with thee, and if thou haſt not gone aſide to uncleanneſs † with another inſtead of thy huſband, be thou free from this bitter water that cauſeth the curſe: 20. But if thou haſt gone aſide to another inſtead of thy huſband, and if thou be defiled, and ſome man hath lien with thee beſide thine huſband: 21. Then the prieſt ſhall charge the woman with an oath of curſing, and the prieſt ſhall ſay unto the woman, The LORD make thee a curſe and an oath among thy people, when the LORD doth make thy thigh to rot ‡, and thy belly to ſwell; 22. And this water that cauſeth the curſe ſhall go into thy bowels, to make thy belly to ſwell, and thy thigh to rot: And the woman ſhall ſay, Amen, Amen. 23. And the prieſt ſhall write theſe curſes in a book, and he ſhall blot them out with the bitter water: 24. And he ſhall cauſe the woman to drink the bitter water that cauſeth the curſe: and the water that cauſeth the curſe ſhall enter into her, and become bitter. 25. Then the prieſt ſhall take the jealouſy offering out of the woman's hand, and ſhall wave the offering before the LORD, and offer it upon the altar. 26. And the prieſt ſhall take an handful of the offering, even the memorial thereof, and burn it upon the altar, and afterward ſhall cauſe the woman to drink the water. 27. And when he hath made her to drink the water, then it ſhall come to paſs, that if ſhe be defiled, and have done treſpaſs againſt her huſband; that the water that cauſeth the curſe ſhall enter into her, and become bitter, and her belly ſhall ſwell, and her thigh ſhall rot: and the woman [k] ſhall be a curſe among her people. 28. And if the woman be not defiled, but be clean; then ſhall ſhe be free, and ſhall conceive ſeed. 29. This is the law of jealouſies, when a wife goeth aſide to another inſtead of her huſband, and is defiled; 30. Or when the ſpirit of jealouſy cometh upon him, and he be jealous over his wife, and ſhall ſet the woman before the LORD, and the prieſt ſhall execute upon her all this law. 31. Then ſhall the man be guilt-† Heb. Under thy huſband, i. e. Whilſt under the power of thy huſband.

‡ Heb. Fall.
[k] Deut. xxviii. 37. Pſal. lxxxiii. 9, 11. Jer. xxiv. 9. & xxix. 18, 22. & xlii. 18. Zech. viii. 13.

guiltleſs from iniquity, and this woman ſhall bear her iniquity.

11—31. The law of jealouſy was ſingular, and could not but have the beſt effect to preſerve that purity ſo often enjoined.

On ſuſpicion of his wife's unfaithfulneſs, where no evidence of the fact appeared, nor other way of diſcovering the truth, the huſband brought her to the prieſt, with an offering of barley, mournful as the occaſion; a quarter of a pint of water was taken from the prieſt's laver, in an earthen veſſel, and duſt of the tabernacle mixed with it. The woman was then preſented before the Lord, her head uncovered, the jealouſy-offering put into her hand, and a ſolemn adjuration or imprecation was pronounced over her. If, terrified with the juſt ſenſe of her guilt and danger, ſhe confeſſed hereupon, ſhe was divorced without her dowry, and diſmiſſed. If ſhe perſiſted in her innocency, ſhe replied, Amen; whereupon the curſes were written on a parchment roll, and ſcraped into the water: then the prieſt took the jealouſy-offering out of her hand, and having burnt an handful on the altar, as a memorial for good, if innocent, for evil if guilty, ſhe was obliged to drink the water. The immediate and miraculous effects of which appeared, if an adultereſs; if innocent, it was a bleſſing, and made her fruitful: the huſband was obliged to make the trial, if he had juſt ſuſpicion, or would be under the guilt of ſinful connivance. From the whole, many uſeful leſſons ariſe, 1. Let every wife be careful to avoid the leaſt occaſion, which may awaken the ſpirit of jealouſy. 2. Let every huſband beware of indulging it: it is a canker that robs of all peace and reſt. 3. Innocence is a ſufficient ſupport under the moſt malignant accuſations. 4. We need fear to drink, if ſin hath embittered the waters: the pleaſures of ſenſe can make us but a miſerable recompenſe for the curſe of God. 5. Tho' the waters of jealouſy are no more, the voice of conſcience and the eye of God will ſpeak and ſee. 6. God brings ſtrangely to light the hidden things of darkneſs: though the adulterer ſayeth, no eye ſeeth me, afterwards his folly is made manifeſt to the world. 7. Though ſinners eſcape all preſent cenſure, or puniſhment, yet whoremongers and adulterers God will judge.

CHAP. VI.

In this chapter we have, 1. The law concerning Nazarites, (1.) What it was which the vow of a Nazarite obliged him to, ver. 1—8. (2.) A remedial law in caſe a Nazarite happened to be polluted by the touch of a dead body, ver. 9—12. (3.) The ſolemnity of his diſcharge when his time was up, ver. 13—21. 2. Inſtructions given to the prieſts how they ſhould bleſs the people, ver. 22—27.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When either man or woman ſhall † ſeparate themſelves to vow a vow of a Nazarite, to ſeparate themſelves unto the LORD: 3. He ſhall ſeparate himſelf from wine and ſtrong drink, and ſhall drink no vinegar of wine, or vinegar of ſtrong drink, neither ſhall he drink any liquor of grapes, nor eat moiſt grapes or dried. 4. All the days of his ‡ ſeparation ſhall he eat nothing that is made of the † vine-tree, from the kernels even to the huſk. 5. All the days of the vow of his ſeparation, there ſhall [a] no razor come upon his head: until the days be fulfilled in the which he ſeparateth himſelf unto the LORD, he ſhall be holy; and ſhall let the locks of the hair of his head grow. 6. All the days that he ſeparateth himſelf unto the LORD, [b] he ſhall come at no dead body. 7. [c] He ſhall not make himſelf unclean for his father, or for his mother, for his brother, or for his ſiſter, when they die: becauſe the ‖ conſecration of his God is upon his head. 8. All the days of his ſeparation he is holy unto the LORD. 9. And if any man die very ſuddenly by him, and he hath defiled the head of his conſecration; then he ſhall ſhave his head [d] in the day of his cleanſing, on the ſeventh day ſhall he ſhave it. 10. And [e] on the eighth day he ſhall bring two turtles, or two young pigeons to the prieſt, to the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. 11. And the prieſt ſhall offer the one for a ſin-offering, and the other for a burnt offering, and make an atonement for him, for that he ſinned by the dead, and ſhall hallow his head that ſame day. 12. And he ſhall conſecrate unto the LORD the days of his ſeparation, and ſhall bring a lamb of the firſt year [f] for a treſpaſs-offering: but the days that were before ſhall † be loſt, becauſe his ſeparation was defiled. 13. ¶ And this is the law of the Nazarite: When the days of his ſeparation are fulfilled, he ſhall be brought unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. 14. And he ſhall offer his offering unto the LORD, one he-lamb of the firſt year without blemiſh, for a burnt-offering, and one ewe-lamb of the firſt year without blemiſh, [g] for a ſin-offering, and one ram without blemiſh, [h] for peace-offerings. 15. And a baſket of unleavened bread, [i] cakes of fine flour mingled with oil, and wafers of unleavened bread [k] anointed with oil, and their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings. 16. And the prieſt ſhall bring them before the LORD, and ſhall offer his ſin offering, and his burnt-offering. 17. And he ſhall offer the ram, for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings unto the LORD, with the baſket of unleavened bread: the prieſt ſhall offer alſo his meat-offering, and his drink-offering. 18. And [l] the Nazarite ſhall ſhave the head of his ſeparation, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation; and ſhall take the hair of the head of his ſeparation, and put it in the fire which is under the ſacrifice of the peace-offerings. 19. And the prieſt ſhall take the ſodden ſhoulder of the ram, and one unleavened cake out of the baſket, and one unleavened wafer; and ſhall put them upon the hands of the Nazarite, after the hair of his ſeparation is ſhaven. 20. And the prieſt ſhall wave them [m] for a wave-offering before the LORD: this is holy for the prieſt, with the wave-breaſt, and heave-ſhoulder: and after that the Nazarite may drink wine. 21. This is the law of the Nazarite, who hath vowed, and of his offering unto the LORD for his ſeparation, beſides that that his hand ſhall get: according to the vow which he vowed, ſo he muſt do after the law of his ſeparation.

† Or make themſelves Nazarites.
‡ Or Nazariteſhip.
† Heb. Vine of the wine.
[a] Judg. xiii. 5. 1 Sam. i. 11.
[b] Lev. xix. 28. Chap. xix. 11.
[c] Lev. xxi. 1.
‖ Heb. Separation.
[d] 1 Chron. xix. 14.
[e] Lev. v. 7. & xiv. 22. & xv. 14, 29.
[f] Lev. v. 6.
† Heb. Fall.
[g] Lev. iv. 2, 27, 32.
[h] Ibid. iii. 6.
[i] Ibid. ii. 4.
[k] Exod. xxix. 2.
[l] Acts xxi. 24.
[m] Exod. xxix. 27, 28.

v. 1—21. The law of the Nazarites is here appointed. This conſiſted in a ſolemn ſeparation of themſelves for God, in a more peculiar employment of their time in the exerciſes of devotion, and communion with God. It muſt be the voluntary engagement of a perſon at their own liberty, whether man or woman, and for ſo long a time as they chuſe to vow, but never for leſs than thirty days. Note, There will be found among God's people ſome more eminent for their graces than others, peculiar ornaments of their profeſſion, and Nazarites among their brethren. The perſon who made the vow of ſeparation, was under particular obligations, (1.) Not to taſte wine, nor any thing which came from the vine, that they might ſhew themſelves patterns of temperance and ſobriety, and be ever fit for the ſervice of God. Note, Though the uſe of wine be not denied, the greateſt moderation in ſtrong drink is required of every chriſtian. Intemperance muſt immediately diſqualify for every act and exerciſe of devotion, and cut off all intercourſe between God and the ſoul. (2.) They might not ſhave their beards, nor clip their hair: they who have a deep concern about their ſoul, will have a noble neglect of the body; and without being ſlovenly, will ever ſhew that they are indifferent about the niceneſs of their appearance, and careleſs of ornament before men, whilſt their great attention is engaged about their appearing acceptable in the eyes of God. (3.) They might approach no dead body, not even their neareſt relations: they muſt keep their perſons as free from ceremonial, as their ſouls from moral uncleanneſs; and it became thoſe, whoſe dedication to God diſtinguiſhed them from others, and obliged them to the peculiar exerciſe of every holy temper, to ſhew the ſubdual of their affections upon earth, and univerſal reſignation to the Divine will. Note, We expect from eminent ſaints, eminent ſubmiſſion; the greater the profeſſion, the more every appearance of evil is to be avoided.

In caſe of ſome unavoidable accident, as ſudden death, and death often ſtrikes without warning, then, 1. He was not only as others, ſeven days unclean, but muſt bring particular ſacrifices, v. 10, 11. Sins of ſurprize require an atonement, and though no eminence of grace ſecures from temptation, every falſe ſtep in ſuch, requires double pains to retrieve it. 2. All the paſt time was loſt; he muſt ſhave himſelf, and begin the days of his conſecration again. Note, Every ſin is mortal, and unleſs we were each day, each hour, to be renewing our application to the blood of ſprinkling, all would be loſt.

If the vow were fulfilled, at the expiration of the time he was diſcharged from it. 1. By ſacrifices, a burnt offering, a ſin-offering, a peace-offering, meat-offerings, and whatever free-will offerings he choſe to add. We may not think when we ſerve God, he is our debtor, but even after we have done what is commanded, muſt acknowledge ourſelves unprofitable. We have to give him thanks for the ſtrength and grace he hath beſtowed, and in our holieſt duties own the need of an atonement, elſe our very righteouſneſs ſhould be our ruin; and we muſt ſtill be offering the ſacrifice of prayer, that the ſame ſupports which have been vouchſafed, may be continued. 2. His head was ſhaved publicly, at the door of the tabernacle, and the hair was burnt under the ſacrifice of peace-offering. Thus all men ſaw his vow fulfilled, and might not be offended at ſeeing him afterwards drink wine, or mourn for the dead. Note, We are not only to take care that we do right, but to let all men ſee that we do ſo, and remove every occaſion which might raiſe ſuſpicion or cenſure.

22. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 23. Speak unto Aaron, and unto his ſons, ſaying, On this wiſe [n] ye ſhall bleſs the children of Iſrael, ſaying unto them, 24. The LORD bleſs thee, and keep thee: 25. The LORD make his face ſhine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee: 26. [o] The LORD lift up his countenance upon thee, and give thee peace. 27. And they ſhall put my name upon the children of Iſrael, and I will bleſs them.

v. 22—27. The ſacerdotal benediction was a part of the prieſt's office. And though it is not in man's power to convey the bleſſing, yet, being by God's command, it was accompanied with his effectual grace. Jeſus, our great high-prieſt, ever lives to bleſs his people, and his miniſters commiſſioned from him, may comfortably and confidently pronounce his benediction on them: and what they declare on earth, he will ratify in heaven. The Lord bleſs thee, Jehovah, Father, Son, and Holy Ghoſt, beſtow on thee the bleſſings of his eternal covenant of grace and peace; make thee partaker of the Father's electing love, of the Son's redeeming grace, of the Spirit's comforting and ſanctifying influences; and keep thee from all thoſe evils of ſin and ſatan, from which of thyſelf thou art utterly unable to eſcape: The Lord make his face to ſhine upon thee, as the bright ſun of righteouſneſs, enlightening thy darkneſs, warming thy heart with his enlivening rays, kindling thy fervent affections, and comforting thee with the ſmiles of his reconciled face; and be gracious unto thee, beſtowing more abundant meaſures of his Divine ſtrength and conſolations; and lift up the light of his countenance upon thee, aſſuring thy conſcience of thy part and intereſt in his regard, and daily reſtoring thy ſoul to that joy, of which remaining corruption would deprive it; and give thee peace, ſuch as nothing can interrupt, nothing take away, begun in time, to be perpetuated to eternity! To ſuch a bleſſing and prayer, well might the people with delight and joy reply, Amen! Amen!

CHAP. VII.

This chapter contains, 1. Preſents of the princes, on the dedication of the tabernacle, ver. 1—9. 2. Of the altar, ver. 10—88. Of all which, God 3. teſtifies his gracious acceptance, and that is ample recompence to the givers.

1. AND it came to paſs on the day that Moſes had fully [a] ſet up the tabernacle, and had anointed it, and ſanctified it, and all the inſtruments thereof, both the altar and all the veſſels thereof, and had anointed them, and ſanctified them; 2. That [b] the princes of Iſrael, heads of the houſe of their fathers (who were the princes of the tribes, † and were over them that were numbred) offered: 3. And they brought their offering before the LORD, ſix covered waggons, and twelve oxen; a waggon for two of the princes, and for each one an ox: and they brought them before the tabernacle. 4. And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 5. Take it of them, that they may be to do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation; and thou ſhalt give them unto the Levites, to every man according to his ſervice. 6. And Moſes took the waggons and the oxen and gave them unto the Levites. 7. Two waggons and four oxen [c] he gave unto the ſons of Gerſhon, according to their ſervice. 8. And [d] four waggons and eight oxen he gave unto the ſons of Merari, according unto their ſervice, [e] under the hand of Ithamar, the ſon of Aaron the prieſt. 9. But unto the ſons of Kohath he gave none: becauſe [f] the ſervice of the ſanctuary belonging unto them, [g] was that they ſhould bear upon their ſhoulders.

v. 1—9. As the tabernacle was to be ſubject to frequent removes, the princes of Iſrael are careful to provide the neceſſary carriages for it. Though no injunction had been given on this head, it ſeemed a needful and reaſonable thing. God has left in the government of his church many uneſſential matters to the prudence of the chief men in it, who are to ſee that all things be done decently and in order. The princes were both able and willing to aſſiſt the Levites, and happy days are they, where princes ſhew ſuch reſpect to God's miniſters, and ſeek to forward them in their labours. The waggons were diſtributed according to their burdens: the ſons of Kohath had none, becauſe their charge was leſs weighty, and being more ſacred, had need be carried with the greateſt care: the Gerſhonites had two waggons; the ſons of Merari four, becauſe their part was ſo much, or more proportionably heavier. Note, (1.) Where God calls to greater labour, he will ſupply proportionable ſtrength. (2.) As our preſent tabernacle of the body is ſo unſettled here, it becomes us to think ſeriouſly, and frequently about its removal, that when the hour comes, we may be prepared and ready.

10. ¶ And the princes offered for [h] dedicating of the altar, in the day that it was anointed, even the princes offered their offering before the altar. 11. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, They ſhall offer their offering each prince on his day, for the dedicating of the altar. 12. ¶ And he that offered his offering the firſt day, was Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab, of the tribe of Judah. 13. And his offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after [i] the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them were full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a [k] meat-offering: 14. One ſpoon of ten ſhekels of gold, full of incenſe: 15. [l] One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering: 16. One kid of the goats [m] for a ſin-offering: 17. And for [n] a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab. 18. ¶ On the ſecond day Nethaneel the ſon of Zuar, prince of Iſſachar did offer. 19. He offered for his offering one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering: 20. One ſpoon of gold of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe: 21. One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year for a burnt-offering: 22. One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering: 23. And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Nethaneel the ſon of Zuar. 24. ¶ On the third day Eliab the ſon of Helon, prince of the children of Zebulun, did offer. 25. His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering: 26. One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe: 27. One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering: 28. One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering: 29. And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Eliab the ſon of Helon. 30. ¶ On the fourth day Elizur the ſon of Shedeur, prince of the children of Reuben, did offer. 31. His offering was one ſilver charger, of an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering: 32. One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe: 33. One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering: 34. One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering: 35. And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Elizur, the ſon of Shedeur. 36. ¶ On the fifth day Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai, prince of the children of Simeon, did offer. 37. His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering: 38. One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe: 39. One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering: 40. One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering: 41. And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Shelumiel the ſon of Zuriſhaddai. 42. ¶ On the ſixth day Eliaſaph the ſon of Deuel, prince of the children of Gad, offered. 43. His offering was one ſilver charger, of the weight of an hundred and thirty ſhekels,

---

[n] Lev. ix. 22.

[o] Pſal. iv. 6.

[a] Exod. xl. 18. Lev. viii. 10.

[b] Chap. i. 4, &c.

† Heb. Who ſtood over.

[c] Chap. iv. 25.

[d] Ibid. 31.

[e] Ibid. 28, 33.

[f] Ibid. 15.

[g] Ibid. 6, 8, 10, 12, 14. 2 Sam. vi. 6, 13.

[h] See Deut. xx. 5. 1 Kings viii. 63. Ezra vi. 16. Neh. xii. 27. Pſal. xxx. Title.

[i] Exod. xxx. 13.

[k] Lev. ii. 1.

[l] Ibid. i. 2.

[m] Ibid. iv. 23.

[n] Ibid. iii. 1.

Before Chriſt 1490.

a ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering: 44. One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe: 45. One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering: 46. One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering: 47. And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Eliaſaph the ſon of Deuel. 48. ¶ On the ſeventh day Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud, prince of the children of Ephraim, offered. 49. His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering: 50. One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe: 51. One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering: 52. One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering: 53. And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Eliſhama the the ſon of Ammihud. 54. ¶ On the eighth day offered Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur, prince of the children of Manaſſeh. 55. His offering was one ſilver charger, of an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering: 56. One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe: 57. One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering: 58. One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering: 59. And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur. 60. ¶ On the ninth day Abidan the ſon of Gideoni, prince of the children of Benjamin, offered. 61. His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, a ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering: 62. One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe: 63. One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering: 64. One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering: 65. And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Abidan the ſon of Gideoni. 66. ¶ On the tenth day Ahiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai, prince of the children of Dan, offered. 67. His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering: 68. One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe: 69. One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering: 70. One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering: 71. And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Ahiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai. 72. ¶ On the eleventh day Pagiel the ſon of Ocran, prince of the children of Aſher, offered. 73. His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering: 74. One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe: 75. One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering: 76. One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering: 77. And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Pagiel the ſon of Ocran. 78. ¶ On the twelfth day Ahira the ſon of Enan, prince of the children of Naphtali, offered. 79. His offering was one ſilver charger, the weight whereof was an hundred and thirty ſhekels, one ſilver bowl of ſeventy ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering: 80. One golden ſpoon of ten ſhekels, full of incenſe: 81. One young bullock, one ram, one lamb of the firſt year, for a burnt-offering: 82. One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering: 83. And for a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, five lambs of the firſt year. This was the offering of Ahira the ſon of Enan. 84. This was the dedication of the altar (in the day when it was anointed) by the princes of Iſrael: twelve chargers of ſilver, twelve ſilver bowls, twelve ſpoons of gold: 85. Each charger of ſilver weighing an hundred and thirty ſhekels, each bowl ſeventy: all the ſilver veſſels weighed two thouſand and four hundred ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary. 86. The golden ſpoons were twelve, full of incenſe, weighing ten ſhekels apiece, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary: all the gold of the ſpoons was an hundred and twenty ſhekels. 87. All the oxen for the burnt-offering were twelve bullocks, the rams twelve, the lambs of the firſt year twelve, with their meat-offering: and the kids of the goats for ſin-offering, twelve. 88. And all the oxen for the ſacrifice of the peace-offerings, were twenty and four bullocks, the rams ſixty, the he-goats ſixty, the lambs of the firſt year ſixty. This was the dedication of the altar, after that it was anointed. 89. And when Moſes was gone into the tabernacle of the congregation, to ſpeak with † him; then he heard ° the voice of one ſpeaking unto him from off the mercy-ſeat, that was upon the ark of the teſtimony, from between the two cherubims: and he ſpake unto him.

Before Chriſt 1490.

† i. e. God.
° Exod. xxv. 22.

v. 10—89. The dedication of the altar began the ſame day it was ſet up. When Moſes had conſecrated it with the anointing oil, then appeared the generous piety of the princes, each haſtening with his offering, to pay their grateful tribute to that gracious God, who thus condeſcended to manifeſt his preſence in the midſt of them. 1. They were the princes of Iſrael; a rare example! Happy, were every nobleman like them, thus zealous for the glory of God. Since they are bleſſed with greater affluence than others, their obligations to works of piety and charity are ſurely proportionably ſtronger. 2. Their preſents were truly princely: they thought their beſt thus beſt employed. Note, We ſhall never regret what we have given to God. 3. They offered ſeparately, and each among his other gifts, preſented his ſin-offering. We muſt never forget to ſeek pardon for the ſin that cleaves to the beſt we do. 4. Their peace-offerings were eaten each day: thus the holy feaſt for themſelves, as well as the ſacrifice to God, was prepared; for God will have thoſe rejoice before him, who heartily devote their all unto him. 5. The order of their offerings was according to their encampments; the precedence once ſettled, muſt not be interrupted. The ſtation God allots, is to be ſubmitted to with delight. 6. Their offerings were the ſame; they were approaching the ſame altar, and expecting the ſame bleſſings. 7. Each hath his name and offering recorded. God will put a mark of honour upon ſervices done for him: no work or labour of love ſhall be forgotten, or unrewarded. 8. God accepts graciouſly their oblations, and from the mercy-ſeat declares his approbation of them. Whenever we are ſpeaking to God in ſacrifices of prayer and praiſe, he will aſſuredly anſwer us in a voice of mercy. We have not the Shechinah, 'tis true, in the midſt of us, but we have better, the incarnate Word, who promiſes to be with us always, and that whatſoever in his name we aſk, believing, we ſhall receive.

CHAP. VIII.

This chapter is concerning, 1. The lamps in the candleſtick, ver. 1—4. 2. The ordination of the Levites, (1.) How they were purified, ver. 5—8. 2. How they were parted with by the people, ver. 9, 10. 3. How they were preſented to God in lieu of the firſt-born, ver. 11—18. 4. How they were conſigned to Aaron and his ſons, to be miniſters to them, ver. 19. And how all theſe orders were duly executed, ver. 20—22. And laſtly, the age appointed for their miniſtration, ver. 23—26.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Speak unto Aaron, and ſay unto him, When thou [a] lighteſt the lamps, the ſeven lamps ſhall give light over againſt the candleſtick. 3. And Aaron did ſo; he lighted the lamps thereof, over againſt the candleſtick; as the LORD commanded Moſes. 4. [b] And this work of the candleſtick was of beaten gold, unto the ſhaft thereof, unto the flowers thereof, was [c] beaten work: [d] according unto the pattern which the LORD had ſhewed Moſes, ſo he made the candleſtick.

[a] Exod. xxv. 37. & xl. 25.
[b] Ibid. xxv. 31.
[c] Ibid. 18.
[d] Ibid. 40.

v. 1—4. The candleſtick being prepared, the lamps are ordered to be lighted. Aaron firſt is employed, though afterwards the prieſt in waiting performed the ſervice. The fire was taken from the altar, the middle lamp was firſt lighted, and the reſt from it; nor had the tabernacle any other light, but from this candleſtick. Note, Chriſt is the only light of the world; and if ever we ſhine, it muſt be by the ſacred fire which his ſpirit kindles in us. The number of the branches was ſeven, which intimates the perfection of all thoſe, who, as united to Chriſt, are compleat in him. The uſe of the lamp was to ſee to do the work of the tabernacle. Miniſters muſt firſt have their own ſpirits lighted up, as the lamp of the Lord, before they can miniſter acceptably to God, or profitably to men. How ſhall they who are in darkneſs themſelves, lead others to the light?

5. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 6. Take the Levites from among the children of Iſrael, and cleanſe them. 7. And thus ſhalt thou do unto them, to cleanſe them: Sprinkle [e] water of purifying upon them, and † let them ſhave all their fleſh, and [f] let them waſh their clothes, and ſo make themſelves clean. 8. Then let them take a young bullock with [g] his meat-offering, even fine flour mingled with oil, and another young bullock ſhalt thou take for a ſin-offering. 9. And thou ſhalt bring the Levites before the tabernacle of the congregation; and thou ſhalt gather the whole aſſembly of the children of Iſrael together: 10. And thou ſhalt bring the Levites before the LORD, and the children of Iſrael ſhall put their hands upon the Levites: 11. And Aaron ſhall ‡ offer the Levites before the LORD, for an ‖ offering of the children of Iſrael; that § they may execute the ſervice of the LORD. 12. And the Levites ſhall lay their hands upon the heads of the bullocks: and thou ſhalt offer the one for a ſin-offering, and the other for a burnt-offering unto the LORD, to make an atonement for the Levites. 13. And thou ſhalt ſet the Levites before Aaron, and before his ſons, and offer them for an offering unto the LORD. 14. Thus ſhalt thou ſeparate the Levites from among the children of Iſrael: and [h] the Levites ſhall be mine. 15. And after that, ſhall the Levites go in, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation; and thou ſhalt cleanſe them, and offer them for an offering. 16. For they are wholly given unto me, from among the children of Iſrael; [i] inſtead of ſuch as open every womb, even inſtead of the firſt-born of the children of Iſrael, have I taken them unto me. 17. [k] For all the firſt-born of the children of Iſrael are mine, both man and beaſt: on the day that I ſmote every firſt-born in the land of Egypt, I ſanctified them for myſelf. 18. And I have taken the Levites for all the firſt-born of the children of Iſrael. 19. And [l] I have given the Levites as † a gift to Aaron and to his ſons, from among the children of Iſrael; to do the ſervice of the children of Iſrael in the tabernacle of the congregation, and to make an atonement for the children of Iſrael: [m] that there be no plague among the children of Iſrael, when the children of Iſrael come nigh unto the ſanctuary. 20. And Moſes and Aaron, and all the congregation of the children of Iſrael did to the Levites according unto all that the LORD commanded Moſes concerning the Levites, ſo did the children of Iſrael unto them. 21. And the Levites were purified, and they waſhed their clothes: and Aaron offered them as an offering before the LORD; and Aaron made an atonement for them to cleanſe them. 22. And after that went the Levites in, to do their ſervice in the tabernacle of the congregation before Aaron and before his ſons: [n] as the LORD had commanded Moſes concerning the Levites, ſo did they unto them. 23. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 24. This is it that belongeth unto the Levites: from twenty and five years old and upward, they ſhall go in ‡ to wait upon the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation: 25. And from the age of fifty years they ſhall ‖ ceaſe waiting upon the ſervice thereof, and ſhall ſerve no more: 26. But ſhall miniſter with their brethren in the tabernacle of the congregation, to keep the charge, and ſhall do no ſervice: Thus ſhalt thou do unto the Levites touching their charge.

[e] Chap. xix. 9, 17, 18.
† Heb. Let them cauſe a razor to paſs over, &c.
[f] Lev. xi. 25.
[g] Lev. ii. 2.
‡ Heb. Wave.
‖ Heb. Wave-offering.
§ Heb. They may be to execute, &c.
[h] Chap. iii. 45.
[i] Ibid. 12, 45.
[k] Exod. xiii. 2, 12, 15. Chap. iii. 13. Luke ii. 23.
[l] Chap. iii. 9.
† Heb. Given.
[m] Chap. xvi. 46. 2 Chron. xxvi. 16.
[n] Chap. iv. 4.
‡ Heb. To war the warfare of &c.
‖ Heb. Return from the warfare of the ſervice.

v. 5—26. As a divine call, and miſſion from perſons authoriſed, muſt unite in the ordination of a miniſter, we find, after the numbering the Levites, their ſolemn conſecration to God. In order whereunto, as they who bear the veſſels of the Lord muſt be holy, they are, 1. Enjoined to waſh and ſhave themſelves all over, and then water of purifying is ſprinkled upon them. Thus muſt Jeſus ſprinkle our conſciences, ere we can ſerve the living God. 2. When prepared, they are preſented before the Lord, and by impoſition of the hands of the congregation, or perhaps of their rulers, were, inſtead of the firſt-born, ſurrendered up to God's ſervice. Whatever God calls for we may chearfully reſign, as we ſhall ſurely ſee a bleſſing from it. 3. Offerings of atonement followed: for moſt neceſſary it is, that they who preach peace with God to others, ſhould firſt experience it in their own ſouls. Whereupon, 4. A ſolemn preſentation of them is made by Aaron to God. Miniſters are living ſacrifices, whoſe time, abilities, ſtrength, and all, muſt be employed for God, from the moment they are devoted to him. 5. God accepts of them inſtead of the firſt-born, appoints them their work in the tabernacle, to make atonement for the children of Iſrael, that there be no plague among them; and regards them as his immediate ſervants. Note, (1.) God's ſervice is among the higheſt honours. (2.) They who are called to the honour, muſt remember the work of the miniſtry, and diligently preach the atoning blood of the Lamb that was ſlain. (3.) If this be neglected, the plague of ſin among the people will lie at the miniſter's door. 6. Their time of ſervice is fixed. At five and twenty they began as probationers; at thirty they were admitted to carry the holy veſſels; at fifty they were diſcharged from the burdens of office, and were the ſuperintendants of their younger brethren, and guards of the ſanctuary. The prime of life is fitteſt for the laborious work of the miniſtry: when the faithful labourers begin to grow aged, they may well be aſſiſted by their younger brethren, who ſhould learn under their inſtructions, and be directed by their ſuperior experience.

CHAP. IX.

This chapter is, 1. Concerning the great ordinance of the paſſover; (1.) Orders given for the obſervance of it at the return of the year, ver. 1—5. (2.) Proviſoes added for thoſe that were ceremonially unclean, or otherwiſe diſabled, ver. 6—14. 2. Concerning the pillar of the cloud, ver. 15—23.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in the wilderneſs of Sinai, in the firſt month of the ſecond year, after they were come out of the land of Egypt, ſaying, 2. Let the children of Iſrael alſo keep [a] the paſſover at his appointed ſeaſon. 3. In the fourteenth day of this month † at even, ye ſhall keep it in his appointed ſeaſon: according to all the rites of it, and according to all the ceremonies thereof ſhall ye keep it. 4. And Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, that they ſhould keep the paſſover. 5. And they kept the paſſover on the fourteenth day of the firſt month at even, in the wilderneſs of Sinai: according to all that the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo did the children of Iſrael. 6. ¶ And there were certain men who were [b] defiled by the dead body of a man, that they could not keep the paſſover on that day: and they came before Moſes, and before Aaron on that day. 7. And thoſe men ſaid unto him, We are defiled by the dead body of a man: wherefore are we kept back, that we may not offer an offering of the LORD in his appointed ſeaſon among the children of Iſrael? 8. And Moſes ſaid unto them, Stand ſtill, and I will hear what the LORD will command concerning you. 9. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 10. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, If any man of you or your poſterity ſhall be unclean by reaſon of a dead body, or be in a journey afar off, yet he ſhall keep the paſſover unto the LORD. 11. [c] The fourteenth day of the ſecond month at even they ſhall keep it, and eat it with unleavened bread, and bitter herbs. 12. [d] They ſhall leave none of it unto the morning, [e] nor break any bone of it: according to all the ordinances of the paſſover, they ſhall keep it. 13. But the man that is clean, and is not in a journey, and forbeareth to keep the paſſover; even the ſame ſoul ſhall be cut off from his people, becauſe he brought not the offering of the LORD in his appointed ſeaſon: that man ſhall bear his ſin. 14. And if a ſtranger ſhall ſojourn among you, and will keep the paſſover unto the LORD, according to the ordinance of the paſſover, and according to the manner thereof, ſo ſhall he do: [f] ye ſhall have one ordinance, both for the ſtranger, and for him that was born in the land.

[a] Exod. xii. 1, &c. Lev. xxiii. 5. Chap. xxviii. 16. Deut. xvi. 2.
† Heb. Between the two evenings.
[b] Chap. v. 3. & xix. 11.
[c] 2 Chron. xxx. 2, 15.
[d] Exod. xii. 10.
[e] Ibid. 46. John xix. 36.
[f] Exod. xii. 49.

v. 1—14. We have here,

1. The ſecond paſſover obſerved after their deliverance from Egypt ; and it ſhould ſeem, they celebrated it no more till they came to Canaan, becauſe of their omiſſion of circumciſion, which in their removes might be dangerous. Moſes, at God's command, enjoins it, and the people obey him. If they with delight could thus run to celebrate the memorial of their deliverance, with what conſtancy and gladneſs ſhould we approach the table of our Lord, to remember his greater deliverance of us from worſe than Egyptian bondage, even from the chains of ſin, and from the powers of death and hell.

2. A caſe brought before Moſes, v. 6. Some perſons were defiled by a dead body, and therefore could not keep the paſſover, yet grieved to be excluded, where themſelves were without blame : they conſult Moſes, and Moſes carries the matter before the Lord. Learn hence, (1.) If ceremonial defilement excluded from the paſſover, how much more ſhould moral impurity debar men from the table of the Lord. (2.) Even unforeſeen and unavoidable impediments, that detain us from waiting upon God in his ordinances, will be a grief to us. (3.) In caſes of conſcience miniſters ſhould be conſulted about the path of duty. (4.) Miniſters muſt wait much upon God in prayer, and his word, that they may be directed into all truth themſelves, and enabled to direct others alſo.

3. God reſolves the queſtion, and makes an order for future generations. Whoever are unclean, or on a journey afar off, have a month more allowed them, when they may with the ſame ceremonies keep the feaſt, and it would be alike accepted : but if it was deferred through neglect or contempt, the ſinner muſt be cut off, either by excommunication from the viſible church, or by God's hand in ſecret judgment. Note, (1.) They who are diſappointed unavoidably from attending upon God, will be happy to ſeize the firſt returning opportunity of approaching his houſe or table. (2.) Providential hindrances from the means of grace will not, if our hearts be right, deprive us of the grace of the means ; God will amply ſupply our wants ſome other way. (3.) They who reject God's ordinances, will be rejected by him. Habitual abſence from the Lord's table is the ſure ſign of a loſt ſoul.

4. The circumciſed ſtranger had the ſame right as the homeborn Iſraelite. In Chriſt Jeſus there is no difference between barbarian, Scythian, bond, or free : whoſoever calleth on the name of the Lord ſhall be ſaved.

15. ¶ And [g] on the day that the tabernacle was reared up, the cloud covered the tabernacle, namely the tent of the teſtimony : and [h] at even there was upon the tabernacle as it were the appearance of fire, until the morning. 16. So it was alway : the cloud covered it by day, and the appearance of fire by night. 17. And when the cloud was taken up from the tabernacle ; then after that the children of Iſrael journeyed : and in the place where the cloud abode, there the children of Iſrael pitched their tents. 18. At the commandment of the LORD the children of Iſrael journeyed, and at the commandment of the LORD they pitched : [i] as long as the cloud abode upon the tabernacle, they reſted in the tents. 19. And when the cloud † tarried long upon the tabernacle many days, then the children of Iſrael kept the charge of the LORD, and journeyed not. 20. And ſo it was when the cloud was a few days upon the tabernacle ; according to the commandment of the LORD they abode in their tents, and according to the commandment of the LORD they journeyed. 21. And ſo it was when the cloud ‡ abode from even unto the morning, and that the cloud was taken up in the morning, then they journeyed : whether it was by day or by night that the cloud was taken up, they journeyed : 22. Or whether it were two days, or a month, or a year that the cloud tarried upon the tabernacle, remaining thereon, the children of Iſrael [k] abode in their tents, and journeyed not : but when it was taken up, they journeyed. 23. At the commandment of the LORD they reſted in the tents, and at the commandment of the LORD they journeyed : they kept the charge of the LORD, at the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moſes.

[g] Exod. xl. 34.
[h] Ibid. xiii. 21. & xl. 38.
[i] 1 Cor. x. 1.
† Heb. Prolonged.
‡ Heb. Was.
[k] Exod. xl. 36, 37.

v. 15—23. The miraculous pillar of the cloud reſting on the tabernacle in the day of its erection : God gives them orders how to regulate their marches by the motions and guidance of it.

1. They were to reſt as the cloud reſted, whether the time were long or ſhort. God's time is the beſt time : we may not run till he calls. Faith will beget patient waiting upon God. 2. When the cloud moved by day or night, they were to be always ready, and begin their march. Note, (1.) That we muſt have our tents ſtruck by death is certain ; the time when, uncertain : it becomes us therefore to be always prepared, that when God calls us out of the body, we may have nothing to do but to die. (2.) It will be comfortable to every true Iſraelite to ſee the cloud remove. This wilderneſs ſtate is not our reſt ; we look for a more abiding manſion in the ſkies. (3.) They were not to ſtay or encamp on the march, but by the direction of their guide. We muſt not deſire to chuſe the place of our own abode ; let God fix our habitation, and there contentedly let us pitch our tent.

How great was the favour thus viſibly to have the preſence of God among them, and to be under ſuch a guardian and guide ! Bleſſed be God, their mercies are our own, as to their ſubſtance ; God's word, and ſpirit, and providences, as this cloud, ſhall lead us in his holy ways, and keep us ſafely journeying heavenward. And whilſt we yield ourſelves up to him without reſerve, we may confidently exerciſe faith in our ſafe arrival at the promiſed land of everlaſting glory.

CHAP. X.

In this chapter we have, 1. Orders given about the making and uſing of ſilver trumpets, ver. 1—10. 2. The removal of Iſrael's camp from mount Sinai to the wilderneſs of Paran, ver. 11—28. 3. Moſes's treaty with Hobab, his brother-in-law, ver. 29—32. 4. Moſes's prayer at the removing and reſting of the ark, ver. 33—36.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Make thee two trumpets of ſilver ; of an whole piece ſhalt thou make them : that thou mayeſt uſe them for the calling of the aſſembly, and for the journeying of the camps. 3. And when [a] they ſhall blow with them, all the aſſembly ſhall aſſemble themſelves to thee, at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. 4. And if they blow but with one trumpet, then the princes which are heads of the thouſands of Iſrael, ſhall gather themſelves unto thee. 5. When ye blow an alarm, then the camps that lie on the eaſt parts, ſhall go forward. 6. When ye blow an alarm the ſecond time, then the camps that lie on the ſouth ſide ſhall take their journey : they ſhall blow an alarm for their journeys. 7. But when the congregation is to be gathered together, you ſhall blow ; but you ſhall not ſound an alarm. 8. [b] And the ſons of Aaron the prieſts ſhall blow with the trumpets ; and they ſhall be to you for an ordinance for ever throughout your generations. 9. And [c] if ye go to war in your land againſt the enemy that oppreſſeth you, then ye ſhall blow an alarm with the trumpets ; and ye ſhall be remembred before the LORD your God, and ye ſhall be ſaved from your enemies. 10. Alſo [d] in the day of your gladneſs, and in your ſolemn days, and in the beginnings of your months, ye ſhall blow with the trumpets over your burnt-offerings, and over the ſacrifices of your peace-offerings ; that they may be to you for a memorial before your God : I am the LORD your God.

[a] Joel ii. 15.
[b] 1 Chron. xv. 24. 2 Chron. xiii. 12. 1 Mac. xvi. 8.
[c] Chap. xxxi. 6. Joſh. vi. 5. 2 Chron. xiii. 14.
[d] Chap. xxix. 1. Lev. xxiii. 24. 1 Chron. xv. 24. 2 Chron. v. 12. & vii. 6. & xxix. 26. Ezra iii. 10. Neh. xii. 35. Pſ. lxxxi. 3.

v. 1—10. God gives directions here for the making ſilver trumpets. They muſt be two, each of beaten ſilver, and the prieſts alone muſt blow in them. The miniſters of God muſt always lift up their voice as a trumpet, boldly and zealouſly for God, and their word be not only pure as the ſilver, but muſical as the trumpet's ſwelling note ; big with the glad tidings of a free ſalvation through Jeſus, and heard to the ends of the earth.

The uſe of theſe trumpets was, 1. If both trumpets were blown in a continued tone, the whole congregation were ſummoned to the tabernacle ; if one, the heads of the tribes only. It is thus by the miniſtry of the goſpel that the ſouls of his redeemed are called to Chriſt ; and in a reſurrection day they will be awakened by the trumpet's voice, to appear before the throne of God. 2. An interrupted blaſt intimated a march ; and by this ſignal, at intervals, the ſeveral camps, firſt of Judah, then of Reuben, next of Ephraim, and laſtly of Dan, were directed in their motions. They who would march aright to heaven, muſt attend to the word of God ſpoken by his ſervants. 3. In times of invaſion and war, theſe martial inſtruments were to awaken their courage ; and when they were ſounded, God promiſes to fight for them. Though the world is full of enemies againſt the people of God, we may boldly go forth under the ſtrength-inſpiring promiſes of God's word, and be aſſured of certain victory through Jeſus, the Captain of our Salvation. 4. Their ſolemn aſſemblies and feaſts were enlivened with the joyful ſound, intimating, that when we draw near to God in holy duties, ties, it ſhould not be a weariſome ſervice, but the very joy and rejoicing of our hearts.

11. ¶ And it came to paſs on the twentieth day of the ſecond month, in the ſecond year, that the cloud was taken up from off the tabernacle of the teſtimony. 12. And the children of Iſrael took [e] their journeys out of the wilderneſs of Sinai: and the cloud reſted in the wilderneſs of Paran. 13. And they firſt took their journey, according to the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moſes. 14. ¶ [f] In the firſt place went the ſtandard of the camp of the children of Judah, according to their armies: and over his hoſt was [g] Nahſhon the ſon of Amminadab. 15. And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Iſſachar, was Nethaneel the ſon of Zuar. 16. And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Zebulun, was Eliab the ſon of Helon. 17. And [h] the tabernacle was taken down; and the ſons of Gerſhon, and the ſons of Merari, ſet forward [i] bearing the tabernacle. 18. ¶ And [k] the ſtandard of the camp of Reuben ſet forward according to their armies: and over his hoſt was Elizur the ſon of Shedeur. 19. And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Simeon, was Shelumiel, the ſon of Zuriſhaddai. 20. And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Gad, was Eliaſaph, the ſon of Deuel. 21. And the Kohathites ſet forward, [l] bearing the ſanctuary: and † the other did ſet up the tabernacle againſt they came. 22. ¶ And [m] the ſtandard of the camp of the children of Ephraim ſet forward according to their armies: and over his hoſt was Eliſhama the ſon of Ammihud. 23. And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Manaſſeh, was Gamaliel the ſon of Pedahzur. 24. And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Benjamin, was Abidan the ſon of Gideoni. 25. ¶ And [n] the ſtandard of the camp of the children of Dan ſet forward, which was the rereward of all the camps throughout their hoſts: and over his hoſt was Ahiezer the ſon of Ammiſhaddai. 26. And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Aſher, was Pagiel the ſon of Ocran. 27. And over the hoſt of the tribe of the children of Naphtali, was Ahira the ſon of Enan. 28. † Thus were the journeyings of the children of Iſrael, according to their armies, when they ſet forward.

v. 11—28. God having fully ſettled their hoſt, calls them to begin their march.

1. The ſignal is given in the removal of the cloud. They had been now a year at Sinai, and having received God's inſtitutions, they are, with God in the midſt of them, on their journey to be put in poſſeſſion of his promiſes. We may comfortably remove, when we have God with us. 2. They marched according to God's order, and under his guidance; and though they were long kept wandering, yet were never bewildered. When we truſt ourſelves to God, we may be involved in difficulties; but our way is ſafe, and the iſſue will be peace. 3. After three days they reſted in the wilderneſs of Paran. We muſt expect ſmall reſt here, where our beſt changes are but one wilderneſs for another. Whilſt therefore we are thankful for the mercies by the way, we muſt look for our abiding reſting place in heaven, from whence we ſhall remove no more. 4. The order of the march, as directed before. Judah led the way, then the Gerſhonites and Merarites followed with the tabernacle: next Reuben's ſquadron; after them, the Kohathites with the ſacred veſſels; Ephraim followed; Dan, with all the attendants on the camp, cloſed the rear. Behold a type of the church: Chriſt, the captain, leads the glorious van; his miniſters mark his ſteps with their ſacred charges; the faithful, firm-embodied, and true to their colours, follow; whilſt the weakeſt have a glorious guard of miniſtring ſpirits, under the conduct of their Lord: ſo that of thoſe whom he hath redeemed, not one ſhall be loſt at the general muſter, when Jeſus ſhall appear to make up his jewels.

29. ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto Hobab, the ſon of Raguel the Midianite, Moſes's father-in-law, We are journeying unto the place of which the LORD ſaid, I will give it you: come thou with us, and [o] we will do thee good: for the LORD hath ſpoken good concerning Iſrael. 30. And he ſaid unto him, I will not go; but I will depart to mine own land, and to my kindred. 31. And he ſaid, Leave us not, I pray thee; foraſmuch as thou knoweſt how we are to encamp in the wilderneſs, and thou mayeſt be to us inſtead of eyes. 32. And it ſhall be, if thou go with us, yea, it ſhall be, that what goodneſs the LORD ſhall do unto us, the ſame will we do unto thee.

v. 29—32. Hobab, (Jethro's ſon moſt probably) when Iſrael was now commanded to advance, is for returning home. Hereupon Moſes, his brother, invites him to go with them. They were going under a gracious promiſe, and with the protection of a great God, and therefore were ſure of ſucceſs. When we are going to heaven ourſelves, it cannot but be a grief to ſee our friends and relations diſpoſed to go another way, and we ſhall make it our buſineſs and labour to perſuade them to caſt in their lot with us. Hobab reſolves at firſt not to go; his land and kindred were dear attractives to keep him from the journey. How often have lands, and friends, and relations, prevailed upon the heart to renounce the ways of God and glory, for the momentary enjoyments of a periſhing world? Let it not be our caſe. Moſes will not be eaſily ſaid nay. Real love to a man's ſoul will make us importunate to gain him. He urges two reaſons, both ſuited to engage him: 1. The uſe he might be of to them in their encampments, and with his advice. Note, (1.) That we have it in our power to ſerve our neighbour, is a ſtrong argument for doing it. (2.) Though we are under the ſure guidance of an all-wiſe God, it becomes us to uſe all the means which human prudence ſuggeſts. 2. The advantage he might hope for himſelf. They who join God's people will ſhare in their inheritance; and though friends or lands are left behind, they will be amply recompenſed. Hobab, it ſhould ſeem by his ſilence, conſented, as we find his family in Canaan, Judg. i. 16. There are many a ſore temptation to draw back in the way to heaven, but effectual grace conſtrains the heart, and we are thus enabled to perſevere.

33. ¶ And they departed from [p] the mount of the LORD three days journey: and the ark of the covenant of the LORD went before them in the three days journey, [q] to ſearch out a reſting-place for them. 34. And [r] the cloud of the LORD was upon them by day, when they went out of the camp. 35. And it came to paſs when the ark ſet forward, that Moſes ſaid, [s] Riſe up, LORD, and let thine enemies be ſcattered; and let them that hate thee, flee before thee. 36. And when it reſted, he ſaid, Return, O LORD, unto the † many thouſands of Iſrael.

v. 33—36. The ark of God went before them, not it ſeems in front, but the pillar of the cloud over it directed their march; and thus it might be ſaid to lead the way, and ſearch out the moſt convenient reſting-place. When we are under divine guidance, every ſituation will be ordered with infinite wiſdom, and we muſt believe ſo. When the ark moved, Moſes prayed, Riſe up, O Lord God, &c. We ſhould begin every day's journey of life with prayer; and need enough have we to pray, beſet as we are with ſpiritual enemies, and an oppoſing world. Our comfort is, whilſt omnipotence is on our ſide, be they who hate him, and us for our attachment to him, never ſo great or numerous, they ſhall be ſcattered as eaſily as morning miſts before the riſing ſun. At the reſting of the ark, Moſes renewed his petition for the return of the Divine Preſence, and therewith all bleſſings, in the midſt of the thouſands of Iſrael. Evening calls for returning mercies muſt never be neglected. Mercies on our own ſouls, that we may reſt under the ſhadow of the Almighty; mercies on the church of God, that its welfare and happineſs may abide and abound, till the time of final reſting, when, with all God's ſaints together, we ſhall dwell in him, and he in us, to a glorious eternity.

CHAP. XI.

This chapter begins a melancholy ſcene. The current of God's mercies is ſtopped by their rebellion. God is turned to be their enemy, and fights againſt them, and it is ſin, ſin, that makes all the miſchief. 1. Their murmurings kindled a fire among them, which yet was ſoon quenched by the prayer of Moſes, ver. 1—3. 2. No ſooner was that fire of judgment quenched, but the fire of ſin breaks out again. 1. The people fret for want of fleſh, ver. 4—9. 2. Moſes frets for want of help, ver. 10—15. Now, 1. God promiſeth to gratify them both, to appoint help for Moſes, ver. 16, 17. And to give the people fleſh, ver. 18—23. And, 2. He preſently makes good both theſe promiſes. For, 1. The Spirit of God qualifies the ſeventy elders for the government, ver. 24—30 2. The power of God brings quails to feaſt the people, ver. 31, 32. Yet, 3. The juſtice of God plagued them for their murmurings, ver. 33—35.

1. AND [a] when the people † complained, ‡ it diſpleaſed the LORD: and the LORD heard it; and his anger was kindled: and the fire of the LORD burnt [e] Exod. xl. 36. Chap. ii. 9, 16, 24, 31.

[f] Chap. ii. 3.

[g] Chap. i. 7.

[h] Chap. i. 51.

[i] Chap. iv. 24, 31.

[k] Chap. ii. 10.

[l] Chap. iv. 4. & vii. 9.

† i. e. The Gerſhonites and the Merarites. See ver. 17.

[m] Chap. ii. 18.

[n] Chap. ii. 25. Joſh. vi. 9.

† Heb. Theſe.

[o] Judg. i. 16.

[p] See Exod. iii. 1.

[q] Deut. i. 33. Jer. xxxi. 2. Ezek. xx. 6.

[r] Exod. xiii. 21.

[s] Pſ. lxviii. 1, 2. & cxxxii. 8.

† Heb. Ten thouſand thouſands.

[a] Deut. ix. 22.

† Heb. Were as it were complainers.

‡ Heb. It was evil in the ears of, &c.

burnt [b] among them, and conſumed them that were in the uttermoſt parts of the camp. 2. And the people cried unto Moſes; and when Moſes prayed unto the LORD, the fire ‖ was quenched. 3. And he called the name of the place § Taberah: becauſe the fire of the LORD burnt among them.

[b] Pſ. lxxviii. 21.
‖ Heb. Sunk.
§ i. e. A burning.

v. 1—3. From the mercies they had experienced, and their promiſing beginnings, we might have expected a gracious iſſue to their journey; but alas! what a change is here!

1. A ſpirit of murmuring is among them; why or wherefore, it it hard to gueſs. They had every bleſſing their hearts could reaſonably deſire, and ſuch extraordinary inſtances of God's love to them, as ſhould have made them rejoice with joy unſpeakable. But a diſcontented ſpirit will never be without cauſe of murmuring, even in the midſt of mercies. God heard their repinings; for to him our moſt ſecret thoughts are fully known; and juſtly angry at their ingratitude, as he muſt ever be with thoſe complainers, who find fault with his proviſion for them, 2. He ſends a fire of wrath among them, either from the ſanctuary, as againſt Nadab and Abihu, or ſome immediate ſtroke of lightning from heaven. It burnt in the uttermoſt part of the camp; in the tribe of Dan probably, where the chief ſeat of the murmurers lay. God will not ſpare, if ſinners provoke him; and happy for us if we take warning by others, and repent of the like ſins, that we be not conſumed with their plagues. 3. Thus did the people; they cried unto Moſes; for in diſtreſs of ſoul God's ſlighted miniſters will be the firſt to be applied to; and Moſes kindly interceded for them, and the fire was ſtayed. The prayers of a righteous man avail much. It is a great bleſſing to have an intereſt in them. 4. The name given the place, Taberah, Burning. The place of the ſinner's torment ſhortly will be everlaſting burnings. Let us fear to murmur, leſt we ſhould likewiſe periſh.

4. ¶ And [c] the mixt multitude that was among them † fell a luſting: and the children of Iſrael alſo ‡ wept again, and ſaid, [d] Who ſhall give us fleſh to eat? 5. [e] We remember the fiſh which we did eat in Egypt freely; the cucumbers, and the melons, and the leeks, and the onions, and the garlick: 6. But now our ſoul is dried away; there is nothing at all, beſides this manna, before our eyes. 7. And [f] the manna was as coriander-ſeed, and the ‖ colour thereof as the colour of [g] bdellium. 8. And the people went about, and gathered it, and ground it in mills, or beat it in a mortar, and baked it in pans, and made cakes of it: and the taſte of it was as the taſte of freſh oil. 9. And when the dew fell upon the camp in the night, the manna fell upon it.

[c] As Exod. xii. 38.
† Heb. Luſted a luſt.
‡ Heb. Returned and wept.
[d] Pſ. lxxviii. 18. & cvi. 14. 1 Cor. x. 6.
[e] Exod. xvi. 3.
[f] Ibid. 14, 31.
‖ Heb. Eye of it as the eye of, &c.
[g] Gen. ii. 12.

v. 4—9. One ſin ſeverely viſited prevents not new provocations. 1. The mixed multitude, a mungrel breed, ſuch as followed in hopes of ſharing Iſrael's good, not to ſerve Iſrael's God, began the mutiny, and communicated the ſpirit of infection to the camp. A bad neighbourhood is dangerous, and ſin contagious; nor are any ſo high in grace or attainments, but they need watch and pray, leſt they enter into temptation. 2. They luſted for fleſh to eat, diſſatisfied with God's proviſion, and wanting to be their own caterers. Indulging our appetites is uſually our ruin: to gratify the body, men deſtroy their ſoul. 3. They diſtruſted God's power to ſupply their wants, though every day living by a miracle. Unbelief is a ſin that miracles cannot cure. 4. They compare their preſent with their paſt eſtate, and draw the moſt ungrateful concluſions. They remember the leeks and onions, but not the taſk-maſters of Egypt, and ſpeak of that manna, the bread of heaven, as if it famiſhed inſtead of fed them. Note, (1.) Ingratitude is among the greateſt ſins. (2.) The diſcontented loath their very bleſſings, and ſeem ſolicitous to make themſelves miſerable. (3.) It is a ſtrong mark of the curſe of God upon the heart, to ſee repining in the midſt of plenty.

10. ¶ Then Moſes heard the people weep throughout their families, every man in the door of his tent; and [h] the anger of the LORD was kindled greatly; Moſes alſo was diſpleaſed. 11. [i] And Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, Wherefore haſt thou afflicted thy ſervant? and wherefore have I not found favour in thy ſight, that thou layeſt the burden of all this people upon me? 12. Have I conceived all this people? have I begotten them, that thou ſhouldeſt ſay unto me, Carry them in thy boſom (as a nurſing father beareth the ſucking child) unto the land which thou ſwareſt unto their fathers? 13. Whence ſhould I have fleſh to give unto all this people? for they weep unto me, ſaying, Give us fleſh that we may eat. 14. [k] I am not able to bear all this people alone, becauſe it is too heavy for me. 15. And if thou deal thus with me, [l] kill me, I pray thee, out of hand, if I have found favour in thy ſight; and let me not ſee my wretchedneſs.

[h] Pſ. lxxviii. 21.
[i] Deut. i. 12.
[k] Exod. xviii. 18.
[l] See 1 Kings xix. 4. Jonah iv. 3.

v. 10—15. Moſes heard the general murmur, and was juſtly diſpleaſed; and God alſo beheld with anger their baſe ingratitude. Had Moſes reſted here, he had done well; but impatience at their perverſeneſs, and deſpair of ſupporting the burden of ſuch a people, ſeems to have provoked him to ſpeak unadviſedly with his lips. He finds fault with that charge which was his higheſt honour; and wiſhes for that death with impatience, which he ſhould wait for with reſignation. Note, (1.) In heavy trials, we are too apt rather to wiſh ourſelves rid of them by death, rather than glorify God under them by patient ſubmiſſion. (2.) Many have deſired to die in a paſſion, who would gladly unſay their words, if God had granted their requeſt. (3.) The meekeſt of men have corruption in their hearts, and ſometimes it will riſe. (4.) They whom God calls to be rulers of others, have need to look peculiarly to the government of their own ſpirits.

16. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Gather unto me [m] ſeventy men of the elders of Iſrael, whom thou knoweſt to be elders of the people, and officers over them; and bring them unto the tabernacle of the congregation, that they may ſtand there with thee. 17. And I will come down and talk with thee there: and [n] I will take of the ſpirit which is upon thee, and will put it upon them; and they ſhall bear the burden of the people with thee, that thou bear it not thyſelf alone. 18. And ſay thou unto the people, Sanctify yourſelves againſt to-morrow, and ye ſhall eat fleſh (for you have wept in the ears of the LORD, ſaying, Who ſhall give us fleſh to eat? for it was well with us in Egypt) therefore the LORD will give you fleſh, and ye ſhall eat. 19. Ye ſhall not eat one day, nor two days, nor five days, neither ten days, nor twenty days; 20. [o] But even a † whole month, until it come out at your noſtrils, and it be lothſome unto you: becauſe that ye have deſpiſed the LORD which is among you, and have wept before him, ſaying, [p] Why came we forth out of Egypt? 21. And Moſes ſaid, [q] The people amongſt whom I am, are ſix hundred thouſand footmen; and thou haſt ſaid, I will give them fleſh, that they may eat a whole month. 22. [r] Shall the flocks and the herds be ſlain for them, to ſuffice them? or ſhall all the fiſh of the ſea be gathered together for them, to ſuffice them? 23. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, [s] Is the LORD's hand waxed ſhort? thou ſhalt ſee now whether my word ſhall come to paſs unto thee, or not.

[m] See Exod. iv. 9.
[n] Neh. ix. 20.
[o] Pſ. lxxviii. 29. & cvi. 15.
† Heb. A month of days.
[p] Chap. xxi. 5.
[q] Exod. xii. 37. & xxxviii. 26. Chap. i. 46.
[r] See John vi. 7.
[s] Iſa. l. 2. & lix. 1.

v. 16—23. God anſwers both theſe requeſts of Moſes and the people, but with very different regards; Moſes in mercy, the people in judgment.

1. Moſes receives an inſtance of God's mercy. He does not upbraid his haſtineſs, but grants his petition. He is commanded to chuſe ſeventy elders, the moſt approved for wiſdom, and God will ſtrengthen them for their office, to bear with him the burden of the people. Note, (1.) None can reaſonably conclude they are called to an office, who are not qualified for it. (2.) Government is of divine inſtitution, and we muſt be obedient for conſcience ſake, not only to the king as ſupreme, but unto every magiſtrate who bears with him the burden.

2. The people's requeſt is gratified; better, peradventure, for them, had it been denied. Gifts in anger are judgments in diſguiſe. They ſhall not only have enough to ſatisfy, but to ſurfeit. Note, (1.) Luſt and loathing are near allied. (2.) The indulgence of brutal appetite will bring its own puniſhment along with it.

3. Moſes expreſſes ſome diſtruſt how this ſhould be done for ſuch a multitude. The ſtrongeſt faith is ſometimes ſhaken by indulging vain reaſonings; but God ſilences his doubts with a convincing argument. His almighty power can effect whatever his grace promiſes. He that divided the ſea, and opened the windows of heaven, is able to give them fleſh alſo. Let God's people be comforted in every trial, that his hand is not ſhortened that it cannot ſave; and be encouraged to pray, for his ear is not heavy that it cannot hear.

24. ¶ And Moſes went out, and told the people the words of the LORD, and gathered the ſeventy men of the elders of the people, and ſet them round about the tabernacle. 25. And the LORD came down in a cloud, and ſpake unto him, and took of the ſpirit that was upon him, and gave it unto the ſeventy elders: and it came to paſs, that [t] when the ſpirit reſted upon them, [u] they propheſied, and did not ceaſe. 26. But there remained two of the men in the camp, the name of the one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad: and the Spirit reſted upon them (and they were of them that were written, but [x] went not out unto the tabernacle) and they propheſied in the camp. 27. And there ran a young man, and told Moſes, and ſaid, Eldad and Medad do propheſy in the camp. 28. And Joſhua the ſon of Nun, the ſervant of Moſes, one of his young men, anſwered and ſaid, [y] My lord Moſes, forbid them. 29. And Moſes ſaid unto him, Envieſt thou for my ſake? [z] would God that all the LORD's people were prophets, and that the LORD would put his ſpirit upon them. 30. And Moſes gat him into the camp, he and the elders of Iſrael.

Before Chriſt 1490.

[t] See 2 Kings ii. 15.
[u] See 1 Sam. x. 5, 10.
[x] See 1 Sam. xx. 26. Jer. xxxvi. 5.
[y] See Luke ix. 49. John iii. 26.
[z] 1 Cor. xiv. 1.

v. 24—30. Moſes obeys the divine mandate, and having told the people the words of the Lord, he gathers the ſeventy elders before the tabernacle, and the glory of the Lord appears. God never fails to meet thoſe who are found waiting upon him. As they were ſelected by his order, he furniſhes them for their place, beſtowing upon them a portion of that ſpirit which reſted on Moſes; not diminiſhing his gifts, but increaſing theirs. Grace is an inexhauſtible fountain; no man has the leſs, becauſe of others who partake with him. Hereupon they propheſied, that is, joined in God's praiſes, or ſpake of the things of God, or foretold ſome future events to the people. Two of the ſeventy were abſent, either not receiving timely notice of the honour done them, or through modeſty declining it; but they propheſied alſo, prayed, or preached, or praiſed God in the camp. An appearance ſo extraordinary was ſoon noted, and carried to Moſes; and Joſhua, jealous for Moſes's honour, is ready to condemn and ſilence them for irregularity; but he rejoices in the manifeſtation of God's favour, and wiſhes piouſly every ſoul in the camp poſſeſſed the ſame ſpirit. Note, (1.) Others gifts and graces are too often the occaſion of envy to us. (2.) What we may think irregular for ourſelves, we may not be too haſty to condemn in others. (3.) If men propheſy in the name of Jeſus, and ſouls are edified, we ſhould therein rejoice, though they may not follow with us. (4.) If others increaſe in uſefulneſs, and we decreaſe, ſo the cauſe proſpers, we ſhould be willing to be the laſt and the leaſt. If God be glorified, that is enough.

31. ¶ And [a] there went forth a wind from the LORD, and brought quails from the ſea, and let them fall by the camp, † as it were a day's journey on this ſide, and as it were a day's journey on the other ſide, round about the camp, and as it were two cubits high upon the face of the earth. 32. And the people ſtood up all that day, and all that night, and all the next day, and they gathered the quails; he that gathered leaſt, gathered ten homers: and they ſpread them all abroad for themſelves round about the camp. 33. And [b] while the fleſh was yet between their teeth, ere it was chewed; the wrath of the LORD was kindled againſt the people, and the LORD ſmote the people with a very great plague. 34. And he called the name of that place, ‡ Kibroth-hattaavah: becauſe there they buried the people that luſted. 35. And [c] the people journeyed from Kibroth-hattaavah unto Hazeroth: and ‖ abode at Hazeroth.

[a] Exod. xvi. 13. Pſ. lxxviii. 26. & cv. 40.
† Heb. As it were the way of a day.
[b] Pſ. lxxviii. 30, 31.
‡ i. e. The graves of luſt.
[c] Chap. xxxiii. 17.
‖ They were in, &c.

v. 31—35. The people now obtain their deſire, and ſuffer for their luſt.

1. God ſends them fleſh to eat. Either that delicious bird we call a quail, or, as learned men have conjectured, locuſts, which were a common food in thoſe Eaſtern countries, and in ſuch quantities that for ſixteen miles ſquare they were two cubits high; and, during two days and a night, afforded employment for all the hoſts to gather them, and the leaſt had ten homers, or aſs-loads, of them, which they ſpread to dry around the camp. Now they have enough, and rioted in plenty; but when the ſinner is moſt joyous, the ſword of vengeance is then deſcending.

2. God ſmote them with a very great plague. They who indulge their luſts, muſt pay dear for them. The meat was yet between their teeth when the wrath of God came upon them. How ſhort-lived is the proſperity of the wicked! when his poſſeſſion of what he coveted is to appearance moſt firmly ſecured, death ſnatches him away, and all his hopes periſh.

3. The name of the place; Kibroth-hattaavah, The graves of luſt. Note, This title may ſuit every tomb-ſtone. By luſt ſin entered into the world, and death paſſed upon all, becauſe all have ſinned.

CHAP. XII.

1. Moſes is accuſed by Miriam and Aaron, his brother and ſiſter, ver. 1—3. 2. God calls them to an account for it, ver. 4—9. 3. Miriam is ſmitten with leproſy, ver. 10. 4. Aaron ſubmits, and Moſes intercedes for her, ver. 11—13. 5. She is healed, but put to ſhame for ſeven days, ver. 14—26. And this is recorded, to ſhew that the beſt perſons and families have both their follies and their croſſes.

1. AND Miriam and Aaron ſpake againſt Moſes, becauſe of the † Ethiopian woman, whom he had married: for [a] he had ‡ married an Ethiopian woman. 2. And they ſaid, Hath the LORD indeed ſpoken only by Moſes? [b] hath he not ſpoken alſo by us? And the LORD heard it. 3. (Now the man Moſes was [c] very meek, above all the men which were upon the face of the earth.)

† Or Cuſhite.
[a] Exod. ii. 21.
‡ Heb. Taken.
[b] Exod. xv. 20. Mic. vi. 4.
[c] Ecclus xlv. 4.

v. 1—3. Of all in the camp, theſe were ſurely the laſt from whom Moſes had need apprehend complaint; they were near relations, and diſtinguiſhed profeſſors. Let no man think it ſtrange, that his neareſt relatives are ſet againſt him: nor reckon his caſe hard, or be diſcouraged, if ſome eminent for religion, reflect moſt unkindly and unjuſtly on his conduct. Moſes was thus treated before him.

The complaint againſt him was, that in the choice of the ſeventy elders, he had been influenced by his wife Zipporah; and Miriam, jealous of her authority, ſeems to have inſtigated Aaron to this ungrateful behaviour towards his brother; inſinuating that they had equal authority from God, and therefore ought to have been conſulted. Note, (1.) Contentions for ſuperiority among Chriſtians are too common, and very ſinful. (2.) Nothing breeds bitterer diſputes, than jealouſy about power. (3.) Through evil ſuggeſtions, like Miriam's, the deareſt friends are often ſeparated. (4.) When perſons quarrel, they cannot be at reſt, unleſs they draw others into the diſpute.

Moſes maintained the ſame compoſure, for which he is famed; and in ſilence referred his cauſe to God, though from them this muſt have been peculiarly afflictive. The unkindneſs of profeſſed friends is ever harder to be borne, than the inſults of profeſſed enemies. He muſt have been well diſciplined in the ſchool of Chriſt, that can under ſuch provocations in patience and meekneſs poſſeſs his ſoul.

4. And the LORD ſpake ſuddenly unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, and unto Miriam, Come out ye three unto the tabernacle of the congregation. And they three came out. 5. And the LORD came down in the pillar of the cloud, and ſtood in the door of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam: and they both came forth. 6. And he ſaid, Hear now my words: If there be a prophet among you, I the LORD will make myſelf known unto him [d] in a viſion, and will ſpeak unto him [e] in a dream. 7. My ſervant Moſes is not ſo, [f] who is faithful in all mine houſe. 8. With him will I ſpeak [g] mouth to mouth, even apparently, and not in dark ſpeeches; and the ſimilitude of the LORD ſhall he behold: wherefore then were ye not afraid to ſpeak againſt my ſervant Moſes? 9. And the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt them, and he departed.

[d] Gen. xv. 1. & xlvi. 2. Job. xxxiii. 15. Ezek. i. 1. Dan. viii. 2. & x. 8, 16, 17.
[e] Gen. xxxi. 10, 11. 1. Kings iii. 5.
[f] Heb. iii. 2.
[g] Exod. xxxiii. 11. Deut. xxxiv. 10.

v. 4—9. Though the innocent may be ſilent, God will be the avenger of their quarrel. We have here,

1. The immediate interpoſition of God; he ſummons the parties to appear at his bar, to decide the controverſy, and will make them know the difference between his choſen ſervant Moſes and all other prophets. He made himſelf known to them in viſions, and a great favour that was; but Moſes was more highly favoured. 1. God teſtifies of his fidelity: eminent it was, and diſtinguiſhed; and this he moſt approves. It is not ſo much great gifts, or great abilities, but faithfulneſs and ſimplicity of heart, which God eſteems. 2. The manifeſtations made to him were peculiar. His eyes beheld more of God's glory than any before him, and the revelations given him were more diſtinct and clear, God ſpeaking to him familiarly, not in dark ſpeeches, but as a man ſpeaketh to his friend. Note, Prophetical viſions are ceaſed, and we ſee no more the ſimilitude of the Lord; but, bleſſed be God, we enjoy now diſtincter views of goſpel myſteries, than even the holy prophets ſaw; and, in the face of Jeſus Chriſt incarnate, have been favoured with brighter diſplays of the divine glory, grace and truth, than even Moſes on the mount beheld.

2. God's anger was kindled, and he ſhews it by ſome viſible ſign, or his ſudden departure, without waiting for their excuſe. Note, (1.) The reputations of God's miniſters are his jealous concern;

Before Chriſt 1490.

concern; when God ſhall ariſe to plead their cauſe, confuſion ſhall cover their adverſaries. (2.) When God is provoked, he will depart; and no judgment heavier than to be forſaken of him.

h Deut. xxiv. 9.
i 2 Kings v. 27.

10. And the cloud departed from off the tabernacle, and [h] behold, Miriam became [i] leprous, white as ſnow: and Aaron looked upon Miriam, and behold, ſhe was leprous. 11. And Aaron ſaid unto Moſes, Alas, my lord, I beſeech thee lay not the ſin upon us, wherein we have done fooliſhly, and wherein we have ſinned. 12. Let her not be as one dead; of whom the fleſh is half conſumed, when he cometh out of his mother's womb. 13. And Moſes cried unto the LORD, ſaying, Heal her now, O God, I beſeech thee. 14. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, [k] If her father had but ſpit in her face, ſhould ſhe not be aſhamed ſeven days? [l] let her be ſhut out from the camp ſeven days, and after that let her be received in again. 15. [m] And Miriam was ſhut out from the camp ſeven days: and the people journeyed not till Miriam was brought in again. 16. And afterward the people removed from [n] Hazeroth, and pitched in the wilderneſs of Paran.

k See Heb. xii. 9.
l Lev. xiii. 46. Chap. v. 2.
m Deut. xxiv. 9.
n Chap. xi. 35. & xxxiii. 18.

v. 10—16. His diſpleaſure was manifeſt, and now it appeared,

1. Miriam becomes leprous. She who was challenging equality with Moſes, bears in her forehead a brand of infamy, and becomes viler than the meaneſt Iſraelite. Thoſe who walk in pride God is able to abaſe. The fair face that ſwells the heart with vanity, one ſtroke of diſeaſe can make quickly loathſome. Aaron is ſpared, as leaſt in the offence, or perhaps for his office-ſake, that it may not appear vile; but, as God's high-prieſt, he is obliged to pronounce that ſentence on his ſiſter, which muſt cover himſelf with confuſion. In the execution of their office no connections muſt influence miniſters; if their neareſt relatives are found leprous, they ſhould be excluded from the communion of God's people.

2. Aaron's humble ſubmiſſion and entreaty. He acknowledges their mutual ſin, aſks pardon of his brother, whom he had vilified, and earneſtly begs his interceſſion for his ſiſter, that ſhe might not be cut off, as one dead, from the congregation of the Lord. Note, (1.) They who revile God's ſervants ſhall be brought to bow to them, like Aaron in time, or like Dives in eternity. (2.) Where we have offended, we cannot be too ſoon in begging forgiveneſs, both of God and man. To continue impenitent is certain ruin. (3.) They who are cut off from the communion of the Lord by their ſins, are, worſe than leprous Miriam, ſpiritually dead.

3. Moſes's charity appears as exemplary as his meekneſs; he inſtantly cries to God for help. Inſtead of calling down judgment, as ſhe deſerved, he prays for that forgiveneſs with God, which ſhe found from himſelf. We muſt thus learn to forgive our enemies, and pray for them who deſpitefully uſe us. This is the ſpirit of chriſtianity.

4. His requeſt is granted. Miriam is healed, but for her humiliation, and for example to others, ſeven days ſhe is excluded the camp, to bear her ſhame for ſuch ungrateful conduct. When we do evil we ought to take that ſhame to us we have deſerved, and ſubmit to every humiliatory proceſs which may ſerve to ſhew our own ſorrow, and to warn others againſt our ſin.

5. During the time of Miriam's ſeparation the people halted. Whether to intimate the dangerous hindrances which ſin put in their way, or out of reſpect to Miriam, that ſhe might not have an increaſe of her ſhame. Note, (1.) In our way to heaven all our hindrances ariſe from our ſins. (2.) God will have us treat thoſe with the greateſt tenderneſs, who, however vile they have made themſelves, are now in penitential tears, returning from their evil ways.

6. The people go forward, to the borders of Canaan. One ſtep more, and they had been ſafely lodged in it. But the next chapter relates a fatal change. Note, Whilſt we are on this ſide the grave, we ever need to tremble. Many have gone to the borders of heaven, who will never enter it; almoſt but not altogether chriſtians.

CHAP. XIII.

In this chapter we have, 1. The ſending of twelve ſpies before Iſrael into Canaan, ver. 1—16. 2. The inſtructions given to theſe ſpies, ver. 17—20. 3. Their executing of their commiſſion, and their return, ver. 21—25. 4. The report they brought back to the camp of Iſrael, ver. 26—33.

a Chap. xxxii. 8. Deut. i. 22.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. [a] Send thou men, that they may ſearch the land of Canaan, which I give unto the children of Iſrael: of every tribe of their fathers ſhall ye ſend a man, every one a ruler among them. 3. And Moſes, by the commandment of the LORD, ſent them [b] from the wilderneſs of Paran: all thoſe men were heads of the children of Iſrael. 4. And theſe were their names: Of the tribe of Reuben, Shammua the ſon of Zaccur. 5. Of the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat the ſon of Hori. 6. [c] Of the tribe of Judah, Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh. 7. Of the tribe of Iſſachar, Igal the ſon of Joſeph. 8. Of the tribe of Ephraim, Oſhea the ſon of Nun. 9. Of the tribe of Benjamin, Palti the ſon of Raphu. 10. Of the tribe of Zebulun, Gaddiel the ſon of Sodi. 11. Of the tribe of Joſeph, namely, of the tribe of Manaſſeh, Gaddi the ſon of Suſi. 12. Of the tribe of Dan, Ammiel the ſon of Gemalli. 13. Of the tribe of Aſher, Sethur the ſon of Michael. 14. Of the tribe of Naphtali, Nahbi the ſon of Vophſi. 15. Of the tribe of Gad, Geuel the ſon of Machi. 16. Theſe are the names of the men which Moſes ſent to ſpy out the land. And Moſes called Oſhea the ſon of Nun, Jehoſhua. 17. ¶ And Moſes ſent them to ſpy out the land of Canaan, and ſaid unto them, Get you up this way ſouthward, and go up into the mountain: 18. And ſee the land what it is, and the people that dwelleth therein, whether they be ſtrong or weak, few or many; 19. And what the land is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad; and what cities they be that they dwell in, whether in tents or in ſtrong-holds; 20. And what the land is, whether it be fat or lean, whether there be wood therein or not. And be ye of good courage, and bring of the fruit of the land (now the time was the time of the firſt-ripe grapes.)

Before Chriſt 1490.

b Chap. xxxii. 8. Deut. i. 19. & ix. 23.
c 1 Chro. iv. 15.

v. 1—20. As they were now on the borders of the land, they had no more to do but to go in and take poſſeſſion; but their unbelief, Deut. i. 22. ſuggeſted the need of ſending ſpies. They were not ſatisfied with God's promiſe, but would ſee for themſelves. So ready are we to indulge our own wretched reaſonings, rather than ſimply ſubmit to divine revelation. God permits Moſes to gratify them; choice is made of proper perſons, and their inſtructions given them concerning the ſoil, the inhabitants, and cities. Among theſe Joſhua is particularly mentioned, and the change which Moſes made in his name; Joſhua ſignifies the ſame as Jeſus, a Saviour, and is the type of him who ſhould come to ſave his people from their ſins, and to bring them to the land of reſt in glory everlaſting. Moſes encourages them in their employment, that boldly acquitting themſelves they might be examples of courage to their brethren. Nothing more animating than to follow thoſe whoſe fidelity and zeal have been tried.

21. ¶ So they went up and ſearched the land, from the wilderneſs of Zin unto Rehob, as men come to Hamath. 22. And they aſcended by the ſouth, and came unto Hebron; where [d] Ahiman, Sheſhai, and Talmai, the children of Anak were ([e] now Hebron was built ſeven years before Zoan in Egypt.) 23. [f] And they came unto the † brook of Eſhcol, and cut down from thence a branch with one cluſter of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a ſtaff, and they brought of the pomegranates, and of the figs. 24. The place was called the brook ‡ Eſhcol, becauſe of the cluſter of grapes which the children of Iſrael cut down from thence. 25. And they returned from ſearching of the land after forty days.

d Joſh. xi. 21, 22. & xv. 13. Judg. i. 10.
e Joſh. xxi. 11.
f Deut. i. 24.
† Or valley.
‡ i. e. A cluſter of grapes.

v. 21—25. The ſpies immediately proceed on their errand, and having paſſed unſuſpected through the land, perhaps in ſeparate parties, they might, on their return, unite at Hebron, a place of great antiquity, and poſſeſſed by the ſons of Anak; near unto which lay Machpelah, the burying-place of the patriarchs. They bring back with them a ſpecimen of the land, enough to confirm God's declaration, and to confute their own ſubſequent evil report. Theſe grapes were a proof of the goodneſs of that land, and an earneſt of their poſſeſſing it. Note, When faith goes up to ſpy out the heavenly Canaan, the preſent joys of believing are the foretaſtes of eternal bliſs.

26. ¶ And they went and came to Moſes, and to Aaron, and to all the congregation of the children of Iſrael unto the wilderneſs of Paran, to [g] Kadeſh; and brought back word unto them, and unto all the congregation, and ſhewed them the fruit of the land. 27. And they told him, and ſaid, We came unto the land whither thou ſenteſt us, and ſurely [h] it floweth with milk and honey; and [i] this is the fruit of it. 28. Nevertheleſs, [k] the people

g Chap. xx. 1, 16. & xxxii. 8. & xxxiii. 36. Deut. i. 19. Joſh. xiv. 6.
h Exod. iii. 8. & xxxiii. 3.
i Deut. i. 25.
k Ibid. 2. 10, 21.

ple be ſtrong that dwell in the land, and the cities are [l] walled, and very great: and moreover, we ſaw the children of Anak there. 29. [m] The Amalekites dwell in the land of the ſouth: and the Hittites, and the Jebuſites, and the Amorites dwell in the mountains, and the Canaanites dwell by the ſea, and by the coaſt of Jordan. 30. And [n] Caleb ſtilled the people before Moſes, and ſaid, Let us go up at once, and poſſeſs it; for we are well able to overcome it. 31. But the men that went up with him, ſaid, We be not able to go up againſt the people, for they are ſtronger than we. 32. And they brought up an evil report of the land which they had ſearched, unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, The land through which we have gone to ſearch it, is a land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof; and [o] all the people that we ſaw in it, are † men of a great ſtature. 33. And there we ſaw the giants, [p] the ſons of Anak, which come of the giants: and we were in our own ſight as graſhoppers, and ſo we were in their ſight.

[l] Deut. i. 28.
[m] Judg. vi. 3.
[n] See Chap. xiv. 6, 30.
[o] Am. ii. 9.
† Heb. Men of ſtatures.
[p] Deut. ii. 10. & ix. 2.

v. 26—33. After forty days waiting the ſpies return, and they who had ſent them in unbelief, and tempted God by their diſtruſt, are now juſtly left to ſtumble at their own inventions. The men who were ſent greatly diſagree in report and ſentiment, and, as is too commonly the caſe, the few faithful are rejected amidſt the multitude of gainſayers. Where the things of God are concerned, they who follow the multitude will infallibly err.

1. Ten of the meſſengers bring a diſcouraging report. They own the fertility of the ſoil, though afterwards, to countenance their cowardice, they contradict themſelves, and pretend that it was barren and deſolate with diſeaſes, their cities impregnable, their inveterate enemies the Amalekites juſt before them, to obſtruct their way, the paſſes of the mountains guarded by the Hittites, Jebuſites and Amorites, all the men great of ſtature; and the giants of Hebron are dwelt upon, as if the hoſts of Iſrael might be cruſhed as graſhoppers under their feet. Obſerve (1.) The coward heart magnifies every object, and increaſes every difficulty. (2.) Unbelief ſays of our ſpiritual enemies, as they did of the ſons of Anak, they are too mighty for us.

2. Caleb riſes to contradict ſo falſe and diſhonourable a repreſentation, and to encourage the people immediately to go up and poſſeſs the land. He affirms they were well able, and well he might; 600,000 men, with Moſes at their head, what need they fear: but this is the leaſt of their ſtrength; God is in the midſt of them, his pillar leads the way, his power they have repeatedly experienced, miracles for their ſafety were common, and may be expected, when aſſurances of their victory from God have been ſo repeatedly given, and Canaan promiſed to be their poſſeſſion. Note, (1.) Zeal for God dares every danger. (2.) Faith makes men confident of ſucceſs; though earth and hell, and all the powers of both, conſpire againſt the believing ſoul, to obſtruct his way to heaven, he goes on in the ſtrength of the Lord, and the power of his might, conquering and to conquer.

CHAP. XIV.

Here is, 1. The rebellion of Iſrael againſt God, upon the report of the evil ſpies, ver. 1—4. 2. The fruitleſs endeavour of Moſes and Aaron, Caleb and Joſhua, to ſtill the tumult, ver. 5—10. 3. Their utter ruin juſtly threatned by an offended God, ver. 11, 12. 4. The humble interceſſion of Moſes for them, ver. 13—19. 5. A mitigation of the ſentence, ver. 20—35. 6. The preſent death of the evil ſpies, ver. 36—39. 7. The rebuke given to them who attempted to go forward notwithſtanding, ver. 40—45. And this is written for our admonition, that we fall not after the ſame example of unbelief.

1. AND all the congregation lifted up their voice, and cried; and the people wept that night. 2. And all the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron: and the whole congregation ſaid unto them, Would God that we had died in the land of Egypt, or [a] would God we had died in this wilderneſs. 3. And wherefore hath the LORD brought us unto this land, to fall by the ſword, that our wives, and our children ſhould be a prey? were it not better for us to return into Egypt? 4. And they ſaid one to another, Let us make a captain, and [b] let us return into Egypt.

[a] See Ver. 28, 29.
[b] Deut. xvii. 16.

v. 1—4. Diſcontent now ſpreads through the camp, every face gathers blackneſs, deſpair ſunk the courage of the hoſt, and unmanly tears beſpoke their coward terrors. The bittereſt ſorrows the heart knows are often thoſe we make ourſelves, without cauſe or reaſon. They clamour loud againſt Moſes and Aaron, and wiſh they had died in Egypt or the wilderneſs, rather than be reduced to their imaginary diſtreſſes; and, as the devil's power is then confirmed, when he can ſuggeſt hard thoughts of God, they charge that gracious Jehovah, who had fed and preſerved them ſo long and ſo richly, with the moſt horrid deſign of deceiving and deſtroying them. At laſt they fix the deſperate deſign of returning to Egypt, and reſolve to chuſe a captain, perhaps actually did ſo, in order to head their mutiny, and lead them back to that land of bondage! The purpoſe was folly, the attempt madneſs. How ſhould they return when God had left them, without proviſion or a guide? And what could they hope in Egypt but a repetition of miſery, to which death itſelf were preferable? Note, (1.) The headſtrong and unmortified paſſions of ſinners hurry them on to their ruin. (2.) They who are diſcontented under God's providences, and reſolve to mend themſelves, will ever make bad worſe. (3.) How much need have we to fear, leaſt after ſuffering many toils, we ſtart like Iſrael at new difficulties, turn back and walk no more with Jeſus! Dreadful ſtate of apoſtacy! attended with certain and eternal perdition.

5. Then [c] Moſes and Aaron fell on their faces before all the aſſembly of the congregation of the children of Iſrael. 6. ¶ And Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, which were of them that ſearched the land, rent their clothes. 7. And they ſpake unto all the company of the children of Iſrael, ſaying, [d] The land which we paſſed through to ſearch it, is an exceeding good land. 8. If the LORD delight in us, then he will bring us into this land, and give it us; a land which floweth with milk and honey. 9. Only rebel not ye againſt the LORD, [e] neither fear ye the people of the land; for they are bread for us: their † defence is departed from them, and the LORD is with us: fear them not. 10. But all the congregation bade ſtone them with ſtones: and [f] the glory of the LORD appeared in the tabernacle of the congregation, before all the children of Iſrael, [c] Chap. xvi. 4.

[d] Chap. xiii. 27.
[e] Deut. xx. 3.
† Heb. ſhaddow.
[f] Exod. xxiv. 16, 17. & xl. 34. Lev. ix. 23. Chap. xvi. 19, 42. & xx. 6.

v. 5—10. Vain is every attempt to ſtay thoſe who are bent on their own ruin.

1. Moſes and Aaron fall upon their faces, either amazed at their mad procedure, and intreating them to deſiſt, or rather, conſcious of their great ſin, to ſupplicate God's patience and continuance of the mercies which they had forfeited. None know the deep concern which miniſters feel, when they ſee immortal ſouls ruſh headlong to their deſtruction. Caleb and Joſhua ſecond their prayers, with every forcible argument. With indignation at their baſeneſs, and grief for their rebellion, they rend their clothes, entreat them to conſider, declare the falſity of the report, and the unreaſonableneſs of their fears. 1. The land is a good land, exceeding good. 2. The people were nothing ſo formidable as apprehended, their defence was gone, as forſaken of God, and they might eat them up as bread. 3. God was their helper; if their enemies were ten times as numerous or ſtrong, they need not fear, when ſtrengthened by the arms of Omnipotence. Nothing was to be feared but their own rebellious ſpirits, that would ſtay the current of his mercies to them. Note, (1.) The moment God leaves a ſinner, he is an eaſy prey to every invader. (2.) With God's preſence and favour we never need fear. (3.) The ſoul that is loſt will have none to blame but his own rebellious ſelf.

2. Deaf to every remonſtrance, inſtead of taking their advice, the rulers of the congregation bid the people ſtone theſe faithful witneſſes. Truth is moſt exaſperating to thoſe who hate to be reformed; and they who will be faithful muſt often put their lives in their hands.

3. God appears to confound ſuch a daring deed of wickedneſs, and to reſcue his ſervants. They who dare to be zealous for God, may ſafely truſt him to ſave them from the madneſs of the people,

11. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, How long will this people provoke me? and how long will it be ere they believe me, for all the ſigns which I have ſhewed among them? 12. I will ſmite them with the peſtilence, and diſinherit them, and [g] will make of thee a greater nation and mightier than they. 13. ¶ And [h] Moſes ſaid unto the LORD, Then the Egyptians ſhall hear it (for thou broughteſt up this people in thy might from among them), 14. And they will tell it to the inhabitants of this land: [i] for they have heard that thou LORD art among this people, that thou LORD art ſeen face to face, and that [k] thy cloud ſtandeth over them, and that thou goeſt before them, by day-time in a pillar of a cloud, and in a pillar of fire by night. 15. Now if thou ſhalt kill all this people as one man; then the nations

[g] Exod. xxxii. 10.
[h] Ibid. 12. Deut. xxxii. 27.
[i] Exod. xv. 14. Joſh. ii. 9. & v. 1.
[k] Exod. xiii. 21. & xl. 38.

Before Chriſt 1490.

tions which have heard the fame of thee, will ſpeak, ſaying, 16. Becauſe [l] the LORD was not able to bring this people into the land which he ſware unto them, therefore he hath ſlain them in the wilderneſs. 17. And now I beſeech thee, let the power of my LORD be great, according as thou haſt ſpoken, ſaying, 18. [m] The LORD is long-ſuffering, and of great mercy, forgiving iniquity and tranſgreſſion, and by no means clearing the guilty, [n] viſiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation. 19. Pardon, I beſeech thee, the iniquity of this people, according unto the greatneſs of thy mercy, and as thou haſt forgiven this people, from Egypt, even † until now.

[l] Deut. ix. 28.
[m] Exod. xxxiv 6. Pſ. ciii. 8. & cxlv. 8. Jonah iv. 2.
[n] Exod. xx. 5. & xxxiv. 7.
† Or, hitherto.

v. 11—19. Juſtly diſpleaſed at ſo rebellious a people, God riſes out of his place for judgment.

1. He ſpeaks to Moſes, whom they had deſpiſed. For however men reproach them, thoſe who honour him he will honour. 1. God upbraids their unbelief: this was the root of bitterneſs from whence all the evil ſprung. Note, Unbelief is amongſt the greateſt ſins, and the cauſe of all others; their perſeverance in it was ſtill more provoking, after all the interpoſitions they had experienced. It is exceeding ſinful in the people of God, after experience of his mercies, to diſtruſt his faithfulneſs, and he will require it at their hands. 2. God threatens to conſume and diſinherit them, and offers in their ſtead to raiſe up children of the promiſe from Moſes's loins. In judgment God will not forget his promiſes, but 'tis juſt to deprive thoſe of the bleſſings, who undervalue and deſpiſe them.

2. Moſes, as uſual, turns advocate for the people. He was a true patriot, and preferred Iſrael's good to his private concerns. His prayer is abrupt and urgent, as one who expected immediate wrath to break forth. 1. He pleads the honour of God. The eyes of the neighbouring nations were upon them, particularly Egypt and Canaan, who, if they were deſtroyed, would take occaſion to reproach God's power and faithfulneſs. Note, (1.) God's honour is near the heart of every Iſraelite. (2.) No plea in prayer ſo prevailing as God's own glory. (3.) The eyes of the world are intent upon the people of God, and glad to find any occaſion to blaſpheme. 2. He urges God's proclamation in Horeb. His power to ſave, and grace to pardon to the uttermoſt, have now opportunity to be diſplayed; and never could he ſo wonderfully ſhew his patience and long-ſuffering as on the preſent occaſion. 'Tis good approaching God with his own word of promiſe, and we may well hope then our prayers will ſucceed. 3. He prays importunately for pardon, according to the paſt experience of his mercies. Though their ſin was aggravated by their ungrateful returns of theſe mercies, yet God would be more glorified in ſhewing, that where ſin abounded there ſhall grace much more abound. Oh what a God have we to do with, who, after the deepeſt and repeated provocations, may yet be applied to; and, deſperate as our caſe may ſeem, there is yet hope in his mercy.

20. And the LORD ſaid, I have pardoned according to thy word: 21. But as truly as I live, all the earth ſhall be filled with the glory of the LORD. 22. [o] Becauſe all thoſe men which have ſeen my glory, and my miracles which I did in Egypt, and in the wilderneſs, and have tempted me now theſe ten times, and have not hearkened to my voice; 23. [p] † Surely they ſhall not ſee the land which I ſware unto their fathers, neither ſhall any of them that provoked me, ſee it: 24. But my ſervant [q] Caleb, becauſe he had another ſpirit with him, and hath [r] followed me fully; him will I bring into the land whereinto he went; and his ſeed ſhall poſſeſs it. 25. (Now the Amalekites, and the Canaanites dwelt in the valley) To-morrow turn you, and [s] get you into the wilderneſs, by the way of the Red-ſea. 26. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying, 27. How long ſhall I bear with this evil congregation, which murmur againſt me? I have heard the murmurings of the children of Iſrael, which they murmur againſt me. 28. Say unto them, [t] As truly as I live, ſaith the LORD, [u] as ye have ſpoken in mine ears, ſo will I do to you. 29. Your carcaſes ſhall fall in this wilderneſs; and all that were numbered of you, according to your whole number, from twenty years old and upward, which have murmured againſt me. 30. Doubtleſs ye ſhall not come into the land concerning which I ‡ ſware to make you dwell therein, ſave Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun. 31. But your little ones, which ye ſaid ſhould be a prey, them will I bring in, and they ſhall know the land which ye have deſpiſed. 32. But as for you, your carcaſes they ſhall fall in this wilderneſs. 33. And your children ſhall § wander in the wilderneſs [x] forty years, and bear your whoredoms, until your carcaſes be waſted in the wilderneſs. 34. [y] After the number of the days in which ye ſearched the land, even forty days (each day for a year) ſhall ye bear your iniquities, even [z] forty years, and ye ſhall know ‖ my breach of promiſe. 35. I the LORD have ſaid, I will ſurely do it unto all this evil congregation, that are gathered together againſt me: in this wilderneſs they ſhall be conſumed, and there they ſhall die.

[o] Deut. i. 35. Pſ. xcv. 11. & cvi. 26. Heb. iii. 17.
[p] Chap. xxxii. 11.
† Heb. If they ſee the land.
[q] Joſh. xiv. 6, 8, 9, 14.
[r] Chap. xxxii. 12.
[s] Deut. i. 40.
[t] Chap. xxvi. 65. & xxxii. 11. Deut. i. 35. Heb. iii. 17.
[u] See Ver. 2.
‡ Heb. lifted up my hand.
§ Or, feed.
[x] See Deut. ii. 14.
[y] Chap. xiii. 25.
[z] Pſ. xcv. 10. Ezek. iv. 6.
‖ Or, Altering of my purpoſe.

v. 20—35. Fixed is the dread decree! Judgment muſt proceed, but mingled with mercy. They ſhall not be conſumed, in an inſtant, as they deſerved, yet ſhall they never poſſeſs the land they have deſpiſed.

1. God's glory ſhall be manifeſted in pardoning and ſparing them at Moſes' interceſſion, yet in ſuch a way, as that his diſpleaſure againſt ſin ſhall appear in the moſt awful colours. Note, (1.) Great is the effect of fervent prayer. (2.) God will take care, even in his mercy to the ſinner, to ſhew his indignation againſt ſin.

2. The ſentence of excluſion from Canaan goes forth againſt them; the men of war ſhall all die in the wilderneſs. They wiſhed it, and the wiſh is granted: during forty years they are, by degrees, to be conſumed in their wanderings; a puniſhment leſs than their iniquities deſerved, after having tempted, provoked God, and murmured ſo repeatedly, and this in the face of the daily miracles wrought for them. Note, (1.) God minutes our provocations, and he will viſit for them. (2.) Repeated backſliding is very aggravated guilt.

3. God commands them to retire. They would, and they ſhall. The Amalekites they feared are ready to fall on them; and now, as God will not help them, they are indeed an unequal match. Unbelieving fears are juſtly puniſhed, by the infliction of the dreaded evil.

4. Forty years, (according to the days of their ſearching the land) they muſt bear their iniquities in the wilderneſs, where every hardſhip they endured ſhould remind them of the cauſe of it, and humble them under the reflection of their provocations which occaſioned theſe viſitations. Note, (1.) It is a great mercy that we have ſpace given us for repentance, and we need count thoſe ſufferings, mercies, which lead us thereunto. (2.) The afflictions of others for ſin ſhould be a warning to us to avoid their tranſgreſſions, that we may not ſhare in their plagues.

5. Mercy is promiſed to Caleb and Joſhua. They were men of another ſpirit, and as they approved their fidelity by fully following the Lord, he will reward them with ſingular favour, by bringing them into the land. Note, (1.) God's people are men of a different ſpirit from the world around them, and from what themſelves were in their unconverted ſtate. (2.) Their hearts fully cleave to the Lord; they have no allowed guile, and ſeek in ſimplicity to know and obey God's will. (3.) Theſe, however reviled and rejected of men, ſhall find that God will amply recompence them, by an inheritance incorruptible, reſerved for them in heaven.

6. The children who are young, and not ſuppoſed to join in their parents ſin, are ſpared; they ſhall ſee the promiſe fulfilled; and though their unbelieving fathers ſaid they would be a prey, themſelves ſhall ſeize the prey, and ſpoil theſe dreaded enemies. Note, If the children bear the iniquity of their fathers, 'tis only becauſe they follow their ſins; if, warned by their puniſhment, they avoid their evil ways, mercy ſhall compaſs them about on every ſide.

36. And the men which Moſes ſent to ſearch the land, who returned, and made all the congregation to murmur againſt him, by bringing up a ſlander upon the land; 37. Even thoſe men that did bring up the evil report upon the land, [a] died by the plague before the LORD. 38. [b] But Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, which were of the men that went to ſearch the land, lived ſtill. 39. And Moſes told theſe ſayings unto all the children of Iſrael: and the people mourned greatly. 40. ¶ And they roſe up early in the morning, and gat them up into the top of the mountain, ſaying, Lo, [c] we be here, and will go up unto the place which the LORD hath promiſed: for we have ſinned. 41. And Moſes ſaid, Wherefore now do [d] you tranſgreſs the commandment of the LORD? but it ſhall not proſper. 42. [e] Go not up, for the LORD is not among you; that ye be not ſmitten before your enemies. 43. For the Amalekites, and the Canaanites are there before you; and ye ſhall fall by the ſword: becauſe ye are turned away from the LORD; therefore the LORD will not be with you. 44. But they preſumed to go up unto the hill

[a] 1 Cor. x. 10. Heb. iii. 17. Jude 5.
[b] Chap. xxvi. 65.
[c] Deut. i. 41.
[d] Ver. 25.
[e] Deut. i. 43.

Before Chriſt 1490.

hill-top: nevertheleſs, the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and Moſes, departed not out of the camp. 45. Then the Amalekites came down, and the Canaanites which dwelt in that hill, and ſmote them, and [f] diſcomfited them, even unto [g] Hormah.

[f] Deut. i. 44.
[g] Chap. xxi. 3. Judg. i. 17.

v. 36—45. God begins to execute his decree,

1. Upon the ten men who were the principals in the mutiny; they were ſtruck immediately dead, as they ſtood before the Lord. Note, (1.) Ringleaders in ſin, ſhall be firſt and deepeſt in ſuffering. (2.) It is amongſt the greateſt of ſins, to miſrepreſent the good ways of the Lord, and to ſeek to prejudice the minds of men againſt them, as melancholy, or impracticable. (3.) The miniſter that miſleads the ſouls of ſinners, ſhall be accountable for their blood. Caleb and Joſhua are ſpared, a living proof of the truth they ſpoke, and a preſent aſſurance of the favour God would ſhew them hereafter. None ever loſt in the end by their fidelity to him.

2. Moſes acquaints the people with God's decree, and deeply they appear affected, but it is irreverſible. Note, (1.) Many mourn for their puniſhments, who do not mourn for their ſins. (2.) In hell, the ſinner's ſorrow will neither aſſwage his torment, nor reverſe his ſentence.

3. They reſolve, contrary to Moſes' injunctions, to go up; they would not go at God's bidding; it is at their peril now if they attempt it. Note, When the day of grace is over, it is too late to ſtrive.

4. They proceed, and are routed. God was not with them, and if he leave us, we are weak indeed. The ſentence pronounced againſt them, the ſword of their enemies thus begins to fulfill. Note, (1.) God's counſel will ſtand, in ſpite of every effort to defeat it. (2.) We can only hope to have the neck of our ſpiritual enemies, when we have ſecured God for our friend.

CHAP. XV.

In this chapter inſtructions are given about the ſacrifices and oblations, 1. The law concerning the meat-offerings and drink-offerings, ver. 1—12. both for Iſraelites and for ſtrangers, ver. 13—16. and a law concerning the heave-offerings of the firſt of their dough, ver. 17—21. 2. The law concerning ſacrifices for ſins of ignorance, ver. 22—29. 3. The puniſhment of preſumptuous ſins, ver. 30, 31. and an inſtance given in the ſabbath-breaker, ver. 32—36. 4. A law concerning fringes, for memorandums upon the borders of their garments, ver. 37—41.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. [a] Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye be come into the land of your habitations, which I give unto you, 3. And will make an offering by fire unto the LORD, a burnt-offering, or a ſacrifice [b] in † performing a vow, or in a free-will offering, or [c] in your ſolemn feaſts, to make a [d] ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, of the herd, or of the flock: 4. [e] Then ſhall he that offereth his offering unto the LORD, bring [f] a meat-offering of a tenth-deal of flour, mingled [g] with the fourth part of an hin of oil. 5. And the fourth part of an hin of wine for a drink-offering ſhalt thou prepare, with the burnt-offering, or ſacrifice, for one lamb. 6. Or for a ram, thou ſhalt prepare for a meat-offering, two tenth-deals of flour mingled with the third part of an hin of oil. 7. And for a drink-offering, thou ſhalt offer the third part of an hin of wine, for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD. 8. And when thou prepareſt a bullock for a burnt-offering, or for a ſacrifice in performing a vow, or [h] peace-offerings unto the LORD: 9. Then ſhall he bring with a bullock a meat-offering of three tenth-deals of flour mingled with half an hin of oil. 10. And thou ſhalt bring for a drink-offering half an hin of wine, for an offering made by fire [i] of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD. 11. Thus ſhall it be done for one bullock, or for one ram, or for a lamb, or a kid. 12. According to the number that ye ſhall prepare, ſo ſhall ye do to every one, according to their number. 13. All that are born of the country, ſhall do theſe things after this manner, in offering an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD. 14. And if a ſtranger ſojourn with you, or whoſoever be among you in your generations, and will offer an offering made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD: as ye do, ſo he ſhall do. 15. [k] One ordinance ſhall be both for you of the congregation, and alſo for the ſtranger that ſojourneth with you, an ordinance for ever in your generations: as ye are, ſo ſhall the ſtranger be before the LORD. 16. One law, and one manner ſhall be for you, and for the ſtranger that ſojourneth with you. 17. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 18. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye come into the land whither I bring you, 19. Then it ſhall be, that when ye eat of the bread of the land, ye ſhall offer up an heave-offering unto the LORD. 20. Ye ſhall offer up a cake of the firſt of your dough, for an heave-offering: as ye do [l] the heave-offering of the threſhing-floor, ſo ſhall ye heave it. 21. Of the firſt of your dough ye ſhall give unto the LORD, an heave-offering in your generations.

[a] Lev. xxiii. 10.
[b] Ibid. vii. 16. & xxii. 18, 21.
† Heb. Separating.
[c] Lev. xxiii. 8, 12, 36. Chap. xxviii. 16, 27. & xxix. 2, 8, 13. Deut. xvi. 10.
[d] Exod. xxix. 18.
[e] Lev. ii. 1. & vi. 14.
[f] Exod. xxix. 40. Lev. xxiii. 13.
[g] Ibid. xiv. 10.
[h] Ibid. vii. 11.
[i] Ecclus l. 15.
[k] Exod. xii. 49. Chap. ix. 14.
[l] Lev. ii. 14. & xxiii. 10, 16.

v. 1.—21. God had ſpared them at Moſes' requeſt, and in the opening of this chapter, intimates his fixed purpoſe of bringing them into the land of Canaan, which even all their rebellions ſhall not prevent. He here preſcribes the offerings hereafter to be made at his altar, as the ſacrifices had been enjoined before.

1. Meat-offerings and drink-offerings muſt accompany every ſacrifice: for a lamb, about three quarts of flour, a quart and half a pint of oil, and the like quantity of wine; and for the larger beaſts, proportionably, v. 6—10. As the prieſts proviſion was to ariſe from the altar, they had thus a table furniſhed richly. Note, They who miniſter before the Lord, deſerve a liberal maintenance.

2. In the things of God, there was to be no difference between an Iſraelite and a ſtranger; hereby they were invited to communion with God's altar, and an intimation given, that not the ſeed of Abraham's loins, ſo much as the children of his faith, were accepted of God. In Chriſt Jeſus there is no difference of nation, ſex, or perſon: all who come to him, ſhall be in no wiſe caſt out: every partition-wall is now thrown down, and whoſoever will, let him come, and take of the water of life freely.

3. Though now they were fed with manna, God intended to give them by and by the corn of Canaan; and they are commanded to offer, from the firſt corn which was threſhed and ground, a portion of dough, as an acknowledgment of God's right, in all they enjoyed, and this was appropriated for the uſe of the prieſt's family. Our daily bread is God's gift, and we may then expect, when we break a portion of it to the hungry, that his bleſſing will be on the remainder.

22. ¶ [m] And if ye have erred, and not obſerved all theſe commandments which the LORD hath ſpoken unto Moſes, 23. Even all that the LORD hath commanded you by the hand of Moſes, from the day that the LORD commanded Moſes, and henceforward among your generations: 24. Then it ſhall be, if ought be committed by ignorance, † without the knowledge of the congregation; that all the congregation ſhall offer one young bullock for a burnt-offering, for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, with his meat-offering, and his drink-offering, according to the ‡ manner, and one kid of the goats for a ſin-offering. 25. And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, and it ſhall be forgiven them, for it is ignorance: and they ſhall bring their offering, a ſacrifice made by fire unto the LORD, and their ſin-offering before the LORD for their ignorance. 26. And it ſhall be forgiven all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, and the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them; ſeeing all the people were in ignorance. 27. ¶ [n] And if any ſoul ſin through ignorance, then he ſhall bring a ſhe-goat of the firſt year for a ſin-offering. 28. And the prieſt ſhall make an atonement for the ſoul that ſinneth ignorantly, when he ſinneth by ignorance before the LORD, to make an atonement for him; and it ſhall be forgiven him. 29. You ſhall have one law for him that † ſinneth through ignorance, both for him that is born amongſt the children of Iſrael, and for the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them.

[m] Lev. iv. 2.
† Heb. From the eyes, &c.
‡ Or ordinance.
[n] Lev. iv. 27.
† Heb. Doth.

v. 22—29. We have the ſacrifices for ſins of ignorance, 1. Of the whole congregation; this was more largely treated before, Lev. iv. 13. only a kid for a ſin-offering is here added. 2. Of a private perſon. Sin muſt be atoned for, or it would deſtroy us. The blood of Chriſt cleanſeth from all ſin, not only from thoſe which we feel and lament, but thoſe that through our blindneſs we cannot ſee. Indeed, who can underſtand all his errors: Lord, cleanſe thou me from my ſecret faults.

30. ¶ But [o] the ſoul that doeth ought † preſumptuouſly (whether he be born in the land, or a ſtranger) the ſame reproacheth the LORD; and that ſoul ſhall be cut off from among his people. 31. Becauſe he hath deſ-

[o] Deut. xvii. 12.
† Heb. With an high hand.

Before Chriſt 1490.

piſed the word of the LORD, and hath broken his commandment; that ſoul ſhall utterly be cut off: his iniquity ſhall be upon him. 32. And while the children of Iſrael were in the wilderneſs, [p] they found a man that gathered ſticks upon the ſabbath-day. 33. And they that found him gathering ſticks, brought him unto Moſes and Aaron, and unto all the congregation. 34. And [q] they put him in ward, becauſe it was not declared what ſhould be done to him. 35. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, [r] the man ſhall ſurely be put to death: all the congregation ſhall ſtone him with ſtones without the camp. 36. And all the congregation brought him without the camp, and ſtoned him with ſtones, and he died; as the LORD commanded Moſes.

[p] Exod. xxxv. 2, 3.

[q] Lev. xxiv. 12.

[r] Exod. xxxi. 14.

v. 30—36. Though ſins of ignorance admitted of ſacrifices, preſumptuous ſins were excluded from the benefit of them.

1. The nature and puniſhment of preſumptuous ſin. It is not every ſin, which is the preſumptuous ſin; we may tranſgreſs againſt our better knowledge, or the remonſtrances of our conſcience; yet without that inſolent contempt and defiance of God, which conſtitutes the character of the preſumptuous ſinner. Every ſin is deeply dangerous, but when a hardened heart denies God's truth, quarrels with God's juſtice, mocks at God's threatnings, rejects his government, and caſts off his fear, then the ſtate is deſperate indeed, and puniſhment certain and dreadful enſues. As there remains no ſacrifice for ſuch ſinners, the wrath of God muſt for ever abide upon them. Who need not hear and fear, and pray, keep thy ſervant from preſumptuous ſins!

2. A preſumptuous ſabbath-breaker is detected, and ſuffers. He was, in contempt of the Divine authority, gathering ſticks to light a fire, which God had expreſsly forbid. He is brought before the rulers, and as the caſe was without precedent, is put in ward, till God determines what death he ſhould die: his ſentence is pronounced, and in conſequence of it, he is ſtoned. Note, Wilful profanation of God's ſabbaths is a great crime; if magiſtrates are ſlack to puniſh it, God is a jealous God, and will in no wiſe ſpare the guilty.

37. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 38. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and bid them that [s] they make them fringes in the borders of their garments, throughout their generations, and that they put upon the fringe of the borders a ribband of blue. 39. And it ſhall be unto you for a fringe, that ye may look upon it, and remember all the commandments of the LORD, and do them: and that [t] ye ſeek not after your own heart, and your own eyes, after which ye uſe to [u] go a whoring: 40. That ye may remember, and do all my commandments, and be holy unto your God. 41. I am the LORD your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt to be your God: I am the LORD your God.

[s] Deut. xxii. 12. Mat. xxiii. 5.

[t] See Deut. xxix. 19. Job xxxi. 7. Ezek. vi. 7.

[u] Pſal. lxxiii. 27. Jam. iv. 4.

37—41. The Jews were God's peculiar people; their very dreſs muſt be different from the nations around them. God orders them to wear fringes at the four corners of their garments, not ſo much for ornament as uſe, to remind them continually, which ever way they looked, of the obligation they were under to obey God's commandment. Note, (1.) When the manners of the world in dreſs are extravagant, or indecent, it becomes the people of God to be ſingular. (2.) Our cloaths, inſtead of miniſtring to pride, ſhould ever awaken our thankfulneſs, and lead us to God.

The concluſion of the chapter furniſhes the ſtrongeſt argument for their exact obedience and conformity to every injunction. Note, When God is our God, we ſhall not only count all his commandments right and good; but obedience to them will be as much our delight as our duty.

CHAP. XVI.

This chapter contains the rebellion of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram. 1. They contend for the prieſt-hood againſt Aaron, ver. 1—3. and Moſes reaſons with them, and appeals to God for a deciſion of the controverſy, ver. 4—11. 2. Dathan and Abiram quarrel with Moſes, and refuſe to obey his ſummons, which greatly grieves him, ver. 12—15. 3. When they aſſembled at the door of the tabernacle, God appears in wrath to conſume them, and Moſes and Aaron plead for the people, ver. 16—22. 4. The rebels ſlain, ver. 23—35. 5. Their cenſers preſerved, ver. 37—40. 6. A new inſurrection of the people, ver. 41—43. followed by a plague, ver. 45. but ſtayed at Aaron's interceſſion, ver. 46—50.

1. NOW [a] Korah, the ſon of Izhar, the ſon of Kohath, the ſon of Levi; and Dathan and Abiram the ſons of Eliab, and On the ſon of Peleth, ſons of Reuben, took men. 2. And they roſe up before Moſes, with certain of the children of Iſrael, two hundred and fifty princes of the aſſembly, [b] famous in the congregation, men of renown. 3. And [c] they gathered themſelves together againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron, and ſaid unto them, † Ye take too much upon you, ſeeing all the congregation are holy every one of them, and the LORD is among them: wherefore then lift you up yourſelves above the congregation of the LORD? 4. And when Moſes heard it, [d] he fell upon his face: 5. And he ſpake unto Korah, and unto all his company, ſaying, Even to-morrow the LORD will ſhew who are his, and who is holy; and will cauſe him to come near unto him: even him whom he hath choſen, will he cauſe to come near unto him. 6. This do; Take you cenſers, Korah, and all his company; 7. And put fire therein, and put incenſe in them before the LORD to-morrow: and it ſhall be that the man whom the LORD doth chooſe, he ſhall be holy: ye take too much upon you, ye ſons of Levi. 8. And Moſes ſaid unto Korah, Hear, I pray you, ye ſons of Levi: 9. Seemeth it but a ſmall thing unto you, that the God of Iſrael hath ſeparated you from the congregation of Iſrael, to bring you near to himſelf, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the LORD, and to ſtand before the congregation, to miniſter unto them: 10. And he hath brought thee near to him, and all thy brethren the ſons of Levi with thee: and ſeek ye the prieſthood alſo? 11. For which cauſe both thou, and all thy company are gathered together againſt the LORD: and what is Aaron, that ye murmur againſt him?

[a] Chap. xxvi. 9. & xxvii. 3. Ecclus xlv. 18. Jude 11.

Before Chriſt 1471.

[b] Chap. xxvi. 9.

[c] Pſal. cvi. 16.

† Heb. It is much for you.

[d] Chap. xiv. 5. & xx. 6.

v. 1—11. How dire are the conſequences of ambition! To this the greateſt ſtates, and moſt flouriſhing churches, may aſcribe their ruin. 1. The ringleader in this rebellion was Korah, a Levite, a near relation of Moſes and Aaron; yet conſumed with envy at the honour God had put on them, Dathan and Abiram, and On, of the tribe of Reuben, join him in their diſcontent, perhaps becauſe, though the eldeſt tribe, Judah was preferred before them, and quickly increaſe their party with two hundred and fifty princes of the aſſembly. The ſpirit of rebellion is a ſpreading evil. 2. The quarrel was Aaron's preferment to the prieſthood. They pretend, as equally holy, to have an equal right to it; and inſinuate, that Moſes and Aaron meant to aggrandize themſelves, though God had in ſuch an eſpecial manner called them to their office. Note, (1.) The beſt of characters cannot ſtand before envy. (2.) Ambitious ſtate or church reformers too often pretend they deſign to humble others, but mean in fact to exalt themſelves. 3. Moſes falls on his face in prayer, leaſt ſuch a mutiny ſhould ruin them, and through grief to hear ſuch an ungrateful accuſation. He appeals to God to decide the controverſy, and is ready to reſign up all his power into the hand that gave it: to-morrow the Lord ſhall chuſe whom he will have to ſerve him. Willing to prevent, however, an experiment which threatens to be ſo fatal to them, he expoſtulates with them, if they will hear expoſtulation, on the evil of their conduct. Many were the bleſſings and privileges enjoyed by Korah and his brethren. They were Levites, diſtinguiſhed by being ſet apart for God, honoured with the ſervice of the tabernacle, and permitted to draw nearer to God than others. Theſe peculiar diſtinctions ſhould ſurely have contented them, but pride is never ſatisfied; nothing ſufficeth them, whilſt the prieſthood is with-held: this was rebellion joined with ingratitude. It was not Aaron, but Aaron's God, againſt whom they had lift up their tongues. Note, (1.) Whoever are called to miniſter before the Lord, ſhould eſteem it a diſtinguiſhed privilege. (2.) Envy and ambition in miniſters, is doubly guilty. (3.) They who quarrel with the diſtinctions God hath made, are rebels againſt his government.

12. ¶ And Moſes ſent to call Dathan and Abiram, the ſons of Eliab: which ſaid, We will not come up. 13. Is it a ſmall thing that thou haſt brought us up out of a land that floweth with milk and honey, to kill us in the wilderneſs, except thou make thyſelf altogether a prince over us? 14. Moreover, thou haſt not brought us into a [e] land that floweth with milk and honey, or given us inheritance of fields and vineyards: wilt thou † put out the eyes of theſe men? we will not come up. 15. And Moſes was very wroth, and ſaid unto the LORD, [f] Reſpect not thou their offering: [g] I have not taken one aſs from them, neither have I hurt one of them. 16. And Moſes ſaid unto Korah, Be thou and all thy company before the LORD, thou, and they, and Aaron to-morrow: 17. And take every man his cenſer, and put incenſe in them, and bring ye before the LORD every [e] Exod. iii. 8. Lev. xx. 24.

† Heb. Bore out.

[f] Gen. iv. 4, 5.

[g] 1 Sam. xii. 3. Acts xx. 33. 2 Cor. vii. 2.

man his cenſer, two hundred and fifty cenſers; thou alſo and Aaron each of you his cenſer. 18. And they took every man his cenſer, and put fire in them, and laid incenſe thereon, and ſtood in the door of the tabernacle of the congregation with Moſes and Aaron. 19. And Korah gathered all the congregation againſt them, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation; and [h] the glory of the LORD appeared unto all the congregation. 20. And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying, [i] 21. Separate yourſelves from among this congregation, that I may conſume them in a moment. 22. And they fell upon their faces, and ſaid, O God, [k] the God of the ſpirits of all fleſh, ſhall one man ſin, and wilt thou be wroth with all the congregation?

[h] Exod. xvi. 7, 10. Lev. ix. 6, 23. Chap. xiv. 10.
[i] See Gen. xix 17, 22. Jer. li. 6. Rev. xviii. 4.
[k] Chap. xxvii. 16. Job xii. 10. Ecclus xii. 7. Iſa. lvii. 16. Zeck. xii. 1. Heb xii. 9.

v. 12—22. Dathan and Abiram, abettors of Korah, being ſummoned to attend, return an anſwer, inſolent as unjuſt. They charge Moſes as having brought them from plenty to periſh in the wilderneſs, as deceiving their hopes and expectations, and as deſigning to enſlave them. What infamous and invidious accuſations! Was Egypt ſuch a land of plenty? Were they out of Canaan, but through their own rebellion? And was not Moſes a father, rather than a maſter over them; from whoſe kind interpoſition alone it was that they were this day alive thus to malign him? Such returns of evil for good are the lot of holy men. The moſt zealous miniſters for the ſervice of men's ſouls, muſt expect to meet with the ſevereſt reproaches.

Indignation fired the heart of Moſes at ſuch baſe ingratitude to himſelf, but more to ſee them bent on their own deſtruction. He appeals to God for the uprightneſs of his conduct. He had ſerved them without reward, adminiſtered impartial juſtice, nor could his greateſt enemies ſupport a charge of the moſt minute injury received from him; and therefore begs God would himſelf manifeſt his approbation, and reject their impious offerings. Note, The greateſt comfort under all accuſations is the teſtimony of a good conſcience. The morrow is appointed for the deciſion of the controverſy: Moſes and Aaron offer to appear on a level with them, and let God chuſe whom he will have. Korah accepts the challenge, and wilfully blind to the awful judgments on Nadab and Abihu, reſolves to make the experiment. Thoſe whom God devotes to deſtruction, he gives up to the blindneſs and hardneſs of their hearts. The morning comes, and Korah, eager to make the trial, collects the congregation againſt Moſes (for it is too plain they ever ſided with the rebellious) and with his cenſer ready, in his own conceit, already triumphs. Thus ſuddenly is the impenitent ſinner hurled from the pinnacle of vain confidence, into the depths of eternal deſpair and torment.

God, as the judge, aſcends the throne of his glory in terrible Majeſty, to decide the controverſy. He bids Moſes and Aaron inſtantly ſeparate themſelves, that he might conſume the reſt in a moment: they who followed the rebels, are ready to ſhare in their ruin; ſo dangerous it is to have fellowſhip with ſinners. Moſes and Aaron, as faithful and tender paſtors, though ſo ill treated, fall down on their faces, importunate ſuitors for mercy on the people: an example to be imitated by every miniſter, every chriſtian, towards his bittereſt perſecutors. Their prayer is ſhort, but appoſite: they addreſs God, as the God of the ſpirits of all fleſh, and therefore acquainted with the ſecrets of all hearts, able to diſtinguiſh the deceiver from the deceived; and therefore beg him to paſs by the tranſgreſſion of the people, and let the vengeance light only on the ringleader of the rebellion. Note, There is a great difference between thoſe who ſin of malice, and thoſe who through weakneſs are drawn in to follow them.

23. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 24. Speak unto the congregation, ſaying, Get you up from about the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram. 25. And Moſes roſe up, and went unto Dathan, and Abiram; and the elders of Iſrael followed him. 26. And he ſpake unto the congregation, ſaying, [l] Depart, I pray you, from the tents of theſe wicked men, and touch nothing of theirs, leſt ye be conſumed in all their ſins. 27. So they gat up from the tabernacle of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram, on every ſide: and Dathan and Abiram came out, and ſtood in the door of their tents, and their wives, and their ſons, and their little children. 28. And Moſes ſaid, Hereby ye ſhall know that the LORD hath ſent me to do all theſe works: for I have not done them of mine own mind. 29. If theſe men die † the common death of all men, or if they be viſited after the viſitation of all men; then the LORD hath not ſent me. 30. But if the LORD ‡ make a new thing, and the earth open her mouth, and ſwallow them up, with all that appertain unto them, and they go down quick into the pit; then ye ſhall underſtand that theſe men have provoked the LORD. 31. ¶ [m] And it came to paſs, as he had made an end of ſpeaking all theſe words, that the ground clave aſunder that was under them: 32. And the earth opened her mouth, and ſwallowed them up, and their houſes, and [n] all the men that appertained unto Korah, and all their goods. 33. They and all that appertained to them went down alive into the pit, and the earth cloſed upon them: and they periſhed from among the congregation. 34. And all Iſrael that were round about them fled at the cry of them: for they ſaid, Leſt the earth ſwallow us up alſo.

[l] Iſa. lii. 11. 2 Cor. vi. 17. Rev. xviii. 4.
† Heb. As every man dieth.
‡ Heb. Create a creature.
[m] Chap. xxvi. 10. & xxvii. 3. Deut. xi. 6. Pſal. cvi. 17.
[n] See ver. 17. Chap. xxvi. 11. 1 Chron. vi. 22, 37.

v. 23—34. Moſes, at God's command, is enjoined to give the people warning. Some diſtinguiſhed tent had been reared, perhaps, for the conſultation of the rebel princes, and the people had gathered around them, whether as partiſans of their cauſe, or ſpectators of the iſſue. 1. Moſes immediately proceeds to execute his commiſſion; he ſeeks firſt to prevail on Dathan and Abiram themſelves to repent of their ſins, that they might prevent the approaching ruin; at leaſt, if they refuſed, to call upon thoſe who were about their tents to flee for their lives. The elders of Iſrael accompany him, to countenance his authority, and to enforce, by their preſence, the mandate he brought. Note, (1.) It becomes us to uſe every endearing method to ſave our bittereſt enemies from ruin. (2.) They who follow evil doers in their ways, are in danger of being conſumed with their plagues. (3.) We muſt hear the voice of God calling us to flee from the wrath to come, and ſave ourſelves from this untoward generation. 2. The people with haſte obeyed; gat themſelves up on every ſide, and removed their tents at a diſtance: fear of ruin is often the firſt ſtep to ſafety. 3. The rebels, incorrigibly audacious, with their families at their tent doors, ſeem to brave the divine threatning: they who thus refuſe to fear, will ſurely fall into miſchief. 4. The ſentence is pronounced, and Moſes appeals to its certain execution for the proof of his own divine miſſion. If theſe men die of natural diſeaſes, or age, or any death common to men, he would admit every accuſation as true; but if the earth opened, and ſwallowed them up alive, the evidence of his innocence and their guilt muſt be uncontroverted. 5. No ſooner ſpoken is the word, than done; a new unprecedented judgment overtakes them, the ground cleaves aſunder, alive they deſcend into the pit, their ſhrieks and cries are fruitleſs, the earth cloſes upon them, as groaning under their guilt, and weary of their blaſphemies. Note, (1.) It is of God's mercy we are not all conſumed, and that the earth doth not ſwallow up ſuch ſinners as we are. (2.) If men continue impenitent, the jaws of hell ſtand open to devour them, and if that pit ſhut her mouth upon them, then they periſh for ever. 6. Shocked at the fearful ſight, and terrified at their cries, the people fly ſtill farther from the dreadful ſcene, not without juſt apprehenſions, as they deſerved, of ſharing the like fate. Note, (1.) We are uſually much terrified at danger, and little at ſin; yet ſin is the moſt terrible part of every judgment. (2.) We ſhould do well to look down into the everlaſting burnings, and open our ears to the ſhrieks that fill the horrid caverns of Tophet; that, warned by others ſufferings, we come not into their place of torment.

35. And there came out a fire from the LORD, and conſumed the two hundred and fifty men that offered incenſe. 36. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 37. Speak unto Eleazar, the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, that he take up the cenſers out of the burning, and ſcatter thou the fire yonder; for [o] they are hallowed. 38. The cenſers of theſe ſinners againſt their own ſouls, let them make them broad plates for a covering of the altar: for they offered them before the LORD, therefore they are hallowed: and [p] they ſhall be a ſign unto the children of Iſrael. 39. And Eleazar the prieſt took the braſen cenſers, wherewith they that were burnt had offered; and they were made broad plates for a covering of the altar: 40. To be a memorial unto the children of Iſrael, [q] that no ſtranger, which is not of the ſeed of Aaron, come near to offer incenſe before the LORD; that he be not as Korah, and as his company: as the LORD ſaid to him by the hand of Moſes.

[o] See Lev. xxvii. 28.
[p] Chap. xxvi. 10.
[q] Ibid. iii. 10.

v. 35—40. When God begins, he will make an end; and a fearful thing it is to fall into his hands. We have here,

1. The judgment on the two hundred and fifty princes before the congregation, at the ſame time that the earth ſwallowed up their companions. They offered unhallowed fire, and a conſuming fire is ſtirred up round about them. Aſpiring, like Lucifer, to be higheſt, they ſuffer with him the juſt reward of their deeds. Note, None ever ſinned againſt God, and proſpered.

2. God orders Eleazar to ſcatter the fire which they had taken from the altar in their cenſers, and was hallowed, and of the cenſers to make a covering for the brazen altar; a conſtant warning to future generations to avoid their ſin, leaſt they ſhared their puniſhment. Note, (1.) God abhors the ſervices of the wicked, and the very prayers of the ſelf-righteous are as much an abomination as the incenſe of Korah. (2.) Monuments of vengeance are neceſſary and uſeful; that they who ſee and hear, may fear, and do no more wickedly.

41. ¶ But on the morrow all the congregation of the children of Iſrael murmured againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron, ſaying, Ye have killed the people of the LORD. 42. And it came to paſs when the congregation was gathered againſt Moſes, and againſt Aaron, that they looked toward the tabernacle of the congregation: and behold, the cloud covered it, and the glory of the LORD appeared. 43. And Moſes and Aaron came before the tabernacle of the congregation. 44. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 45. Get you up from among this congregation, that I may conſume them as in a moment: and [r] they fell upon their faces. 46. ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto Aaron, Take a cenſer, and put fire therein from off the altar, and put on incenſe, and go quickly unto the congregation, and make an atonement for them: [s] for there is wrath gone out from the LORD; the plague is begun. 47. And Aaron took as Moſes commanded, and ran into the midſt of the congregation; and behold, the plague was begun among the people: and he put on incenſe, and made an atonement for the people. 48. And he ſtood between the dead and the living, and the plague was ſtayed. 49. Now they that died in the plague were fourteen thouſand and ſeven hundred, beſides them that died about the matter of Korah. 50. And Aaron returned unto Moſes, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation: and the plague was ſtayed.

[r] Chap. xx. 6.

[s] Ibid. viii. 19.

v. 41—50. How ineffectual are the ſevereſt judgments to change the heart! Were a ſinner dragged through the belly of hell, and brought to earth again, his fears would be quickly forgotten, and he would return as a dog to his vomit. Nothing but Almighty Grace can work an abiding change.

1. The very next day the people rebelled, and made this ſtroke of God a plea of accuſation againſt Moſes and Aaron. Aſtoniſhing perverſeneſs! They who but yeſterday heard the cries of their periſhing brethren, to-day renew their provocations, nay add to them; they call the rebels the people of the Lord, and charge Moſes and Aaron as their murderers. Thus the beſt of men will find themſelves often expoſed to the moſt malignant miſrepreſentations.

2. God's glory appears, to reſcue his ſervants from the violence of the wicked, and to execute condign puniſhment on ſuch incorrigible offenders. Moſes and Aaron with confidence approach the Lord, aſſured of his protection; and, as they no doubt expected, hear the dire threatning of a juſtly offended God, ready to conſume ſuch a rebel race. Note, They need not fear the congregation of the wicked, who are ſafe under the ſhadow of the Almighty.

3. Moſes and Aaron, never wanting in the expreſſion of tendereſt regard for Iſrael, renew their ſupplications; and as the plague ſuddenly began its ravages among the people, Aaron haſtes to make atonement for them; and, with his burning cenſer, ſtands between the living and the dead. God accepted their prayer and incenſe, and the plague was ſtayed. Learn, (1.) That no provocations ſhould reſtrain us from flying to the relief of thoſe whom we can help or ſave. (2.) A faithful miniſter of Chriſt, whenever his duty calls, is ready to expoſe his life for the ſervice of the people. (3.) Aaron was herein a type of Chriſt: he ſtayed the devouring plague, by the interpoſition of his own body on the tree, and ſaved his choſen from ſinking in the common deſolation.

4. Great havock had been made in a ſhort moment; no leſs than fourteen thouſand and ſeven hundred periſhed, and a mercy it was that any eſcaped: but God delighteth not in the death of a ſinner. Let us fear to offend him, for his wrath is terrible; and let the views of his amazing patience and pardons engage our hearts to return to him with humble ſhame for paſt offences, and renewed purpoſes of obedience for the future.

CHAP. XVII.

To prevent, if poſſible, any future conteſt about the prieſthood, God condeſcends to inſtitute a perpetual memorial of his appointment of Aaron. 1. He enjoins each of the twelve princes to bring a rod, ver. 1—7. 2. Aaron's miraculouſly bloſſoms, ver. 8, 9. 3. The rod is preſerved for a memorial, ver. 10, 11. 4. The people acquieſce in the deciſion, ver. 12, 13.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and take of every one of them a rod, according to the houſe of their fathers, of all their princes, according to the houſe of their fathers, twelve rods: write thou every man's name upon his rod. 3. And thou ſhalt write Aaron's name upon the rod of Levi: for one rod ſhall be for the head of the houſe of their fathers. 4. And thou ſhalt lay them up in the tabernacle of the congregation before the teſtimony, [a] where I will meet with you. 5. And it ſhall come to paſs, that the man's rod [b] whom I ſhall chooſe, ſhall bloſſom: and I will make to ceaſe from me the murmurings of the children of Iſrael, whereby they murmur againſt you. 6. And Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, and every one of their princes gave him † a rod apiece, for each prince one, according to their fathers houſes, even twelve rods: and the rod of Aaron was among their rods. 7. And Moſes laid up the rods before the LORD, in the tabernacle of witneſs.

[a] Exod. xxv. 22.

[b] Chap. xvi. 5.

† Heb. A rod for one prince, a rod for one prince.

v. 1—7. God is graciouſly pleaſed to make uſe of every means to ſatisfy the people, and to engage them to ſubmit to his ordinances. Many ſought the prieſthood, but it is to be feared, as now, more for the advantage attending it, than out of love to the ſervice: but God will chuſe for himſelf; and without a divine call, intruſion, as we have ſeen, is fearfully dangerous. Twelve rods of almond, ſuch as the princes bore, as enſigns of authority, are ordered, each man's name inſcribed or bound on his own rod, according to his tribe, and Aaron's in the midſt of them. Theſe together are laid up before the ark one night, and God's choice is before declared to fall on the man whoſe rod ſhall bloſſom. Note, Nothing ſo deſirable, as the prevention of all diſputes and ſtrifes among the people of God.

8. And it came to paſs that on the morrow Moſes went into the tabernacle of witneſs: and behold, the rod of Aaron for the houſe of Levi was budded, and brought forth buds, and bloomed bloſſoms, and yielded almonds. 9. And Moſes brought out all the rods from before the LORD, unto all the children of Iſrael: and they looked, and took every man his rod. 10. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Bring [c] Aaron's rod again, before the teſtimony, to be kept for a token againſt the † rebels; and thou ſhalt quite take away their murmurings from me, that they die not. 11. And Moſes did ſo: as the LORD commanded him, ſo did he. 12. And the children of Iſrael ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, Behold, we die, we periſh, we all periſh. 13. Whoſoever cometh any thing near unto the tabernacle of the LORD, ſhall die: ſhall we be conſumed with dying?

[c] Heb. ix. 4.

† Heb. Children of rebellion.

v. 8—13. On the morrow the rods are produced, and a new miracle confirms God's appointment of Aaron.

1. His rod alone was teeming with life; fruit, leaves, and bloſſoms all adorn it; thus every ſuſpicion of fraud in Moſes is removed, and Aaron's office confirmed to him. Note, (1.) They bring forth fruit abundantly, whom God hath called and choſen. (2.) Thoſe whom Chriſt ordains and ſends to his work, he will bleſs. To ſee no ſouls quickened and converted by our miniſtry, would be a ſhrewd proof that we have not been ordained of God.

2. Aaron's rod is laid up for a memorial; and if, as is probable, the bloſſoms, leaves, and fruit, continued unwithering, it ſerved as an abiding proof of Aaron's choice, and a conſtant token againſt the paſt, as well as a guard againſt future rebellion. Note, The deſign of God in ſending his ſon, and in every diſpenſation of his grace or providence, is the ſalvation of his people, that they die not.

3. The people now convinced of their guilt, are ready to give up all for loſt; ſo apt are we to be ſwinging to extremes, and changing preſumption for deſpair. Trembling at the rod laid up againſt them, they reſolve not to come near the tabernacle of the Lord, or ever again challenge Aaron's place, leaſt death ſhould accompliſh the ruin which he had begun. Note, It is never too late to repent; happy for us, if by experience, we are convinced of the evil and danger of ſin, bow down before the chaſtening rod, and with jealouſy watch and pray, that we may never again return unto folly.

Before Chriſt about 1471.

CHAP. XVIII.

Aaron being now fully eſtabliſhed in the prieſthood, God repeats his former inſtructions. 1. What is his work, and who ſhould be his aſſiſtants, ver. 1—7. 2. His wages, and the Levites, 1. The perquiſites peculiar to the prieſt, ver. 8—19. 2. The ſettled maintenance of the Levites, ver. 20—24. 3. The portion which muſt be paid to the prieſts out of the Levites maintenance, ver. 25—32.

1. AND the LORD ſaid unto Aaron, Thou, and thy ſons, and thy father's houſe with thee, ſhall bear the iniquity of the ſanctuary: and thou and thy ſons with thee ſhall bear the iniquity of your prieſthood. 2. And thy brethren alſo of the tribe of Levi, the tribe of thy father, bring thou with thee, that they may be [a] joined unto thee, and [b] miniſter unto thee: but thou and thy ſons with thee ſhall miniſter before the tabernacle of witneſs. 3. And they ſhall keep thy charge, and [c] the charge of all the tabernacle: only they ſhall not come nigh the veſſels of the ſanctuary and the altar, that neither they, nor you alſo die. 4. And they ſhall be joined unto thee, and keep the charge of the tabernacle of the congregation, for all the ſervice of the tabernacle: and [d] a ſtranger ſhall not come nigh unto you. 5. And ye ſhall keep [e] the charge of the ſanctuary, and the charge of the altar; [f] that there be no wrath any more upon the children of Iſrael. 6. And I, behold, I have [g] taken your brethren the Levites from among the children of Iſrael: [h] to you they are given as a gift for the LORD, to do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation. 7. Therefore thou and thy ſons with thee, ſhall keep your prieſts office, for every thing of the altar, and within the vail, and ye ſhall ſerve: I have given your prieſts office unto you, as a ſervice of gift: and the ſtranger that cometh nigh ſhall be put to death.

a See Gen. xxix. 34.
b Chap. iii. 6, 7.
c Ibid. 25, 31, 36.
d Ibid. 10.
e Exod. xxvii. 21. & xxx. 7. Lev. xxiv. 3. Chap. viii. 2.
f Chap. xvi. 46.
g Chap. iii. 12, 45.
h Chap. iii. 9.

v. 1—7. Aaron is now confirmed in his miniſtry; a diſtinguiſhed honour is put upon him; but he is reminded of the danger and difficulty of his arduous employment, that proportionable watchfulneſs, diligence, and zeal, may appear. 1. The charge of the ſanctuary is entruſted to him, with the prieſts and Levites; and they are to be anſwerable to God for every neglect or tranſgreſſion, or miſtake in their miniſtrations. Note, The miniſtry is an awful charge. If one immortal ſoul periſhes through our ignorance or careleſsneſs, his blood will God require at our hands. How many undertake the care of ſouls, who have never weighed the ſolemn account they muſt one day make to God? 2. Their ſeveral employments are appointed, Aaron alone within the vail; his ſons within the tabernacle; the Levites without, as their aſſiſtants in the ſervice of the court and altar; each hath his province, and all their work. God's houſe admits no idlers. An indolent prieſt is like Satan appearing among the ſons of God. 3. Peculiar care muſt be taken, that no ſtranger enter there. The people were trembling at the thoughts of their danger in approaching the tabernacle, and the prieſts and Levites are charged to keep them at a diſtance from ſin, that there may be no more wrath againſt them. Note, (1.) It is good to have the watchfulneſs of others to reſtrain us from evil, as well as our own purpoſes againſt it. (2.) The way to eſcape wrath, is to avoid ſin. (3.) Miniſters muſt not only put away iniquity from themſelves, but be watchful and zealous to keep others from offending.

8. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Aaron, Behold, [i] I alſo have given thee the charge of mine heave-offerings, of all the hallowed things of the children of Iſrael; unto thee have I given them, [k] by reaſon of the anointing, and to thy ſons by an ordinance for ever. 9. This ſhall be thine of the moſt holy things, reſerved from the fire: every oblation of theirs, every [l] meat-offering of theirs, and every [m] ſin-offering of theirs, and every [n] treſpaſs-offering of theirs, which they ſhall render unto me, ſhall be moſt holy for thee and for thy ſons. 10. In the moſt holy place ſhalt thou eat it; [o] every male ſhall eat it: It ſhall be holy unto thee. 11. And this is thine; [p] the heave-offering of their gift, with all the wave-offerings of the children of Iſrael: I have given them unto [q] thee, and to thy ſons, and to thy daughters with thee, by a ſtatute for ever: [r] every one that is clean in thine houſe ſhall eat of it. 12. [s] All the † beſt of the oil, and all the beſt of the wine, and of the wheat, [t] the firſt-fruits of them which they ſhall offer unto the LORD, them have I given thee. 13. And whatſoever is firſt ripe in the land, [u] which they ſhall bring unto the LORD, ſhall be thine; every one that is clean in thine houſe ſhall eat of it. 14. [x] Every thing devoted in Iſrael, ſhall be thine. 15. Every thing that openeth [y] the matrix in all fleſh, which they bring unto the LORD, whether it be of men or beaſts, ſhall be thine: nevertheleſs, [z] the firſt-born of man ſhalt thou ſurely redeem, and the firſtling of unclean beaſts ſhalt thou redeem. 16. And thoſe that are to be redeemed, from a month old ſhalt thou redeem [a] according to thine eſtimation, for the money of five ſhekels, after the ſhekel of the ſanctuary, [b] which is twenty gerahs. 17. But the firſtling of a cow, or the firſtling of a ſheep, or the firſtling of a goat, thou ſhalt not redeem, they are holy: thou ſhalt ſprinkle their blood upon the altar, and ſhalt burn their fat for an offering made by fire, for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD. 18. And the fleſh of them ſhall be thine, as [c] the wave-breaſt, and as the right ſhoulder are thine. 19. All the heave-offerings of the holy things, which the children of Iſrael offer unto the LORD, have I given thee, and thy ſons and thy daughters with thee, by a ſtatute for ever: [d] it is a covenant of ſalt for ever, before the LORD, unto thee and to thy ſeed with thee.

i Lev. vi. 16, 18, 26. & vii. 6, 32. Chap. v. 9.
k Exod. xxix. 29.
l Lev. ii. 2, 3.
m Lev. iv. 22, 27. & vi. 25.
n Lev. v. 1. & vii. 7. & x. 12. & xiv. 13.
o Lev. vi. 29. & vii. 6.
p Exod. xxix. 27. Lev. vii. 31.
q Ibid. x. 14. Deut. xviii. 3.
r Lev. xxii. 2.
s Exod. xxiii. 19. Deut. xviii. 4.
† Heb. Fat.
t Exod. xxii. 29.
u Ibid. & xxiii. 19. & xxxiv. 26. Lev. ii. 14. Chap. xv. 19. Deut. xxvi. 2.
x Lev. xxvii. 28.
y Exod. xiii. 2. & xxii. 29. Lev. xxvii. 26. Chap. iii. 13.
z Exod. xiii. 13. & xxxiv. 20.
a Lev. xxvii. 2.
b Exod. xxx. 13. Lev. xxvii. 25. Chap. iii. 47. Ezek. xlv. 12.
c Exod. xxix. 26, 28.
d Lev. ii. 13. 2 Chron. xiii. 5.

v. 8—19. God will have his ſervants liberally provided for: they ſhall not ſerve him for nought. As by their ſervice they were excluded from all means of gain, the altar they ſerved ſupplied them with plenty, and of the beſt. The offerings and firſt-fruits provided meat and drink for their families; and the ranſom-money, and things dedicated, ſupplied them with every other neceſſary. Note, (1.) They who ſerve at the altar, ſhould live by the altar. (2.) A godly people will make a liberal proviſion for a goſpel miniſtry. (3.) They who have the care of ſouls, need have no other care upon them. (4.) Let faithful miniſters truſt their families with God; as he hath provided for them while they live, he will not forget them when they are dead.

20. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Aaron, Thou ſhalt have no inheritance in their land, neither ſhalt thou have any part among them: [e] I am thy part, and thine inheritance among the children of Iſrael. 21. And behold, [f] I have given the children of Levi all the tenth in Iſrael, for an inheritance, for their ſervice which they ſerve, even the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation. 22. [g] Neither muſt the children of Iſrael henceforth come nigh the tabernacle of the congregation, leſt they bear ſin, † and die. 23. But the Levites ſhall do the ſervice of the tabernacle of the congregation, and they ſhall bear their iniquity: It ſhall be a ſtatute for ever throughout your generations, that among the children of Iſrael they have no inheritance. 24. But the tithes of the children of Iſrael, which they offer as an heave-offering unto the LORD, I have given to the Levites to inherit: therefore I have ſaid unto them, [h] Among the children of Iſrael they ſhall have no inheritance. 25. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 26. Thus ſpeak unto the Levites, and ſay unto them, When ye take of the children of Iſrael the tithes which I have given you from them for your inheritance, then ye ſhall offer up an heave-offering of it for the LORD, even a tenth part of the tithe. 27. And this your heave-offering ſhall be reckoned unto you, as though it were the corn of the threſhing-floor, and as the fulneſs of the wine-preſs. 28. Thus you alſo ſhall offer an heave-offering unto the LORD, of all your tithes which ye receive of the children of Iſrael; and ye ſhall give thereof the LORD's heave-offering to Aaron the prieſt. 29. Out of all your gifts ye ſhall offer every heave-offering of the LORD, of all the ‡ beſt thereof, even the hallowed part thereof, out of it. 30. Therefore thou ſhalt ſay unto them, when ye have heaved the beſt thereof from it, then it ſhall be counted unto the Levites, as the increaſe of the threſhing-floor, and as the increaſe of the wine-preſs. 31. And ye ſhall eat it in every place, ye and your houſholds: for it is [i] your reward for your ſervice, in the tabernacle of the congregation. 32. And ye ſhall bear no ſin, by reaſon of it, when e Deut. x. 9. & xii. 12. & xviii. 2. Joſh. xiii. 14, 33. Ezek. xliv. 28.

f Lev. xxvii. 30.
g Chap. i. 51.
† Heb. To die.
h Deut. x. 9. & xiv. 27, 29. & xviii. 1.
‡ Heb. Fat.
i 1 Tim. v. 18.

Before Chriſt about 1471.

when ye have heaved from it the beſt of it: neither ſhall ye pollute the holy things of the children of Iſrael, leſt ye die.

v. 20—32. The prieſts and Levites have farther proviſion made for them. They are forbid all ſecular concerns, and can hold no inheritance, only the houſes of the cities appointed them for an habitation. God was their portion; and he who hath him for a portion, need not wiſh a better, and may well count all beſides to be dung and loſs. As the Levites buſineſs is to keep the charge of the tabernacle, and to prevent all profane intruders, they have their wages in the tenths of the produce of every kind; and out of theſe, a tenth of the beſt was offered for the prieſts maintenance, and accepted of God, as if the produce of their own lands; after which, the remainder was free for the uſe of the Levites and their families, as the fruits of the earth to the people in general, after the tithes were paid. Note, (1.) Out of the portion the Lord allots his miniſters, they muſt be careful to honour him with a part. (2.) When we have dedicated to God a part of our ſubſtance, we may hope for his bleſſing and comfort in the uſe of the remainder.

CHAP. XIX.

This chapter is concerning the preparing and uſing of the aſhes which were to impregnate the water of purification. Here is, 1. The method of preparing theſe aſhes, ver. 1—10. 2. Their deſign, to purify perſons from the pollution contracted by a dead body, ver. 11—16. 3. The manner of uſing them, ver. 17—22. This ceremonial purification was a type and figure of the cleanſing of the conſciences of believers from the pollutions of ſin, by the blood of Chriſt, Heb. ix. 13, 14.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Aaron, ſaying, 2. This is the ordinance of the law which the LORD hath commanded, ſaying, Speak unto the children of Iſrael, that they bring thee a red heifer without ſpot, wherein is no blemiſh, and [a] upon which never came yoke. 3. And ye ſhall give her unto Eleazar the prieſt, that he may bring her [b] forth without the camp, and one ſhall ſlay her before his face. 4. And Eleazar the prieſt ſhall take of her blood with his finger, and [c] ſprinkle of her blood directly before the tabernacle of the congregation ſeven times. 5. And one ſhall burn the heifer in his ſight; [d] her ſkin, and her fleſh, and her blood, with her dung ſhall he burn. 6. And the prieſt ſhall take cedar-wood, and hyſſop, and ſcarlet, and caſt it into the midſt of the burning of the heifer. 7. [e] Then the prieſt ſhall waſh his clothes, and he ſhall bathe his fleſh in water, and afterward he ſhall come into the camp, and the prieſt ſhall be unclean until the even. 8. And he that burneth her, ſhall waſh his clothes in water, and bathe his fleſh in water, and ſhall be unclean until the even. 9. And a man that is clean ſhall gather up [f] the aſhes of the heifer, and lay them up without the camp in a clean place, and it ſhall be kept for the congregation of the children of Iſrael, for a water of ſeparation: it is a purification for ſin. 10. And he that gathereth the aſhes of the heifer, ſhall waſh his clothes, and be unclean until the even: and it ſhall be unto the children of Iſrael, and unto the ſtranger that ſojourneth among them, for a ſtatute for ever.

[a] 1 Sam. vi. 7.
[b] Hebr. xiii. 11.
[c] Ibid. ix. 13.
[d] Exod. xxix. 14. Lev. iv 11, 12.
[e] Lev. xi. 25. & xv. 5.
[f] Hebr. ix. 13.

v. 1.—10. This preparation of the aſhes of purification, tho' recorded here, ſeems to have been done before they removed from Mount Sinai, See chap. viii. 5 The intention of it was to purify from ceremonial uncleanneſs, and to be typical of that ſprinkling of the blood of Jeſus, which really purges the conſcience from dead works.

The heifer muſt be curiouſly choſen; not a blemiſh muſt be found, not ſo much as a hair of a different colour, but wholly red, in the prime of youth, and that never bore the yoke. Eleazar the prieſt muſt ſlay and burn it, as an unclean thing, without the camp. The blood of it was ſprinkled towards the door of the tabernacle, to which he directed his eyes. During the burning of the body, cedar-wood, hyſſop, and ſcarlet, were caſt into the fire, and the aſhes at laſt were carefully collected, and preſerved for the uſe of all the congregation. And as the ſervice made thoſe who were engaged in it unclean, they waſhed, and ſtayed till even before they could return to the tabernacle. All which was a ſhadow of him that was to come. The ſpotleſs purity of our Divine Lord, when he offered himſelf a ſacrifice for us, is here prefigured. He was red in his apparel, when he trod the wine-preſs alone, and when he died weltering in his blood. No yoke bound him to the dreadful ſervice; freely he offered himſelf to bear the ſins of many. At once the prieſt and ſacrifice, he offered up his body on the tree; as an unclean thing, becauſe the Lord had laid on him the iniquity of us all, he ſuffered without the camp, and from the croſs looked up to heaven, ſprinkling as it were his blood before the door of the heavenly ſanctuary. The fierceneſs of the fire, and the bitter hyſſop, ſhadow forth the fierceneſs of the wrath of God, and the bitterneſs of his ſoul under it; whilſt cedar's ſweet perfume ſhews how acceptable the ſmell of the ſacrifice was to God. The aſhes reſerved for common uſe, intimates his rich ſalvation, obtained and offered freely to ſinners of every claſs; and as the efficacy of his one oblation ever laſts, he ever lives to ſprinkle upon us the purifying water, which can cleanſe us from all our pollutions.

Before Chriſt about 1471.

11. ¶ [g] He that toucheth the dead body of any † man, ſhall be unclean ſeven days. 12. [h] He ſhall purify himſelf with it on the third day, and on the ſeventh day he ſhall be clean: but if he purify not himſelf the third day, then the ſeventh day he ſhall not be clean. 13. Whoſoever toucheth the dead body of any man that is dead, and purifieth not himſelf, [i] defileth the tabernacle of the LORD; and that ſoul ſhall be cut off from Iſrael: becauſe the water of ſeparation was not ſprinkled upon him, he ſhall be unclean; his uncleanneſs is yet upon him. 14. This is the law, when a man dieth in a tent; all that come into the tent, and all that is in the tent, ſhall be unclean ſeven days. 15. And every [k] open veſſel which hath no covering bound upon it, is unclean. 16. And whoſoever toucheth one that is ſlain with the ſword in the open fields, or a dead body, or a bone of a man, or a grave, ſhall be unclean ſeven days. 17. And for an unclean perſon they ſhall take of the ‡ aſhes of the burnt heifer of purification for ſin, and ‖ running water ſhall be put thereto in a veſſel: 18. And a clean perſon ſhall take [l] hyſſop, and dip it in the water, and ſprinkle it upon the tent, and upon all the veſſels, and upon the perſons that were there, and upon him that touched a bone, or one ſlain, or one dead, or a grave: 19. And the clean perſon ſhall ſprinkle upon the unclean on the third day, and on the ſeventh day: and on the ſeventh day he ſhall purify himſelf, and waſh his clothes, and bathe himſelf in water, and ſhall be clean at even. 20. But the man that ſhall be unclean, and ſhall not purify himſelf, that ſoul ſhall be cut off from among the congregation: becauſe he hath defiled the ſanctuary of the LORD, the water of ſeparation hath not been ſprinkled upon him, he is unclean. 21. And it ſhall be a perpetual ſtatute unto them, that he that ſprinkleth the water of ſeparation, ſhall waſh his clothes, and he that toucheth the water of ſeparation, ſhall be unclean until even. 22. And whatſoever the unclean perſon toucheth, ſhall be unclean: and the ſoul that toucheth it, ſhall be unclean until even.

[g] Lev. xxi. 1. Chap. v. 2. & xxxi. 19. Lam. iv. 14. Hag. ii. 13.
† Heb. Soul of man.
[h] Chap. xxxi. 19.
[i] Lev. xv. 31.
[k] Chap. xxxi. 20.
‡ Heb. Duſt.
‖ Heb. Living waters ſhall be given.
[l] Pſ. li. 7.

v. 11—22. Directions are given about the aſhes thus prepared, which now were near at hand, and afterward probably divided to every city.

1. The perſons or things which need be purified by them: Every perſon who was in the tent or houſe where a corpſe lay; all who touched a dead body, or ſo much as a bone, or trod on a grave; every open veſſel, and whoever but touched any perſon or thing thus polluted; and every veſſel touched by the unclean. Death being the wages of ſin, the defilement thence contracted would ſerve to affect them with a deeper ſenſe of the evil of ſin, which occaſioned it. Note, If a dead corpſe was ſo polluting, how much more the company of thoſe dead in treſpaſſes and ſins, and how carefully to be avoided?

2. The manner in which the aſhes were uſed. They were mixed with running water, and with a bunch of hyſſop ſprinkled on the unclean; and this was done by a clean perſon, who, during that day, was himſelf defiled. Note, (1.) Water is the emblem of the ſpirit, whoſe office it is to apply the blood of Jeſus to the heart. (2.) The hyſſop ſignifies the bitterneſs of repentance, that ever accompanies forgiveneſs of ſin. (3.) It is often the caſe, that they who call others to the fountain of Chriſt's blood, are defiled themſelves thereby; ſo ſubtilly does ſin cleave to our beſt duties.

3. The ſprinkling was repeated twice, on the third and ſeventh day; and if one were neglected, the other was ineffectual. Note, If we are not juſtified by Jeſus, who roſe the third day from the dead, we ſhall not be glorified in the day of God's eternal ſabbath.

4. Neglect of uſing the remedy provided, being contempt of God's law, was wilful ſin, and puniſhed with death. God's ordinances are never to be ſlighted in the moſt minute particular. No ſin is ſo little, but muſt be mortal, without the blood of ſprinkling.

Before Christ 1451.

CHAP. XX.

At this chapter begins the hiſtory of the fortieth year, (which was the laſt) of the Iſraelites wandering in the wilderneſs. In it there is recorded, 1. The death of Miriam, ver. 1. 2. The fetching of water out of the rock. In which obſerve, (1.) The diſtreſs of Iſrael for want of water, ver. 2. (2.) Their murmuring, ver. 3—5. (3.) God ſupplies them with water out of the rock, ver. 6—11. (4.) The infirmity of Moſes and Aaron upon this occaſion, ver. 11. (5.) God's diſpleaſure againſt them, ver. 12, 13. 3. The treaty with the Edomites. Iſrael's requeſt, ver. 14—17. and the repulſe the Edomites gave them, ver. 18—21. 4. The death of Aaron, the inſtalment of Eleazar, and the people's mourning for him, ver. 22—29.

1. THEN [a] came the children of Iſrael, even the whole congregation, into the deſart of Zin, in the firſt month: and the people abode in Kadeſh; and Miriam died there, and was buried there. 2. And there was no water for the congregation: and they gathered themſelves together againſt Moſes and againſt Aaron. 3. And the people [b] chode with Moſes, and ſpake, ſaying, Would God that we had died when [c] our brethren died before the LORD. 4. And [d] why have ye brought up the congregation of the LORD into this wilderneſs, that we and our cattle ſhould die there? 5. And wherefore have ye made us to come up out of Egypt, to bring us in unto this evil place? it is no place of ſeed, or of figs, or vines, or of pomegranates, neither is there any water to drink. 6. And Moſes and Aaron went from the preſence of the aſſembly, unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, and [e] they fell upon their faces: and [f] the glory of the LORD appeared unto them. 7. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 8. [g] Take the rod, and gather thou the aſſembly together, thou and Aaron thy brother, and ſpeak ye unto the rock before their eyes, and it ſhall give forth his water, and [h] thou ſhalt bring forth to them water out of the rock: ſo thou ſhalt give the congregation, and their beaſts drink. 9. And Moſes took the rod from before the LORD, as he commanded him. 10. And Moſes and Aaron gathered the congregation together before the rock, and he ſaid unto them, [i] Hear now, ye rebels; muſt we fetch you water out of this rock? 11. And Moſes lift up his hand, and with his rod he ſmote the rock twice: and [k] the water came out abundantly, and the congregation drank, and their beaſts alſo. 12. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and Aaron, [l] Becauſe ye believed me not, to ſanctify me in the eyes of the children of Iſrael; therefore ye ſhall not bring this congregation into the land which I have given them. 13. [m] This is the water of † Meribah, becauſe the children of Iſrael ſtrove with the LORD: and he was ſanctified in them.

[a] Chap. xxxiii. 36.
[b] Exod. xvii. 2.
[c] Chap. xi. 1, 33. & xiv. 37. & xvi. 32, 35, 46.
[d] Exod. xvii. 3.
[e] Chap. xiv. 5. & xvi. 4.
[f] Chap. xiv. 10.
[g] Exod. xvii. 5.
[h] Neh. ix. 15. Pſ. lxxviii. 15, 16. & cv. 41. & cxiv. 8. Iſa. xliii. 20. & xlviii. 21.
[i] Pſ. cvi. 33.
[k] Exod. xvii. 6. 1 Cor. x. 4.
[l] Chap. xxvii. 14. Deut. i. 37. & iii. 26. & xxxii. 51.
[m] Deut. xxxiii. 8. Pſ. xcv. 8. & cvi. 32, &c.
† i.e. Strife. See Exod. xvii. 7.

v. 1—13. Their years of wandering are now drawing to an end. The former generation being nearly conſumed, the people once more ſet their faces towards the promiſed land, and encamp in Kadeſh, near the borders of Edom, where we have,

1. Miriam's death. Though forgiven her murmuring, at Moſes's interceſſion, ſhe is excluded Canaan. Note, We may for our ſins be corrected with temporal afflictions, though God hath forgiven them, and ſaved us from eternal death. 2. The murmuring of the people for want of water. The water of the rock, which had followed them hitherto, had ceaſed when other ſupplies could be had; but on this remove to Kadeſh they were again reduced to ſtraits, and, as before, returned to their murmuring. Note, (1.) It is too common for children to imitate their fathers bad examples. (2.) They who cannot put up with inconveniences in their journey to heaven, muſt never think of going thither. Never was greater unthankfulneſs and perverſeneſs ſeen than in this people: inſtead of being affected with God's mercy in ſparing them, they wiſh to have died with their brethren by the plague, and quarrel with Moſes for having brought them from Egypt, though ſuch an iron furnace, becauſe of a preſent difficulty, which, by paſt experience, they might be aſſured God could eaſily remove. Note, They who ſeek occaſion to quarrel, will find fault with the beſt ſervices done them, and reproach with ill intentions their friends to whom they have been moſt obliged. 3. Moſes and Aaron fly to the ſanctuary, and on their faces fall down, leſt new judgments ſhould overtake the people, and to beg direction how to act in the preſent emergency. Note, In all troubles, approach to God is the ſureſt means for direction and relief. 4. God appears, not as before, in anger to deſtroy them, but in mercy to ſupply them. Note, If God were ſtrict to viſit for all our offences, the ſpirit would fail before him. He often thinketh upon mercy, when we deſerve puniſhment. Moſes is ordered to take the rod of God, and, in the preſence of all the people, to ſpeak to the rock, and the ſtreams ſhall immediately flow. Behold, (1.) The rich grace of God to a rebellious people. (2.) The power of God magnified in ſuch a miracle. Are our hearts hard as this rock, the word of God can cleave them, and open ſluices of penitential tears. 5. Moſes and Aaron obey, but in ſuch a manner, as diſpleaſed their Maſter, and brought upon them excluſion from the land to which they were conducting the people. They were guilty of two great ſins in this matter: (1.) Unbelief. They doubted whether God would really bring water from the rock for ſuch a people; or perhaps, whether, if he did, they ſhould not be condemned to another forty years wandring, and never reach the promiſed land. Note, No ſin among God's people more beſetting, or more dangerous, than unbelief. (2.) Paſſion. They were out of patience with them, angrily abuſe them as rebels, and, inſtead of calmly commanding the water to flow, Moſes with repeated vehemence ſmites the rock; and as Iſrael were ſpectators of this haſty conduct, the offence was the greater. Note, (1.) Great provocations are no excuſe for paſſion. (2.) The meekeſt men need watch over a ſelf-willed ſpirit. (3.) If anger kindle in our heart, the more cauſe have we to keep our lips as it were with a bridle. (4.) That reproach may be very juſt, which in our mouth, as flowing from an enraged heart, may to us be exceeding evil. 6. God's diſpleaſure at Moſes and Aaron; and their puniſhment is to die in the wilderneſs. Note, (1.) God's own people muſt not think they ſhall ſin with impunity. No; God, as he expects more from them, will often correct them more ſeverely than others. (2.) The record Moſes bears againſt himſelf, is a proof of his impartiality, and a gracious token of his humiliation under his offence. 7. The place is called Meribah, like that other, where they murmured and ſtrove with God before. It is good to remark the place and ſpot where our ſins have been committed, that we may, whenever we paſs by, look and be confounded on the remembrance of them.

Before Christ 1451.

14. ¶ And Moſes ſent meſſengers from Kadeſh, unto the king of Edom, [n] Thus ſaith thy brother Iſrael, Thou knoweſt all the travel that hath † befallen us: 15. How our fathers went down into Egypt, and we have dwelt in Egypt a long time: and the Egyptians vexed us, and our fathers. 16. And [o] when we cried unto the LORD, he heard our voice, and [p] ſent an angel, and hath brought us forth out of Egypt: and behold, we are in Kadeſh, a city in the uttermoſt of thy border. 17. Let us paſs, I pray thee, through thy country: we will not paſs through the fields, or through the vineyards, neither will we drink of the water of the wells: we will go by the king's high-way, we will not turn to the right hand, nor to the left, until we have paſſed thy borders. 18. And Edom ſaid unto him, Thou ſhalt not paſs by me, leſt I come out againſt thee with the ſword. 19. And the children of Iſrael ſaid unto him, We will go by the highway: and if I and my cattle drink of thy water, [q] then I will pay for it: I will only (without doing any thing elſe) go through on my feet. 20. And he ſaid, Thou ſhalt not go through. And Edom came out againſt him with much people, and with a ſtrong hand. 21. Thus Edom [r] refuſed to give Iſrael paſſage through his border: wherefore [s] Iſrael turned away from him.

[n] Deut. ii. 4, &c. & xxiii. 7. Obad. x. 12.
† Heb. found us.
[o] Exod. ii. 23. & iii. 7.
[p] Ibid. xiv. 19. & xxiii. 20.
[q] Deut. ii. 6, 28.
[r] See Deut. ii. 29.
[s] Ibid. ii. 4, 5. Judg. xi. 18.

v. 14—21. As the neareſt way to Canaan now lay through the territories of Edom, Moſes ſent ambaſſadors, to beg leave for a paſſage through their land. 1. The meſſage they brought was friendly and reaſonable: they urge their kindred, as a plea for favour. Near relations are doubly bound to every mutual act of kindneſs. They mention their ſufferings from Egypt, and their mercies from God, both to excite a compaſſionate concern for their paſt vexations, and to engage them to aſſiſt thoſe to whom God had ſhewed ſuch peculiar favour. It is as much our intereſt as duty, to be kind to thoſe who have God for their friend. They condeſcend to humble intreaty, though ſufficiently able to force a paſſage unaſked, if they choſe it. But power muſt never be employed to injuſtice. Finally, They engaged to do no damage, but to pay even for the water they drank, and to make no ſtay in the country, but with all ſpeed march by the high-road to the borders of Canaan. Note, They who are marching to heaven, go ſtrait forward in the highway of holineſs, and deſire nothing in Edom, the world of ſin, but a ſafe paſſage out of it. 2. They receive a peremptory refuſal from the king of Edom: and, to enforce it, he draws out his people to the frontiers to oppoſe them; jealous of ſuch a numerous army, leſt they ſhould ſeize the country, or inheriting

Before Christ 1451.

ing the family feud of Eſau, and willing to diſappoint them of the inheritance they ſought in Canaan. Note, (1.) No quarrels ſo laſting and inveterate as thoſe of near relations. (2.) If we are the people of God, we may not wonder if we meet with the greateſt unkindneſs from thoſe, of whom we might reaſonably expect the greateſt affection.

[t] Chap. xxxiii. 37. [u] Chap. xxi. 4.
† Heb. Mouth. [x] Chap. xxxiii. 38. Deut. xxxii. 50.
[y] Exod. xxix. 29, 30.
[z] Deut. x. 6. & xxxii. 50.
[a] So Deut. xxxiv. 8.

22. ¶ And the children of Iſrael, even the whole congregation journeyed from [t] Kadeſh, and [u] came unto mount Hor. 23. And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes and Aaron in mount Hor, by the coaſt of the land of Edom, ſaying, 24. Aaron ſhall be gathered unto his people: for he ſhall not enter into the land which I have given unto the children of Iſrael, becauſe ye rebelled againſt my † word at the water of Meribah. 25. [x] Take Aaron and Eleazar his ſon, and bring them up unto mount Hor: 26. And ſtrip Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his ſon: and Aaron ſhall be gathered unto his people, and ſhall die there. 27. And Moſes did as the LORD commanded: and they went up into mount Hor, in the ſight of all the congregation. 28. [y] And Moſes ſtripped Aaron of his garments, and put them upon Eleazar his ſon; and [z] Aaron died there in the top of the mount: and Moſes and Eleazar came down from the mount. 29. And when all the congregation ſaw that Aaron was dead, they mourned for Aaron [a] thirty days, even all the houſe of Iſrael.

v. 22—29. Death, when he ſtrikes in a family, often repeats his blow. Aaron quickly follows his ſiſter to the grave. They were now, after being ſupplied with neceſſary proviſions, wheeled to the right, and compaſſing the land of Edom. At mount Hor God informs Moſes and Aaron, that Aaron ſhall die there. The deareſt friends at laſt muſt be ſeparated. Though his ſin haſtened his death, yet dies he not under wrath, but gathered in the arms of divine mercy to his people. Death to the children of God, is but as the ſickle of the reaper, which cuts down the reed, only to ſecure the wheat in God's barn. Aaron cheerfully ſubmits to the divine command, and, with Moſes and Eleazar his ſucceſſor, goes in the ſight of the congregation to the foot of the mountain, dreſſed in his pontifical robes. Note, (1.) The dying believer looks moſt beautiful, when neareſt the borders of the grave. (2.) Faith diſarms death of its terrors. They need not fear to die, whoſe ſouls are ſafe in the arms of God's everlaſting love. They aſcend the mountain, and there Moſes ſtrips Aaron of the robes with which he had arrayed him. Note, (1.) When God calls for our parting, we muſt chearfully reſign our deareſt friends. (2.) Thus ſoon will death ſtrip us of our ornaments, and naked as we came from the womb, muſt we return to the grave. Eleazar is inveſted hereupon with the enſigns of his office, and Aaron beholds with joy his ſon his ſucceſſor, and in him the prieſthood perpetuated. Note, (1.) Nothing more pleaſing to parents, than, ere they lie down in the grave, to ſee their children comfortably ſettled. (2.) When aged miniſters are departing, they are then happy if they behold the glorious cauſe of God tranſmitted by them into the hands of faithful and zealous ſucceſſors. There Aaron died; his ſon and brother cloſed his eyes, and buried him in the mount. It is a great comfort on a dying-bed to have around us affectionate friends; their tenderneſs helps to ſmooth the rugged hand of death. Moſes and Eleazar then returned to the people; and they, though when Aaron was alive they had often reproached him, now feel and mourn the loſs. Death will do juſtice to thoſe who never found it before. Tho' the rebukes of a faithful miniſter once offended, when he is gone, his loſs will be felt and lamented.

CHAP. XXI.

The armies of Iſrael now begin to enter upon action. Here is, 1. The defeat of Arad the Canaanite, ver. 1—3. 2. The chaſtiſement of the people with fiery ſerpents for their murmurings, and the relief granted them upon their ſubmiſſion by a braſen ſerpent, ver. 4—9. 3. Several marches forward, and ſome occurrences by the way, ver. 10—20. 4. The celebrated conqueſt of Sihon king of the Amorites, ver. 21—32. and of Og king of Baſhan, ver. 33—35. And poſſeſſion taken of their land.

[a] Chap. xxxiii. 40. See Judg. i. 16.
† i. e. Utter deſtruction.

1. AND when [a] king Arad the Canaanite, which dwelt in the ſouth, heard tell that Iſrael came by the way of the ſpies, then he fought againſt Iſrael, and took ſome of them priſoners. 2. And Iſrael vowed a vow unto the LORD, and ſaid, If thou wilt indeed deliver this people into my hand, then I will utterly deſtroy their cities. 3. And the LORD hearkned to the voice of Iſrael, and delivered up the Canaanites: and they utterly deſtroyed them, and their cities, and he called the name of the place † Hormah.

v. 1—3. The king Arad, (or rather of Arad) a Canaanite, is the firſt to oppoſe Iſrael's progreſs, and ſuffers for it. To prove his people, God permits him at firſt ſome little ſucceſs. Thus are ſinners by proſperity often hurried faſter to their ruin; but when, inſtead of murmuring, they humbly approach unto God, and vow to devote to him the ſpoil, and utterly to conſume the people and their cities; then God delivers them up. They are routed on every ſide, and univerſal deſolation ſpread through their country. Note, (1.) Tho' we may be foiled with an attack of our ſpiritual enemies, we may not faint, but pray, and then we ſhall at laſt be conquerors. (2.) We muſt give no quarter to our ſins; theſe Canaanites muſt be ſlain without mercy.

[b] Chap. xx. 22. & xxxiii. 41.
† Heb. Shortened.
[c] Chap. xi. 6.
[d] Wiſd. xvi. 1, 5. 1 Cor. x. 9.
[e] Deut. viii. 15.
[f] Exod. viii. 8, 28. 1 Kings xiii. 6. Acts viii. 24.
[g] 2 Kings xviii. 4. John iii. 14.

4. ¶ And [b] they journeyed from mount Hor, by the way of the Red-ſea, to compaſs the land of Edom: and the ſoul of the people was much † diſcouraged becauſe of the way. 5. And the people ſpake againſt God, and againſt Moſes, Wherefore have ye brought us up out of Egypt, to die in the wilderneſs? for there is no bread, neither is there any water, and [c] our ſoul loatheth this light bread. 6. And [d] the LORD ſent [e] fiery ſerpents among the people; and they bit the people, and much people of Iſrael died. 7. ¶ Therefore the people came to Moſes, and ſaid, We have ſinned, for we have ſpoken againſt the LORD, and againſt thee; [f] pray unto the LORD that he take away the ſerpents from us: and Moſes prayed for the people. 8. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Make thee a fiery ſerpent, and ſet it upon a pole: and it ſhall come to paſs, that every one that is bitten, when he looketh upon it, ſhall live. 9. And [g] Moſes made a ſerpent of braſs, and put it upon a pole, and it came to paſs, that if a ſerpent had bitten any man, when he beheld the ſerpent of braſs, he lived.

v. 4—9. New provocations bring down new plagues upon them. We have here, 1. Their murmuring. Diſcouraged by the length and difficulties of the road, they quarrel not only with Moſes, but ſpeak alſo againſt God, as if his deſign was to deſtroy them, inſtead of ſaving them; and loathing God's proviſion of manna, they pretend to be now famiſhed with that light food, though ſo long and comfortably fed by it. Note, (1.) Many like theſe are diſcontented, though ſurrounded with mercies. (2.) The long continuance of the means of grace is apt to make them cheap in our eyes. The longer ſome enjoy the preaching of the goſpel, the leſs they value it: when it was new their appetite was ſharp, but now it is become inſipid to them. God viſits their ſin with fiery ſerpents, whoſe bite was venomous, and the effect of it burning heat, and intolerable thirſt: a puniſhment ſuited to their ſin. They feared they ſhould die, where no fear was; God therefore will give reality to their fears, and they ſhall die. Thus they who complain without cauſe, ſhall have cauſe to complain. 3. When they felt the ſmart of the ſerpents, they began to lament the ſin which brought them, and beg Moſes's advocacy, whom ſo often they had abuſed. Note, (1.) It is a mercy, when ſufferings by ſin lead us to repentance for ſin. (2.) In affliction, thoſe miniſters of God will be firſt ſought to, whom we have moſt deſpiſed. 4. Moſes prays, and God hears and anſwers. A ſerpent of braſs is appointed to be made, elevated on a pole, that it might be viſible to the utmoſt part of the camp; and whoſoever looked thereunto lived. Though they ſmarted by the pain of the bite, they ſhould not ſuffer death from the poiſon. Note, Though we do not ſuffer under ſin in hell, we ſhall ſmart for it in the body.

In their ſin, ſuffering, and method of cure, we may, as in a glaſs, ſee our own image reflected. Every man by nature is ſtung with the poiſon of ſin by that old ſerpent the devil; the effects of which muſt be ſhortly fatal, unleſs the venom be removed; and always painful, even to thoſe who recover. Chriſt Jeſus is to us this braſen ſerpent, faſhioned after the likeneſs of ſinful fleſh, and lifted up once on the croſs, and ſtill in the preaching of the goſpel, for the healing of the nations. No other method than this, which Infinite Wiſdom hath contrived, hath any efficacy to remove the guilt of ſin, or quiet the fears of a wounded conſcience. We are commanded to look to him, and whoever by faith, however deſperate his caſe appears, turns to a dying Saviour his dying eyes, ſhall feel his mortal pains aſſuage, and the ſting of death plucked from his heart. But if, neglecting or deſpiſing his ſalvation, the miſerable ſinner ſeeks by his own righteouſneſs to recover, or dares not truſt alone on the perfect work of Jeſus for life and glory, then he periſhes without remedy, and his ſin will be his eternal ruin.

10. ¶ And the children of Iſrael ſet forward, and [h] pitched in Oboth. 11. And they journeyed from Oboth, and [i] pitched at † Ije-abarim, in the wilderneſs which is before Moab, toward the ſun-riſing. 12. ¶ [k] From thence they removed, and pitched in the valley of Zared. 13. From thence they removed, and pitched on the other ſide of Arnon, which is in the wilderneſs that cometh out of the coaſts of the Amorites: for [l] Arnon is the border of Moab, between Moab and the Amorites. 14. Wherefore it is ſaid in the book of the wars of the LORD, ‡ What he did in the Red ſea, and in the brooks of Arnon, 15. And at the ſtream of the brooks that goeth down to the dwelling of Ar, and [m] ‖ lieth upon the border of Moab. 16. And from thence they went to [n] Beer: that is the well whereof the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, Gather the people together, and I will give them water. 17. ¶ Then Iſrael ſang this ſong, § Spring up, O well, † ſing ye unto it: 18. The princes digged the well, the nobles of the people digged it by the direction of the law-giver, with their ſtaves. And from the wilderneſs they went to Mattanah: 19. And from Mattanah to Nahaliel: and from Nahaliel to Bamoth: 20. And from Bamoth in the valley that is in the ‡ country of Moab, to the top of ‖ Piſgah, which looketh [o] toward § Jeſhimon.

[h] Chap. xxxiii. 43.
[i] Ibid. 44.
† i. e. Heaps of Abarim.
[k] Deut. ii. 13.
[l] Judg. xi. 18.
‡ Or Vaheb in Suphah.
[m] Deut. ii. 18.
‖ Heb. Leaneth.
[n] Judg. ix. 21.
§ Heb. Aſcend.
† Or, anſwer.
‡ Heb. Field.
‖ Or, the hill.
[o] Chap. xxiii. 28.
§ Or, the wilderneſs.

v. 10—20. We have here the journies of the people towards Canaan. Great exploits were performed by them againſt the Amorites, who had poſſeſſed a part of Moab; the particulars of which were recorded in a book called the Wars of the Lord, that is not now extant. When they were advanced from Oboth to Beer, in their want of water, God of his own motion promiſes to ſupply them abundantly. They ſeem now to have truſted without murmuring, and they find the bleſſing of doing ſo. Hereupon, 1. They celebrate with ſongs of praiſe the divine mercy, and in confidence of the promiſe, as if already fulfilled, pray and praiſe the gracious giver. Note, (1.) Every promiſed mercy is as much our own, as if we actually poſſeſſed it. (2.) Chriſt, by his ſpirit in the believer's heart, as a well of water, ſpringeth up unto eternal life. (3.) Praiſe is the grateful tribute we owe to God for his rich and undeſerved mercies. 2. As the people ſung, the princes digged in faith, and their ſtaves, like Moſes's rod, brought ſtreams out of the dry ground. When our conſolations ſeem at the loweſt ebb, God can thus open pools in the wilderneſs; and whilſt we, in dependance upon him, employ the ſtaff of prayer, we need not fear, but that he will lead us forth beſide the waters of comfort.

21. ¶ And [p] Iſrael ſent meſſengers unto Sihon king of the Amorites, ſaying, 22. [q] Let me paſs through thy land; we will not turn into the fields, or into the vineyards, we will not drink of the waters of the well: but we will go along by the king's high-way, until we be paſt thy borders. 23. And [r] Sihon would not ſuffer Iſrael to paſs through his border: but Sihon gathered all his people together, and went out againſt Iſrael into the wilderneſs: and [s] he came to Jahaz, and fought againſt Iſrael. 24. And [t] Iſrael ſmote him with the edge of the ſword, and poſſeſſed his land from Arnon unto Jabbok, even unto the children of Ammon: for the border of the children of Ammon was ſtrong. 25. And Iſrael took all theſe cities: and Iſrael dwelt in all the cities of the Amorites in Heſhbon, and in all the † villages thereof. 26. For Heſhbon was the city of Sihon the king of the Amorites, who had fought againſt the former king of Moab, and taken all his land out of his hand, even unto Arnon. 27. Wherefore they that ſpeak in proverbs, ſay, Come into Heſhbon, let the city of Sihon be built and prepared. 28. For [u] there is a fire gone out of Heſhbon, a flame from the city of Sihon: it hath conſumed Ar of Moab, and the lords of the high places of Arnon. 29. Wo to thee, Moab; thou art undone, O people of [x] Chemoſh: he hath given his ſons that eſcaped, and his daughters, into captivity unto Sihon king of the Amorites. 30. We have ſhot at them; Heſhbon is periſhed even [y] unto Dibon, and we have laid them waſte even unto Nophah, which reacheth unto Medeba. 31. ¶ Thus Iſrael dwelt in the land of the Amorites. 32. And Moſes ſent to ſpy out Jaazar, and they took the villages thereof, and drove out the Amorites that were there.

[p] Deut. ii. 26, 27. Judg. xi. 19.
[q] Chap. xx. 17.
[r] Deut. xxix. 7.
[s] Judg. xi. 20.
[t] Deut. ii. 32. & xxix. 7. Joſh. xii. 2. & xxiv. 8. Neh. ix. 22. Pſ. cxxxv. 10, 11. & cxxxvi 19. Amos ii. 9.
† Heb. Daughters.
[u] Jer. xlviii. 45, 46.
[x] Judg. xi. 24. 1 Kings xi. 7, 33. 2 Kings xxiii. 13.
[y] Jer. xlviii. 18, 22.

v. 21—32. Being advanced to Jeſhimon, and their way to Canaan lying through the country of Sihon, a king of the Amorites, on this ſide Jordan, they ſend him a peaceable meſſage, as before to Edom, which he returns with a denial, and ſeconds his anſwer with a fierce and unprovoked attack; the conſequence of which is his own deſtruction, and the loſs of his country, which Iſrael took poſſeſſion of; and here, and in the kingdom of Baſhan, two tribes and a half of the Iſraelites afterwards dwelt. Though this once belonged to Moab, it had been conquered by the Amorites; a record of which conqueſt is quoted in this fragment of a ſong of triumph, which the Amorites compoſed on the occaſion; wherein their conqueſt, and Moab's inability to recover it, are ſtrongly painted: ſo that no injury was hereby done to the Moabites. Note, (1.) They who intend miſchief to others, often fall themſelves into the pit they have digged. (2.) Worldly poſſeſſions at beſt are changeable things, and ill-gotten gain eſpecially is ſeldom long enjoyed.

33. ¶ [z] And they turned and went up by the way of Baſhan: and Og the king of Baſhan went out againſt them, he, and all his people, to the battle at [a] Edrei. 34. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Fear him not: for I have delivered him into thy hand, and all his people, and his land; and [b] thou ſhalt do to him as thou didſt unto Sihon king of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heſhbon. 35. So they ſmote him and his ſons, and all his people, until there was none left him alive: and they poſſeſſed his land.

[z] Deut. iii. 1. & xxix. 7.
[a] Joſh. xiii. 12.
[b] Pſ. cxxxv. 10, 11. & cxxxvi. 20.

v. 33—35. Inſtead of being warned by the fate of his neighbours, Og, king of Baſhan, haſtens to the attack, and meets the like deſtruction. God encourages his people; they fight and conquer, and poſſeſs the land. No weapon formed againſt them can proſper. The powers of corruption, though ſtrong as this gigantic Amorite, muſt fall before the believer, who is clad in the panoply of God. Theſe ſucceſſes were a happy earneſt of future victory; and from every ſtruggle againſt ſin, our faith ſhould grow more confirmed. He who is our ſtrength now, will be our ſalvation for ever.

CHAP. XXII.

In this chapter begins the famous ſtory of Balak and Balaam, their attempt to curſe Iſrael, and the baffling of that attempt. 1. Balak's fear of Iſrael, ver. 1—4. 2. The embaſſy to Balaam, that he might come and curſe Iſrael, and the diſappointment he met with, ver. 5—14. 3. Balaam's coming to him upon his ſecond meſſage, ver. 15—21. 4. The oppoſition Balaam met with by the way, ver. 22—35. 5. The interview at length between Balak and Balaam, ver. 36—41.

1. AND [a] the children of Iſrael ſet forward, and pitched in the plains of Moab, on this ſide Jordan by Jericho. 2. ¶ And Balak the ſon of Zippor ſaw all that Iſrael had done to the Amorites. 3. And [b] Moab was ſore afraid of the people, becauſe they were many: and Moab was diſtreſſed becauſe of the children of Iſrael. 4. And Moab ſaid unto [c] the elders of Midian, Now ſhall this company lick up all that are round about us, as the ox licketh up the graſs of the field. And Balak the ſon of Zippor was king of the Moabites at that time. 5. [d] He ſent meſſengers therefore unto Balaam the ſon of Beor, to [e] Pethor, which is by the river of the land of the children of his people, to call him, ſaying, Behold, there is a people come out from Egypt: behold, they cover the † face of the earth, and they abide over againſt me. 6. Come now therefore, I pray thee, [f] curſe me this people, for they are too mighty for me: peradventure I ſhall prevail, that we may ſmite them, and that I may drive them out of the land: for I wot that he whom thou bleſſeſt, is bleſſed, and he whom thou curſeſt, is curſed. 7. And the elders of Moab, and the elders of Midian departed, with the rewards of divination in their hand; and they came unto Balaam, and ſpake unto him the words of Balak. 8. And he ſaid unto them, Lodge here this night, and I will bring you word again as the LORD ſhall ſpeak unto me: And the princes of Moab abode with Balaam. 9. And God came unto Balaam, and ſaid, What men are theſe with thee? 10. And Balaam ſaid unto God, Balak the ſon of Zippor, king of Moab, hath ſent unto me, ſaying, 11. Behold, there is a people come out of Egypt, which covereth the face of the earth: Come now, curſe me them;

[a] Chap. xxxiii. 48.
[b] Exod. xv. 15.
[c] Chap. xxxi. 8. Joſh. xiii. 21.
[d] Deut. xxiii. 4. Joſh. xiii. 22. & xxiv. 9. Neh. xiii. 1, 2. Mic. vi. 5. 2 Pet. ii. 15. Jude 11. Rev. ii. 14.
[e] See Chap. xxiii. 7. Deut. xxiii. 4.
† Heb. Eye.
[f] Chap. xxiii. 7.

them; peradventure ‡ I ſhall be able to overcome them, and drive them out. 12. And God ſaid unto Balaam, Thou ſhalt not go with them, thou ſhalt not curſe the people, for they are bleſſed. 13. And Balaam roſe up in the morning, and ſaid unto the princes of Balak, Get you into your land: for the LORD refuſeth to give me leave to go with you. 14. And the princes of Moab roſe up, and they went unto Balak, and ſaid, Balaam refuſeth to come with us.

‡ Heb. I ſhall prevail in fighting againſt them.

v. 1—14. Frighted at the progreſs of the arms of Iſrael, and apprehenſive leſt the next ſtroke might deſcend on them, the king of Moab, with the elders of Midian, are contriving to ſave themſelves. They need not be apprehenſive of danger: their relation, as deſcendants from Lot, ſecured them; and probably Moſes had informed them they were ſafe. But the wicked are in fear where no fear is; and they who are conſcious of their own ill intentions, are ever ready to ſuſpect ill of others. 1. The method he purſued. Unable he thought to cope with the armies of Iſrael, that had now ſpoiled his conquerors, he has recourſe to magic arts, and ſends for Balaam, a ſorcerer, to curſe the people, in hopes under his imprecations he might prevail, though he could not by his ſword alone. Who Balaam was, is uncertain; it is evident only he was famed for his incantations; and Balak aſſuredly concludes, that whom he curſeth are curſed, and whom he bleſſeth are bleſſed. To prevail on him to come, he exalts him as a God, honours him with a ſplendid embaſſy, and ſupports all with the ſolid argument of magnificent preſents. Note, (1.) The prayers or curſes of the wicked are alike impotent, to do good or evil. (2.) They who think to purchaſe heaven by their alms-giving, act as fooliſhly as Balak, who wanted by his gifts to procure Balaam's bleſſing. 2. The refuſal given the ambaſſadors of Moab. Balaam ſtayed them that night, that, as he ſays, he might enquire of God; and God, for his people's ſake, is pleaſed to honour him with his appearance in a dream or viſion of the night, forbids his journey, and aſſures him of the bleſſing that was upon Iſrael. In the morning he reports his anſwer to the meſſengers, but conceals the more material part, the bleſſing God had pronounced on Iſrael; and they, to flatter their maſter, make their report, as if the refuſal to come was not from God's forbidding, but from Balaam, and that he might be gained by greater invitation and preſents. Obſerve, (1.) God may for wiſe reaſons employ wicked men. No doubt, many like Balaam will periſh, though with him they may have done many wonderful works. (2.) When we love the ſin, and only are reſtrained by fear, we are but Balaam's followers. (3.) To conceal part of the truth, is as dangerous often as a direct lie.

15. ¶ And Balak ſent yet again princes, more, and more honourable than they. 16. And they came to Balaam, and ſaid to him, Thus ſaith Balak the ſon of Zippor, † Let nothing, I pray thee, hinder thee, from coming unto me: 17. For I will promote thee unto very great honour, and I will do whatſoever thou ſayeſt unto me: Come therefore, I pray thee, curſe me this people. 18. And Balaam anſwered and ſaid unto the ſervants of Balak, [g] If Balak would give me his houſe full of ſilver and gold, [h] I cannot go beyond the word of the LORD my God, to do leſs or more. 19. Now therefore, I pray you, tarry ye alſo here this night, that I may know what the LORD will ſay unto me more. 20. And God came unto Balaam at night, and ſaid unto him, If the men come to call thee, riſe up, and go with them; but yet [i] the word which I ſhall ſay unto thee, that ſhalt thou do. 21. And Balaam roſe up in the morning, and ſaddled his aſs, and went with the princes of Moab.

† Heb. Be not thou letted from, &c.

[g] Chap. xxiv. 13.

[h] 1 Kings xxii. 14. 2 Chron. xviii. 13.

[i] Ver. 35. Chap. xxiii. 12, 26.

v. 15—21. Balak was earneſt to carry his point, and therefore he ſpares no pains to accompliſh it. If he had been but at half the trouble to ſecure God's bleſſing, and Iſrael's friendſhip, he had ſucceeded better. 1. He increaſes his embaſſy, and adds diſtinguiſhed honour to his preſents. Importunate to gain him, he ſticks at nothing; let him preſcribe his own terms, and Balak will ratify them. Note, (1.) A man's heart muſt be ſtrongly fortified by realizing views of the eternal world, who can ſtand out againſt the united temptations of gain and honour. (2.) They who would keep from yielding to ſin, muſt reſolutely reſiſt and avoid the temptations to it. 2. Balaam receives and entertains the meſſengers, and whilſt profeſſedly adhering to the command of God, evidently betrays his willingneſs to go with them. He makes moſt honourable mention of God, and claims high relation to him, ſeeming to prefer his favour to the riches of the univerſe; but his heart was deceitful: he either intended to deceive them with fair ſpeeches, or was deceived himſelf. Note, (1.) Many claim an intereſt in God, whom he will diſown for his people. (2.) Sound words do not always ſpeak a ſound heart: it is eaſier to learn the language of God's people, than to ſhew their fidelity. (3.) The ſin is already committed, when we are ſeeking an excuſe for running into temptation. 3. God gave him permiſſion to go in anger. He ſhould have been ſatisfied in one denial: could he imagine there was in God any ſhadow of changing? Yet, even now he is reſtricted, and cannot ſpeak farther than he is permitted. God holds the devil's chain, and neither he nor his inſtruments can go a ſtep beyond their appointed bounds. 4. Balaam is in haſte to be gone: he does not wait to be called by the princes of Midian, but runs greedily after the bait of Balak's offers. Note, When the heart is gone from God, it will not be long ere the conduct betrays it.

22. ¶ And God's anger was kindled, becauſe he went: and the angel of the LORD ſtood in the way for an adverſary againſt him: Now he was riding upon his aſs, and his two ſervants were with him. 23. [k] And the aſs ſaw the angel of the LORD ſtanding in the way, and his ſword drawn in his hand: and the aſs turned aſide out of the way, and went into the field: and Balaam ſmote the aſs to turn her into the way. 24. But the angel of the LORD ſtood in a path of the vineyards, a wall being on this ſide, and a wall on that ſide. 25. And when the aſs ſaw the angel of the LORD, ſhe thruſt herſelf unto the wall, and cruſht Balaam's foot againſt the wall: and he ſmote her again. 26. And the angel of the LORD went further, and ſtood in a narrow place, where was no way to turn either to the right hand, or to the left. 27. And when the aſs ſaw the angel of the LORD, ſhe fell down under Balaam: and Balaam's anger was kindled, and he ſmote the aſs with a ſtaff. 28. And the LORD opened the mouth of the aſs, and ſhe ſaid unto Balaam, What have I done unto thee, that thou haſt ſmitten me theſe three times? 29. And Balaam ſaid unto the aſs, Becauſe thou haſt mocked me: I would there were a ſword in mine hand, for now would I kill thee. 30. [l] And the aſs ſaid unto Balaam, Am not I thine aſs, † upon which thou haſt ridden ‡ ever ſince I was thine, unto this day? was I ever want to do ſo unto thee? And he ſaid, Nay. 31. Then the LORD [m] opened the eyes of Balaam, and he ſaw the angel of the LORD ſtanding in the way, and his ſword drawn in his hand: and he bowed down his head, and ‖ fell flat on his face. 32. And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto him, Wherefore haſt thou ſmitten thine aſs theſe three times? behold, I went out to § withſtand thee, becauſe thy way is perverſe before me. 33. And the aſs ſaw me, and turned from me theſe three times: unleſs ſhe had turned from me, ſurely now alſo I had ſlain thee, and ſaved her alive. 34. And Balaam ſaid unto the angel of the LORD, I have ſinned; for I knew not that thou ſtoodeſt in the way againſt me: now therefore if it † diſpleaſe thee, I will get me back again. 35. And the angel of the LORD ſaid unto Balaam, Go with the men: but only the word that I ſhall ſpeak unto thee, that thou ſhalt ſpeak: ſo Balaam went with the princes of Balak.

[k] See 2 Kings vi. 17. Dan. x. 7. Acts xxii. 9. 2 Pet. ii. 16. Jude 11.

[l] 2 Pet. ii. 16.

† Heb. Who haſt ridden upon me.

‡ Or, ever ſince thou waſt, &c.

[m] See Gen. xxi. 19. Luke xxiv. 16, 31.

‖ Or bowed himſelf.

§ Heb. To be an adverſary unto thee.

† Heb. Be evil in thine eyes.

v. 22—35. Balak's princes probably were in haſte to carry the glad tidings to their maſter, and Balaam was now alone with his ſervants. 1. God's anger was kindled againſt him. Sin is not the leſs provoking to him becauſe permitted. An angel with a flaming ſword is ſent to obſtruct his way. They are God's miniſters, ſent to defend the heirs of ſalvation, and to avenge his quarrel againſt their enemies. How impotent then their attempts againſt God's church and people, guarded by ſuch angelic hoſts! 2. The aſs he rode upon ſaw the danger, though Balaam was blind to it. When pride, luſt, and covetouſneſs, keep men aſleep in the arms of ſin, they are inſenſible, and ſee not the ſword of wrath hanging over their heads. The aſs turned aſide, and Balaam ſmote her to bring her into the way. Again, in a narrow part between the vineyards, ſtartled at the ſame appearance, the beaſt, eager to avoid the ſword, ran cloſe by the wall, and cruſhed Balaam's foot. Provoked at which, he ſmote her a ſecond time. So angry are we often at thoſe who would ſave us from ruin; and ſo little diſpoſed to enquire, whether our ways are not perverſe before God, and the cauſe of the accidents we meet with. At the next place of meeting the angel, a narrow paſs precluded all eſcape, and then his beaſt fell under him: at which, ſtill more incenſed, he ſtruck her the third time. Thoſe who are bent on ruin, will take no warning. 3. The dumb aſs, ſpeaking with man's voice, by a wonderful miracle, rebukes the madneſs of the prophet; ſhe complains juſtly of Balaam's cruelty: he in rage vindicates it with a wiſh he had a ſword to ſlay her, becauſe ſhe had mocked, or rather defiled him. Note, (1.) The whole creation groaneth under their ſufferings, but God hears the cries of the abuſed brutes, and will remember the cruelty of their tormentors. (2.) The inhumanity wherewith many a poor wretch treats his cattle, proves the wickedneſs and madneſs of Balaam in his heart. (3.) They who plead provocation, as an excuſe for their paſſions, will find that a fruitleſs plea at the bar of God. 4. He who gave the dumb beaſt ſpeech, gives her reaſon alſo: ſhe expoſtulates with him on the injuſtice of the treatment, from his paſt experience of her ſerviceableneſs and care of him; and that never before he had cauſe of complaint againſt her. Note, (1.) The uſefulneſs of the creatures to us, is a great call upon us to treat them with tenderneſs. (2.) One undeſigned falſe ſtep muſt not be treated with rigour, when the general tenor of the conduct hath been upright. 5. Balaam's eyes are now opened; the terrible viſion lays him flat on his face, juſtly apprehenſive of that ſword which hung over him. When God opens our eyes, then we ſhall tremble at that danger we were blind to before. The angel rebukes the perverſeneſs of his way, and ſhews him how indebted he was to the beaſt he had ſo injured. Note, We ſhall find them at laſt our beſt friends, whom we deſpiſed, or reviled, for their reproofs of our iniquity. 6. Balaam acknowledges his ſin, and profeſſes to be ready to return, willing to eſcape the danger of the way, though giving no ſymptom of ſorrow for the malignity of his intention againſt Iſrael. Thus ſome are terrified into a partial reformation, whoſe hearts remain ſtill unconverted from the love of ſin. 7. The angel permits his journey, if his mind ſtill led him on; but he is bound up from uttering a ſyllable farther than God ſhould give him, and made the unwilling inſtrument of bleſſing inſtead of curſing Iſrael. Thus God hath in his hands the hearts of all men, and can reſtrain their words and actions, and make the bittereſt enemies of his people inſtruments of good to them.

Before Chriſt 1452.

36. ¶ And when Balak heard that Balaam was come, he went out to meet him, unto a city of Moab, which is in the border of Arnon, which is in the utmoſt coaſt. 37. And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Did I not earneſtly ſend unto thee to call thee? Wherefore cameſt thou not unto me? Am I not able indeed to promote thee to honour? 38. And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Lo, I am come unto thee? have I now any power at all to ſay any thing? the word that God putteth in my mouth, that ſhall I ſpeak. 39. And Balaam went with Balak, and they came unto † Kirjath-Huzoth. 40. And Balak offered oxen, and ſheep, and ſent to Balaam, and to the princes that were with him. 41. And it came to paſs on the morrow, that Balak took Balaam, and brought him up into the high places of Baal, that thence he might ſee the utmoſt part of the people.

† Or, A city of ſtreets.

v. 36—41. Balak haſtes to welcome Balaam to the borders of Moab; ſuch reſpect he pays to a falſe prophet; and ſhall the meſſenger of curſes be thus received with honour, and God's miniſters of peace be deſpiſed? He gently chides him for his delay to accept thoſe honours he deſigned him, and now is confident of ſucceſs. Note, When the ſinner, in his own opinion, is neareſt the ſummit of his wiſhes, then he ſtands on the precipice of deſtruction.——Balaam, with evident grief, declares his power limited, and cannot promiſe much ſucceſs from his coming; however, he is nobly entertained, ſacrifices are offered to the gods of Moab, and, after the firſt day ſpent in feſtal joy, the enſuing morning they ariſe early to proſecute their impotent deſigns; and from the high places of Baal deſcry the moſt diſtant part of Iſrael's hoſt encamped in the plain beneath. Note, They who will not take warning will be given up, like Balaam, to follow their own hearts.

CHAP. XXIII.

In this chapter we have Balak and Balaam buſy at work to do Iſrael a miſchief. Here is, 1. The firſt attempt to curſe Iſrael. (1.) The preparation made for it by ſacrifice, ver. 1—3. (2.) The contrary inſtruction God gave Balaam, ver. 4, 5. (3.) The bleſſing Balaam was compelled to pronounce upon Iſrael inſtead of a curſe, ver. 7—10. (4.) The great diſappointment of Balak, ver. 11, 12. 2. The ſecond attempt balked, ver. 13—26. 3. Preparations made for a third, ver. 27—30. the iſſue of which we have in the next chapter.

1. AND Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Build me here ſeven altars, and prepare me here ſeven oxen, and ſeven rams. 2. And Balak did as Balaam had ſpoken; and Balak and Balaam offered on every altar a bullock and a ram. 3. And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Stand by thy burnt-offering, and I will go: peradventure the LORD will come to meet me; and whatſoever he ſheweth me, I will tell thee. And † he went to an high place. 4. And God met Balaam, and he ſaid unto him, I have prepared ſeven altars, and I have offered upon every altar a bullock and a ram. 5. And the LORD put a word in Balaam's mouth, and ſaid, Return unto Balak, and thus thou ſhalt ſpeak. 6. And he returned unto him, and lo, he ſtood by his burnt-ſacrifice, he, and all the princes of Moab. 7. And he took up his parable and ſaid, Balak the king of Moab, hath brought me from Aram, out of the mountains of the eaſt, ſaying, [a] Come, curſe me, Jacob, and come, defy Iſrael. 8. How ſhall I curſe, whom God hath not curſed? or how ſhall I defy, whom the LORD hath not defied? 9. For from the top of the rocks I ſee him, and from the hills I behold him: lo, [b] the people ſhall dwell alone, and ſhall not be reckoned among the nations. 10. [c] Who can count the duſt of Jacob, and the number of the fourth part of Iſrael? Let ‡ me die [d] the death of the righteous, and let my laſt end be like his. 11. And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, What haſt thou done unto me? I took thee to curſe mine enemies, and behold, thou haſt bleſſed them altogether. 12. And he anſwered and ſaid, Muſt I not take heed to ſpeak that which the LORD hath put in my mouth?

Before Chriſt 1452.

† Heb. He went ſolitary.

[a] Chap. xxii. 6, 11, 17.

[b] Deut. xxxiii. 28.

[c] Gen. xiii. 16.

‡ Heb. My ſoul, or my life.

[d] Pſ. cxvi. 15. Iſa. lvii. 1, 2. Wiſd. v. 5. Luke ii. 29. Rev. xiv. 13.

v. 1—12. To engage God on his ſide Balaam prepares his ſacrifices, and Balak, at his command, offers them on ſeven altars. Hereupon, 1. He retires with an expectation of meeting with God; and though the ſacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the Lord, yet, for purpoſes of his own glory, he will give him his anſwer. Balaam, on God's appearance, boaſts of the charge he had been at in the ſacrifices, and ſeems to expect ſuch an anſwer as correſponded to his wiſhes; but God confounded his deſires, and made him the unwilling prophet of Iſrael's glory and Moab's confuſion. Note, (1.) They who think to make God a debtor by their ſervices, will be deeply diſappointed; the curſe of pride, on the ſervices of the ſelf-righteous, will be heavier than the curſe of ſin on the careleſs. (2.) God will meet thoſe who wait on him in his ways, with an anſwer of peace, and put a word in their mouth of bleſſing and comfort. 2. His return to Balak, who ſtood by his ſacrifice. He was not weary of waiting in ſo bad a cauſe; and ſhall not we much more always pray and never faint? Balak now is big with expectation, but how confounded with Balaam's meſſage! His parable, or prophetic word, confirms Iſrael's bleſſedneſs. 1. He owns his intention was to curſe, but that is impoſſible, God hath decreed the contrary, and nothing can reverſe the ſentence. Inviolable is the ſafety of God's Iſrael, and impotent the malice of men or devils againſt them; none can pluck them from the Saviour's hands, or ſeparate them from his love. 2. He is ſtruck with their appearance, and burſts forth into an admiration of their happineſs. They are confeſſedly a people ſeparated for God, under the divine guidance, and diſtinguiſhed by their honourable peculiarity, from all the nations around them. God's are a ſelected people, choſen by his everlaſting love, called by his effectual grace, diſtinguiſhed by a holy ſeparation from the world, in all their ways, and deſigned to dwell alone with him in his heavenly land of bliſs and glory. He expreſſes his aſtoniſhment at their multitude, countleſs as the duſt of the plain where they appeared; yea the fourth part of them, a ſquadron only of their hoſts, appears innumerable. So remarkably were the promiſes to Abraham fulfilled, even by the confeſſion of their enemies. Note, When all God's ſpiritual Iſrael are collected at the laſt great day, they will be a more glorious hoſt, which no man can number. Fain would he have his lot in death with righteous Iſrael, nor wiſhes a greater portion than that his laſt end might be like theirs. Vain wiſh! ſucceeded by no efforts, and dying as it dropt from his tongue. Note, (1.) The righteous die as other men; God's covenant protects them not from temporal, though it ſecures them from eternal death. (2.) Their death is deſireable, not dreadful; at their abſence from the body they will be admitted to the preſence of their Lord. (3.) Many wiſh their end, who do not like their way; but theſe are inſeparable. We muſt be companions with them in our lives, if in our deaths we would not be divided. Provoked highly at the unexpected diſappointment, with rage the King of Moab reproaches the prophet; while Balaam urges, in his defence, the neceſſity under which he acted, and owns the over-ruling power of the Almighty God. Note, (1.) God will make men know, that the heavens rule. (2.) Kings rage in vain againſt the Lord and againſt his anointed.

13. And Balak ſaid unto him, Come, I pray thee, with with me unto another place, from whence thou mayſt ſee them: thou ſhalt ſee but the utmoſt part of them, and ſhalt not ſee them all: and curſe me them from thence. 14. ¶ And he brought him into the field of Zophim, to the top of † Piſgah, and built ſeven altars, and offered a bullock and a ram on every altar. 15. And he ſaid unto Balak, Stand here by thy burnt-offering, while I meet the LORD yonder. 16. And the LORD met Balaam, and [e] put a word in his mouth, and ſaid, Go again unto Balak, and ſay thus. 17. And when he came to him, behold, he ſtood by his burnt-offering, and the princes of Moab with him. And Balak ſaid unto him, What hath the LORD ſpoken? 18. And he took up his parable and ſaid, Riſe up, Balak, and hear; hearken unto me, thou ſon of Zippor: 19. [f] God is not a man that he ſhould lie, neither the ſon of man, that he ſhould repent: hath he ſaid, and ſhall he not do it? or hath he ſpoken, and ſhall he not make it good? 20. Behold, I have received commandment to bleſs: and he hath bleſſed, and I cannot reverſe it. 21. He hath not beheld iniquity in Jacob, neither hath he ſeen perverſeneſs in Iſrael: the LORD his God is with him, and [g] the ſhout of a king is among them. 22. [h] God brought them out of Egypt: he hath as it were the ſtrength of an unicorn. 23. Surely there is no enchantment againſt Jacob, neither is there any divination ‡ againſt Iſrael: according to this time it ſhall be ſaid of Jacob and of Iſrael, What hath God wrought! 24. Behold, the people ſhall riſe up [i] as a great lion, and lift up himſelf as a young lion: [k] he ſhall not lie down, until he eat of the prey, and drink the blood of the ſlain.

† Or, The hill.
e Chap. xxii. 35.
f 1 Sam. xv. 29. Mal. iii. 6. Rom. xi. 29. Jam. i. 17. Tit. i. 2.
g Pſ. lxxxix. 15.
h Chap. xxiv. 8. Deut. xxxiii. 17.
‡ Or, in.
i Gen. xlix. 9.
k Ibid. 27.

v. 13—24. Not diſcouraged with one diſappointment, this reſtleſs enemy of God's people renews his attempts againſt them, hoping another place and ſacrifice might be more ſucceſsful, and that he might prevail againſt a part of the hoſts of Iſrael, if not againſt the whole. Balaam, as before, goes to meet the Lord, and returns to anſwer Balak's enquiry with a meſſage yet more confounding. They who perſiſt in the ways of ſin, will ſurely find each day repeated and bitterer diſappointments.—Balaam ſummons the King's ſolemn attention; for who dares trifle when God is ſpeaking by his ſervants? 1. He pronounces God's irreverſible decree. His purpoſes are unchangeable, and his word once ſpoken unalterable. Iſrael is ſecure in the divine faithfulneſs, and the object of the divine regard; he beholds no iniquity among them, ſince they had wholly ceaſed from idols. Note, (1.) God's people are bound to truſt him, and are ſafe in his faithfulneſs. His gifts and calling are without repentance. 2. God regards no iniquity in the ſoul that is found in Chriſt; his paſt ſins are all forgiven; his remaining corruption is hid by the conſtant ſprinkling of the blood of Jeſus, and cloathed in perfect righteouſneſs he appears without ſpot before God. 2. He declares their power irreſiſtible. Since God is for them and with them, oppoſition is vain. Note, 'Tis our comfort to think, amidſt every attack of our ſpiritual enemies, that the everlaſting arms of the omnipotent God are under us. 3. He foretells the ravages they ſhould make among the nations, like a great lion amidſt the defenceleſs flocks; ſo that their foes in amazement, and themſelves in triumph, ſhall cry, "What hath God wrought!" Note, (1.) God's wonders of grace will, to eternity, be the matter of his people's triumphant ſongs. (2.) Where Jeſus our King is in the midſt of us, we ſhall aſſuredly go on conquering and to conquer. 4. He owns the vanity of his own inchantments, and the fruitleſsneſs of every other's attempt. Even the enemies of God's people ſhall at laſt be made to confeſs their impotence to hurt them, Viciſti Galilæe.

25. ¶ And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Neither curſe them at all, nor bleſs them at all. 26. But Balaam anſwered and ſaid unto Balak, Told not I thee, ſaying, [l] All that the LORD ſpeaketh, that I muſt do? 27. ¶ And Balak ſaid unto Balaam, Come, I pray thee, I will bring thee unto another place: peradventure it will pleaſe God, that thou mayſt curſe me them from thence. 28. And Balak brought Balaam unto the top of Peor, that looketh [m] toward Jeſhimon. 29. And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Build me here ſeven altars, and prepare me here ſeven bullocks, and ſeven rams. 30. And Balak did as Balaam had ſaid, and offered a bullock and a ram on every altar.

l 1 Kings xxii. 14.
m Chap. xxi. 20.

v. 25—30. Balak is now quite diſpirited with his attempts. Fain would he compound the matter, that Balaam ſhall neither bleſs nor curſe, whilſt he owns the impulſe he is under, which he is unable to controul. God's counſel ſhall ſtand, notwithſtanding the devices of man; and he will make the enemies of his people, however unwilling, know that he hath loved them. Once more the King is earneſt to make trial, and Balaam as deſirous to gain the wages of unrighteouſneſs; the place choſen is ſacred to Baal, the ſacrifices repeated, and there he would fain hope at leaſt ſomething may be done. Note, The devil always labours to prop up the ſinking hopes of ſinners, and leads them from one refuge of lies to another, till their ruin is compleated.

CHAP. XXIV.

In this chapter we are told, 1. The final bleſſing Balaam pronounced over Iſrael, ver. 1—9. 2. His diſmiſſion by Balak, ver. 10—13. 3. The predictions Balaam left behind him concerning Iſrael, and ſome of the neighbour-nations, ver. 14—25.

1. AND when Balaam ſaw that it pleaſed the LORD to bleſs Iſrael, he went not as at [a] other times, † to ſeek for enchantments, but he ſet his face toward the wilderneſs. 2. And Balaam lift up his eyes, and he ſaw Iſrael abiding in his tents, according to their tribes: and the Spirit of God came upon him. 3. [b] And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Balaam the ſon of Beor hath ſaid, and the man ‡ whoſe eyes are open, hath ſaid: 4. He hath ſaid, which heard the words of God, which ſaw the viſion of the Almighty, [c] falling into a trance, but having his eyes open; 5. How goodly are thy tents, O Jacob, and thy tabernacles, O Iſrael! 6. As the valleys are they ſpread forth, as gardens by the river ſide, as the trees of lign-aloes [d] which the LORD hath planted, and as cedar-trees, beſide the waters. 7. He ſhall pour the water out of his buckets, and his ſeed ſhall be in many waters, and his king ſhall be higher than Agag, and his kingdom ſhall be exalted. 8. [e] God brought him forth out of Egypt, he hath as it were the ſtrength of an unicorn: he ſhall eat up the nations his enemies, and ſhall break their bones, and pierce them through with his arrows. 9. [f] He couched, he lay down as a lion, and as a great lion: who ſhall ſtir him up? [g] Bleſſed is he that bleſſeth thee, and curſed is he that curſeth thee.

a Chap. xxiii. 3, 15.
† Heb. To the meeting of inchantments.
b Chap. xxiii. 7, 18.
‡ Heb. Who had his eyes ſhut, but now open.
c See 1 Sam. xix. 24. Ezek. i. 28. Dan. viii. 18. & x. 16. Rev. i. 17.
d Pſ. civ. 16.
e Chap. xxiii. 22.
f Gen. xlix. 9.
g Gen. xii. 3. & xxvii. 29.

v. 1—9. Convinced now how vain were his inchantments, he retires no more to aſk counſel, but ſet his face towards the camp of Iſrael, and the ſpirit of prophecy comes upon him. 1. He prefaces his parable with a boaſt of the viſions he was favoured with, and the diſtinctneſs of his views of the events he predicted. Poor ſubject of boaſting! whilſt his heart remained unchanged, his knowledge rendered him but the more guilty. Note, (1.) 'Tis not light in the underſtanding, but grace in the heart, which is the truly valuable bleſſing. (2.) The knowledge which makes us proud, is the moſt effectual bar to the wiſdom which maketh wiſe unto ſalvation. 2. He admires the beauty of Iſrael's hoſt, and their regularity and order; ſpacious as the valleys, pleaſing to look upon as a blooming garden, fragrant as the ſmell of aloes, and ſtrong as the cedar. The church of God, in this valley of humiliation, is incloſed like a garden from the world around it, watered with the rivers of divine love, adorned with graces more fragrant than ſpices: and every believer is a tree of righteouſneſs planted of God, more flouriſhing and incorruptible than the cedar of Libanus. 3. He foretells the plenty, honour, and conqueſt which God would give them from heaven: his rain ſhall water their furrows; their kings ſhall eclipſe the glory of the moſt renowned monarchs, and their people, ſtrong as the unicorn, ſhall puſh their enemies the Canaanites, as they have done the Egyptians, till they have deſtroyed them, and dwell in peaceful ſecurity; none daring to diſturb them in their poſſeſſions, any more than to rouſe the ſlumbering lion. Note, Great is the glory of God's ſpiritual Iſrael; every believer ſhall be a king upon his throne, and receive a kingdom not only higher than Agag's, but alſo eternal in the heavens. 4. He concludes with a bleſſing on their friends, and a curſe on their enemies. Note, God regards what is done to his ſervants as done to himſelf; whether they be injuries or kindneſſes, he will recompenſe them accordingly.

10. ¶ And Balak's anger was kindled againſt Balaam, and he [h] ſmote his hands together: and Balak ſaid unto Balaam, I called thee to curſe mine enemies, and behold, thou haſt altogether bleſſed them theſe three times. 11. Therefore now flee thou to thy place: I thought to promote thee unto great honour, but lo, the LORD hath kept thee back from honour. 12. And Balaam ſaid unto Balak, Spake I not alſo to thy meſſengers, which thou ſenteſt unto me, ſaying, 13. [i] If Balak would give me

h Ezek. xx 14, 17. & xxii. 13.
i Chap. xx 18.

me his houſe full of ſilver and gold, I cannot go beyond the commandment of the LORD, to do either good or bad of mine own mind; but what the LORD ſaith, that will I ſpeak. 14. And now behold, I go unto my people: come therefore, and [k] I will advertiſe thee, what this people ſhall do to thy people [l] in the latter days.

[k] Mic. vi. 5. Rev. ii. 14.
[l] Gen. xlix. 1.

v. 10—14. Balak now, in the height of fury, ſmites his hands, baniſhes Balaam his country, reproaches him for his diſappointment, and mentions the honours he had loſt. Balaam replies, that he acted as he was neceſſitated, and had given him fair warning, he could do no other; but to compenſate, in ſome meaſure, his diſappointment, he will advertiſe him of what muſt happen in his own and the neighbour countries hereafter; but the viſion is diſtant, and there ſhall be peace in his days. Note, (1.) Whatever we loſe, or whatever reproach we ſuffer for faithful adherence to God's word, we ſhall be great gainers at laſt. (2.) They are doubly wretched, whom an awakened conſcience will not ſuffer to enjoy this world, yet live in bondage to thoſe luſts that muſt exclude them from heaven.

15. ¶ And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Balaam the ſon of Beor hath ſaid, and the man whoſe eyes are open, hath ſaid: 16. He hath ſaid, which heard the words of God, and knew the knowledge of the moſt High, which ſaw the viſion of the Almighty, falling into a trance, but having his eyes open: 17. I ſhall ſee him, but not now: I ſhall behold him, but not nigh: there ſhall come [m] a Star out of Jacob, and [n] a Sceptre ſhall riſe out of Iſrael, and ſhall † ſmite the corners of Moab, and deſtroy all the children of Sheth. 18. And [o] Edom ſhall be a poſſeſſion, Seir alſo ſhall be a poſſeſſion for his enemies, and Iſrael ſhall do valiantly. 19. Out of Jacob ſhall come he that ſhall have dominion, and ſhall deſtroy him that remaineth of the city. 20. And when he looked on Amalek, he took up his parable, and ſaid, Amalek was ‡ the firſt of the nations, but his latter end ſhall be, ‖ that he periſh for ever. 21. And he looked on the Kenites; and took up his parable, and ſaid, Strong is thy dwelling-place, and thou putteſt thy neſt in a rock. 22. Nevertheleſs § the Kenite ſhall be waſted, * until Aſſhur ſhall carry thee away captive. 23. And he took up his parable, and ſaid, Alas, who ſhall live when God doth this! 24. And ſhips ſhall come from the coaſt of [p] Chittim, and ſhall afflict Aſſhur, and ſhall afflict [q] Eber, and he alſo ſhall periſh for ever. 25. And Balaam roſe up, and went and [r] returned to his place; and Balak alſo went his way.

[m] Mat. ii. 2. Rev. xxii. 16.
[n] Pſ. cx. 2.
† Heb. ſmite through the corners of Moab. See 2 Sam. viii. 2.
[o] 2 Sam. viii. 14. Pſ. lx. 8, 9, 12.
‡ i. e. that warred with Iſrael. See Exod. xvii. 8.
‖ Or, even to deſtruction. 1 Sam. xv. 3.
§ Heb. Rain.
* Or, how long ſhall it be ere Aſſhur carry thee away captive?
[p] Gen. x. 4. Dan. xi. 30.
[q] Gen. x. 21.
[r] See Chap. xxxi. 8.

v. 15—25. We have here Balaam's parting prophecy, and a memorable one it is. He prefaces it as before, with a boaſt of his own high knowledge, and the viſions of the Almighty he had been favoured with; and they were great indeed, but to him unprofitable. Many a man knows much of God, and ſpeaks moſt honourably of him, who hath neither true faith in him, nor love of him. The prophecy itſelf reſpects a double event, the ſubdual of the enemies of God's Iſrael, ſpiritual and temporal. 1. The Edomites and Moabites are to be ſubdued by the arms of Iſrael, which came to paſs in the reign of that bright ſtar of Jacob King David; who was herein a type of his Lord, the Meſſiah. Him at a diſtance Balaam ſaw, as a ſtar bright in glory, and with that ſceptre whoſe rule ſhall never end; triumphant over all the enemies of his people, and animating them with that holy courage which ſhall make all the powers of darkneſs yield to them the victory. Probably from Balaam, by tradition, this prophecy was ſpread in the eaſt; and when that extraordinary ſtar appeared to the wiſe men, it awakened their enquiries after the perſon whom the ſtar repreſented. 2. The Amalekites are doomed to ſuffer for their enmity againſt Iſrael; Amalek, who firſt attacked them, ſhall be utterly conſumed, which Saul, in great meaſure, fulfilled, and was entirely effected in the days of Hezekiah. Note, They who are at enmity with God's people ſhall ſmart for it, to their ruin. 3. Concerning the Kenites, who dwelt among the Amalekites, he predicts their captivity by the Aſſyrians, ſtrong and even impregnable as their abode appeared. No fortifications are proof againſt the decree of God. 4. He foretells the affliction of the Jews, under the Grecian and Roman monarchies, after their conqueſts of the Aſſyrians, but theſe alſo muſt ſucceſſively ſink into ruins; and as the power of a ſon of Eber, the Meſſiah, by his providence, hath overturned theſe mighty ſtates, his grace ſhall finally ſubdue every remaining antichriſtian power, and Rome papal ſhall periſh as Rome pagan hath done, their power be broken, and that kingdom be eſtabliſhed where Jeſus ſhall reign for ever over his ſaints glorioufly. Happy the ſoul that lives when the Lord doth this, and partakes of his everlaſting triumphs!

CHAP. XXV.

Here is, 1. The ſin of Iſrael, ver. 1—3. 2. The puniſhment of this ſin, ver. 4—9. 3. The pious zeal of Phinehas in ſlaying Zimri and Cozbi, two impudent ſinners, ver. 6, 8, 14, 15. 4. God's commendation of the zeal of Phinehas, ver. 10, 13. 5. Enmity put between the Iſraelites and the Midianites, ver. 16—18.

1. AND Iſrael abode in [a] Shittim, and [b] the people begun to commit whoredom with the daughters of Moab. 2. And [c] they called the people unto [d] the ſacrifices of their gods: and the people did eat, and bowed down to their gods: 3. And Iſrael joined himſelf unto Baal-peor: and the anger of the LORD was kindled againſt Iſrael. 4. And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, [e] Take all the heads of the people, and hang them up before the LORD againſt the ſun, that the fierce anger of the LORD may be turned away from Iſrael. 5. And Moſes ſaid unto [f] the judges of Iſrael, [g] Slay ye every one his men, that were joined unto Baal-peor.

[a] Chap. xxx. 16. & xxxiii. 49.
[b] 1 Cor. x. 6.
[c] Joſh. xxii. 17. Pſ. cvi. 28. Hoſ. ix. 10.
[d] Exod. xxxiv. 15. 1 Cor x. 20.
[e] Deut. iv. 3. Joſh. xxii. 17.
[f] Exod. xviii. 21, 25.
[g] Exod. xxxii. 27.

v. 1—5. Balaam's counſel, before he left Moab, produced a worſe effect than his intended curſe could have done; and the charms of Moab's daughters proved a more fatal ſnare to Iſrael's hoſts than all his inchantments. The alluring arts of laſcivious beauty are the ſtrongeſt witchcraft of the devil. Obſerve,

1. The crying ſins Iſrael committed; whoredom and idolatry. The daughters of Moab, armed with more offenſive weapons than Balak's mighty warriors, with eyes full of adultery, that cannot ceaſe from ſin, and tongues ſmoother than oil, yet ſharper than drawn ſwords, beſet them, and (ſhameful to tell!) prevail. Bound in theſe ſilken cords of pleaſure's lure, they run to thoſe ſacrifices they before abhorred; for the gratification of beſtial appetites deny their God, and ſacrifice to the abomination of the Moabites. Blind to the happy land before them, even at Shittim, in full view of it, they prefer a preſent luſt to all the promiſes of a covenant God. Dreadful and aggravated crime! Note, (1.) They who tempt others to ſin, are the moſt guilty inſtruments of the devil. (2.) The love of women is the moſt dangerous of temptations. (3.) Flight is the only conqueſt. (4.) If once the heart be enſnared, there are no lengths unto which the miſerable ſlave of luſt and beauty may not be led. (5.) Nothing more endangers the ſoul's final apoſtacy from God, than yielding to the ſollicitation of the fleſh. (6.) By this ſin eſpecially the ſpirit of God is grieved, and the wrath of God brought down upon the ſinner.

2. The judgment of God upon them. They will buy pleaſure dear, who purchaſe it at the price of God's diſpleaſure, and eternal damnation. Execution is immediately done upon the princes, the chief of the offenders; they are hung up before the Lord, and a plague conſumes the people. Note, (1.) The fire of luſt and the flames of hell are inſeparable. (2.) The greatneſs of the offender is an aggravation of the crime, and therefore ſuch ſhould never be ſpared. (3.) The plagues of God will quickly turn the ſweets of forbidden pleaſure into the gall of aſps, and the gnawings of the worm that never dies.

6. ¶ And behold one of the children of Iſrael came, and brought unto his brethren a Midianitiſh woman, in the ſight of Moſes, and in the ſight of all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, who were weeping before the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. 7. And [h] when Phinehas, [i] the ſon of Eleazar, the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, ſaw it, he roſe up from amongſt the congregation, and took a javelin in his hand; 8. And he went after the man of Iſrael into the tent, and thruſt both of them through, the man of Iſrael and the woman through her belly; ſo the plague was ſtayed from the children of Iſrael. 9. [k] And thoſe that died in the plague, were twenty and four thouſand. 10. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 11. [l] Phinehas the ſon of Eleazar, the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, hath turned my wrath away from the children of Iſrael, (while he was zealous † for my ſake among them) that I conſumed not the children of Iſrael in my jealouſy. 12. Wherefore ſay, Behold, [m] I give unto him my covenant of peace. 13. And he ſhall have it, and [n] his ſeed after him, even the covenant of an everlaſting prieſthood, becauſe he was zealous for his God, and made an atonement for the children of Iſrael. 14. Now the name of the Iſraelite that was ſlain, even that was ſlain with the Midianitiſh woman, was Zimri the ſon of Salu, a prince of a ‡ chief houſe among [h] Pſal. cvi. 30. 1 Mac. ii. 54.

[i] Exod. vi. 25.
[k] 1 Cor. x. 8.
[l] Ver. 7. Pſal. cvi. 30.
† Heb. With my zeal. See 2 Cor. xi. 2.
[m] Mal. ii. 4, 5. & iii. 1. Ecclus xlv. 24. 1 Mac. ii. 54.
[n] See 1 Chron. vi. 4, &c.
‡ Heb. houſe of a father.

the Simeonites. 15. And the name of the Midianitiſh woman that was ſlain, was Cozbi the daughter of [o] Zur; he was head over a people, and of a chief houſe in Midian.

Before Chriſt 1451.

[o] Chap. xxxi. 8. Joſh. xiii. 21.

v. 6—15. Never was wickedneſs more daring than in Zimri, nor zeal more flaming than in Phinehas. Whilſt Moſes and the people were, with penitential tears, lamenting their ſin, and deprecating the judgments they had provoked, with bare-faced impudence, as if glorying in his ſhame, this prince of Simeon leads a harlot of quality openly to his tents. Note, Impudence in ſin is uſually the conſequence of lewdneſs. Phinehas, fired with jealouſy for God's glory, and indignation at the horrid crime, haſtens to follow this ſhameleſs pair, ſurprizes them in their crime, and plunging his javelin through them both, executes upon them, as God's magiſtrate, deſerved vengeance. Though ſome ſinners are too great for human laws, let them know there is a ſword of God will reach them.—God expreſſes his approbation of the deed, by a removal of the plague which had begun, and ſettles the entail of the prieſthood on the children of Phinehas; becauſe by his zeal as a prieſt, and fidelity as a magiſtrate, he had turned away wrath from the congregation. Note, (1.) The impartial diſtribution of juſtice upon offenders, is one chief means to rid the land of ſin, and ſave it from God's plagues, (2.) In God's cauſe we muſt not fear to rebuke the greateſt or moſt daring ſinners. (3.) God will recompenſe thoſe who are zealous in his cauſe with peculiar bleſſings.

16. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 17. [p] Vex the Midianites, and ſmite them: 18. For they vex you with their wiles, wherewith they have beguiled you, in the matter of Peor, and in the matter of Cozbi, the daughter of a prince of Midian their ſiſter, which was ſlain in the day of the plague, for Peor's ſake.

[p] Chap. xxxi. 2.

v. 16—18. Whilſt Iſrael ſmarts under the rod of correction, let not the Midianites, the occaſion of their ſin, think they ſhall go unpuniſhed; the ſword of vengeance awakes, and Midian is conſumed. Note, They who turn tempters to others, muſt expect ſhortly themſelves to be tormented with the devil and his angels: His work and wages go together.

CHAP. XXVI.

In this chapter, 1. Orders are given for numbring the people, ver. 1—4. 2. A regiſter of the families, and numbers of each tribe, ver. 5—50. and the ſum total, ver. 51. 3. Direction given to divide the land among them, ver. 52—56. 4. The families and numbers of the Levites by themſelves, ver. 57—62. 5. Notice is taken of the fulfilling of the threatning in the death of all theſe that were firſt numbred, ver. 63—65.

1. AND it came to paſs after the plague, that the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, and unto Eleazar the ſon of Aaron the prieſt, ſaying, 2. [a] Take the ſum of all the congregation of the children of Iſrael, [b] from twenty years old and upward, throughout their father's houſe, all that are able to go to war in Iſrael. 3. And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt ſpake with them in the plains of Moab, by Jordan, near Jericho, ſaying, 4. Take the ſum of the people, from twenty years old and upward; as [c] the LORD commanded Moſes and the children of Iſrael, which went forth out of the land of Egypt. 5. ¶ [d] Reuben the eldeſt ſon of Iſrael: the children of Reuben; Hanoch, of whom cometh the family of the Hanochites: of Pallu, the family of the Palluites: 6. Of Heſron, the family of the Heſronites: of Carmi, the family of the Carmites. 7. Theſe are the families of the Reubenites: and they that were numbred of them were forty and three thouſand and ſeven hundred and thirty. 8. And the ſons of Pallu; Eliab. 9. And the ſons of Eliab; Nemuel, and Dathan, and Abiram. This is that Dathan and Abiram which were [e] famous in the congregation, who ſtrove againſt Moſes and againſt Aaron in the company of Korah, when they ſtrove againſt the LORD: 10. And the earth opened her mouth, and ſwallowed them up together with Korah, when that company died, what time the fire devoured two hundred and fifty men: and [f] they became a ſign. 11. Notwithſtanding, the children of Korah died not. 12. ¶ The ſons of Simeon after their families: of [g] Nemuel, the family of the Nemuelites: of Jamin, the family of the Jaminites: of [h] Jachin, the family of the Jachinites: 13. Of [i] Zera, the family of the Zarhites: of Shaul, the family of the Shaulites. 14. Theſe are the families of the Simeonites, twenty and two thouſand and two hundred. 15. ¶ The children of Gad, after their families: of [k] Zephon, the family of the Zephonites: of Haggi, the family of the Haggites: of Shuni, the family of the Shunites: 16. Of [l] Ozni, the family of the Oznites: of Eri, the family of the Erites: 17. Of [m] Arod, the family of the Arodites: of Areli, the family of the Arelites. 18. Theſe are the families of the children of Gad, according to thoſe that were numbred of them, forty thouſand and five hundred. 19. ¶ [n] The ſons of Judah were Er and Onan: and Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan. 20. And the ſons of Judah after their families were; of Shelah, the family of the Shelanites: of Pharez, the family of the Pharzites: of Zerah, the family of the Zarhites: 21. And the ſons of Pharez were; of Heſron, the family of the Heſronites: of Hamul, the family of the Hamulites. 22. Theſe are the families of Judah, according to thoſe that were numbred of them, threeſcore and ſixteen thouſand and five hundred. 23. ¶ [o] Of the ſons of Iſſachar after their families: of Tola, the family of the Tolaites: of † Pua, the family of the Punites: 24. Of ‡ Jaſhub, the family of the Jaſhubites: of Shimron, the family of the Shimronites. 25. Theſe are the families of Iſſachar, according to thoſe that were numbred of them, threeſcore and four thouſand and three hundred. 26. ¶ [p] Of the ſons of Zebulun, after their families: Of Sered, the family of the Sardites: of Elon, the family of the Elonites: of Jahleel, the family of the Jahleelites. 27. Theſe are the families of the Zebulunites, according to thoſe that were numbred of them, threeſcore thouſand and five hundred. 28. ¶ [q] The ſons of Joſeph after their families, were Manaſſeh and Ephraim. 29. Of the ſons of Menaſſeh: [r] of Machir, the family of the Machirites: and Machir begat Gilead: of Gilead come the family of the Gileadites. 30. Theſe are the ſons of Gilead: of [s] Jeezer, the family of the Jeezerites: of Helek the family of the Helekites: 31. And of Aſriel, the family of the Aſrielites: and of Shechem, the family of the Shechemites: 32. And of Shemida, the family of the Shemidaites: and of Hepher, the family of the Hepherites. 33. ¶ And [t] Zelophehad the ſon of Hepher had no ſons, but daughters: and the names of the daughters of Zelophehad, were Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. 34. Theſe are the families of Manaſſeh, and thoſe that were numbred of them, fifty and two thouſand and ſeven hundred. 35. ¶ Theſe are the ſons of Ephraim, after their families: of Shuthelah, the family of the Shuthalhites: of [u] Bechar, the family of the Bachrites: of Tahan, the family of the Tahanites. 36. And theſe are the ſons of Shuthelah: of Eran, the family of the Eranites: 37. Theſe are the families of the ſons of Ephraim, according to thoſe that were numbred of them, thirty and two thouſand and five hundred. Theſe are the ſons of Joſeph, after their families. 38. ¶ [x] The ſons of Benjamin after their families: of Bela, the family of the Belaites: of Aſhbel, the family of the Aſhbelites: of [y] Ahiram, the family of the Ahiramites: 39. Of [z] Shupham, the family of the Shuphamites: of Hupham, the family of the Huphamites. 40. And of the ſons of Bela were [a] Ard and Naaman: of Ard, the family of the Ardites: and of Naaman, the family of the Naamites. 41. Theſe are the ſons of Benjamin after their families: and they that were numbred of them, were forty and five thouſand and ſix hundred. 42. ¶ [b] Theſe are the ſons of Dan after their families: of ‖ Shuham, the family of the Shuhamites. Theſe are the families of Dan after their families. 43. All the families of the Shuhamites, according to thoſe that were numbred of them, were threeſcore and four thouſand and four hundred. 44. ¶ [c] Of the children of Aſher after their families: of Jimna, the family of the Jimnites: of Jeſui, the family of the Jeſuites: of Beriah, the family of the Beriites. 45. Of the ſons of Beriah: of Heber, the family of the Heberites: of Malchiel, the family of the Malchielites. 46. And the name of the daughter of Aſher, was Sarah. 47. Theſe are the families of the ſons of Aſher, according to thoſe that were numbred of them, who were fifty and three thouſand and

[a] Exod. xxx. 12. & xxxviii. 25, 26. Chap. i. 2.
[b] Chap. i. 3.
[c] Chap. i. 1.
[d] Gen. xlvi. 8. Exod. vi. 14. 1 Chron. v. 1.
[e] Chap. xvi. 2.
[f] Chap. xvi. 38. See 2 Pet. ii. 6.
[g] Jemuel. Gen. xlvi. 10.
[h] 1 Chron. iv. 24. Jarib.
[i] Gen. xlvi. 10. Zohar.

Before Chriſt 1451.

[k] Gen. xlvi. 16. Ziphion.
[l] Gen. xlvi. 16. Ezbon.
[m] Gen. xlvi. 16. Arodi.
[n] Gen. xxxviii. 2, &c. & xlvi. 12. 1 Chron. ii. 3.
[o] Gen. xlvi. 13. 1 Chron. vii. 1.
† Or Puvah.
‡ Or Job.
[p] Gen. xlvi. 14.
[q] Ibid. 20.
[r] Joſh. xvii. 1.
[s] Ibid. 2. Judg. vi. 11, 24, 34. Abiezer.
[t] Chap. xxvii. 1. & xxxvi. 11.
[u] 1 Chron. vii. 20. Bered.
[x] 1 Chron. vii. 6.
[y] Gen. xlvi. 21. Ehi & Aharah. 1 Chron. viii. 1.
[z] Gen. xlvi. 21. Muppim & Huppim.
[a] 1 Chron. viii. 3. Addar.
[b] Gen. xlvi. 23.
‖ Or, Huſhim.
[c] Gen. xlvi. 17. 1 Chron. vii. 30.

and four hundred. 48. [d] Of the ſons of Naphtali, after their families: of Jahzeel, the family of the Jahzeelites: of Guni, the family of the Gunites: 49. Of Jezer, the family of the Jezerites: of [e] Shillem, the family of the Shillemites. 50. Theſe are the families of Naphtali, according to their families: and they that were numbred of them, were forty and five thouſand and four hundred. 51. [f] Theſe were numbred of the children of Iſrael, ſix hundred thouſand and a thouſand ſeven hundred and thirty.

[d] Gen. xlvi. 24. 1 Chron. vii. 13.
[e] 1 Chron. vii. 13. Shallum.
[f] See Chap. i. 46.

v. 1—51. At God's command Moſes, and Eleazar now joined in commiſſion with him, number the people after the plague. Though they are corrected, they are not given over unto death. Their numbers, notwithſtanding the judgments whereby they had been conſumed, were but inconſiderably diminiſhed; though the ſeveral tribes had undergone great changes, ſeven of them had increaſed, whilſt five had been diminiſhed, and ſome of them in a ſurpriſing degree. It is obſerveable that Simeon and Reuben were among the latter, whoſe princes are mentioned in the former rebellions as chief, and probably their tribes ſuffered for their adherence to them. Partakers of other men's ſins muſt ſuffer with them. Dathan and Abiram are again ſtamped with the brand of infamy; and Korah's children taken notice of, as not dying with their father: as they ſeem not to have joined their father in rebellion, they are ſpared as monuments of God's mercy, and employed, as their brethren, in the ſervice of the ſanctuary. If children follow not their parents ill examples, they ſhall not be upbraided with them.

52. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 53. Unto theſe the land ſhall be divided for an inheritance, according to the number of names. 54. [g] To many thou ſhalt † give the more inheritance, and to few thou ſhalt ‡ give the leſs inheritance: to every one ſhall his inheritance be given, according to thoſe that were numbred of him. 55. Notwithſtanding, [h] the land ſhall be divided by lot: according to the names of the tribes of their fathers they ſhall inherit. 56. According to the lot ſhall the poſſeſſion thereof be divided, between many and few,

[g] Chap. xxxiii. 54.
† Heb. multiply his inheritance.
‡ Heb. diminiſh his inheritance.
[h] Chap. xxxiii. 54. Joſh. xi. 23. & xiv. 2.

v. 52—56. The land is ordered to be divided before it is conquered, becauſe the poſſeſſion was enſured to them. The diviſion of it is according to their numbers; the larger tribe ſhall have moſt, the leſſer in proportion: and yet this is to be determined by lot, that ſo every tribe may ſee God's appointment in the bounds of their habitation, and acquieſce in it. Note, Our place and abode, and a thouſand circumſtances of our lives, to us ſeem utterly fortuitous; but all correſpond with God's decree, and anſwer the eternal plan of his providence; a forcible reaſon for unreſerved reſignation and contentment in every place or ſtation.

57. ¶ And [i] theſe are they that were numbred of the Levites after their families: of Gerſhon, the family of the Gerſhonites: of Kohath, the family of the Kohathites: of Merari, the family of the Merarites. 58. Theſe are the families of the Levites: the family of the Libnites, the family of the Hebronites, the family of the Mahlites, the family of the Muſhites, the family of the Korathites: and Kohath begat Amram. 59. And the name of Amram's wife was [k] Jochebed the daughter of Levi, whom her mother bare to Levi in Egypt: and ſhe bare unto Amram, Aaron and Moſes, and Miriam their ſiſter. 60. And unto Aaron was born Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. 61. And [l] Nadab and Abihu died, when they offered ſtrange fire before the LORD. 62. [m] And thoſe that were numbred of them, were twenty and three thouſand, all males from a month old and upward: for [n] they were not numbred among the children of Iſrael, becauſe there was no inheritance given them among the children of Iſrael.

[i] Gen. xlvi. 11. Exod. vi. 16, 17, 18, 19. 1 Chron. vi. 1, 16.
[k] Exod. ii. 1, 2. & vi. 20.
[l] Lev. x. 2. Chap. iii. 4. 1 Chron. xxiv. 2.
[m] See Chap. iii. 39.
[n] Chap. i. 49.

v. 57—62. Though the tribe of Levi came not under the ſentence pronounced on the reſt, they continued ſtill the ſmalleſt tribe; and were increaſed but one thouſand during theſe forty years. Nadab and Abihu's puniſhment, like Korah's, is remarked, that their brethren might remember, and dread to follow ſo bad examples.

63. ¶ Theſe are they that were numbred by Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt, who numbred the children of Iſrael, in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho. 64. But [o] among theſe there was not a man of them whom Moſes and Aaron the prieſt numbred, when they numbred the children of Iſrael in the wilderneſs of Sinai. 65. For the LORD had ſaid of them, They [p] ſhall ſurely die in the wilderneſs: and there was not left a man of them, ſave Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun.

[o] See Chap. Deut. ii. 4, 15.
[p] Chap. xiv. 28, 29. 1 Chron. x. 5, 6.

v. 63—65. Here is a moſt obſervable accompliſhment of the Divine threatning. Not a man is left of the former numbering, ſave Caleb and Joſhua. Note, (1.) Nothing can diſappoint the Divine decree. The ſinner, however long reſpited, muſt periſh at the laſt. (2.) Our lives are in God's hand, and every arrow of death hath its name and commiſſion written on it; they are perfectly ſafe amidſt the peſtilence, and the garments rolled in blood, concerning whom God ſaith, Come not near the men on whom is my mark.

CHAP. XXVII.

Here is, 1. The caſe of Zelophehad's daughters determined, ver. 1—11. 2. Notice given to Moſes of his death approaching, ver. 12—14. Proviſion made of a ſucceſſor in the government, 1. By the prayer of Moſes, ver. 15—17. 2. By the appointment of God, ver. 18—23.

1. THEN came the daughters of [a] Zelophehad, the ſon of Hepher, the ſon of Gilead, the ſon of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh, of the families of Manaſſeh, the ſon of Joſeph; and theſe are the names of his daughters, Mahlah, Noah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Tirzah. 2. And they ſtood before Moſes, and before Eleazar the prieſt, and before the princes, and all the congregation, by the door of the tabernacle of the congregation, ſaying, 3. [b] Our father died in the wilderneſs, and he was not in the company of them that gathered themſelves together againſt the LORD [c] in the company of Korah: but died in his own ſin, and had no ſons. 4. Why ſhould the name of our father be † done away from among his family, becauſe he hath no ſon? [d] Give unto us therefore a poſſeſſion among the brethren of our father. 5. And Moſes brought their cauſe before the LORD. 6. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 7. The daughters of Zelophehad ſpeak right: [e] thou ſhalt ſurely give them a poſſeſſion of an inheritance among their father's brethren, and thou ſhalt cauſe the inheritance of their father to paſs unto them. 8. And thou ſhalt ſpeak unto the children of Iſrael, ſaying, If a man die, and have no ſon, then ye ſhall cauſe his inheritance to paſs unto his daughter. 9. And if he have no daughter, then ye ſhall give his inheritance unto his brethren. 10. And if he have no brethren, then ye ſhall give his inheritance unto his father's brethren. 11. And if his father have no brethren, then ye ſhall give his inheritance unto his kinſman, that is next to him of his family, and he ſhall poſſeſs it: and it ſhall be unto the children of Iſrael a ſtatute of judgment, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

[a] Chap. xxvi. 33. & xxxvi. 1, 11. Joſh. xvii. 3.
[b] Chap. xiv. 35. & xxvi. 64, 65.
[c] Chap. xvi. 1, 2.
† Heb. Diminiſhed.
[d] Joſh. xvii. 4.
[e] Chap. xxxvi. 2.

v. 1—11. Here is the caſe of Zelophehad's daughters. Unwilling to be excluded from their father's ſhare of Canaan, they make application to the high court of judicature, where Moſes ſat as preſident; and petition, that ſince their father died not under any particular act of rebellion and attainder, but under the common ſin, they might ſhare his inheritance. They expreſſed their dependance in God's faithfulneſs, and an earneſt deſire to have a lot in the land of promiſe. Wiſe virgins indeed! May we follow their faith and ſollicitude, that we may have a part in the heavenly Canaan. As the requeſt was unprecedented, Moſes enquires of God, and he declares it juſt and reaſonable. Hereupon a ſtanding law is made for the future, that daughters, in fault of male iſſue, ſhall ſhare alike their father's patrimony; and if there be no children, it ſhall deſcend to the neareſt lineal deſcendant. Note, In diſpoſing of our eſtates, though we may not be bound by this Jewiſh law, yet it is the dictate of juſtice, that we alienate not our eſtate from the lineal heir, to indulge the pride of raiſing a name, or through miſtaken ideas of meritorious charities.

12. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, [f] Get thee up into this mount Abarim, and ſee the land which I have given unto the children of Iſrael. 13. And when thou haſt ſeen it, thou alſo ſhalt be gathered unto thy people, as [g] Aaron thy brother was gathered. 14. For [h] ye rebelled againſt my commandment (in the deſert of Zin, [f] Chap. xxxiii. 47. Deut. iii. 27, & xxxii. 49, & xxxiv. 1.

[g] Chap. xx. 24, 28. & xxxi. 2. Deut. x. 6.
[h] Chap. xx. 12, 14. Deut. i. 37. Pſal. cvi. 32.

Before Chriſt 1451.

Zin, in the ſtrife of the congregation) to ſanctify me at the water before their eyes: that is [i] the water of Meribah in Kadeſh in the wilderneſs of Zin.

[i] Exod. xvii. 7.

v. 12—14. Moſes is warned of his death, and reminded of his ſin, which was the cauſe of it. He muſt not enter Canaan, but he may be gratified with the ſight of it. For this purpoſe, he is ordered to go up to mount Abarim, and there, as Aaron before him, in mount Hor, after he had ſeen the promiſed land, he muſt be gathered to his fathers. Note, (1.) The deareſt ſervants of God go not unpuniſhed for their offences. (2.) Temporal death is the tribute we all muſt pay for ſin. (3.) The dying believer is by faith enabled to ſee the heavenly country, and to rejoice in the proſpect even on this ſide the grave. (4.) It is among the great comforts of death, that we are going to thoſe, whoſe preſence and company will make the exchange of ſtates moſt deſirable. (5.) We ſhould improve by the death of thoſe whom we have ſeen depart before us in comfort and peace, and be encouraged to hope, that our laſt end ſhall be like theirs.

15. ¶ And Moſes ſpake unto the LORD, ſaying, 16. Let the LORD, [k] the God of the ſpirits of all fleſh, ſet a man over the congregation, 17. [l] Which may go out before them, and which may go in before them, and which may lead them out, and which may bring them in; that the congregation of the LORD be not [m] as ſheep which have no ſhepherd. 18. ¶ And the LORD ſaid unto Moſes, Take thee Joſhua the ſon of Nun, a man [n] in whom is the ſpirit, and [o] lay thine hand upon him. 19. And ſet him before Eleazar the prieſt, and before all the congregation; and give him a charge in their ſight. 20. And [p] thou ſhalt put ſome of thine honour upon him, that all the congregation of the children of Iſrael may be obedient. 21. And [q] he ſhall ſtand before Eleazar the prieſt, who ſhall aſk counſel for him, [r] after the judgment of Urim before the LORD: [s] at his word ſhall they go out, and at his word they ſhall come in, both he and all the children of Iſrael with him, even all the congregation. 22. And Moſes did as the LORD commanded him: and he took Joſhua, and ſet him before Eleazar the prieſt, and before all the congregation. 23. And he laid his hands upon him, and [t] gave him a charge, as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moſes.

[k] Chap. xvi. 22. Hebr. xii. 9.
[l] 2 Chron. i. 10.
[m] 1 Kings xxii. 17. Zech. x. 2. Mat. ix. 36. Mark vi. 34.
[n] Gen. xli. 38. Judg iii. 10. & xi. 29. 1 Sam. xvi. 13, 18.
[o] Deut. xxxiv. 9.
[p] See Chap. xi. 27, 28. 1 Sam. x. 6, 9. 2 Kings ii. 15.
[q] See Joſh. ix. 14. Judg. i. 1. & xx. 18. 1 Sam. xxiii. 9. & xxx. 7.
[r] Exod. xxviii. 30.
[s] Joſh. ix. 14. 1 Sam. xxii. 10.
[t] Deut. iii. 28.

v. 15—23. With tender ſollicitude for the people, that they may not be left as ſheep without a ſhepherd, we have here,

1. Moſes' prayer. He addreſſes God, as the God of the ſpirits of men, and therefore the beſt judge of their capacities, to chuſe a man to be their captain in battle, and their faithful magiſtrate; that after his death, there may be no diſputes about the government, and the people under no inconvenience for want of a fit commander. Note, (1.) A real patriot extends his views to the future welfare of his nation. (2.) The riſing generation ſhould be our peculiar care, that when we are dead, the congregation of the Lord may ſtill flouriſh, and his kingdom be eſtabliſhed.

2. God anſwers his requeſt in the appointment of Joſhua. He is a man in whom is the ſpirit: the ſpirit of grace, as a good man; the ſpirit of wiſdom, as a great man; and the ſpirit of courage, as a brave man. Eminent ſervices require eminent gifts and graces. In order to his ſolemn inauguration as his ſucceſſor, he is commanded to preſent him to the people, to give him a ſolemn charge for his future conduct, before them all; to lay his hands upon him, as delegating his office to him, and to honour him, by aſſociating him into the government with him immediately. Eleazar is appointed as his council, to ſtand before God to enquire for him, that being under a Divine guidance, he might be enſured of ſucceſs. Note, They will certainly be guided aright, who take care always to conſult the divine oracles.

3. Moſes chearfully obeys. Not envious of his ſucceſſor, nor ſollicitous about the intereſts of his own family, his ſingle care is the good of the people; a noble inſtance of diſintereſted zeal, and a ſure proof of the unfeigned humility and integrity of his own heart. Let true patriots imitate ſo worthy an example.

CHAP. XXVIII.

This chapter contains ſundry ordinances of worſhip, and provides that now they were entring Canaan, they ſhould be ſure to take their religion along with them, and not forget that, in the proſecution of their wars, ver. 1, 2. The laws ſummed up concerning the ſacrifices, 1. Daily, ver. 3—8. 2. Weekly, ver. 9, 10. 3. Monthly, ver. 11—15. 4. Yearly, 1. At the paſſover, ver. 16—25. 2. At pentecoſt, ver. 26—31.

Before Chriſt 1451.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Command the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, My offering and [a] my bread for my ſacrifices made by fire for a † ſweet ſavour unto me, ſhall ye obſerve to offer unto me in their due ſeaſon. 3. And thou ſhalt ſay unto them, [b] This is the offering made by fire, which ye ſhall offer unto the LORD: two lambs of the firſt year without ſpot, ‖ day by day for a continual burnt-offering. 4. The one lamb ſhalt thou offer in the morning, and the other lamb ſhalt thou offer ‡ at even. 5. And [c] a tenth part of an ephah of flour for [d] a meat-offering, mingled with the fourth part of [e] an hin of beaten oil. 6. It is a continual burnt-offering, [f] which was ordained in mount Sinai, for a ſweet ſavour, a ſacrifice made by fire unto the LORD. 7. And the drink offering thereof ſhall be the fourth part of an hin for the one lamb: [g] in the holy place ſhalt thou cauſe the ſtrong wine to be poured unto the LORD for a drink-offering. 8. And the other lamb ſhalt thou offer at even: as the meat-offering of the morning, and as the drink-offering thereof thou ſhalt offer it, a ſacrifice made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD.

[a] Lev. iii. 11. & xxi. 6, 8. Mal. i. 7, 12.
† Heb. Savour of my reſt.
[b] Exod. xxix. 38.
‖ Heb. In a day.
‡ Heb. Between the two evenings.
[c] Exod. xvi. 36. Chap. xv. 4.
[d] Lev. ii. 1.
[e] Exod. xxix. 40.
[f] See Amos v. 25.
[g] Exod. xxix. 42.

v. 1—8. The former generation to whom theſe laws had been given were dead, their children therefore hear a ſolemn recapitulation of them. They were ready to enter upon a ſtate of warfare, and might be tempted to neglect the Divine inſtitutions, but there was double need to ſecure their peace with God, when they were at war with the Canaanites. It may be they had been negligent of ſome of theſe obſervances, and now when they are about to be comfortably ſettled, God expects more exact obedience. The daily ſacrifice is firſt ordained for a continual burnt-offering, typical of that ſacrifice of Jeſus, the Lamb ſlain from the foundation of the world, who ever appears with his blood before God, to make atonement for the ſins of his people.

9. ¶ And on the ſabbath-day, two lambs of the firſt year without ſpot, and two tenth-deals of flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oil, and the drink-offering thereof. 10. This is the burnt-offering of every ſabbath, beſide the continual burnt-offering, and his drink-offering. 11. ¶ [h] And in the beginnings of your months ye ſhall offer a burnt-offering unto the LORD: two young bullocks, and one ram, ſeven lambs of the firſt year without ſpot, 12. And three tenth-deals of flour for a meat-offering, mingled with oil, for one bullock, and two tenth-deals of flour for a meat-offering mingled with oil, for one ram, 13. And a ſeveral tenth-deal of flour mingled with oil, for a meat-offering, unto one lamb, for a burnt-offering of a ſweet ſavour, a ſacrifice made by fire unto the LORD. 14. And their drink-offerings ſhall be half an hin of wine unto a bullock, and the third part of an hin unto a ram, and a fourth part of an hin unto a lamb: this is the burnt-offering of every month throughout the months of the year. 15. And one kid of the goats for a ſin-offering unto the LORD ſhall be offered, beſides the continual burnt-offering and his drink-offering.

[h] 1 Sam. xx. 5.

v. 9—15. On the ſabbath, the daily ſacrifice, with its oblations, was doubled; intimating to us, the neceſſity of improving theſe holy days, by repeated attendance at God's houſe, and double diligence in the exerciſes of religious converſation, meditation, prayer and praiſe. On the new moons, beſides the daily ſacrifice, two bullocks, a ram, and ſeven lambs were offered with their ſeveral meat and drink-offerings, and a kid of the goats for a ſin-offering. Even when we are offering ſacrifices of praiſe and thankſgiving, it is the ſin-offering of our Divine Lord once offered, that makes all our ſervices pleaſing to God. Indeed our beſt ſacrifices themſelves need this atonement, for the imperfection which attends them.

16. [i] And in the fourteenth day of the firſt month is the paſſover of the LORD. 17. And in the fifteenth day of this month is the feaſt; ſeven days ſhall unleavened bread be eaten. 18. In [k] the firſt day ſhall be an holy convocation: ye ſhall do no manner of ſervile work therein. 19. But ye ſhall offer a ſacrifice made by fire for a burnt-offering unto the LORD, two young bullocks, and one ram, and ſeven lambs of the firſt year: [l] they ſhall be unto you without blemiſh. 20. And their meat-offering ſhall be of flour mingled with oil: three tenth-deals ſhall ye offer for a bullock, and two tenth-deals

[i] Exod. xii. 18. Lev. xxiii. 5. Chap. ix. 5. Deut. xvi. 1.
[k] Exod. xii. 16. Lev. xxiii. 7.
[l] Ver. 31. Chap. xxix. 8.

deals for a ram. 21. A ſeveral tenth-deal ſhalt thou offer for every lamb throughout the ſeven lambs. 22. And one goat for a ſin-offering, to make an atonement for you. 23. Ye ſhall offer theſe beſide the burnt-offering in the morning, which is for a continual burnt-offering. 24. After this manner ye ſhall offer daily throughout the ſeven days, the meat of the ſacrifice made by fire, of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD: it ſhall be offered beſide the continual burnt-offering, and his drink-offering. 25. And on the ſeventh day ye ſhall have an holy convocation: ye ſhall do no ſervile work.

v. 16—25. On the ſeven days after the paſſover, was the feaſt of unleavened bread. The firſt and laſt of which were days of holy convocation; and every day of the ſeven, the ſame ſacrifices were repeated as on the new moon. They need not grudge the number, or value of their ſacrifices, when they conſidered the deliverance they commemorated. A ſoul delivered by Jeſus Chriſt, from the bondage of corruption, thinks he can never enough expreſs his gratitude to his redeemer.

26. ¶ Alſo [m] in the day of the firſt-fruits, when ye bring a new meat-offering unto the LORD, after your weeks be out, ye ſhall have an holy convocation, ye ſhall do no ſervile work. 27. But ye ſhall offer the burnt-offering for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, two young bullocks, one ram, ſeven lambs of the firſt year: 28. And their meat-offering of flour mingled with oil, three tenth-deals unto one bullock, two tenth-deals unto one ram, 29. A ſeveral tenth-deal unto one lamb throughout the ſeven lambs. 30. And one kid of the goats to make an atonement for you. 31. Ye ſhall offer them, beſides the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, ([n] they ſhall be unto you without blemiſh) and their drink-offerings.

[m] Exod. xxiii. 16. & xxxiv. 22. Lev. 10. Deut. xvi. 10.

[n] Ver. 19.

v. 26—31. The ſame ſacrifices and offerings are enjoined on the day of Pentecoſt, the feaſt of the firſt-fruits. God, who ſo liberally provided for them, deſerved a return of acknowledgement for the harveſt they had gathered. Note, When at the harveſt of death we are gathered in, our ſervice will be uninterrupted ſacrifices of praiſe to God, through a bleſſed eternity.

CHAP. XXIX.

This chapter appoints the offerings made by fire unto the Lord, in the three great ſolemnities of the ſeventh month. 1. In the feaſt of trumpets, ver. 1—6. 2. In the day of atonement, ver. 7—11. 3. In the feaſt of tabernacles, and the ſeven days following, ver. 12—38. And then the concluſion of theſe ordinances, ver. 39—40.

1. AND in the ſeventh month, on the firſt day of the month, ye ſhall have an holy convocation, ye ſhall do no ſervile work: [a] it is a day of blowing the trumpets unto you. 2. And ye ſhall offer a burnt-offering for a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, one young bullock, one ram, and ſeven lambs of the firſt year without blemiſh. 3. And their meat-offering ſhall be of flour mingled with oil, three tenth-deals for a bullock, and two tenth-deals for a ram: 4. And one tenth-deal for one lamb, throughout the ſeven lambs. 5. And one kid of the goats for a ſin-offering, to make an atonement for you: 6. Beſide [b] the burnt-offering of the month, and his meat-offering, and [c] the daily burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and their drink offerings, according unto their manner, for a ſweet ſavour, a ſacrifice made by fire unto the LORD. 7. ¶ And [d] ye ſhall have on the tenth day of this ſeventh month an holy convocation; and ye ſhall afflict your ſouls: ye ſhall not do any work therein. 8. But ye ſhall offer a burnt-offering unto the LORD for a ſweet ſavour, one young bullock, one ram, and ſeven lambs of the firſt year: [e] they ſhall be unto you without blemiſh. 9. And their meat-offering ſhall be of flour mingled with oil, three tenth-deals to a bullock, and two tenth-deals to one ram: 10. A ſeveral tenth-deal for one lamb throughout the ſeven lambs: 11. One kid of the goats for a ſin-offering, beſides [f] the ſin-offering of atonement, and the continual burnt-offering, and the meat-offering of it, and their drink-offerings.

[a] Lev. xxiii. 24.

[b] Chap. xxviii. 11.

[c] Ibid. 3.

[d] Lev. xvi. 29. xxiii. 27.

[e] Chap. xxviii. 19, 31.

[f] Lev. xvi. 3, 5.

v. 1—11. The ſeventh month was diſtinguiſhed with more ſolemnities than any other. The firſt day of it was uſhered in with the feaſt of trumpets, preparatory to the day of atonement. We need continual and loud calls to repentance. The ſacrifices to be offered, were a bullock, a ram, and ſeven lambs, with their ſeveral oblations; beſides thoſe which muſt be offered as a new moon, and the daily burnt ſacrifice. We may not think extraordinary duties excuſe us from daily ſtated ſervices. When we have waited upon God in the great congregation, or ſecretly among the faithful, we muſt not neglect our family devotions, nor ſlight the work of ſecret prayer. On the tenth day of the month, was the annual ſolemn faſt: when beſide the ſervices enjoined, Lev. xvi. the ſame ſacrifices are to be added as on the firſt day of the month; and beſide the ſin-offering of atonement, another kid for a ſin-offering. Intimating to us, that whilſt we exerciſe faith in the blood of atonement, and grieve at our offences, our very tears need the blood of Chriſt to waſh them, and our repentance to be repented of, and pardoned.

12. ¶ And [g] on the fifteenth day of the ſeventh month ye ſhall have an holy convocation; ye ſhall do no ſervile work, and ye ſhall keep a feaſt unto the LORD ſeven days. 13. And [h] ye ſhall offer a burnt-offering, a ſacrifice made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD; thirteen young bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the firſt year, they ſhall be without blemiſh. 14. And their meat-offering ſhall be of flour mingled with oil, three tenth-deals unto every bullock of the thirteen bullocks, two tenth-deals to each ram of the two rams: 15. And a ſeveral tenth-deal to each lamb of the fourteen lambs: 16. And one kid of the goats for a ſin-offering, beſide the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering. 17. ¶ And on the ſecond day ye ſhall offer twelve young bullocks, two rams, fourteen lambs of the firſt year without ſpot: 18. And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, ſhall be according to their number, [i] after the manner: 19. And one kid of the goats for a ſin-offering, beſides the continual burnt-offering, and the meat-offering thereof, and their drink-offerings. 20. ¶ And on the third day, eleven bullocks, two rams, fourteen lambs of the firſt year without blemiſh: 21. And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, ſhall be according to their number, [k] after the manner: 22. And one goat for a ſin-offering, beſides the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink offering. 23. ¶ And on the fourth day ten bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the firſt year without blemiſh: 24. Their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, ſhall be according to their number, after the manner: 25. And one kid of the goats for a ſin-offering, beſides the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering. 26. ¶ And on the fifth day nine bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the firſt year without ſpot: 27. And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, ſhall be according to their number, after the manner: 28. And one goat for a ſin-offering, beſides the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink-offering. 29. ¶ And on the ſixth day eight bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the firſt year, without blemiſh: 30. And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, ſhall be according to their number, after the manner: 31. And one goat for a ſin-offering, beſides the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering. 32. ¶ And on the ſeventh day ſeven bullocks, two rams, and fourteen lambs of the firſt year without blemiſh: 33. And their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullocks, for the rams, and for the lambs, ſhall be according to their number, after the manner: 34. And one goat for a ſin-offering, beſides the continual burnt-offering, his meat-offering, and his drink-offering. 35. ¶ On the eighth day ye ſhall have [l] a ſolemn aſſembly: ye ſhall do no ſervile work therein. 36. But ye ſhall offer a burnt-offering, a ſacrifice made by fire of a ſweet ſavour unto the LORD, one bullock, one ram, ſeven lambs of the firſt year without blemiſh: 37. Their meat-offering, and their drink-offerings, for the bullock, for the ram, and for the lambs, ſhall be accord-

[g] Ibid. xxiii. 33.

[h] Ezra iii. 4.

[i] Ver. 3. 4, 9, 10. Chap. xxviii. 7, 14.

[k] Ver. 18.

[l] Lev. xxiii. 36.

Before Chriſt 1451.

according to their number after the manner: 38. And one goat for a ſin-offering, beſides the continual burnt-offering, and his meat-offering, and his drink-offering. 39. Theſe things ye ſhall † do unto the LORD, in your ſet feaſts, beſides your [m] vows, and your free-will-offerings, for your burnt-offerings, and for your meat-offerings, and for your drink-offerings, and for your peace-offerings. 40. And Moſes told the children of Iſrael, according to all that the LORD commanded Moſes.

† Heb. Offer.
[m] Lev. vii. 11, 16.

v. 12—40. The feaſt of tabernacles on the 17th day of the month, was kept with every demonſtration of joy: and well it becometh thoſe to rejoice whoſe ſin is forgiven, and whoſe iniquity is pardoned. The feaſt laſted ſeven days; during which, there were many and expenſive ſacrifices: each day of the ſeven they diminiſhed one bullock, and with every days ſervice, a continual ſacrifice of atonement was offered beſides the daily burnt-offering. Our moſt expenſive ſervices have no acceptableneſs before God, farther than the blood of atonement accompanies them. Theſe were offered at the general expence, whilſt each man was left at liberty, to offer his vows and free-will-offerings beſide, according to his abilities and generoſity.

CHAP. XXX.

In this chapter we have a law concerning vows, 1. A general rule laid down, that all vows muſt be carefully performed, ver. 1, 2. 2. Some particular exceptions to this rule. 1. That the vows of daughters ſhould not be binding, unleſs allowed by the father, ver. 3—5. Nor, 2. The vows of wives, unleſs allowed by the huſband, ver. 6—16.

1. AND Moſes ſpake unto the heads of the tribes, concerning the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded. 2. [a] If a man vow a vow unto the LORD, or ſwear an oath to bind his ſoul with a bond, he ſhall not † break his word, he ſhall do according to all that proceedeth out of his mouth.

[a] Deut. xxiii. 21. Ecclus v. 4.
† Heb. Profane.

v. 1—2. The vow muſt in itſelf be lawful for the honour of God, and in a matter where the perſon was not before obliged, ſuch as a free-will-offering, or the like, and when once made, muſt be conſcientiouſly fulfilled. Better not vow, than not pay. To mock God, is to ruin our ſouls.

3. If a woman alſo vow a vow unto the LORD, and bind herſelf by a bond, being in her father's houſe, in her youth: 4. And her father hear her vow, and her bond wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul, and her father ſhall hold his peace at her: then all her vows ſhall ſtand, and every bond wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand. 5. But if her father diſallow her in the day that he heareth; not any of her vows, or of her bonds, wherewith ſhe hath bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand, and the LORD ſhall forgive her, becauſe her father diſallowed her. 6. And if ſhe had at all an huſband when † ſhe vowed, or uttered ought out of her lips, wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul; 7. And her huſband heard it, and held his peace at her in the day that he heard it: then her vows ſhall ſtand, and her bonds wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul, ſhall ſtand. 8. But if her huſband diſallow her on the day that he heard it, then he ſhall make her vow which ſhe vowed, and that which ſhe uttered with her lips, wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul, of none effect, and the LORD ſhall forgive her. 9. But every vow of a widow, and of her that is divorced, wherewith they have bound their ſouls, ſhall ſtand againſt her. 10. And if ſhe vowed in her huſband's houſe, or bound her ſoul by a bond with an oath; 11. And if her huſband heard it, and held his peace at her, and diſallowed her not: then all her vows ſhall ſtand, and every bond wherewith ſhe bound her ſoul ſhall ſtand. 12. But if her huſband hath utterly made them void on the day he heard them; then whatſoever proceeded out of her lips, concerning her vows, or concerning the bond of her ſoul, ſhall not ſtand: her huſband hath made them void, and the LORD ſhall forgive her. 13. Every vow, and every binding oath to afflict the ſoul, her huſband may eſtabliſh it, or her huſband may make it void. 14. But if her huſband altogether hold his peace at her, from day to day, then he eſtabliſheth all her vows, or all her bonds which are upon her: he confirmeth them, becauſe he held his peace at her, in the day that he heard them. 15. But if he ſhall any ways make them void, after that he hath heard them, then he ſhall bear her iniquity. 16. Theſe are the ſtatutes which the LORD commanded Moſes, between a man and his wife, between the father and his daughter, being yet in her youth in her father's houſe.

† Heb. Her vows were upon her.

Before Chriſt 1451.

v. 3—16. Two exceptions are put in againſt the general rule. Perſons in the power of others, whether daughters or wives, may have their vows diſannulled by their fathers or their huſbands. If they hold their tongue, their ſilence is interpreted conſent; if they diſallow their vow, it is void, and the Lord will not require it of them. But if a woman divorced, or a widow, vow, ſhe is bound, as being at her liberty; if the vow however were made during her huſband's life, and diſallowed by him, ſhe was not bound by it after his death. Thus God ſhews his regard for family government, the entire ſubmiſſion due from children to their parents, and wives to their huſbands; even God's own ſervice is not ſo dear to him as humble ſubjection: to obey in this caſe, is better than ſacrifice. How careful then ſhould children be, not to enter into engagements without their parents conſent, leaſt they be reduced to the ſad dilemma of being diſobedient to their parents, or falſe to their vows.

CHAP. XXXI.

This chapter is the hiſtory of a Holy War, a war with Midian. Here is, (1.) A divine command for the war, ver. 1, 2. (2.) The undertaking of the war, ver. 3—6. (3.) The glorious ſucceſs of it, ver. 7—12. (4.) Their triumphant return from the war. 1. The reſpect Moſes paid the ſoldiers, ver. 13. 2. The rebuke he gave them for ſparing the women, ver. 14—18. 3. The directions he gave them for the purifying themſelves, and their effects, ver. 19—24. 4. The diſtribution of the ſpoil they had taken, ver. 25—47. 5. The free-will-offering of the officers, ver. 48—54.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. [a] Avenge the children of Iſrael of the Midianites: afterward [b] ſhalt thou be gathered unto thy people. 3. And Moſes ſpake unto the people, ſaying, Arm ſome of yourſelves unto the war, and let them go againſt the Midianites, and avenge the LORD of Midian. 4. † Of every tribe a thouſand throughout all the tribes of Iſrael, ſhall ye ſend to the war. 5. So there were delivered out of the thouſands of Iſrael, a thouſand of every tribe, twelve thouſand armed for war. 6. And Moſes ſent them to the war, a thouſand of every tribe, them and Phinehas, the ſon of Eleazar the prieſt, to the war, with the holy inſtruments, and [c] the trumpets to blow in his hand.

[a] Chap. xxv. 17.
[b] Ibid. xxvii. 13.
† Heb. A thouſand of a tribe, a thouſand of a tribe.
[c] Chap. x. 9.

v. 1—6. The Midianites had been, with the Moabites, greatly inſtrumental in drawing Iſrael aſide from God; they are therefore to be puniſhed among the firſt; for they are our worſt enemies who draw us into ſin. Note, Our luſts are thoſe Midianites, and on them we muſt wage unrelenting war. 1. God orders Moſes to avenge the people on their enemies, that though he may not ſee all their victories, he may behold the firſt fruits of them before he dies. It is a comfort in death to leave the church of God in a ſtate of growing proſperity. 2. Moſes obeys, and draws out a detachment of a thouſand men from each tribe; enough, if God was with them, to conſume the more numerous hoſts of Midian. God will thus teach them, that it is not ſo much the arm of fleſh, as his favour, that enſures them victory. 3. Phinehas, who had diſtinguiſhed himſelf for his zeal againſt the Midianites, is ſent with them, to blow the trumpets that breathed martial ardour into every heart, and with the holy inſtruments, probably thoſe which were uſed when they conſulted God on extraordinary occaſions. Note, (1.) Where the battle is the Lord's, and to avenge his quarrel in ſo good a cauſe, we may boldly advance. (2.) Thoſe ſoldiers will be truly brave, whom God's miniſters teach, on the principles of the goſpel, to overcome the fear of death and danger.

7. And they warred againſt the Midianites, as the LORD commanded Moſes; and [d] they ſlew [e] all the males. 8. And they ſlew the kings of Midian, beſide the reſt of them that were ſlain, namely, [f] Evi, and Rekem, and Zur, and Hur, and Reba, five kings of Midian: [g] Balaam alſo the ſon of Beor, they ſlew with the [d] Deut. xx. 13. Judg. xxi. 11. 1 Sam. xxvii. 9. 1 Kings xi. 15, 16.

[e] See Judg. vi. 1, 2, 33.
[f] Joſh. xiii. 21.
[g] Ibid. 22.

the ſword. 9. And the children of Iſrael took all the women of Midian captives, and their little ones, and took the ſpoil of all their cattle, and all their flocks, and all their goods. 10. And they burnt all their cities wherein they dwelt, and all their goodly caſtles with fire. 11. [h] And they took all the ſpoil, and all the prey, both of men and of beaſts. 12. And they brought the captives, and the prey, and the ſpoil unto Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt, and unto the congregation of the children of Iſrael, unto the camp, at the plains of Moab, which are by Jordan near Jericho.

[h] Deut. xx. 14.

v. 7—12. The ſucceſs was anſwerable to their wiſhes. Their enemies fell before them, and juſtly ſuffered for the evil they had ſeduced Iſrael to commit. Note, God will often make the tempters to ſin to be tormented of thoſe whom they deceived. 1. They ſlew all the males, not all the nation, but all they met in that part of the country where they made their attack. Among them, five kings or princes of Midian fell; and as an inſtance of eſpecial judgment, Balaam the author of all the miſchief was among the ſlain, who now on the ſame malicious errand, was probably employed by the Midianites, as before by the Moabites. God will take condign vengeance on thoſe who have been the introducers of corruption among his people. If judgment overtake them not on this ſide the grave, it infallibly will on the other. 2. They took the women and children captives, plundered the country, burnt their cities and idol-temples, and returned laden with the ſpoil of their enemies.

13. ¶ And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt, and all the princes of the congregation, went forth to meet them without the camp. 14. And Moſes was wroth with the officers of the hoſt, with the captains over thouſands, and captains over hundreds, which came from the † battle. 15. And Moſes ſaid unto them, Have ye ſaved all [i] the women alive? 16. Behold, [k] theſe cauſed the children of Iſrael, through [l] the counſel of Balaam, to commit treſpaſs againſt the LORD in the matter of Peor, and [m] there was a plague among the congregation of the LORD. 17. Now therefore [n] kill every male among the little ones, and kill every woman that hath known man, by lying with † him. 18. But all the women-children that have not known a man by lying with him, keep alive for yourſelves. 19. And [o] do ye abide without the camp ſeven days: whoſoever hath killed any perſon, and [p] whoſoever hath touched any ſlain, purify both yourſelves and your captives on the third day and on the ſeventh day. 20. And purify all your raiment, and all † that is made of ſkins, and all work of goats hair, and all things made of wood. 21. ¶ And Eleazar the prieſt ſaid unto the men of war which went to the battle, This is the ordinance of the law which the LORD commanded Moſes; 22. Only the gold, and the ſilver, the braſs, the iron, the tin, and the lead, 23. Every thing that may abide the fire, ye ſhall make it go through the fire, and it ſhall be clean: nevertheleſs it ſhall be purified [q] with the water of ſeparation: and all that abideth not the fire ye ſhall make go through the water. 24. And [r] ye ſhall waſh your clothes on the ſeventh day, and ye ſhall be clean, and afterward ye ſhall come into the camp.

† Heb. Hoſt of war.
[i] See Deut. xx. 13. 1 Sam. xv. 3.
[k] Chap. xxv. 2.
[l] Chap. xxiv. 14. 2 Pet. ii. 15.
[m] Chap. xxv. 9.
[n] Judg. xxi. 11.
† Heb. A male.
[o] Chap. v. 2.
[p] Ibid. xix. 11, &c.
† Heb. Inſtrument, or veſſel of ſkins.
[q] Chap. xix. 9, 17.
[r] Lev. xi. 25.

v. 13—24. To congratulate their victory, Moſes and Eleazar go forth to meet the conquerors. When, 1. Moſes is wroth at the people for ſparing the women alive: they had been the chief criminals, and might endanger a fatal relapſe; they muſt, therefore, as many as have known man, be ſlain immediately. We muſt cut off the temptations to ſin, if we would be delivered from the prevalence of it. 2. As their hands muſt have been defiled with blood, and with the bodies of the ſlain, they muſt ſtay ſeven days without the camp, till they are purified; together with the captives and ſpoil they had taken, which were unclean and unfit for their uſe, till ſprinkled with the water of purification. The veſſels that would bear the fire, muſt paſs through it, and thoſe which would not, muſt be waſhed. Note, God's people muſt purify themſelves as a peculiar people, and all they enjoy muſt firſt be ſanctified by the word of God, and by prayer.

25. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 26. Take the ſum of the prey † that was taken, both of man and of beaſt, thou and Eleazar the prieſt, and the chief fathers of the congregation: 27. And [s] divide the prey into two parts; between them that took the war upon them, who went out to battle, and between all the congregation. 28. And levy a tribute unto the LORD, of the men of war which went out to battle: [t] one ſoul of five hundred, both of the perſons, and of the beeves, and of the aſſes, and of the ſheep. 29. Take it of their half, and give it unto Eleazar the prieſt, for an heave-offering of the LORD. 30. And of the children of Iſrael's half, thou ſhalt take one portion of fifty, of the perſons, of the beeves, of the aſſes, and of † the flocks, of all manner of beaſts, and give them unto the Levites, [u] which keep the charge of the tabernacle of the LORD. 31. And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt did as the LORD commanded Moſes. 32. And the booty, being the reſt of the prey which the men of war had caught, was ſix hundred thouſand, and ſeventy thouſand, and five thouſand ſheep, 33. And threeſcore and twelve thouſand beeves, 34. And threeſcore and one thouſand aſſes, 35. And thirty and two thouſand perſons in all, of women that had not known man, by lying with him. 36. And the half, which was the portion of them that went out to war, was in number three hundred thouſand, and ſeven and thirty thouſand and five hundred ſheep; 37. And the LORD's tribute of the ſheep was ſix hundred and threeſcore and fifteen. 38. And the beeves were thirty and ſix thouſand, of which the LORD's tribute was threeſcore and twelve. 39. And the aſſes were thirty thouſand and five hundred, of which the LORD's tribute was threeſcore and one. 40. And the perſons were ſixteen thouſand, of which the LORD's tribute was thirty and two perſons. 41. And Moſes gave the tribute which was the LORD's heave-offering, unto Eleazar the prieſt, [x] as the LORD commanded Moſes. 42. And of the children of Iſrael's half, which Moſes divided from the men that warred: 43. (Now the half that pertained unto the congregation, was three hundred thouſand, and thirty thouſand, and ſeven thouſand, and five hundred ſheep: 44. And thirty and ſix thouſand beeves; 45. And thirty thouſand aſſes and five hundred: 46. And ſixteen thouſand perſons:) 47. Even of the children of Iſrael's half, Moſes took one portion of fifty, both of man and beaſt, and gave them unto the Levites which kept the charge of the tabernacle of the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moſes.

Heb. Of e captivity.
Joſh. xxii. 1 Sam. x. 24.
[t] See ver. 30, 47. Chap. xviii. 26.
† Or goats.
[u] Chap. iii. 7, 8, 25, 31, 36.
[x] See chap. xviii. 8, 19.

v. 25—47. We have here an account of the vaſt booty they had gotten, and the diſtribution of it, according to God's order. One half was divided among the whole congregation, whoſe ſervice at home was needful to guard the camp, and who would have been as willing as their brethren, to have gone to the battle. The other half was divided among thoſe who went to the battle, who had borne the greateſt dangers, and deſerved the greater ſhare. Note, If we war a hard warfare for Chriſt, we ſhould be comforted, that great is our reward in heaven.—God muſt have his part, as well as the people theirs, ſince to him they were indebted for all. A fiftieth, therefore, from the people, for the uſe of the Levites; a five hundredth from the ſoldiers for the uſe of the prieſts, are ſeparated as the Lord's tribute. It was reaſonable they ſhould give the moſt, who had gained it at the leaſt hazard. Note, In all our gains, God muſt be regarded: as it is his bleſſing which maketh rich, we are bound to honour him with our ſubſtance.

48. ¶ And the officers which were over thouſands of the hoſt, the captains of thouſands, and captains of hundreds, came near unto Moſes: 49. And they ſaid unto Moſes, Thy ſervants have taken the ſum of the men of war which are under our † charge, and there lacketh not one man of us. 50. We have therefore brought an oblation for the LORD, what every man hath * gotten of jewels of gold, chains, and bracelets, rings, ear-rings, and tablets, to make an atonement for our ſouls before the LORD. 51. And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt took the gold of them, even all wrought jewels. 52. And all the gold of the ‡ offering that they offered up to the LORD, of the captains of thouſands, and of the captains of hundreds, was ſixteen thouſand ſeven hundred and fifty ſhekels. 53. (For [y] the men of war had taken ſpoil, every man for himſelf). 54. And Moſes and Eleazar the prieſt took the gold of the captains of thouſands, and of hundreds, and brought it into the tabernacle of the congregation, for a memorial for the children of Iſrael before the LORD.

† Heb. Hand.
* Heb. Found.
‡ Heb. Heave-offering.
[y] Deut. xx. 14.

v. 48—54. The piety of the officers of Iſrael appears here as great as their prowefs. On calling their muſter-roll, not a man was loſt by diſeaſe or the ſword, in this expedition, an inſtance of Divine protection ſo amazing, could not but affect them; and as they loved their ſoldiers as brethren, and were tender of their lives, as every good general ſhould be, they make the moſt grateful acknowledgements to God for his preſervation. Each man brought an oblation to the Lord of gold and jewels, which was their private ſpoil; and therewith alſo ſought atonement for their ſouls, having tranſgreſſed in preſerving the women, and as they might juſtly fear in other things. Moſes is ordered to receive and lay it up before the Lord, for a memorial of his care of them, and their gratitude. Note, (1.) Great deliverances deſerve particular thankfulneſs. (2.) We take nothing in hand, but we need ſeek atonement when we have done. (3.) Where God gives plenty, we muſt abound in works of piety and charity.

CHAP. XXXII.

In this chapter we have, (1.) The humble requeſt of the tribes of Reuben and Gad, for an inheritance on that ſide Jordan, where Iſrael now lay encamped, ver. 1—5. (2.) Moſes's miſ-interpreting of their requeſt, ver. 6—15. (3.) Their explication of it, ver. 16—19. (4.) The grant of their petition under the proviſoes and limitations, which they themſelves propoſed, ver. 20—42.

1. NOW the children of Reuben and the children of Gad had a very great multitude of cattle: and when they ſaw the land of [a] Jazer, and the land of Gilead, that behold, the place was a place for cattle; 2. The children of Gad, and the children of Reuben, came and ſpake unto Moſes, and to Eleazar the prieſt, and unto the princes of the congregation, ſaying, 3. Ataroth, and Dibon, and Jazer, and [b] Nimrah, and Heſhbon, and Elealeh, and [c] Shebam, and Nebo, and [d] Beon; 4. Even the country [e] which the LORD ſmote before the congregation of Iſrael, is a land for cattle, and thy ſervants have cattle. 5. Wherefore, ſaid they, if we have found grace in thy ſight, let this land be given unto thy ſervants for a poſſeſſion, and bring us not over Jordan. 6. ¶ And Moſes ſaid unto the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, Shall your brethren go to war, and ſhall ye ſit here? 7. And wherefore † diſcourage ye the heart of the children of Iſrael from going over into the land which the LORD hath given them? 8. Thus did your fathers, [f] when I ſent them from Kadeſh-barnea [g] to ſee the land. 9. For when [h] they went up unto the valley of Eſhcol, and ſaw the land, they diſcouraged the heart of the children of Iſrael, that they ſhould not go into the land which the LORD had given them. 10. And [i] the LORD's anger was kindled the ſame time, and he ſware, ſaying, 11. Surely none of the men that came up out of Egypt, [k] from twenty years old and upward, ſhall ſee the land which I ſware unto Abraham, unto Iſaac, and unto Jacob, becauſe [l] they have not † wholly followed me: 12. Save Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, the Kenezite, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun: for they have wholly followed the LORD. 13. And the LORD's anger was kindled againſt Iſrael, and he made them wander in the wilderneſs forty years, until all the generation that had done evil in the ſight of the LORD was conſumed. 14. And behold, ye are riſen up in your father's ſtead, an increaſe of ſinful men, to augment yet the fierce anger of the LORD toward Iſrael. 15. For if ye turn away from after him, he will yet again leave them in the wilderneſs, and ye ſhall deſtroy all this people.

[a] Chap. xxi. 32. Joſh. xiii. 25. 2 Sam. xxiv 5.
[b] Ver. 36. Bethnimrah.
[c] Ver. 38. Shibmah.
[d] Ver. 38. Baal-meon.
[e] Chap. xxi. 24, 34.
† Heb. Break.
[f] Chap. xiii. 3, 26.
[g] Deut. i. 22.
[h] Chap. xiii. 24.
[i] Ibid. xiv. 21.
[k] Ibid. 28, 29. Deut. i. 35.
[l] Chap. xiv. 24, 30.
† Heb. Fulfilled after me.

v. 1—15. Pleaſed with the fertility of the ſoil, and the country of Gilead and Jazer, the children of Reuben and Gad caſt a longing eye upon it for their poſſeſſion. Whereupon,

1. They make their requeſt to Moſes, plead its ſuitableneſs to the numerous herds they kept, and beg they may be permitted to have their lot on this ſide Jordan. Note, Too many, like them, take up their reſt on earth, and over-anxious about worldly things, loſe all concern about a poſſeſſion in the heavenly Canaan.

2. Moſes highly reſents their propoſal, juſtly apprehenſive of the conſequences; it ſeemed to ſpeak unbelief of God's promiſes, and a diſtruſt of his power, to be the dictate of covetouſneſs and cowardice; and in the iſſue might be fatally dangerous to the whole, whether by weakening the army, and diſcouraging the hearts of their brethren, or, as was more to be feared, and Moſes reminds them, by provoking God, as their fathers had done, and thereby augmenting his fierce anger againſt Iſrael. Note, (1.) It is a dangerous ſymptom of ruin coming upon a land, when the riſing generation tread in the ſins of their fathers, and grow worſe and worſe. (2.) It is as baſe as ſelfiſh to deſire our own reſt and eaſe, when God's people are called to hardſhips, and need our help and aſſiſtance. (3.) Paſt experiences ſhould be treaſured up, as future memorials. (4.) Holy indignation againſt ſin is a part of the character of the faithful miniſters of God.

16. ¶ And they came near unto him, and ſaid, We will build ſheep-folds here for our cattle, and cities for our little ones. 17. But [m] we ourſelves will go ready armed before the children of Iſrael, until we have brought them unto their place; and our little ones ſhall dwell in the fenced cities, becauſe of the inhabitants of the land. 18. [n] We will not return unto our houſes, until the children of Iſrael have inherited every man his inheritance: 19. For we will not inherit with them on yonder ſide Jordan, or forward, becauſe our inheritance is fallen to us on this ſide Jordan eaſtward. 20. ¶ And [o] Moſes ſaid unto them, If ye will do this thing, if ye will go armed before the LORD to war, 21. And will go all of you armed over Jordan before the LORD, until he hath driven out his enemies from before him: 22. And [p] the land be ſubdued before the LORD: then afterward ye ſhall return, and be guiltleſs before the LORD, and before Iſrael; and [q] this land ſhall be your poſſeſſion before the LORD. 23. But if ye will not do ſo, behold, ye have ſinned againſt the LORD: and be ſure your ſin will find you out. 24. Build ye cities for your little ones, and folds for your ſheep, and do that which hath proceeded out of your mouth. 25. And the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, Thy ſervants will do as my lord commandeth. 26. Our little ones, our wives, our flocks, and all our cattle ſhall be there in the cities of Gilead. 27. [r] But thy ſervants will paſs over, every man armed for war, before the LORD to battle, as my lord ſaith.

[m] Joſh. iv. 13.
[n] Joſh. xxii. 2.
[o] Deut. iii. 18. Joſh. i. 13.
[p] Deut. iii. 20.
[q] Deut. iii. 12, 15, 16. Joſh. i. 15. & xiii. 8.
[r] Joſh. iv. 12

v. 16—27. Though Moſes had juſt ſuſpicion for his fears, yet their reply ſeems to ſhow they were groundleſs. A faithful miniſter watches with godly jealouſy over the people, and his care and love of them appear even in ſuſpicions that may ariſe from miſtake, or miſinterpretation.

1. They engage to follow their brethren, and never to forſake them till they are comfortably ſettled, yea offer to go before them, in bearing the brunt of every battle, ſo far from being cowards, or diſcouraging them. Only they would ſecure their wives and children, and cattle, till their return; and content with their preſent lot, deſire no part beyond Jordan. Note, It is good to hear always before we judge. They may be actuated by the nobleſt motives, whoſe conduct may be liable to much miſrepreſentation.

2. The propoſal is conſented to, on theſe conditions; They ſhall go armed before the Lord, to fight his battles, and never think of quitting the camp, till the land is ſubdued; otherwiſe ſin would overtake them, and puniſh them accordingly. Note, Sin will find us out, if we are falſe and faithleſs, and we ſhall ſurely ſuffer for it—Thus the matter is compromiſed, they engage for ready obedience, and punctual performance of the agreement. The moſt ſerviceable, about 40,000 men, accordingly followed Iſrael into Canaan, till the land was divided; whilſt the reſt, by conſent no doubt, were left as a guard to the country they occupied.

28. So [s] concerning them Moſes commanded Eleazar the prieſt, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun, and the chief fathers of the tribes of the children of Iſrael: 29. And Moſes ſaid unto them, If the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben will paſs with you over Jordan, every man armed to battle before the LORD, and the land ſhall be ſubdued before you, then ye ſhall give them the land of Gilead for a poſſeſſion: 30. But if they will not paſs over with you armed, they ſhall have poſſeſſions among you in the land of Canaan. 31. And the children of Gad, and the children of Reuben anſwered, ſaying, As the LORD hath ſaid unto thy ſervants, ſo will we do. 32. We will paſs over armed before the LORD into the land of Canaan, that the poſſeſſion of our inheritance on this ſide Jordan may be ours. 33. And [t] Moſes gave unto them,

[s] Ibid. i. 13
[t] Deut. iii. 12. Joſh. xiii. 8. & xxii. 4

even to the children of Gad, and to the children of Reuben, and unto half the tribe of Manaſſeh the ſon of Joſeph, [w] the kingdom of Sihon, king of the Amorites, and the kingdom of Og king of Baſhan, the land with the cities thereof, in the coaſts, even the cities of the country round about. 34. ¶ And the children of Gad built [x] Dibon, and Ataroth, and [y] Aroer, 35. And Atroth, Shophan, and [z] Jaazer, and Jogbehah, 36. And [a] Bethnimrah, and Beth-haran, fenced cities: and folds for ſheep. 37. And the children of Reuben [b] built Heſhbon, and Elealeh, and Kirjathaim, 38. And Nebo, and Baal-meon ([c] their names being changed) and Shibmah: and † gave other names unto the cities which they builded. 39. And the children of [d] Machir the ſon of Manaſſeh went to Gilead, and took it, and diſpoſſeſſed the Amorite which was in it. 40. And Moſes [e] gave Gilead unto Machir the ſon of Manaſſeh, and he dwelt therein. 41. And [f] Jair the ſon of Manaſſeh went and took the ſmall towns thereof and called them [g] Havoth-jair. 42. And Nobah went and took Kenath, and the villages thereof, and called it Nobah, after his own name.

Before Chriſt 1451.

[w] Chap. xxi. 24, 33.
[x] Chap. xxxiii. 45, 46.
[y] Deut. ii. 36.
[z] Ver. 1, 3.
[a] Ver. 3.
[b] Chap. xxi. 27.
[c] See Ver. 3. Joſh. xxiii. 7.
† Heb. They called by names the names of the cities.
[d] Gen. l. 23.
[e] Deut. iii. 12, 13, 15.
[f] Ibid. 14. Joſh. xiii. 30. 1 Chron. ii. 21, 22.
[g] Judg. x. 4. 1 Kings iv. 13.

v. 28—42. As Moſes was not to live till the ſettlement of the people, he charges Eleazar and Joſhua to ſee the agreement here made fulfilled, and the Reubenites and Gadites renew their engagements; whereupon the cities are allotted them; and being more than they can occupy, half the tribe of Manaſſeh, either at their own requeſt, or by divine appointment, as a reward for the bravery of Machir, who diſpoſſeſſed the Gileadites, have their lot in Gilead. Each tribe repairs the cities which had been damaged by the war, and ſecures their families and cattle, changing the names of the places, in token of their ſovereignty, or to aboliſh the very mention of thoſe idols, after whom they had been called. Note, We cannot be too careful to deſtroy every memorial, which would either lead us into ſin, or ſtir up the idea of it in our minds.

CHAP. XXXIII.

In this chapter we have, 1. A particular account of all the removes and encampments of the children of Iſrael, ver. 1—49. 2. A ſtrict command given them to drive out all the inhabitants of the land of Canaan, ver. 50—56.

1. THESE are the journeys of the children of Iſrael, which went forth out of the land of Egypt, with their armies, under the hand of Moſes and Aaron. 2. And Moſes wrote their goings out, according to their journeys, by the commandment of the LORD: and theſe are their journeys according to their goings out. 3. And [a] they departed from Rameſes, in the firſt month, on the fifteenth day of the firſt month: on the morrow after the paſſover the children of Iſrael went out [b] with an high hand in the ſight of all the Egyptians. 4. (For the Egyptians buried all their firſt-born, [c] which the LORD had ſmitten among them: [d] upon their gods alſo the LORD executed judgments.) 5. And [e] the children of Iſrael removed from Rameſes, and pitched in Succoth. 6. And they departed from [f] Succoth, and pitched in Etham, which is in the edge of the wilderneſs. 7. And [g] they removed from Etham, and turned again unto Pihahiroth, which is before Baalzephon: and they pitched before Migdol. 8. And they departed from before Pihahiroth, and [h] paſſed through the midſt of the ſea, into the wilderneſs, and went three days journey in the wilderneſs of Etham, and pitched in Marah. 9. And they removed from Marah, and [i] came unto Elim; and in Elim were twelve fountains of water, and threeſcore and ten palm-trees, and they pitched there. 10. And they removed from Elim, and encamped by the Red ſea. 11. And they removed from the Red ſea, and encamped in [k] the wilderneſs of Sin. 12. And they took their journey out of the wilderneſs of Sin, and encamped in Dophkah. 13. And they departed from Dophkah, and encamped in Aluſh. 14. And they removed from Aluſh, and encamped at [l] Rephidim, where was no water for the people to drink. 15. And they departed from Rephidim, and pitched in [m] the wilderneſs of Sinai. 16. And they removed from the deſart of Sinai, and pitched at [n] Kibroth-Hattaavah. 17. And they departed from Kibroth-Hattaavah, and encamped at [o] Hazeroth. 18. And they departed from Hazeroth, and pitched in [p] Rithmah. 19. And they departed from Rithmah, and pitched at Rimmon-Parez. 20. And they departed from Rimmon-Parez, and pitched in Libnah. 21. And they removed from Libnah, and pitched at Riſſah. 22. And they journeyed from Riſſah, and pitched in Kehelathah. 23. And they went from Kehelathah, and pitched in mount Shapher. 24. And they removed from mount Shapher, and encamped in Haradah. 25. And they removed from Haradah, and pitched in Makheloth. 26. And they removed from Makheloth, and encamped at Tahath. 27. And they departed from Tahath, and pitched at Tarah. 28. And they removed from Tarah, and pitched in Mithcah. 29. And they went from Mithcah, and pitched in Haſhmonah. 30. And they departed from Haſhmonah, and encamped at [q] Moſeroth. 31. And they departed from Moſeroth, and pitched in Bene-jaakan. 32. And they removed from [r] Bene-jaakan, and encamped at [s] Hor-hagidgad. 33. And they went from Hor-hagidgad, and pitched in Jotbathah. 34. And they removed from Jotbathah, and encamped at Ebronah. 35. And they departed from Ebronah, and [t] encamped at Ezion-gaber. 36. And they removed from Ezion-gaber, and [u] pitched in the wilderneſs of Zin, which is Kadeſh. 37. And they removed from [x] Kadeſh, and pitched in mount Hor, in the edge of the land of Edom. 38. And [y] Aaron the prieſt went up unto mount Hor, at the commandment of the LORD, and died there, in the fortieth year after the children of Iſrael were come out of the land of Egypt, in the firſt day of the fifth month. 39. And Aaron was an hundred and twenty and three years old, when he died in mount Hor. 40. [z] And king Arad the Canaanite (which dwelt in the ſouth, in the land of Canaan) heard of the coming of the children of Iſrael. 41. And they departed from mount [a] Hor, and pitched in Zalmonah. 42. And they departed from Zalmonah, and pitched in Punon. 43. And they departed from Punon, and [b] pitched in Oboth. 44. And [c] they departed from Oboth, and pitched in [d] Ije-abarim, in the border of Moab. 45. And they departed from Iim, and pitched in [e] Dibon-Gad. 46. And they removed from Dibon-Gad, and encamped in [f] Almon-diblathaim. 47. And they removed from Almon-diblathaim, and [g] pitched in the mountains of Abarim before Nebo. 48. And they departed from the mountains of Abarim, and [h] pitched in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho. 49. And they pitched by Jordan from Beth-jeſimoth, even unto † [i] Abel-ſhittim, in the plains of Moab.

[a] Exod. xii. 37.
[b] Ibid. xiv. 8.
[c] Ibid. xii. 29.
[d] Ibid. 12. & xviii. 11. Iſa. xix. 1. Rev. xii. 8.
[e] Exod. xii. 37.
[f] Ibid. xiii. 20.
[g] Ibid. xiv. 2, 9.
[h] Ibid. xiv. 22. & xv. 22, 23.
[i] Ibid. xv. 27.
[k] Ibid. xvi. 1.
[l] Ibid. xvii. 1. & xix. 1.
[m] Ibid. xvi. 1. & xix. 1, 2.
[n] Chap. xi. 34.
[o] Ibid. 35.

Before Chriſt 1451.

[p] Chap. xii. 16. 1 Mac. v. 9. Dathema.
[q] Deut. x. 6.
[r] 1 Mac. v. 4. Bean. See Gen. xxxvi. 27. Deut. x. 6. 1 Chron. i. 42.
[s] Deut. x. 7.
[t] Ibid. 8. 1 Kings ix. 26.
[u] Chap. xx. 1. & xxvii. 14.
[x] Chap. xx. 22. & xxi. 4.
[y] Chap. xx. 25. Deut. x. 6. & xxxii. 50.
[z] Chap. xxi. 1, &c.
[a] Ibid. 4.
[b] Ibid. 10.
[c] Ibid. 11.
[d] Ibid.
[e] Chap. xxxii. 34.
[f] Ezek. vi. 14.
[g] Chap. xxi. 20.
[h] Chap. xxii. 1.
† Or the plains of Shittim.
[i] Chap. xxv. 1. Joſh. ii 1.

v. 1—49. At God's command, Moſes is ordered to keep a journal of their marches, which is here publiſhed, that they might remember and adore the good hand of the Lord upon them in this dangerous road. Particular notice is taken of their departure from Egypt: They came out with a high hand, under the conduct of their divinely-appointed leaders, whilſt the Egyptians were digging the graves of their children, and lamenting the deſolations of their idols. Amidſt all the dangers of the way, and the greater dangers of their ſins, God ſafely conducted them through the dreary wilderneſs, and, after forty years of wandring, had brought them ſafe to the borders of the promiſed land; thence to look back on the places of their manifold provocations with ſhame, and forward to the land of promiſe with enlivened hope. Note, (1.) It is uſeful to keep a diary of God's mercies and providences, that they may be remembered for our own and others comfort or direction. (2.) This world is the Chriſtian's wilderneſs; many a long year he is called to wander to and fro in it; but being under divine guidance, amidſt all his winding ſteps, he is led by the right way, and ſure to arrive ſafe at laſt at the land of glory.

50. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho, ſaying, 51. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, [k] When ye are paſſed over Jordan into the land of Canaan; 52. [l] Then ye ſhall drive out all the inhabitants of the land from before you, and deſtroy all their pictures, and deſtroy all their molten images, and quite pluck down all their high places. 53. And ye ſhall diſpoſſeſs the inhabitants of the land, and dwell therein: for I have given you the land to poſſeſs it. 54. [m] And ye ſhall divide the land by lot for an inheritance among your families, and to the more ye ſhall † give the more inheri-

[k] Deut. vii. 2. Joſh. xi. 12.
[l] Exod. xxiii. 24, 33. & xxxiv. 13. Deut. vii. 2, 5. & xii. 3.
[m] Chap. xxvi. 53.
† Heb. Multiply his inheritance.

Before Chriſt 1451.

tance, and to the fewer ye ſhall ‡ give the leſs inheritance: every man's inheritance ſhall be in the place where his lot falleth; according to the tribes of your fathers ye ſhall inherit. 55. But if ye will not drive out the inhabitants of the land from before you; then it ſhall come to paſs, that thoſe which ye let remain of them, ſhall be [n] pricks in your eyes, and thorns in your ſides, and ſhall vex you in the land wherein ye dwell. 56. Moreover, it ſhall come to paſs, that I ſhall do unto you, as I thought to do unto them.

‡ Heb. Diminiſh his inheritance.

[n] Joſh. xxiii. 13. Judg. ii. 3. See Exod. xxiii. 33.

v. 50—56. Strict injunctions are given for the entire deſtruction of every monument of idolatry, and the utter extirpation of the people. It would be highly dangerous to maintain any friendſhip with them, or preſerve the leaſt relicts of their idols, leſt they ſhould be enſnared thereby. We are peculiarly to guard againſt our beſetting ſin, and ſtop up every avenue of our heart, at which it might enter. If they were obedient, then their inheritance was ſecure; if diſobedient, they ſhould ſuffer that expulſion themſelves, which they ſhould have inflicted on the inhabitants. Note, (1.) We can be only ſafe by renouncing all peace with our ſins. (2.) If we deſtroy not them, they will deſtroy us body and ſoul in hell.

CHAP. XXXIV.

In this chapter God directs Moſes, and he Iſrael, 1. Concerning the bounds of the land of Canaan, ver. 1—15. 2. Concerning the diviſion of it to the tribes of Iſrael, ver. 16—24.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 2. Command the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, When ye come into the land of Canaan (this is the land that ſhall fall unto you for an inheritance, even the land of Canaan, with the coaſts thereof) 3. Then [a] your ſouth quarter ſhall be from the wilderneſs of Zin, along by the coaſt of Edom, and your ſouth border ſhall be the utmoſt coaſt of [b] the ſalt-ſea eaſtward. 4. And your border ſhall turn from the ſouth, [c] to the aſcent of Akrabbim, and paſs on to Zin: and the going forth thereof ſhall be from the ſouth to [d] Kadeſh-barnea, and ſhall go on to [e] Hazar-addar, and paſs on to Azmon. 5. And the border ſhall fetch a compaſs from Azmon [f] unto the river of Egypt, and the goings out of it ſhall be at the ſea. 6. And as for the weſtern-border, you ſhall even have the great ſea for a border, this ſhall be your weſt border. 7. And this ſhall be your north border: from the great ſea, you ſhall point out for you [g] mount Hor. 8. From mount Hor ye ſhall point out your border [h] unto the entrance of Hamath: and the goings forth of the border ſhall be to Zedad. 9. ¶ And the border ſhall go on to Ziphron, and the goings out of it ſhall be at Hazar-enan: this ſhall be your north border. 10. And ye ſhall point out your eaſt border, from Hazar-enan to Shepham. 11. And the coaſt ſhall go down from Shepham to [i] Riblah, on the eaſt ſide of Ain: and the border ſhall deſcend, and ſhall reach unto the † ſide of the ſea [k] of Chinnereth eaſtward. 12. And the border ſhall go down to Jordan, and the goings out of it ſhall be at the ſalt-ſea: this ſhall be your land with the coaſts thereof round about. 13. And Moſes commanded the children of Iſrael, ſaying, This is the land which ye ſhall inherit by lot, which the LORD commanded to give unto the nine tribes, and to the half tribe. 14. [l] For the tribe of the children of Reuben, according to the houſe of their fathers, and the tribe of the children of Gad, according to the houſe of their fathers, have received their inheritance, and half the tribe of Manaſſeh have received their inheritance. 15. The two tribes, and the half tribe, have received their inheritance on this ſide Jordan, near Jericho, eaſt-ward, toward the ſun-riſing.

[a] Joſh. xv. 1.
[b] Gen. xiv. 3.
[c] See Joſh. xv. 3.
[d] Chap. xiii. 26.
[e] See Joſh. xv. 3.
[f] Gen. xv. 18. Joſh. xv. 4, 47. 1 Kings viii. 65. Iſa. xxvii. 12.
[g] Chap. xxxiii. 37.
[h] Chap. xiii. 21. 2 Kings xiv. 25.
[i] 2 Kings xxiii. 33. Jer. xxxix. 5, 6.
† Heb. Shoulder.
[k] Deut. iii. 17. Joſh. xi. 2. & xix. 35.
[l] Chap. xxxii. 33. Joſh. xiv. 2, 3.

v. 1—15. The borders of the land of Canaan are here geographically deſcribed, that they may know how far the warrant of God reached for the ſword to deſtroy, and for themſelves to poſſeſs. Though they were promiſed more extenſive dominion, which they afterwards enjoyed, even to Euphrates; yet the part themſelves occupied was ſmall, about a hundred and ſixty miles in length, and fifty in breadth, having on the north mount Hor, on the ſouth Kadeſh-barnea, on the weſt the Mediterranean, and on the eaſt the dead ſea. The fruitfulneſs of the land compenſated for its narrowneſs, and not only abundantly ſupplied the home conſumption of ſuch a vaſt multitude, but enriched them with large exports. Note, (1.) We muſt be content with the bounds which God's providence aſſigns us, nor be inordinate in our deſires of worldly poſſeſſions, to add houſe to houſe, and field to field. (2.) The people of God expect but a ſmall portion of earth; their inheritance is in heaven. (3.) A little, with God's bleſſing, will afford that affluence and comfort, which cannot be enjoyed in the great riches of the ungodly.

Before Chriſt 1451.

16. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 17. Theſe are the names of the men, which ſhall divide the land unto you, [m] Eleazar the prieſt, and Joſhua the ſon of Nun. 18. And ye ſhall take one prince of every tribe to divide the land by inheritance. 19. And the names of the men are theſe: of the tribe of Judah, Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh. 20. And of the tribe of the children of Simeon, Shemuel the ſon of Ammihud. 21. Of the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad the ſon of Chiſlon. 22. And the prince of the tribe of the children of Dan, Bukki the ſon of Jogli. 23. The prince of the children of Joſeph: for the tribe of the children of Manaſſeh, Hanniel the ſon of Ephod. 24. And the prince of the tribe of the children of Ephraim, Kemuel the ſon of Shiphtan. 25. And the prince of the tribe of the children of Zebulun, Elizaphan the ſon of Parnach. 26. And the prince of the tribe of the children of Iſſachar, Paltiel the ſon of Azzan. 27. And the prince of the tribe of the children of Aſhur, Ahihud the ſon of Shelomi. 28. And the prince of the tribe of the children of Naphtali, Pedahel the ſon of Ammihud. 29. Theſe are they whom the LORD commanded to divide the inheritance unto the children of Iſrael, in the land of Canaan.

[m] Joſh. xiv. 1. & xix. 51.

v. 16—29. Though they had not yet poſſeſſed one foot of Canaan, God will have them look upon the conqueſt as certain; and the land accordingly is divided among the remaining nine tribes and half. Eleazar and Joſhua are the chief commiſſioners, and types of Jeſus, the prieſt and king of his people, who will divide to them his eternal inheritance. A prince of each tribe is joined with them, to take care of the intereſts of his people, and to avoid all ſuſpicion of partiality in the diſtribution. It is not enough to do right; we ſhould take care to have our juſt dealing evident to all men.

CHAP. XXXV.

A proviſion made for the tribe of Levi. 1. Forty-eight cities aſſigned them, with their ſuburbs, ſome in every tribe, ver. 1—8. 2. Six of thoſe were to be for cities of refuge, if a man killed another unawares, ver. 9—15. 1. This ſanctuary was not allowed in caſe of wilful murder, ver. 16—21. 2. In what caſes it was allowed, ver. 20—24. 3. What was the law concerning thoſe that took ſhelter in theſe cities of refuge, ver. 25—34.

1. AND the LORD ſpake unto Moſes in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho, ſaying, 2. [a] Command the children of Iſrael, that they give unto the Levites of the inheritance of their poſſeſſion, cities to dwell in: and ye ſhall give alſo unto the Levites ſuburbs for the cities round about them. 3. And the cities ſhall they have to dwell in, and the ſuburbs of them ſhall be for their cattle, and for their goods, and for all their beaſts. 4. And the ſuburbs of the cities which ye ſhall give unto the Levites, ſhall reach from the wall of the city and outward, a thouſand cubits round about. 5. And ye ſhall meaſure from without the city on the eaſt ſide two thouſand cubits, and on the ſouth ſide two thouſand cubits, and on the weſt ſide two thouſand cubits, and on the north ſide two thouſand cubits: and the city ſhall be in the midſt: this ſhall be to them the ſuburbs of the cities. 6. And among the cities which ye ſhall give unto the Levites, there ſhall be [b] ſix cities for refuge, which ye ſhall appoint for the man-ſlayer, that he may flee thither: and † to them ye ſhall add forty and two cities. 7. So all the cities which ye ſhall give to the Levites, ſhall be forty and eight cities: them ſhall ye give with their ſuburbs. 8. And the cities which ye ſhall give, ſhall be of the poſſeſſion of the children of Iſrael: [c] from them that have many, ye ſhall give many; but from them that have few, ye ſhall give few. Every one

[a] Joſh. xiv. 3, 4. & xxi. 2.
[b] Deut. iv. 41. Joſh. xx. 2. & xxi. 3, 21.
† Heb. Above them ye ſhall give.
[c] Chap. xxvi. 54.

Before Chriſt 1451.

one ſhall give of his cities unto the Levites, according to his inheritance which ‡ he inheriteth.

‡ Heb. They inherit.

v. 1—8. As the Levites would need an abode, when they came into the land, God aſſigns them forty-eight cities, with their ſuburbs, for their cattle, in the ſeveral tribes. They needed not arable land, as the tythes were their portion, and the care of the ſoil would have diverted them from the care of men's ſouls. For mutual edification they dwell together; for general uſefulneſs their cities are diſperſed, each tribe, according to its extent, furniſhing them out of their lot with a ſuitable abode. Note, (1.) To provide a goſpel miniſtry, ſhould be the great concern of every people. (2.) They who are engaged in the miniſtry ſhould, as much as poſſible, diveſt themſelves of every worldly care. (3.) They who miniſter to us in ſpirituals, have a right to reap our worldly things.

9. ¶ And the LORD ſpake unto Moſes, ſaying, 10. Speak unto the children of Iſrael, and ſay unto them, [d] When ye be come over Jordan, into the land of Canaan: 11. Then [e] ye ſhall appoint you cities, to be cities of refuge for you; that the ſlayer may flee thither, which killeth any perſon † at unawares. 12. [f] And they ſhall be unto you cities for refuge from the avenger, that the man-ſlayer die not, until he ſtand before the congregation in judgment. 13. And of theſe cities which ye ſhall give, ſix cities ſhall ye have for refuge. 14. [g] Ye ſhall give three cities on this ſide Jordan, and three cities ſhall ye give in the land of Canaan, which ſhall be cities of refuge. 15. Theſe ſix cities ſhall be a refuge, both for the children of Iſrael, and for the ſtranger, and for the ſojourner among them: that every one that killeth any perſon unawares, may flee thither. 16. [h] And if he ſmite him with an inſtrument of iron, (ſo that he die) he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death. 17. And if he ſmite him ‡ with throwing a ſtone, (wherewith he may die) and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death. 18. Or if he ſmite him with an hand weapon of wood, (wherewith he may die) and he die, he is a murderer: the murderer ſhall ſurely be put to death. 19. The revenger of blood himſelf ſhall ſlay the murderer: when he meeteth him he ſhall ſlay him. 20. But [i] if he thruſt him of hatred, or hurl at him by laying of wait, that he die: 21. Or in enmity ſmite him with his hand, that he die, he that ſmote him ſhall ſurely be put to death, for he is a murderer: the revenger of blood ſhall ſlay the murderer, when he meeteth him. 22. But if he thruſt him ſuddenly [k] without enmity, or have caſt upon him any thing without laying of wait: 23. Or with any ſtone wherewith a man may die, ſeeing him not, and caſt it upon him that he die, and was not his enemy, neither ſought his harm: 24. Then the congregation ſhall judge between the ſlayer, and the revenger of blood, according to theſe judgments. 25. And the congregation ſhall deliver the ſlayer out of the hand of the revenger of blood, and the congregation ſhall reſtore him to the city of his refuge, whither he was fled: and he ſhall abide in it unto the death of the high prieſt, [l] which was anointed with the holy oil. 26. But if the ſlayer ſhall at any time come without the border of the city of his refuge, whither he was fled; 27. And the revenger of blood find him without the borders of the city of his refuge; and the revenger of blood kill the ſlayer; ‖ he ſhall not be guilty of blood: 28. Becauſe he ſhould have remained in the city of his refuge, until the death of the high prieſt: but after the death of the high prieſt, the ſlayer ſhall return into the land of his poſſeſſion. 29. So theſe things ſhall be for a ſtatute of judgment unto you, throughout your generations in all your dwellings. 30. Whoſo killeth any perſon, the murderer ſhall be put to death, by the [m] mouth of witneſſes: but one witneſs ſhall not teſtify againſt any perſon, to cauſe him to die. 31. Moreover, ye ſhall take no ſatisfaction for the life of a murderer, which is § guilty of death; but he ſhall be ſurely put to death. 32. And ye ſhall take no ſatisfaction for him that is fled to the city of his refuge, that he ſhould come again to dwell in the land, until the death of the prieſt. 33. So ye ſhall not pollute the land wherein ye are: for blood [n] it defileth the land: and † the land cannot be cleanſed of the blood that is ſhed therein, but by the blood of him that ſhed it. 34. Defile not therefore the land which ye ſhall inhabit, wherein I dwell: for I the LORD dwell among the children of Iſrael.

[d] Deut. xix. 2. Joſh. xx. 2.
[e] Exod. xxi. 13.
† Heb. By error.
[f] Deut. xix. 6. Joſh. xx. 5.
[g] Deut. iv. 41. Joſh. xx. 8.
[h] Exod. xxi. 12, 14. Lev. xxiv. 17.
‡ Heb. With a ſtone of the hand.
[i] Deut. xix. 11.
[k] Exod. xxi. 13.
[l] Ibid. xxix. 7. Lev. iv. 3. & xxi. 10.
‖ Heb. No blood ſhall be to him.
[m] Deut. xvii. 6. & xix. 15. Mat. xviii. 16. 2 Cor. xiii. 1. Heb. x. 28.
§ Heb. Faulty to die.
[n] Mic. iv. 11.
† Heb. There can be no expiation for the land.

Before Chriſt 1451.

v. 9—34. Six of theſe forty-eight cities are appropriated to a particular purpoſe, as places of refuge for the man-ſlayer, who killed his neighbour unawares; and particular inſtructions given to diſtinguiſh between the murderer and the manſlayer, the refuge which was allowed the one, being juſtly denied the other.

1. If a man, whether on a ſudden provocation, or more deliberate contrivance, ſmote his neighbour with any inſtrument, with a ſtone, or his hand, and death enſued, then it was murder: in which caſe no refuge was allowed, no eſcape from ſuffering permitted. Blood required blood, and till it be ſhed, the land was defiled. The kinſman of the deceaſed was to be the executioner of vengeance himſelf, on conviction of the offender; and two witneſſes are required to prove the fact, as in caſes of life and death clear evidence is neceſſary. Note, (1.) The crime of murder is unpardonable. It is at the magiſtrate's peril that execution be done on the offender, as he will anſwer to God in the day of judgment. No quality nor intereſt muſt in this caſe ever be regarded. (2.) If murderers through ſinful connivance now eſcape, God's ſword will overtake them.

2. The caſe of the man-ſlayer deſcribed, and his remedy. He is ſuppoſed to have killed his neighbour undeſignedly, without any previous enmity, or anger, and wholly by accident, v. 22, 23. In this caſe he is allowed to fly to one of the cities of refuge, where he ſhould be protected. If he were found loitering on the road, or negligent of eſcaping, the avenger of blood might ſlay him harmleſs. If he was ſafe lodged, he might demand a trial; and if the fact was found murder, the city no longer afforded him protection: he was immediately executed. If he was acquitted of the murder, then he was reſtored to the city of refuge, and continued there during the life of the high prieſt for the time being. If he went out of the bounds of the city before the high prieſt's death, then he was not entitled to protection: if the avenger of blood found him, he might ſlay him. From which we ſhould learn, a horror of blood, which, though accidentally ſhed, is attended with ſuch diſagreeable effects. The whole of this tranſaction affords us a lively type of that grace provided for the ſinner in the goſpel, and the neceſſity of flying to Chriſt, as the only refuge of a guilty ſoul. (1.) If death overtake us loitering in our ſins, we muſt periſh in them. (2.) There is a door of hope opened to the miſerable in Jeſus Chriſt, and he who flies to his blood and righteouſneſs, is ſafe from fear of evil. (3.) Like theſe cities, Chriſt is near to flee unto, and the way plain and clear: it is only look to him, and be ſaved. (4.) As the ſtranger was intitled to theſe cities of refuge, as well as the Iſraelite, ſo is it in Chriſt; all are welcome, and he who cometh to him ſhall be in no wiſe caſt out. (5.) We muſt abide in Chriſt, as well as flee to him; our ſecurity depends upon it, and, bleſſed be his name, he who calls us to him, hath promiſed to keep us, that we ſhall not depart from him.

CHAP. XXXVI.

We have in this chapter the determination of a queſtion, that aroſe upon the caſe of the daughters of Zelophehad. God had appointed that they ſhould inherit, chap. xxvii. 7. Now here, 1. An inconvenience is ſuggeſted, in caſe they ſhould marry into any other tribe, ver. 1—4. 2. It is prevented by a divine appointment, that they ſhould marry in their own tribe and family, ver. 5—7. and this is ſettled for a rule in like caſes, ver. 8, 9. and they did marry accordingly to ſome of their own relations, ver. 10—12. and with this the book concludes, ver. 13.

1. AND the chief fathers of the families of [a] the children of Gilead, the ſon of Machir, the ſon of Manaſſeh, of the families of the ſons of Joſeph, came near, and ſpake before Moſes, and before the princes, the chief fathers of the children of Iſrael: 2. And they ſaid, [b] The LORD commanded my lord to give the land for an inheritance by lot to the children of Iſrael: and [c] my lord was commanded by the LORD to give the inheritance of Zelophehad our brother, unto his daughters. 3. And if they be married to any of the ſons of the other tribes of the children of Iſrael; then ſhall their inheritance be taken from the inheritance of our fathers, and ſhall be put to the inheritance of the tribe † whereunto they are received: ſo ſhall it be taken from the lot of our inheritance. 4. And when [d] the jubile of the children of Iſrael ſhall be, then ſhall their inheritance be put unto the inheritance of the tribe whereunto they are received: ſo ſhall their inhe-

[a] Chap. xxvii. 29.
[b] Chap. xxvi. 55. & xxvii. 1. & xxxiii. 54. Joſh. xvii. 3.
[c] Chap. xxvii. 1, 7. Joſh. xvii. 3, 4.
† Heb. Unto whom they ſhall be.
[d] Lev. xxv. 10.

Before Chriſt 1451.

ritance be taken away from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers.

v. 1—4. The heads of the tribe of Manaſſeh, foreſeeing an inconvenience which might ariſe concerning the portion of Zelophehad's daughters, bring the caſe before Moſes. As they were heireſſes, and might therefore be greatly courted for their fortunes, (for money is too commonly the vile inducement to marriage); ſhould they match out of their own tribe, their inheritance, which God had aſſigned them, would go to their huſbands tribe, in prejudice to the Manaſſites, which would be an injury to their tribe, and might be the occaſion of many quarrels in like caſes in futurity. It is our wiſdom to foreſee and to prevent evils in proſpect, and, eſpecially in our ſettlements and families, to remove, as much as poſſible, every occaſion of diſpute.

5. And Moſes commanded the children of Iſrael, according to the word of the LORD, ſaying, The tribe of the ſons of Joſeph hath ſaid well. 6. This is the thing which the LORD doth command concerning the daughters of Zelophehad, ſaying, Let them † marry to whom they think beſt; [e] only to the family of the tribe of their father ſhall they marry. 7. So ſhall not the inheritance of the children of Iſrael remove from tribe to tribe: for every one of the children of Iſrael ſhall ‡ keep himſelf to the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers. 8. And [f] every daughter that poſſeſſeth an inheritance in any tribe of the children of Iſrael, ſhall be wife unto one of the family of the tribe of her father, that the children of Iſrael may enjoy every man the inheritance of his fathers. 9. Neither ſhall the inheritance remove from one tribe to another tribe; but every one of the tribes of the children of Iſrael ſhall keep himſelf to his own inheritance. 10. Even as the LORD commanded Moſes, ſo did the daughters of Zelophehad. 11. [g] For Mahlah, Tirzah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, were married unto their father's brother's ſons. 12. And they were married ‖ into the families of the ſons of Manaſſeh the ſon of Joſeph, and their inheritance remained in the tribe of the family of their father. 13. Theſe are the commandments and the judgments which the LORD commanded by the hand of Moſes, unto the children of Iſrael in the plains of Moab, by Jordan near Jericho.

v. 5—13. God is pleaſed to approve the enquiry, and to reſolve the queſtion. 1. He orders they ſhall marry in their own family; not only among the Manaſſites, but among their relations of the houſe of Hepher, where, though reſtricted to an houſe, there was choice enough of perſons; and this would moſt effectually ſecure their portions in their own tribe and family: and this precedent is eſtabliſhed in future ſimilar caſes, that their inheritances may be preſerved entire. Note, Though children in marriage ſhould conſult their parents mind, parents muſt be careful not to force their inclinations. It is perſonal choice which can only make real union. 2. The daughters of Zelophehad acquieſced in the determination, and married their uncle's ſons, which is a degree of kindred not prohibited. The book concludes with a reference to the foregoing ordinances, all which, on their arrival in Canaan, they muſt religiouſly obſerve. It is a great bleſſing to have the path of duty made clear before us, ſince thus through grace we may be enabled to walk and pleaſe God.

† Heb. Be wives.

[e] Tobit i. 9.

‡ Heb. Cleave to.

[f] 1 Chron. xxiii. 22.

[g] Chap. xxvii. 1.

‖ Heb. To ſome that were of the families.

THE

EVANGELICAL EXPOSITOR;

OR, A

PRACTICAL COMMENT

Upon the Fifth Book of MOSES called

DEUTERONOMY.

THE title of this book is Deuteronomy, which ſignifies a ſecond law; not a new body of laws, but the former ones repeated and explained, with ſome additions to them. This was become neceſſary; (1.) Becauſe the men of that generation to whom the law was firſt given were all dead, and a new generation was ſprung up. (2.) This repetition was needful, that the impreſſion might be more deep and laſting; having line upon line, and precept upon precept. Goſpel miniſters, as Moſes, muſt not fail often to ſtir up the people's minds, by way of remembrance: the great truths of the goſpel need frequently to be inſiſted on, though in general admitted, and believed, Phil. iii. 1. (3.) God would leave them inexcuſable, if they neglected ſo great a ſalvation, ſo clearly explained, and ſo awfully enforced. To make the contents of this book univerſally known among them, every King was obliged, with his own hand, to tranſcribe, and make it the matter of his daily meditations, chap. xvii. 18, at their paſſing over Jordan, it was to be written on great ſtones, that he who ran might read it, chap. xxvii. 2, 3. and every ſabbatical year, at the feaſt of tabernacles, it was read publickly by the prieſt, in the audience of the people. It opens with a recapitulation of the ſingular events which had happened to them, and is full of moſt earneſt exhortations to obedience, with the direſt curſes pronounced on the tranſgreſſors. It ſeems to be delivered the laſt month of Moſes's life; this might be regarded as his dying charge to the people; the laſt words of ſuch great perſonages being likely to leave deep impreſſions on the mind. Its divine authority and inſpiration is ſupported by a great number of quotations made from it by Chriſt and his apoſtles; and hence particularly, the Devil was foiled on his temptations of our Lord in the wilderneſs.

Before Chriſt 1451.

CHAP. I.

In the five firſt verſes of this chapter we have the date of Moſes' farewel ſermon, the place where it was preached, ver. 1, 2, 5. and the time when, ver. 3, 4. He reminds them, 1. Of the promiſe God made them of the land of Canaan, ver. 6, 8. 2. Of the proviſion made of judges for them, ver. 9, 18. 3. Of their unbelief and murmuring upon the report of the ſpies, ver. 19, 33. 4. Of the ſentence paſſed upon them for it, ver. 34—46.

[a] Joſh. ix. 1, 10. & xxii. 4, 7.
† Heb. Zuph.
[b] Numb. xiii. 26.
[c] Numb. xxxiii. 38.
[d] Numb. xxi. 24, 33.
[e] Numb. xxi. 33. Joſh. xiii. 12.

1. THESE be the words which Moſes ſpake unto all Iſrael, [a] on this ſide Jordan in the wilderneſs, in the plain over-againſt † the Red ſea, between Paran and Tophel, and Laban, and Hazeroth, and Dizahab. 2. (There are eleven days journey from Horeb by the way of mount Seir, unto [b] Kadeſh-barnea.) 3. And it came to paſs [c] in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the firſt day of the month, that Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, according unto all that the LORD had given him in commandment unto them; 4. [d] After he had ſlain Sihon the king of the Amorites, which dwelt in Heſhbon, and Og the king of Baſhan, which dwelt at Aſtaroth [e] in Edrei. 5. On this ſide Jordan, in the land of Moab, began Moſes to declare this law, ſaying, 6. The LORD our God ſpake unto us [f] in Horeb, ſaying Ye have dwelt long [g] enough in this mount: 7. Turn you, and take your journey, and go to the mount of the Amorites, and unto ‡ all the places nigh thereunto, in the plain, in the hills, and in the vale, and in the ſouth, and by the ſea-ſide, to the land of the Canaanites, and unto Lebanon, unto the great river, the river Euphrates. 8. Behold I have ‖ ſet the land before you: go in and poſſeſs the land which the LORD ſware unto your fathers, [h] Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob, to give unto them, and to their ſeed after them.

Before Chriſt 1451.

[f] Exod. iii. 1.
[g] See Exod. xix. 1, Numb. x. 11.
‡ Heb. All his neighbours.
‖ Heb. given.
[h] Gen. xii. 7. & xv. 18. & xvii. 7, 8, & xxvi. 4, xxviii. 13.

v. 1—8. Moſes is now about to part from that people, whom he had ſo tenderly and faithfully ſerved; and therefore he leaves them his ſolemn charge, that after his death they might have theſe things always in remembrance. They were now in the plains of Moab, over-againſt Suph (not the Red ſea, as we tranſlate it, which was at a conſiderable diſtance) and juſt forty years had elapſed ſince their departure from Egypt; during which they had received the puniſhment of their murmurings, and were ready to receive the fulfilment of the promiſes; highly it imported them now to be obedient, ſince this would enſure them the necks of their enemies. It was at God's command he ſpoke, and he begins his diſcourſe from their departure from Sinai. 1. He mentions their order to depart. They had dwelt long enough under the mount Sinai, and its awful thunderings, and are now to go to poſſeſs the land of promiſe. Note, God will not ſuffer his people to continue mourning ever under the ſpirit of bondage and diſtreſs, but when he hath made them feel their deſerts, will ſhew them the riches of his grace, which begets the ſpirit of adoption. 2. The aſſurance God gave them of ſucceſs. We fight not when under Chriſt's banners as uncertainly; heaven is our own from the moment he is our captain.

9. ¶ And [i] I ſpake unto you at that time, ſaying, I am not able to bear you myſelf alone: 10. The LORD your God hath multiplied you, and behold, [k] you are this day as the ſtars of heaven for multitude. 11. ([l] The LORD God of your fathers make you a thouſand times ſo many more as ye are, and bleſs you [m] as he hath promiſed you.) 12. How can I myſelf alone bear your cumbrance, and your burden, and your ſtrife? 13. † Take ye wiſe men and underſtanding, and known among your tribes, and I will make them rulers over you. 14. And ye anſwered me, and ſaid, The thing which thou haſt ſpoken, is good for us to do. 15. So I took the chief of your tribes, wiſe men, and known, and [n] ‡ made them heads over you, captains over thouſands, and captains over hundreds, and captains over fifties, and captains over tens, and officers among your tribes. 16. And I charged your judges at that time, ſaying, Hear the cauſes between your brethren, and [o] judge righteouſly between every man and [p] his brother, and the ſtranger that is with him. 17. [q] Ye ſhall not ‖ reſpect perſons in judgment, but you ſhall hear the ſmall as well as the great; you ſhall not be afraid of the face of man, for [r] the judgment is God's: and the cauſe that is too hard for you, bring it unto me, and I will hear it. 18. And I commanded you at that time all the things which ye ſhould do.

[i] Exod. xviii. 18. Numb. xi. 24.
[k] Gen. xv. 5.
[l] 2 Sam. xxiv. 3.
[m] Gen. xv. 5. & xxii. 17. & xxvi. 4. Exod. xxxii. 13.
† Heb. give.
[n] Exod xviii. 21.
‡ Heb. gave.
[o] John vii. 24.
[p] Lev. xxiv. 22.
[q] Lev. xix. 15. Chap. xvi. 19. 1 Sam. xvi. 7. Prov. xxiv. 23. Jam. ii. 1.
‖ Heb. acknowledge faces.
[r] 2 Chron. xix. 6.

v. 9—18. The excellent civil government eſtabliſhed among them is here mentioned, for which they were greatly indebted to Moſes' prudence and wiſdom.

1. Their multitude being ſo great, and he unable to bear the burden, ſo as to hear and determine upon the variety of caſes which came before him, he directed them to chuſe wiſe men to be aſſiſtant judges; yet heartily praying that their numbers might increaſe a thouſand times, whatever care devolved upon him thereby. A good wiſh, or a ſhort prayer, is a uſeful parentheſis in our diſcourſe. 2. As he had no ambition to engroſs the government to himſelf, he had no dependants to provide for; therefore only deſcribes the character of fit perſons, and leaves the choice of them to themſelves. Note, Judges muſt be men of ſuperior underſtanding, as well as tried integrity, if they would fill their high ſtation with honour to themſelves, or advantage to the community. 3. When they approved the advice, and preſented to him the perſons, he gave them an excellent charge for their behaviour; which every good judge need ſeriouſly weigh and follow. 1. To give every cauſe a full hearing, and not be impatient with the length of the cauſe, or inattentive to the evidence produced in it. 2. To determine with ſtrict impartiality, unbiaſſed by any connection, uninfluenced by any regard for men's perſons, unawed by any fears or menaces of the rulers or the multitude. 3. He enforces his charge with this ſtrongeſt argument, The judgment is God's; they act under him immediately, as his repreſentatives, and are accountable to him for their conduct. 4. In caſes of difficulty, recourſe was to be had to himſelf; that ſo no injuſtice might be done the people through ignorance, any more than of deſign.

19. ¶ And when we departed from Horeb, we went through all that great and terrible wilderneſs, which you ſaw by the way of the mountain of the Amorites, as the LORD our God commanded us; and [s] we came to Kadeſh-barnea. 20. And I ſaid unto you, Ye are come unto the mountain of the Amorites, which the LORD our God doth give unto us. 21. Behold, the LORD thy God hath ſet the land before thee: go up and poſſeſs it, as the LORD God of thy fathers hath ſaid unto thee; [t] fear not, neither be diſcouraged. 22. ¶ And ye came near unto me every one of you, and ſaid, We will ſend men before us, and they ſhall ſearch us out the land, and bring us word again by what way we muſt go up, and into what cities we ſhall come. 23. And the ſaying pleaſed me well: and [u] I took twelve men of you, one of a tribe. 24. And [x] they turned and went up into the mountain, and came unto the valley of Eſhcol, and ſearched it out. 25. And they took of the fruit of the land in their hands, and brought it down unto us, and brought us word again, and ſaid, [y] It is a good land which the LORD our God doth give us. 26. [z] Notwithſtanding, ye would not go up, but rebelled againſt the commandment of the LORD your God. 27. And ye murmured in your tents, and ſaid, Becauſe the LORD hated us, he hath brought us forth out of the land of Egypt, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to deſtroy us. 28. Whither ſhall we go up? our brethren have † diſcouraged our heart, ſaying, [a] The people is greater and taller than we, [b] the cities are great and walled up to heaven, and moreover we have ſeen the ſons of [c] the Anakims there. 29. Then I ſaid unto you, Dread not, neither be afraid of them. 30. [d] The LORD your God which goeth before you, he ſhall fight for you, according to all that he did for you in Egypt before your eyes: 31. And in the wilderneſs, where thou haſt ſeen how that the [e] LORD thy God bare thee as a man doth bear his ſon, in all the way that ye went, until ye came into this place. 32. Yet in this thing ye did not believe the LORD your God, 33. [f] Who went in the way before you [g] to ſearch you out a place to pitch your tents in, in fire by night to ſhew you by what way ye ſhould go, and in a cloud by day. 34. And the LORD heard the voice of your words, and was wroth, [h] and ſware, ſaying, 35. [i] Surely there ſhall not one of theſe men, of this evil generation, ſee that good land, which I ſware to give unto your fathers; 36. [k] Save Caleb the ſon of Jephunneh, he ſhall ſee it, and to him will I give the land that he hath trodden upon, and to his children, becauſe [l] he hath ‡ wholly followed the LORD. 37. [m] Alſo the LORD was angry with me for your ſakes, ſaying, Thou alſo ſhalt not go in thither. 38. But Joſhua the ſon of Nun, which ſtandeth before thee, he ſhall go in thither. Encourage him: for he ſhall cauſe Iſrael to inherit it. 39. [n] Moreover, your little ones, which ye ſaid ſhould be a prey, and your children which in that day [o] had no knowledge between good and evil, they ſhall go in thither, and unto them will I give it, and they ſhall poſſeſs it. 40. [p] But as for you, turn ye, and take your journey into the wilderneſs by the way of the Red ſea. 41. Then ye anſwered and ſaid unto me, [q] We have ſinned againſt the LORD, we will go up and fight, according to all that the LORD our God commanded us. And when ye had girded on every man his weapons of war, ye were ready to go up into the hill. 42. And the LORD ſaid unto me, Say unto them, [r] Go not up, neither fight, for I am not among you; leſt ye be ſmitten before your enemies. 43. So I ſpake unto you, and ye would not hear, but rebelled againſt the commandment of the LORD, and ‖ went preſumptuouſly up into the hill. 44. [s] And the Amorites which dwelt in that mountain, came out againſt you, and chaſed you [t] as bees do, and deſtroyed you in Seir, even unto Hormah. 45. And ye returned and wept before the LORD; but the LORD would not hearken to your voice, nor give ear unto you. 46. [u] So ye abode in Kadeſh many days, according unto the days that ye abode there.

[s] Num. xiii. 26.
[t] Joſh. i. 9.
[u] Numb. xiii. 3.
[x] Ibid. 22, 23, 24.
[y] Ibid. 27.
[z] Num. xiv. 1.
† Heb. melted.
[a] Num. xiii. 29, 32, 34.
[b] Chap. ix. 1.
[c] Num. xiii. 28.
[d] Exod. xiv. 14, 25. Neh. iv. 20.
[e] Chap. xxxii. 11, 12. Iſa. xlvi. 3, 4. & lxiii. 9. Hoſ. xi. 3. See Acts xiii. 18.
[f] Exod. xiii. 21.
[g] Numb. x. 33. Ezek. x. 6.
[h] Chap. ii. 14, 15.
[i] Numb. xiv. 22, 23, 29. Pſ. xcv. 11.
[k] Joſh. xiv. 9.
[l] Numb. xiv. 24.
‡ Heb. Fulfilled to go after.
[m] Numb xx. 12. & xxvii. 14. Chap. iii. 26. & iv. 21. & xxxiv. 4.
[n] Numb. xiv. 31.
[o] Iſa. vii. 15, 16. Rom. ix. 11.
[p] Numb. xiv. 25.
[q] Ibid. 40.
[r] Ibid. 42.
‖ Heb. You were preſumptuous and went up.
[s] Numb. xiv. 45.
[t] Pſal. cxviii. 12.
[u] Numb. xiii. 25.

v. 19—46. They were now in a fair way for poſſeſſion of the promiſed land; but Moſes reminds them of their perverſeneſs, and the dire conſequences which enſued thereupon. They were ſafely led through the terrible wilderneſs, and nothing remained but to go up and poſſeſs their inheritance. God's protection had been an earneſt of future mercies, and his promiſe their ſecurity. But then their unbelief began to break forth, 1. In ſending ſpies. They ſhould have taken God's word, and not have deſired ſight, when they were called to walk by faith. Nothing ſo dangerous as indulging our own wiſdom, where God's word hath already decided. 2. In the credit they paid to the lying repreſentation the ſpies made. They acknowledged the goodneſs of the land, but they exaggerated the difficulties of conquering it. Heaven is allowed to be a deſireable place, but the ſtraitneſs of the way deters the carnal and unbelieving heart from going up to it. 3. In their diſregard of Moſes' earneſt encouragement. Much had they experienced of God's care of them in Egypt, more in his protection and guidance through the wilderneſs, and therefore ſure they need not now fear; but, blind to their own mercies, they murmur, refuſing to go up, reflecting invidiouſly on God himſelf, as their deſtroyer, inſtead of preſerver; and thus, under the power of an evil heart of unbelief, departed from the living God. Note, (1.) Unbelief is at the root of all our ſins. (2.) Every ſin is greatly aggravated, when committed againſt experience of paſt mercies. He reminds them of the conſequence of this unbelief, in the condemnation which paſſed upon them all, ſave Caleb and Joſhua. All their other ſins had not deſtroyed them but for this. Unbelief is the only damning ſin. He himſelf alſo ſuffered under their provocations, and was excluded from Cahaan. Not that God hereby intended to diſinherit them: He was ordered to encourage Joſhua, and to aſſure their children they ſhould poſſeſs what their fathers forfeited. Happy for them, if they took warning by their examples, to do no more after their works. Finally, he mentions their perverſe attempt in oppoſition to the divine command, and the ill ſucceſs of it. Their tears then were fruitleſs; the decree was gone forth, and they had nothing to do but to ſubmit. Note, (1.) When the door of mercy is ſhut, it is too late to knock. (2.) Many weep for their ſufferings, not for their ſins; and this is no better than the ſorrow of the world, which worketh death.

Before Chriſt 1451.

CHAP. II.

Moſes paſſes by in ſilence their thirty-eight years wandrings, and continues his narrative with their return towards Canaan, ver. 1—3. God orders them to give no diſturbanee; 1. To the Edomites, ver. 4—8. Nor, 2. To the Moabites, ver. 9. whoſe country and former inhabitants are deſcribed, ver. 10—12. Their paſſing the brook Zered is mentioned, ver. 13—16. 3. Nor to the Ammonites, ver. 17—23. 4. The Amorites given up to them, ver. 24—26. Their juſt quarrel with them, ver. 26—32. and complete victory, ver. 33—37.

1. THEN we turned, and took our journey into the wilderneſs, by the way of the Red ſea, [a] as the LORD ſpake unto me; and we compaſſed mount Seir many days. 2. And the LORD ſpake unto me, ſaying, 3. Ye have compaſſed this mountain [b] long enough: turn you northward. 4. And command thou the people, ſaying, [c] Ye are to paſs through the coaſt of your brethren, the children of Eſau, which dwell in Seir, and they ſhall be afraid of you: take ye good heed unto yourſelves therefore. 5. Meddle not with them; for I will not give you of their land, † no not ſo much as a foot breadth, becauſe [d] I have given mount Seir unto Eſau for a poſſeſſion. 6. Ye ſhall buy meat of them for money, that ye may eat; and ye ſhall alſo buy water of them, that ye may drink. 7. For the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee in all the works of thy hand: he knoweth thy walking through this great wilderneſs: [e] theſe forty years the LORD thy God hath been with thee, thou haſt lacked nothing.

[a] Numb. xiv. 25. Chap. i. 40.
[b] See ver. 7, 14.
[c] Numb. xx. 14.
† Heb. even to the treading of the ſole of the foot.
[d] Gen. xxxvi. 8. Joſh. xxiv. 4.
[e] Chap. viii. 2.

v. 1—7. God hath his appointed 'times for exerciſing his people's faith, and permitting his enemies proſperity. When he ſaith it is long enough, then cometh the end. Iſrael is now advancing to Canaan. Edom lay in their way, but they are forbid to moleſt them. They might not take advantage over their fears, nor revenge for their unkindneſs, nor expect to diſpoſſeſs thoſe, whoſe inheritance was a gift of God. Note, The people of God are ever generous, forgiving, and diſintereſted. They muſt treat them kindly, and with ſtrict juſtice; as they wanted nothing from them which they were not well able to pay for, they muſt not take their water without a price. It is the ſpirit of the goſpel, not only to do no injury to our enemies, but to keep ourſelves from being unneceſſarily burdenſome to our friends. Every thing mean and mercenary is as much forbidden as every thing malignant.

8. [f] And when we paſſed by from our brethren the children of Eſau, which dwelt in Seir, through the way of the plain from Elath, and from Ezion-gaber, we turned and paſſed by the way of the wilderneſs of Moab. 9. And the LORD ſaid unto me, † Diſtreſs not the Moabites, neither contend with them in battle: for I will not give thee of their land for a poſſeſſion, becauſe I have given [g] Ar unto [h] the children of Lot for a poſſeſſion. 10. [i] The Emims dwelt therein in times paſt, a people great and many, and tall as [k] the Anakims: 11. Which alſo were accounted giants, as the Anakims, but the Moabites call them Emims. 12. [l] The Horims alſo dwelt in Seir before-time, but the children of Eſau ‡ ſucceeded them when they had deſtroyed them from before them, and dwelt in their ‖ ſtead, as Iſrael did unto the land of his poſſeſſion, which the LORD gave unto them. 13. Now riſe up, ſaid I, and get you over [m] the § brook Zered; and we went over the brook Zered. 14. And the ſpace in which we came [n] from Kadeſh-barnea, until we were come over the brook Zered, was thirty and eight years; until all the generation of the men of war were waſted out from among the hoſt, [o] as the LORD ſware unto them. 15. For indeed the hand of the LORD was againſt them to deſtroy them from among the hoſt, until they were conſumed. 16. ¶ So it came to paſs, when all the men of war were conſumed and dead from among the people, 17. That the LORD ſpake unto me, ſaying, 18. Thou art to paſs over through Ar, the coaſt of Moab, this day. 19. And when thou comeſt nigh over againſt the children of Ammon, diſtreſs them not, nor meddle with them: for I will not give thee of the land of the children of Ammon any poſſeſſion, becauſe I have given it unto [p] the children of Lot for a poſſeſſion. 20. (That alſo was accounted a land of giants, giants dwelt therein in old time, and the Ammonites called them [q] Zamzummims, 21. A people great and many, and tall as the Anakims; but the LORD deſtroyed them before them, and they ſucceeded them, and dwelt in their ſtead: 22. As he did to the children of Eſau [r] which dwelt in Seir, when he deſtroyed [s] the Horims from before them, and they ſucceeded them, and dwelt in their ſtead even unto this day: 23. And [t] the Avims which dwelt in Hazerim, even unto [u] Azzah, [x] the Caphtorims which came forth out of Caphtor, deſtroyed them, and dwelt in their ſtead.)

[f] Judg. xi. 18.
† Or, Uſe no hoſtility againſt Moab.
[g] Numb. xxi. 28.
[h] Gen. xix. 37.
[i] Gen. xiv. 5.
[k] Num. xiii. 23, 34.
[l] Gen. xiv. 6. & xxxvi. 20.
‡ Heb. inherited them.
‖ Or, room.
[m] Num. xxi. 12.
§ Or, valley.
[n] Numb. xiii. 26.
Before Chriſt 1451.
[o] Chap. i. 34, 35.
[p] Gen. xix. 38.
[q] Gen. xiv. 5. Zuzims.
[r] Gen. xxxii. 3.
[s] Gen. xiv. 6. & xxxvi. 20—30.
[t] Joſh. xiii. 3.
[u] Jer. xxv. 20.
[x] Gen. x. 14. Am. ix. 7.

v. 8—23. Moſes proceeds, 1. To recount their marches by the borders of Moab and Ammon, with ſome hiſtorical account of the former inhabitants, whom they had diſpoſſeſſed. They were giants, great in ſtature, and terrible to look upon as the Anakims, yet fell before the ſons of Lot and Eſau; why then ſhould the ſeed of Jacob fear, that God would not more glorioſly aſſiſt them in deſtroying the giants of Canaan? Note, In the world we have no ſure and abiding portion. The more vain and changeable its poſſeſſion, the more ſollicitous ſhould we be to ſecure a kingdom which cannot be moved. 2. He mentions their paſſage of the brook Zared, and the remarkable fulfilment of God's ſentence, in cutting off entirely the former generation, except Caleb and Joſhua, in the wilderneſs: for the hand of God was againſt them, as appeared in the ſeveral plagues with which they were viſited. God's counſel will ſtand, and woe to the ſoul againſt whom he contendeth in anger. 3. They are ſtrictly forbidden to diſtreſs the children of Lot; as the Edomites were brethren, the Ammonites and Moabites were near akin to them, and for their father's ſake muſt be ſpared; they may not covet for a poſſeſſion what God hath aſſigned them. Note, (1.) Relations have a title to a particular regard. (2.) The bleſſing of godly parents deſcends to childrens children.

24. ¶ Riſe ye up, take your journey, and [y] paſs over the river Arnon: behold, I have given into thy hand Sihon the Amorite king of Heſhbon, and his land: † begin to poſſeſs it, and contend with him in battle. 25. [z] This day will I begin to put the dread of thee, and the fear of thee upon the nations that are under the whole heaven, who ſhall hear report of thee, and ſhall tremble, and be in anguiſh becauſe of thee. 26. ¶ And I ſent meſſengers out of the wilderneſs of Kedemoth, unto Sihon, king of Heſhbon, [a] with words of peace, ſaying, 27. [b] Let me paſs through thy land: I will go along by the highway, I will neither turn unto the right hand nor to the left. 28. Thou ſhalt ſell me meat for money, that I may eat; and give me water for money, that I may drink: only I will paſs through on my feet: 29. ([c] As the children of Eſau which dwell in Seir, and the Moabites which dwell in Ar, did unto me) until I ſhall paſs over Jordan, into the land which the LORD our God giveth us. 30. But [d] Sihon king of Heſhbon would not let us paſs by him: for [e] the LORD thy God [f] hardned his ſpirit, and made his heart obſtinate, that he might deliver him into thy hand, as appeareth this day: 31. And the LORD ſaid unto me, Behold, I have begun to give Sihon and his land before thee: begin to poſſeſs, that thou mayeſt inherit his land. 32. [g] Then Sihon came out againſt us, he and all his people, to fight at Jahaz. 33. And [h] the LORD our God delivered him before us, and [i] we ſmote him, and his ſons, and all his people. 34. And we took all his cities at that time, and [k] utterly deſtroyed ‡ the men, and the women, and the little ones of every city, we left none to remain: 35. Only the cattle we took for a prey unto ourſelves, and the ſpoil of the cities which we took. 36. [l] From Aroer, which is [y] Numb. xxi. 13, 14. Judg. xi. 21.

† Heb. begin, poſſeſs.
[z] Ezek. xv. 14.
[a] Chap. xx. 10.
[b] Numb. xxi. 21, 22. Judg. xi. 19.
[c] See Chap. xxiii. 3, 4. Judg. xi. 17, 18.
[d] Numb. xxi. 33.
[e] Joſh. xi. 20.
[f] Exod. iv. 21.
[g] Numb. xxi. 23.
[h] Chap. vii. 2. & xx. 16.
[i] Chap. xxix. 7.
[k] Lev. xxvii. 28. Chap. vii. 2, 26.
‡ Heb. Every city of men and women and little ones.
[l] Chap. iii. 12. & iv. 48. Joſh. xiii. 9.

by the brink of the river of Arnon, and from the city that is by the river, even unto Gilead, there was not one city too ſtrong for us: the LORD our God delivered all unto us. 37. Only unto the land of the children of Ammon thou cameſt not, nor unto any place of the river [m] Jabbok, nor unto the cities in the mountains, nor unto whatſoever the LORD our God forbad us.

[m] Gen. xxxii. 22. Chap. iii. 16.

v. 24—37. Though they might not touch the Ammonite, they are not reſtrained from the Amorite. But even to them they muſt firſt make offers of peace, though God had hardned their hearts to refuſe them, that they might periſh. The goſpel is thus preached to thoſe who reject it, through the hardneſs of their heart, yet are left inexcuſable thereby. Sihon refuſes a paſſage, and draws out his armies; but he meddled to his ruin; God bids them poſſeſs the land; his fear had gone before, to diſpirit the people, and they fell an eaſy prey. God's Iſrael may be well encouraged; what can reſiſt thoſe for whom God fights, and before whom he ſends his terrors round about? univerſal deſolation was quickly ſpread on every ſide; the ſword of Iſrael left none alive. The meaſure of their iniquity was full, and the conſumption determined on the whole nation. Their cattle, goods, cities, and country were the ſpoil of the conquerors; and now, from an howling wilderneſs, they began to poſſeſs a land of plenty. Note, It will be a bleſſed and glorious exchange, when the believer quits the wilderneſs of the world, to enter into his everlaſting manſions in the city of God.

CHAP. III.

Moſes in this chapter relates, 1. The conqueſt of Og, king of Baſhan, and the ſeizing of his country, ver. 1—11. 2. The diſtribution of theſe new conqueſts to the two tribes and a half, ver. 12—17. Under certain proviſos and limitations, ver. 18—20. 3. The encouragement given to Joſhua to carry on the war which was ſo glorioſly begun, ver. 21, 22. 4. Moſes's requeſt to go over into Canaan, ver. 23—25. With the denial of that requeſt, but the grant of an equivalent, ver. 26—29.

1. THEN we turned, and went up the way to Baſhan: and [a] Og the king of Baſhan came out againſt us, he and all his people to battle [b] at Edrei.
2. And the LORD ſaid unto me, Fear him not: for I will deliver him, and all his people, and his land into thy hand, and thou ſhalt do unto him as thou didſt unto [c] Sihon king of the Amorites, which dwelt at Heſhbon.
3. So the LORD our God delivered into our hands [d] Og alſo the king of Baſhan, and all his people: and we ſmote him until none was left to him remaining. 4.
And we took all his cities at that time, there was not a city which we took not from them, threeſcore cities, [e] all the region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Baſhan.
5. All theſe cities were fenced with high walls, gates and bars, beſides unwalled towns a great many. 6. And we utterly deſtroyed them, as we did unto Sihon king [f] of Heſhbon, utterly deſtroying the men, women, and children of every city. 7. But all the cattle, and the ſpoil of the cities, we took for a prey to ourſelves. 8.
And we took at that time out of the hand of the two kings of the Amorites, the land that was on this ſide
Jordan, from the river of Arnon unto mount Hermon:
9. (Which [g] Hermon the Sidonians call Sirion; and the Amorites call it [h] Shenir.) 10. [i] All the cities of the plain, and all Gilead, and [k] all Baſhan, unto Salchah and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Baſhan: 11. [l] For only Og king of Baſhan remained of the remnant of giants; behold his bed-ſtead was a bed-ſtead of iron: is it not in [m] Rabbath of the children of Ammon? nine cubits was the length thereof, and four cubits the breadth of it, after the cubit of a man.

[a] Numb. xxi. 33, &c. Chap. xxix. 7.
[b] Chap. i. 4.
[c] Numb. xxi. 24.
[d] Ibid. 33.
[e] 1 Kings iv. 13.
[f] Chap. ii. 24.
[g] Chap. iv. 48.
[h] 1 Chron. v. 23.
[i] Chap. iv. 49.
[k] Joſh. xii. 5. & xiii. 11.
[l] Am. ii. 9.
[m] 2 Sam. xii. 26. Jer. xlix. 2. Ezek. xxi. 25.

v. 1—11. Moſes continues a relation of their conqueſt. Og and his people fell like Sihon before them. Though his own ſtature and ſtrength were wonderful, as may be judged by his bed-ſtead of iron, preſerved in Rabbah, by which he appears upwards of thirteen feet high, and his courage equal to it, for he came out to meet Iſrael, yet himſelf fell by their ſword, and all his ſubjects periſhed with him; whilſt his country and goods became a prey, according to God's promiſe and power, who delivered them into Iſrael's hand. Note, (1.) There is no might or wiſdom againſt the Lord. (2.) They who refuſe to be warned by others fall, and continue to provoke their judgments, will periſh with them.

12. And this land which we poſſeſſed at that time, [n] from Aroer, which is by the river Arnon, and half mount Gilead, and [o] the cities thereof, gave I unto the Reubenites, and to the Gadites. 13. And the reſt of Gilead, and all Baſhan, being the kingdom of Og, gave I unto the half-tribe of Manaſſeh; all the region of Argob, with all Baſhan, which was called the land of giants.
14. [p] Jair the ſon of Manaſſeh took all the country of Argob, [q] unto the coaſts of Geſhuri, and [r] Maachathi; and called them after his own name, Baſhan-havoth-jair, [s] unto this day. 15. And [t] I gave Gilead unto Machir.
16. And unto the Reubenites, and [u] unto the Gadites, I gave from Gilead even unto the river Arnon, half the valley, and the border, even unto the river Jabbok, [x] which is the border of the children of Ammon: 17.
The plain alſo, and Jordan, and the coaſt thereof, from [y] Chinnereth [z] even unto the ſea of the plain, [a] even the ſalt-ſea, under † Aſhdoth-piſgah eaſtward. 18. ¶ And I commanded you at that time, ſaying, The LORD your God hath given you this land to poſſeſs it: [b] ye ſhall paſs over armed before your brethren the children of Iſrael, all that are ‡ meet for the war. 19. But your wives, and your little ones, and your cattle (for I know that ye have much cattle) ſhall abide in your cities which I have given you; 20. Until the LORD have given reſt unto your brethren, as well as unto you, and until they alſo poſſeſs the land which the LORD your God hath given them beyond Jordan: and then ſhall [c] ye return every man unto his poſſeſſion which I have given you.

[n] Chap. ii. 36.
[o] Num. xxxii. 33. Joſh. xiii. 8, &c.
[p] 1 Chron. ii. 22.
[q] Joſh. xiii. 13.
[r] 2 Sam. x. 6.
[s] Num. xxxii. 41.
[t] Ibid. 39.
[u] 2 Sam. xxiv. 5.
[x] Num. xxi. 24. Joſh. xii. 2.
[y] Num. xxxiv. 11.
[z] Chap. iv. 49. & xxxiii. 23.
[a] Gen. xiv. 3.
† Or the ſprings of Piſgah, or the hill.
[b] Num. xxxii. 20.
‡ Heb. Sons of Power.
[c] Joſh. xxii. 4.

v. 12—20. Moſes rehearſes the ſettlement of theſe conqueſts on the Reubenites, Gadites, and half the tribe of Manaſſeh, reminding them withal of the condition of their tenure. They muſt go over Jordan before their brethren to fight the Lord's battles, and ſee them comfortably ſettled in Canaan, before they preſumed to return to their own poſſeſſions in Gilead. Brethren in Chriſt muſt be companions in tribulation; and ſeek each others peace as their own.

21. ¶ [d] And I commanded Joſhua at that time, ſaying, Thine eyes have ſeen all that the LORD your God hath done unto theſe two kings: ſo ſhall the LORD do unto all the kingdoms whither thou paſſeſt. 22. Ye ſhall not fear them: for the LORD your God he ſhall fight for you. 23. [e] And I beſought the LORD at that time ſaying, 24. O LORD God, thou haſt begun to ſhew thy ſervant thy greatneſs, and thy mighty hand: for [f] what God is there in heaven or in earth, that can do according to thy works, and according to thy might? 25. I pray thee let me go over, and ſee the good land that is beyond Jordan, that goodly mountain, and Lebanon. 26. But [g] the LORD was wroth with me for your ſakes, and would not hear me; and the LORD ſaid unto me, Let it ſuffice thee, ſpeak no more unto me of this matter. 27. [h] Get thee up into the top of † Piſgah, and lift up thine eyes weſtward, and northward, and ſouthward, and eaſtward, and behold it with thine eyes; for thou ſhalt not go over this Jordan. 28. But [i] charge Joſhua, and encourage him, and ſtrengthen him: for he ſhall go over before this people, and he ſhall cauſe them to inherit the land which thou ſhalt ſee. 29. So we abode in [k] the valley over againſt Beth-peor.

[d] Num. xxvii. 18.
[e] See 2 Cor. xii. 8, 9.
[f] Pſal. lxxi. 19. & lxxxvi. 8. & lxxxix. 6.
[g] Num. xx. 12. & xxvii. 14. Chap. i. 37. & xxxi. 2. & xxxii. 51, 52. & xxxiv. 4. Pſal. cvi. 32.
[h] Num. xxvii. 12.
† Or the hill.
[i] Num. xxvii. 18.
[k] Chap. xxxiv. 6.

v. 21—29. As Joſhua was ordained to ſucceed Moſes in the government, he repeats the encouragement he gave him to be brave and confident in ſo good a cauſe. He had ſeen already ſome of God's mighty acts, and he was aſſured ſuch would be the ſucceſs which ſhould ever attend him, ſince it was the Lord who fought their battles. If God be for us, wherefore ſhould we fear or doubt? Moſes mentions his own deſire and prayer, and the refuſal he met with. 1. He adores God for the mercies he had already taſted, admiring the power and greatneſs of the works which he had ſhown to Iſrael, and intimates his wiſh that he might behold ſtill greater diſplays of God's glory, in the perfection of his people's ſettlement. Note, (1.) We ought never to entertain a deſire in our hearts, that we may not offer in prayer to God. (2.) A glimpſe of God's glory quickens the ſoul's longing after brighter diſcoveries of it. (3.) Thankfulneſs for any meaſure of God's mercy we have taſted, is the ſureſt means to obtain the bleſſing we need. 2. He puts up his petition for permiſſion to go over Jordan, enamoured, as it were, with the love of the goodly land. Note, They who have had a believing view of heaven, cannot but count it a goodly land, and long for an abode in it. 3. His requeſt is denied, yet in ſuch a way as ſufficiently aſſures him of God's favour towards him. Our prayers may often ſucceed, though we receive not according to our particular requeſts. God was wroth with him formerly, and had determined concerning the matter. Yet bids him kindly deſiſt, as if he wiſhed not to be aſked for what he could not grant, and be content. Note, If God gives us contentment under diſappointments, we have one bleſſed token that our prayer is heard with favour. Yet he ſhall ſee the land, though he may not enter it, and from the top of Piſgah be comforted in the proſpect of what his dear flock would poſſeſs after his deceaſe. Finally, He bids him charge Joſhua, and ſtrengthen him in his work, with the aſſurance of compleating the conqueſts he had begun. Note, (1.) Aged and experienced Chriſtians, are bound to encourage the hearts of their younger brethren. (2.) It is a great comfort to a dying miniſter, to leave the flock of God in a proſperous ſtate, and provided with every means for their edification, when he is ſleeping in the duſt.

CHAP. IV.

In this chapter we have, 1. A moſt earneſt and pathetical exhortation to obedience, ver. 1—40. 2. The appointing the cities of refuge on that ſide Jordan, ver. 41—43. 3. The particular deſcription of the place where Moſes delivered the following repetition of the law, ver. 44—49.

1. NOW therefore hearken, O Iſrael, unto [a] the ſtatutes, and unto the judgments which I teach you, for to do them, that ye may live, and go in and poſſeſs the land which the LORD God of your fathers giveth you. 2. [b] Ye ſhall not add unto the word which I command you, neither ſhall you diminiſh ought from it, that you may keep the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you. 3. Your eyes have ſeen what the LORD did becauſe of [c] Baal-peor: for all the men that followed Baal-peor, the LORD thy God hath deſtroyed them from among you. 4. But ye that did cleave unto the LORD your God are alive every one of you this day. 5. Behold, I have taught you ſtatutes and judgments, even as the LORD my God commanded me, that ye ſhould do ſo in the land whither ye go to poſſeſs it. 6. Keep therefore and do them, for this is [d] your wiſdom and your underſtanding in the ſight of the nations, which ſhall hear all theſe ſtatutes, and ſay, Surely this great nation is a wiſe and underſtanding people. 7. For [e] what nation is there ſo great, who hath [f] God ſo nigh unto them, as the LORD our God is in all things that we call upon him for? 8. And what nation is there ſo great, that hath ſtatutes and judgments ſo righteous, as all this law which I ſet before you this day? 9. Only take heed to thyſelf, and keep thy ſoul diligently, leſt thou forget the things which thine eyes have ſeen, and leſt they depart from thy heart all the days of thy life: but [g] teach them thy ſons, and thy ſons ſons: 10. Specially [h] the day that thou ſtoodſt before the LORD thy God in Horeb, when the LORD ſaid unto me, Gather me the people together, and I will make them hear my words, that they may learn to fear me all the days that they ſhall live upon the earth, and that they may teach their children. 11. And ye came near and ſtood under the mountain, and [i] the mountain burnt with fire unto the † midſt of heaven, with darkneſs, clouds, and thick darkneſs. 12. And the LORD ſpake unto you out of the midſt of the fire: ye heard the voice of the words, but ſaw no ſimilitude, [k] ‡ only ye heard a voice. 13. [l] And he declared unto you his covenant, which he commanded you to perform, even [m] ten commandments, and [n] he wrote them upon two tables of ſtone. 14. ¶ And [o] the LORD commanded me at that time, to teach you ſtatutes and judgments, that ye might do them in the land whither ye go over to poſſeſs it. 15. Take ye therefore good heed unto yourſelves (for ye ſaw no manner of ſimilitude on the day that the LORD ſpake unto you in Horeb, out of the midſt of the fire) 16. Leſt ye corrupt yourſelves, and [p] make you a graven image, the ſimilitude of any figure, the likeneſs of male or female, 17. The likeneſs of any beaſt that is on the earth, the likeneſs of any winged fowl that flieth in the air, 18. The likeneſs of [q] any thing that creepeth on the ground, the likeneſs of any fiſh that is in the waters beneath the earth: 19. And leſt thou [r] lift up thine eyes unto heaven, and when thou ſeeſt the ſun, and the moon, and the ſtars, even [s] all the hoſt of heaven, ſhouldſt be driven to worſhip them, and ſerve them, which the LORD thy God hath ‖ divided unto all nations under the whole heaven. 20. But the LORD hath taken you, and [t] brought you forth out of the iron furnace, even out of Egypt, [u] to be unto him a people of inheritance, as ye are this day. 21. Furthermore, [x] the LORD was angry with me for your ſakes, and ſware that I ſhould not go over Jordan, and that I ſhould not go in unto that good land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance. 22. But [y] I muſt die in this land, I muſt not go over Jordan: but ye ſhall go over and poſſeſs that good land. 23. Take heed unto yourſelves, leſt ye forget the covenant of the LORD your God, which he made with you, and make you a graven image, or the likeneſs of any thing [z] which the LORD thy God hath forbidden thee. 24. For [a] the LORD thy God is a conſuming fire, even [b] a jealous God. 25. ¶ When thou ſhalt beget children, and childrens children, and ſhalt have remained long in the land, and ſhall corrupt yourſelves, and make a graven image, or the likeneſs of any thing, and ſhall do evil in the ſight of the LORD thy God, to provoke him to anger: 26. [c] I call heaven and earth to witneſs againſt you this day, that ye ſhall ſoon utterly periſh from off the land whereunto you go over Jordan to poſſeſs it: ye ſhall not prolong your days upon it, but ſhall utterly be deſtroyed. 27. And [d] the LORD ſhall ſcatter you among the nations, and ye ſhall be left few in number among the heathen, whither the LORD ſhall lead you. 28. [e] And there ye ſhall ſerve gods, the work of mens hands, wood and ſtone, [f] which neither ſee, nor hear, nor eat, nor ſmell. 29. [g] But if from thence thou ſhalt ſeek the LORD thy God, thou ſhalt find him, if thou ſeek him with all thy heart, and with all thy ſoul. 30. When thou art in tribulation, and all theſe things † are come upon thee, [h] even in the latter days, if thou turn to the LORD thy God, and ſhalt be obedient unto his voice: 31. (For the LORD thy God is a merciful God) he will not forſake thee, neither deſtroy thee, nor forget the covenant of thy fathers which he ſware unto them. 32. For aſk now of the days that are paſt, which were before thee, ſince the day that God created man upon the earth, and aſk [i] from the one ſide of heaven unto the other, whether there hath been any ſuch thing as this great thing is, or hath been heard like it? 33. [k] Did ever people hear the voice of God ſpeaking out of the midſt of the fire, as thou haſt heard, and live? 34. Or, hath God aſſayed to go and take him a nation from the midſt of another nation, [l] by temptations, by ſigns, and by wonders, and by war, and by a mighty hand, and by a ſtretched-out arm, and by great terrors, according to all that the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes? 35. Unto thee it was ſhewed, that thou mightſt know that the LORD he is God; [m] there is none elſe beſides him. 36. [n] Out of heaven he made thee to hear his voice, that he might inſtruct thee: and upon earth he ſhewed thee his great fire, and thou heardeſt his words out of the midſt of the fire. 37. And becauſe he loved thy fathers, therefore he choſe their ſeed after them, and [o] brought thee out in his ſight with his mighty power out of Egypt: 38. To drive out nations from before thee, greater and mightier than thou art, to bring thee in to give thee their land for an inheritance, as it is this day. 39. Know therefore this day, and conſider it in thy heart, that [p] the LORD he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none elſe. 40. Thou ſhalt keep therefore his ſtatutes, and his commandments which I command thee this day, that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee, and that thou mayſt prolong thy days upon the earth, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for ever.

v. 1—40. The review of God's providences towards them are here earneſtly applied, as arguments for their fidelity and obedience, with the moſt ſolemn charge to enforce them upon their conſciences.

---

[a] Lev. xix. 37. & xx. 8. & xxii. 31.

[b] Chap. xii. 32. Joſh. i. 7. Prov. xxx. 6. Ecclus xii. 13. Rev. xxii. 18, 19.

[c] Num. xxv. 4, &c. Joſh. xxii. 17.

[d] Job xxviii. 28. Pſal. cxi. 10. Prov. i. 7.

[e] 2 Sam. vii. 23.

[f] Pſal. xlvi. 1. & cxlv. 18. & cxlviii. 14. Iſa. lv. 6.

[g] Gen. xviii. 19. Chap. vi. 7. & xi. 19. Pſal. lxxviii. 5, 6.

[h] Exod. xix. 9, 16. & xx. 18. Heb. xii. 18.

[i] Exod. xix. 18.

† Heb. Heart.

[k] Exod. xx. 22, 23.

‡ Heb. Save a voice.

[l] Chap. ix. 9, 11.

[m] Exod. xxxiv. 28.

[n] Ibid. xxiv. 12.

[o] Ibid. xxi. 1. Chap. xxii. & xxiii.

[p] Exod. xx. 4, 5.

[q] Rom. i. 23.

[r] Chap. xvii. 3. Job xxxi. 26, 27.

[s] Gen. ii. 1.

‖ Or imparted.

[t] 1 Kings viii. 51. Jer. xi. 4.

[u] Exod. xix. 5. Chap. ix. 29 & xxxii. 9.

[x] Num. xx. 12. Chap. i. 37.

[y] See 2 Pet. i. 13, 14, 15.

[z] Exod. xx. 4, 5.

[a] Chap. ix. 3. Iſa. xxxiii. 14. Hebr. xii. 29.

[b] Exod. xx. 5. Iſa. xlii. 8.

[c] Iſa. i. 2. Mic. vi. 2.

[d] Lev. xxvi. 33. Chap. xxviii. 62, 64. Neh. i. 8.

[e] Chap. xxviii. 64. 1 Sam. xxvi. 19. Jer. xvi. 13.

[f] Pſal. cxv. 4, 5. & cxxxv. 15. Iſa. xliv. 9. & xlvi. 7.

[g] Lev. xxvi. 39. Chap. xxx. 1. 2 Chron. xv. 4. Neh. i. 9.

† Heb. Have found thee.

[h] Gen. xlix. 1.

[i] Mat. xxiv. 31.

[k] Exod. xxiv. 11. & xxxiii. 20.

[l] Chap vii. 19. & xxix. 3.

[m] Chap. xxxii. 39. Iſa. xlv. 5, 18, 22. Mark xii. 29, 32.

[n] Exod. xix. 9, 19. & xx. 18, 22. & xxiv. 16. Heb. xii. 18.

[o] Exod. xiii. 3, 9, 14.

[p] Joſh. ii. 11.

He begins with commanding deep and ſerious attention to ſo awful a ſubject. The word of God can never be heard with ſufficient reverence and godly fear. It is the character of the man to whom God will look, that he trembleth at his word. 1. Moſes charges them with careful preſervation of the ſacred truſt committed to them. They may not add to the word of truth, by inventions or tradition, nor diminiſh from it, by ſlighting or neglecting what was enjoined them, as ſuperfluous. They muſt hear God's word, that they may keep it, obey the precepts, obſerve the ordinances, and judge according to the laws preſcribed them: and herein they cannot be too ſollicitouſly careful, when compaſſed with temptations, a deceitful heart within, and an enſnaring world without, againſt which, all their watchfulneſs, diligence and prayer would be but enough. Note, This charge is equally applicable to ourſelves: we owe a like ſcrupulous attention to God's word, and need the ſame diligence to keep our hearts, and to walk before God in his holy ways. 2. A particular caution is given them againſt idolatry; this was the ſin God would be moſt diſhonoured by, and the conſequences of it moſt ſurely fatal to themſelves, v. 15—18. They muſt make no repreſentation of God in any form, by image or picture. They ſaw no likeneſs of any thing in Horeb; nor can any ſimilitude be conceived of him who is a ſpirit, and will have thoſe who worſhip him, to worſhip him in ſpirit and in truth: and ideal repreſentations of God muſt be as much avoided, as ſenſible figures, leaſt we commit idolatry in our heart. The nations around them worſhipped the hoſts of heaven, but they muſt abhor the thought of giving that honour to the creature, which was due only to the Creator: the ſun, moon, and ſtars, might tempt their eye, and examples of others be apt to enſnare them, but how abſurd, as well as impious, were it to worſhip that which was made to ſerve us? They are the works of God, and whatever glory they poſſeſs, the praiſe is due to him alone. What a mercy to be delivered from blind idolatry! Whilſt we pity thoſe who worſhip the viſible luminaries of heaven, may every view of them lead up our hearts in adoration to him who formed them. 3. They are not only to take heed to themſelves, but to teach their children. Parents have an awful truſt repoſed in them, to inſtruct their children in the knowledge of God's ways, and to lead them by precept and example to walk therein. 4. He repeats his warning, not to forget the covenant of the Lord, v. 23. aſſured, that if they bore in mind the riches of the promiſes therein made, and the faithfulneſs of God engaged for their fulfilment, then nothing would ever be able to ſhake their conſtancy and fidelity. Note, A conſtant remembrance of God's covenant, is the moſt quickening means to our diligent obedience.

Moſes ſupports this charge with the moſt forcible arguments; for to be godly in Chriſt Jeſus, is the moſt reaſonable ſervice imaginable. 1. He urges the benefit of their obedience, v. 1. and the danger of rebellion, v. 3. They would be unſpeakably gainers by the one, and as great loſers by the other. Note, Intereſt, as well as duty, is on the ſide of religion. 2. He mentions their relation to God, as their own and their father's God, with the obligations thence reſulting to ſerve and obey him. Note, If God be our God, it is highly reaſonable we ſhould approve ourſelves his faithful people. 3. He pleads the wiſdom of ſuch fidelity: it is moſt agreeable to reaſon, as well as moſt conducive to their own happineſs; and could not but procure them the reſpect and admiration of the nations around them, v. 6. Religion is the trueſt wiſdom, and even thoſe who reject it themſelves, ſtand in awe of it, and reverence it in others. 4. He enforces their duty, by the privileges they enjoyed. [1.] As being near to God, and having his ears open to hear and grant every requeſt. Note, (1.) God's Iſrael are a praying people; a prayerleſs ſoul is truly heatheniſh. (2.) None wait upon him in faith, who go without an anſwer of peace. [2.] As being poſſeſſed of a code of laws ſo excellent and equitable in themſelves, ſo conducive to promote perſonal and national ſecurity and felicity. All that is human, is defective: the book of God alone contains the deciſions of perfect equity, and the laws of perfect wiſdom. [3.] As having heard God himſelf ſpeaking to them from the midſt of the fire; a ſingular favour, which no other nation could boaſt of beſide themſelves. We hear no more this audible voice now, but we have his gentler and ſweeter call in the written word; and this voice, whoſoever is of the truth, receives with delight, and obeys in ſimplicity. [4.] As having experienced ſuch ſingular mercies in their deliverance from Egypt, and all the wonders they had ſeen in the wilderneſs, v. 34—37. and having ſtill greater mercies in proſpect, v. 38. Nothing is ſo powerful to engage the heart, as a deep and grateful ſenſe of God's goodneſs to us. 5. Moſes urges the glorious character of God. (1.) He is a jealous God, and a conſuming fire; his eye keen to diſcern, and his arm ſtrong to puniſh every diſobedience. We need be jealous over ourſelves therefore, leaſt we provoke that wrath, which if it be kindled againſt us, will burn to the nethermoſt hell. (2.) He is a merciful God, v. 31. and ſince he will not forſake us, we ought ſurely never to leave or forſake him. (3.) He is the only true God; beſide him there is no other. In heaven he makes the bright diſplays of his radiant glory, and earth is the footſtool of his throne, and not beneath his care and government. To him therefore are we bound to ſubmit, and him only to ſerve. 6. The fatal conſequences of apoſtacy from God, are ſtrongly preſſed upon them, v. 25—31. They ſhould be utterly deſtroyed, ſcattered among the nations, and given up to the vileſt ſervice of idols. Note, The ſin by which we have provoked God, he may in juſt judgment give us up to, as our puniſhment. 7. Yet there is a reſerve of mercy promiſed, whenever they ſought God, humbled under his chaſtiſements. Wherever they are, in whatever corner of the earth diſperſed, if they cried unto God in their miſery, he would hear them, for the ſake of the covenant he had made with their fathers, and recover them. When our ſtate is ever ſo bad, it is a mercy it is not utterly deſperate. Note, (1.) The end of afflictions on the people of God, is to bring them to repentance. (2.) Whenever we ſeek God in ſimplicity, however we have before provoked him, he will not utterly forſake us. (3.) His covenant with our glorious head, and ſecond Adam, Jeſus, affords us ground to hope, that he will never caſt out thoſe, who come to him in this Son of his eternal Love.

41. ¶ Then Moſes [q] ſevered three cities on this ſide Jordan, toward the ſun-riſing: 42. [r] That the ſlayer might flee thither, which ſhould kill his neighbour unawares, and hated him not in times paſt; and that fleeing unto one of theſe cities, he might live: 43. Namely, [s] Bezer in the wilderneſs, in the plain country, of the Reubenites; and Ramoth in Gilead, of the Gadites; and Golan in Baſhan, of the Manaſſites. 44. ¶ And this is the law which Moſes ſet before the children of Iſrael: 45. Theſe are the teſtimonies, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments, which Moſes ſpake unto the children of Iſrael, after they came forth out of Egypt: 46. On this ſide Jordan [t] in the valley over againſt Beth-peor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heſhbon, whom Moſes and the children of Iſrael [u] ſmote, after they were come forth out of Egypt: 47. And they poſſeſſed his land, and the land [x] of Og king of Baſhan, two kings of the Amorites, which were on this ſide Jordan, toward the ſun-riſing; 48. From Aroer, which is by the bank of the river Arnon, even unto mount Sion, which is [y] Hermon, 49. And all the plain on this ſide Jordan eaſtward, even unto the ſea of the plain, under [z] the ſprings of Piſgah.

[q] Num. xxxv. 6, 14.
[r] Chap. xix. 4.
[s] Joſh. xx 8.
[t] Chap. iii. 29.
[u] Num. xxi. 24. Chap. i. 4.
[x] Num. xxi. 33. Chap. iii. 3.
[y] Chap. iii. 9. Pſal. cxxxiii. 3.
[z] Chap. iii. 17.

v. 41—49. Whilſt Moſes lived, he laboured to improve the moment in ſettling the affairs of his people. For which purpoſe, 1. He fixes on the cities of refuge, which were on that ſide Jordan, in the land of Gilead and Baſan. 2. He proceeds to open and enforce the teſtimonies, ſtatutes, and judgments, which had been delivered to them, that at leaſt he might be free from their blood, when he had not ſhunned to declare unto them the whole counſel of God.

CHAP. V.

In this chapter we have a repetition of the ten commandments. 1. 1. The general intent of them; they were in the nature of a covenant between God and Iſrael, ver. 1—5. 2. The particular precepts are repeated, ver. 6. 3. The people's requeſt that they might not hear God's voice, but uſe the mediation of Moſes, ver. 23—27. 4. God grants that it ſhould be ſo, ver. 28—31. 5. The obligation they were under to obedience, ver. 32, 33.

1. AND Moſes called all Iſrael, and ſaid unto them, Hear, O Iſrael, the ſtatutes and judgments which I ſpeak in your ears this day, that ye may learn them, and † keep and do them. 2. [a] The LORD our God made a covenant with us in Horeb. 3. [b] The LORD made not this covenant with our fathers, but with us, even us, who are all of us here alive this day. 4. [c] The LORD talked with you face to face in the mount, out of the midſt of the fire, 5. (I ſtood between the LORD and you at that time, to ſhew you the word of the LORD: for [d] ye were afraid by reaſon of the fire, and went not up into the mount) ſaying, † Heb. Keep to do them.

[a] Exod. xix. 5.
[b] See Mat. xiii. 17. Heb. viii. 9.
[c] Exod. xix. 9, 19. Chap. xxxiv. 10.
[d] Exod. xix. 16. & xx. 18.

v. 1—5. Moſes ſummons the people, as many as could come within hearing, to attend the charge he was farther to deliver; and needful it was that they ſhould thoroughly know, what they were ſo ſolemnly bound to obey. He calls upon them to hear the ſtatutes, moral, ceremonial and judicial, which God delivered in Horeb, when he talked with them face to face, with an aſtoniſhing familiarity; and where they conſenting to God's commands, a covenant was eſtabliſhed between them, where-wherein God engaged to be their God to bleſs them, and they to be his ſervants to obey him, whilſt Moſes, as mediator, ſtood between them. Note, (1.) There can be no covenant between God and the ſoul, but through the one mediator Jeſus Chriſt, whom Moſes prefigured. (2.) The promiſes of the covenant engage our hearts to all holy obedience. (3.) There is not only a common obligation lying upon believers to be obedient, becauſe it is their duty, but, as intereſted in the covenant, a peculiar one, becauſe they profeſs it to be their choice.

Before Christ 1451.

[e] Exod. xx. ii. &c. Lev. xxvi. 1. Chap. vi. 4. Pſal. lxxxi. 10.
† Heb. Servants.
[f] Exod. xxxiv. 7.
[g] Jer. xxxii. 18.
[h] Lev. xix. 12. Mat. v. 33.
[i] Exod. xxiii. 12. & xxxv. 2. Ezek. xx. 12.
[k] Gen. ii. 2. Exod. xvi. 29, 31. Heb. iv. 4.
[l] Lev. xix. 3. Chap. xxvii. 16. Eph. vi. 2, 3. Col. iii. 20.
[m] Mat. v. 21.
[n] Luke xviii. 20.
[o] Rom. xiii. 9.
[p] Ibid. vii. 7.
[q] Exod. xxiv. 12.

6. ¶ [e] I am the LORD thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of † bondage. 7. Thou ſhalt have none other gods before me. 8. Thou ſhalt not make thee any graven image, or any likeneſs of any thing that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the waters beneath the earth. 9. Thou ſhalt not bow down thyſelf unto them, nor ſerve them: for I the LORD thy God am a jealous God, [f] viſiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate me, 10. And [g] ſhewing mercy unto thouſands of them that love me and keep my commandments. 11. [h] Thou ſhalt not take the name of the LORD thy God in vain: for the LORD will not hold him guiltleſs that taketh his name in vain. 12. Keep the ſabbath day to ſanctify it, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee. 13. [i] Six days thou ſhalt labour, and do all thy work: 14. But the ſeventh day is [k] the ſabbath of the LORD thy God: in it thou ſhalt not do any work, thou, nor thy ſon, nor thy daughter, nor thy man-ſervant, nor thy maid-ſervant, nor thine ox, nor thine aſs, nor any of thy cattle, nor thy ſtranger that is within thy gates; that thy man-ſervant, and thy maid-ſervant may reſt as well as thou. 15. And remember that thou waſt a ſervant in the land of Egypt, and that the LORD thy God brought thee out thence, through a mighty hand, and by a ſtretched out arm: therefore the LORD thy God commanded thee to keep the ſabbath-day. 16. ¶ [l] Honour thy father and thy mother, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee; that thy days may be prolonged: and that it may go well with thee, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee. 17. [m] Thou ſhalt not kill. 18. [n] Neither ſhalt thou commit adultery. 19. [o] Neither ſhalt thou ſteal. 20. Neither ſhalt thou bear falſe witneſs againſt thy neighbour. 21. [p] Neither ſhalt thou deſire thy neighbour's wife, neither ſhalt thou covet thy neighbour's houſe, his field, or his man ſervant, or his maid-ſervant, his ox, or his aſs, or any thing that is thy neighbours. 22. ¶ Theſe words the LORD ſpake unto all your aſſembly in the mount out of the midſt of the fire, of the cloud, and of the thick darkneſs, with a great voice, and he added no more; and [q] he wrote them in two tables of ſtone, and delivered them unto me.

v. 6—22. We have here the ten commandments which God delivered on Horeb or Sinai, two ſummits of the ſame mountain. Some little variations are obſervable from Exod. xx. tho' the general ſenſe of them is exactly the ſame. After the fourth commandment, the reaſon for obſerving a ſacred reſt which before was taken from the creation, is here urged from their deliverance from Egypt. They had been ſervants themſelves, therefore knew how welcome a day's reſt would be to their own ſervants. Their redemption alſo was typical of our own, and we, in memory of Chriſt reſting from his glorious work on his reſurrection day, obſerve it as our day of ſacred reſt, to celebrate his triumphs over ſin, death, and hell, and to prepare to triumph with him, when we ſhall finally reſt from our labours in eternal bliſs. The commands are here all connected, as before ſeparate, for they are links of one chain, and he who offendeth in one point is guilty of all. The fifth commandment hath ſome addition, which the Apoſtle Eph. vi. 3. quotes, That it may be well with thee, for it goes ill with diſobedient children, whilſt God's bleſſing is upon the dutiful. The whole was delivered with the moſt awful appearances, ſuited to excite awful apprehenſions of that God with whom they had to do, and that law which was delivered to them. Of itſelf, the law is a miniſtration of condemnation to fallen man, and could only ſerve to beget terror in the guilty conſcience; but it was given to bring us unto Chriſt, that we might be juſtified by faith.—To preſerve theſe commands from being forgotten, they are written on durable tables, and laid up in the ark for a memorial to ſucceeding generations. Note, The writing the ſcriptures is what we can never enough be thankful for; thus we are not left to uncertain traditions, but may continually apply to the unadulterated fountain of truth.

Before Christ 1452.

[r] Exod. xx. 19.
[s] Ibid. xix. 19.
[t] Chap. iv. 33. Judg. xiii. 22.
† Heb. Add to hear.
[u] Exod. xx. 19. Heb. xii. 19.
[x] Chap. xviii. 17.
[y] Chap. xxxii. 29. Pſal. lxxxi. 13. Iſa. xlviii. 18. Mat. xxiii. 37.
[z] Joſh. i. 7.

23. And [r] it came to paſs when ye heard the voice out of the midſt of the darkneſs (for the mountain did burn with fire) that ye came near unto me, even all the heads of your tribes, and your elders. 24. And ye ſaid, Behold, the LORD our God hath ſhewed us his glory, and his greatneſs, and [s] we have heard his voice out of the midſt of the fire: we have ſeen this day that God doth talk with man, and [t] he liveth. 25. Now therefore why ſhould we die? for this great fire will conſume us. If we † hear the voice of the LORD our God any more, then we ſhall die. 26. For who is there of all fleſh that hath heard the voice of the living God, ſpeaking out of the midſt of the fire (as we have) and lived? 27. Go thou near, and hear all that the LORD our God ſhall ſay; and [u] ſpeak thou unto us all that the LORD our God ſhall ſpeak unto thee, and we will hear it, and do it. 28. And the LORD heard the voice of your words, when ye ſpake unto me; and the LORD ſaid unto me, I have heard the voice of the words of this people, which they have ſpoken unto thee: [x] they have well ſaid all that they have ſpoken. 29. [y] O that there were ſuch an heart in them, that they would fear me, and keep all my commandments always, that it might be well with them, and with their children for ever! 30. Go ſay to them, Get you into your tents again. 31. But as for thee, ſtand thou here by me, and I will ſpeak unto thee all the commandments, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments which thou ſhalt teach them, that they may do them in the land which I give them to poſſeſs it. 32. Ye ſhall obſerve to do therefore as the LORD your God hath commanded you: [z] you ſhall not turn aſide to the right hand or to the left. 33. You ſhall walk in all the ways which the LORD your God hath commanded you, that ye may live, and that it may be well with you, and that ye may prolong your days in the land which ye ſhall poſſeſs.

v. 23—33. Overcome with the diſplays of the terrible Majeſty they beheld, and trembling at the voice of God, they can no longer endure this method of immediate communion with him, leaſt they die. Note, (1.) Fallen man is naturally in terrors at God's voice. But, (2.) In Chriſt Jeſus, we are not afraid to approach him, becauſe we know it is the voice of love. They propoſe,

1. That God would ſpeak to them, not immediately himſelf, but through Moſes, their mediator. They had deſpiſed him before, but they value him now when he can ſtand their friend. Awakened conſciences ſee with different eyes.

2. They promiſe to be obedient. Nothing commoner than under convictions to make great promiſes, which are uſually as ſoon forgotten, as the ſailor's prayers when the ſtorm is over.

3. God condeſcends to approve their motion, and ſpeaks his deſire that there were ſuch a heart in them as now appeared, humble, reverential, and dutiful. Moſes is appointed as the mediator between them, and him they muſt hear. Note, (1.) God is well pleaſed with every gracious purpoſe his ſpirit excites in the heart, and delights in the ſalvation of his people. (2.) It were well for us, that there were ſuch a conſtant ſenſe of God, and the things of God upon our minds, as ſometimes we feel. (3.) The word God ſpeaks by his prophets and apoſtles, is as ſure as what he ſpeaks by his own voice from heaven, and to be equally regarded: and if the ſcriptures are neglected, all the appearances of Sinai, if repeated, would never have any effect upon us.

4. Moſes infers from all this their obligation to be obedient, and aſſures them it is the only way to be happy. No true happineſs in time or in eternity is to be enjoyed, but in the way of true holineſs.

CHAP. VI.

Moſes goes on with his charge to Iſrael, to be ſure to keep up their religion in Canaan. 1. A perſuaſive to obedience, ver. 1—3. 2. The firſt truth to be believed, that God is one, ver. 4. 3. The firſt duty to be done, to love him with all our heart, ver. 5. 4. The means for keeping up religion, ver. 6—9. 5. Cautions againſt thoſe things which would be the ruin of religion. Abuſe of plenty, ver. 10—12. Inclination to idolatry, ver. 14, 15. Some general precepts, ver. 13, 16, 17, 18. 6. He directs them what inſtructions to give their children, ver. 20—25.

1. NOW theſe are the commandments, the ſtatutes, and the judgments which the LORD your God

Before Chriſt 1451.

† Heb. Paſs over.

[a] Exod. iii. 8.

God commanded to teach you, that ye might do them in the land whither ye † go to poſſeſs it: 2. That thou mighteſt fear the LORD thy God, to keep all his ſtatutes, and his commandments which I command thee; thou and thy ſon, and thy ſons ſon, all the days of thy life, and that thy days may be prolonged. 3. ¶ Hear therefore, O Iſrael, and obſerve to do it, that it may be well with thee, and that ye may increaſe mightily, as the LORD God of thy fathers hath promiſed thee, in [a] the land that floweth with milk and honey.

v. 1—3. Moſes is ſollicitous to approve his own fidelity to them, and to inculcate upon them every command he hath received from the Lord; and charges them to tranſmit them to their childrens children, ſeeing on their religious obſervance of them, their well-being in time and eternity depended. And he begins with the fear of God, for filial fear is the ſtrongeſt preſervative from falling. Note, (1.) Parents have an awful charge, and great will be their guilt, if they neglect it. (2.) To walk in the fear of God, is the way to pleaſe God. (3.) They who walk in his fear, need fear nothing elſe; for God will take care, and abundantly provide for them.

[b] Iſa. xlii. 8. Mark xii. 29. John xvii. 3. 1 Cor. viii. 4, 6.
[c] Chap. x. 12. Mat. xxii. 37. Mark xii. 30. Luke x. 27.
[d] Chap. xi. 18. Pſal. xxxvii. 31. & xl. 8. & cxix. 98. Iſa. li. 7.
[e] Chap. iv 9. & xi. 19. Pſal. lxxviii. 4.
† Heb. Whet, or ſharpen.
[f] Exod. xiii. 9, 16. Chap. xi. 18. Prov. iii. 3. & vi. 21. & vii. 3.
[g] Chap. xi. 20. Iſa, lvii. 8.
[h] Pſal. cv. 44.
[i] Chap. viii. 10, &c.
‡ Heb. Bondmen, or ſervants.
[k] Chap. x. 12, 20. & xiii. 4. Mat. iv. 10. Luke iv. 8.
[l] Pſal. lxiii. 11. Iſa. xlv. 23. & lxv. 16. Jer. iv. 2. & v. 7. & xii. 16.
[m] Mat. iv. 7. Luke iv. 12.
[n] Exod. xvii. 2. Num. xx. 3, 4. & xxi. 4.

4. [b] Hear, O Iſrael, the LORD our God is one LORD. 5. And [c] thou ſhalt love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul, and with all thy might. 6. And [d] theſe words which I command thee this day, ſhall be in thine heart. 7. [e] And thou ſhalt † teach them diligently unto thy children, and ſhalt talk of them when thou ſitteſt in thine houſe, and when thou walkeſt by the way, and when thou lieſt down, and when thou riſeſt up. 8. [f] And thou ſhalt bind them for a ſign upon thine hand, and they ſhall be as frontlets between thine eyes. 9. [g] And thou ſhalt write them upon the poſts of thy houſe, and on thy gates. 10. And it ſhall be when the LORD thy God ſhall have brought thee into the land which he ſware unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Iſaac, and to Jacob, to give thee great and goodly cities [h] which thou buildeſt not, 11. And houſes full of all good things which thou filledſt not, and wells digged which thou diggedſt not, vineyards and olive-trees which thou plantedſt not, [i] when thou ſhalt have eaten and be full; 12. Then beware leſt thou forget the LORD which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of ‡ bondage. 13. [k] Thou ſhalt fear the LORD thy God and ſerve him, and [l] ſhalt ſwear by his name. 14. Ye ſhall not go after other gods, of the gods of the people which are round about you: 15. (For the LORD thy God is a jealous God among you) leſt the anger of the LORD thy God be kindled againſt thee, and deſtroy thee from off the face of the earth. 16. ¶ [m] Ye ſhall not tempt the LORD your God, [n] as ye tempted him in Maſſah.

v. 4—16. To know the true God, is everlaſting life; becauſe we cannot know him without loving, nor love without deſire and delight to pleaſe him. Therefore, 1. Moſes teaches them what God is. One in eſſence, in oppoſition to the gods many and lords many of the heathen; the ſelf-exiſtent, eternal, omnipotent Jehovah, beſide whom there is and can be no other. Happy the man that hath him for his God. 2. He urges the duty they owe him, to love him: this is the firſt and great commandment, and it contains all the reſt; for then we cannot but delight in what he commands, and truſt on what he promiſes: and moſt deſerving he is of our warmeſt affection, ſince in himſelf ſo tranſcendently excellent, and to us ſo amazingly kind: well may he challenge our heart, our whole heart, in ſincerity that knows no reſerve; with ſupreme affection, which admits no rival; with ardency ſtronger than death, and with permanence equal to the days of eternity. Lord! ſhed abroad ſuch love in our hearts. 3. The means preſcribed to maintain and increaſe this love in their hearts: they are to ſtore up God's words in their mind and memory, to inſtruct their children in them, by frequently inculcating the commandments upon them, to make them the matter of conſtant daily converſation for their mutual edification, and to write ſelect portions of them upon parchment ſcrolls, and on the poſts of their houſes, that they may be reminded of them, whenever they go out or come in. Note, (1.) God's word ſhould be read with ſeriousneſs every day. (2.) Our hearts ſhould be employed in meditation thereon, that we may inwardly digeſt it for our ſoul's food. (3.) We ſhould take delight to make it the ſubject of our diſcourſe; not to diſpute on what is abſtruſe, but to build up each other in the love and obedience to what is evident and clear. (4.) Eſpecial care ſhould we take early to acquaint our children and ſervants, with the invaluable knowledge, which alone is able to make them wiſe unto ſalvation. 4. Such attention to God's commands, would preſerve them from forgetting God in a day of proſperity. They were going into a land of plenty, and ſadly apt is the heart to be debauched by eaſe and affluence; therefore, the more they enjoyed, the more careful they need be over their hearts. Note, No ſtate ſo dangerous to the ſoul, none calls for greater fear and trembling, than when the world ſmiles, abundance ſurrounds us, and every earthly bleſſing tempts the idolatrous heart to take up its reſt below. 5. The fear of God muſt be before their eyes, and his ſervice their happy freedom. No mention of idol gods muſt come into their mouths, but when they ſwear, it muſt be an appeal to the true, and only heart-ſearching God. As their great danger ever lay from their idolatrous neighbours, they muſt carefully avoid going after their gods, for that would infallibly bring down upon them the wrath of God to conſume them. Note, (1.) An oath is an appeal to God, and it muſt be made in his name: it is the heighth of profaneneſs to ſwear by any other. (2.) A jealous fear over ourſelves, is the way to avoid provoking a jealous God.

Before Chriſt 1451.

[o] Num. xxxiii. 52.
† Heb. To morrow.
[p] Exod. iii. 19. & xiii. 3.
‡ Heb. Evil.
[q] Rom. x. 5

17. You ſhall diligently keep the commandments of the LORD your God, and his teſtimonies, and his ſtatutes which he hath commanded thee. 18. And thou ſhalt do that which is right and good in the ſight of the LORD: that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayſt go in and poſſeſs the good land which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers; 19. [o] To caſt out all thine enemies from before thee, as the LORD hath ſpoken. 20. And when thy ſon aſketh thee † in time to come, ſaying, What mean the teſtimonies, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments which the LORD our God hath commanded you? 21. Then thou ſhalt ſay unto thy ſon, We were Pharaoh's bond-men in Egypt, and the LORD brought us out of Egypt [p] with a mighty hand. 22. And the LORD ſhewed ſigns and wonders, great and ‡ ſore, upon Egypt, upon Pharaoh, and upon all his houſhold, before our eyes. 23. And he brought us out from thence, that he might bring us in, to give us the land which he ſware unto our fathers. 24. And the LORD commanded us to do all theſe ſtatutes, to fear the LORD our God, for our good always, that he might preſerve us alive, as it is at this day. 25. [q] And it ſhall be our righteouſneſs, if we obſerve to do all theſe commandments before the LORD our God, as he hath commanded us.

v. 17—25. Repeated warnings are needful. 1. He charges them in no exigence to diſtruſt God's power or love, aſſuring them, that diligent obedience would be crowned with infallible ſucceſs againſt all their enemies. Whilſt we truſt God, and follow on in the way of duty, his promiſe ſecures our ſafety and happineſs. 2. They muſt ſeize every opportunity to inſtruct their children, that their religion and the deep remembrance of God's dealings with them, may be tranſmitted to their lateſt poſterity. Hearing ſo often the law read and taught, and ſeeing ſo many rites and ceremonies performed, their children would be naturally inquiſitive into the meaning of them; then they muſt ſeize the good opportunity to inform them of their former deplorable eſtate in Egypt, the great deliverances wrought for them, and the favours beſtowed on them in theſe inſtitutions, in the perfect obſervance of which they might attain righteouſneſs and life. Note, (1.) It ſhould be highly pleaſing to parents to hear their children's enquiries about the things of God. It is their duty to inform them, even when averſe to inſtruction; and how much more ſo, when teachable and deſirous to learn. (2.) Righteouſneſs and life eternal are inſeparable: not indeed to be obtained by a ſinner, through obedience to the law, but by him who is the end of the law for righteouſneſs to every one that believeth.

CHAP. VII.

Moſes commands Iſrael, 1. Utterly to deſtroy the ſeven devoted nations, their altars, and images, ver. 1—5. 2. The reaſon given, their holineſs and relation to God, ver. 6—8. 3. The terms they ſtood upon with God, ver. 9, 10. (1.) In general, that if they would ſerve God, he would bleſs and proſper them, ver. 12—15. (2.) In particular, He would drive out the nations before them, ver. 17—24.

[a] Chap. xxx. 3.
[b] Gen. xv. 19, 20.

1. WHEN [a] the LORD thy God ſhall bring thee into the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it, and hath caſt out many nations before thee, [b] the Hittites, and the Girgaſhites, and the Amorites, and the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebuſites,

Before Chriſt 1451.

Jebuſites, ſeven nations, greater and mightier than thou; 2. And when the LORD thy God ſhall deliver them before thee: thou ſhalt ſmite them, and [c] utterly deſtroy them, [d] thou ſhalt make no covenant with them, nor ſhew mercy unto them: 3. [e] Neither ſhalt thou make marriages with them; thy daughter thou ſhalt not give unto his ſon, nor his daughter ſhalt thou take unto thy ſon. 4. For they will turn away thy ſon from following me, that they may ſerve other gods: ſo will the anger of the LORD be kindled againſt you, and deſtroy thee ſuddenly. 5. But thus ſhall ye deal with them; ye ſhall [f] deſtroy their altars, and break down their † images, and cut down their groves, and burn their graven images with fire.

[c] Lev. xxvii. 21, 28. Num. xxxiii. 52. Joſh. vi. 17. & viii. 24. & x. 28, 40. & xi. 11, 12.
[d] Exod. xxiii. 32. & xxxiv. 12, 15, 16. See Chap. xx. 10. Joſh. ii. 14. & ix. 18. Judg. i. 24.
[e] 1 Kings xi. 2.
[f] Exod. xxiii. 24. & xxxiv. 12, 13. Chap. xii. 3.
† Heb. Statues or pillars.

v. 1—5. All connection with idolaters muſt be avoided, and every monument of idolatry utterly conſumed.

1. They muſt give them no quarter. The meaſure of their iniquities was full, and Iſrael is God's executioner of vengeance upon them. However tender of men's lives they ought to be on other occaſions, here no room for pity or mercy was found; and it was a neceſſary act, for their own ſafety, as well as God's glory. God's Iſrael muſt make no covenant with ſin, nor ſpare the deareſt luſt. 2. They are forbidden all marriages among them, as this would have the moſt immediate tendency to ſeduce them to idolatry. Note, No inducement of rank, beauty, or fortune, ſhould ever tempt a godly man to marry an unbeliever. 3. All monuments of idolatry muſt be utterly deſtroyed, altars, groves, or images. We cannot be too careful to remove temptation from us as far as poſſible.

6. For [g] thou art a holy people unto the LORD thy God: [h] the LORD thy God hath choſen thee to be a ſpecial people unto himſelf, above all people that are upon the face of the earth. 7. The LORD did not ſet his love upon you, nor chuſe you, becauſe ye were more in number than any people (for ye were the feweſt of all people) 8. But [i] becauſe the LORD loved you, and becauſe he would keep the oath which he had ſworn unto your fathers, hath the LORD brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you out of the houſe of bondmen, from the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt. 9. Know therefore that the LORD thy God, he is God, [k] the faithful God, [l] which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him, and keep his commandments, to a thouſand generations; 10. And [m] repayeth them that hate him, to their face, to deſtroy them: he will not be ſlack to him that hateth him, he will repay him to his face. 11. Thou ſhalt therefore keep the commandments, and the ſtatutes, and the judgments, which I command thee this day, to do them.

[g] Chap. xiv. 2. & xxvi. 19. Pſ. l. 5. Jer. ii. 3.
[h] Exod. xix. 5. Amos iii. 2. 1 Pet. ii. 9.
[i] Chap. x. 15.
[k] Iſa. xlix. 7. 1 Cor. i. 9. & x. 13. 2 Cor. i. 18. 1 Theſ. v. 24. 2 Theſ. iii. 3. 2 Tim. ii. 13. Hebr. xi. 11. 1 John i. 9.
[l] Exod. xx. 6.
[m] Nahum i. 2.

v. 6—11. The reaſons are here given for ſuch cautious avoiding whatever might offend God. For, 1. They were a choſen generation to ſhew forth his praiſes, and therefore bound to anſwer the gracious deſigns of God. There was in them no cauſe moving God to ſuch peculiar regard, but his own ſovereign choice and love; for they were the feweſt in number, and had proved themſelves ſufficiently perverſe and ungrateful in their conduct. He adds the promiſe made to their fathers, for whoſe ſake they were beloved. Note, (1.) Saving grace is ſovereign grace. (2.) The promiſe of God to Jeſus Chriſt is the only obligation we have upon him for his regard to us. (3.) As many as are choſen of God, muſt and will approve themſelves a peculiar people to him. 2. They would find their account herein; for God would be their friend if they loved and cleaved to him, but a mortal enemy, if they turned from him, and ſhewed by their diſobedience the enmity of their hearts againſt him. Learn hence, (1.) That godlineſs is the greateſt gain, as attended with his love, whoſe favour is better than life itſelf. (2.) That love and obedience are inſeparable. (3.) That every wilful ſinner is in heart a hater of God. (4.) That they who live at enmity with God, bring down inevitable ruin upon their ſouls.

12. ¶ [n] Wherefore it ſhall come to paſs, † if ye hearken to theſe judgments, and keep and do them; that the LORD thy God ſhall keep unto thee the covenant and the mercy which he ſware unto thy fathers. 13. And he will love thee, and bleſs thee, and multiply thee: he will alſo bleſs the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy land, thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil, the increaſe of thy kine, and the flocks of thy ſheep, in the land which he ſware unto thy fathers to give thee. 14. Thou ſhalt be bleſſed above all people: [o] there ſhall not be male or female barren among you, or among your cattle. 15. And the LORD will take away from thee all ſickneſs, and will put none of [p] the evil diſeaſes of Egypt (which thou knoweſt) upon thee; but will lay them upon all them that hate thee. 16. And thou ſhalt conſume all the people which the LORD thy God ſhall deliver thee, thine eye ſhall have no pity upon them: neither ſhalt thou ſerve their gods, for that will be [q] a ſnare unto thee. 17. If thou ſhalt ſay in thine heart, Theſe nations are more than I, how can I diſpoſſeſs them? 18. Thou ſhalt not be afraid of them: but ſhalt well remember what the LORD thy God did unto Pharaoh, and unto all Egypt; 19. [r] The great temptations which thine eye ſaw, and the ſigns, and the wonders, and the mighty hand, and the ſtretched-out arm, whereby the LORD thy God brought thee out: ſo ſhall the LORD thy God do unto all the people of whom thou art afraid. 20. [s] Moreover, the LORD thy God will ſend the hornet among them, until they that are left and hide themſelves from thee, be deſtroyed. 21. Thou ſhalt not be affrighted at them: for the LORD thy God is among you, a mighty God and terrible. 22. And the LORD thy God will ‡ put out thoſe nations before thee by little and little: thou mayeſt not conſume them at once, leſt the beaſts of the field increaſe upon thee. 23. But the LORD thy God ſhall deliver them || unto thee, and ſhall deſtroy them with a mighty deſtruction, until they be deſtroyed. 24. [t] And he ſhall deliver their kings into thine hand, and thou ſhalt deſtroy their name from under heaven: there ſhall no man be able to ſtand before thee, until thou have deſtroyed them. 25. The graven images of their gods [u] ſhall ye burn with fire: [x] thou ſhalt not deſire the ſilver or gold that is on them, nor take it unto thee, leſt [y] thou be ſnared therein: for it is an abomination to the LORD thy God. 26. Neither ſhalt thou bring an abomination into thy houſe, leſt thou be a curſed thing like it: but thou ſhalt utterly deteſt it, and thou ſhalt utterly abhor it, [z] for it is a curſed thing.

[n] Lev. xxvi. 3. Chap. xxviii. 1.
† Heb. Becauſe.
[o] Exod. xxiii. 26, &c.
[p] Ibid. ix. 14. & xv. 26. Chap. xxviii. 27, 60.
[q] Exod. xxiii. 33. Chap. xii. 30.
[r] Chap. iv. 34. & xxix. 3.
[s] Exod. xxiii. 28. Joſh. xxiv. 12.
‡ Heb. Pluck off.
|| Heb. Before thy face.
[t] Joſh. xii. 1.
[u] Exod. xxxii. 20. Chap. xii. 3.
[x] Joſh. vii. 1, 21. 2 Mac. xii. 40.
[y] Zeph. i. 3.
[z] Lev. xxvii. 28. Chap. xiii. 17.

v. 12—26. Moſes encourages them to obedience, by an enlargement on the mercies which would attend them. 1. If they kept God's judgments, he would love them and bleſs them. Their poſterity ſhould be numerous to inherit the good land, and none of the diſeaſes of Egypt ſhould come near to deſtroy their lives, or make them uncomfortable. Diſeaſes are God's rod: may we never provoke him to lay it upon us in anger! 2. They are repeatedly commanded to deſtroy the people and their idols; the gold and ſilver, the beauty of the engraving, or the preciouſneſs of the materials, muſt not lead them to ſpare the leaſt relick; what God abhors they muſt; and 'tis their ſafety to do ſo, leaſt they be ſnared thereby, and become accurſed like the idols the heathen doated upon. Note, (1.) Covetouſneſs is real idolatry. (2.) If we would avoid the curſe, we muſt avoid the ſnare. (3.) Sin, the abominable thing which God hates, is to the true Iſraelite an object of his utter deteſtation. 3. God promiſes to ſtrengthen them to extirpate this devoted race. Though the conqueſt was difficult, from the number of the people, and their ſtrength, yet they need not fear them. The wonders God had ſhewn in Egypt they had ſeen, and ought to remember: He can and will as eaſily conſume the Canaanites as the Egyptians. Beſides, he promiſes to ſend his auxiliaries; the hornets ſhall go before them, and with their invenomed ſtings torment and terrify them, that they may fall an eaſy prey. So ſoon can God make a deſpicable inſect the inſtrument of his judgment; but above all, the mighty and terrible God himſelf is in the midſt of them, and who ſhall ſtand before them? Note, (1.) Paſt experience ſhould be brought forth, as encouragement under preſent difficulties. (2.) If God be for us, what matters it who are againſt us. (3.) Going forth, under God's promiſe, to war againſt our corruptions, we may, with confidence, be aſſured ſin ſhall not have dominion over us. 4. Their conqueſts ſhall be gradual, as they multiplied to inhabit the land, not all at once, leaſt the beaſts increaſed upon them, allured by the carcaſſes of the ſlain, and the deſolations of the land. Note, (1.) Heaven is thus a gradual conqueſt. Corruption dies by degrees, and grace by little and little takes increaſing poſſeſſion of the ſoul, 'till it is made perfect in glory. (2.) The deſtruction of the enemies of God's church and people is advancing by degrees, and however long ſpared and difficult to ſubdue, the decree is ſure, they ſhall be rooted out at laſt.

CHAP. VIII.

In this chapter Moſes repeats, 1. Some general exhortations to obedience, ver. 1—6. 2. Remembers them of the great things God had done for them in the wilderneſs, ver. 2—5. and ver. 15, 16. 3. He deſcribes the good land into which God would now bring them, ver. 7, 8, 9. 4. He gives a caution againſt the temptations of a proſperous condition, ver. 10—14. and 17, 18. And, 5. A fair warning of the fatal conſequences of apoſtaſy from God, ver. 19, 20.

1. ALL the commandments which I command thee this day, ſhall ye obſerve to do, that ye may live and multiply, and go in and poſſeſs the land which the LORD ſware unto your fathers. 2. And thou ſhalt remember all the way which the LORD thy God led thee [a] theſe forty years in the wilderneſs, to humble thee, and [b] to prove thee, to know what was in thine heart, whether thou wouldeſt keep his commandments, or no. 3. And he humbled thee, and [c] ſuffered thee to hunger, and [d] fed thee with manna (which thou kneweſt not, neither did thy fathers know) that he might make thee know that [e] man doth not live by bread only, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of the LORD doth man live. 4. [f] Thy raiment waxed not old upon thee, neither did thy foot ſwell theſe forty years. 5. [g] Thou ſhalt alſo conſider in thine heart, that as a man chaſtneth his ſon, ſo the LORD thy God chaſtneth thee. 6. Therefore thou ſhalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, to walk in his ways, and to fear him. 7. For the LORD thy God bringeth thee into a good land, [h] a land of brooks of water, of fountains, and depths that ſpring out of valleys and hills; 8. A land of wheat, and barley, and vines, and fig-trees, and pomegranates, a land of † oil-olive, and honey, 9. A land wherein thou ſhalt eat bread without ſcarceneſs, thou ſhalt not lack any thing in it, a land [i] whoſe ſtones are iron, and out of whoſe hills thou mayeſt dig braſs.

[a] Chap. i. 3. & ii. 7.
[b] Exod. xvi. 4. Chap. xiii. 3.
[c] Exod. xvi. 2, 3.
[d] Ibid. 12, 14, 35.
[e] Pſ. civ. 29. Mat. iv. 4. Luke iv. 4.
[f] Chap. xxix. 5. Neh. ix. 21.
[g] 2 Sam. vii. 14. Pſal. lxxxix. 32. Prov. iii. 12. Heb. xii. 5. Rev. iii. 19.
[h] Chap. xi. 10, 11.
† Heb. Of olive-tree of oil.
[i] Chap. xxxiii. 25.

v. 1—9. Repeated injunctions were given to urge their obedience; it was what God juſtly expected of them, and they need carefully perform. Two arguments are here mentioned.

1. What God had done for them in the wilderneſs. There they had gone through his gracious diſcipline, to humble and prove them, whether they would truſt on his providence, and ſubmit to his corrections; and there they had experienced aſtoniſhing interpoſitions of his mercy and grace to their bodies and ſouls, in feeding them with manna, preſerving their cloaths from decay, and their feet from ſwelling amidſt all their marches, and more in pardoning their manifold provocations, and bringing them at laſt to the land of promiſe, after thoſe chaſtiſements which God, as a father, kindly inflicted, that they might not be wholly unpuniſhed. Note, (1.) We ſhould remember often God's paſt dealings with us in mercy, as the encouragement to truſt on the continuance of his care. (2.) We have need of every affliction; our hearts are ſo proud and ſtubborn, that all is little enough to bend them. (3.) Trials are the proof of our faith. God exerciſes us, that our graces, like gold in the furnace, may ſhine the brighter. (4.) God can ſupply his people in their deepeſt diſtreſſes. Let us take no indirect courſes to relieve ourſelves, and then verily we ſhall be fed. (5.) The rod of correction is the mark of parental love; inſtead of fainting we ſhould rejoice, when we are chaſtiſed of him.

2. What God was about to do for them. Canaan was before them; a land watered with copious ſtreams, the vallies ſtanding thick with corn, the hills covered with vines and olives, and every pleaſing fruit; where plenty crowned the happy year, and filled their tables with abundance: whilſt mines of precious ore enriched the bowels of the earth, and opened hidden reſources of wealth. Deeply therefore they were bound to ſerve that maſter, who paid them ſuch abundant wages. How glorious the earthly, but how much better the heavenly Canaan, watered with the river of life, adorned with the trees of righteouſneſs, the planting of the Lord; flowing with wine of everlaſting conſolation, and rich in treaſures that never wax old or decay. May my lot fall in this pleaſant land!

10. [k] When thou haſt eaten and art full, then thou ſhalt bleſs the LORD thy God, for the good land which he hath given thee. 11. Beware that thou forget not the LORD thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his judgments, and his ſtatutes, which I command thee this day: 12. [l] Leſt when thou haſt eaten and art full, and haſt built goodly houſes, and dwelt therein; 13. And when thy herds and thy flocks multiply, and thy ſilver and thy gold is multiplied, and all that thou haſt is multiplied: 14. Then thine heart be lifted up, and thou forget the LORD thy God (which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of bondage; 15. Who led thee through that great and terrible wilderneſs, [m] wherein were fiery ſerpents, and ſcorpions, and drought, where there was no water; [n] who brought thee forth water out of the rock of flint; 16. Who fed thee in the wilderneſs with [o] manna, which thy fathers knew not, that he might humble thee, and that he might prove thee, to do thee good at thy latter end) 17. [p] And thou ſay in thine heart, My power, and the might of my hand, hath gotten me this wealth. 18. But thou ſhalt remember the LORD thy God: for it is he that giveth thee power to get wealth, that he may eſtabliſh his covenant which he ſware unto thy fathers, as it is this day. 19. And it ſhall be, if thou do at all forget the LORD thy God, and walk after other gods, and ſerve them, and worſhip them, I teſtify againſt you this day, that ye ſhall ſurely periſh. 20. As the nations which the LORD deſtroyeth before your face, ſo ſhall ye periſh: becauſe ye would not be obedient unto the voice of the LORD your God.

[k] Chap. vi. 11, 12.
[l] Chap. xxviii. 47. & xxxii. 15. Prov. xxx. 9. Hoſ. xiii. 6.
[m] Num. xxi. 6. Hoſ. xiii. 5.
[n] Num. xx. 11. Pſ. lxxviii. 15. & cxiv. 8.
[o] Exod. xvi. 15.
[p] Chap. ix. 4.

v. 10—20. Manifold were the bleſſings, and rich the proviſion beſtowed on them: it was but reaſon therefore, 1. That they ſhould bleſs God for them; that they ſhould never ſit down at their tables, or riſe from them, without a grateful remembrance of the hand which fed them. To eat and drink without thankſgiving and prayer, is to be more brutiſh than the ox, which knoweth his owner, and the aſs his maſter's crib. 2. That they take care in their proſperity not to forget God. Affluence is a dangerous ſnare, perhaps much more than the fiery furnace of affliction. They muſt beware of pride, which, with increaſe of wealth, is apt to ſwell the heart with ſelf-importance, and, as the conſequence, make them neglect that duty to God, which they ſo peculiarly owed him, both for the preſent diſtinguiſhing mercies, and the paſt great deliverances. The riches they enjoyed, however great, were the gift of God, more than the effect of their induſtry; and which, as received from him, ſhould lead to him. Note, (1.) It is very difficult to poſſeſs an humble mind in an advance of ſtation, and in the midſt of proſperity. (2.) Great and rich men too commonly look upon religion as below them. Their good things are their portion, and they hate to be reſtrained in their gratifications. (3.) Forgetfulneſs of God is not only a great ſin itſelf, but the cauſe of all others. (4.) Whatever we get, we ſhould aſcribe the praiſe not to our own induſtry or wiſdom, but to God's bleſſing. (5.) The moment pride ſwells the heart, on any acquiſition ſpiritual or temporal, that moment the curſe of God is upon it, and our gain becomes our greateſt loſs. Therefore, 3. Moſes warns them of the fatal conſequences of ſuch departures from God. The moment they forgot God, they would neceſſarily ſet up every man his idols in his heart, and then they would periſh, as the nations they had driven out before them. Note, (1.) We muſt have ſome object of worſhip, and that is our God, wherever our ſupreme affections are placed. They who turn from God commence idolaters, and worſhip gold, or beauty, or honour, or themſelves. (2.) Ruin and ſin go hand in hand: though we forget God, we ſhall not be forgotten of him.

CHAP. IX.

In this chapter Moſes, 1. Aſſures them of victory over their enemies, ver. 1—3. 2. He cautions them not to attribute their ſucceſſes to their own merit, but to God's juſtice, ver. 4—6. 3. To make it evident, he ſhews Iſrael their tranſgreſſions, 1. In the matter of the golden calf, ver. 8—21. 2. In other inſtances of their rebellion, ver. 22, 23. And, 3. Mentions the interceſſion he had made for them at Horeb, to prevent their being ruined for the golden calf, ver. 25.

1. HEAR, O Iſrael: Thou art to paſs over Jordan this day, to go in to poſſeſs nations greater and mightier than thyſelf, cities great and [a] fenced up to heaven, 2. A people great and tall, [b] the children of the Anakims, whom thou knoweſt, and of whom thou haſt heard ſay, Who can ſtand before the children of Anak! 3. Underſtand therefore this day, that the LORD thy God is he which goeth over before thee as [c] a conſuming fire: he ſhall deſtroy them, and he ſhall bring them down before thy face: ſo ſhalt thou drive them out, and deſtroy them quickly, as the LORD hath ſaid unto thee.

[a] Chap. i. 28.
[b] Num. xiii. 22, 28, 29.
[c] Chap. iv. 24. Hebr. xii. 29.

4. Speak

Before Chriſt 1451.

4. Speak not thou in thine heart, after that the LORD thy God hath caſt them out from before thee, ſaying, [d] For my righteouſneſs the LORD hath brought me in to poſſeſs this land: but [e] for the wickedneſs of theſe nations the LORD doth drive them out from before thee. 5. [f] Not for thy righteouſneſs, or for the uprightneſs of thine heart doſt thou go to poſſeſs their land: but for the wickedneſs of theſe nations the LORD thy God doth drive them out from before thee, and that he may perform [g] the word which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob. 6. Underſtand therefore, that the LORD thy God giveth thee not this good land to poſſeſs it, for thy righteouſneſs, for thou art [h] a ſtiff-necked people.

[d] Chap. viii. 17. Rom. xi. 6, 20. 1 Cor. iv. 4, 7.
[e] Gen. xv. 16.
[f] Tit. iii. 4.
[g] Gen. xii. 7. & xiii. 15. & xv. 7. & xvii. 8. & xxvi. 4. & xxviii. 13.
[h] Exod. xxxii. 9. & xxxiii. 3. & xxxiv. 9.

v. 1—6. With awakening calls to attention, after ſome pauſe, he renews his diſcourſe. They were ſhortly to paſs over Jordan, and to enter the land of Canaan, fortified indeed with the greateſt art, and defended by the moſt mighty warriors. But the greater their ſtrength, the more conſpicuous would be the power of God in the certain victory to which he led them. They muſt beware hereupon not to aſcribe their conqueſts to their own deſerts, for they were a ſtiff-necked people, but to the wickedneſs of the people, on whom God would by them execute vengeance, and to the promiſe made to their fathers, wherein God would have his faithfulneſs appear. Note, (1.) The greater our enemies are, the more ſhall the power of God be magnified in our ſalvation. (2.) The people of God can never have too mean an opinion of their own righteouſneſs, nor too high a one of the riches and ſovereignty of God's grace. When we come to the poſſeſſion of eternal glory, every ſaint will with delight caſt down his crown before the throne of Jeſus, and own, that all the praiſe and glory are due to him alone. (3.) God will find inſtruments to execute his wrath upon a devoted people. Though he bear long, he will not bear always. (4.) However God's promiſes ſeem delayed, he is faithful, and we ſhall ſee them fulfilled at the laſt. They who patiently wait ſhall ſee the ſalvation of our God.

7. ¶ Remember, and forget not, how thou provokedſt the LORD thy God to wrath in the wilderneſs: [i] from the day that thou didſt depart out of the land of Egypt, until ye came unto this place, ye have been rebellious againſt the LORD. 8. [k] Alſo in Horeb ye provoked the LORD to wrath, ſo that the LORD was angry with you, to have deſtroyed you. 9. [l] When I was gone up into the mount, to receive the tables of ſtone, even the tables of the covenant which the LORD made with you, then [m] I abode in the mount forty days and forty nights, I neither did eat bread nor drink water: 10. [n] And the LORD delivered unto me two tables of ſtone written with the finger of God, and on them was written according to all the words which the LORD ſpake with you in the mount, out of the midſt of fire, [o] in the day of the aſſembly. 11. And it came to paſs at the end of forty days and forty nights that the LORD gave me the two tables of ſtone, even the tables of the covenant. 12. And the LORD ſaid unto me, [p] Ariſe, get thee down quickly from hence; for thy people which thou haſt brought forth out of Egypt, have corrupted themſelves: they are quickly turned aſide out of the way which I commanded them, they have made them a molten image. 13. Furthermore, the LORD ſpake unto me, ſaying, I have ſeen this people, and behold, [q] it is a ſtiff-necked people. 14. Let me alone, that I may deſtroy them, and [r] blot out their name from under heaven: and I will make of thee a nation mightier and greater than they. 15. So I turned and came down from the mount, and the mount burned with fire: and the two tables of the covenant were in my two hands. 16. And [s] I looked, and behold, ye had ſinned againſt the LORD your God, and had made you a molten calf: ye had turned aſide quickly out of the way which the LORD had commanded you. 17. And I took the two tables, and caſt them out of my two hands, and brake them before your eyes. 18. And [t] I fell down before the LORD as at the firſt, forty days and forty nights; I did neither eat bread nor drink water, becauſe of all your ſins which ye ſinned, in doing wickedly in the ſight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger. 19. (For I was afraid of the anger, and hot diſpleaſure wherewith the LORD was wroth againſt you to deſtroy you) But the LORD hearkened unto me at that time alſo. 20. And the LORD was very angry with Aaron to have deſtroyed him: and I prayed for Aaron alſo the ſame time. 21. And [u] I took your ſin, the calf which ye had made, and burnt it with fire, and ſtamped it, and ground it very ſmall, even until it was as ſmall as duſt: and I caſt the duſt thereof into the brook that deſcended out of the mount. 22. And at [x] Taberah, and at [y] Maſſah, and at [z] Kibroth-hattaavah, ye provoked the LORD to wrath. 23. Likewiſe, [a] when the LORD ſent you from Kadeſh-barnea, ſaying, Go up and poſſeſs the land which I have given you; then you rebelled againſt the commandment of the LORD your God, and ye believed him not, nor hearkened to his voice. 24. [b] You have been rebellious againſt the LORD, from the day that I knew you. 25. [c] Thus I fell down before the LORD forty days and forty nights, as I fell down at the firſt; becauſe the LORD had ſaid he would deſtroy you. 26. [d] I prayed therefore unto the LORD, and ſaid, O Lord GOD, deſtroy not thy people, and thine inheritance which thou haſt redeemed through thy greatneſs, which thou haſt brought forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand. 27. Remember thy ſervants, Abraham, Iſaac, and Jacob; look not unto the ſtubbornneſs of this people, nor to their wickedneſs, nor to their ſin: 28. Leſt [e] the land whence thou broughteſt us out, ſay, [f] Becauſe the LORD was not able to bring them into the land which he promiſed them, and becauſe he hated them, he hath brought them out to ſlay them in the wilderneſs. 29. [g] Yet they are thy people and thine inheritance, which thou broughteſt out by thy mighty power, and by thy ſtretched out arm.

[i] Exod. xiv. 11. & xvi. 2. & xvii. 2. Num. xi. 4. & xx. 2. & xiv. 2.
[k] Exod. xxxii. 4. Pſ. cvi. 19.
[l] Exod. xxiv. 12, 15.
[m] Ibid. 18. & xxxiv. 28.
[n] Ibid. xxxi. 18.
[o] Ibid. xix. 17. & xx. 1.
[p] Ibid. xxxii. 7.
[q] Ver. 6. Chap. ix. 16. & xxxi. 27. 2 Kings xvii. 14.
[r] Chap. xxix. 20. Pſ. ix. 5. & cix. 13.
[s] Exod. xxxii. 19.
[t] Ibid. xxxiv. 28. Pſ. cvi. 23.

Before Chriſt 1451.

[u] Exod. xxxii. 20.
[x] Num. xi. 1, 3, 5.
[y] Exod. xvii. 7.
[z] Num. xi. 4, 34.
[a] Ibid. xiii. 3. & xiv. 1.
[b] Chap. xxxi. 27.
[c] Ver. 18.
[d] Exod. xxxii. 11, &c.
[e] Gen. xli. 57. 1 Sam. xiv. 25.
[f] Exod. xxxii. 12. Num. xiv. 16.
[g] Chap. iv. 20.

v. 7—29. As nothing is more difficult than to be put out of a good conceit with ourſelves, Moſes brings to their remembrance abundant proof how little reaſon they had to value themſelves on their own righteouſneſs. Their whole conduct, from the day of their coming from Egypt, had been a ſucceſſion of rebellions; many of which are particularly ſpecified, and many more there were probably during their ſojourning in the wilderneſs. The capital of them was the calf in Horeb; a ſcene ſo ſhocking, that after that they ſhould never dare to lift up their eyes to God but with ſhame and confuſion. Then were they in danger to have been abandoned for ever of God, and he had been juſtified in rejecting them. In fear of ſuch a righteous doom, Moſes with fervent prayer interpoſes, if poſſible to avert the hot diſpleaſure which was awakened againſt them. Nor had he one plea to make for them of their deſert, but acknowledges their aggravated guilt, and only begs their fathers might be remembred, and that their enemies might not be tempted to blaſpheme God, if they ſhould be deſtroyed. Nor had they been rebels themſelves, but even Aaron had been drawn or forced into compliance with them, and thereby alſo provoked God moſt highly, even to threaten to deſtroy him. And when the calf, their hateful ſin, was deſtroyed, and undeſerved mercy vouchſafed to them, the burnings of Taberah, the plague of Maſſah, the graves of Kibroth-hattaavah, and the ſlain at Kadeſh-barnea, were awful monuments againſt them, how deep their rebellions were rooted, and how undeſerving they were of the leaſt of the mercies vouchſafed to them. Note, (1.) Whoever reviews carefully his own conduct towards God, cannot but ſtand amazed, that after ſuch repeated provocations there ſhould be any mercy in ſtore for him, and own how vile and unworthy he is of it. (2.) It is obſtinate blindneſs of heart alone, which can ever ſupport in us a good opinion of ourſelves.

CHAP. X.

Moſes having mentioned their provocations, here reminds them of God's mercies, both deſerving to be kept in everlaſting remembrance. 1. The renewing of the tables of the covenant, ver. 1—5. 2. Giving orders for their progreſs towards Canaan, ver. 6, 7. 3. Chooſing the tribe of Levi for his own, ver. 8, 9. And continuing the prieſthood after the death of Aaron, ver. 6. 4. Accepting the interceſſion of Moſes for them, ver. 10, 11. From whence he infers what obligations they lay under to fear, and love, and ſerve God, ver. 12—22.

1. AT that time the LORD ſaid unto me, [a] Hew thee two tables of ſtone like unto the firſt, and come up unto me into the mount, and make thee an ark of wood. 2. And I will write on the tables the words that were in the firſt tables which thou brakeſt, and thou ſhalt put them in the ark. 3. And I made an ark of [b] ſhittim-wood, and hewed two tables of ſtone like unto the firſt, and went up into the mount, having the two tables in mine hand. 4. And [c] he wrote on the tables, according to the firſt writing, the ten † commandments, which the LORD ſpake unto you in the mount, out of the midſt of the fire, in the day of the aſſembly: and the LORD gave them unto me. 5. And I turned myſelf and came down from the mount, and put the tables in the ark which I had made, and there they be, as the LORD commanded me. 6. ¶ [d] And the children of Iſrael took their journey from Beeroth of the children of Jaakan, [e] to Moſera: [f] there Aaron died, and there he was buried; and Eleazar his ſon miniſtred in the prieſt's office in his ſtead. 7. [g] From thence they journeyed unto Gudgodah; and from Gudgodah to Jotbath, a land of rivers of waters. 8. ¶ At that time [h] the LORD ſeparated the tribe of Levi, to bear the ark of the covenant of the LORD, [i] to ſtand before the LORD to miniſter unto him, and [k] to bleſs in his name unto this day. 9. [l] Wherefore Levi hath no part nor inheritance with his brethren: the LORD is his inheritance, according as the LORD thy God promiſed him. 10. [m] And I ſtayed in the mount, according to the ‡ firſt time, forty days and forty nights, and [n] the LORD hearkened unto me at that time alſo, and the LORD would not deſtroy thee. 11. And [o] the LORD ſaid unto me, Ariſe, ‖ take thy journey before the people, that they may go in, and poſſeſs the land which I ſware unto their fathers to give unto them.

[a] Exod. xxxiv. 1.
[b] Ibid. xxv. 5, 10. & xxxvii. 1.

Before Chriſt 1451.

v. 1—11. If Iſrael had their deſerts, they had been long ſince undone: it was of the Lord's mercies they were not conſumed. His grace triumphed over their provocations. 1. In reſtoring to them the tables of the covenant which were broken, in token of his reconciliation and return to them, and they are laid up in the ark before him. Note, (1.) Chriſt is our ark; the law is ſafe in his hands, for he hath perfectly fulfilled it, and obtained thereby eternal redemption for us. (2.) Though we have not the tables of ſtone, we have the ſame law in the written word; and if we are God's people, find the love of it engraved on the fleſhly tables of our hearts. 2. In leading them ſafe through the wilderneſs, toward the land of promiſe, with the miraculous ſupplies ſo often provided for them. 3. He gave them a ſtanding miniſtry in Aaron and his ſucceſſors, and in the whole tribe of Levi. Note, As long as God raiſes up faithful miniſters, it is a ſure ſymptom of mercy yet in ſtore for his church and people. 4. He granted Moſes' requeſt, conſenting to go with them, to put them in poſſeſſion of the land promiſed to their fathers, and Moſes is to be their captain. Thus Jeſus is at once the advocate for ſin, and the captain of our ſalvation: they whom he prays for, and who fight under his banner, can never faint or fail.

12. ¶ And now Iſrael, [p] what doth the LORD thy God require of thee, but to fear the LORD thy God, to walk in all his ways, and [q] to love him, and to ſerve the LORD thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy ſoul, 13. To keep the commandments of the LORD, and his ſtatutes which I command thee this day for thy good? 14. Behold, [r] the heaven, and the heaven of heavens is the LORD's thy God, [s] the earth alſo with all that therein is. 15. Only the LORD had a delight in thy fathers to love them, and he choſe their ſeed after them, even you above all people, as it is this day. 16. [t] Circumciſe therefore the foreſkin of your heart, and be no more ſtiff-necked. 17. For the LORD your God is God of gods and [u] Lord of lords, a great God, a mighty and terrible, [x] which regardeth not perſons, nor taketh reward. 18. [y] He doth execute the judgment of the fatherleſs and widow, and loveth the ſtranger, in giving him food and raiment. 19. [z] Love ye therefore the ſtranger: for ye were ſtrangers in the land of Egypt. 20. [a] Thou ſhalt fear the LORD thy God; him ſhalt thou ſerve, and [b] to him ſhalt thou cleave, and [c] ſwear by his name. 21. [d] He is thy praiſe, and he is thy God that hath done for thee theſe great and terrible things which thine eyes have ſeen. 22. Thy fathers went down into Egypt [e] with threeſcore and ten perſons; and now the LORD thy God hath made thee [f] as the ſtars of heaven for multitude.

v. 12—22. Mercies like theſe no doubt deſerve the warmeſt returns of gratitude and duty. We have here, 1. Theſe reaſonable demands of God upon them deſcribed. To fear him, becauſe his majeſty is glorious, his wrath dreadful, and his mercy great. To love him, with ſupreme deſire after him, with delight in him beyond all things, and with growing conformity of our ſouls to his image. To ſerve him with that chearful, univerſal, happy obedience, which love dictates, making his ſervice perfect freedom. To keep his commandments, without reſerve, or murmuring. To circumciſe the foreſkin of their hearts, by putting off the old man, which is corrupt, with the affections and luſts, and neither ſparing, nor deſiring to ſpare, the leaſt filthineſs or ſuperfluity of naughtineſs in the heart. Not ſtiffnecked, but humble, and chearfully ſubmiſſive to the rod of correction, as to the yoke of obedience. Swearing by his name, as the only omniſcient God, to whom ſuch appeal ſhould be made; and cleaving to him with unſhaken fidelity, and perſevering ſtedfaſtneſs; withal extending their regard to their neighbours, and loving even the ſtranger, who is the object of God's regard, and ſhould be of theirs; eſpecially when they conſidered their own deſolate eſtate in Egypt, where God ſo graciouſly, as a father, relieved them from their diſtreſſes. Society in ſuffering ſhould be an argument to pity and relieve the afflicted. Note, Iſrael's duty is our own, and all this doth the Lord our God require of every one of his ſpiritual Iſrael. 2. There is the greateſt juſtice and ſuitableneſs in this conduct towards God; becauſe God is glorious above all gods, mighty to protect and bleſs, and terrible to puniſh; above all partiality to perſons, and poſſeſſing all power in heaven and earth, whether to reward the fidelity of his choſen, or to recompence vengeance to his enemies: full of grace towards the poor deſtitute, and tender of his own Iſrael; the object of their juſt praiſes; in ſovereign grace ſelecting them for his own, and with abundant increaſe multiplying them as the ſtars of heaven. Note, (1.) Every view of God in his glorious perfections is an argument to love and ſerve him. (2.) The diſtinguiſhing choice God makes in the election of grace, lays on his people peculiar obligations to devote themſelves wholly to his honour and glory.

[c] Ibid. xxxiv. 28.
† Heb. Words.
[d] Num. xxxiii. 31.
[e] Ibid. 30.
[f] Num. xx. 28. & xxxiii. 38.
[g] Ibid. xxxiii. 32, 33, 34.
[h] Ibid. iii. 6. & iv. 4. & viii. 14.
[i] Chap. xviii. 5.
[k] Lev. ix. 22. Num. vi. 24.
[l] Num. xviii. 20. Chap. xviii. 1. Ezek. xliv. 28.
[m] Exod. xxxiv. 28. Chap. ix. 18, 25.
‡ Or former days.
[n] Exod. xxxii. 32, 33. & xxxiii. 17. Chap. ix. 19.
[o] Exod. xxxii. 34. & xxxiii. 1.
‖ Heb. Go in journey.
[p] Mic. vi. 8.
[q] Chap. vi. 5. Mat. xxii. 37.
[r] Exod. xix. Pſ. cxv. 16. & cxlviii. 4.
[s] Gen. xiv. 19. Pſ. xxiv. 1.
[t] See Lev. xxvi. 41. Chap. xxx. 6. Jer. iv. 4. Rom. ii. 28, 29. Col. ii. 11.
[u] Rev. xvii. 14. & xix. 16.
[x] 2 Chron. xix. 7. Job xxxiv. 19. Acts x. 34. Rom. ii. 11. Gal. ii. 6. Eph. vi. 9. Col iii. 25. 1 Pet. i. 17.
[y] Pſ lxviii. 5. & cxlvi. 9.
[z] Lev. xix. 33, 34. Gal. ii. 6.
[a] Chap. vi. 13. Mat. iv. 10. Luke iv. 8.
[b] Chap. xiii. 4.
[c] Pſ. lxiii. 11.
[d] Exod. xv. 2. Pſ. xxii. 3. Jer. xvii. 14.
[e] Gen. xlvi. 27. Exod. i. 5. Acts vii. 14.
[f] Gen. xv. 5.

CHAP. XI.

Moſes, 1. Inſtances ſeveral of God's mighty works, as arguments for their fidelity, ver. 1—7. 2. That their obedience would be attended with eminent bleſſings, ver. 8—15. ver. 18—25. But, 3. Their diſobedience would ruin them, ver. 16, 17. 4. Orders given for the ſolemn publication of the bleſſings of obedience, and the curſes of rebellion, ver. 26—32.

1. THerefore thou ſhalt love the LORD thy God, and keep his charge, and his ſtatutes, and his judgments, and his commandments alway. 2. And know you this day: for I ſpeak not with your children which have not known, and which have not ſeen the chaſtiſement of the LORD your God, his greatneſs, his mighty hand, and his ſtretched out arm; 3. And his miracles, and his acts which he did in the midſt of Egypt, unto Pharaoh the king of Egypt, and unto all his land; 4. And what he did unto the army of Egypt, unto their horſes, and to their chariots, [a] how he made the water of the Red ſea to overflow them as they purſued after you, and how the LORD hath deſtroyed them unto this day; 5. And what he did unto you in the wilderneſs, until ye came into this place; 6. And [b] what he did unto Dathan and Abiram, the ſons of Eliab, the ſon of Reuben: how the earth opened her mouth, and ſwallowed them up, and their houſholds, and their tents, and all the † ſubſtance that ‡ was in their poſſeſſion in the midſt of all Iſrael. 7. But your eyes have ſeen all the great acts of the LORD, which he did.

v. 1—7. The obligations to keep God's charge ſo ſolemnly committed to them is further urged from the inſtances God had given them of his mercy to them, in the miracles wrought in Egypt, and the deſtruction of the army of Pharaoh; as alſo his judgment on the conſpirators Dathan and Abiram, ſaving them from domeſtic as well as foreign enemies. This, thoſe who were the oldeſt of them had ſeen, and ought deeply to remember, and be affected by it. Note, God's mercies to us, when we were young, ought to leave an impreſſion on us, which time and age ſhould never efface.

8. Therefore ſhall ye keep all the commandments which I command you this day, that ye may be ſtrong, and go in and poſſeſs the land whither you go to poſſeſs it: 9. And that ye may prolong your days in the land which the LORD ſware unto your fathers to give unto them, and to their ſeed, a land that floweth with milk and honey. 10. ¶ For the land whither thou goeſt in to poſſeſs it, is not as the land of Egypt from whence ye came out, where thou ſowedſt thy ſeed, and wateredſt it with thy foot, as a garden of herbs: 11.

But

Before Chriſt 1451.

[a] Exod. xiv. 27.
[b] Num. xvi. 31. & xxvii. 3. Pſ. cvi. 17.
† Or living ſubſtance which followed them.
‡ Heb. Was at their feet.

But the land whither ye go to poſſeſs it, is a land of hills and valleys, and drinketh water of the rain of heaven: 12. A land which the LORD thy God † careth for: [c] the eyes of the LORD thy God are always upon it, from the beginning of the year, even unto the end of the year. 13. ¶ And it ſhall come to paſs, if you ſhall hearken diligently unto my commandments which I command you this day, to love the LORD your God, and to ſerve him with all your heart and with all your ſoul: 14. That I will give you the rain of your land in his due ſeaſon, [d] the firſt rain and the latter rain, that thou mayſt gather in thy corn, and thy wine, and thine oil. 15. And I will ‡ ſend graſs in thy fields, for thy cattle, that thou mayſt eat and be full. 16. Take heed to yourſelves, [e] that your heart be not deceived, and ye turn aſide, and [f] ſerve other gods, and worſhip them: 17. And then the LORD's wrath be kindled againſt you, and [g] he ſhut up the heaven that there be no rain, and that the land yield not her fruit, and leſt ye periſh quickly from off the good land which the LORD giveth you.

† Heb. ſeeketh.
[c] 1 Kings ix. 3.
[d] Joel ii. 23. Jam. v. 7.
‡ Heb. give.
[e] Chap. xxix. 18.
[f] Chap. viii. 19.
[g] 1 Kings viii. 35.

v. 8—17. 1. The way to conqueſt was obedience. On this depended their ſtrength, for then the mighty God would be their helper; and thus alſo they would ſecure long poſſeſſion, which elſe they would quickly forfeit. Note, Sin ſhortens the days of the wicked, and cauſes the lands to caſt out their inhabitants. 2. On their obedience alſo the fertility of their land depended. Canaan was not like Egypt, which had the Nile cut into innumerable canals, from whence the ground was watered; but owed its fruitfulneſs to the deſcending rains, which God would cauſe to deſcend plentifully upon them, and make them over-flow with corn, and wine, and oil. Note, (1.) Mercies coming from the immediate hand of God are doubly ſweet. (2.) Godlineſs hath the promiſe of the life that now is. (3.) The more we enjoy from God's gift, the more bound we are to live to God's glory. 3. The conſequences of their diſobedience would be the very reverſe of all this. If they turned aſide to idols, the wrath of God would be kindled againſt them, and they would be utterly conſumed from the good land, and the land itſelf be left deſolate, under the curſe of God; the fulfilment of which is this day moſt viſible, it being now a moſt barren ſpot, and almoſt without inhabitants. Note, They who will not be influenced by God's mercies, will ſink under his judgments.

18. ¶ Therefore [h] ſhall ye lay up theſe my words in your heart, and in your ſoul, and [i] bind them for a ſign upon your hand, that they may be as frontlets between your eyes. 19. [k] And ye ſhall teach them your children; ſpeaking of them when thou ſitteſt in thine houſe, and when thou walkeſt by the way, when thou lieſt down, and when thou riſeſt up. 20. And thou ſhalt write them upon the door-poſts of thine houſe, and upon thy gates: 21. That your days may be multiplied, and the days of your children, in the land which the LORD ſware unto your fathers to give them, [l] as the days of heaven upon the earth. 22. ¶ For if ye ſhall diligently keep all theſe commandments which I command you to do them, to love the LORD your God, to walk in all his ways, and to cleave unto him; 23. Then will the LORD drive out all theſe nations from before you, and ye ſhall poſſeſs greater nations, and mightier than yourſelves. 24. [m] Every place, whereon the ſoles of your feet ſhall tread, ſhall be yours: [n] from the wilderneſs, and Lebanon, from the river, the river Euphrates, even unto the uttermoſt ſea, ſhall your coaſt be. 25. There ſhall no man be able to ſtand before you: for the LORD your God ſhall lay the fear of you, and the dread of you upon all the land that ye ſhall tread upon, [o] as he hath ſaid unto you.

[h] Chap. vi. 6.
[i] Ibid. 8.
[k] Chap. iv. 9, 10. & vi. 7.
[l] Pſ. lxxii. 5. & lxxxix. 29, 30.
[m] Joſh. i. 3. & xiv. 9.
[n] Gen. xv. 18. Exod. xxiii. 31. Num. xxxiv. 3.
[o] Exod. xxiii. 27.

v. 18—25. Though theſe directions had been given before, they were no vain repetitions; all was little enough for their admonition. 1. They are charged to lay up theſe words in their memories, and to embrace them with cordial affection; to place them ever in their view, that they may not be forgotten, and to be talking of them at home and abroad, making them matter of conſtant inſtruction to their children, and of familiar converſe with their friends. Note, When the heart is filled with the knowledge and love of God's word, the lips will ever be bringing forth that good converſation which miniſters grace to the hearers. 2. The bleſſing aſſured them is certain poſſeſſion of the land of Canaan, an enlargement of their borders to Euphrates, with an abiding inheritance for their children; and ſecurity from all their foes; whom an holy awe ſhould reſtrain from daring to moleſt them. Note, (1.) Religion ſtamps a reverence on its profeſſors, which keeps their enemies in awe of them. (2.) Godlineſs, tranſmitted with our poſſeſſions, is the fureſt means to perpetuate them in our families.

26. ¶ [p] Behold, I ſet before you this day a bleſſing and a curſe: 27. [q] A bleſſing, if ye obey the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you this day: 28. And [r] a curſe, if ye will not obey the commandments of the LORD your God, but turn aſide out of the way which I command you this day, to go after other gods which ye have not known. 29. And it ſhall come to paſs when the LORD thy God hath brought thee in unto the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it, that thou ſhalt put [s] the bleſſing upon mount Gerizim, and the curſe upon mount Ebal. 30. Are they not on the other ſide Jordan, by the way where the ſun goeth down, in the land of the Canaanites, which dwell in the champain over-againſt Gilgal, [t] beſide the plains of Moreh? 31. For ye ſhall paſs over Jordan to go in to poſſeſs the land which the LORD your God giveth you, and ye ſhall poſſeſs it and dwell therein. 32. And ye ſhall obſerve [u] to do all the ſtatutes and judgments which I ſet before you this day.

[p] Chap. xxx. 15.
[q] Chap. xxviii. 2.
[r] Ibid. 15.
[s] Chap. xxvii. 12, 13. Joſh. viii. 33.
[t] Gen. xii. 6. Judg. vii. 1.
[u] Chap. v. 32.

v. 26—32. Moſes ſums up the ſubſtance of his diſcourſe, that being brought to a point it might be the eaſier remembered. 1. It contains a bleſſing and a curſe. A bleſſing on obedience rich and moſt deſireable, a curſe on diſobedience ruinous and dreadful. The matter was plain beyond miſtake; and on their own choice it depended, whether to have God their friend or their enemy. The way to heaven and hell is plain and evident in God's word; if men will not ſee, and will not walk aright, their blood is on their own heads. 2. On their poſſeſſing the land, there is a ſolemn publication of this bleſſing and curſe appointed on mount Ebal and mount Gerizim, that no man might plead ignorance, and that their own conſent to them on rehearſal, might engage their hearts more firmly to obedience, or leave them more inexcuſable in their guilt.

CHAP. XII.

Moſes farther enjoins them, 1. Utterly to deſtroy all relicks of idolatry, ver. 1—3. 2. To keep cloſe to the tabernacle, ver. 4, 5. 3. To bring thither their offerings, tythes and ſacrifices, ver. 6, 7, 11, 12, 14, 18, 26, 27, 28. 4. They are forbidden to do as at preſent, ver. 8—11. or as the Canaanites had done, ver. 29—32. or to eat the hallowed things at home, ver. 13, 17, 18, 19. 5. Fleſh in common permitted, the blood forbidden, ver. 15, 16, 20, 26.

1. THESE are the ſtatutes and judgments which ye ſhall obſerve to do in the land which the LORD God of thy fathers giveth thee to poſſeſs it, all the days that ye live upon the earth. 2. [a] Ye ſhall utterly deſtroy all the places wherein the nations which ye ſhall † poſſeſs ſerved their gods, upon the high mountains, and upon the hills, and under every green tree. 3. And [b] you ſhall ‡ overthrow their altars, and break their pillars, and burn their groves with fire, and you ſhall hew down the graven images of their gods, and deſtroy the names of them out of that place. 4. Ye ſhall not do ſo unto the LORD your God.

[a] Exod. xxxiv. 13. Chap. vii. 5.
† Heb. Or, inherit.
[b] Numb. xxxiii. 52. Judg. ii. 2.
‡ Heb. break down.

v. 1—4. We cannot have too many cautions to beware of the ſin which doth moſt eaſily beſet us. To prevent therefore all temptation to idolatry, repeated charges are given to extirpate every monument of idol worſhip, to cut down the groves where the lewd rites were performed, and to deſtroy the abominable images, the objects of their blind devotion. Nor muſt they ever adopt their ceremonies in the worſhip of the true God, or ſacrifice to him on hills, or in groves, but only at the altar where God had put his name. Note, (1.) All will-worſhip is abomination to God. (2.) There is no poſſibility of reconciling the worſhip of God and mammon, of Chriſt and Belial.

5. But unto the place [c] which the LORD your God ſhall chooſe out of all your tribes, to put his name there, even unto his habitation ſhall ye ſeek, and thither thou ſhalt come: 6. And [d] thither ye ſhall bring your burnt-offerings, and your ſacrifices, and [e] your tithes, and heave-offerings of your hand, and your vows, and your free-will-offerings, and the firſtlings of your herds, and of [c] Ver. 11. Joſh. ix. 27. 1 Kings viii. 29. 2 Chron. vii. 12.

[d] Lev. xvii. 3.
[e] Ver. 17. Chap. xiv. 22. & xv. 19, 20.

of your flocks. 7. And [f] there ye ſhall eat before the LORD your God, and ye ſhall rejoice in all that you put your hand unto, ye and your houſholds, wherein the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee. 8. Ye ſhall not do after all the things that we do here this day, every man whatſoever is right in his own eyes. 9. For ye are not as yet come to the reſt, and to the inheritance which the LORD your God giveth you. 10. But when ye go over Jordan, and dwell in the land which the LORD your God giveth you to inherit, and when he giveth you reſt from all your enemies round about, ſo that ye dwell in ſafety: 11. Then there ſhall be [g] a place which the LORD your God ſhall chooſe to cauſe his name to dwell there, thither ſhall ye bring all that I command you; your burnt-offerings, and your ſacrifices, your tithes, and the heave-offering of your hand, and all * your choice vows which ye vow unto the LORD. 12. And ye ſhall rejoice before the LORD your God, ye, and your ſons, and your daughters, and your men-ſervants, and your maid-ſervants, and the Levite that is within your gates; foraſmuch as [h] he hath no part nor inheritance with you. 13. Take heed to thyſelf that thou offer not thy burnt-offerings in every place that thou ſeeſt. 14. But [i] in the place which the LORD ſhall chooſe in one of thy tribes, there thou ſhalt offer thy burnt-offerings, and there thou ſhalt do all that I command thee. 15. Notwithſtanding, thou mayeſt kill and eat fleſh in all thy gates, whatſoever thy ſoul luſteth after, according to the bleſſing of the LORD thy God which he hath given thee: [k] the unclean and the clean may eat thereof, as of the roe-buck, and as of the hart. 16. [l] Only ye ſhall not eat the blood: ye ſhall pour it upon the earth as water. 17. ¶ Thou mayeſt not eat within thy gates the tithe of thy corn, or of thy wine, or of thy oil, or the firſtlings of thy herds, or of thy flock, nor any of thy vows which thou voweſt, nor thy free-will-offerings, or heave-offering of thine hand: 18. But [m] thou muſt eat them before the LORD thy God in the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chooſe, thou and thy ſon, and thy daughter, and thy man-ſervant, and thy maid-ſervant, and the Levite that is within thy gates: and thou ſhalt rejoice before the LORD thy God in all that thou putteſt thine hands unto. 19. [n] Take heed to thyſelf that thou forſake not the Levite † as long as thou liveſt upon the earth. 20. ¶ When the LORD thy God ſhall enlarge thy border, [o] as he hath promiſed thee, and thou ſhalt ſay, I will eat fleſh (becauſe thy ſoul longeth to eat fleſh) thou mayeſt eat fleſh whatſoever thy ſoul luſteth after. 21. If the place which the LORD thy God hath choſen to put his name there, be too far from thee; then thou ſhalt kill of thy herd and of thy flock, which the LORD hath given thee, as I have commanded thee, and thou ſhalt eat in thy gates whatſoever thy ſoul luſteth after. 22. [p] Even as the roe-buck and the hart is eaten, ſo thou ſhalt eat them: the unclean and the clean ſhall eat of them alike. 23. [q] Only ‡ be ſure that thou eat not the blood: [r] for the blood is the life, and thou mayeſt not eat the life with the fleſh. 24. Thou ſhalt not eat it; thou ſhalt pour it upon the earth as water. 25. Thou ſhalt not eat it, that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee, [s] when thou ſhalt do that which is right in the ſight of the LORD. 26. Only thy holy things which thou haſt, and thy vows, thou ſhalt take, and go unto the place which the LORD ſhall chooſe: 27. And [t] thou ſhalt offer thy burnt-offerings, the fleſh and the blood, upon the altar of the LORD thy God: and the blood of thy ſacrifices ſhall be poured out upon the altar of the LORD thy God, and thou ſhalt eat the fleſh. 28. Obſerve and hear all theſe words which I command thee, that it may go well with thee and with thy children after thee for ever, when thou doeſt that which is good and right in the ſight of the LORD thy God. 29. ¶ When the LORD thy God ſhall cut off the nations from before thee, whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs them, and thou ‖ ſucceedeſt them, and dwelleſt in their land: 30. Take heed to thyſelf [u] that thou be not ſnared § by following them, after that they be deſtroyed from before thee, and that thou enquire not after their gods, ſaying, How did theſe nations ſerve their gods? even ſo will I do likewiſe. 31. Thou ſhalt not do ſo unto the LORD thy God: for every * abomination to the LORD which he hateth, have they done unto their gods: for [x] even their ſons and their daughters they have burnt in the fire to their gods. 32. What thing ſoever I command you, obſerve to do it: [y] thou ſhalt not add thereto, nor diminiſh from it.

Before Chriſt 1451.

[f] Chap. xiv. 26.

[g] Ver. 5, 14, 18, 21, 26. Chap. xiv. 23. & xv. 20. & xvi. 2, &c. & xvii. 8. & xviii. 6. & xxiii. 16. & xxvi. 2. & xxxi. 11. Joſh. xviii. 1. 1 Kings viii. 29. Pſal. lxxviii. 68.

* Heb. The choice of your vows.

[h] Chap. x. 9.

[i] Ver. 11.

[k] Ver. 22.

[l] Gen. ix. 4. Lev. vii. 26. & xvii. 10. Chap. xv. 23. & ver. 23.

[m] Ver. 11. Chap. xiv. 22.

[n] Chap. xiv. 27. Ecclus vii. 31.

† Heb. All thy days.

[o] Gen. xv. 18. & xxviii. 14. Chap. xi. 24. & xix. 8.

[p] Ver. 15.

[q] Ver. 16.

‡ Heb. Be ſtrong.

[r] Gen. ix. 4. Lev. xvii. 11, 14.

[s] Chap. xiii. 18.

[t] Lev. i. 5, 9, 13.

‖ Heb. Inheriteſt or poſſeſſeſt them.

[u] Chap. vii. 16.

§ Heb. After them.

* Heb. Abomination of the Lord.

[x] Lev. xviii. 21. & xx. 2. Chap. xviii. 10. Jer. xxxii. 35.

[y] Chap. iv. 2. & xiii. 18. Joſh. i. 7. Prov. xxx. 6. Rev. xxii. 18.

v, 5—32. As nothing would preſerve them more effectually from idolatry, than forbidding all ſacrifices and public offerings, except in one place under the immediate eye of God's miniſters; we have this again and again inculcated. 1. God promiſes, when they were in quiet poſſeſſion of the land, to chuſe the place where he would put his name, erect his tabernacle, and manifeſt his preſence in the divine Shechinah. He left not the place to their option, leaſt they ſhould diſpute about the choice; nor mentions it as yet, becauſe it was enough for them to know his pleaſure now, and they ſhould have farther direction when it was needful. Bleſſed be God! all diſtinctions of place in Chriſt Jeſus are now deſtroyed; every where we may have acceſs to a throne of grace, and find our ſervices accepted in the Redeemer. 2, When the place was fixed, they muſt there offer their ſacrifices, their tithes, and freewill-offerings, for the maintenance of the prieſts and levites; and all their holy things muſt be eaten there, before the Lord, with joy and gladneſs of heart, by them and their families. God's ſervice is delighful: to be melancholy is to diſhonour it. Religion was deſigned to be our pleaſure, not our burden. 3. Though all their devoted things might only be eaten before the Lord, no reſtraint is laid upon them reſpecting common and allowed meats; they might kill and eat without reſerve; and both the unclean and the clean might eat them alike; with theſe proviſos only, 1. That they lived according to the bleſſing of God upon them, ver. 15. neither luxuriouſly extravagant, nor penuriouſly ſaving. Exceſs and covetouſneſs are alike diſhonourable to God. He giveth us his bleſſings richly to enjoy; and whilſt he would have us eat our bread, and drink our wine with a chearful heart, he wills we ſhould uſe his gifts with that ſobriety and temperance, which may ſatisfy our natural appetite, without making proviſion for our ſinful luſts. 2. The blood is ſtrictly forbidden. In the wilderneſs, all their beaſts ſeem to have been ſlain at the door of the tabernacle, under the inſpection of the Levites: now that they are permitted to ſlay and eat in all their gates, they muſt be careful to pour out the blood on the earth; it is the life of the beaſt, and appointed as the atonement for the ſouls of men. 4. They muſt not draw their preſent conduct into a precedent; for, notwithſtanding all the care that could be taken, in their frequent removes and unſettled ſtate, many things ſeem to have been omitted, and the circumſtances of their marches prevented that exact regularity which was enjoined them. They muſt therefore, when at reſt in Canaan, be more punctual in their ſacrifices and obſervances. Note, (1.) In the beſt ordered churches ſomething will ſtill be defective; perfect purity is reſerved for the heavenly Canaan. (2.) In caſes of neceſſity thoſe ordinances of worſhip may be omitted, which in different circumſtances would render us highly culpable. 5. He warns them againſt the leaſt deſire to know, and the leaſt enquiry after the worſhip of the Canaanites. Ignorance of evil is often a protection from it; whilſt the very knowledge of ſin is a ſnare. In general, it was enough for them to know that it was moſt hateful to God, and one inſtance ſufficient to ſhock and deter them; moſt unnatural as inhuman, they burnt their ſons and their daughters to their idols; ſo might not they do. They muſt ſcrupulouſly obſerve the divine directory of worſhip, nor add thereto, nor diminiſh therefrom. Note, Our worſhip will then be acceptable, when regulated by divine preſcription.

CHAP. XIII.

Moſes having warned them againſt the idolatry of Canaan, guards them againſt deceivers among themſelves, who would draw them to idolatry, (1.) By the pretence of prophecy, ver. 1—5. (2.) By the pretence of friendſhip and relation, ver. 6—11. (3.) By the pretence of numbers, ver. 12—18. In all which caſes the tempters muſt be utterly deſtroyed.

1. IF there ariſe among you a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, and [a] giveth thee a ſign or a wonder, 2. And [b] the ſign or the wonder come to paſs, whereof he ſpake unto thee, ſaying, Let us go after other gods (which thou haſt not known) and let us ſerve them; 3. Thou ſhalt not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams: for [c] the LORD your God proveth you, to know whether you love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your ſoul. 4. Ye ſhall walk after the LORD your God, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and obey his voice, and you

Before Chriſt 1451.

[a] Mat. xxiv. 24.

[b] See Chap. xviii. 22. Jer. xxviii. 9. Mat. vii. 22.

[c] Chap. viii. 2. See Mat. xxiv. 24. 1 Cor. xi. 19. 2 Theſſ. ii. 11. Rev. xiii. 14.

you ſhall ſerve him, and [d] cleave unto him. 5. And [e] that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams, ſhall be put to death (becauſe he hath † ſpoken to turn you away from the LORD your God, which brought you out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed you out of the houſe of bondage, to thruſt thee out of the way which the LORD thy God commanded thee to walk in) [f] ſo ſhalt thou put the evil away from the midſt of thee.

[d] Chap. x. 20.
[e] Chap. xviii. 20. Jer. xiv. 15. Zech. xiii. 3.
† Heb. Spoken revolt against the Lord.
[f] Chap. xxii. 21, 22, 24. 1 Cor. v. 13.

v. 1—5. Moſes would fain bar up every avenue to idolatry. He therefore cautions them againſt all lying prophets, which would ſeduce them from God. 1. He ſuppoſes it poſſible, that ſuch would ariſe among themſelves, and that God, to prove them, might ſuffer ſuch impoſtors to do many ſtrange things, in confirmation of their pretended miſſion; yet, if the deſign was to lead them to idolatry, that alone were ſufficient proof of the lying and deceiving prophet. Obſerve, (1.) It ſeems very queſtionable, whether ever a falſe prophet wrought a real miracle, though by ſlight and diabolic help ſtrange feats might be performed, as would appear ſuch. But, (2.) No evidence, however ſtrongly to appearance ſupported, is admiſſible againſt the revealed truths of God. Even miracles would be no proof of miſſion, if the doctrine were not according to godlineſs. 2. They are enjoined to reject, with abhorrence, ſuch a motion, and not to hearken to ſuch an impious ſuggeſtion, but ſteadily to obey the voice of God, and walk in his way. Some temptations are not ſo much as to be debated with; they are ſo ſhocking that we may not ſo much as hearken to them; nor muſt they only turn from the evil, but put the evil from them, by the death of the deceiver; his very breath is peſtilential, and he muſt be cut off without delay. We can never be too earneſt to remove the tempter far away from us.

6. ¶ [g] If thy brother, the ſon of thy mother, or thy ſon, or thy daughter, or [h] the wife of thy boſom, or thy friend, which is as thine own ſoul, entice thee ſecretly, ſaying, Let us go and ſerve other gods (which thou haſt not known, thou, nor thy fathers; 7. Namely, of the gods of the people which are round about you, nigh unto thee, or far off from thee, from the one end of the earth even unto the other end of the earth) 8. Thou ſhalt not conſent unto him, nor hearken unto him; neither ſhall thine eye pity him, neither ſhalt thou ſpare, neither ſhalt thou conceal him. 9. But [i] thou ſhalt ſurely kill him; [k] thine hand ſhall be firſt upon him to put him to death, and afterwards the hand of all the people. 10. And thou ſhalt ſtone him with ſtones, that he die: becauſe he hath ſought to thruſt thee away from the LORD thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egypt, from the houſe of † bondage. 11. And [l] all Iſrael ſhall hear, and fear, and ſhall do no more any ſuch wickedneſs as this is among you.

[g] Chap. xvii. 2.
[h] See Gen. xvi. 5. Chap. xxviii. 54. Prov. v. 20. Mic. vii. 5.
[i] Chap. xvii. 7.
[k] Acts vii. 58.
† Heb. Bondmen.
[l] Chap. xvii. 13.

v. 6—11. Our neareſt and deareſt relatives, in this behalf, muſt have no regard ſhown to them; ſhould they tempt us ſecretly to idolatry, the ſame holy indignation muſt fire our boſoms againſt them; we muſt neither conceal nor pity them. Our hand muſt be firſt upon them to ſtone them, and then all the people; that thus both the evil may be removed, and ſuch execution deter others from the like criminal attempts. Note, (1.) Thoſe temptations are doubly bewitching, that come through thoſe we love. (2.) The hope of ſecrecy and ſecurity in ſin, is a great ſnare to lead men into it. (3.) To conceal the criminal from juſtice, is to be a party in his crime. (4.) The deſign of every execution is to ſtrike terror into others, that they may be kept from the ſame guilty ways, and miſerable end.

12. ¶ [m] If thou ſhalt hear ſay in one of thy cities, which the LORD thy God hath given thee to dwell there, ſaying, 13. Certain men, † the children of Belial, [n] are gone out from among you, and have withdrawn the inhabitants of their city, ſaying, Let us go and ſerve other gods (which ye have not known) 14. Then ſhalt thou enquire and make ſearch, and aſk diligently: and behold, if it be truth, and the thing certain, that ſuch abomination is wrought among you: 15. Thou ſhalt ſurely ſmite the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the ſword, [o] deſtroying it utterly, and all that is therein, and the cattle thereof, with the edge of the ſword. 16. And thou ſhalt gather all the ſpoil of it into the midſt of the ſtreet thereof, and ſhalt burn with fire the city, and all the ſpoil thereof every whit, for the LORD thy God: and it ſhall be an heap for ever, it ſhall not be built again. 17. And [p] there ſhall cleave nought of the ‡ curſed thing to thine hand: that the LORD may turn from the fierceneſs of his anger, and ſhew thee mercy, and have compaſſion upon thee, and multiply thee, as he hath ſworn unto thy fathers; 18. When thou ſhalt hearken to the voice of the LORD thy God, [q] to keep all his commandments which I command thee this day, to do that which is right in the eyes of the LORD thy God.

[m] Joſh. xxii. 11, &c. Jud. xx. 1, 2.
† Or, naughty men. See Jud. xix. 22. 1 Sam. ii. 12. & xxv. 25. 2 Cor. vi. 15.
[n] 1 John ii. 19. Jude 19.
[o] Exod. xxii. 20. Lev. xxvii. 18. Joſh. vi. 17.
[p] Chap. vii. 26.
‡ Or, Devoted.
[q] Chap. xii. 15, 32.

v. 12—18. In caſe of the general defection of any place to idolatry, the judgment upon it is here determined. 1. It is ſuppoſed the city had been inhabited by the Iſraelites, and that they are univerſally turned to idolatry, at the inſtigation of ſome daring ſinners, the children of Belial: bad examples are dreadfully contagious. In this caſe, 2. On information, which muſt be carefully made, without paſſion or prejudice, if the fact appeared true before the Sanhedrim, admonition was firſt given them to repent, ſay the Jews, by two wiſe men, which if they refuſed, the whole congregation camped againſt the city. The few faithful, if ſuch were found, would no doubt ſave themſelves by flight; the reſt were univerſally devoted to deſtruction; their city, and all their goods, utterly burnt; not the leaſt particular might be reſerved, on pain of death, but the place made a dunghill for ever, as a monument of righteous vengeance. Note, (1.) All who depart from God will ſurely periſh. (2.) We are bound to ſhew our abhorrence againſt all Popiſh idol-worſhip, with all infidelity and irreligion. (3.) Though ſinners, through their quality or multitude, may be now above the ſword of human juſtice, they will ſhortly find they are within the reach of God.

CHAP. XIV.

Moſes teaches them, 1. To diſtinguiſh themſelves from their neighbours, in their mourning, ver. 1, 2. 2. In their meat, ver. 3—21. 3. Religiouſly to devote their tythes to God, ver. 22—29.

1. YE are the children of the LORD your God: [a] Ye ſhall not cut yourſelves, nor make any baldneſs between your eyes for the dead. 2. [b] For thou art an holy people unto the LORD thy God, and the LORD hath choſen thee to be a peculiar people unto himſelf, above all the nations that are upon the earth. 3. ¶ Thou ſhalt not eat any abominable thing. 4. [c] Theſe are the beaſts which ye ſhall eat: the ox, the ſheep, and the goat, 5. The hart, and the roe-buck, and the fallow-deer, and the wild goat, and the ‖ † pygarg, and the wild ox, and the chamois. 6. And every beaſt that parteth the hoof, and cleaveth the cleft into two claws, and cheweth the cud amongſt the beaſts; that ye ſhall eat. 7. Nevertheleſs, theſe ye ſhall not eat, of them that chew the cud, or of them that divide the cloven hoof; as the camel, and the hare, and the coney: for they chew the cud, but divide not the hoof: therefore they are unclean unto you. 8. And the ſwine, becauſe it divideth the hoof, yet cheweth not the cud, it is unclean unto you: ye ſhall not eat of their fleſh, [d] nor touch their dead carcaſe. 9. ¶ [e] Theſe ye ſhall eat of all that are in the waters: all that have fins and ſcales ſhall ye eat: 10. And whatſoever hath not fins and ſcales, ye may not eat: it is unclean unto you. 11. ¶ Of all clean birds ye ſhall eat. 12. But theſe are they of which ye ſhall not eat: the eagle, and the oſſifrage, and the oſpray, 13. And the glede, and the kite, and the vulture after his kind, 14. And every raven after his kind, 15. And the owl, and the night-hawk, and the cuckow, and the hawk after his kind, 16. The little owl, and the great owl, and the ſwan, 17. And the pelican, and the gier-eagle, and the cormorant, 18. And the ſtork, and the heron after her kind, and the lapwing, and [f] the bat. 19. And [g] every creeping thing that flieth, is unclean unto you: they ſhall not be eaten. 20. But of all clean fowls ye may eat. 21. ¶ Ye ſhall not eat of any thing that dieth of itſelf: thou ſhalt give it unto the ſtranger that is in thy gates, that he may eat it, or thou mayſt ſell it unto an alien: for thou art an holy people unto the LORD thy God. [h] Thou ſhalt not ſeethe a kid in his mother's milk.

[a] Lev. xix. 28. & xxi. 5. Jer. xvi. 6. & xli. 5. & xlvii. 5. 1 Theſ. iv. 13.
[b] Chap. vii. 6. & xxvi. 18.
[c] Lev. xi. 2, &c.
‖ Or, biſon,
† Heb. Diſhon.
[d] Lev. xi. 27.
[e] Ibid. 9.
[f] Ibid. 19.
[g] Ibid. 21.
[h] Exod. xxiii. 19. & xxxiv. 26.

v. 1—21. God having choſen Iſrael for his own, of ſovereign grace ſeparated them from the nations, adopted them as his children, and deſigned them for his glory, he has a right to expect from them that they ſhould anſwer theſe purpoſes of his grace, and approve themſelves a holy people before him. And this muſt appear, 1. In their mournings, where all inordinate ſorrow muſt be avoided; and every ſuperſtitious practice, which the Gentiles uſed, as cutting themſelves, and making any baldneſs for the dead, muſt be abhorred. Note, (1.) We are not forbidden to mourn for the dead; but to expreſs immoderate ſorrow would be the proof of idolatrous attachment to the creature, and a diſhonour to God. (2.) As our bodies are not our own, but bought with a price, we muſt glorify God in them, nor disfigure or deform that temple where he is pleaſed to take up his abode. 2. In their meat. Though many of the forbidden beaſts, or fiſh, or fowl, may, in themſelves, be good for food, and allowable to others, yet God will lay them under particular reſtraints, to prevent their mingling with the heathen. There is enough permitted them, to remove every occaſion of juſt complaint, if their perverſe appetites did not enſlave them. Note, Thoſe who are not ſatisfied with the lawful gratifications God allows, never will be ſatisfied in the gratification of their lawleſs luſts. 3. They may not eat what died of itſelf, it was unwholeſome as well as unclean; nor a kid ſeethed in its mother's milk, becauſe either it beſpoke luxury, or ſome heatheniſh ſuperſtitious cuſtom. Theſe obſervances are purely judaical, and the reaſon of them is now ceaſed; but the ſeparation from evil, and the dedication of ourſelves to God, which theſe ſignified, ſtill remains obligatory on every chriſtian.

i Chap. xii. 6, 17.
k Ibid. 5.
l Chap. xv. 19, 20.
† Heb. aſketh of thee.
m Chap. xii. 19.
n Numb. xviii. 20. Chap. xviii. 1.
o Chap. xxvi. 12. Am. iv. 4.
p Chap. xxvi. 12.
q Ver. 27.
r See Mal. ii. 10.

22. [i] Thou ſhalt truly tithe all the increaſe of thy ſeed, that the field bringeth forth year by year. 23. [k] And thou ſhalt eat before the LORD thy God, in the place which he ſhall chooſe to place his name there, the tithe of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thine oil, and [l] the firſtlings of thy herds, and of thy flocks: that thou mayſt learn to fear the LORD thy God always. 24. And if the way be too long for thee, ſo that thou art not able to carry it, or if the place be too far from thee, which the LORD thy God ſhall chooſe to ſet his name there, when the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee: 25. Then ſhalt thou turn it into money, and bind up the money in thine hand, and ſhalt go unto the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chooſe. 26. And thou ſhalt beſtow that money for whatſoever thy ſoul luſteth after, for oxen or for ſheep, or for wine, or for ſtrong drink, or for whatſoever thy ſoul † deſireth: and thou ſhalt eat there before the LORD thy God, and thou ſhalt rejoice, thou and thine houſhold. 27. And [m] the Levite that is within thy gates, thou ſhalt not forſake him: for [n] he hath no part nor inheritance with thee. 28. ¶ [o] At the end of three years thou ſhalt bring forth all the tithe of thine increaſe the ſame year, and ſhalt lay it up within thy gates. 29. [p] And the Levite (becauſe [q] he hath no part nor inheritance with thee) and the ſtranger, and the fatherleſs, and the widow, which are within thy gates, ſhall come, and ſhall eat and be ſatisfied; that [r] the LORD thy God may bleſs thee in all the work of thine hand which thou doſt.

v. 22—29. Their grounds paid a double tithe; one for the Levites maintenance, another that was wholly employed in works of piety and charity. The former the Levites themſelves ſaw truly performed, the latter was left to the people's own integrity; not to be honeſt here were to rob God. Note, We muſt make conſcience of devoting to God's ſervice a portion of our increaſe. Two years this tithe was either carried up to the temple in kind, and eaten by them and their families, in a holy feaſt before the Lord; or, the money ariſing from the ſale of the tithe, if their abode was diſtant, was brought up and laid out in this manner: the Levite was never to be forgotten by them; his company not only graced their table, but his preſence and watchfulneſs over them would prevent exceſs. Every third year this ſecond tithe was ſpent at home, on the ſtranger, the fatherleſs, and the widow; and with them the Levite had his portion alſo, his preſence and company being always profitable, whether at the temple or at home. God promiſes they ſhall be no loſers by this liberality, his bleſſing will amply repay them. Note, (1.) Frequent aſſemblings before God are among the beſt means to keep us faithful in his ſervice. (2.) He who calls us to him, wills we ſhould rejoice before him. (3.) They have a continual feaſt, who poſſeſs contentment, and uſe all God's gifts with holy thankfulneſs. (4.) God careth for the fatherleſs and widow, and ſo muſt we; nor ſhall we ever loſe by that which is thus lent unto the Lord, for he ſaith, it ſhall be paid us again with abundant intereſt.

CHAP. XV.

In this chapter Moſes gives orders, (1.) Concerning the releaſe of debts every ſeventh year, ver. 1—6. with a caution that that be no hindrance to charitable lending, ver. 7—11. (2.) Concerning the releaſe of ſervants after ſeven years ſervice, ver. 12—18. (3.) Concerning the ſanctification of the firſtlings of cattle to God, ver. 19—23.

a Exod. xxi. 2. & xxiii. 10. Lev. xxv. 2, 4. Chap. xxxi. 10. Jer. xxxiv. 14.
† Heb. Maſter of the lending of his hand.
b See Chap. xxiii. 20.
‡ Or, To the end that there be no poor among you.
c Chap. xxviii. 12, 44.
d Mat. v. 42. Luke vi. 34, 35.
‖ Heb. word.
§ Heb. Belial.
e Chap. xxviii. 54, 56. Prov. xxiii. 6. & xxviii. 22. Mat. xx. 15.
f Mat. xxvi. 11. Joh. xii. 8.

1. AT the end of [a] every ſeven years thou ſhalt make a releaſe. 2. And this is the manner of the releaſe: Every † creditor that lendeth ought unto his neighbour, ſhall releaſe it, he ſhall not exact it of his neighbour, or of his brother, becauſe it is called the LORD's releaſe. 3. [b] Of a foreigner thou mayſt exact it again: but that which is thine with thy brother, thine hand ſhall releaſe: 4. ‡ Save when there ſhall be no poor among you: for the LORD ſhall greatly bleſs thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to poſſeſs it: 5. Only if thou carefully hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to obſerve to do all theſe commandments which I command thee this day. 6. For the LORD thy God bleſſeth thee, as he promiſed thee, and [c] thou ſhalt lend unto many nations, but thou ſhalt not borrow; and thou ſhalt reign over many nations, but they ſhall not reign over thee. 7. ¶ If there be among you a poor man of one of thy brethren, within any of thy gates, in thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, thou ſhalt not harden thy heart, nor ſhut thine hand from thy poor brother: 8. But [d] thou ſhalt open thine hand wide unto him, and ſhalt ſurely lend him ſufficient for his need, in that which he wanteth. 9. Beware that there be not a ‖ thought in thy § wicked heart, ſaying, The ſeventh year, the year of releaſe is at hand: and [e] thine eye be evil againſt thy poor brother, and thou giveſt him nought, and he cry unto the LORD againſt thee, and it be ſin unto thee. 10. Thou ſhalt ſurely give him, and thine heart ſhall not be grieved when thou giveſt unto him: becauſe that for this thing the LORD thy God ſhall bleſs thee in all thy works, and in all that thou putteſt thine hand unto. 11. For [f] the poor ſhall never ceaſe out of the land: therefore I command thee, ſaying, thou ſhalt open thine hand wide unto thy brother, to thy poor, and to thy needy, in thy land.

v. 1—11. We have here, 1. An order for the releaſe of inſolvent debtors on the ſabbatical year, which related to their brethren only, and not to aliens. If they afterwards were able, they were, in honour and conſcience, bound to pay, but if not, the creditor could not trouble them for it, nor recover the debt at law. Not that they ſhould loſe by this liberality; God would inrich them abundantly, and enable them to lend to their richer neighbours around them, and thus over-pay their loſſes in the intereſt they ſhould receive. Note, (1.) The goſpel preaches to us poor debtors this acceptable year of the Lord, even the free pardon of all our ſins through the blood of Jeſus. (2.) God teaches us not to be ſevere exactors upon our brethren, but to forgive them, as we hope to be forgiven. (3.) They who can take God's ſecurity for payment of what, for his ſake, they remit to the indigent, will find him a reſponſible bondſman. 2. He cautions them againſt their making this a plea for uncharitableneſs; that the year of releaſe approached, and they ſhould be in danger of loſing what they lent: ſuch a wicked thought God rebukes, enjoining them to open both their heart and hand to their brother's neceſſities, and according to their ability to lend, hoping for nothing again; and this not grudgingly, or of neceſſity, but with chearfulneſs, aſſured that God will not ſuffer them to be loſers by their kindneſs; and leaſt, if they refuſed, the cry of the needy ſhould come up againſt them, and their ſin be had in remembrance before God. Note, (1.) God knows and remarks every evil thought of our hearts, and therefore we ſhould watch againſt and ſuppreſs the firſt riſings of them within us. (2.) It is a dreadful thing to have the cry of the poor againſt us; for God hears, and will avenge them ſpeedily. (3.) 'Tis not ſo much the gift, as the temper of the giver, God regards. (4.) The beſt and moſt uſeful charity, probably, is to aſſiſt the induſtrious poor with a ſmall loan, by the help of which they may be put in a way of comfortably providing for themſelves and families. (5.) Though we loſe what we thus lend, we ſhall find ourſelves gainers at laſt.

g Exod. xxi. 2. Jer. xxxiv. 14.

12. ¶ And [g] if thy brother, an Hebrew man, or an Hebrew woman, be ſold unto thee, and ſerve thee ſix years, then in the ſeventh year thou ſhalt let him go free from thee. 13. And when thou ſendeſt him out free from thee, thou ſhalt not let him go away empty: 14. Thou ſhalt furniſh him liberally out of thy flock, and out of

Before Chriſt 1451.

thy floor, and out of thy wine-preſs: of that wherewith the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee, thou ſhalt give unto him. 15. And thou ſhalt remember that thou waſt a bond-man in the land of Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee: therefore I command thee this thing to day. 16. And it ſhall be, if he ſay unto thee,
I will not go away from thee (becauſe he loveth thee, and thine houſe, becauſe he is well with thee,) 17.
[h] Then thou ſhalt take an awl, and thruſt it through his ear unto the door, and he ſhall be thy ſervant for ever:
and alſo unto thy maid-ſervant thou ſhalt do likewiſe.
18. It ſhall not ſeem hard unto thee when thou ſendeſt him away free from thee; for he hath been worth [i] a double hired ſervant to thee, in ſerving thee ſix years:
and the LORD thy God ſhall bleſs thee in all that thou doſt.

[h] Exod. xxi. 6.

[i] See Iſa. xvi. 14. & xxi. 16.

v. 12—18. Every ſeventh year the ſervants who had ſold themſelves, or had been ſold by the judges for theft, or by their parents through poverty, were diſcharged, or ſooner, if a jubile year came; unleſs, through love of their maſter's ſervice, they choſe to ſtay, when an awl was thruſt through their ear to the door, and they were ſervants for life. Note, God's ſpiritual Iſrael are called unto liberty; and though their ear is bored to ſerve their divine maſter for ever, yet his ſervice is their happy freedom.—If a ſervant was diſcharged, he muſt not be ſent away empty, but ſupplied, according to his maſter's abilities, with the means to procure himſelf a future livelihood. And this they muſt do both in gratitude to God for their own deliverance from Egypt, when God ſent them forth enriched from the houſe of bondage, and as a juſt acknowledgement of their ſervant's labour, who ſerved ſo long without wages. And as this would alſo ſecure the continuance of God's bleſſings upon them, intereſt as well as gratitude called for a generous preſent to them. Note, If our maſter in heaven hath been kind to us, in filling our cup with affluence, 'tis but reaſon we ſhould ſhew kindneſs to our poor tenants and ſervants, that ſo they may be made happy in our ſervice.

19. ¶ [k] All the firſtling males that come of thy herd, and of thy flock, thou ſhalt ſanctify unto the LORD thy God: thou ſhalt do no work with the firſtling of the bullock, nor ſhear the firſtling of thy ſheep. 20. [l] Thou ſhalt eat it before the LORD thy God year by year, in the place which the LORD ſhall chooſe, thou and thy houſhold. 21. [m] And if there be any blemiſh therein, as if it be lame, or blind, or have any ill blemiſh, thou ſhalt not ſacrifice it unto the LORD thy God. 22. Thou ſhalt eat it within thy gates: [n] the unclean and the clean perſon ſhall eat it alike, as the roe-buck, and as the hart.
23. [o] Only thou ſhalt not eat the blood thereof: thou ſhalt pour it upon the ground as water.

[k] Exod. xiii. 2. & xxxiv. 19. Lev. xxvii. 26. Numb. iii. 13.

[l] Chap. xii. 7, 17. & xiv. 23. & xvi. 11, 14.

[m] Lev. xxii. 20. Chap. xvii. 1. Ecclus xxxv. 12.

[n] Chap. xii. 15.

[o] Ibid. 16, 23.

v. 19—22. The firſtlings were God's due, in return for his mercies in ſparing the firſt-born of man and beaſt in Egypt; if males, they were to be divided between the prieſt and the altar, Numb. xviii. 17. if females, they muſt be employed in no work, nor ſhorn, but offered up, as a ſacrifice of peace-offerings, and eaten before the Lord at the place which God ſhould chuſe; if blemiſhed, they muſt not be brought for an offering, but killed at home, and eaten alike by the unclean or the clean, only the blood muſt be carefully ſhed. We are now delivered from theſe burdenſome rites, and all ceremonial diſtinctions are ceaſed; but one obligation remains perpetual, that we ſhould offer up ourſelves, as firſt-fruits, to God and to the Lamb, to be living ſacrifices, employed in his work and devoted to his glory.

CHAP. XVI.

In this chapter we have, 1. A repetition of the laws concerning the three yearly feaſts; in particular, that of the paſſover, ver. 1—8. That of pentecoſt, ver. 9—12. That of tabernacles, ver. 13—15. And the general law concerning the people's attendance on them, ver. 16, 17. 2. The inſtitution of an inferior magiſtracy, and general rules of juſtice given to thoſe that were called into office, ver. 18—20. 3. A caveat againſt groves and images, ver. 21, 22.

1. OBſerve [a] the month of Abib, and keep the paſſover unto the LORD thy God: for [b] in the month of Abib the LORD thy God brought thee forth out of Egypt [c] by night. 2. Thou ſhalt therefore ſacrifice the paſſover unto the LORD thy God, of the flock and [d] the herd, in [e] the place which the LORD ſhall chooſe to place his name there. 3. [f] Thou ſhalt eat no leavened bread with it: ſeven days ſhalt thou eat unleavened bread therewith, even the bread of affliction: (for thou cameſt forth out of the land of Egypt in haſte) that thou mayeſt remember the day when thou cameſt forth out of the land of Egypt, all the days of thy life. 4. And [g] there ſhall be no leavened bread ſeen with thee in all thy coaſts ſeven days, [h] neither ſhall there any thing of the fleſh which thou ſacrificedſt the firſt day at even, remain all night until the morning. 5. Thou mayſt not † ſacrifice the paſſover within any of thy gates, which the LORD thy God giveth thee. 6. But at the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chooſe to place his name in, there thou ſhalt ſacrifice the paſſover [i] at even, at the going down of the ſun, at the ſeaſon that thou cameſt forth out of Egypt. 7. And thou ſhalt roaſt and eat it in the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chooſe:
and thou ſhalt turn in the morning, and go into thy tents. 8. Six days thou ſhalt eat unleavened bread, and on the ſeventh day ſhall be a ‡ ſolemn aſſembly to the LORD thy God: thou ſhalt do no work therein.

[a] Exod. ii. 2, &c.

[b] Exod. xiii. 4.

[c] Exod. xii. 29, 42.

[d] Numb. xxviii. 19.

[e] Chap. xii. 5.

Before Chriſt 1451.

[f] Exod. xii. 15, 19. & xxxiv. 18.

[g] Exod. xxxiv. 25.

[h] Exod. xii. 10.

† Or, kill.

[i] Exod. xii. 6.

‡ Heb. Reſtraint.

v. 1—8. God charges them here carefully to obſerve his ſolemnities, as nothing would ſerve more effectually to ſecure them in their allegiance to him. The firſt and chief of theſe is the paſſover, which hath been repeatedly mentioned before; it was kept in the month Abib, anſwering to part of our March and April, in memory of their deliverance from Egypt. The lamb appointed for the paſchal ſupper muſt be killed in the place the Lord ſhould chuſe. It was typical of that divine Lamb whoſe ſacrifice is the price of our eternal redemption. Seven days they did eat unleavened bread, in remembrance of their bondage, and the haſte with which they were thruſt out of Egypt. And this ſignal mercy they muſt not only once a year, but all their days, remember, as a conſtant motive to love and ſerve God. Note, A dying Jeſus, and our redemption by him, muſt be continually in our eye, and his love towards us every day freſh in our memory, and warm upon our hearts.

9. ¶ [k] Seven weeks ſhalt thou number unto thee: begin to number the ſeven weeks from ſuch time as thou beginneſt to put the ſickle to the corn. 10. And thou ſhalt keep the feaſt of weeks unto the LORD thy God, with † a tribute of a free-will offering of thine hand, which thou ſhalt give unto the LORD thy God, according as the LORD thy God hath bleſſed thee. 11. And thou ſhalt rejoice before the LORD thy God, thou, and thy ſon, and thy daughter, and thy man-ſervant, and thy maid-ſervant, and the Levite that is within thy gates, and the ſtranger, and the fatherleſs, and the widow, that are among you, in the place which the LORD thy God hath choſen to place his name there. 12. And thou ſhalt remember that thou waſt a bond-man in Egypt:
and thou ſhalt obſerve and do theſe ſtatutes.

[k] Exod. xxiii. 16. & xxxiv. 22. Lev. xxiii. 15. Numb. xxviii. 26.

† Or. Sufficiency.

v. 9—12. The feaſt of pentecoſt followed ſeven weeks after the offering of the firſt-fruits, which were always offered the morrow after the paſſover, when their harveſt began. In gratitude for which, now it was finiſhed, their free-will offerings were required, and theſe to be eaten with joy before the Lord; nor muſt they feaſt alone, their ſervants, the ſtranger, the fatherleſs and widow muſt be welcome to their board, and rejoice with them. Remembrance of their former indigence and hardſhips in Egypt, ſhould make them liberal and charitable. Note, A chriſtian's heart is generous, he will not eat his morſel alone.

13. ¶ [l] Thou ſhalt obſerve the feaſt of tabernacles ſeven days, after that thou haſt gathered in thy † corn and thy wine. 14. And [m] thou ſhalt rejoice in thy feaſt, thou, and thy ſon, and thy daughter, and thy man-ſervant, and thy maid-ſervant, and the Levite, the ſtranger, and the fatherleſs, and the widow, that are within thy gates. 15. Seven days ſhalt thou keep a ſolemn feaſt unto the LORD thy God, in the place which the LORD ſhall chooſe: becauſe the LORD thy God ſhall bleſs thee in all thy increaſe, and in all the works of thine hands, therefore thou ſhalt ſurely rejoice. 16. ¶ [n] Three times in a year ſhall all thy males appear before the LORD thy God, in the place which he ſhall chooſe: in the feaſt of unleavened bread, and in the feaſt of weeks, and in the feaſt of tabernacles: and [o] they ſhall not appear before the LORD empty. 17. Every man ſhall give ‡ as he is able, according to the bleſſing of the LORD thy God which he hath given thee.

[l] Exod. xxiii. 16. Lev. xxiii. 34. Numb. xxix. 12.

† Heb. floor and thy wine-preſs.

[m] Neh. viii. 9, &c.

[n] Exod xxiii. 14, 17. & xxxiv. 23.

[o] Exod. xxiii. 15. & xxxiv. 20. Ecclus xxxv. 4.

‡ Heb. According to the gift of his hand.

Before Chriſt
1451.

v. 13—17. The feaſt of tabernacles was the laſt holy ſolemnity, during which they dwelt in booths, in memory of their ſojourning in the wilderneſs; and with feaſting and holy joy commemorated God's mercies towards them. They were enjoined to invite, as before, the neceſſitous to partake with them, that none might be mourning for want in theſe days of rejoicing. Note, When we are happy ourſelves, we ſhould call our neighbours to rejoice with us, and ſeek to communicate that gladneſs of heart which we enjoy. On each of theſe three ſolemnities, all the males appeared before God, each with his free-will-offering, according to the bleſſing of God upon his labours. God expects a grateful acknowledgment, and be it little or much, it is alike accepted, according to our ſeveral abilities.

[p] Chap. i. 16. 1 Chron. xxiii. 4. & xxvi 29. 2 Chron. xix. 8.
[q] Exod. xxiii. 8. Lev. xix. 15. Prov. xvii. 8, 23. Eccleſ. vii. 7. Ecclus xx. 29.
† Or matters.
‡ Heb. Juſtice, juſtice.
[r] Exod. xxxiv. 13.
[s] Lev. xxvi. 1.
‖ Or ſtatue, or pillar.

18. ¶ [p] Judges and officers ſhalt thou make thee in all thy gates which the LORD thy God giveth thee throughout thy tribes: and they ſhall judge the people with juſt judgment. 19. Thou ſhalt not wreſt judgment, thou ſhalt not reſpect perſons, [q] neither take a gift: for a gift doth blind the eyes of the wiſe, and pervert the † words of the righteous. 20. ‡ That which is altogether juſt ſhalt thou follow, that thou mayſt live, and inherit the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee. 21. ¶ [r] Thou ſhalt not plant thee a grove of any trees near unto the altar of the LORD thy God, which thou ſhalt make thee. 22. [s] Neither ſhalt thou ſet thee up any ‖ image, which the LORD thy God hateth.

v. 18—22. 1. Magiſtrates are to be appointed in every city, that the people might have redreſs at hand under oppreſſion, and a ready deciſion of their controverſies. The charge given them is to obſerve impartial juſtice; they muſt be ſwayed by no influence, nor take any gift; but alike above the love of money, as the fear of man, judge righteous judgment. Note, Uprightneſs in the ſeat of juſtice, is among the greateſt bleſſings any land can enjoy. 2. All groves are forbidden near God's altar, and every image, as the object or medium of worſhip, which God abhors, idolatry being among the greateſt of crimes, and moſt to be dreaded in all its appearances. Let us beware then of the deluſions of the church of Rome, where this accurſed idol-worſhip is eſtabliſhed; and God not only diſhonoured by images, but adoration paid to pictures and ſtatues of pretended ſaints, yea, even to dead men's bones, and ſuch vile relicks.

CHAP. XVII.

The charge of this chapter is, (1.) Concerning the perfection of thoſe animals that were offered in ſacrifices, ver. 1. (2.) The puniſhment of thoſe that worſhipped idols, ver. 2—7. (3.) Concerning appeals from the inferior courts to the great Sanhedrim, ver. 8—13. (4.) Concerning the choice and duty of a king, ver. 14—20.

[a] Chap. xv. 21. Mal. i. 8.
† Or goat.
[b] Chap. xiii. 6.
[c] Ibid. iv. 19. Job xxxi. 26.
[d] Jer. vii. 22, 23.
[e] Lev. xiv. 14, 16. Joſh. vii. 25.
[f] Numb. xxxv. 30. Chap. xix. 15. Mat. xviii. 16. John viii. 17. 2 Cor. xiii. 1. 1 Tim. v. 19. Heb. x. 28.
[g] Chap. xiii. 9. Acts vii. 58.
[h] Chap. xiii. 5. & xix. 19.

1. THOU [a] ſhalt not ſacrifice unto the LORD thy God any bullock or † ſheep, wherein is blemiſh, or any evil-favouredneſs: for that is an abomination unto the LORD thy God. 2. ¶ [b] If there be found among you within any of thy gates which the LORD thy God giveth thee, man or woman that hath wrought wickedneſs in the ſight of the LORD thy God, in tranſgreſſing his covenant, 3. And hath gone and ſerved other gods and worſhipped them, either [c] the ſun, or moon, or any of the hoſt of heaven, [d] which I have not commanded: 4. And it be told thee, and thou haſt heard of it, and enquired diligently, and behold, it be true, and the thing certain, that ſuch abomination is wrought in Iſrael: 5. Then ſhalt thou bring forth that man or that woman (which have committed that wicked thing) unto thy gates even that man or that woman, and [e] ſhalt ſtone them with ſtones till they die. 6. [f] At the mouth of two witneſſes, or three witneſſes, ſhall he that is worthy of death, be put to death; but at the mouth of one witneſs he ſhall not be put to death. 7. [g] The hands of the witneſſes ſhall be firſt upon him to put him to death, and afterward the hands of all the people: [h] ſo thou ſhalt put the evil away from among you.

v. 1—7. Two laws are here enjoined. 1. That no ſacrifice muſt be offered to God, that is not perfectly ſound and without blemiſh. God requires and deſerves our beſt. 2. Concerning the detection and puniſhment of idolaters. Information muſt be lodged againſt them, the judges muſt cite them to appear; and if on the evidence of two or more witneſſes, the fact was proved, the offenders were to be inſtantly ſtoned to death, in the moſt public manner, in the gate of the city. Note, (1.) In matters of life and death, the cleareſt evidence is required: ſuſpicions, though ſtrong, are not to be admitted as a proof of guilt. 2. Executions cannot be too public and ſolemn, that others may ſee and tremble.

Before Chriſt
1451.

[i] 2 Chron. xix. 10. Hag. ii. 11. Mal. ii. 7.
[k] See Exod. xxi. 13, 20, 22, 28. & xxii. 2. Numb. xxxv. 11, 16, 19. Chap. xix. 4, 10.
[l] Chap. xii. 5. & xix. 17. Pſal. cxxii. 5.
[m] See Jer. xviii. 18.
[n] Chap. xix. 17.
[o] Num. xv. 30. Ezra x. 8. Hoſ. iv. 4.
† Heb. Not to hearken.
[p] Chap. xviii. 5, 7.
[q] Ibid. xiii. 11.

8. ¶ [i] If there ariſe a matter too hard for thee in judgment, [k] between blood and blood, between plea and plea, and between ſtroke and ſtroke, being matters of controverſy within thy gates: then ſhalt thou ariſe, and [l] get thee up into the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chooſe; 9. And [m] thou ſhalt come unto the prieſts the Levites, and [n] unto the judge that ſhall be in thoſe days, and enquire, and they ſhall ſhew thee the ſentence of judgment. 10. And thou ſhalt do according to the ſentence which they of that place (which the LORD ſhall chooſe) ſhall ſhew thee, and thou ſhalt obſerve to do according to all that they inform thee: 11. According to the ſentence of the law which they ſhall teach thee, and according to the judgment which they ſhall tell thee thou ſhalt do: thou ſhalt not decline from the ſentence which they ſhall ſhew thee, to the right hand nor to the left. 12. And [o] the man that will do preſumptuouſly, † and will not hearken unto the prieſt ([p] that ſtandeth to miniſter there before the LORD thy God) or unto the judge, even that man ſhall die: and thou ſhalt put away the evil from Iſrael. 13. [q] And all the people ſhall hear and fear, and do no more preſumptuouſly.

v. 8—13. Proviſion is here made for the deciſion of difficult cauſes, concerning which the inferior judges were in doubt, whether in caſes of blood, or in matters of right, or in actions of aſſault and battery, where either the circumſtances were embaraſſed, the evidence dubious, or the ſenſe of the law not clear to them; the matter was then carried before the ſuperior court, conſiſting of Prieſts and Levites, who were ſuppoſed to be thoroughly verſed in the divine law, and have here a promiſe made them, v. 9. of direction in ſuch circumſtances, and the ſentence of the preſident of that court was final, and to be executed punctually. For diſobedience to them, was accounted preſumptuous ſin againſt God, and puniſhed as a capital crime. Note, (1.) Paſſive obedience to lawful authority is our bounden duty, not only for fear of wrath, but for conſcience ſake. (2.) To rebel againſt the orders of government, is to commit treaſon againſt the Majeſty of heaven.

[r] 1 Sam. viii. 5.
[s] See 1 Sam. ix. 15. & x. 24. & xvi. 12. 1 Chron. xxii. 10.
[t] Jer. xxx. 21.
[u] 1 Kings iv. 26. & x. 26, 28.
[x] Iſa. xxxi. 1. Ezek. xvii. 15.
[y] Exod. xiii. 17. Num. xiv. 3, 4.
[z] Chap. xxviii. 68. Hoſ. xi. 5. See Jer. xlii. 15.
[a] See 1 Kings xi. 3, 4.
[b] 2 Kings xi. 12.
[c] Chap. xxxi. 9. See 2 Kings xxii. 8.
[d] Joſh. i. 8.

14. ¶ When thou art come unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, and ſhalt poſſeſs it, and ſhalt dwell therein, and ſhalt ſay, [r] I will ſet a king over me, like as all the nations that are about: 15. Thou ſhalt in any wiſe ſet him king over thee [s] whom the LORD thy God ſhall chooſe: [t] one from among thy brethren ſhalt thou ſet king over thee: thou mayſt not ſet a ſtranger over thee, which is not thy brother. 16. But he ſhall not multiply [u] horſes to himſelf, nor cauſe the people [x] to return to Egypt, to the end that he ſhould multiply horſes; foraſmuch [y] as the LORD hath ſaid unto you, [z] Ye ſhall henceforth return no more that way. 17. Neither ſhall he multiply wives to himſelf, [a] that his heart turn not away: neither ſhall he greatly multiply to himſelf ſilver and gold: 18. [b] And it ſhall be when he ſitteth upon the throne of his kingdom, that he ſhall write him a copy of this law in a book, out of [c] that which is before the prieſts the Levites. 19. And [d] it ſhall be with him, and he ſhall read therein all the days of his life: that he may learn to fear the LORD his God, to keep all the words of this law and theſe ſtatutes, to do them: 20. That his heart be not lifted up above his brethren, and that he turn not aſide from the commandment to the right hand or to the left; to the end that he may prolong his days in his kingdom: he and his children in the midſt of Iſrael.

v. 14—20. God, who foreſaw the deſire they would hereafter have to ſet a king over them, takes care to let them know what ſort of perſon they muſt elect, and what rules he muſt be under.

1. They are permitted to ſet a ſovereign over them, but God will have the direction of the choice of the perſon, who muſt be no foreigner, but one of their brethren; the type of that King Meſſiah, who ſhould be bone of our bone, and fleſh of our fleſh.

2. They who rule others, muſt remember how reſponſible they are to God, for the government of themſelves. Here are laws to be obſerved by their future king. 1. He muſt not multiply horſes, to put his truſt in his armies, or to tyrannize over his ſubjects by a military force, nor ſuffer the people to go to Egypt to buy horſes, leaſt, by ſuch communication, they ſhould return to their old idolatry. Note, Nothing corrupts our manners ſooner than bad company. He muſt not multiply wives, which would alike divert his heart from the ſervice of God and the care of government, to the indulgence of his luſts. The more power kings have to gratify their fleſhly appetites, the more careful they ſhould be to reſtrain them. Nor muſt he greatly increaſe his treaſures, leaſt his own heart be lifted up with pride, or his people oppreſſed with taxes. Note, A king muſt be the father of his people, his riches conſiſt in the riches of his ſubjects. 2. He muſt make God's word his rule of conduct; for which purpoſe, 1. He muſt with his own hand write a copy of the whole law, or this Book of Deuteronomy at leaſt, as the abſtract, and this immediately after his coming to the throne, that it might be deeply imprinted on his memory; and in the beginning of his reign, be a remembrance to him, that his happineſs and his people's depended on his conformity to this rule of duty; nor muſt any avocations or buſineſs in the ſettlement of his affairs, be pleaded for an omiſſion of this taſk impoſed on him. Note, (1.) It is a great aſſiſtance to the memory, to write down what hath affected us. (2.) The greateſt avocations of buſineſs will never be taken as an excuſe for neglect of God's word, and the work of religion. 2. He muſt not only write, but frequently reviſe what he had written, meditate thereupon, and make it the conſtant rule of his practice, that ſo he may learn to fear God, to be himſelf an example of obedience to others, and in his high eſtate kept humble before God. Learn hence, (1.) No day ſhould paſs without reading God's word. (2.) The true fear of God leads to faithful obedience to his commands. (3.) The higher our ſtation, the more exemplary need our converſation to be. (4.) No precept needs more frequent repetition, than to keep a lowly mind in a high ſtation. 3. Religion would be the ſecurity of his throne, his own days would be prolonged in proſperity, and his crown deſcend to his lateſt poſterity. Note, Even in this world, God will ſhew, that in keeping his commandments there is great reward.

CHAP. XVIII.

In this chapter, (1.) The revenues of the church are ſettled, and rules given concerning the Levites miniſtration and maintenance, ver. 1—8. (2.) Cautions againſt the idolatrous cuſtoms of the heathens, ver. 9—14. (3.) A promiſe is given them of the ſpirit of prophecy to continue among them, and to center at laſt in Chriſt the great prophet, ver. 15—18. Wrath threatned againſt thoſe that deſpiſe prophecy, ver. 19. or counterfeit it, ver. 20. and a rule given for the trial of it, ver. 21, 22.

1. THE prieſts and Levites, and all the tribe of Levi, [a] ſhall have no part or inheritance with Iſrael: [b] they ſhall eat the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and his inheritance. 2. Therefore ſhall they have no inheritance among their brethren: the LORD is their inheritance, as he hath ſaid unto them. 3. ¶ And this ſhall be the prieſt's due from the people, from them that offer a ſacrifice, whether it be ox or ſheep; and [c] they ſhall give unto the prieſt the ſhoulder, and the two cheeks, and the maw. 4. [d] The firſt-fruit alſo of thy corn, of thy wine, and of thy oil, and the firſt of the fleece of thy ſheep ſhalt thou give him. 5. For [e] the LORD thy God hath choſen him out of all thy tribes; [f] to ſtand to miniſter in the name of the LORD, him and his ſons for ever. 6. ¶ And if a Levite come from any of thy gates, out of all Iſrael, where he ſojourned, and come with all the deſire of his mind [g] unto the place which the LORD ſhall chooſe; 7. Then he ſhall miniſter in the name of the LORD his God, as all his brethren the Levites do, which ſtand before the LORD. 8. They ſhall have like portions to eat, beſide † that which cometh of the ſale of his patrimony.

[a] Num. xviii. 20. Chap. x. 9.
[b] 1 Cor. ix. 13.
[c] Lev. vii. 30—34.
[d] Exod. xxii. 29. Num. xviii. 12, 24.
[e] Exod. xxviii. 1. Num. iii. 10.
[f] Chap. x. 8. & xvii. 12.
[g] Chap. xii. 5.
† Heb. His ſales by the fathers.

v. 1—8. Proviſion is made for the ſupport of a godly miniſtry, 1. They were to have no inheritance among their brethren, nor any worldly care to draw them off from attendance to the duties of their function. God was to be their portion, and they who have his love in time, and the hope of his glory in eternity, need not wiſh a greater. Note, A worldly-minded prieſt is a ſcandal to his profeſſion, and a living lie. Not that they ſhould want a competency, though they were debarred from getting gain by agriculture or commerce. As ſervants at God's altar, they had a part of every ſacrifice for their maintenance, v. 3. and the firſt-fruits of the corn and wine, and the fleece of the ſheep were given them, that they might have both food and raiment ſufficient for them. Note, He that loves God's altar, will never grudge a liberal contribution to ſupport thoſe who are choſen of God to miniſter before him. Whom God honours, we muſt honour. 2. If a Levite, from a holy zeal for God's ſervice, deſired out of his courſe to go up and ſerve at the altar, he might, and ſhare the work and wages with his brethren there: for in ſettling a certain number always to miniſter, no excluſion was put on thoſe who voluntarily offered themſelves. His patrimony in the city of the Levites continued ſtill his own, and he might diſpoſe of it. Note, Beſides the generally eſtabliſhed ſervice, a zealous miniſter will delight to be employed for God, out of common ſeaſons, as well as in ſeaſon; and though his colder brethren may count this ſtep irregular, God will regard it as highly commendable.

9. ¶ When thou art come into the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, thou ſhalt not learn to do after the abominations of thoſe nations. 10. There ſhall not be found among you any one that maketh his ſon or his daughter [h] to paſs through the fire, [i] or that uſeth divination, or an obſerver of times, or an enchanter, or a witch, 11. [k] Or a charmer, or a conſulter with familiar ſpirits, or a wizard, or [l] a necromancer: 12. For all that do theſe things are an abomination unto the LORD: and becauſe of theſe abominations, the LORD thy God doth drive them out from before thee. 13. Thou ſhalt be † perfect with the LORD thy God. 14. For theſe nations which thou ſhalt ‡ poſſeſs, hearkned unto obſervers of times, and unto diviners: but as for thee the LORD thy God hath not ſuffered thee ſo to do.

[h] Lev. xviii. 21.
[i] Ibid. xix. 26, 31. & xx. 27. Iſa. viii. 19.
[k] Lev. xx. 27.
[l] 1 Sam. xxviii. 7.
† Or upright, or ſincere.
‡ Or inherit.

v. 9—14. One ſhould think they needed not ſuch repeated charges, to avoid abominations ſo groſs and abſurd. Yet what evil will not a corrupted heart be prone to? after-experience proved them far from needleſs. Moloch was the idol which repreſented the ſun, and to him the children were dedicated, by paſſing between two fires; ſometimes they were burnt in them: ſuch unnatural and impious rites, God's Iſrael muſt abhor. Nor muſt they uſe any divination, or enchantment, or conſult thoſe who pretended ſtrange knowledge of future events; all theſe are an abomination, as aſcribing that power and wiſdom to the devil, which alone belongs to God. We need not wonder, that ſuch deluſions ſhould be then in uſe, when even among ourſelves there ſtill remain ſome profane enough to pretend to powers of charms and fortune-telling, and many deluded enough to have faith in their predictions; a ſhocking proof of the dreadful blindneſs, which remains even in the midſt of goſpel-day. Such practices as theſe ruined the Canaanites; but they had been better taught; ſo much therefore would their guilt be increaſed, ſhould they give into them. God had kept them hitherto, and his grace would not be wanting, if they ſought him, and deſired to walk in holineſs before him. Note, If ever we are preſerved from the greateſt abominations, we owe it not to any good diſpoſitions in ourſelves, but to the preventing and reſtraining grace of God.

15. ¶ [m] The LORD thy God will raiſe up unto thee a Prophet from the midſt of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him ye ſhall hearken. 16. According to all that thou deſiredſt of the LORD thy God in Horeb, [n] in the day of the aſſembly, ſaying, [o] Let me not hear again the voice of the LORD my God; neither let me ſee this great fire any more, that I die not. 17. And the LORD ſaid unto me, [p] They have well ſpoken that which they have ſpoken. 18. [q] I will raiſe them up a prophet from among their brethren, like unto thee, and will [r] put my words in his mouth, [s] and he ſhall ſpeak unto them all that I ſhall command him. 19. And it ſhall come to paſs, that whoſoever will not hearken unto my words which he ſhall ſpeak in my name, I will require it of him. 20. But [t] the prophet which ſhall preſume to ſpeak a word in my name, which I have not commanded him to ſpeak, or that ſhall ſpeak in the name of other gods, [u] even that prophet ſhall die. 21. And if thou ſay in thine heart, How ſhall we know the word which the LORD hath not ſpoken? 22. [x] When a prophet ſpeaketh in the name of the LORD, [y] if the thing follow not, nor come to paſs, that is the thing which the LORD hath not ſpoken, but the prophet hath ſpoken it preſumptuouſly; thou ſhalt not be afraid of him.

[m] John i. 45. Acts iii. 22. & vii. 37.
[n] Chap. ix. 10.
[o] Exod. xx. 19. Hebr. xii. 19.
[p] Chap. v. 28.
[q] John i. 45. Acts iii. 22. & vii. 37.
[r] Iſa. li. 16.
[s] John iv. 25. & viii. 28. & xii. 49, 50.
[t] Chap. xiii. 5. Jer. xiv. 14. Zech. xiii. 3.
[u] Acts iii. 23.
[x] Jer. xxviii. 9.
[y] See Chap. xiii. 2.

v. 15—22. We have here one of the cleareſt prophecies of Chriſt which is to be found in the law, and which is ſtrongly pleaded by the Apoſtle, Acts iii. 22. and vii. 37.

1. God promiſes to raiſe up a Prophet, and ſuch was our Divine Lord, mighty in word and deed, ſprung from the ſtock of Iſrael; like Moſes, both as a redeemer and ruler, but greater, as his deliverance and rule are ſpiritual and eternal, commiſſioned of God for his office, whom all muſt hear, on pain of anſwering for their contempt to God. The voice from the cloud repeated the ſolemn warning, and wo to that ſoul that refuſes to hear his doctrine, and receive his goſpel, for there is ſalvation in no other.

2. This prophecy was given at Sinai, on the people's requeſt, that God would ſpeak to them by Moſes, and not in his own terrible Majeſty; and intimated a deſign of making a new and farther diſcovery of himſelf, and that in a different manner from what they there beheld. Accordingly God hath ſpoken to us in theſe laſt times, by his ſon become incarnate, that his terror might not make us afraid. Full of grace and truth he appeared; but they who rejected Moſes, crucified his Lord; and God to this hour is requiring their rejection of his ſalvation at their hands.

3. Falſe prophets muſt be puniſhed with death, on conviction before the Sanhedrim, and God lays down the marks whereby the cheat might be eaſily diſcovered. If the prophet ſpake contrary to God's revealed will, or tempted them to idols, this was ſufficient evidence of his impoſture: or if his prophecy, given in proof of his miſſion, came not to paſs, then they might be ſure he was a liar, and need not fear his denunciations, nor be backward to execute ſentence upon him. Note, (1.) Whatever is repugnant to the written word of God, we may be ſure comes from a lying ſpirit. (2.) Pretenders to prophecy, who would terrify God's people, deſerve the ſevereſt puniſhment.

CHAP. XIX.

This chapter relates, (1.) To the ſixth commandment, Thou ſhalt not kill, ver. 1—13. (2.) To the eighth commandment, Thou ſhalt not ſteal, ver. 14. (3.) To the ninth commandment, Thou ſhalt not bear falſe witneſs, ver. 15—21.

1. WHEN [a] the LORD thy God hath cut off the nations, whoſe land the LORD thy God giveth thee, and thou † ſucceedeſt them, and dwelleſt in their cities, and in their houſes; 2. [b] Thou ſhalt ſeparate three cities for thee in the midſt of thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee to poſſeſs it. 3. Thou ſhalt prepare thee a way, and divide the coaſts of thy land (which the LORD thy God giveth thee to inherit) into three parts, that every ſlayer may flee thither. 4. ¶ And [c] this is the caſe of the ſlayer which ſhall flee thither, that he may live: Whoſo killeth his neighbour ignorantly, whom he hated not ‡ in time paſt, 5. As when a man goeth into the wood with his neighbour, to hew wood, and his hand fetcheth a ſtroke with the ax to cut down the tree, and the ‖ head ſlippeth from the § helve, and † lighteth upon his neighbour, that he die; he ſhall flee unto one of thoſe cities, and live: 6. [d] Leſt the avenger of the blood purſue the ſlayer, while his heart is hot, and overtake him, becauſe the way is long, and ‡ ſlay him; whereas he was not worthy of death, inaſmuch as he hated him not ‖ in time paſt. 7. Wherefore I command thee, ſaying, Thou ſhalt ſeparate three cities for thee. 8. And if [e] the LORD thy God enlarge thy coaſt, (as he hath ſworn unto thy fathers) and give thee all the land which he promiſed to give unto thy fathers: 9. (If thou ſhalt keep all theſe commandments to do them, which I command thee this day, to love the LORD thy God, and to walk ever in his ways) [f] then ſhalt thou add three cities more for thee, beſide theſe three: 10. That innocent blood be not ſhed in thy land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and ſo blood be upon thee. 11. ¶ But [g] if any man hate his neighbour, and lie in wait for him, and riſe up againſt him, and ſmite him § mortally, that he die, and fleeth into one of theſe cities: 12. Then the elders of his city ſhall ſend, and fetch him thence, and deliver him into the hand of the avenger of blood, that he may die. 13. Thine eye ſhall not pity him, but [h] thou ſhalt put away the guilt of innocent blood from Iſrael, that it may go well with thee.

[a] Chap. xii. 29.
† Heb. Inheriteſt or poſſeſſeſt.
[b] Exod. xxi. 13. Num. xxxv. 10. Joſh. xx 2.
[c] Chap. iv. 42.
‡ Heb. From yeſterday and the third day.
‖ Heb. Iron.
§ Heb. Wood.
† Heb. Findeth.
[d] Numb. xxxv. 12.
‡ Heb. Smite him in life.
‖ See ver. 4.
[e] Gen. xv. 18. Chap. xii. 20.
[f] Joſh. xx. 7.
[g] Exod. xxi. 12. Num. xxxv. 16, 24. Chap. xxvii. 24.
§ Heb. In life.
[h] Num. xxxv. 33, 34.

v. 1—13. Effectual proviſion is here made for the preſervation of the perſon who ſhould be ſo unhappy as to kill another by accident, and alſo for the puniſhment of the murderer. 1. Three cities had been already provided on that ſide Jordan; three others are to be ſevered on the other ſide; and if they were obedient, their border ſhould be farther enlarged, and three cities more added for this gracious purpoſe. But of this their ſins deprived them. To theſe cities the manſlayer muſt flee; becauſe though the death was accidental, yet if overtaken on the road by the relations of the perſon, he might be ſlain. The road was kept ever clear of impediments, and poſts ſet up wherever two ways met, with Miklat, Refuge, written on them, pointing to the city, that the manſlayer might not err; and when once ſafe lodged there, no ſword of the purſuer might touch him. Note, (1.) Chriſt is this city; the ſinner fleeth to him, and is ſafe. (2.) Miniſters are theſe directories, to teach the way, and aſſiſt ſuch as deſire to flee from the wrath to come. (3.) The way is plain, and the city near, for every awakened ſoul that truly flies for refuge. If any ſinner periſhes, his blood is on his own head, becauſe he neglects ſo great a ſalvation. 2. The murderer muſt find no protection, though he fled to the city of refuge. If the murder were of deſign, and previous hatred was proved, he muſt be delivered up, and put to death, that innocent blood may not be upon the land. Note, (1.) All ſanctuaries for murder, ſuch as are common in the church of Rome, are as great an impiety againſt God, as deſtructive of ſound government in the land. (2.) The wilful ſinner has no covering; even Chriſt profits him nothing. Since he will not come to him that he might have life, he muſt ſuffer, what he provokes, the wages of eternal death.

14. ¶ [i] Thou ſhalt not remove thy neighbour's landmark, which they of old time have ſet in thine inheritance which thou ſhalt inherit, in the land that the LORD thy God giveth thee to poſſeſs it. 15. ¶ [k] One witneſs ſhall not riſe up againſt a man for any iniquity, or for any ſin, in any ſin that he ſinneth: at the mouth of two witneſſes, or at the mouth of three witneſſes ſhall the matter be eſtabliſhed. 16. ¶ If a falſe witneſs riſe up againſt any man, to teſtify againſt him † that which is wrong: 17. Then both the men between whom the controverſy is, ſhall ſtand before the LORD, [l] before the prieſts, and the judges which ſhall be in thoſe days. 18. And the judges ſhall make diligent inquiſition: and behold, if the witneſs be a falſe witneſs, and hath teſtified falſly againſt his brother: 19. [m] Then ſhall ye do unto him as he had thought to have done unto his brother: [n] ſo ſhalt thou put the evil away from among you. 20. And [o] thoſe which remain ſhall hear, and fear, and ſhall henceforth commit no more any ſuch evil among you. 21. And thine eye ſhall not pity, but [p] life ſhall go for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

[i] Chap. xxvii. 17. Prov. xxii. 28. Hoſ. v. 10.
[k] Num. xxxv. 30. Chap. xvii. 6. Mat. xviii. 16. John viii. 17. 2 Cor. xiii. 1. 1 Tim. v. 19. Hebr. x. 28.
† Or falling away.
[l] Chap. xvii. 9.
[m] Prov. xix. 5, 9. Dan. xiii. 62.
[n] Chap. xiii. 5 & xvii. 7. & xxi. 21. & xxii. 21, 24. & xxiv. 7.
[o] Chap. xxi. 21.
[p] Exod. xxi. 23. Lev. xxiv. 20. Mat. v. 38.

v. 14—21. Care being taken for men's lives, their properties are next ſecured. 1. A law is ordained for the preſerving each man in his poſſeſſion, according to the ancient boundaries allotted him. No incroachments muſt be made, nor land-marks deſtroyed, which might give occaſion for diſpute. Note, (1.) For the ſake of poſterity, we are bound to maintain our juſt rights, and ſhould keep them clearly aſcertained. (2.) All invaſion of our neighbours property is highly criminal, and no leſs ſo the concealing or deſtroying thoſe records or evidences which may expoſe him to ruinous law-ſuits, and render his juſt rights precarious. 2. In criminal caſes, two witneſſes or more were required, in order to conviction. In caſe of ſuſpicion of perjury, (as what will not revenge or covetouſneſs do!) the matter was brought before the Lord, and the great counſel of prieſts and judges made diligent inquiſition; and on proof of the fact, then they inflicted on the perjured perſon the ſame puniſhment, which, had his evidence been true, ſhould have been inflicted on his neighbour, whether of death, or ſtripes, or pecuniary mulct. A deciſion, than which nothing could be more juſt, nor better ſuited to deter all men from ſuch heinous wickedneſs. Note, God will in righteous judgment often overrule the wickedneſs of men, and hang them like Haman on the gallows they have erected for others.

CHAP. XX.

This chapter contains, 1. The encouragement of thoſe who went to war. 2. The diſmiſſion of thoſe whoſe buſineſs required their attendance, or whoſe fears diſqualified them. 3. The treaties they muſt make with the cities that were far off, ver. 10—15. 4. The deſtruction they muſt make of the people, into whoſe land they were going, ver. 16, 17, 18. 5. The care they muſt take in beſieging cities not to deſtroy the fruit-trees, ver. 19, 20.

1. WHEN thou goeſt out to battle againſt thine enemies, and [a] ſeeſt horſes and chariots, and a people more than thou, be not afraid of them: for the LORD thy God is with thee, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt. 2. And it ſhall be when ye are come nigh unto the battle, that the prieſt ſhall approach, and ſpeak unto the people, 3. And ſhall ſay unto them, Hear, O Iſrael, you approach this day unto battle againſt your enemies: let not your hearts † faint, fear not, and do not ‡ tremble, neither be ye terrified becauſe of them: 4. For the LORD your God is he that goeth with you, to fight for you againſt your enemies, to ſave you. 5. ¶ And the officers ſhall ſpeak unto the people, ſaying, What man is there that hath built a new houſe, [b] and hath not dedicated it? let him go and return to his houſe, leſt he die in the battle, and another man dedicate it. 6. And what man is he that hath planted a vineyard, and hath not yet eaten ‖ of it? let him alſo go and return unto his houſe, leſt he die in the battle, and another man eat of it. 7. [c] And what man is there that hath betrothed a wife, and hath not taken her? let him go and return unto his houſe, leſt he die in battle, and another man take her. 8. And the officers ſhall ſpeak further unto the people, and they ſhall ſay, [d] What man is there that is fearful and faint-hearted? let him go and return unto his houſe, leaſt his brethren's heart § faint as well as his heart. 9. And it ſhall be when the officers have made an end of ſpeaking unto the people, that they ſhall make captains of the armies † to lead the people.

[a] See Pſal. xxviii. 7. Iſa. xxxi. 1.

† Heb. Be tender.
‡ Heb. Make haſte.
[b] See Neh. xii. 27. Pſal. xxx. Title.
‖ Heb. Made it common. See Lev. xix. 23, 24. Chap. xxviii. 30.
[c] Chap. xxiv. 5.
[d] Judg. vii. 3.
§ See ver. 3.
† Heb. To be in the head of the people.

v. 1—9. Iſrael was now a martial hoſt, and long wars before them. The orders and regulations therefore to be obſerved by them in going to battle, are here laid down. 1. They are encouraged againſt all fears of the numbers, or ſtrength of their enemies, though they were horſemen or chariots, it mattered not, God was in the midſt of them: and as they had ſeen Pharaoh's chariots and horſemen overthrown, God would give them the ſame ſucceſs. The prieſt who went out with them to the war, appointed for this office, was particularly to encourage them, and inſpire their ſouls with heroic courage and confidence of victory, as acting under the promiſe and protection of the faithful and omnipotent God. Note, (1.) A godly chaplain is the moſt uſeful officer in an army. Thoſe ſoldiers will ever be braveſt, who fight on principle, and have overcome the fear of death upon their knees, before they meet it in the field. (2.) It is the buſineſs of every goſpel-miniſter to encourage the faithful to fight manfully under Chriſt's banners, aſſuring them, that thus they cannot fail of being more than conquerors. 2. Thoſe who were indiſpoſed for war, muſt be diſcharged, [1.] either if they had built a houſe, and not poſſeſſed it, or dedicated it with feaſting, as was uſual, or planted a vineyard, and not yet taſted of its fruit; or betrothed a wife, and not conſummated the marriage: it was ſuppoſed theſe worldly comforts left behind, would diſtract their mind from their buſineſs in war, and make them afraid to die: or God kindly choſe to diſpenſe with their ſervice, rather than deprive them of what it was ſuppoſed their hearts muſt be particularly fond of. Note, (1.) It is the nature of our worldly enjoyments, that they pleaſe us moſt at firſt. (2.) Thoſe who would ſerve God heartily, muſt ſerve God willingly: he will have no preſſed men, but only volunteers in his army. [2.] All cowards muſt be diſmiſſed, whether they were ſuch through natural timidity, or the cries of a guilty conſcience at the approach of danger: theſe would diſhearten their brethren, and nothing more pernicious in an army than a panic fear: they are unfit to fight, who are afraid to die. 3. When the army was thus purged, the captains of the hoſt are appointed; no faint-hearted ones muſt be among them. Note, Every Chriſtian muſt be a man of courage, but every miniſter needs diſtinguiſhed boldneſs and firmneſs in fighting the Lord's battles, and going before the people.

10. ¶ When thou comeſt nigh unto a city to fight againſt it, [e] then proclaim peace unto it. 11. And it ſhall be, if it make thee anſwer of peace, and open unto thee, then it ſhall be that all the people that is found therein, ſhall be tributaries unto thee, and they ſhall ſerve thee. 12. And if it will make no peace with thee, but will make war againſt thee, then thou ſhalt beſiege it. 13. And when the LORD thy God hath delivered it into thine hands, [f] thou ſhalt ſmite every male thereof with the edge of the ſword. 14. But the women, and the little ones, and [g] the cattle, and all that is in the city, even all the ſpoil thereof, ſhalt thou † take unto thyſelf: and thou ſhalt eat the ſpoil of thine enemies, which the LORD thy God hath given thee. 15. Thus ſhalt thou do unto all the cities which are very far off from thee, which are not of the cities of theſe nations. 16. But [h] of the cities of theſe people which the LORD thy God doth give thee for an inheritance, thou ſhalt ſave alive nothing that breatheth: 17. But thou ſhalt utterly deſtroy them, namely, the Hittites, and the Amorites, the Canaanites, and the Perizzites, the Hivites, and the Jebuſites, as the LORD thy God hath commanded thee: 18. That they teach you not to do after all their abominations, which they have done unto their gods, ſo ſhould ye ſin againſt the LORD your God. 19. ¶ When thou ſhalt beſiege a city a long time, in making war againſt it to take it, thou ſhalt not deſtroy the trees thereof by forcing an ax againſt them: for thou mayſt eat of them, and thou ſhalt not cut them down (‡ for the tree of the field is man's life) ‖ to employ them in the ſiege. 20. Only the trees which thou knoweſt that they be not trees for meat, thou ſhalt deſtroy and cut them down; and thou ſhalt build bulwarks againſt the city that maketh war with thee, until § it be ſubdued.

[e] 2 Sam. xx. 18.
[f] Num. xxxi. 7.
[g] Joſh. viii. 2.
† Heb. Spoil.
[h] Num. xxxiii. 52. Chap. vii. 1, 2.
‡ Or, for, O man, the tree of the field is to be employed in the ſiege.
‖ Heb. To go from before thee.
§ Heb. It come down.

v. 10—20. As they would be engaged in other wars, beſides thoſe with the ſeven devoted nations, 1. God commands them to give their enemies fair notice, and to offer peace before they declared war, on condition of their renunciation of idolatry, and paying tribute. Note, (1.) God deals thus with ſinners. The goſpel offers peace and reconciliation: if hereupon we accept the favour, and ſubmit ourſelves to God, all is well; if not, then juſtice unſheaths the ſword, and we are treated as determined enemies. (2.) In all our diſputes, recourſe ſhould never be had to violent methods, by law or war, till we have in vain tried every method of peaceable accommodation. 2. In caſe the terms were rejected, then the war proceeded; God engaged to ſupport them in their righteous quarrels, and give them victory; and all the men, at leaſt all found in arms, are to be put to death, while the reſt of the land and inhabitants are given them for ſpoil. Note, (1.) Thoſe who will not hear the calls of Divine mercy, muſt periſh under the rod of vengeance. (2.) God will bleſs thoſe who follow him. (3.) The ſpoil gotten in a juſt war, is lawful gain. 3. The ſeven devoted nations muſt have neither offers of peace, nor any quarter. They are to ſuffer for their ſins, and their utter extirpation is neceſſary, that Iſrael may not be enſnared by their idolatry. It is dangerous living among bad neighbours: we are more likely to learn their ill cuſtoms, than they of us to repent and forſake them. 4. In caſe of long ſieges, they are forbidden to uſe fruit-trees for their bulwarks, becauſe as they were ſure of taking the city, the loſs would after fall upon themſelves. Note, (1.) God in his prohibitions conſults our intereſt and happineſs. All his reſtraints are only, Do thyſelf no harm. (2.) Wilful waſte in war is not only a mark of a cruel and ſavage temper, and moſt inhuman to the poor people of the land, but in the iſſue a means to diſtreſs the conquerors.

CHAP. XXI.

In this chapter proviſion is made, 1. For the putting away of the guilt of blood from the land, when he that ſhed it was fled from juſtice, ver. 1—9. 2. For the preſerving of the honour of a captive maid, ver. 12—14. 3. For the ſecuring of the right of a firſt-born ſon, ver. 15—17. 4. For the reſtraining and puniſhing of a rebellious ſon, ver. 18—21. 5. For the burial of the worſt malefactors, ver. 22, 23.

1. IF one be found ſlain in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee to poſſeſs it, lying in the field, and it be not known who hath ſlain him: 2. Then thy elders and thy judges ſhall come forth, and they ſhall meaſure unto the cities which are round about him that is ſlain: 3. And it ſhall be that the city which is next unto the ſlain man, even the elders of that city ſhall take an heifer which hath not been wrought with, and which hath not drawn in the yoke. 4. And the elders of that city ſhall bring down the heifer unto a rough valley which is neither eared nor ſown, and ſhall ſtrike off the heifer's neck there in the valley. 5. And the prieſts the ſons of Levi ſhall come near (for [a] them the LORD thy God hath choſen to miniſter unto him, and to bleſs in the name of the LORD) and [b] by their † word ſhall every controverſy and every ſtroke be tried. 6. And all the elders of that city that are next unto the ſlain man, [c] ſhall waſh their hands over the heifer that is beheaded in the valley. 7. And they ſhall anſwer and ſay, Our hands have [a] Chap. x. 8. 1 Chron. xxiii. 13. Ecclus xlv. 15.

[b] Chap. xvii. 8, 9.
† Heb. Mouth.
[c] See Pſal. xix. 12. Mat. xxvii. 24.

have not ſhed this blood, neither have our eyes ſeen it. 8. Be merciful, O LORD, unto thy people Iſrael, whom thou haſt redeemed, and [d] lay not innocent blood † unto thy people of Iſrael's charge. And the blood ſhall be forgiven them. 9. So ſhalt thou put away the guilt of innocent blood from among you, when thou ſhalt do that which is right in the ſight of the LORD.

d Jon. i. 14.
† Heb. In the midſt.

v. 1—9. We have here the expiation for an unknown murder, where no diſcovery can be obtained of the perſon who committed the fact. The elders of the neareſt city muſt aſſemble, and bring with them a bullock that had never born the yoke, and in a barren valley ſtrike off his head, in preſence of a deputation of prieſts from the great council, making ſolemn profeſſion of their own innocence, and entire ignorance of the criminal; whereupon they waſh their hands over the heifer, as clear of this innocent blood, and pray that God would be merciful to the land, and avert from it the judgments ſuch offences provoked; all which could not but ſerve to impreſs the people with a dread of the guilt of blood, and contribute to the detection of the criminal, whom none, it were hoped, would dare conceal. Note, (1.) Though the greateſt crimes may ſometimes eſcape puniſhment, the day is near when there is no darkneſs where any worker of iniquity can hide himſelf. (2.) Our prayers to avert national judgments, are the greateſt ſervice we can do our country. However deſpiſed God's praying people may be, it is for their ſakes, and at their inſtance that God ſpares the land.

10. ¶ When thou goeſt forth to war againſt thine enemies, and the LORD thy God hath delivered them into thine hands, and thou haſt taken them captive, 11. And ſeeſt among the captives a beautiful woman, and haſt a deſire unto her, that thou wouldſt have her to thy wife: 12. Then thou ſhalt bring her home to thine houſe, and ſhe ſhall ſhave her head, and † pare her nails. 13. And ſhe ſhall put the raiment of her captivity from off her, and ſhall remain in thine houſe, and [e] bewail her father and her mother a full month: and after that, thou ſhalt go in unto her, and be her huſband, and ſhe ſhall be thy wife. 14. And it ſhall be if thou have no delight in her, then thou ſhalt let her go whither ſhe will, but thou ſhalt not ſell her at all for money, thou ſhalt not make merchandiſe of her, [f] becauſe thou haſt humbled her.

† Heb. Make or dreſs, i. e. ſay ſome, ſuffer to grow.
e See Pſal. xlx. 10.
f Judg. xix. 24.

v. 10—14. The granting this liberty ſeems rather a permiſſion than a command, becauſe of the hardneſs of their hearts. They are abſolutely forbid all connection with the devoted Canaanites; but in their other wars, if a man took a captive, and was pleaſed with her beauty, he muſt not gratify his lawleſs luſt, but might make her his lawful wife; yet not till after ſome time, when his thoughts might be more recollected, and the woman had, during a month, gone through the proceſs here enjoined, of ſhaving her head, and paring her nails, which might be ordained, 1. As a means to wean the man from his inordinate regard to her, in this disfigured dreſs; Or, 2. As an inſtance of her renunciation of her former idolatry, and as a luſtration on her becoming a proſelyte; Or, 3. As a token of mourning for her friends, from whom ſhe was ſeparated, as if they had been dead. Note, (1.) Sudden paſſions muſt be reſtrained, till grace is given for reflection. (2.) What we love inordinately, we ſhould ſeek to wean our affections from. (3.) Before we take a partner for life, it is of infinite moment that we agree in religion. (4.) We are bound to ſhow indulgence to the ſorrows which flow from natural affection. If upon ſecond thoughts before marriage, he ſaw the matter in a different light, or after marriage diſliked her, then ſhe muſt have her liberty, and muſt not be ſold as a bond-woman; this would be a compenſation for the diſappointment ſhe received, or the injury ſuſtained. Note, (1.) We cannot be too careful what engagements we form, leaſt our honour and conſcience ſhould afterwards be wounded by our raſhneſs. (2.) They are entitled to every poſſible ſatisfaction who, though found as unfit for our choice on reflection as this captive, have reaſon to upbraid us for their diſappointment.

15. ¶ If a man have two wives, one beloved and [g] another hated, and they have born him children, both the beloved and the hated; and if the firſt-born ſon be hers that was hated: 16. Then it ſhall be, [h] when he maketh his ſons to inherit that which he hath, that he may not make the ſon of the beloved, firſt-born, before the ſon of the hated, which is indeed the firſt-born: 17. But he ſhall acknowledge the ſon of the hated for the firſt-born, [i] by giving him a double portion of all † that he hath: for [k] he is the beginning of his ſtrength, the right of the firſt-born is his.

g Gen. xxix. 33.
h 2 Chron. xi. 19, 22.
i See 1 Chron. v. 1.
† Heb. That is found with him.
k Gen. xlix. 3.

v. 15—17. The ſtepping aſide from the ſtrait path in one inſtance, uſually endangers us to go on increaſing the evil. Thus the man who to gratify his luſts, took two wives, was in danger of ſhewing ſinful and unjuſt partiality to the children, according to his love to the mother. God therefore provides, that the eldeſt, though the ſon of the beſt beloved, or perhaps diſliked, ſhall have his double portion of the inheritance. Note, Though the diſtinctions God makes by his grace, may render one child really more amiable to us than another, we are not therefore to invert the order of nature, in the diſtribution of our eſtates, but correſpond with the will of providence, and let the eldeſt poſſeſs the double portion.

18. ¶ If a man have a ſtubborn and rebellious ſon, which will not obey the voice of his father, or the voice of his mother, and that when they have chaſtned him, will not hearken unto them: 19. Then ſhall his father and his mother lay hold on him, and bring him out unto the elders of his city, and unto the gate of his place: 20. And they ſhall ſay unto the elders of his city, This our ſon is ſtubborn and rebellious, he will not obey our voice; he is a glutton, and a drunkard. 21. And all the men of his city ſhall ſtone him with ſtones, that he die; [l] ſo ſhalt thou put evil away from among you, and all Iſrael ſhall hear and fear. 22. ¶ And if a man have committed a ſin worthy of death, and he be to be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree: 23. [m] His body ſhall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou ſhalt in any wiſe bury him that day (for [n] he that is hanged, is † accurſed of God) that thy land be not defiled, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

l Chap. xiii. 5. & xix. 19, 20. & xxii. 21, 24.
m Joſh. viii. 29. & x. 26
n Gal. iii. 13.
† Heb. The curſe of God.
See Num. xxv. 4. Joſh. x. 26. 2 Sam. xxi. 6.

v. 18—23. God had provided before againſt the partiality of parents. Though the ſon was unaimiable in his temper, or weak in his capacity, he muſt not fare the worſe: but here, 1. Their authority is to be maintained againſt the undutiful and diſobedient. In this caſe, if he ſlighted their advice, deſpiſed their authority, and ſquandered their ſubſtance in riotous living, in gluttony and drunkenneſs, then, on complaint from his parents, he was convicted and ſtoned to death: an aweful warning to rebellious children, and a powerful means of ſupporting parental authority, and ſuppreſſing in families the ſpirit of diſobedience. Note, (1.) No heavier grief can lie upon a parent than to behold a debauched and abandoned ſon. (2.) Drunkenneſs is the door that leads to every abomination. (3.) They who give themſelves up to their luſts, juſtly forfeit the love of their deareſt relations, and will find them in the day of judgment their accuſers. (4.) The undutiful ſon that will not amend under reproof, however now no longer ſubject to this judgment, will find a heavier in ſtore for him in the day of God. 2. God commands the bodies of malefactors who had been put to death, and hung up for the terror of others, not to be left on the tree after ſun-ſet. This puniſhment conveyed the ſtrongeſt tokens of the wrath and curſe of God againſt them: but that the land may not be defiled by a dead body, it is to be laid in the grave before night. Thus when Jeſus ſuffered the wrath of God, his corpſe was laid in the grave before evening; and as the land was by the malefactor's death and burial delivered from defilement, ſo Chriſt has buried all our ſins in his grave, and purified his church from every ſpot of iniquity.

CHAP. XXII.

The laws of this chapter do provide, 1. For the care of ſtray or fallen cattle, ver. 1—4. 2. That men and women ſhould not wear one another's clothes, ver. 5. and that other needleſs mixtures ſhould be avoided, ver. 9—11. 3. For the preſervation of birds, ver. 6, 7. 4. Of life, ver. 8. 5. Of the commandments, ver. 12. 6. Of the reputation of a wife abuſed, if ſhe were innocent, ver. 13—19. her puniſhment if guilty, ver. 20—21. 7. For the preſervation of the chaſtity of wives, ver. 22. Virgins betrothed, ver. 23—27. or not betrothed, ver. 28, 29. And laſtly againſt inceſt, ver. 30.

1. [a] THOU ſhalt not ſee thy brother's ox or his ſheep go aſtray, and hide thyſelf from them: thou ſhalt in any caſe bring them again unto thy brother. 2. And if thy brother be not nigh unto thee, or if thou know him not, then thou ſhalt bring it unto thine own houſe, and it ſhall be with thee until thy brother ſeek after it, and thou ſhalt reſtore it to him again. 3. In like manner ſhalt thou do with his aſs, and ſo ſhalt thou do with his raiment, and with all loſt things of thy bro-

a Exod. xxiii. 4.

ther's, which he hath loſt and thou haſt found, ſhalt thou do likewiſe; thou mayſt not hide thyſelf. 4. ¶ [b] Thou ſhalt not ſee thy brother's aſs or his ox fall down by the way, and hide thyſelf from them: thou ſhalt ſurely help him to lift them up again.

[b] Exod. xxiii. 5.

v. 1—4. Natural equity dictates theſe inſtances of brotherly kindneſs. Whatever was ſtrayed or loſt, of cattle or goods, were to be ſecured for the owner, and diligent enquiry made for him, whether he were an Iſraelite or a ſtranger. And the ſame regard muſt be ſhewn to his aſs or ox, if fallen under his burden, to lift him up, and to help him on his way. God would herein teach us, 1. To be ready for every friendly office to our neighbour. 2. To be ſtrictly honeſt and upright, in retaining nothing of his that came however ſecretly into our poſſeſſion. 3. If ſuch care is enjoined toward a loſt ſheep, how much more need it be ſhewn toward a loſt ſoul.

5. ¶ The woman ſhall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither ſhall a man put on a woman's garment; for all that do ſo are abomination unto the LORD thy God. 6. ¶ If a bird's neſt chance to be before thee in the way in any tree, or on the ground, whether they be young ones, or eggs, and the dam ſitting upon the young, or upon the eggs, thou ſhalt not take the dam with the young. 7. But thou ſhalt in any wiſe let the dam go, and take the young to thee, that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayſt prolong thy days. 8. ¶ When thou buildeſt a new houſe, then thou ſhalt make a battlement for thy roof, that thou bring not blood upon thine houſe, if any man fall from thence. 9. ¶ [c] Thou ſhalt not ſow thy vineyard with divers ſeeds: leſt the † fruit of thy ſeed which thou haſt ſown, and the fruit of thy vineyard be defiled. 10. ¶ [d] Thou ſhalt not plow with an ox and an aſs together. 11. ¶ [e] Thou ſhalt not wear a garment of divers ſorts, as of woollen and linen together. 12. ¶ Thou ſhalt make thee [f] fringes upon the four † quarters of thy veſture, wherewith thou covereſt thyſelf.

[c] Lev. xix. 19.
† Heb. Fulneſs of thy ſeed.
[d] See 2 Cor. vi. 14, 15, 16.
[e] Lev. xix. 19.
[f] Numb. xv. 38. Mat. xxiii. 5.
† Heb. Wings.

v. 5—12. Sundry laws are here enjoined. 1. To maintain diſtinction of ſex in the apparel. Probably to prevent the idolatrous cuſtoms of the Gentiles among them; or to preſerve them from the impurities for which ſuch confuſion of dreſs would give opportunity, and either of theſe would render them abominable to God. Note, It ſhould be our care, even in our cloaths, to pleaſe God. Indecency in our dreſs, however faſhionable, is not the leſs ſinful. 2. The dam muſt not be taken in her neſt, with her eggs or her young ones. It was for their advantage ſhe ſhould be left to breed again; and there would have been ſome cruelty in taking occaſion from her parental tenderneſs to ſeize or deſtroy her. God will have us avoid every appearance of inhumanity, would teach us his own providential care of the leaſt of his creatures; and by the promiſe he adds to the commandment, ſhews, that in keeping the leaſt of them, there is great reward. As there is no ſin ſo little as to be overlooked, there is no obedience ſo minute, as to be unneceſſary or unnoticed. 3. Their houſes muſt have a battlement round them, that as the roof was flat, and they often went up thither, they might be in no danger of falling from the top. God is careful of our lives, and will have us to remove every thing which might endanger them. 4. Mixtures of ſeed in their fields are forbidden; ploughing with different kinds of cattle, and wearing cloaths of woollen and linen wove together. Thus muſt we abſtain from being unequally yoked; our profeſſions of religion muſt be uniform, and we muſt allow no mixture of any thing defiling in our converſation. 5. Their fringes are again enjoined. They were a peculiar people, and they muſt not be aſhamed to appear ſo, but carry the badge of their religion always about them. We muſt ſeek to walk ſo that all who ſee us, may take knowledge of us, that we belong to Jeſus.

13. ¶ If any man take a wife, and go in unto her, and hate her, 14. And give occaſion of ſpeech againſt her, and bring up an evil name upon her, and ſay, I took this woman, and when I came to her, I found her not a maid: 15. Then ſhall the father of the damſel, and her mother, take and bring forth the tokens of the damſel's virginity, unto the elders of the city in the gate. 16. And the damſel's father ſhall ſay unto the elders, I gave my daughter unto this man to wife, and he hateth her, 17. And lo, he hath given occaſions of ſpeech againſt her, ſaying, I found not thy daughter a maid: and yet theſe are the tokens of my daughter's virginity: and they ſhall ſpread the cloth before the elders of the city. 18. And the elders of that city ſhall take that man and chaſtiſe him. 19. And they ſhall amerce him in an hundred ſhekels of ſilver, and give them unto the father of the damſel, becauſe he hath brought up an evil name upon a virgin of Iſrael: and ſhe ſhall be his wife, he may not put her away all his days. 20. But if this thing be true, and the tokens of virginity be not found for the damſel: 21. Then they ſhall bring out the damſel to the door of her father's houſe, and the men of her city ſhall ſtone her with ſtones that ſhe die: becauſe ſhe hath wrought folly in Iſrael, to play the whore in her father's houſe; [g] ſo ſhalt thou put evil away from among you.

[g] Chap. xiii. 5.

v. 13—21. To preſerve the reputation and chaſtity of the daughters of Iſrael, we have here the vindication of the virgin, whom after marriage her huſband diſliked, and would be rid of, on pretence ſhe was before defiled. The tokens of virginity which were preſerved from the marriage-bed, on his complaint, were produced before the judges, by the father and mother of the damſel, and he was condemned to make ſatisfaction for the ſlander, by ſuffering corporal puniſhment, beſides a fine, and obligation never to divorce her. But if the fact was proved, that ſhe was really defiled after being betrothed, ſhe was brought to the door of her father's houſe, and ſtoned to death, to make his diſgrace great as her ſufferings. Note, (1.) Chaſtity is a precious jewel that muſt be kept with jealous care, and parents are called to eſpecial watchfulneſs, that neither by their own examples, nor by permitting their children to keep bad company, they may lead them into ſo criminal a conduct. (2.) Chaſtity is a tender plant, and can leaſt of any thing bear the blaſts of malevolence; we ſhould be very jealous how we entertain, and ſtill more cautious how we ſpread a ſuſpicion to our neighbour's prejudice, the conſequences of which are irreparable. (3.) The loſs of chaſtity is juſtly reckoned in women, infamous, nor is it leſs ſinful in men: but though it may now be ſo ſecretly concealed, that no ſuſpicion wounds, the folly and ſhame of fornication will ſhortly be manifeſt to all, when whoremongers and adulterers God will judge, and worſe than this ignominious death be the ſentence.

22. ¶ [h] If a man be found lying with a woman married to an huſband, then they ſhall both of them die, both the man that lay with the woman, and the woman: ſo ſhalt thou put away evil from Iſrael. 23. ¶ If a damſel that is a virgin be betrothed unto an huſband, and a man find her in the city, and lie with her: 24. Then ye ſhall bring them both out unto the gate of that city, and ye ſhall ſtone them with ſtones that they die; the damſel, becauſe ſhe cried not, being in the city: and the man, [i] becauſe he hath humbled his neighbour's wife: [k] ſo thou ſhalt put away evil from among you. 25. ¶ But if a man find a betrothed damſel in the field, and the man † force her and lie with her: then the man only that lay with her ſhall die. 26. But unto the damſel thou ſhalt do nothing, there is in the damſel no ſin worthy of death: for as when a man riſeth againſt his neighbour, and ſlayeth him, even ſo is this matter. 27. For he found her in the field, and the betrothed damſel cried, and there was none to ſave her. 28. ¶ [l] If a man find a damſel that is a virgin, which is not betrothed, and lay hold on her, and lie with her, and they be found: 29. Then the man that lay with her, ſhall give unto the damſel's father fifty ſhekels of ſilver, and ſhe ſhall be his wife, becauſe he hath humbled her, he may not put her away all his days. 30. ¶ [m] A man ſhall not take his father's wife, [n] nor diſcover his father's ſkirt.

[h] Lev. xx, 10. John viii. 5.
[i] Chap. xxi. 14.
[k] Ver. 21, 22.
† Heb. Take ſtrong hold of her.
[l] Exod. xxii, 16.
[m] Lev. xviii. 8. & xx. 11. 1 Cor. v. 1.
[n] See Ruth iii. 9. Ezek. xvi. 8.

v. 22—30. 1. To lie with a married woman, or one betrothed, was death to both the offenders, if this was done in the city, becauſe it was preſumed aſſiſtance might be had, if they cried out and reſiſted: but if in a lonely place violence was offered to a damſel, in ſpite of cries and reſiſtance, then only the raviſher muſt die. Note, (1.) They who uſe not the proper means to be delivered from temptation, are juſtly charged with wilful ſin. (2.) It were highly deſireable that adultery were ſtill puniſhed with death, as many crimes are, though unſpeakably inferior in guilt. (3.) That is not our ſin which is done by force, not choice. (4.) It is but juſt that rape ſhould be a capital crime, ſince to be robbed of chaſtity, is next to being robbed of life. (5.) In every temptation we muſt cry to Jeſus, and then we ſhall be delivered from the power of evil. 2. Seduction of an unmarried woman was puniſhed with a fine to the father, and with an obligation to marry the woman, without power to divorce her. He who robs a woman of her honour, can never make her reparation but by taking her for his wife. 3. Inceſt is forbidden; the groſſeſt inſtance with a father's wife is only mentioned here, but every degree of it is abominable. Note, If once we give the reins to our luſts, we know not whither they may hurry us. If we would keep from deeds ſhocking to humanity, we muſt reſiſt the firſt cravings of concupiſcence.

Before Chriſt 1451.

CHAP. XXIII.

We have in this chapter, 1. The excluſion of certain perſons from the congregation, ver. 1—8. 2. The removal of all uncleanneſs out of the camp, ver. 9—14. 3. The receiving fugitive ſervants, ver. 15, 16. 4. Whoredom forbidden, ver. 17, 18. 5. Uſury, ver. 19, 20. 6. The breach of vows, ver 21—23. 7. What liberty a man might take in his neighbour's field and vineyard, and what not, ver. 24, 25.

1. HE that is wounded in the ſtones, or hath his privy member cut off, ſhall not enter into the congregation of the LORD. 2. A baſtard ſhall not enter into the congregation of the LORD: even to his tenth generation ſhall he not enter into the congregation of the LORD. 3. [a] An Ammonite or Moabite ſhall not enter into the congregation of the LORD; even to their tenth generation ſhall they not enter into the congregation of the LORD for ever: 4. [b] Becauſe they met you not with bread and with water in the way, when ye came forth out of Egypt: and [c] becauſe they hired againſt thee Balaam the ſon of Beor of Pethor of Meſopotamia, to curſe thee. 5. Neverthleſs the LORD thy God would not hearken unto Balaam: but the LORD thy God turned the curſe into a bleſſing unto thee, becauſe the LORD thy God loved thee. 6. [d] Thou ſhalt not ſeek their peace, nor their † proſperity all thy days for ever. 7. ¶ Thou ſhalt not abhor an Edomite, for he is thy brother: Thou ſhalt not abhor an Egyptian, becauſe thou waſt a ſtranger in his land. 8. The children that are begotten of them, ſhall enter into the congregation of the LORD in their third generation.

[a] Neh. xiii. 1.

[b] See Chap. ii. 29.

[c] Num. xxii. 5, 6.

[d] Ezra ix. 12.

† Heb. Good.

v. 1—8. Excluſion from the congregation of the Lord means not a rejection from all communion in religious ſervices, for every proſelyte was welcome; but from all power and authority as officers or magiſtrates, and from free intercourſe of marriage. Baſtards, all who were the offspring of inceſtuous beds, and Eunuchs, were for ever excluded. God will put a brand of diſgrace upon ſuch. Moabites and Ammonites are under the ſame ſentence, and the reaſon given is, becauſe of their unkindneſs to the people of Iſrael, in refuſing them proviſions by the way, and their viler attempt to procure them a curſe from Balaam, which God however over-ruled for a bleſſing. Thoſe who would injure God's Iſrael, he will repay; their deſigns ſhall not only be abortive, but the evil return upon their own heads. The Edomites, though they had behaved unkind, muſt not be abhorred, nor the Egyptians, notwithſtanding their hard ſervitude to them; but the proſelytes of theſe nations after the third generation, are to be admitted to the privileges of true Iſraelites; and the reaſon given is, becauſe of the near kindred of the one, and the kindneſs they had at firſt experienced from the other. Note, (1.) Near relations, though they may have treated us unnaturally, muſt be regarded by us with affection ſtill. (2.) The unkindneſs we may have received, muſt not cancel our grateful acknowledgment for former favours, we muſt forget the one, and remember the other.

9. ¶ When the hoſt goeth forth againſt thine enemies, then keep thee from every wicked thing. 10. ¶ [e] If there be among you any man that is not clean, by reaſon of uncleanneſs that chanceth him by night, then ſhall he go abroad out of the camp, he ſhall not come within the camp. 11. But it ſhall be when evening † cometh on, [f] he ſhall waſh himſelf with water: and when the ſun is down, he ſhall come into the camp again. 12. ¶ Thou ſhalt have a place alſo without the camp, whither thou ſhalt go forth abroad. 13. And thou ſhalt have a paddle upon thy weapon: and it ſhall be when thou ‡ wilt eaſe thy ſelf abroad, thou ſhalt dig therewith, and ſhalt turn back and cover that which cometh from thee. 14. For the LORD thy God walketh in the midſt of thy camp, to deliver thee, and to give up thine enemies before thee: therefore ſhall thy camp be holy, that he ſee no ‖ unclean thing in thee, and turn away from thee.

[e] Lev. xv. 16.

† Heb. Turneth towards.

[f] Lev. xv. 5.

‡ Heb. Sitteſt down.

‖ Heb. Nakedneſs of any thing.

v. 9—14. A charge is here given to keep their hoſts pure from ceremonial, natural, and much more from moral defilement. Sin muſt be abſtained from of every kind. Soldiers who have death ever before them, have eſpecial calls to keep from evil, as it cannot but tend to make them cowards in battle, and bring down alſo God's diſpleaſure upon the hoſt. In the midſt of ſpoil and captives, they muſt abſtain from cruelty, luſt and rapaciouſneſs. If ceremonial uncleanneſs happened to them, they muſt be ſeparated from the camp, as unfit to dwell among the hoſts where God's preſence appeared; and every thing indecent, or uncleanly, muſt be carefully avoided, that this conſtant care to obſerve neatneſs in their perſons, and cleanneſs from ceremonial pollutions, might teach them how much more neceſſary it was to preſerve their ſouls from the defilement of ſin. Note, (1.) They who provoke God by their ſins, can with little reaſon expect a bleſſing on their arms. (2.) Cleanlineſs is next to godlineſs: a ſlut or a ſloven is ever a ſlothful perſon, and neglect of decency and neatneſs, is not only want of ſenſe, but want of grace. (3.) The cleanlineſs of a camp is moſt conducive to the health of the army. (4.) We ſhould be aſhamed to do an indecent thing to offend one another, how much more to do a wicked thing to offend God.

15. ¶ [g] Thou ſhalt not deliver unto his maſter, the ſervant which is eſcaped from his maſter unto thee. 16. He ſhall dwell with thee, even among you in [h] that place which he ſhall chooſe, in one of thy gates where † it liketh him beſt: thou ſhalt not oppreſs him. 17. ¶ There ſhall be no ‖ whore [i] of the daughters of Iſrael, nor a ſodomite of the ſons of Iſrael. 18. Thou ſhalt not bring the hire of a whore, or the price of a dog into the houſe of the LORD thy God for any vow: for even both theſe are abomination unto the LORD thy God. 19. ¶ [k] Thou ſhalt not lend upon uſury to thy brother; uſury of money, uſury of victuals, uſury of any thing that is lent upon uſury. 20. [l] Unto a ſtranger thou mayſt lend upon uſury, but unto thy brother thou ſhalt not lend upon uſury; that the LORD thy God may bleſs thee in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand to, in the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it. 21. ¶ [m] When thou ſhalt vow a vow unto the LORD thy God, thou ſhalt not ſlack to pay it: for the LORD thy God will ſurely require it of thee; and it would be ſin in thee. 22. But if thou ſhalt forbear to vow, it ſhall be no ſin in thee. 23. That which is gone out of thy lips, thou ſhalt keep and perform; even a free-will offering, according as thou haſt vowed unto the LORD thy God, which thou haſt promiſed with thy mouth. 24. When thou comeſt into thy neighbour's vineyard, then thou mayſt eat grapes thy fill, at thine own pleaſure; but thou ſhalt not put any in thy veſſel. 25. When thou comeſt into the ſtanding-corn of thy neighbours, then [n] thou mayſt pluck the ears with thine hand: but thou ſhalt not move a ſickle unto thy neighbours ſtanding-corn.

Before Chriſt 1451.

[g] 1 Sam. xxx. 15.

[h] Chap. xii. 5.

† Heb. Is good for him.

‖ Or ſodomiteſs.

[i] Lev. xix. 20. See Prov. ii. 16.

[k] Ex. xxii. 25. Lev. xxv. 36. Neh. v. 2, 7. Pſal. xv. 5. Luke vi. 34, 35.

[l] See Lev. xix. 34. Chap. xv. 3.

[m] Num. xxx. 2. Eccles v. 4.

[n] Mat. xii. 1. Mark ii. 23. Luke vi. 1.

v. 15—25. Sundry laws are here enjoined,

1. A ſervant who had been cruelly and unjuſtly treated, muſt find an aſylum amongſt them. An idle runagate it is not ſuppoſed they would harbour; but the oppreſſed and deſtitute muſt be not only protected, but if willing to become a proſelyte, be provided for. Note, (1.) The people of God muſt have compaſſion on the oppreſſed, and ſupport them againſt their perſecutors. (2.) Converts deſerve peculiar tenderneſs, that they may have no temptation to return.

2. No whore nor ſodomite muſt be ſuffered among them; nor the price of ſuch crimes be permitted to come into the houſe of the Lord for any vow: God abominates both them and their polluted gains. Note, (1.) The offerings of the wicked are abomination to the Lord. (2.) There can be no commutation for ſin; their gifts muſt periſh with them.

3. All uſury is forbidden to an Iſraelite: if he wanted victuals, or money, they muſt be freely lent. As they were God's peculiar people, they muſt ſhew peculiar tenderneſs and generoſity one to another. Of ſtrangers they might receive uſury; as they are ſuppoſed to live by trade, and to make conſiderable advantage thereby, it were but juſt they ſhould ſhare their gains with the lender. Intereſt for our money is highly reaſonable, but the Chriſtian will find many an occaſion to practice this generoſity to his brethren, and to lend, hoping for nothing in return.

4. Every vow muſt be carefully fulfilled. It is in our own power not to vow, but it is ſin after vows to make enquiry.

5. Travellers, in paſſing through fields or vineyards, or labourers, in gathering them in, might freely eat, according to their appetite, only they muſt carry none away. Note, (1.) We muſt be hoſpitable, and willing to communicate of our abundance. (2.) We may not abuſe our neighbour's liberality, nor, becauſe we are on free coſt, be gluttons to devour his meat, or covetous to reſerve it.

CHAP. XXIV.

In this chapter we have, 1. The toleration of divorce, ver. 1—4. 2. A diſcharge of new married men from the war, ver. 5. 3. Laws concerning pledges, ver. 6, 10—13, and 17. 4. Againſt man-ſtealing, ver. 7. 5. Concerning the leproſy, ver. 8, 9. 6. Againſt the injuſtice of maſters towards their ſervants, ver. 14, 15. Judges in capital cauſes, ver. 16. and civil concerns, ver. 17, 18. 7. Of charity to the poor, ver. 19—22.

1. WHEN [a] a man hath taken a wife and married her, and it come to paſs that ſhe find no favour in his eyes, becauſe he hath found † ſome uncleanneſs in her: then let him write her a bill of ‡ divorcement, and give it in her hand, and ſend her out of his houſe. 2. And when ſhe is departed out of his houſe, ſhe may go and be another man's wife. 3. And if the latter huſband hate her, and write her a bill of divorcement, and giveth it in her hand, and ſendeth her out of his houſe; or if the latter huſband die, which took her to be his wife; 4. [b] Her former huſband which ſent her away, may not take her again to be his wife, after that ſhe is defiled: for that is abomination before the LORD, and thou ſhalt not cauſe the land to ſin, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance.

[a] Mat. v. 31. & xix. 7. Mark x. 4.
† Heb. Matter of nakedneſs.
‡ Heb. Cutting off.
[b] Jer. iii. 1.

v. 1—4. For the hardneſs of their heart our Saviour ſays Moſes gave them this permiſſion. Since they would put away their wives, yet they muſt be under theſe regulations. It muſt not be for every cauſe, but ſome uncleanneſs; not adultery, for that was death; but ſome ſecret diſagreeableneſs in her perſon, or perverſeneſs in her temper, that made her company and cohabitation diſguſting and offenſive. In which caſe, a bill of divorcement muſt be written, and ſigned before witneſſes, that time intervening, ſuch ſeparations might not enſue on every quarrel. If the matter was reſolved, on this bill being delivered to her, ſhe was diſmiſſed, and free to marry whom ſhe choſe; only that on the death or diſmiſſion from a ſecond huſband, the firſt might never take her again. Note, Separation of man and wife is a matter deeply to be weighed, and much to be borne, before ſuch a ſtep be taken. The remedy is uſually worſe than the diſeaſe; and when the breach is rendered hereby too wide to be made up, too late they find they have involved themſelves in greater difficulties, than thoſe they meant to avoid.

5. ¶ [c] When a man hath taken a new wife, he ſhall not go out to war, † neither ſhall he be charged with any buſineſs: but he ſhall be free at home one year, and ſhall cheer up his wife which he hath taken. 6. ¶ No man ſhall take the nether or the upper milſtone to pledge: for he taketh a man's life to pledge. 7. ¶ [d] If a man be found ſtealing any of his brethren of the children of Iſrael, and maketh merchandiſe of him, or ſelleth him; then that thief ſhall die, and [e] thou ſhalt put evil away from among you. 8. ¶ Take heed in [f] the plague of leproſy, that thou obſerve diligently, and do according to all that the prieſts the Levites ſhall teach you: as I commanded them, ſo ye ſhall obſerve to do. 9. Remember what [g] the LORD thy God did unto Miriam by the way, after that ye were come forth out of Egypt. 10. ¶ When thou doſt ‡ lend thy brother any thing, thou ſhalt not go into his houſe to fetch his pledge. 11. Thou ſhalt ſtand abroad, and the man to whom thou doſt lend, ſhall bring out the pledge abroad unto thee. 12. And if the man be poor, thou ſhalt not ſleep with his pledge. 13. [h] In any caſe thou ſhalt deliver him the pledge again when the ſun goeth down, that he may ſleep in his own raiment, and [i] bleſs thee: and [k] it ſhall be righteouſneſs unto thee before the LORD thy God.

[c] Chap. xx. 7.
† Heb. Not any thing ſhall paſs upon him.
[d] Exod. xxi. 16.
[e] Chap. xix. 19.
[f] Lev. xiii. 2. & xiv. 2.
[g] Num. xii. 10.
‡ Heb. Lend the loan of any thing to, &c.
[h] Exod. xxii. 26.
[i] Job xxxi. 20.
[k] Chap vi. 25. Pſ. cvi. 31. & cxii. 9. Dan. iv. 27.

v. 5—13. Sundry laws are here laid down, 1. Concerning a new-married man. During his firſt year of marriage he was excuſed from war, and every public avocation that would call him from home, where his preſence was needful, that by conjugal endearments love might be cemented, and the union be firm and laſting. Note, Nothing ſo needful in the marriage ſtate, in order to keep up mutual affection, as the avoiding all needleſs abſence, and ſhewing on both ſides a conſtant ſollicitude to pleaſe, 2. The milſtone, which the man wants to grind his daily bread, muſt not be taken for a pledge. Though a man may be ſo diſtreſſed, as to offer to put that in our power, which is needful for his own and his family's ſubſiſtence, we muſt by no means take advantage of his neceſſities. 3. Man-ſtealing is forbidden on pain of death. It was a high crime, thus to rob the ſtate of a ſubject, and an Iſraelite of liberty. 4. The laws concerning leproſy muſt be ſtrictly complied with. The perſon muſt not conceal the malady, but ſhew himſelf to the prieſt, and conform to the regulations preſcribed, leaſt, if he deſpiſed authority like Miriam, he ſhould be puniſhed: nor need he think it hard to ſubmit, when ſhe, though ſo eminent, was obliged to it. Note, Whatever humiliations we are called to undergo for ſin, we ſhould readily yield to them; ſince it is better now to confeſs and be pardoned, than cover our iniquities, and be condemned for them eternally. 5. The lender may not enter his neighbour's houſe to fetch a pledge, but muſt receive it without; nor muſt he keep the garments he needs to cover him at night in his cuſtody, but reſtore them, that the poor debtor might bleſs him, with his prayers and thanks to God for ſuch kindneſs: and this act of mercy God would own and approve. Note, (1.) We may not lord it, or be aſſuming, or cruel, towards thoſe who are in debt to us. (2.) They who can make no other preſent recompenſe to their kind creditors, ſhould beg of God to remember them for good. (3.) Though our works of charity are not in any ſenſe our juſtifying righteouſneſs before God, yet are they ſuch as he will own and reward in a judgment-day.

14. ¶ Thou ſhalt not oppreſs an hired ſervant that is poor and needy, whether he be of thy brethren, or of thy ſtrangers that are in thy land within thy gates. 15. At his day [l] thou ſhalt give him his hire, neither ſhall the ſun go down upon it, for he is poor, and † ſetteth his heart upon it; [m] leſt he cry againſt thee unto the LORD, and it be ſin unto thee. 16. [n] The fathers ſhall not be put to death for the children, neither ſhall the children be put to death for the fathers: every man ſhall be put to death for his own ſin. 17. ¶ [o] Thou ſhalt not pervert the judgment of the ſtranger, nor of the fatherleſs, [p] nor take a widow's raiment to pledge. 18. But [q] thou ſhalt remember that thou waſt a bond-man in Egypt, and the LORD thy God redeemed thee thence: therefore I command thee to do this thing. 19. ¶ [r] When thou cutteſt down thine harveſt in the field, and haſt forgot a ſheaf in the field, thou ſhalt not go again to fetch it: it ſhall be for the ſtranger, for the fatherleſs, and for the widow: that the LORD thy God may bleſs thee in all the work of thine hands. 20. When thou beateſt thine olive-tree, ‡ thou ſhalt not go over the boughs again: it ſhall be for the ſtranger, for the fatherleſs, and for the widow. 21. When thou gathereſt the grapes of thy vineyard, thou ſhalt not glean it ‖ afterward: it ſhall be for the ſtranger, for the fatherleſs, and for the widow. 22. And [s] thou ſhalt remember that thou waſt a bond-man in the land of Egypt; therefore I command thee to do this thing.

[l] Lev. xix. 13. Jer. xxii. 13. Tob. iv. 14. Jam. v. 4.
† Heb. Lifteth his ſoul unto it. Pſ. xxv. 1. & lxxxvi. 4.
[m] Jam. v. 4.
[n] 2 Kings xiv. 6. 2 Chron. xxv. 4. Jer. xxxi. 29, 30. Ezek. xviii. 20.
[o] Exod. xxii. 21, 22 Prov. xxii. 22. Iſa. i. 23. Jer. v. 28. & xxii. 3. Ezek. xxii. 29. Zech. vii. 10.
[p] Exod. xxii. 26.
[q] Ver. 22.
[r] Lev. xix. 9. & xxiii. 22.
‡ Heb. Thou ſhalt not bough it after thee.
‖ Heb. After thee.
[s] Ver. 18.

v. 14—22. 1. God enjoins maſters to be kind and punctual in paying their ſervants. They muſt not be over-loaded with labour; and when their daily taſk is done, as their heart would be upon their hire, and their poverty might not ſuffer delay, they muſt receive their wages, as they earned it, leſt, if it was unkindly or fraudulently detained, their cry ſhould come up before God, and heavy guilt be on their oppreſſors. Note, There is a God who intereſts himſelf in behalf of the poor and oppreſſed; and woe to thoſe againſt whom their juſt complaints ariſe. 2. Juſtice muſt be impartially adminiſtred. In criminal caſes, the father's crime muſt not involve the ſon, nor the ſon's the father; but every one muſt bear his own puniſhment. In civil caſes between party and party, the judge muſt not pervert the judgment of the ſtranger or fatherleſs, nor ſuffer them, becauſe friendleſs, to be oppreſſed; but rather be advocates for ſuch as have none to plead for them, and are unable to plead for themſelves. 3. In their harveſt and vintage they may not make too nice a ſcrutiny, or return to bring again a ſheaf dropt in the field or forgotten. They had been bondmen in Egypt, and their own wants there muſt teach them tender compaſſion, and charitable regard for the ſtranger, the fatherleſs, and widow. Note, The more we are ſenſible of God's goodneſs to ourſelves, the more will it open our hands and hearts in charity to our neighbours.

CHAP. XXV.

Here is, 1. A law to moderate the ſcourging of malefactors, ver. 1—3. 2. A law in favour of the ox that treads out the corn, ver. 4. 3. For the diſgracing of him that refuſed to marry his brother's widow, ver. 5—10. 4. For the puniſhment of an immodeſt woman, ver. 11, 12. 5. For juſt weights and meaſures, ver. 13—16. 6. For the deſtroying of Amalek, ver. 17—19.

1. IF there be a controverſy between men, and they come unto judgment, that the judges may judge them,

Before Chriſt 1451.

[a] Mat. x. 17.
[b] 2 Cor. xi. 24.
[c] Prov. xii. 10. 1 Cor. ix. 9. 1 Tim. v. 18.
† Heb. Threſheth.

them, then they ſhall juſtify the righteous, and condemn the wicked. 2. And it ſhall be, if the wicked man be worthy to be beaten, that the judge ſhall cauſe him to lie down, [a] to be beaten before his face, according to his fault, by a certain number. 3. [b] Forty ſtripes he may give him, and not exceed: leſt if he ſhould exceed, and beat him above theſe with many ſtripes, then thy brother ſhould ſeem vile unto thee. 4. ¶ [c] Thou ſhalt not muzzle the ox when he † treadeth out the corn.

v. 1—4. Directions are here given, 1. For the ſcourging of malefactors. This was the common puniſhment of crimes not capital. The matter was brought before the judge: on examination made, if the accuſation was not proved, then the accuſed perſon was juſtified, and declared innocent of the charge. If the fact appeared evident, he was condemned to ſuffer on the ſpot, in preſence of the judges, the puniſhment due to his offence, which never exceeded forty ſtripes. The whip wherewith they ſcourged the offender was made of three thongs, or cords, thirteen ſtrokes of which amounted to thirty-nine, and this was the greateſt number ever inflicted. See 2 Cor. xi. 24. During the time that he was ſcourging, one of the judges read Deut. xxviii. 58, 59. that ſpiritual correction, added to bodily pain, might lead the criminal to repentance; and the reaſon given for this limitation of the ſtripes, is to prevent an Iſraelite's appearing contemptible, if maimed or treated over rigorouſly. 2. The beaſt that ſerves us, deſerves his ſupport, and is intitled to our kindneſs. But if the ox who trod out the corn, (which was the uſual way in the eaſt, inſtead of threſhing it as we do) muſt not be muzzled, but permitted to eat freely, how much more do thoſe who labour for our ſouls deſerve to live by their work, and liberally to ſhare our worldly things?

[d] Mat. xxii. 24. Mark xii. 19. Luke xx. 28.
† Or next kinſman.
Gen. xxxviii. 8. Ruth i. 12, 13.
‡ Or next kinſman's wife.
[e] Ruth iv. 7.

5. ¶ [d] If brethren dwell together, and one of them die, and have no child, the wife of the dead ſhall not marry without unto a ſtranger: her † huſband's brother ſhall go in unto her, and take her to him to wife, and perform the duty of an huſband's brother unto her. 6. And it ſhall be, that the firſt-born which ſhe beareth, ſhall ſucceed in the name of his brother which is dead, that his name be not put out of Iſrael. 7. And if the man like not to take his ‡ brother's wife, then let his brother's wife go up to the gate unto the elders, and ſay, [e] My huſband's brother refuſeth to raiſe up unto his brother a name in Iſrael, he will not perform the duty of my huſband's brother. 8. Then the elders of his city ſhall call him, and ſpeak unto him: and if he ſtand to it, and ſay, I like not to take her: 9. Then ſhall his brother's wife come unto him in the preſence of the elders, and looſe his ſhoe from off his foot, and ſpit in his face, and ſhall anſwer and ſay, So ſhall it be done unto that man that will not build up his brother's houſe. 10. And his name ſhall be called in Iſrael, The houſe of him that hath his ſhoe looſed.

v. 5—10. To preſerve the genealogies of every family, if a brother die without iſſue, his brother, as yet unmarried, was to take his wife; and the firſt ſon of ſuch marriage ſucceeded to the inheritance of the deceaſed, and was counted as his deſcendant. If he diſliked the woman, and refuſed to marry her, he was cited before the judges, and admoniſhed: if he ſtill perſiſted, the woman looſed his ſhoe, and ſpit in his face, and his family bore a mark of infamy for his refuſal. Both were then diſmiſſed, and each at liberty to marry whom they choſe. Note, (1.) There is no forcing affection, and no marriage can be happy without it. Better ſuffer any thing, than marry by compulſion. (2.) They deſerve to be reproached themſelves, whoſe conduct gives occaſion to caſt reproach on others.

11. ¶ When men ſtrive together one with another, and the wife of the one draweth near for to deliver her huſband out of the hand of him that ſmiteth him, and putteth forth her hand, and taketh him by the ſecrets: 12. Then thou ſhalt cut off her hand, thine eye ſhall not pity her.

v. 11, 12. If on a quarrel, to diſengage her huſband from his antagoniſt, the wife put forth her hand to ſeize his ſecret parts, her hand muſt be cut off; nor muſt the tenderneſs of her ſex plead for pity, or her paſſion be admitted as an excuſe. Note, (1.) Nothing ſo ſhocking in a woman as immodeſty. (2.) If in a rage ſuch an action was ſo highly criminal, how much more in wanton lewdneſs. (3.) Paſſion is no plea for ſin, nor will be admitted as ſuch at God's bar.

[f] Lev. xix. 35, 36. Prov. xi. 1. Ezek. xlv. 10.
† Heb. A ſtone and a ſtone.
‡ Heb. An ephah and an ephah.
[g] Prov. xi. 1.
[h] Exod. xvii. 8.
[i] 2 Sam. xv. 3.

13. ¶ [f] Thou ſhalt not have in thy bag † divers weights, a great and a ſmall. 14. Thou ſhalt not have in thine houſe ‡ divers meaſures, a great and a ſmall. 15. But thou ſhalt have a perfect and juſt weight, a perfect and juſt meaſure ſhalt thou have: that thy days may be lengthened in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee. 16. For [g] all that do ſuch things, and all that do unrighteouſly, are an abomination unto the LORD thy God. 17. ¶ [h] Remember what Amalek did unto thee by the way when ye were come forth out of Egypt; 18. How he met thee by the way, and ſmote the hindmoſt of thee, even all that were feeble behind thee, when thou waſt faint and weary; and he feared not God. 19. Therefore it ſhall be, [i] when the LORD thy God hath given thee reſt from all thine enemies round about, in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to poſſeſs it, that thou ſhalt blot out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven; thou ſhalt not forget it.

v. 13—19. We have here, 1. A law for the regulation of weights and meaſures, which muſt be exact with the allowed ſtandard; and honeſty will in the end be the beſt policy, as God promiſes to lengthen the days of the upright; but the unrighteous are his abomination, and he is the avenger of all ſuch. Note, Though a man grow rich by diſhoneſt gain, there is that curſe upon it which will turn it into a plague to him and his. 2. A dreadful memento is put upon Amalek. He had fallen upon them as ſoon as they had eſcaped from Egypt. He had taken advantage of their weakneſs, and attacked them when weary with marching, and faint with thirſt. He had cowardly hung upon their rear, to pick up the hindmoſt, who could make no reſiſtance; and impiouſly feared not the Lord, whoſe glory appeared ſo viſibly at their head. For theſe inſtances of treacherous cruelty to his people, God will puniſh him with utter exciſion; and they muſt not forget to execute the ſentence, which was done at ſeveral times by Saul and David, and finally in the time of Hezekiah, 1 Chron. iv. 43. Note, (1.) God will avenge the quarrels of his people upon their enemies; and they will be eſpecially remembered, who ſeek to diſtreſs or diſcourage the weak, and to offend his little ones, who are but beginning to eſcape from ſpiritual Egypt. (2.) God's ſentence is often ſlow in the execution, but it is ſure.

CHAP. XXVI.

In this chapter, 1. Moſes gives them a form of confeſſion to be made by him that offered the baſket of his firſt-fruits, ver. 1—11. 2. The proteſtation and prayer to be made after the diſpoſal of the third year's tithe, ver. 12—15. 3. The mutual covenant between God and them, ver. 16—19.

[a] Exod. xxiii. 19. & xxxiv. 26. Chap. xvi. 10.
[b] Hoſ. xii. 12
[c] Gen. xlvi. 10.
[d] Exod. i. 11.
[e] Ibid. ii. 23.
[f] Ibid. xii. 37.

1. AND it ſhall be when thou art come in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance, and poſſeſſeſt it, and dwelleſt therein: 2. [a] That thou ſhalt take of the firſt of all the fruit of the earth, which thou ſhalt bring of thy land that the LORD thy God giveth thee, and ſhalt put it in a baſket, and ſhalt go unto the place which the LORD thy God ſhall chooſe to place his name there. 3. And thou ſhalt go unto the prieſt that ſhall be in thoſe days, and ſay unto him, I profeſs this day unto the LORD thy God, that I am come unto the country which the LORD ſware unto our fathers for to give us. 4. And the prieſt ſhall take the baſket out of thine hand, and ſet it down before the altar of the LORD thy God. 5. And thou ſhalt ſpeak and ſay before the LORD thy God, [b] A Syrian ready to periſh was my father, and [c] he went down into Egypt, and ſojourned there with a few, and became there a nation, great, mighty, and populous. 6. And [d] the Egyptians evil entreated us, and afflicted us, and laid upon us hard bondage. 7. And [e] when we cried unto the LORD God of our fathers, the LORD heard our voice, and looked on our affliction, and our labour, and our oppreſſion. 8. And [f] the LORD brought us forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand, and with an outſtretched arm, and with great terribleneſs, and with ſigns, and with wonders. 9. And he hath brought us into this place, and hath given us this land, even a land that floweth with milk and honey. 10. And now behold, I have brought the firſt-fruits of the land, which thou, O LORD, haſt given me: and thou ſhalt ſet it before the LORD thy God, and worſhip before the LORD thy God. 11. And thou ſhalt rejoice in every good thing which the LORD thy God hath given unto thee, and unto unto thine houſe, thou and the Levite, and the ſtranger that is among you.

Before Chriſt 1451.

v. 1—11. We have here the ceremony and prayer preſcribed at the offering of the firſt fruits, which every man brought from his own land, beſide that preſcribed Levit. xxiii. 10. Having ſelected the firſt-ripe of the barley, wheat, olives, dates, pomegranates, figs, and grapes, they were placed ſeparately in a baſket, and with theſe on his ſhoulder he went to the place which God choſe to put his name there; and when the prieſt came to receive the offering, he made the following profeſſion and humble acknowledgment. 1. Of the faithfulneſs of God in giving them the land he had promiſed to their fathers. Gratitude for his goodneſs, is the tribute God juſtly expects from us. 2. He confeſſed his own unworthineſs of ſo great a mercy; ſprung from anceſtors of ſo ignoble original, Syrians by birth, and who had been ſlaves in Egypt. The more unworthy we, the more is the riches and ſovereignty of divine grace magnified in our ſalvation. We cannot ſpeak too lowly of ourſelves, nor too highly of God's goodneſs. 3. He thankfully remembered the deliverance God wrought for them, and the happy land he had now brought them to. Note, (1.) Paſt deliverances are never to be forgotten, eſpecially thoſe which God hath wrought for our ſouls. (2.) Others mercies are our own, and we ſhould be thankful for the bleſſings they enjoy in common with ourſelves. 4. He then offered up the baſket, which the prieſt waved, and ſet down by the altar, as an acknowledgement due to the great Lord of the land, containing a little of the firſt and the beſt, and which ſanctified the remainder to his own uſe. Note, (1.) All our gifts of providence muſt be acknowledged as coming from God's hand. (2.) The prime of our life ſhould be offered up to his ſervice. (3.) Our earthly bleſſings will then be doubly ſweet to us, when we receive and uſe them as coming to us from God's mercy and love. 5. The ſervice was concluded with other acts of ſolemn worſhip, and a feaſt of holy joy before the Lord. It was not ſo much the gift, as the gratitude of the offerer's heart, which made the offering acceptable; and whilſt God was honoured by this worſhip and ſervice, he ſhould be happy and rejoice before him.

12. ¶ When thou haſt made an end of tithing all the tithes of thine increaſe, the third year, which is [g] the year of tithing, and haſt given it unto the Levite, the ſtranger, the fatherleſs and the widow, that they may eat within thy gates, and be filled: 13. Then thou ſhalt ſay before the LORD thy God, I have brought away the hallowed things out of mine houſe, and alſo have given them unto the Levite, and unto the ſtranger, to the fatherleſs, and to the widow, according to all thy commandments which thou haſt commanded me: I have not tranſgreſſed thy commandments, neither have I forgotten them. 14. [h] I have not eaten thereof in my mourning, neither have I taken away ought thereof for any unclean uſe, nor given ought thereof for the dead: but I have hearkned to the voice of the LORD my God, and have done according to all that thou haſt commanded me. 15. [i] Look down from thy holy habitation, from heaven, and bleſs thy people Iſrael, and the land which thou haſt given us, as thou ſwareſt unto our fathers, a land that floweth with milk and honey.

[g] Chap. xiv. 28.
[h] Hoſ. ix. 4.
[i] Iſa. lxiii. 15. Zech. ii. 13.

v. 12—15. As the third year's tithe was to be eaten in their gates by the poor and the Levite, and the ſeparating of it left to the honeſty of the ſeveral perſons, they were obliged to make, 1. A ſolemn proteſtation of their integrity herein; That every hallowed thing had been carefully ſeparated, and given, according to the law, to the Levite, the ſtranger, the fatherleſs, and widow; that they had neither wilfully neglected, nor careleſsly forgotten it. They profeſſed, that nothing had been miſapplied, in any common or profane way; neither eaten in mourning, nor applied to any unclean uſe, nor in any funeral feaſts or ſuperſtitious rites in honour of the dead. Note, As we muſt give an account ſhortly of our ſtewardſhip, it becomes us frequently to reviſe our conduct, that we may keep a conſcience void of offence. 2. They added a prayer to this proteſtation for the common peace and proſperity of the people and the land. God's people are true patriots; they love their country, and labour and pray for the peace of it.

16. ¶ This day the LORD thy God hath commanded thee to do theſe ſtatutes and judgments; thou ſhalt therefore keep and do them with all thine heart, and with all thy ſoul. 17. Thou haſt avouched the LORD this day to be thy God, and to walk in his ways, and to keep his ſtatutes, and his commandments, and his judgments, and to hearken unto his voice. 18. And [k] the LORD hath avouched thee this day to be his peculiar people, as he hath promiſed thee, and that thou ſhouldſt keep all his commandments. 19. And to make thee [l] high above all nations which he hath made, in praiſe, and in name, and in honour, and that thou mayeſt be an holy people unto the LORD thy God, as he hath ſpoken.

Exod. xix. Chap. vii. & xiv. 2.
[l] Chap. iv. 7, 8. & xxviii. 1.

v. 16—19. Moſes enforces all theſe laws by that mutual covenant which ſubſiſted between God and them. As His commands, they were bound to be obedient from duty; as they had avowed God to be their Lord, what was before their duty, became now their choice; and as God had acknowledged them for his people, and promiſed to make them both great and good, they were in love and gratitude engaged to be faithful. Note, (1.) Our obedience to God's laws ſhould be chearful and univerſal, as being all holy, and juſt, and good. (2.) Every profeſſion we make of taking him for our God, obliges us to fidelity in his ſervice. (3.) It is his promiſe to make us holy, and in conſequence to make us glorious; and this muſt be the moſt engaging argument to yield ourſelves up to him, to be in body, ſoul, and ſpirit, devoted to his will and ſervice; for what he promiſes to work in us, we may aſſuredly expect, notwithſtanding all the corruption of our hearts, to ſee accompliſhed by his grace.

CHAP. XXVII.

To keep theſe laws ever in their remembrance, Moſes, 1. Commands them to be written on ſtones; ver. 1—10. 2. To affect their hearts with the importance of them, a ſolemn rehearſal is enjoined, and their conſent to them as ſolemnly to be given, ver. 11—26.

1. AND Moſes with the elders of Iſrael, commanded the people, ſaying, Keep all the commandments which I command you this day. 2. And it ſhall be on the day [a] when you ſhall paſs over Jordan unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, that [b] thou ſhalt ſet thee up great ſtones, and plaiſter them with plaiſter. 3. And thou ſhalt write upon them all the words of this law, when thou art paſſed over, that thou mayſt go in unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, a land that floweth with milk and honey: as the LORD God of thy fathers hath promiſed thee. 4. Therefore it ſhall be when ye be gone over Jordan, that ye ſhall ſet up theſe ſtones, which I command you this day, [c] in mount Ebal, and thou ſhalt plaiſter them with plaiſter. 5. And there ſhalt thou build an altar unto the LORD thy God, an altar of ſtones: [d] thou ſhalt not lift up any iron tool upon them. 6. Thou ſhalt build the altar of the LORD thy God of whole ſtones: and thou ſhalt offer burnt-offerings thereon unto the LORD thy God. 7. And thou ſhalt offer peace-offerings, and ſhalt eat there, and rejoice before the LORD thy God. 8. And thou ſhalt write upon the ſtones all the words of this law very plainly. 9. ¶ And Moſes, and the prieſts the Levites, ſpake unto all Iſrael, ſaying, Take heed, and hearken, O Iſrael, this day thou art become the people of the LORD thy God. 10. Thou ſhalt therefore obey the voice of the LORD thy God, and do his commandments and his ſtatutes which I command thee this day.

[a] Joſh. iv. 1.
[b] Joſh. viii. 32.
[c] Ibid. 30.
[d] Exod. xx. 25. Joſh. viii. 31.

v. 1—10. The law being delivered, care is here taken to have the record preſerved and attended to; for which purpoſe, 1. Moſes, with the prieſts and princes of the people, that their numbers and dignity might give weight to the admonition, ſolemnly charges the people to be obedient. They were now in a diſtinguiſhed manner declared to be the people of God, and therefore muſt approve themſelves as became ſuch a relation. Note, (1.) All who have weight and influence over others, ſhould join in promoting the work of religion among them. (2.) The honour and bleſſing of God's ſervice is an obligation ſtrong to ſerve him. (3.) When miniſters and magiſtrates ſhow themſelves zealous in their ſtation for God, it is much to be hoped, that the people will hear and follow ſuch good examples. 2. That none may plead ignorance, a copy of the law is ordered to be written on large ſtones plaiſtered over. Some think this refers only to the ten commandments; others, to the curſes, v. 15—26. whilſt others affirm all this book of Deuteronomy was intended. Note, The word of God is ſo plain, that wilful ignorance of it is wilful ſin. Beſides this, an altar muſt be erected for ſacrifice: perhaps it was on the four ſides of this the law was written. It muſt be built of ſtones unhewn and plain; for God's ſervice requires no ornaments: he demands not the gilded altar, but the holy heart. Burnt-offerings and peace-offerings were ſacrificed, to intimate how neceſſary it was to have the remedy of atoning blood near from the condemnation of a holy law; and they are commanded to eat and rejoice before the Lord: for they, who through the ſacrifice of Jeſus are reconciled to God, delivered from the curſe of the law, and admitted into a covenant of grace, have need to rejoice in the Lord, and glory in the God of their ſalvation. All theſe inſtitutions are typical of our divine Redeemer. On him are our curſes laid; he is at once our altar and ſacrifice; and whoſoever eats his fleſh, and drinks his blood, cannot but rejoice before the Lord with joy unſpeakable, and full of glory.

11. ¶ And Moſes charged the people the ſame day, ſaying, 12. Theſe ſhall ſtand [e] upon mount Gerizzim to bleſs the people, when ye are come over Jordan; Simeon, and Levi, and Judah, and Iſſachar, and Joſeph, and Benjamin. 13. And [f] theſe ſhall ſtand upon mount Ebal † to curſe; Reuben, Gad, and Aſher, and Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali. 14. And [g] the Levites ſhall ſpeak, and ſay unto all the men of Iſrael with a loud voice, 15. [h] Curſed be the man that maketh any graven or molten image, an abomination unto the LORD, the work of the hands of the craftſman, and putteth it in a ſecret place: and all the people ſhall anſwer and ſay, [i] Amen. 16. [k] Curſed be he that ſetteth light by his father or his mother: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen. 17. [l] Curſed be he that removeth his neighbour's land-mark: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen. 18. [m] Curſed be he that maketh the blind to wander out of the way: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen. 19. [n] Curſed be he that perverteth the judgment of the ſtranger, fatherleſs, and widow: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen. 20. [o] Curſed be he that lieth with his father's wife; becauſe he uncovereth his father's ſkirt: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen. 21. [p] Curſed be he that lieth with any manner of beaſt: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen. 22. [q] Curſed be he that lieth with his ſiſter, the daughter of his father, or the daughter of his mother: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen. 23. [r] Curſed be he that lieth with his mother-in-law: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen. 24. [s] Curſed be he that ſmiteth his neighbour ſecretly: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen. 25. [t] Curſed be he that taketh reward to ſlay an innocent perſon: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen. 26. [u] Curſed be he that confirmeth not all the words of this law to do them: and all the people ſhall ſay, Amen.

[e] Judg. ix. 7.
[f] Chap. xi. 29. Joſh. viii. 33.
† Heb. For a curſing.
[g] Joſh. viii. 33. Dan. ix. 11.
[h] Exod. xx. 4, 23. & xxxiv. 17. Lev. xix. 4. & xxvi. 1. Chap. iv. 16, 23. & v. 8.
[i] See Jer. xi. 5. 1 Cor. xiv. 16.
[k] Exod. xx. 12. & xxi. 17. Lev. xix. 3.
[l] Chap. xix. 14. Prov. xxii. 28.
[m] Lev. xix. 14.
[n] Exod. xxii. 21, 22. Chap. x. 18.
[o] Lev. xviii. 8. Chap. xxii. 30.
[p] Lev. xviii. 23.
[q] Ibid. 9.
[r] Ibid. 17. & xx. 14.
[s] Exod. xx. 13. & xxi. 12, 14. Lev. xxiv. 17. Num. xxxv. 31. Chap. xix. 11.
[t] Exod. xxiii. 8. Chap. x. 17. & xvi. 19. Ezek. xxii. 12.
[u] Jer. xi. 3. Gal. iii. 10.

v. 11—26. The places here mentioned were two riſing mountains, divided by a valley, on each of which the people were ranged, ſix tribes on one hill, and ſix on the other, and the prieſts in the middle; who, on reading each of the bleſſings and curſes, pauſed a moment, and the people on each ſide made the awful reſponſe. The bleſſings, though not mentioned, ſeem to have been the counter-part of the curſes, and pronounced alternately. And here we may obſerve, 1. That the appointment of the tribes for their ſeveral poſts, is expreſsly appointed of God. The ſix more honourable tribes are appointed to bleſs: they are all the children of the free women, and Levi is reckoned among them; for they who preach the bleſſing or curſe to others, need firſt apply them to their own hearts. 2. They are all called to join in their Amen, on the rehearſal of the curſes, as well as bleſſings. In the latter caſe they expreſſed their deſire after them; in the former, their confeſſion of faith in the certainty of the threatned curſe, their approbation of the ſentence as juſt, and an awful imprecation upon their ſouls, if they tranſgreſſed. Thus out of their own mouths would they be condemned. Note, (1.) The curſes of God againſt ſin are awful realities. (2.) Miniſters muſt urge the terrors of the Lord to perſuade, as well as the love of Chriſt to conſtrain; and all little enough to influence the hard heart of man. (3.) In the day of God every ſinner will be ſtruck ſpeechleſs, and left without excuſe.

The curſes are all levelled againſt ſome particular breaches of the commandments, except the laſt, which includes every tranſgreſſion againſt the whole law. The firſt curſe lights on tranſgreſſors of the ſecond commandment. A graven or molten image muſt not only not be worſhipped, but not ſo much as made to ſet up in ſecret: ſo much muſt they be fenced off from temptation to idolatry. Note, God ſees what is done in ſecret, as well as in public, and will not fail to bring it into judgment. 2. Contempt of father or mother is highly criminal. To illuſe them in word or deed, was cognizable by the judges; but God ſees farther, and he lays his curſe upon thoſe children who only in heart ſlight or contemn their parents. 3. The removing land-marks; wilfully miſleading thoſe who come to us for advice and direction; and perverting the judgment of the poor and deſtitute; all breaches of the ſeventh commandment, have each their juſt judgment pronounced on them. 4. Various crimes of inceſt and beſtiality, horrid violations of the eighth commandment, are laid under the dreadful curſe. 5. Murder, whether by poiſon or the ſword, in ſecret, or under pretence of law, through perjured witneſſes, or wicked judges condemning the innocent, is ſure to meet a recompenſe of vengeance. Note, (1.) No murder ſo concealed, but God will bring it to light. (2.) There will be a re-hearing of every cauſe, when the unjuſt judge, or perjured villain, will feel the weight of innocent blood. 6. The laſt curſe is moſt extenſive, comprehending every tranſgreſſion, and denouncing wrath on the offender. It is this eſpecially which muſt cover every living ſoul with confuſion, and, but for Jeſus Chriſt, would ſink us under eternal condemnation.

CHAP. XXVIII.

We have here, 1. The bleſſings of obedience, ver. 1—14. 2. The curſes on diſobedience, ver. 15—67. They are enlarged upon, to affect their minds with the one, and to alarm them by the other.

1. AND it ſhall come to paſs, [a] if thou ſhalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to obſerve and to do all his commandments which I command thee this day; that [b] the LORD thy God will ſet thee on high above all nations of the earth. 2. And all theſe bleſſings ſhall come on thee, and overtake thee, if thou ſhalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God. 3. Bleſſed ſhalt thou be in the city, and bleſſed ſhalt thou be in the field. 4. [c] Bleſſed ſhall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle, the increaſe of thy kine, and the flocks of thy ſheep. 5. Bleſſed ſhall be thy baſket and thy † ſtore. 6. [d] Bleſſed ſhalt thou be when thou comeſt in, and bleſſed ſhalt thou be when thou goeſt out. 7. The LORD ſhall cauſe thine enemies that riſe up againſt thee [e] to be ſmitten before thy face; they ſhall come out againſt thee one way, and flee before thee ſeven ways. 8. The LORD ſhall command the bleſſing upon thee in thy ‡ ſtore-houſes, and in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand unto: and he ſhall bleſs thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee. 9. [f] The LORD ſhall eſtabliſh thee an holy people unto himſelf, as he hath ſworn unto thee, if thou ſhalt keep the commandments of the LORD thy God, and walk in his ways. 10. And all people of the earth ſhall ſee that thou art called by the name of the LORD, and they ſhall be afraid of thee. 11. [g] And the LORD ſhall make thee plenteous ‖ in goods, in the fruit of thy § body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, in the land which the LORD ſware unto thy fathers to give thee. 12. The LORD ſhall open unto thee his good treaſure, the heaven to give the rain unto thy land in his ſeaſon, and to bleſs all the work of thine hand: and [h] thou ſhalt lend unto many nations, and thou ſhalt not borrow. 13. And the LORD ſhall make thee [i] the head and not the tail; and thou ſhalt be above only, and thou ſhalt not be beneath: if that thou hearken unto the commandments of the LORD thy God, which I command thee this day, to obſerve and to do them: 14. And thou ſhalt not go aſide from any of the words which I command thee this day, to the right hand or to the left, to go after other gods to ſerve them.

[a] Lev. xxvi. 3.
[b] Chap. xxvi. 19.
[c] Gen. xlix. 25. Pſal. cxxvii. 3.
† Or dough, or kneading troughs.
[d] Pſ. cxxi. 8.
[e] Ver. 25.
‡ Or barns.
[f] Exod. xix. 5, 6. Chap. vii. 6.
[g] Chap. xxx. 9, &c.
‖ Or for good.
§ Heb. Belly.
[h] Chap. xv. 6.
[i] Iſa. ix. 14, 15.

v. 1—14. God delights in the proſperity of his people, and to bleſs them he rejoiceth; whilſt vengeance is his ſtrange work. Happy for them, if, ſenſible of his goodneſs, they are enabled to walk ſo as not to provoke his diſpleaſure.

1. God propounds to them the condition on which all their happineſs depended; and that was, ſerious attention to his revealed will, faithful and perſevering obedience to his commands, and, particularly, careful watchfulneſs not to turn aſide after idols. As long as we are found waiting upon God in his ways, ſo long we may be aſſured he will meet and bleſs us.

2. The bleſſings promiſed are moſt engaging, great, and glorious, ſpiritual and temporal, and no doubt look farther, even to eternal bleſſedneſs. [1.] Outward proſperity and affluence are promiſed them. (1.) In dignity they ſhould excel all nations. Wealth, like a river, ſhould flow in upon them, ſo that the nations around ſhould borrow of them, and be in ſubjection to them. Victory conſtantly ſhould attend their ſtandards, their enemies in fear bow down and lick the duſt before them, and be forced to own God's diſtinguiſhing regard for them. Note, They who have God for their friend, will ſurely at laſt have their enemies at their feet. (2.) God's bleſſing is promiſed on them

Before Chriſt 1451.

them in all places, and in all undertakings. In the city peace, plenty, and riches, in their traffic ſhould abound. In the field, their labour ſhould be crowned with ſucceſs beyond their moſt ſanguine wiſhes, and the barns and vats overflow with corn and wine. In their journey their perſons ſhould be protected, and their undertakings proſperous, under the conſtant care of a covenant God. Note, They who have an eye to God in all they take in hand, and keep him in their mind in all their travels, will find his bleſſings ſtill preventing and following them. (3.) Uncommon fruitfulneſs is aſſured them. Their families ſhould increaſe as a flock, and no want of a portion and proviſion for them. Their ſheep and oxen ſhould multiply exceedingly; their fields ſtand thick with corn, watered from heaven with peculiar care; and, when gathered in, ſtill God's bleſſing ſhould be upon their ſtores, preſerving them from damage and accidents, and giving them the moſt comfortable enjoyment of their poſſeſſions. Thus every earthly bliſs, health, wealth, honour, children; in ſhort, all that heart could wiſh, is promiſed as their portion. Note, They who have an intereſt in God's love, may be aſſured they ſhall want no manner of thing that is good. If the goſpel directs us rather to ſpiritual and eternal, than temporal bleſſings; yet it aſſures us theſe ſhall in a meaſure be added to thoſe who ſeek firſt the kingdom of God and his righteouſneſs. [2.] Spiritual mercies are promiſed them. They who are faithful to that meaſure of grace they receive, ſhall grow in grace. (1.) God engages to eſtabliſh them in holineſs, to keep them a people ſeparate for himſelf, and to bleſs them with his ordinances for their increaſing ſanctification. Note, Holineſs is God's work in us; we are called to obey his godly motions; and when we do ſo, he is pleaſed to reward what he hath wrought, by ſtrengthening, eſtabliſhing, and ſettling us. (2.) Their religious character ſhould engage the reverence and reſpect of the nations around them. The evident regard of God to them would be confeſſed by their enemies, and therein a clear acknowledgment be made of their ſuperior happineſs and felicity, ariſing from his favour and love. Spiritual happineſs is the beſt of portions; and they who have the Lord for their God, poſſeſs a joy, which, though the ſtranger intermeddleth not with, he will be forced to own, is the only real felicity under the ſun.

[k] Lev. xxvi. 14. Lam. ii. 17. Dan. ix. 11, 13. Mal. ii. 2. Bar. i. 20.
† Heb. Which thou wouldſt do.
[l] Lev. xxvi. 16.
‡ Or drought.
[m] Amos iv. 9.
[n] Lev. xxvi. 19.
[o] Ver. 7. Chap. xxxii. 30. Iſa. xxx. 17.
[p] Jer. xv. 4. & xxiv. 9. Ezek. xxiii. 46.
‖ Heb. For a removing.
[q] Pſ. lxxix. 2. Jer. vii. 33. & xvi. 4. & xxxiv. 20.
[r] Exod. ix. 9. & xv. 26.
[s] 1 Sam. v. 6. Pſ. lxxviii. 66.
[t] Job v. 14. Iſa. lix. 10.
[u] Jer. viii. 10.
[x] Job xxxi. 10. Jer. xii. 13. Amos v. 11. Zeph. i. 13.
[y] Chap. xx. 6.
§ Heb. Profane, or uſe it as common meat. See Chap. xx. 6.

15. ¶ But it ſhall come to paſs, [k] if thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to obſerve to do all his commandments, and his ſtatutes which I command thee this day; that all theſe curſes ſhall come upon thee and overtake thee. 16. Curſed ſhalt thou be in the city, and curſed ſhalt thou be in the field. 17. Curſed ſhall be thy baſket and thy ſtore. 18. Curſed ſhall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy land, the increaſe of thy kine, and the flocks of thy ſheep. 19. Curſed ſhalt thou be when thou comeſt in, and curſed ſhalt thou be when thou goeſt out. 20. The LORD ſhall ſend upon thee curſing, vexation, and rebuke, in all that thou ſetteſt thine hand unto, † for to do; until thou be deſtroyed, and until thou periſh quickly; becauſe of the wickedneſs of thy doings whereby thou haſt forſaken me. 21. The LORD ſhall make the peſtilence cleave unto thee, until he have conſumed thee from off the land, whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it. 22. [l] The LORD ſhall ſmite thee with a conſumption, and with a fever, and with an inflammation, and with an extreme burning, and with the ‡ ſword, and with [m] blaſting, and with mildew: and they ſhall purſue thee until thou periſh. 23. And [n] thy heaven that is over thy head ſhall be braſs, and the earth that is under thee ſhall be iron. 24. The LORD ſhall make the rain of thy land powder and duſt: from heaven ſhall it come down upon thee, until thou be deſtroyed. 25. [o] The LORD ſhall cauſe thee to be ſmitten before thine enemies: thou ſhalt go out one way againſt them, and flee ſeven ways before them; and [p] ſhalt be ‖ removed into all the kingdoms of the earth. 26. And [q] thy carcaſe ſhall be meat unto all fowls of the air, and unto the beaſts of the earth, and no man ſhall fray them away. 27. The LORD will ſmite thee with [r] the botch of Egypt, and with [s] the emerods, and with the ſcab, and with the itch, whereof thou canſt not be healed. 28. The LORD ſhall ſmite thee with madneſs, and blindneſs, and aſtoniſhment of heart. 29. And [t] thou ſhalt grope at noon-day, as the blind gropeth in darkneſs, and thou ſhalt not proſper in thy ways: and thou ſhalt be only oppreſſed, and ſpoiled evermore, and no man ſhall ſave thee. 30. [u] Thou ſhalt betroth a wife, and another man ſhall lie with her: [x] thou ſhalt build an houſe, and thou ſhalt not dwell therein: [y] thou ſhalt plant a vineyard, and ſhalt § not gather the grapes thereof. 31. Thine ox ſhall be ſlain before thine eyes, and thou ſhalt not eat thereof: thine aſs ſhall be violently taken away from before thy face, and † ſhall not be reſtored to thee: thy ſheep ſhall be given unto thine enemies, and thou ſhalt have none to reſcue them. 32. Thy ſons and thy daughters ſhall be given unto another people, and thine eyes ſhall look, and fail with longing for them all the day long: and there ſhall be no might in thine hand. 33. [z] The fruit of thy land and all thy labours, ſhall a nation which thou knoweſt not, eat up; and thou ſhalt be only oppreſſed and cruſhed alway: 34. So that thou ſhalt be mad, [a] for the ſight of thine eyes which thou ſhalt ſee. 35. The LORD ſhall ſmite thee in the knees, and in the legs, with a ſore botch that cannot be healed, from the ſole of thy foot unto the top of thy head. 36. The LORD ſhall bring thee, and [b] thy king which thou ſhalt ſet over thee, unto a nation which neither thou nor thy fathers have known; and [c] there ſhalt thou ſerve other gods, wood and ſtone. 37. And thou ſhalt become [d] an aſtoniſhment, a proverb, and [e] a by-word, among all nations whither the LORD ſhall lead thee. 38. [f] Thou ſhalt carry much ſeed out into the field, and ſhalt gather but little in: for the locuſt ſhall conſume it. 39. Thou ſhalt plant vineyards and dreſs them, but ſhalt neither drink of the wine, not gather the grapes: for the worms ſhall eat them. 40. Thou ſhalt have olive-trees throughout all thy coaſts, but thou ſhalt not anoint thyſelf with the oil: for thine olive ſhall caſt his fruit. 41. Thou ſhalt beget ſons and daughters, but ‡ thou ſhalt not enjoy them: for they ſhall go into captivity. 42. All thy trees and fruit of thy land ſhall the locuſt ‖ conſume. 43. The ſtranger that is within thee ſhall get up above thee very high; and thou ſhalt come down very low. 44. He ſhall lend to thee, and thou ſhalt not lend to him: [g] He ſhall be the head, and thou ſhalt be the tail.

Before Chriſt 1451.
† Heb. Shall not return to thee.
[z] Lev. xxvi. 16. Jer. v. 17.
[a] Ver. 6, 7.
[b] 2 Kings xvii. 4, 5. & xxiv. 12. & xxv. 7. 2 Chron. xxxiii. 11.
[c] Chap. iv. 28. Jer. xvi. 13.
[d] 1 Kings ix. 7. Jer. xxiv. 9. & xxv. 9. Zech viii. 13.
[e] Pſ. xliv. 14.
[f] Mic. vi. 15. Hag. i. 6.
‡ Heb. They ſhall not be thine.
‖ Or poſſeſs.
[g] Ver. 13. Lam. i. 5.

v. 15—44. They who will not be conſtrained by God's love, muſt periſh under his diſpleaſure. We have here a curſe threatned, extenſive and terrible enough to make the ears of every one who heareth it to tingle.

1. The cauſe of it aſſigned: their contemptuous diſregard of God, their wilful diſobedience to his will, and eſpecially their impious forſaking him to follow idols. If we caſt off God, no wonder he rejects us. In his judgments he will appear juſt: none ſuffer under his curſe, but thoſe who rebel againſt his commands.

2. The curſe itſelf here denounced, vaſt, comprehenſive, and inevitable. Wherever the ſinner goes, cloſer than his ſhadow it purſues him. The fenced cities, or rural ſcene, afford no protection, can give no relief. Whatever he hath, the curſe is upon it: the very ground groans under it in barrenneſs; his poſſeſſions are forfeited by ſin, and embittered to him; the poiſon of wrath mingles with every enjoyment; every work of his hand is unſucceſsful; vexation and diſappointment torment him without ceaſing, and no proſpect of their end. Woe, woe, woe, to the ſinful ſoul, againſt whom God cometh forth thus armed with indignation and wrath, tribulation and anguiſh. But leſt general denunciations ſhould not have the wiſhed-for effect, he deſcends to particulars; each like a poiſonous dart armed with a mortal ſting, and every ſinner ſet up as the mark on whom God would in particular empty his quiver. Diſeaſe ſhall ſeize upon their bodies, not as the rod of correction, but as the ſtroke of judgment. Loathſome ulcers, (ſuitable puniſhment for the loathſomeneſs of ſin) ſhall cover them from head to foot, and make them an abhorring to others, and a burden to themſelves. Agonizing pain ſhall torture them from the burning ſores, and no cure or palliative be found; and after days of anguiſh, the pining conſumption, or raging fever, or mortal peſtilence, ſhall finiſh in torment a life of miſery. Famine ſhall aggravate their pain and ſickneſs; the heavens ſhall drop down no dew, and the incruſted earth be incapable of vegetation: and if a leaf appears, or blade of graſs, God's terrible army, the locuſts, ſhall be at hand to devour it: ſo that the ſeed ſown ſhall not be reaped; whilſt the worm ſhall mar their vineyards, and the fruit of the olive fail, ſhook down by ſtormy blaſts, or withered with inceſſant drought. To add to their plagues, the ſword of the enemy ſhall overtake them, irreſiſtible in fury, mercileſs in vengeance; and ſo abhorred ſhould they be, that no man paſſing by would bury their carcaſſes, nor ſo much as fray away the birds which preyed upon them. Infatuated withal, their counſels ſhould be fooliſh, and madneſs of heart make them a terror to themſelves; whilſt every refuge they fled to ſhould fail them, and their allies diſtreſs them as much as their enemies. Their enjoyments ſhall now vaniſh as a dream; the wife they have eſpouſed be violated; their ſubſtance conſumed by the oppreſſor; their houſes plundered, their cattle driven away for a ſpoil, and ſerve to feaſt their enemies, whilſt themſelves are famiſhed with hunger. From free-born ſons of Iſrael, who kept the nations at their feet, they ſhould drag the galling chain of captivity heavily along; ſhould behold their ſons and daughters plucked from their embraces, doomed to ſervile labours, or devoted to more ſervile luſts. Idolatry, which had been their ſin, ſhall become now their puniſhment; and racks and fires compel them to ſerve thoſe gods in a ſtrange land, after whom they went a whoring in their own. The few that remained in Canaan, far from experiencing a happier eſtate, ſhould there be inſulted and tyrannized over by their lordly maſters, and groan in vain under loads of taxes and debt, without pity, or hope of releaſe from their oppreſſors; contemptible in every eye, the very heathens would take up a taunting proverb againſt them; whilſt overwhelmed with their miſeries, they ſhould ſtand ſilent in terror and aſtoniſhment at their own plagues, the ſummit of which ſhould be dark unfathomable deſpair, and at laſt the dreadful effect thereof raging and incurable madneſs. Who can review this curſe without trembling? yet theſe things to the ſinner are but the beginnings of ſorrow. Learn hence, (1.) What a fearful thing it is to fall into the hands of the living God. (2.) That when we ſee ſpreading diſeaſes, we ſhould deprecate the wrath that is gone forth. (3.) That blindneſs of heart is among God's heavieſt curſes. (4.) That they who ſell themſelves to work iniquity, ſhall find their iniquity turned into their plague, and the idols they ſerve become their torment. (5.) That the moſt dreadful of all eſtates is deſpair. (6.) That this is often the cauſe of madneſs. (7.) That all theſe evils date their origin to departure from the living God.

Before Chriſt 1451.

45. Moreover, all theſe curſes ſhall come upon thee, and ſhall purſue thee, and overtake thee, till thou be deſtroyed: becauſe thou hearknedſt not unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments and his ſtatutes which he commanded thee. 46. And they ſhall be upon thee for a ſign and for a wonder, and upon thy ſeed for ever. 47. Becauſe thou ſervedſt not the LORD thy God with joyfulneſs and with gladneſs of heart, [h] for the abundance of all things: 48. Therefore ſhalt thou ſerve thine enemies which the LORD ſhall ſend againſt thee, in hunger, and in thirſt, and in nakedneſs, and in want of all things: and [i] he ſhall put a yoke of iron upon thy neck, until he have deſtroyed thee. 49. [k] The LORD ſhall bring a nation againſt thee from far, from the end of the earth, [l] as ſwift as the eagle flieth, a nation whoſe tongue thou ſhalt not † underſtand: 50. A nation ‡ of fierce countenance, [m] which ſhall not regard the perſon of the old, nor ſhew favour to the young. 51. And he ſhall eat the fruit of thy cattle, and the fruit of thy land, until thou be deſtroyed: which alſo ſhall not leave thee either corn, wine, or oil, or the increaſe of thy kine, or flocks of thy ſheep, until he have deſtroyed thee. 52. And he ſhall beſiege thee in all thy gates, until thy high and fenced walls come down, wherein thou truſtedſt, throughout all thy land: and he ſhall beſiege thee in all thy gates, throughout all thy land which the LORD thy God hath given thee. 53. [n] And thou ſhalt eat the fruit of thine own † body, the fleſh of thy ſons and of thy daughters (which the LORD thy God hath given thee) in the ſiege, and in the ſtraitneſs wherewith thine enemies ſhall diſtreſs thee. 54. So that the man that is tender among you, and very delicate, his eye ſhall be evil toward his brother, and toward [o] the wife of his boſom, and towards the remnant of his children which he ſhall leave: 55. So that he will not give to any of them of the fleſh of his children whom he ſhall eat: becauſe he hath nothing left him in the ſiege, and in the ſtraitneſs wherewith thine enemies ſhall diſtreſs thee in all thy gates. 56. The tender and delicate woman among you, which would not adventure to ſet the ſole of her foot upon the ground, for delicateneſs and tenderneſs, her eye ſhall be evil towards the huſband of her boſom, and towards her ſon, and towards her daughter, 57. And towards her † young one that cometh out from between her feet, and toward her children which ſhe ſhall bear: for ſhe ſhall eat them for want of all things ſecretly in the ſiege and ſtraitneſs wherewith thine enemy ſhall diſtreſs thee in thy gates. 58. If thou wilt not obſerve to do all the words of this law, that are written in this book, that thou mayeſt fear this glorious and fearful name, THE LORD THY GOD; 59. Then the LORD will make thy plagues wonderful, and the plagues of thy ſeed, even great plagues, and of long continuance, and ſore ſickneſſes, and of long continuance. 60. Moreover, he will bring upon thee all [p] the diſeaſes of Egypt, which thou waſt afraid of; and they ſhall cleave unto thee. 61. Alſo every ſickneſs, and every plague which is not written in the book of this law, them will the LORD † bring upon thee, until thou be deſtroyed. 62. And [q] ye ſhall be left few in number, whereas ye were [r] as the ſtars of heaven for multitude: becauſe thou wouldeſt not obey the voice of the LORD thy God. 63. And it ſhall come to paſs, that as the LORD rejoiced over you to do you good, and to multiply you: ſo [s] the LORD will rejoice over you to deſtroy you, and to bring you to nought: and ye ſhall be plucked from off the land whither thou goeſt to poſſeſs it. 64. And the LORD [t] ſhall ſcatter thee among all people, from the one end of the earth even unto the other; and there thou ſhalt ſerve other gods, which neither thou nor thy fathers have known, even wood and ſtone. 65. And [u] among theſe nations ſhalt thou find no eaſe, neither ſhall the ſole of thy foot have reſt: but the LORD ſhall give thee there a trembling heart, and failing of eyes, and ſorrow of mind. 66. And thy life ſhall hang in doubt before thee, and thou ſhalt fear, day and night, and ſhalt have none aſſurance of thy life. 67. [x] In the morning thou ſhalt ſay, Would God it were even: and at even thou ſhalt ſay, Would God it were morning, for the fear of thine heart wherewith thou ſhalt fear, and [y] for the ſight of thine eyes which thou ſhalt ſee. 68. And the LORD [z] ſhall bring thee into Egypt again, with ſhips, by the way whereof I ſpake unto thee, [a] Thou ſhalt ſee it no more again: and there ye ſhall be ſold unto your enemies for bond-men and bond-women, and no man ſhall buy you.

[h] Chap. xxxii. 15.
[i] Jer. xxviii. 14.
[k] Ibid. v. 15. & vi. 23. Luke xix. 43.
[l] Jer. xlviii. 40. & xlix. 22 Lam. iv. 19. Hoſ. viii. 1.
† Heb. Hear.
‡ Heb. Strong of face. Prov. vii. 13. Eccles. viii. 1. Dan. viii. 23.
[m] Iſa. xlvii. 6.
[n] Lev. xxvi. 29. 2 Kings vi. 28, 29. Jer. xix. 9. Lam. ii. 20. & iv. 10. Bar. ii. 3.
† Heb. Belly.
[o] Chap. xiii. 6.
† Heb. After-birth.
[p] Chap. vii. 15.
† Heb. Cauſe to aſcend.
[q] Chap. iv. 27.
[r] Chap. x. 22.
[s] Prov. i. 26. Iſa. i. 24.
[t] Lev. xxvi. 33. Neh. i. 8. Jer. xvi. 13.
[u] Am. ix. 4.
[x] Job vii. 4.
[y] Ver. 34.
[z] Jer. xliv. 7. Hoſ. viii. 13. & ix. 3.
[a] Chap. xvii. 16.

